New Use Tax

Governor Assails Plan;
Tax Called 'Blackmail'

Senate Republicans rammed ahead Thursday a tax plan called a "blackjack" by Democratic Gov. Williams while Michigan sank deeper into a financial quagmire.

They pushed up for a passage vote Friday the four-cent use tax bill, equivalent to a one-cent sales tax increase, firm in resolve to tie it to a beleaguered proposal for emergency state treasury relief.

"The use tax or nothing" was the ultimatum to the governor.

The state administrative board tackled a batch of perplexing new problems flowing from a dearth of usable treasury cash and priorities for spending it hastily blocked out Wednesday.

In order to clear the decks, the priority resolution knocked out further payment of all regular obligations without specific ad hoc approval, excepting only welfare, school and a few other categories.

This ruled out money for suppliers, contractors, telephone bills, travel expenses and even postage stamps. The board started frantically on Thursday where to fit these items back into the payment scheme.

Minority Democrats in the Senate tried in vain once more to unfreeze the treasury relief bill, which would permit immediate sale of Veterans Trust fund securities with 43 million dollars cash value.

The state's general fund, the kitty for housekeeping purposes, faces a deficit of $115,000,000 by May 15 with only $23,000,000 or resources in sight, including $10,000,000 at the moment.

The 108 million dollar use tax bill would provide for diversion of about two-fifths of receipts in the year to the rebuilding of the Veterans Trust fund.

Graduating Seniors Deserve Registration, Exam Privileges

STUDENT CONGRESS Wednesday night passed a resolution to recommend to the administration that graduating seniors be allowed to register on the first day of registration.

If this suggestion is approved, we will then see another group added to the list of privileged students who automatically escape many registration perils by going through the process early. Honors College students are granted this concession, and athletes, too, receive special registration assistance.

"Special privileges" again, some may say. But in this case we feel there is no real cause for alarm because some group is "getting a better deal than I am."

IN THEIR FINAL round through the registration mill, seniors may encounter problems unique to those with just one term left. Meeting requirements for graduation, securing all required courses and credits — these problems can sometimes make last-minute schedule and course changes not only difficult but next to impossible. Of course, one can always stay an extra term.

At any rate, we think it reasonable to believe that class standing does have some meaning. Those who have successfully come through 15 terms can be allowed more concessions than freshmen—at least they can be put on a level with athletes.

Perhaps, however, this special privilege may be granted to seniors with the thought that it will pacify them, compensate for their loss of exemption from final exams.

We protested earlier when seniors lost the exemption they had held for years.

This is the first spring term that graduating seniors will take final exams.

Senior Council petitioned the Academic Council this year in attempt to regain this exemption from final exams. The proposal they suggested would allow only those seniors who had already proven themselves academically to pass up final examinations.

SENIOR COUNCIL deserves credit for its effort, but met with no success this year. One of the reasons given for refusal of the carefully prepared request was the contention that the new plan, which had evolved after careful study, should not be discarded before it had even been tried once.

So this is it. This is the trial, and it may be the once. But, in the same light, it may simply mark the first of many years in which all seniors will take final exams, and, anticlimactically, after they have received their diplomas.

Which of these situations prevails is up to the Senior Council soon to be chosen, and, in particular, to the senior class president elected Thursday.

This is one area of concern to all seniors — and one in which the elected executives of the class can have a meaningful voice.

Most of the functions of class officers seem to involve no sort of actual governing — nothing which would significantly affect all members of the particular class. But this is one opportunity to show that a class president and his council can do something of meaning for every senior. They can be more than figureheads. We hope they will prove this in the weeks to come.

S'News Gets More Reaction on ROTC

To the Editor:

The United States of America has been called a free nation. But in the free nation millions of situations exist that cause one to ponder over the exact meaning of free as it is used in this context. The U.S. since it is not as free as it is supposed to be.

The lack of freedom is particularly evident in a situation that exists in many American universities. Great universities through history have been dedicated to the perpetuation of humanitarian principles and the development within their students of some degree of reasoning power.

Let's not, though, but within in some of these great institutions of learning we find also the existence of these ideas: ROTC.

Complete Blind Obedience. Obedience of all to the red, white and blue, ROTC is nothing more than a training program designed to create a blind obedience to the flag and the will to destroy other human beings if ordered to do so.

Who is the wounded "underdog creature" the ROTC points out as being valuable to civilian life? Is this a valuable, it is, but, it is a commentary on the American way of life.

The chief function of ROTC is to train a young man in the military service. It is a training program designed to create a blind obedience to the flag and the will to destroy other human beings if ordered to do so.

Threat to Liberty. The philosophy pursued by the ROTC is common to every army, but it is also the antithesis of every humanitarian idea, and a grave threat to liberty and the very existence of humanity.

If we are to preserve our freedom we must all joined in a ROTC. As the first step, ROTC, ROTC, ROTC at MSU must be abolished.

Ray Pratt

To the Editor: I sincerely hope those who favor student opinion on matters such as ROTC, ROTC, ROTC, and whether or not we faculty of the administration should control educational policy keep in mind that it is an opinion supported by experience, knowledge and maturity.

Only a Minimum. The ROTC program has its days but so does every other institution on campus. An understanding of the ROTC program and the college must be obtained. ROTC is an important aspect of the basic background expected of the college graduate.

Film Fare New 'Imitation of Life' Betters Predecessor

As far back as 1934, Universal-International bought the screen rights to and released a movie version of Fannie Hurst's tear-jerker novel, 'Imitation of Life.'

In this original version were Claudette Colbert, Louise Beavers and a young, extremely fair-skinned Negro miss named Freda Washington. Just now this was Miss Washington's only film, but quite clear at the moment, but she is currently residing in Detroit.

Twenty-five years after the original, Universal has made and released a new, modernized version. Several story and incidental changes have been made since the original edition, which was being periodically reissued, would definitely seem quite dated to contemporary audiences.

Two Parallel Stories. There are two parallel stories in this drama, both of which develop parallelly. First, there is the story of a woman named Lora Meredith who has a pertinacious urge to make her way on the Broadway stage. Nothing but nothing will stop her, she tells her fiance, and nothing does. Lora Meredith becomes a first class star at the sacrifice of her private life and the happiness of her growing daughter.

Her closest friend is a widow, Negro mother, Annie Johnson who stays with Lora from the hardship to the success, offering advice, care for both children, and unwavering devotion.

But Annie has her problems too, though, and the other part of the story is her, she has a beautiful but certainly loses the favor of her light-complexioned daughter Sarah Jane who wants to please that she is white and makes every attempt to live accordingly.

In one scene, Lora expresses her feelings to Annie about having a white and talented daughter, the success and acclaim of her growing daughter. At different times, Annie comments on Sarah Jane's unbecomingly vulgar and vulgar behavior. Success and compatibility are various qualities, but the ways to them are not always pleasant. And so it is with Lora and Annie.

During the course of this movie, Lora Turner once again proves that she can be an actress of utmost quality. If there is anyone who can doubt her ability, he would be well advised to see 'Imitation of Life' and have his mind changed.

Miss Turner is not the only brilliant portrayal in the film, though. Those of Juanita Moore as Annie and Susan Kohner as Sarah Jane do have classic overtones which show real and honest acting depth. Even Sandra Dee is learning to act, what more can one ask.

Sentimentalism Toned Down. The original version was a tear-jerker in the most extreme sense of the word. This is not necessarily the case in this version. The plot is retained but handled carefully and sensitively with no undue intrusion on the viewer's sentiment. If he wishes to forego bursts of emotional display, Don't misunderstand, this is no advertisement that there will be more dry eyes in the house by the conclusion. There probably won't. Thanks to the Misses Turner, Moore, Kohner and Mikalita Jackson who sing 'Trouble of the World' at the funeral.

The best believable points in 'Imitation of Life' are things that could have been better rather than things that were wrong. The costumes by Jean Louis and Bill Thomas are handsome. Miss Turner's wardrobe alone was valued at $37,000, jewelry included, and Russell Metty's color photography effective. By all means, 'Imitation of Life' currently at the Gladwin, is an excellent motion picture and probably a better one than its predecessor which enjoyed considerable popularity.

Young Socialists True to Purpose? Several weeks ago, out of curiosity, we attended a Young Socialists meeting, expecting to hear a discussion of socialism and its history in America. We found, however, that their discussion centered around methods of seizing control of the government. For example, one method could be that of infiltration of one of the major political parties.

They suggested that state ownership of property and industry would be more economically efficient than that of our present system of capitalism. This could be carried out by excessive taxation. When the tax-

Commission to Study Labor Law

Dr. Charles Killingsworth, director of MSU's Labor and In-Friday to study Michigan's industrial Relations center, will at employment compensation law.

This three-man commission, whose first meeting will be held in Ann Arbor, was appointed after a controversy arose over the decision of Michigan's Supreme Court on the Ford-Canton case.

The case involved the payments of unemployment compensation to Ford Motor Co. workers in Michigan. They were laid off because of failure of parts to arrive from a Ford plant that struck in Canton, Ohio, to receive the payments.

A dispute has occurred over whether these employees should

Above Average Pay Job Offers Surpass Records for Field

The demand for hotel and restaurant majors has reached a new peak, according to Wesley Schmidt, in charge of placement in Hotel, Restaurant and Institution Management.

Food management people, salesmen and architects for hotel and restaurants are needed in this rapidly growing industry. Job opportunities and chances for ownership for young people are unlimited.

Seniors being placed this year have four to five openings per person. The starting salaries of these people are well above the campus average. This year three students have been placed at $12,000 and one at $13,000.

The demand for students spells recognition for the hotel school, the largest in the United States. Students from the school have acceptance equal with any.

"We have the only training center for hotel and restaurant majors conducted with a hotel conference-type facility," said Schmidt.

The school carries on public relations with individuals in the industry. The placement director knows the students and the field and has the job of placing the student to fit the individual needs of the company.

A company, once having a student placed with them, builds up the reputation of the school by coming back for others.

Representatives from leading companies across the country come to interview our students. The placement service also aids in finding summer jobs in the industry for its students.

Dr. Thompson Wins Institute Board Post

Dr. Joseph Thompson, director of the school of hotel, restaurant and institutional management, was elected to the Board of Trustees of the American Hotel Institute along with other key men in the industry.

The institute, located at Kellogg Center, elected other notable to the board. These are: Edward Carlson, vice-president, Western Hotels, Inc.; Dr. John MacAllister, director, School of Hotel and Restaurant Management, Oklahoma State University; Roger Sonnabend, vice-president, Hotel Corporation of America; George Summerson, manager, Martha Washington Inn, Abingdon, Virginia; and Roy Watson, Jr., president and general manager, Kahler Corporation.

The institute, under the direction of the school, provides courses for any service industry group interested in services.

The advantages of having the institute here is that it brings the attention of the industry to the school. It also affords the faculty the opportunity to work on new and professional materials.

I'm Sue Price, the new State News society editor. I'd like to tell you a few of the things we've got planned for you in the publicity world. We'd like to hear more of what you and your living is doing. Those fabulous parties in the office, elections, honors, who's working on committees, unusual occurrences—all make news. We're swamped with pinnings and engagements but we're going to get them printed as fast as possible. So bear with the paper has just so much space, and it has to be a first-come-first-served basis. Incidentally, someone suggested a de-pinning column (all in jest, we hope!) as a reminder: please type all information or write clearly and include full name, home town and class. Joe Jones a lot of namesakes attending MSU. The directory sometimes has incorrect listings, people move, etc., and you can set us right. If you have any news at all, be sure to let us know. Kobsmen Away for 'Crisis'

The Spartans fly to Ohio State Friday and Illinois Saturday for what may prove to be their most decisive series of the Big 10 baseball season.

The Kobsmen, 2-1 in the conference so far, share second place honors with the Buckeyes and the Badgers of Wisconsin.

A win over OSU Friday together with a sweep in Saturday's twin bill with the league-leading Illini could put the Spartans on the way to their second Big 10 title.

Capit. Dick "Moose" Hartz will draw the starting lineup in Friday's single game. The hulking 6'5", 240-pounder sports a 4-1 record plus an enviable .631 ERA.

Either Craig Van Siver or Don Sackett, both of whom turned in outstanding performances in the Michigan series, may get the nod in the first game Saturday.

If, however, the Hoosier lineup is maddled with southpaws pitcher Don Phipps may get initial mound duty in one of the two games.

Coach John Rids stated he may rework part of his outfield in the event either of the weekend opponents start a tight hander against the Spartans.

John Flier and Jerome Hansen, who have been in a minor slump for the past few games, may be replaced in the outer garden by left-hand hitting Ron Marlat and Johnson Carter.

If the Kobsmen face a southpaw, pitcher-first baseman Mike or Ninks may replace regular initial sacker Bill Schuttler.

The Spartans will go into the weekend series with the highest team batting average in the Big 10 (.342), as well as the league's two leading hitters.

Center fielder Al Lamore and right fielder Jerry Lindmark share top honors with combined batting averages of .375.

Kens, who gave the team its last "win" on Thursday, is the prospect for the series, and Saturday's foe, Illinois, as well as last year's champion, Minnesota, will be the teams to watch for the Big 10 pennant.

Sparring Title Fight, Derby Top Weekend

By LARRY GUSHIN

THERE ARE VARIOUS OPINIONS prevailing as to what the "biggest show" in sports is. A heavyweight championship fight, the World Series, Stanley Cup playoffs, professional football championship, Davis Cup, Kentucky Derby, and Indianapolis "500" all have their adherents.

It is a rare occasion when two of the sports "spectaculars" occur in the same region during the same weekend. Such an occasion is this weekend. Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson puts his title on the line against England's Brian London tonight at Indianapolis, Ind. On Saturday, Silver Spoon will attempt to be the second filly in history to win the Kentucky Derby in its 84th running at Louisville. Both events will be nationally televised.

The title fight is not expected to be among the greatest in history. In fact, there are those who say it could be the worst. Brian London, a slugger without a defense, is given little chance to even go the 15-round route with the lithe, sharp-punching Patterson. This is probably a true forecast of the bout.

But maybe, just maybe, London has a chance. In 26 fights, he has won 19 by knockout. He has lost just four times, only once by a knockout. London, on paper, is a much more worthy opponent for Patterson than either Tommy Jack-son or Pete Rademacher were, and who is to say that Roy Harris is any better?

Patterson was floored by both Rademacher and Harris, and was once knocked in Golden Gloves competition. Thus, it appears he has no great ability to take a punch. London is a plodder who should be cut to pieces by Patterson's jab, but he is a sturdy fighter and his knockout record indicates that this may be a fight worth watching.

Ingemar Johansson, the spectacular Swede who expects to fight Floyd June 25 (barring a London victory or a Patterson injury), doesn't give the Brit much chance. Neither do I, but remember—London can hit.

The Kentucky Derby shapes up as a free-for-all, with no standouts such as last year's Tim Tam, and no "characters" such as Silky Sullivan, the come-from-behind horse who didn't.

Thinclads Face Badgers

Only Home Meet Set Saturday

Bob Lake Eyes Varsity Record

By JOHN BEATTY

Michigan State's thinclads will make their only home appearance of the 1959 outdoor season at Ralph Young Field, Saturday at 2 p.m.

The pace-setter of the Spartans is their Big 10 indoor mile champion, Bob Lake. Lake won the event with a time of 4:10.9 last March and stands a fine chance to better the MSU varsity record of 4:08.8.

State also has two other top distance runners in Capt. Fordy Kennedy, third in the indoor two-mile and, Tony Smith, fifth in the indoor 1,000-yard run. Kennedy will double in the mile and two-mile while Smith will compete in the mile. Bill Reynolds and Jim Horan will also join in the two-mile.

The Spartans are also strong in the middle distances with Jim Carr, fourth in the 600 and Bob Hughes, fifth in the outdoor 600 last year. The top three of a combination of Lake, Smith, Carr and Hughes will be slated to run the 800, while Brian Castle, Tom Marsh and Max Weisen-gruber will go in the 400.

For the sprint State will use Bob Elliott, John Sharp and Frank Mehwald in the 100 while Weisen-gruber, Marsh, Castle or Sharp will run the 220.

For the hurdles, Coach Fran Dietrich will send Mike Klein-hans, Jason Harness and either Bill Bredenbeck or Tom Strub-saker in the highs and the top three of Klein-hans, Bredenbeck, George Ward, Harness and Strub-saker in the lows.

Klein-hans is the Spartans' leading performer in the field events as a result of a fourth place finish in the indoor pole vault, Lee Eckstrom and Mehwald complete pole vault en-semble while Ward, Elliott and Harness are slated for the broad jump.

Al Neumann will double in the shot put and discus and Keith Gavlor is also entered in the discus. Klein-hans, Ward and Harness will go in the high jump.

Hop, Step and Jump

'Sunny' Eyes Olympics In Unusual Track Event

By DARWIN BENNETT

When Solomon "Sunny" Akpata won the hop, step and jump event with 46' 7 1/2" at the Ohio State Relays recently, it marked the beginning of a possible drive toward an Olympic bid for the tall, lithe Nigerian.

This was the first time since Sunny came to Michigan State as part of a government-sponsored exchange student program last fall, that he had turned in so impressive a performance.

In the British Empire Games, held at Cardiff, Wales, last August, Sunny placed fifth with a 40' 8 1/2" jump, competing for his native country.

Adhemar da Silva holds the world record on the basis of a 54' 3 1/2" performance in 1955. But the NCAA mark is only 51' 4 1/2" set by Ira Davis of Lasalle in 1956.

The hop, step and jump event is primarily staged at the Olympic Games and dual meets in foreign countries. The United States does not recognize it as a collegiate event but includes it in the NCAA meet each year.

Sunny, who was born in Benin City, Nigeria, competed in cricket and field hockey during his prep days at Kings College in Lagos, which is located some 300 miles from his native city.

It was in 1954 that Coach Jim Erskine, a graduate of Wisconsin, first noticed the rapidly-growing athlete and suggested that Sunny try broad jumping.

On his first attempt Sunny jumped 20' and followed this up with a 40' jump in the hop, step and jump event.

LCA Wins As Betas' Rally Fails

A late-inning rally by Beta Theta Pi failed Thursday night as Lambda Chi Alpha squeezed out a 7-5 win. The Betas scored four runs in the top of the fifth, but two successive strikeouts by LCA pitcher Hank Fronzak ended the inning and the game.

Lambda Chi scored six runs in the first inning as eight men reached base. Jim Sullivan and Bill Swirles each had two RBIs for the winners. Sullivan homered in the bottom of the fourth, sending a tremendous blast over the Beta's right fielder. Swirles had two singles.

Lambda Chi had a total of nine hits while the Betas collected seven. The winning pitcher was Fronzak and the loser was Don Sawyer.

In another contest, Sigma Chi, behind the one-hit pitching of Tom Reale, downed Sigma Phi Epsilon, 6-2. The Sig Eps garnered two unearned runs in the fourth. Reale struck out eight while walking only one batter.

John Pattison of Sigma Chi collected two hits for the winners, while Darrell Matthias picked up the losers' only hit.

Sigma Chi collected six runs on seven hits and 12 walks. Sigma Phi Epsilon had two runs on one hit and two errors.

Golfers Open 'Road Trip' With 4-Way

Opening their 1959 Big 10 play, the Spartan golfers are to Evanston, Ill., this weekend for a quadrangular meet with Notre Dame and conference foes Northwestern and Wisconsin.

Before returning to campus they will hit South Bend, Ind., for a three-way match with the Irish and Iowa Monday.

Medalist for the Spartans in their opening dual win over Central Michigan and Western Michigan last week was Steve Miller, with a 76. Close behind him were Ty Saplin and C. A. Smith, with carded twin 77's.

Notre Dame, which finds much of its golf competition in Big 10 schools, carries a 5-0 record into the four-way contest. The Irish had their closest call last week, nudging Detroit, 19-17.

They topped both Northwestern and Wisconsin in matches last year, but suffered one of their three losses in 15 outings at the hands of the Spartans.

EVER THINK ABOUT SELLING LIFE INSURANCE?

COYG. ERLUND, '39

Most of the 105 members of our Agency are men who sold prior to visiting us... Yet the 10 who have been with us more than 5 years averaged $441 in monthly income last year. Five men who came with us as salesmen are now Equitable Agency Managers. None had previous life insurance experience. Most of them had no previous selling experience, either!

And we are very proud of them. They were carefully and scientifically selected. They were skillfully trained by our staff of 11 Assistant Managers. They were adequately financed during their training years. And they are backed with nation-wide magazine and TV advertising. The Equitable Life Assurance Society, celebrating its 100th Anniversary this year, is the world's 5th largest corporation.

We are told that our Detroit Agency is the 3rd largest-producing life insurance organization in America. Our 1958 production totaled almost $9 million dollars.

If you're willing to work and eager to grow in a professional career with no limitation to income and plenty of management opportunities, we would be glad to meet you and explore your possibilities in a solid, life-time endeavor.

We're a "going concern" and we're growing. We're prepared to make the necessary investment in high-caliber, ambitious men who are eager to achieve success in a professional enterprise devoted to serving people!

If you are interested in our Detroit organization we will be available on May 7, 9-5 p.m. at the Placement Bureau, Student Services Bldg.

Four-Point Students Honored At Union Banquet by Hannah

President John A. Hannah honored 167 4-H-A students Thursday night with a banquet in the Union.

Prof. Russel Nye, head of the English department, addressed the students, emphasizing the true, yet paradoxical, American belief in democracy with an elite.

Although Nye recognized the persistent attitude of suspicion toward scholars, he fostered the fact that "it is not undemocratic to have ideas, to excel, nor quiet to get all A's, if we wish to get specific."

Maintaining the democratic attitude toward equality, Americans still realize the need for an aristocracy, intellectually and otherwise, said Nye.

A democratic society surrenders only when it nourishes distinctiveness, emphasized Nye, admitting the paradox involved. Democratic leadership of an intelligent people was one of Nye's major points.

Among the distinguished guests present at the banquet was Rabbi Abraham Zernach of Sinai Beth Hillel Foundation who gave the invocation. The students who were honored are:

A spring concert and a recital will fill the weekend for music-minded students and faculty.

The Women's Glee Club presents its annual Spring Concert Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Music Auditorium. The club has appeared at many evening concerts, banquets and other club meetings.

The first part of the program consists of sacred compositions, including "Sound the Trumpet," "Inferno Carol," "Ave Verum," several songs from Britten's "Ceremony of Carols," and concludes with "Sing to God with Gladness."
