A float portrayal of the United States' historical page will sail into the Cedar River port tonight at 8:30 for the opening of the 1959 Water Carnival, "Route U.S. 76."

all three nights at the Union Judy Assif, of Lansing, Dave Bieber, Detroit sophomore, and Tom Josephson, Toledo, Ohio, junior, share the master of ceremonies spotlight.

As spectators near the water front, they will be whisked onto a turnpike entrance. A large white curtain will be draped along the Red Cedar, serving as a backdrop, with the emblem U.S. 76 on it.

Tonight's judges are Mrs. Eleanor Morrison, humanities department, Mrs. Mary Jane Watkins, speech department, and Paul Pedesco, also of the humanities department.

The floats will be judged on a 1,000 point scale with a possible total of 500 points for effectiveness of presentation, 300 for design and construction and 200 for continuity.

Water sports will highlight the intermission entertainment all three nights. Gunwaling, jousting and the tug of war will be held Thursday evening while the Apache race, canoe exchange and in and out race are on Friday's agenda. Water sport trophies are to be presented Saturday evening.

Dick Blazewski, representing Butterfield, Brackett, Emmons, and Jack Wickering, Howland House, will be competing for awards in the gunwaling contest. A married house-ing team, including Don Singleton, Chaucy Johnson and Matt Bieber, Detroit sophomore, and the Theta Chi's, Tom Robinson, Walter Estes and Barry Zindell.

Vying for trophies in the jousting contest will be Don Singleton and Chaucy Johnson, of married housing, Thomas Robinson and Barry Zindell, Theta Chi, and Darrell Voitek and Don Lynde, Evans Scholars.

Leading the procession down the Red Cedar will be the King and Queen Float, followed by "The Bell" and "The Bell Tower."

Brody Sees 94% Graduate Serves MSU For 38 Years

A tall, white-haired man who has seen nine of every 10 MSU graduates receive their degrees will attend his last commencement in an official capacity at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Eighty-year-old Clark Brody will be sitting on the platform in Spartan Stadium as a member of the governing Board of Trustees, a post he will relinquish at the year's end. He has given continuous service for 38 years—more than one-third of the university's 104-year existence.

For 16 of those years he was chairman of the governing board.

Approximately 84,000 MSU students—well over 94 percent of the university's graduates—will have received their degrees during his tenure when his term expires Dec. 31.

Brody, a native of Three Rivers, came to East Lansing at the turn of the century and was graduated from Michigan Agricultural College with the 55-member class of 1904. He became a county agent employed by the college and was appointed to the governing board in 1921.

As a student, employee and board member his association with MSU spans 49 of the university's 104 years.

A prominent leader in Michigan agriculture since 1915, the veteran administrator became executive secretary of the Michigan Farm Bureau in 1921. Under his leadership the Farm Bureau grew to membership of 57,000 farm families and developed four service companies doing about $30 million a year volume in farm and automotive supplies, petroleum products and insurance.

Upon retirement in 1952 as executive secretary of all Farm Bureau organizations, Brody became executive vice-president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. He directed the organization's program of public relations and legislative activities at state and national levels until this year.

The "Sommys," as they are known on other campuses, have maintained better than a 2.5 average for the past two terms, and have a house, it was pointed out at the meeting to show how the men have more than met the numerous IFC requirements of a colony.

In further business, John Eaton of the publications committee, announced that the new IFC rush brochure will go to the printer this weekend and will be sent to incoming freshmen before fall term.

Administrative Vice President Bill Durell warned the fraternity presidents that penalties are being levied on houses not meeting scholastic requirements.

Expansion plans of the Fraternity Buyers Association were also discussed. At present the association is handling the purchase of bread and canned goods for the fraternities. The idea being to buy in quantity and pass the saving off to the individual houses.

Spraying the Lansing area, beginning at Waverly road, was due to begin Thursday, weather permitting. This year, the area will be expanded to include the Red Cedar area and university golf course, he said.

Because of the cash quandry, MSU only recently was able to give a green light to the spraying. At 85 cents an acre, it will cost about $1,130. East Lansing will put up the university's portion for the time being.

"We'll bill the school at the end of the year," Patriarche said.

It isn't unusual for bills to come long after a service has been accomplished. Without having to pay cash on the line, projects such as insect control can be undertaken when the need is needed.

State's Universities Get Funds

Money to Pay Salary Bulk

MSU, U-M and Wayne Still 14 Million Behind

Another sweep-out of the state treasury's school aid and general funds was ordered Wednesday by Gov. Williams and his cabinet, with universities a surprise beneficiary.

A regular monthly installment of legislative appropriations was released to the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State, who now have a total of about 20 million dollars and needed by creditors.

The installment comes to $5,000,000, enough to pay the bulk of another monthly payroll at the U of M and MSU. However, no restriction was placed on its use.

The U of M has a $1,490,000 faculty payroll coming up June 12 commencement day.

The action of the universities reduced the state's arrearage in that area to a little over 14 million dollars.

At a special meeting, the state administrative board also formally approved today's $5,000,000 state payroll for 24,000 state employees and voted to distribute 30 million dollars that has accumulated in the state school aid fund.

The school aid checks are expected to go into the mail the first of next week, probably representing the last of the 2,350 school districts will receive during the fiscal year ending June 30.

That they will be left behind the bag for 30 million dollars under the 1958-59 school aid program unless Veterans Trust fund securities are ordered sold on a big bid of cash taken up from some other source not now in sight.

Williams indicated that sales tax receipts along with whiskey excise and special cigarette tax collections, deposited in the school aid fund later this month will be held to pay off 16 million dollars due the public school employees retirement fund.

State Treasurer Sanford Brown said enough money should trickle into the tentative general fund over the next several days to cover $4,300,000 in payments to the aged, blind, disabled and dependent children.

It was not clear when the state would get around to meeting an $11,900,000 distribution due this month to cities and villages.

The board acted after Brown reported a general fund balance of $10,500,000, just $200,000 short of the amount required for today's payroll and to meet the university payments.

Brown put estimated general fund receipts for the remainder of June at $24,500,000. He said the windup of the fiscal year would find the general fund shortage at about $4 billion, 400 million, a figure corresponding closely with previous estimates.

All but a small fraction will be owed to universities and local school districts.

Pizza Plays Role As Gambling Front

WASHINGTON 4P—An agent of the Chicago gangland syndicate operated from an Indiana college campus in trying to run a gambling and vice monopoly in Porter county, Ind., Senate investigators were told Wednesday.

Harold Rayder, chief deputy sheriff of that northwest Indiana county, said Tommy Morano used as a front a pizza business in the College Inn at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind.

Presented to AUSG Questionnaire Results Show Many Students Prefer ROTC

By KIT ERICKSON

A preview of results obtained in the Committee of the Future questionnaire was given to Student Congress by Dale Hathaway, chairman of the committee Thursday night.

He called the response good, and said that the committee was also pleased with the consistency of the answers and the fact that a large number of students took time to provide thoughtful answers in the written section.

Although the results are not completely tabulated a number of trends have been seen, Hathaway said.

The ROTC question was not as clear cut as most students had thought it would be. The vast majority seemed to be in favor of ROTC, but a significant number of students expressed reservations because the ROTC was also picked as the one thing the men liked most.

In other action the Congress voted to express their congratulations to Vice President Hamilton on his new appointment.

Dave Grommer, (E. Shaky) introduced and Congress passed a resolution to establish a procedure for appeal of student fees for vehicle regulations for summer term.

A body, consisting of two members of the legislative branch appointed by the executive committee, the traffic appeal court chief justice and faculty advisor was set up to hear appeals.

The executive committee established by the vice president and two student congress members will determine the need for a meeting of the court based on the volume of appeals.

Representative Bill Errett (Married Housing) introduced a resolution to establish a summer congressional committee composed of members of the Ninth Congress in attendance during summer session and other members who wish to volunteer their services. The resolution passed.

In a special meeting after the regular meeting Congress voted to maintain a student tax of 25 cents in the fall.

Congress adjourned until September 30.

Dope Pushers' Arraignments Set for June 11

William Reich, Chicago cop, will have a preliminary arraignment in East Lansing June 11 on three charges of violating the state narcotic law.

John Harper, Chicago junior, also will be arraigned before Municipal Judge William Wise, according to East Lansing city hall.

Reich was charged with sales of narcotics and Harper for having them in his possession.

Both men were arrested May 22.

In a narcotics raid described by officials as being the largest ever staged in central Michigan, 10 pounds of marijuana, valued at $35,000 was confiscated from Harper's car.

Several hours earlier, a police agent had paid Reich $150 in marked money for a quantity of crushed marijuana.

Reich was arraigned in Lansing Tuesday and placed under $20,000 bond.

Bill to Increase Army Meets Defeat in House

WASHINGTON 4P—The House Wednesday defeated 131-43 an effort to boost the army's 1960 strength from 870,000 to 900,000 men.

The standing vote rejected an amendment to the defense appropriation bill that would have added 102 million dollars to maintain the larger army.

A large mosquito crop is one of the legacies of a verdant campus.

They may drive you into the thrashing twitters, but they aren't the anopheles brand which spread malaria.

Roosting mosquitoes, house flies and other vermin, a type of green caterpillar, will be affected.

A converted B-17, laying down 600 foot swaths will fly between 300 and 500 feet high, according to Ted Haskell, of the Lansing parks and recreation commission.

Using a solution of 12 1/2 percent DDT, about one gallon of solution covers an acre, he said.

This should kill most of the adult mosquitoes before they can lay eggs, according to Prof. Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department.

Generally, the MSU area affected will be north of the Grand Trunk railroad and west of Harrison road. Spartan Village and the golf course are exceptions, Patriarche said.

"Well over 30,000 acres around East Lansing will be sprayed," he said.

Other communities which may join Lansing township in this project include Charlotte and St. Johns. Biggett brothers, of Phoenix, Arizona, will do the spraying.

So, looks like folks won't have to walk around campus wearing saran wrap to keep away from swarming culex punga.

Carny Dry Run

Water Carnival dry run will be held today. All representatives will meet at the bandstand at 2 p.m. to discuss continuity, music, lighting and production problems with the respective chairmen.

Successful Year

The climax of a year of hard work, honor, and high achievement came last night at the Band Shell as the MSU Concert Band presented its final open concert of the season.

MSU Concert Band Climaxes Season

By MARILYN BECKER

The climax of a year of hard work, honor, and high achievement came last night at the Band Shell as the MSU Concert Band presented its final open concert of the season.

The band, under the direction of Leonard Falcone, opened the concert with Nicolai's "Merry Men of Windsor Overture," continued through a program ranging from the heavy to very light.

The solemnity and softness of "Prayer and Dream Pastime" by Humperdinck contrasted with the gaiety and liveliness of such numbers as "America," a Spanish march "Juno Toider," and "Tambourine." The entire trombone section featured in Henry Fillmore's "Sinfonia Trombones," while sections of the band played prominent parts in the ballet music from Gounod's "Faust."

Henry's "Clarinet Concerto" in E flat, featured Arthur Riedel, Ithaca Junior, as soloist. He gave a very skillful performance of this piece.

The highlight of the evening was the famed "1812" Overture by Peter Tchaikovsky. The conductor combined to give an outstanding performance of this piece.

The percussion section, imitating the church bells and cannons in Napoleon's flight from Moscow, were as effective as the ones used in the 1812 performance.

The band, after concluding the concert, was called upon for free concertos, "Seventy-Six Brass," "Father of Victory," and "Klaxon."

Engineering Head Arrived to Meet

Henry Krause, head of the department of engineering drawings, has accepted an invitation to participate in the University Detroit engineering graphics conference.

The purpose of the summer conference, according to Prof. Ed Reinhard, director, "is to disseminate current information of trends within the framework of the graphics field."

We will also correlate the related areas of knowledge that are related to the graphics field, the need that there may be in the use of the graphic means presentation and solving those problems in mathematics, mechanics, physics, and statistics," he said.

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination said Wednesday it has accepted as "evidence of good faith" an assurance from the Boston Red Sox to pursue a policy of non-discrimination in hiring Negro ballplayers.

On April 22 the commission began a probe into the Red Sox hiring practices after three Boston groups charged the club was biased in its handling of Negro infielder Jerry (Pumpsie) Green, who was sent back to the minors a week before the season opened.

The Red Sox denied the allegation, asserting "when capable players are available they will be used, regardless of race, creed or color."

Green, at the end of last week, according to the Red Sox, had played in 42 games for Minneapolis. His batting average was .281. He had four home runs, one triple, and eight doubles. He received 37 bases on balls and had stolen 10 bases.

Mrs. Mildred Mahoney, chairman of the three-member commission, said the agency now considers the case closed. She said the commission reached its finding after receipt of a letter from Stanley Harris, executive vice president of the Red Sox.

In his letter, dated May 27th,

Harris set forth the following points, which Mrs. Mahoney said the commission approved:

1. The Red Sox general manager, Harris, or the business manager, Richard O'Connell, will make a trip this year to Scottsdale, Ariz. to obtain guarantees that suitable non-segregated accommodations will be available for all members of the Red Sox during future training sessions.
2. Records of Red Sox instructions to their scouts of the team's non-discriminatory policy and the activities of these scouts in scouting Negro prospects will continue to be made available to the commission at its request.

3. The Red Sox offer an equal opportunity to all to apply for employment and all applicants will be considered on a non-discriminatory basis.

Harris also told the commission the Red Sox have been scouting players of the Negro race for many years and there are seven Negro ballplayers in its farm system now.

Attendance for Milwaukee's Games Cuts Down Compared to Last Year

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves are leading the pack for a third straight National League pennant, but their once-rabid fans aren't breaking down the turnstiles to watch them do it.

The six-year honeymoon of booming business at the gate is over with attendance off by 164,539 from last year. That adds up to a lot of cash.

Outwardly, the Braves management is undisturbed by the turnout of 424,125 fans for 24 home games as compared with 588,664 in 1958.

"We're not panicky," says owner Lou Perini, who packed up the club and moved it from Boston in 1953. "Attendance is off in baseball all around and we're not too concerned."

Birdie Tebbets, a former player and manager now the Milwaukee club's executive vice president, points to a combination of things for the big dip.

Tebbets figures the current trend in baseball, lack of new faces, construction underway in the area of the park and a possible leveling-off all are contributing factors.

"Baseball attendance is down just about everywhere," Tebbets said. "And we have to admit that maybe some fans are tired of seeing the same team. But we can't trade championship players just to get new faces."

"There's also no question that the construction of the new expressway outside our gates is hurting. Fans just don't realize that traffic moves reasonably well and program into the stadium is not impeded. It's difficult to convince them."

As for a leveling-off, Tebbets guardedly said that that could be a factor.

"The Braves have drawn as remarkably well for six years that it's only natural to think of a drop in attendance as the novelty wears off," said Tebbets. "But we're trying to do everything possible to satisfy the fans."

The fan in the street has other reasons for staying away from the game.

"You have to park your car maybe a half-mile away and then walk over gravel just to get to the gate," one said. "And if you take the bus you might get dropped off just as far away."

There's no question that the Braves are doing their utmost to lure back lost patronage. They're striving to convince Milwaukee County, owner of the stadium, that a couple of things are necessary.

The Braves would like to see the temporary bleachers replaced by permanent stands and a wall put up instead of the wire fence around the outfield. And they also want moving stairways to aid fans who grip about the long hike up ramps to second tier seats.

Milwaukee, which went over the two million mark in attendance in four of its six previous seasons, drew 42,081 fans for the home opener in April, but there have been plenty of vacant seats since. Second largest crowd of the year was 28,590 for a Sunday doubleheader May 31.

WARREN SPAHN, who never looked like this to National League batters, pours the high soft one to a fifth-grade classmate of his son, Greg, at a picnic in Milwaukee. The great Milwaukee left-hander, pitching for both teams, finally beat himself, 16-14.

In Summer

Basilio Bout With Fullmer Made Definite

NEW YORK (AP)—The already hazy chance of a Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio bout for the world middleweight championship, New York version, practically was obliterated Wednesday with the announcement that Basilio had accepted terms to meet Gene Fullmer in an NBA title fight.

The announcement was made by Norman Rothschild, Syracuse, N.Y., promoter, who said the bout would be held late this summer, with Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, among possible sites. Rothschild would be co-promoter.

Robinson, already stripped of his title by the NBA, still is considered champion in New York, the State Athletic Commission ruled Tuesday. The decision was based on recognition of the validity of a contract Robinson signed with Sam Ross of Philadelphia for a title defense against Basilio.

Mary Jensen of West Jordan, Utah, manager of Fullmer, said Wednesday that Basilio would get a larger percentage of the gate than his fighter. He said he could not disclose the terms, but added the contract includes equal rights for Basilio, Fullmer and Rothschild in negotiating television rights and determining the site.

Robinson issued a statement Wednesday reiterating his willingness to meet Basilio, and his belief Basilio did not intend to fight him again.

Golden to Captain '60 Baseball Team

Dean Look Chosen MVP At Annual Squad Banquet

The Spartan baseball team picked Dick Golden, shortstop, to be the team captain next year. The selection was announced at the team's banquet by Coach John Kobs.

Several other awards were made at the affair. Dean Look, second base, was selected as the "most valuable performer." This award is based on offensive contributions during the season.

Look is presenting leading the team in hits, runs, RBI's, total bases and triples. He is batting .347 going into the season's final game Saturday with Western Michigan University.

Dick Kadatz received the award for top pitcher. He sports a 9-1 record and has an earned run average of 1.34.

Bob Ross, sophomore pitcher, showed the most improvement of any varsity player and Gordon Hjortas, third baseman, was named the outstanding freshman.

There is one award that can't be determined until after Saturday's game. That is the leading hitter award. John Fleser, left-fielder, is presenting leading with .352, but he is closely followed by Look with .347.

The Kobsmen will be facing a Bronco team Saturday that has beaten them twice earlier this season, 9-1 and 6-1.

The Broncos, however, recently lost a game to Big 10 champion Minnesota, 6-4, in NCAA district playoffs before going on to win the tourney. If this is any scale to judge by, the Spartans last win was against Minnesota, 6-4.

Western's all-time record against the Spartans is 40-25. The series first started in 1916. Regardless of Saturday's results the Broncos will be playing June 12 in the NCAA national tournament at Omaha, Neb.

Hogan Ready For 5th Open

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP)—"Ben Hogan is at the peak of his game," Claude Harmon said Wednesday. "I would have to pick him to win his fifth open next week."

Harmon, former masters champion, is host professional at the Winged Foot Golf Club where the 59th U. S. Open Golf Championship will be contested June 11-13.

He has been the constant practice companion of Hogan during the latter's preparations for the event.

Hogan, 46, now burdened with the responsibilities of a club manufacturer, next week-end will be seeking to break the three-way tie he has with old Willie Anderson and Bob Jones as the winningest of all U. S. open competitors. Each has won four times.

"For a while Hogan was bothered with his putting," Harmon continued. "No more. He looks like the old Ben on the greens again. Besides, the open always is a driving contest. Hogan is the most accurate hitter in the business."

"There is nothing new in the action, since already for the third Asian games in Tokyo last year, the athletes of Formosa were notified that they could only participate as from Formosa and not from China. That did so participate."

"Because of the internationality of the Olympic movement, there has been a continuous effort since (World War II) to involve the IOC in international policies," Brundage declared.

"We are determined to meet this with all our strength. That it is quite apparent that misinformation has been spread about the action of the IOC in the so-called Chinese problem at its meeting in Munich."

CG Vets Beat Bailey 2 In Championship Game

11th Victory Of Season By Judson

Coral Gables Vets emerged as the all-university softball champs Wednesday as they defeated Bailey 2, 3-0, behind the two-hit pitching of Harlow Judson.

It was the 11th win of the season for the bullet-throwing pitcher and his second all-university championship victory. Last year he was the mound-sitter for the independent Americans who also won the coveted title.

Judson, who has given up only three runs all season, kept Bailey off balance and surrendered two hits, both of the scratch variety. He collected seven strikeouts over the five-inning game.

The Vets started slow, but came to life for two runs in the second. Dick Trembley walked and moved to second on an infield single by Bob Small. Dan Mohler knocked a Texas leaguer into short left field and the ball got past the fielder, allowing Trembley to score.

In the fifth, the winners came without a hit. Leo Hepburn scored second on a two-out infield error. Norm Rodgers was walked and Judson flew out.

Jim McGilivray stepped in and smashed one towards the mound. Evy Strem, the losing pitcher, deflected the ball to second base and Rodgers scored out at the keystone sack.

The Vets almost had another tally as John Sawyer sent a high pop up to deep shortstop. The infielder missed the ball and McGilivray came home. However, he didn't touch the plate and was out on a bullet throw from the left fielder.

Strem, Bailey's hurler, did a creditable job, holding the batter down to only four safeties. Although his teammates displayed a bit of spirit, they couldn't connect with Judson's fast ball.

Harry Murphy, Bailey's peppy second sacker, got a scratch infield hit in the second, and Brockman hit a line drive over the second baseman's head in the fourth. But Judson closed the door on the rest of the Bailey batsmen.

In the fifth, Bailey had the beginnings of a rally going as Murphy reached first after being hit by a pitched ball. However, a snappy double play cut the rally down and an infield out ended the game.

Still Champion Brown Stops Rosi on TKO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joe Brown, his lightweight title tilted over one ear, saved his championship Wednesday night by stopping baldish Paolo Rosi on severe eye cuts on a ninth round technical knockout.

Two commission doctors examined Rosi's cuts after the bell ended the eighth round and advised Referee Charles Reynolds to stop the contest. Under National Boxing Assn. rules it went as a ninth round TKO.

Brown was having a rough night from the ever-charging Rosi who applied steady pressure through the entire eight rounds.

Brown had opened cuts on the bridge of Rosi's nose in the third and alongside the left eye in the fifth. But they appeared to be minor as fast work by his corner crew repaired most of the damage.

Midway in the eighth, Brown slashed Rosi over the right eye and then landed a hard right to the cut on the outside corner of the left eye.

As soon as the bell ended the eighth, Referee Reynolds, summoned Dr. Clark Halstead and Dr. Jack Knapp of the District of Columbia Boxing Commission. They examined the cuts for several seconds while Brown stood in mid ring waiting for the bell that never came.

Referee Reynolds walked over to Brown and raised his right hand in victory, indicating that the doctors had ended it.

The three officials were split down the middle on their scoring under the "10-point must" system through eight rounds.

Referee Reynolds had Rosi way out in front 16-11, Judge Norvel Lee, a former boxer, had it even 15-15 and Judge Harry Volkman thought Brown was out front 17-15. The AP card had Rosi out front 17-15 when the end came. On the basis of rounds, Reynolds had Rosi ahead 5-3, Lee had Rosi on top 4-3-1 and Volkman had it 3-3-2. The AP had it 5-3.

Rosi, a 3 to 1 underdog who was rated No. 3 among Brown's challengers by both the NBA and ring went after the champ from the opening bell.

Just before the bell ended the second, Brown scored his heaviest blow to date, a right to the chin that shook up Rosi. Again in the third round Brown was setting through to the challenger with sharp counter bursts while pricking off many of Rosi's wild charges.

In the sixth and seventh it was Rosi's right hand and hooking to the body with his left. Brown was game in surprisingly light 122-pound, appeared to be possessing a bit under the pressure.

Brown had slipped down just before he landed a big right that burst open the eye cut in the eighth. It was obvious as Rosi's head sped forth that Rosi couldn't be patched up this time.

Squaw Valley Games Include Nationalist China, Not Red

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Red China cannot participate in the 1960 winter Olympic games at Squaw Valley but Nationalist China has been invited and has accepted, an organizing committee official declared Wednesday.

Robert King, executive director of the committee, explained: "Recent action of the International Olympic Committee does not make Red China a member of that group. Red China cannot and will not participate in the VIII Olympic winter games."

The organizing committee invited Nationalist China and they accepted prior to the IOC action.

The organizing committee will stand behind this invitation and accept entries of Nationalist China competitors at Squaw Valley.

King said IOC President Avery Brundage, in a telephone conversation from Lausanne, Switzerland, told him Nationalist China could compete but reserved comment as to what name that delegation would bear.

At Munich last Thursday, the IOC voted to unseat the Nationalist Chinese delegation as China's representative on grounds that it no longer represents sports in China. Brundage said then that Red China could now apply for a seat as China's representative and the Nationalists could apply as representatives of Formosa.

King said Wednesday the next meeting of the IOC was scheduled until next year after the Feb. 18-28 winter Olympics at Squaw Valley in California's Sierra. Thus Red China would not be a member in time to compete.

The United States State Department Tuesday blasted the IOC for its action in ousting the Communist China delegation, saying the Communist China could apply for membership as representative of China. King did not comment on the political aspects of the situation although stating firmly that Red China would not compete at Squaw Valley.

Rep. Francis Dorn (R-NY) read a telegram from Robert King, executive director of the Squaw Valley organizing committee, asserting that Nationalist China had been invited to send athletes to the games prior to the action of the International Olympic Committee and they still would be welcome.

The House rejected an amendment by Rep. H. R. Gross (D-Iowa) to delete the $400,000 from the bill entirely.

He said the federal government already had put up $3 million dollars to help construct the buildings at Squaw Valley, and there is a further request for another half-million in the budget.

Gross said he saw no reason why the nation's taxpayers should finance the sports production in California.

Yankees Win, 6-5 Mantle's Home Run Beats Tiger Effort

DETROIT (AP)—Mickey Mantle hit a towering ninth-inning home run Wednesday night and gave the New York Yankees a 6-5 triumph over the Detroit Tigers in an action-packed contest witnessed by 43,146 spectators.

Mantle's 10th home run, his first hit of the series, dropped into the first rows of seats behind the 370-foot marker in right field and wiped out victory hopes for the Tigers, who had battled from a 3-1 deficit.

It gave fireballer Ray Narveski the decision over Ray Narveski, who pitched only the ninth inning.

Rookies Murphy, Bailey's peppy second sacker, got a scratch infield hit in the second, and Brockman hit a line drive over the second baseman's head in the fourth. But Judson closed the door on the rest of the Bailey batsmen.

In the fifth, Bailey had the beginnings of a rally going as Murphy reached first after being hit by a pitched ball. However, a snappy double play cut the rally down and an infield out ended the game.

Strem, Bailey's hurler, did a creditable job, holding the batter down to only four safeties. Although his teammates displayed a bit of spirit, they couldn't connect with Judson's fast ball.

A nine-hole exhibition will follow, featuring former national golf champions Byron Nelson, Chick Harbert, Horton Smith and A. Watrous. Tickets, costing 50 cents for general admission and 25 cents for students, may be purchased at the golf house. State varsity members will be caddying.

Duren, a trifle wild at the start, settled down quickly and ended the contest on a dramatic note by striking out Maxwell.

Instruction, Facilities Make MSU Leader

By GARY NUGENT

Students taking physical education courses at MSU should live longer lives with less heart trouble and mental breakdowns.

John Friedrich, chairman of the physical education program said, "This modern age of physical inactivity must be balanced by exercise for maximum physical and mental health."

The American Medical Association which supports Friedrich said, "Those who maintain activity have better performance records, less degenerative diseases, and probably a longer life expectancy than the general population."

"Mentally healthy people participate in some form of volitional activity to supplement their required daily work," according to Dr. W. C. Menninger of the famous Menninger Clinic. Friedrich emphasized that the program is not only to help students during college but afterwards as well. Alumni repeatedly report the usefulness of the exercise learned in college.

Nationally, MSU is being looked to for leadership in physical education. A recent study showed that 96 percent of the institutions studied require physical education. According to Friedrich, MSU has one of the better, and possibly the best physical education program.

Ag Production Project Aim For Colombia

The Republic of Colombia will continue its steps toward greater agricultural production through a cooperative assistance agreement announced recently by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation and MSU.

Faculty members will be sent to Colombia to aid the Colleges of Agriculture of Palmira and Medellin in their further development of agriculture education, extension, research, and facilities at these units of the National University of Colombia.

This new cooperative assistance agreement will fill the opening left when an International Cooperative Administration contract for aid to the agricultural colleges terminated March 31.

Such aid and the "self-help" cooperation of the Colombian government and the national university have brought encouraging developments at the agricultural colleges and in the agricultural economy of the nation, according to program director.

However, much remains to be done before the Medellin and Palmira Colleges have the personnel and facilities to furnish agricultural leadership to Colombia.

Beatniks Air Poems, Jazz at 'Y'

Local jazz artists and poets will be given a chance to display their wares tonight at the Y House on Evergreen Street.

The program of jazz and poetry will be sponsored by the Jazz Society of West Circle Drive. It is the club's final program for the year.

The society attempted to bring in a "beat" poet from the U of M several weeks ago. Unfortunately, the poet was unable to make the trip because of "a lack of funds."

Attempts to combine jazz and poetry has become a popular trend of the "beat generation." The idea was first conceived in San Francisco's "beat section" where it enjoyed a great deal of success. It spread to the far corners of the nation.

"But this is no fact," one beatnik exponent on campus said. "It's an expression that is here to stay."

Some of the poems will be read publicly for the first time tonight. Admission is free about 9 p.m. One of the poets who refers to himself as "Tharg" was quoted as saying, "Maybe I am beat. I don't know. I just like to write poetry."

'Skydivers' of Parachute Club Perform in Wild Blue Yonder

By BILL KIELMAN
Sunday afternoon, in the face of threatening thunderstorms and tornadoes, three MSU students climbed into an airplane, went up to 4,700 feet and calmly walked into thin air.

Walking into thin air from a high-flying airplane is the principle activity of a group of MSU students who are members of the Spartan Parachute Club.

It is not a formally organized club. There isn't a president, a board of directors, or any of the usual trappings associated with clubs. It's just a group of people who jump out of airplanes, and the people who fly the planes for them.

Jim Corless, Grosse Pointe Woods, Junior, made his first jump Sunday. He was instructed how to work the chute by Larry Moore, one of the first members.

"Put your feet on the edge of the door sill. Put your hands on each edge of the door. Don't let your legs dangle and twist you around. When you're ready, just roll out, wait for three seconds, and pull the ripcord. That's all there is to it."

The advanced jumpers don't open their chutes right after jumping. They fall from 7,000 to 1,000 feet before opening, usually at two thousand feet. This gives them opportunity to "sky-ride"—an operation similar to that performed from a diving board.

Skydiving is a growing sport in the United States. There are about 18 clubs of this sort in various colleges around the country, according to Larry Moore, Grand Rapids freetime jumper who has made more than 100 jumps with the club.

It is an expensive sport. A plane rental costs $12 per hour. Chutes cost at least $30, some priced at $300. A helmet, altimeter, stopwatch and alterations to make the chutes steerable, and the parachute itself, are also needed.

There have been no fatalities in any member of the club in the year since they got together. In case of "chute failure," they use a spare carried in a pack.
