Dr. Azikiwe Impressed With the MSU System Of University Education

By HARDY CHRIST
State News Editor-in-Chief
"I am favorably impressed with what I have seen at Michigan State University," Eastern Nigerian Premier Nnamdi Azikiwe summarized of his visit to the campus in a press conference Monday afternoon before his departure.

The Premier, on a six-day visit to MSU, studied the methods used at this land-grant institution in preparation for designing the University of Nigeria.

"I came to MSU because I wanted to study the land-grant college plan in America," Dr. Azikiwe said. "And MSU is the oldest of the land-grant institutions — it's the model."

The Premier outlined the most influential facts that he found at MSU during his visit.

"It gave us an idea of the typical land-grant institution," he said. "MSU performs its functions by giving top priority to the needs of the community. It exists to make them happy."

"Secondly, there's no stagnation at MSU. The program for continuing education keeps the people informed. During my stay at Kellogg Center, I have noticed numerous men and women who have come to take refresher courses.

"MSU is urbanized," the Premier continued. "There are many scholars on the campus, but all of them are cooperative. They do not keep their knowledge to themselves. Instead, they make MSU a place to learn."

The Premier compared American higher education to that of Nigeria. "In Nigeria, education is a privilege, he said. Only the very few people can get a higher education. But in America, he said that education is a right."

Dr. Azikiwe said last week that he feels education (especially higher education) is of vital importance to the future of his new country, which will gain its independence on October 1, 1960.

"We are an agricultural people," he said, "and we need an agricultural school. Therefore the land-grant system fits our needs well."

Agriculture, however, won't be the only course of study emphasized at the University of Nigeria, which Dr. Azikiwe hopes will open its doors to students on September 12, 1960.

"Our university will also include English, home economics, and business administration. Later we will initiate the humanities and classical studies," he said.

"I have learned a lot while at MSU," he said, "although naturally I won't adopt everything that I have learned."

In order to build a university in Nigeria, Dr. Azikiwe agrees that he will need much technical assistance.

In the assistance, Dr. Hannah has said that he would agree to an exchange of professors after the University of Nigeria has opened. He also consented to have Dean Glen Taggart, dean of the international programs, help assist the Nigerian project with technical advice.

Azikiwe said he is greatly impressed by the land-grant system which provides not only classroom and laboratory training on the campus, but incorporates a system of educating the people in the field through its research and extension facilities.

Give a Pint

Blood Donations Save Money

There's a reason for people doing things in this world — especially in the case of donating blood to the Red Cross.

Ted Boyer, sophomore veterinarian student at MSU from Custer, Michigan, has learned that the few minutes it takes to give a pint of blood may someday be rewarded.

Several times in the past two years, Ted donated blood when the Red Cross unit was on the campus. He says now that it was "for somebody who needed it."

This summer, Ted's father, Louis Boyer, was that "somebody." He was rushed to the hospital at Ann Arbor and there received 46 transfusions during his critical illness and surgery.

All 46 pints used were replaced without charge by the local Red Cross blood center, thus saving the family this normally overwhelming expense which would have been piled on already-large medical and hospital costs.

Mrs. Boyer, Ted's mother, has asked that summer school students, faculty and staff members be told how grateful the family is for the blood provided because of MSU's participation in the Red Cross program.

The MSU students, faculty and staff members will have an opportunity next Monday to donate a pint of blood.

THE HATS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE as 25,000 Lutheran church youths gather on the MSU campus for the Walther League Convention. Each delegate wears a different style of hat to correspond with his delegation. The delegation shown is from Illinois. The Walther League is the youth organization of the Missouri synod, largest of the three major Lutheran groups in the country.

4-H Club Week Attracts 1,100

By BARBARA STASA
Shaw Hall was a busy place when 1,100 4-H club members attended the 41st annual 4-H Club Week, July 7-10.

These members came from 67 Michigan counties and were selected by their county leaders on the basis of achievements.

The purpose of 4-H week is to give outstanding members opportunities aside from those available in county clubs and let them share these experiences with others.

Two Projects For Research Granted MSU

Two projects designed to promote economic research will be carried out at MSU under grants announced last Monday by the Ford Foundation of New York.

Research groups in monetary policy and industrial organization will be supported by a $50,000 grant from the Foundation in a program to be directed by Dr. Clifford Hildreth, head of the department of economics.

The Foundation also granted $18,400 for a seminar for teachers in small liberal arts colleges. This project is being directed by Dr. Walter Adams, professor of economics.

Dr. Hildreth's project involves workshops which will combine advanced graduate training with research, the main purpose being to get graduate students started in research earlier than at present.

The workshops will start in winter term and will probably continue throughout the year.

Dr. Adams is directing an eight-week program designed to stimulate productive research by teachers in small liberal arts colleges.

Eight educators from eight Midwestern small colleges are participating in the seminar, which is being held until Aug. 15.

The project includes a survey of recent literature and developments in the fields of government and business. Special emphasis is placed on selecting research projects which can be carried out with facilities available at small liberal arts institutions.

Dr. Adams explains that the participants will begin their research during the seminar, return six months later for a progress report and will complete their individual programs within a year.

Art Dept. Movies Continue Monday

The art department of MSU is sponsoring the movies "The Information Machine" and "The Cherry Tale" Monday evening at 7:30 in 125 Kroeger Art Center. The movies are open to the public and there is no admission cost.

"House" and "Textures and Ornamental Arts of India," the last movies in the present series, will be held on July 27.

GOSS AND WHETSEL ... Present Concert at MSU ...

Concert Team To Perform At MSU Aud

The Broadway baritone and soprano team of Goss and Whetsel will present a new type of concert next Thursday at the MSU Aud.

"Make a Show" consists of duets and choreographed action and solos tied together by duets of conversation to give the concert the pace of a miniature Broadway performance.

Robert Goss played opposite Carol Channing in the Broadway show "Wonderful Town" and had a leading role in the Metropolitan Opera association's U. S. and Canadian tour of "Fledermaus." He appeared on such nationwide telecasts as Omnibus and NBC Opera, sang in Carnegie Hall and made records for Columbia, Book of the Month club and New Records.

Lucile Whetsel (Mrs. Robert Goss) joined with him to "Make a Show" while they were featured in the Broadway production "Kismet."

She received her first stage training with the ballet at the Paris Opera, attended Juilliard School, had featured roles in the NBC TV Opera and has been soloist with the Little Orchestra society and the New York Philharmonic symphony.

Arab Open House

The Arab Club will hold an open house at the UN lounge in the basement of the Union today from 6:30-10 p.m. to commemorate the Arab revolutions that occurred this month. The public is invited to attend.

mech, and Peter William Spike Leadership work. Scholarships to attend the American Youth Federation Leadership Training Camp were awarded to Carol Ann Graf and Duane L. Crites by Dr. Russell Masby. Dr. Masby also named the ten people selected for their achievements in 4-H work. These winners were Betty McPerson, Susanne Barton, Robert Morgan, Nick Vucich, Janet Davis, Janet Long, Peter Spike, Harold Molson, Loretta Moore, and Keith Wallace. One hundred nine girls modeled dresses, coats and suits they had made during the past year in 4-H work. An honor group of 36 girls were selected to return during 4-H State Show. The honor group includes Jeanette Jannasch, Ruth Copest, Arnette Hoopes, Margaret Collins, Gail Ann Aiken, Mariya Talsma, Sandra Finkbeiner, Lynn Newman, Joyce Michener, Luizen, Bonnie Plumm, Mary Schmidt, Barbara Bartos, Lotta Furness, Connie Snider, Patricia Nighswander, Betty McPerson, Marcia Devenney, Marjorie Bird, Sue Sprowl, Carol Reddman, Carol Cain, Linda Christopherson, Lee Young, Patricia Gikey, Sandra La Bani, Carolyn Levy, Marianne Jones, Diana Walquist, Mary Weiser, Rosalee Bietz, Karen Girback, Patsy Baum, Susan Mendham, Sharon Johnson, Kathleen Larry, and Janet West. Many recreational activities were offered the delegates concluding with a Sock Hop and a Ceremonial at the Campfire by the river, Thursday evening.

Speakers To Lecture On Art Ed.

The art department will offer lectures and demonstrations on various subjects during the summer season. Lectures will begin today and Friday on "The Meaning of Art Education Today."

The first lecture, "Childhood Creativity," will be given today and at 3 p.m. in Kroeger Art Center in the gallery by Rosemary Beymer, director of art at Kansas City Public Schools.

"Art Education—The Main Promoter of Creativity" will be the subject in the second lecture by Victor Lowenfeld, head of art education at Pennsylvania State University, also held in the gallery at Kroeger on Friday, July 17, at 10 a.m.

The last lecture will also be on Friday, from 3:30 to 4 p.m. It will consist of a panel discussion with Owen Redmond as moderator, from the art department of MSU; Thomas Larkin, art education department of U of M; Rosemary Beymer, director of art, Kansas City Public Schools; and Victor Lowenfeld, head of art education at Pennsylvania State University. The panel discussion will be held in 125 Kroeger.

"Impressions of European Art Education" will be discussed next Wednesday in the art department's program, with Professors Lindsey Decker and Grant Swayze speaking.

Carillon Concerts Continue Until July 31

The Carillon Concerts at Beaumont Tower will be continued through July 31, scheduled for 8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays and 4 p.m. on Sundays. At the end of each concert, Wendell Westcott, the carillonneur, will conduct a tour of the carillon. Those interested in the tour should meet at the foot of the tower.

THREE YOUNG ICE SKATERS catch hands and show the form that someday may make them famous on the ice as they practice at the MSU Ice Arena during the summer clinic.

EASTERN NIGERIAN PREMIER Nnamdi Azikiwe and President John A. Hannah discuss MSU's role in the development of the proposed University of Nigeria after ceremonies in the Aud last Friday.

Varied Courses Offered

Comm Arts Students Work Hard, Learn Lot

Much has been accomplished in the Communications Arts Institute by the students enrolled for a four-week stay at MSU.

In the field of forensics the advanced students have been debating on the subject of the federal government and labor regulations. Much research work is done to prepare the students for their seven debates they give in the course.

Although the basic students do not have a chance to debate they learn the fundamentals of debating and give contemporary speeches. The students are given thirty minutes to prepare for their six-minute contemporary speeches.

Friday, the advanced drama students will give two plays in the auditorium. "Torch Bearers," the first play is a slapstick comedy taken from the 1920's.

The second is "Fumed Oaks," a tragic comedy. Three plays also are to be given by the basic students. They will portray a tragedy, "The Little Foxes." The second play is a comedy taken from Oklahoma, "Green Grow the Lilacs," and the last is a real-to-life play, "Stage Door." The students enrolled in the Youth Music Program will end up their stay at MSU by performing at the Band shell Saturday at 2:00 p.m. Some of the students had an opportunity to perform on television and radio.

Planning sections of a yearbook is one of the duties of a journalist signed up in the yearbook department. They have been doing this for the past two weeks.

In the mimeographed newspaper section the students have had an opportunity to put out a one-page edition of the Com-Arts News.

Magazine Honored

MSU was honored Sunday as publisher of one of the nation's best alumni magazines. The award was made at the 44th General Conference of the American Alumni Council at Mackinac Island.

The MSU Magazine was cited for honorable mention in innovation and student categories. Steven Arnett is editor of the magazine.

A Universal Meaning

MSU is a university inhabited by students from all parts of the world. But the Golden Rule, no matter from what country or what religion it stems, has the same universal appeal and meaning. The Golden Rule—The belief in doing unto others as you would have them do unto you is not—as many people seem to think—an exclusively Christian concept of duty or expediency...

Youth Music Workshop Presents Final Concert

Band Shell Program Sat. at 2

Music students attending the Youth Music Workshop will present their final program Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Band Shell, winding up three weeks of intensive study and practice.

The Training Band directed by Charles Hills of Fowlerville, Mich., began the program with a concert entitled, "The Pride of the Land." Following will be "Concert Overture," "Passage in G minor," "American Folk Song," and "American Folk Song" which will conclude this year's program.

Miss Treva Haun, of Grand Rapids will conduct the choral part of the program with "The Lord, Ye Lands," "Aria," "In These Days," "The Pleasant Groves," "A Song of Peace," and "Almighty God of Our Fathers" as selections they will sing.

The orchestra under the direction of Louis Potter, Jr. will play "Symphony in E flat" and "Chaconne from Suite for Piano," and "Suite, Ballet" and "Music for a Funeral" by Debussy, "Suite for Piano" by Chopin, "The Royal Fireworks" by Lully, and "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart.

The program will conclude with a recital of three week season high school music students.

In case of rain, the program will be held in the Auditorium.

To Union 'S' Alumni Add Lounge

A lounge that holds a lot of history has been added to the Union.

During alumni week-end on June 5th, the 1909 class celebrated its golden anniversary. The class donated the money to buy furniture to add a new lounge, to be called the Alumni Lounge.

The lounge is located on the first floor across from the Union Bookstore.

Oriental style is the theme for the room. On the walls are hanging several Japanese pictures. The most outstanding part of the room is a table in it. The table is made out of hundreds of pieces of unbleached wood.

On the top of the table are scenes and personalities of the campus of 50 years ago. In the middle is a circle that has MAC (Michigan Agricultural College) which was the name for the university then. The table was made by John Thoenen of Concord, Tennessee. Thoenen started making the table last Christmas.

Also in the room is a flag that was "stolen" from the platform that Teddy Roosevelt spoke on when he came to MAC over 50 years ago.

The lounge is only to be used by alumni.

the pattern for the world-famous land-grant system in the United States," he said.

"This system of university learning has broadened the base of higher education and spread the concept that university education is something in which all the communities concerned have a stake."

Dr. Azikiwe said that the curricula of many courses in the University of Nigeria will be based on the land-grant college idea.

Speaking for MSU, President John A. Hannah said that the university is gratified that it was called upon to help plan the program of higher education in Nigeria.

"We pledge to him now our fullest cooperation in whatever way this university can be of service to him and to the new institution upon which so many of his hopes are pinned," Dr. Hannah said.

Dr. Azikiwe was cited for his "outstanding achievements as a statesman, author and educator" as President Hannah conferred the honorary degree.

8 Grads Get Fellowships

Six MSU graduates and two from other universities are to receive the first National Defense Act fellowships awarded to MSU.

The fellowships carry stipends of $2,000 the first year, $2,200 the second and $2,400 the third. In addition each fellow receives $400 a year for each dependent. MSU receives up to $2,500 each for each fellow to cover the costs of his education. The grants are made by the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Holders of the five fellowships in the College of Business and Public Service are Herbert Alspaugh, William Dill, Jr., and Marvin Carter, all East Lansing residents; Ernest Hanson, Detroit 11; and Gary Marple, St. Maries.

Fellowships in the Department of Business Administration are Donald Fick, Kenosha, Wis.; Donald J. Houghton, and Jerome Goldsmith, Dayton, Ohio.

Zoology Prof Writes Text

Karl Stiles, head of the zoology department, is author of the seventh edition of "Hegener's College Zoology," just published by the Macmillan Company.

This is the second edition written by Dr. Stiles. The 46-volume book was started by Dr. Robert H. Hegener, professor of zoology at Johns Hopkins University, who died in 1942.

The most widely used biology text in America, the book is said to have been used by more American zoologists than any other text-book.

Dr. Stiles is author or co-author of 10 books.

300 Orchids in Hort Greenhouses

Hawaii has nothing on the horticultural greenhouses as far as orchids go, because approximately 300 varieties of orchids are growing in the greenhouses at Michigan State University. The plants are kept in a very humid climate. They like a temperature of about 60 to 70 degrees in slightly shaded areas.

These conditions are not available in Michigan, so here the plants must grow to an age of seven years before they are strong enough to produce their first blossoms.

Because of their unusual habits, the plants are used quite a bit for study. Their greater food and water requirements make it possible for some varieties to live entirely on what they obtain from the air. For convenience though, the plants are kept in pots filled with the bark of fir trees.

Alums Supply Museum With Different Exhibits

Exhibits from the far corners of the world sent in by MSU alumni are now on display in the MSU Museum.

Part of the great collection of birds, insects, and mammals in the museum has been contributed by Dr. D. S. Bullock, Bullock, an alumnus of MSU now in Chile, has been sending collections of birds and mammals of Chile to the museum for 30 years.

The collection of birds that he has sent totals around 150-200 birds. Among them are some of the typical Chilean birds—such as the Chilean penguin, and many birds that are of the same species as those of North America, but with different coloration and plumage.

In his collections of mammals he has sent a mudu, which is a full-grown deer no larger than a dog, a sloth, and many other typical Chilean mammals. There is also a varied collection of Chilean insects, and several study skins. All these are used either as exhibits in the museum for the students or they are used in connection with the natural science classes.

Another alumnus of MSU who has contributed to the museum is Lewis Zimmerman of Traverse City.

Museum Shows Stone Ages

Rocks Hold Secrets of World

Perhaps the most fascinating story told to man is told not in leaves of paper but in the rocks and sediments of earth. This great story is being reconstructed in the hall of Paleontology in the lower floor of the Museum by a series of paintings showing each of the 16 geological periods, or epochs starting with the Cambrian period of 550 million years ago and advancing in successive stages to the Pleistocene period which directly preceded the present day.

In order that this story may be more intelligible to mankind, scientists have divided it into what might be termed "books" and "chapters." The books would be the eras such as Pre-Cambrian, which left few skeletal remains, Paleozoic, which held life that lived in the warm shallow seas, Mesozoic, which was the great age of reptiles and dinosaurs, which is the age of mammals.

Then these periods, or "books," are again divided into "chapters." The Museum exhibit will show 16 of these "chapters," each with a painting done by John Hope, Museum artist at the back of the case, illustrating the animal life of the period, and actual fossil material in the lower part of the case.

The first four cases, which in the warm shallow sea which covered most of the world at that time. In them are shown trilobites, sponges and brachiopods of the earliest period, the Cambrian. In the next case the corals come in, then the Silurian, where fish began to make their appearance—and the Devonian, where the fish multiplied.

Then in the next case, which are contained in the lower part of the exhibit, are the plants that eventually formed the coal that we use today. This period is known as the age of dinosaurs.

We then enter the Mesozoic age of the dinosaurs, which is now being treated in the exhibit. These are quite small and other dinosaurs in size and Tyrannosaurus, probably the most famous of the creatures that ever lived on earth. The skull of the great dinosaur is also shown, in a case by itself.

Then for some reason, which scientists find difficult to explain, the dinosaurs disappeared, and we come to the next era, the Cenozoic, the age of mammals.

Panel Probes Retailing Field

Opportunities Get Better With College Degree

By MARYLOU TREPANIER
 Arthur Fairbanks, personnel director of the S. S. Kresge Co., presented his views on the opportunities of college graduates in the field of retailing and marketing during a panel discussion Monday night at Kellogg Center, sponsored by the Marketing Club.

He was one of a seven-member panel which included: Fred J. Soper, president of the Kellogg Center; Tom Coe, Chicago; Frank J. Woodworth, president of the Kellogg Center; and W. Woodworth, president of the Kellogg Center.

RO Topic Investigated

Information concerning compulsory and voluntary ROTC is being sought from faculty and students by a new committee recently appointed to study the topic.

Chairman Joseph LaFollette, head of the political science department, has requested written or oral communication from faculty members and written statements from students.

The committee resulted following a motion of the Academic Senate that such a group be appointed by the faculty Committee on Committees.

The controversy as to whether ROTC should be compulsory or voluntary at MSU arose winter term following a faculty member's letter published in the State News revealing that a compulsory program is not required by the Morrill Act.

Committee on Future Submits Report

Copies of the report of the All-University Committee on the Future will be published and distributed to members of the faculty after the final report is turned in to President John A. Hannah in August.

The committee made a progress report to the President July 3, and spent July 7-8 discussing its recommendations.

with Dr. Hannah. The publication, a process which will be completed not later than Aug. 1.

Foreign Film Show Don Quixote-Fri. Sat.

Don Quixote, a Spanish picture of gigantic production with humor, wit and satire, faithful to Cervantes' novel, will be presented Friday and Saturday in Fairchild Theatre at 7:30 p.m. Spain's most popular actor, Rafael Bayvel, heads the list of actors.

Millions of Americans now wear contact lenses for normal vision with natural good looks.

The contact lens wearer can now enjoy:

- clearer vision
- eye protection
- natural appearance
- wider field of vision
- all day wearing comfort
- broader sports activities

Johnny Green of Michigan State, the club's 1959 No. 1 draft choice, has signed with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association, it was announced last week.

Green, 6-foot-5, scored 42 points in 23 games for an 18.6 point average as a senior. His career total of 1,062 was the third highest in Michigan State history.

The Spartans' great basketball center had bunions removed from his feet June 24 at Olin hospital.

Coach Fordy Anderson said Green had been bothered with bunions for several years.

"I guess he wanted to get them cleared up before he enters pro ball," Anderson said last week.

Green was a member of the Michigan State team during two Big 10 championship seasons and one second-place finish.

Sports Week

Sports week in review:

BASEBALL—The Detroit Tigers, slumping Lady, fell seven and one-half games away from the American League-leading Cleveland Indians by Tuesday.

Although most of the cripples were back, the humping Bengals lost a doubleheader to Kansas City, 5-0, and 4-0 Thursday. They defeated the Athletics Friday, 5-2. Cien lost to Cleveland in an 8-7 slugfest Saturday night. Sunday the Tigers split a doubleheader with the Indians, winning the first game, 6-2, and losing the second, 8-4.

Fred Hutchinson last week took over as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, replacing Mayo Smith who was fired. By Tuesday, Cleveland had a one game edge over Chicago. Baltimore was four and a half of the pace, and the once-proud New York Yankees were behind by seven games.

A shakeup in the National League found San Francisco leading the league as Milwaukee dropped one and a half games back. Los Angeles, just one game behind the Giants, took over second.

BOXING—Jose Beccerra, cheered on by his wildly-screaming Mexican countrymen, won the world bantamweight championship Wednesday night from Alphonse Halimi in Los Angeles. The little French champion battered Beccerra during the early rounds but the fast pace finally caught up with him in the eighth. Beccerra trapped Halimi on the ropes, then battered him to the canvas for a five-count. Halimi staggered to his feet but Beccerra belted him down in his own corner for the full count.

Welterweight champion Don Jordan took on Oregon's 19-year-old Denny Moyer at Portland for the first time since his 15-round match in his second defense of the title. The outdoor, daylight affair, held in cooperation with Oregon's centennial year celebration, saw Jordan fail to floor his young opponent. The champion took a shelling in the second and fifteenth rounds, but battered Moyer at will much of the time in between.

GOLF—Bud Stevens of Detroit edged dead-game Gene Hunt of Flint for the Michigan Amateur Golf Championship Sunday.

Mike Souchak won the Western Open at Pittsburgh by one stroke over Arnold Palmer.

HORSE RACING—Eddie Arcaro was given a fine ovation when he returned to the saddle Friday for the first time since his near-tragic spill aboard Black Hills in the Belmont Stakes June 13.

Total Traffic, a 32-1 shot, won the Michigan "Mile" Saturday at the DRC in Detroit.

TRACK—The return engagement between Russia and the United States will take place Sunday and Monday at Philadelphia.

Wrestling Trials Here Feature Top Amateurs

The cream of America's amateur wrestling crop is to be in razor sharp condition for the U.S. Pan Am Team tryouts at Michigan State July 30-31 and Aug. 1.

No less than eight of Uncle Sam's best currently are touring behind the iron curtain, competing against the top competitors of the U.S.S.R. And almost all of them have indicated they'll be in East Lansing for the tryouts, immediately following their tour.

Now travelling in Russia are Jerry Hoke, Jim Ferguson, Fritz Fixian, Frank Rosenau, Robert Matella, Terry McCann, Dick Wilson and Newt Coppel. Each is a reigning National AAU champion or a runner-up.

These wrestlers will be approximately 150 U.S. expected to enter the trials which will be held at Men's Intramural Gymnasium, Arena. Competitors will not only from AAU collegiate ranks but from high school and they'll be after teams of eight weight classes.

The arena in the Men's Intramural Building has three mats to be in use simultaneously, and handle up to 2,000 spectators. permanent seats and press-radio facilities.

Serving as manager for will be Fenner, coach of wrestling at Michigan State.

The mat tryouts form half of two Pan Am Games program for Michigan State this summer. Coming next later (Aug. 2-8) will be the swim tryouts for the can team for both men and women, set for State's door pool.

Sixty-Niners over Farm Ops
Animal Husbandry over Univ. Village

No-Niners over Pedagogues
Omnivores over Martin Hall
Sixty-Niners over Slob
Farm Ops over About 1
(Results of Tuesday and Wednesday night games will be published the following week.)

It's Open Until 10 p.m. Students Flock to New IM Pool

The new outdoor pool adjacent to the Men's Intramural Building has been doing a brisk business since it opened last Thursday. Intramural Director Frank Beeman says more than 500 people a day are using the pool, which has an estimated capacity of 500. Beeman announced that the building and pool will be open until 10 p.m. all this week and possibly from now on. The closing time is flexible, dictated by the number of swimmers using it at the normal closing time of 8 p.m. Diving boards arrived Tuesday afternoon and will be installed and adjusted next week, according to Beeman. Use of the diving board awaits the installation of matting either this week or early next week. The IM director asked that users of the pool cooperate in observing the following rules: no smoking on the deck, women must wear bathing caps, shower before swimming to remove suntan oil and refrain from tanning glass containers on the deck. Swimmers are also cautioned to walk carefully to and from locker rooms, where the floor is slippery when wet.

BEST ENGINES!
One of 7 Big Bests Chevy gives you over any car in its field

BEST ECONOMY No doubt about this: a pair of Chevy sixes with Powerglide came in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—getting the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon.

BEST BRAKES Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR*-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.
*National Association for Black Car Advancement and Research

BEST RIDE A few minutes behind the wheel will leave no doubt about this. MOTOR TREND magazine sums it up this way: "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

BEST TRADE-IN Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."
*National Automobile Dealers Association

BEST ROOM Official dimensions reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association make it clear. Chevy's front seat hip room, for example, is up to 8.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST STYLE It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Frank Modine, NCAA All-American, set a new record in the 100-meter dash at the AAU trials in Los Altos, Calif., on Aug. 7. He won the 100-meter dash in 15.8 seconds, breaking the American record set by George Harrison, Stanford swimmer and an indoor AAU winner, who set a mark of 16.2 seconds in these races. Billy Stewart, will not be competing because of his South African citizenship, since these trials are for the U.S. team in the Pan-Am games in Chicago. Michigan's Dick Hanley, who qualified in the 100-meter freestyle in Los Altos, and Dick Blick from North Central (Illinois), an indoor AAU winner, are expected in the 220 freestyle event. Top divers will be Don Hansen, formerly of Ohio State and former NCAA champion, who won in the three-meter diving last weekend. Sam Hall, OSU indoor AAU three-meter titleholder. Ron O'Brien, OSU one-meter champion in the NCAA, and Dick Kimball of the U of M.

Kon Clark is a contender in the events. Clark bettered an American mark in the California Saturday outdoor race at East Lansing.

Blind 'Read' at Library Room With Braille Books, Records

New Machine Gives Students Dot 'Letters'

By MAUREN BARCLAY
Thirty-three volumes make up the dictionary in MSU's library. The book, a Webster's written in Braille, may be found in the reading room for the blind.

In this room are many helps for blind students, including eight cubicles where they may listen to tape recordings, records, or readers, in private. The reading room in the old library, used previous to 1936, did not have this advantage.

Sophomore girls who maintain a 3.5 average and are members of the Tower Guard volunteer to read to the blind. Each student receives this free assistance for 10 hours weekly. Those who have a 3.0 average are awarded a scholarship from the university which enables them to hire readers for additional hours of study.

The cubicles may also be used for writing in Braille with a special machine called a Braille writer. This machine consists of six keys which press different dots into a sheet of paper. It is too noisy for classroom use, but it has several advantages over the customary stylus and slate.

In writing with a stylus, the blind person punches each dot in a sheet of heavy paper, working from right to left. In order to read the writing, he must turn the paper over, as letters are all formed backwards.

With the Braille writer, complete letters can be formed at a time, moving from left to right in the usual manner. This makes it much easier for the blind student to read over the material he is writing and check for mistakes.

Also in the reading room are tape recorders and furniture contributed by the MSU Alumni Assn.

Other facilities are: a 20-volume Braille Bible, copies of various periodicals such as "Catholic Review" and "Reader's Digest," talking book recordings of the classics, a Braille clock with raised hands and numerals, and a Braille map of the campus made and donated by students in the landscape architecture and urban planning department.

This map has the buildings in relief and the walks marked out on heavy cardboard by rows of dots.

MSU averages eight to 10 blind students every year. Most of them have above average grades, as a high scholastic record is necessary in order to get the state aid which many of them receive.

Ag Engineers Get Awards

Two MSU agricultural engineers and one recent graduate have received top awards for scientific papers published by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers in 1958-59.

Carl Hall's paper on materials-handling systems in farm buildings was named one of the five best technical papers entered in the nation-wide competition.

Wesley Buchele, also an MSU faculty member, presented a paper that ranked among the top 10 entries. Buchele reported his research on development of a tandem tractor.

Merwin Beckwith of East Lansing received a $25 award for the second best scientific paper written by an undergraduate. Beckwith, a June graduate of MSU, reported on an investigation of liquid in simulated tractor tires.

Also at the meeting, Hall was named the 1958-60 chairman of the rural electric and processing division of the nation-wide agricultural engineering society. E. H. Kidder, also of MSU, was named national chairman of the society's soil and water division.

Merely Adequate

Concert by Carpenter Lacks Exciting Style

By SUZETTE RAMSEY

Pianist Richard Carpenter had some exciting music prepared, but failed to transfer its emotion on the keyboard in the first of the summer Lecture-Concert Series presentations last Thursday.

Carpenter was precise and adequate, but lacked the style necessary to make a name for himself. However, the concert was pleasant and enjoyed by the nearly-full house in the Music Aud.

The first piece, "Sonata in F Minor, Opus 57" by Beethoven, commonly termed "Appassionata" because of its turbulent, constant drive coupled with a quieter theme, lost some of its fervor in Carpenter's mechanical plodding. Carpenter likewise lost the mood of the following Chopin piece, "Variations Brillantes, Opus 12."

Probably the most interesting piece was "Variations on a Theme of Beethoven for the Left Hand Alone" by Ravenolle, a novelty selection as only one hand was employed. The music was so varied that it gave the effect of both hands being used.

Carpenter played two Liszt selections, "Sonnetto del Petrarca, No. CLVI" and St. Francis of Paula Walking on the Waves." The latter illustrated the saint's walking across stormy seas and was effective in this portrayal. Albeniz's "Cordoba" was light, but uninspired. Saint-Saens' "Etude en Forme de Valse" was a colorful, varied piece, but again, played mechanically.

Carpenter also played two encores, "Girl with the Flaxen Hair" by Debussy and "Prelude in A Flat" by Chopin.
