Caucuses Thresh Out Stopgap

Governor to Stand By Income Tax

LANSING (AP)—An uneasy quiet prevailed in the Capitol Wednesday night in advance of the legislature's return to wade into the emergency tax problem.

Pre-session caucuses today will start thrashing out a stop-gap, hurry up revenue program to make up for all or part of the loss suffered by nullification of the use tax increase.

Republicans were expected to shoot for a tax package made up of "bits and pieces" that would yield less than the $10 million dollars a year Gov. Williams says is needed.

The governor was busy working on a special message to the lawmakers. It was expected to be largely a restatement of the problem and views he has expressed in recent days.

Williams confirmed that he would stand by his earlier recommendation for an income tax as the best solution but will express eagerness to cooperate with the GOP in an effort to get a speedy answer.

Meanwhile, a task force of assistant attorney general worked on the governor's request on an analysis of the proposed one percent wholesaler tax from a constitutionality standpoint.

The study reportedly led to a grave question of constitutionality if the levy should be adopted in the form proposed by two Republican senators last June 24.

One of the main defects, it was felt, was a provision to collect a use tax on tangible personal property brought into the state from outside and thus not directly subject to a tax on gross receipts of Michigan wholesalers and manufacturers.

This phase of the proposal apparently raised a question of clearing an undue burden on interstate commerce in violation of the U.S. Constitution.

Clarence Lock, Deputy State Revenue Commissioner, said that if the use tax feature were deleted from the bill it might have its prospective yield.

The most attractive thing about the wholesale levy has been its estimated yield of $5 million dollars—an annual basis, or about $3.3 million in the remainder of the 1959-60 fiscal year.

Sen. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, Republican majority leader, said he didn't want to talk about any of 25 tax possibilities until he had gone over the last with colleagues.

Sen. John Fitzgerald (R-Grand Ledge) said he wasn't pushing any solution, but will bring a spirit of cooperation to the GOP caucus and felt the people expected a prompt solution.

It was understood there was some Republican sentiment for trying to partly close the gap between anticipated income and appropriations by temporarily cutting back on money voted for the state's share in school teachers and state employees' pensions.

Junior Council consists of representatives from the Junior class and is the governing body for all junior class affairs. The group is responsible for such events as J-Hop, Block 8, the All-University United Nations, and various other activities.

The nuclei of the group are the class officers who were elected in the spring. They include: president, Dave Bieber, Detroit; vice president, Terry Davis, Charlevoix; treasurer, Mary Eberhart, Richmond; and secretary, Mugs Fleischer, Detroit.

Remaining committee members include: Co-chairman for J-Hop, Bonnie Lastello, Detroit; and Arnie Roberts, Merion Pa.; Block 8, Jim Kirkendall, Burlington, Ind.; public relations, Bill Mitchell, Rocky River, Ohio; member-at-large, Jim Frink, Rochester, and Pat Day, Saginaw; outstanding junior awards, Mary Hannah, East Lansing; State News, Annette Krause, Grosse Pointe; special events, Marcie Pietrie, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; and publicity, Linda Templeton, Fillard, Ohio.

Serving as faculty advisor to the J Council is Donald Gemmel, foreign students advisor.

Among present activities of the J Council are preparations for the J-Hop, Feb. 13. Committee signups will soon be completed so work can begin this month. Bands are in the process of being interviewed.

In public relations, a periodic newsletter is being distributed to all living units to keep the students informed of junior class activities.

Block 8, which is undergoing a thorough revamping this year with the help of Biggy Munn, athletic director, performed at the Notre Dame and Indiana games. Programs are worked out with the band to insure precision. The block is entirely of freshmen.

A new advantage of the club is that it is open to all students with an interest in management, including freshmen, who were not accepted previously, according to President Bill Phillip.

Court Turns Down Injunction Request

Supreme Court Lets Delay Stand in Steel Strike Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused Wednesday to require the Steelworkers Union to hurry its appeal from an order that would end the 106-day-old steel strike.

This probably means the strike will drag on at least into next week.

In a brief order giving no reasons, the high court rejected a government request that the back-to-work injunction become effective promptly if the union did not file its appeal by noon today.

By so doing, the Supreme bench let stand a six-day delay granted the union by an appeals court in Philadelphia Tuesday when it upheld the back-to-work order issued earlier by a federal district judge in Pittsburgh. That delay—intended to give the union time to carry its case to the Supreme Court—is due to expire next Monday.

The ruling came a little more than seven hours after the Justice Department had formally requested the court to lose no time and uphold the back-to-work order.

Attention Seniors!

All seniors interested in discussing senior finals will meet tonight at 8:30, Union Art Room. Members of Mortar Board, Excalibur and Senior Council are urged to attend.

work order "so that the emergency created by the steel strike may not continue longer than absolutely necessary."

The Steelworkers Union's lawyers opposed the speedup procedure sought by the government, contending there are serious statutory and constitutional issues involved and that these require unhurried consideration.

Arthur Goldberg, the union's counsel, filed a document questioning the high court's right to take the case at this stage. The union said a delay of a few more days, even a few more weeks, would not irreparably harm the national interest.

Professors Discover Differences

Churchgoers Can't Agree in Own Setting

Many church members do not go along with the beliefs of their denominations, according to research by Drs. Hans Toch and Robert Anderson.

Generally, the two researchers say, persons of certain denominations are supposed to have certain religious beliefs.

But such, they find, is often not the case. They point out that there are leading Catholics who are existentialists and Methodist clergymen who smoke and drink.

Anderson, assistant professor of religion, and Toch, assistant professor of psychology, surveyed a religion class as part of a project to find a tool for measuring religious beliefs.

The 42 students in the class were grouped into five types according to similarity in agreement or disagreement with 101 statements.

Each of the statements had been judged "liberal" or "con-

Voluntary ROTC Given Favor

Student Congress Wednesday passed an record as the second MSU body in favor of voluntary ROTC. Congress passed legislation to approve changes suggested by its study commission a voice vote with few dissenters.

The Committee on the Future of the University earlier recommended abolishing the compulsory ROTC, and Academic Senate will vote the question next week.

The long-range aims of the plan passed by Congress would include throwing out present compulsory requirements. The goal is a gradual change, with a strengthening of the ROTC program before it is made voluntary.

Also, a one-term credit course is suggested as a requirement for all students, male and female, to cover current aspects of political-military affairs. Foreign students and veterans would be exempted.

There was no discussion whatever on the section referring to an eventual voluntary program. The proposed required course, however, was subject to lengthy questioning, new suggestions, and several amendments.

Rep. Chuck Herbert (Lansing) moved to delete the section recommending the required course. He argued that the committee's proposal seemed basically to orient new freshmen to the ROTC program. This should be done, he said, in high school.

Tarbell referred to the "barage" of information about the military received by high school seniors. Several Congress members, however, disputed his point.

Rep. John Horne (Armstrong) said the information was more like a "mirage" than barrage. Herbert's amendment was rejected after further discussion.

Considerable objection was offered to making the course compulsory for women and physically disabled men.

Rep. Jane Bingham (sorsort) stressed that coeds would not have to "run laps around a field" or engage in any such activity. Rep. Labby Vail (Gilechrist) pointed out the woman's need to be aware of military affairs as an active citizen and "head of the family."

Amendments to exempt coeds and those physically disabled were defeated, after representatives pointed out that such a course would be not limited to military concerns. Instead it would involve current world and national affairs and the relation of the military to these.

Some representatives felt this ought to be done in third term social science, required of all Basic College students, in which governments and political affairs are considered.

Rep. Barbara Whipple (Lansing) suggested that a course on world affairs be required but be a different thing entirely. The ROTC program would then, she recommended, have a separate course for orientation of those eligible to take it.

Recommendations for immediate change include lengthening of summer camp to eliminate technical courses from campus curriculum, substituting instruction by departments other than ROTC in certain courses; providing regular consultation of ROTC departments with local faculty on curriculum matters.

The Congress recommendations will be submitted to the Board of Trustees, President John A. Hannah and the ROTC departments.

March on Lansing Offers No Solution

The Michigan Daily, Tuesday, October 27, 1959:

MARCH

Dan Arnold, '59E, will ask Student Government council tomorrow night to back one of two proposals protesting the state's tax inertia and its effects on higher education.

We have heard rumblings, but only rumblings, of similar going on this campus.

ARNOLD EXPLAINED his proposals were prompted by comments from President John A. Hannah, "who declared MSU will probably have to close its doors by Jan. 1 unless tax revenues were found."

Arnold's proposals seem to be the result of an emotional reaction, based on a pure misinterpretation of the statements of MSU's president.

Dr. Hannah actually said nothing of the sort. As the State News pointed out, Hannah mentioned the possibility of closing MSU in January, along with that of sending home 30 percent of the students, as the two alternatives available to the university if general fund appropriations were cut back.

HE WENT ON TO reject completely any such action, carefully showing that closing MSU would result in loss, rather than gain, of money.

Apparently many people, including some MSU students, U of M's Dan Arnold and reporters for certain Michigan newspapers, failed to follow Hannah's statement to its conclusion.

Reporters, in haste to make deadlines, or students, in emotional excitement, did not discern that these alternatives were stated for consideration—then tossed out.

An untempered reaction to these misinterpretations might be expected—of the mental patients, but not of university students.

MSU'S BOARD OF TRUSTEES Thursday discussed sending a strongly worded recommendation to state officials informing them of the seriousness of our situation and urging them to act quickly to relieve it.

Further consideration showed that such a move would be merely "getting into the act." The legislators are certainly well aware of the needs of the state and particularly of the state universities.

Governor Williams has spoken confidently that the legislature will find ways and means to meet essential budget commitments without crippling cuts.

President Hannah has pointed out the utter folly of closing MSU or any state universities.

Marching on the Capitol is no solution to the tax problem Michigan is facing. It could do nothing more than add to the confusion. We are gratified to see that students are concerned and are not viewing the situation with indifference. But they are certainly above such a display.

Letters to the Editor 'Pity Michigan's Leaders, They Need It,' Student Says

To the Editor: I suppose I would be making a rash statement if I were to say that in the near future someone, somewhere, would be writing an obituary for the state of Michigan. But it is not fast-fetched to say that this state is dying, dying because the man we have elected to run our state government have done little or nothing to solve the cash crisis which was brought to the public eye about nine months ago.

The Supreme Court has declared this essentially Republican tax law unconstitutional, by a vote of five Democrats to three Republicans, or maybe I shouldn't say that. After all Williams has said that these justices did not vote by party lines, and we should not believe anyone who says they did.

'58 Rookie of the Year Is '59 Leading Soph

NEW YORK (AP) — Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants, the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1958, Wednesday was named the circuit's leading sophomore of 1959. He edged Vada Pinson of Cincinnati in the annual Associated Press poll.

Cepeda collected 86 of the 172 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America. Pinson drew 66.

Cepeda, 22, a native of Ponce, Puerto Rico, batted 317 with 27 homers and 105 runs batted in. This was a better performance than his rookie campaign, when he wound up with a .312 average, 25 homers and 96 RBI. There was an additional difference. In 1958, Cepeda was used exclusively at first base. The past season, he was shifted to the outfield when the sensational Willie McCovey was inserted at first early in August.

Dick Stuart of Pittsburgh was third in the balloting with six votes. He was followed by Jim Davenport of San Francisco and Tony Taylor of Chicago, four each; Willie Kirkland of San Francisco and Glen Hobbie of Chicago, two each and Don Demeter, Los Angeles, one.

One selector placed Cepeda and Pinson in a tie.

Marciano Likes Miami for Return Heavyweight Bout

WEST HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Rocky Marciano expressed interest Wednesday in promoting a return heavyweight championship fight in Miami between titleholder Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson.

"I talked with Gov. (LeRoy) Collins and he gave me the go-ahead to get the ball rolling to try to get the fight for Miami," the former heavyweight king said.

"My motives at present are strictly of a good will and publicity nature for Florida," Marciano said, adding that he had no connection with New York promoters.

Vincent Velella, who holds a rematch contract now, recently visited Miami and talked about renting the Orange Bowl for the title fight.

"I'm close to Johansson," Marciano said, "and I know he would like to fight in Miami."

Wyoming, Montana Hit Hard

NCAA Council Cracks Down

BOSTON (AP) — The NCAA Wednesday slapped Wyoming and Montana State College with probation sentences for violation of the group's rules on recruiting and financial aid to athletes. The action brought to four the number of schools so penalized by the group during its three-day meeting.

Hamline University of St. Paul, Minn., was censured and reprimanded by the NCAA council, policy-directing body for the 530-member organization for violating rules on try-outs.

Wyoming, currently leading the Skyline Conference in football, drew a one-year probation sentence, and its football team was declared ineligible for any post-season bowl games. As Skyline Conference champion last season, Wyoming played in the Sun Bowl game at El Paso, Tex., and was considered a likely candidate for invitation this year.

In Laramie, Wyo., Wyoming head football coach Bob Donovan said he will appeal the decision.

"We don't think we violated the NCAA code and we've been trying to play it straight," he said.

Wyoming's football team also was made ineligible for any television programs controlled by the NCAA.

Montana State was placed on probation for two years, was made ineligible for any NCAA national championships and denied participation in any invitational events held in cooperation with the NCAA, including post-season football bowl games.

Montana State also was placed on probation for two years for playing in a bowl game without NCAA approval.

Monday, Arizona State University at Tempe was placed on probation for two years, University of Mississippi, year.

Executive Director Byers said 13 other schools being held in abeyance, not identify the schools, dictate when these cases decided.

OSU Has Tackle Problem

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—Coaches of the Spartans, Woody Hayes and Jim Harter, are looking for a tackle to replace the injured Dick Michael, probably the best tackle in the Big Ten, who was injured in a game with Michigan State last Saturday.

Tackle Jim T. ... Hayes said that White still is a tackle, but his bruised leg and weight are an added question mark.

Linemen Loom Big For All-American

CHICAGO (AP)—You have to be in the line to find the solid all-America candidates in the Midwest this football season.

It has been years since linemen have stolen the spotlight from backfield performers the way they have in this area in 1959.

A prime example is Wisconsin's powerful tackle, Dan Lannephan, named the AP's lineman of the week for his superlative performance against Ohio State last Saturday.

But there are many other top all-America candidates from the ranks of the linemen. Wisconsin's Badgers, still in contention for the Big 10 title, have another great tackle in Jim Heinicke and a fine guard in Jerry Stalup.

At ends, the selection board has scratched its head over Jim Houston of Ohio State, Morny Stickle of Notre Dame, Don Norton of Iowa and Earl Faison of Indiana.

As for backfield men, there mainly has been a sudden burst here and a sudden burst there for all-America recognition. Perhaps exceptions to this are halfback Dwight Nichols, the blazing little dynamo from Iowa State, and quarterback Dale Hackbart of Wisconsin, fighting injury most of the season.

Northwestern's John Talley, who almost single-handedly defeated Notre Dame last Saturday, got a call at quarterback as did Michigan State's improving Dean Lusk.

Wings, Leafs Play Deadlocks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Andy Hebenston, Andy Bathgate and Camille Henry beat Terry Sawchuk, Detroit's star goalie, in the third period Wednesday night to give the New York Rangers a 3-3 tie with the Red Wings in Madison Square Garden.

Thoroughly outclassed by the Wings, New York caught fire in the fourth minute of the third period. With Jim Morrison off for holding, Henry sent a 35-foot slap shot past Sawchuk at 3:39.

A minute later Sawchuk

The Rangers continued to put on the pressure and in the next five minutes tied the score. In Toronto, Dick Duff's third period goal pulled the Toronto Maple Leafs into a 1-1 tie with Montreal Wednesday and left the Canadians' National Hockey League lead at four points over Detroit. Maurice Richard scored for Montreal.

Rookies Pace Pistons

DETROIT (AP)—Rookies Bailey Howell and Gary Alcorn teamed up in pacing Detroit to a 117-102 victory over the Syracuse Nationals Wednesday night in the first home game of the season for the Pistons before 4,972 fans.

House to Discuss Space

Committee Schedules Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Space Committee will try in January to determine whether the United States can take the lead in space explorations or must "continue to play second fiddle."

Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) Wednesday announced that as the goal of extensive hearings, expected to last at least a month, that the committee will begin when Congress reconvenes.

Brooks' committee is the first congressional group to schedule hearings on America's space efforts since the recent spectacular Soviet moon shots and announcement of plans to reorganize part of the U.S. space program.

Brooks, in a statement announcing plans for the hearings, said:

"It shall be our aim to probe every facet of the program to determine:

"1. Why this nation is lagging behind in the exploration of space, and;

"2. What steps can be taken to place the United States where it belongs in the forefront."

Among others, Brooks said the committee especially wants answers to these questions:

1. Does the United States have a national space program?
2. What does the Eisenhower Administration plan to do with the Saturn program? This is an Army project to develop a rocket with 1 1/2 million pounds of thrust, several times more powerful than anything the Russians are known to have developed.

3. What will become of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., now that the Werner von Braun team has been transferred to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration?

4. To what extent do military and civilian space agencies coordinate their work?

5. Exactly what will be the future mission of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and the advanced research projects agency, the Pentagon's space arm, in the exploration of space?

6. Are sufficient funds being provided for both the military and civilian space programs?

7. Does the Administration plan to subordinate either the civilian space activities or those of the military?

Fishel Returns from Visit

In 22 Viet Nam Provinces

Dr. Wesley Fishel, MSU political scientist, has recently returned from an extensive visit to Viet Nam. A former chief of the MSU advisory group in that country, he spent the past summer visiting 22 of the 38 provinces in South Viet Nam.

According to Fishel this push westward is solidifying and stabilizing the Cambodian and Laotian frontiers as well as providing larger homesteads for some 52,000 Vietnamese.

Visiting Professor Predicts Future Gratis Medical Care

A free-medical-care-for-everyone program is sure to come to the United States, according to a visiting professor at MSU.

It may be 15 or 20 years, but perhaps sooner, believes Dr. Walter Friedlander, who is with the School of Social Work for the academic year.

A professor emeritus at the University of California, Berkeley, Friedlander has been involved in many phases of social welfare work since he earned the Ph.D. degree at the University of Berlin in 1920.

He maintains that American medicine has "the highest moral and material standards" but that the American Medical Assn. is too opposed to free medical care plans.

The rapid and spectacular accomplishments of medical science, he contends, make it necessary to find a way of making them more readily available to the public.

"The present system is not fair," he said. "People under public assistance are not but the person with an however small, must medical treatment, even it may wipe out his life and put him in heavy debt. A step in the right direction is a bill in Congress which would provide free medical care for sons on federal aid age benefits.

Traffic Point Changes

In order to provide improved service to the residents of Spartan Village who drive from their residences to the campus during the 8 a.m.-1 p.m. peak traffic periods, the department of public safety has changed its traffic control point on Harris Road from North Crescent Road to South Crescent Road, according to Richard Bernitt, head of the office of protective services.
