Lone Man Survives Death Flight

Waynesboro, Va. (AP)—A Piedmont Airlines plane missing since Friday with 27 persons aboard was found shattered on a heavily wooded ledge in the Blue Ridge Mountains Sunday.
Only one person survived, 33-year-old E. Phil Bradley of Clifton Forge, Va. He was found sitting conscious in his seat, which had been tossed a few feet from the wreckage, trapped there for two nights and a day. The plane did not burn but it hit with "a pretty hard impact," reported David Thompson of New York, Civil Aeronautics Board chief of the Middle Atlantic area.
"It was pretty well destroyed," he said.
Thompson said several of the passengers were still in their seats, which, like Bradley's, had been tossed clear of the wreckage.
The wreckage, he said, was scattered over a small area, no more than 75 yards long.
"CAB" experts were probing through the wreckage trying to determine what caused the crash.
"The plane search, hampered by rainy weather, began shortly after the plane disappeared on a flight from Washington as it was approaching a landing at Charlottesville at 8:24 p.m. EST Friday.
An Air Force helicopter spotted the wreckage four miles west of Crozet and 18 miles west of Charlottesville.

Texan Arrives To Try to Cap Wild Oil Well

JONESVILLE (AP)—A trouble-shooter from Texas will try tomorrow to cap a wild oil well that has been shooting a geyser of oil and gas since Friday night.
Boots Henderson from the Red Adair Co. in Houston which specializes in such work, said he would wait until daylight before trying the risky work.
Ever present is the fear, that a spark might touch off an explosion in the charged area. While there are no homes within a half mile of the well, trees and shrubs are drenched with oil.
Some 50,000 barrels of oil soaking into the ground has broken through a makeshift earth dam and is seeping toward Harding Lake.
An estimated 3,000 barrels an hour are erupting unchecked from the well. Perry Faulk of Albion, the owner, estimated the well was costing $150,000 a day.
Clad in slickers and boots, Henderson and a six-man team of local experts, made a hasty exit from under the well rig when two sight-seeing planes flew low over the area to get a look.
Any spark from the plane could have touched off an explosion. State police were investigating the incident.
The well, known as the Fabuk Mann No. 1, is located about 2 1/2 miles north of this Hillsdale County community in southeastern Michigan.

Let's Watch Earth; Mars Is Secondary

AMERICANS TODAY TALK of Sputniks, Atlas missiles and space ships. They are, in short, enthusiastic about the possibilities of getting to the moon and searching for strange green men on Mars...

This lack of knowledge is a glaring omission in the studies of so many students. Each day the world grows smaller and the affairs of countries formerly distant and unknown to America become subjects of current events.

Americans wonder how and why Cuban revolutions occur. Americans read the headlines and see Communism, Nasser and Nehru confronting them. But they stop at the headlines; they rarely dig into the cultures of foreign peoples to find the why's and how's of the headlines.

It becomes more important every minute that we understand cultures based on such vastly different suppositions from the United States. Each day India, Ceylon and China. If one were to say a government is not democratic simply because it isn't like the United States, he would be overlooking the fact that every country attempts to fulfill human desires through institutions different from our own.

HIS LACK OF UNDERSTANDING stems from the fact that he is so wrapped up in national, or perhaps even local, affairs, that he fails to try to see things from the other country's point of view.

MSU offers not only a varied foreign studies program, but also has an active international club composed of students from all over the world. The university has set up assistance programs in South Viet-Nam, Colombia, Japan, Pakistan and Costa Rica. In the near future it is hoped a cooperative program for undergraduates and graduate students can be arranged with the University of Florence, Italy.

Every student should include at least one foreign study in his program, for in this way he can equip himself for effective interaction between societies. He should, if possible, participate in international club activities to gain first-hand information about different cultures.

Strangely, study of this nature also provides new insight into one's own heritage, for understanding one's culture comes not only from study of its foundations, but also from study of contrasting patterns of others.

Enough Exits in Kedzie?

Thursday night's tragic explosion and fire at Kedzie Lab brings to mind last year's Chicago parochial school fire. Thursday three students were seriously injured—one is still in critical condition. Last year in Chicago, 90 persons, 87 school children and three nuns, lost their lives.

A major factor in the high Chicago death toll was the lack of an adequate number of exits to the building. It is hard to say to what degree the single door to the organic research lab affected the extent of injuries to students involved here.

But it has been admitted that if the explosion had occurred near the door, all working in the rest of the lab would have been trapped. To deplore the lack of adequate safety precautions is only too obvious in this case.

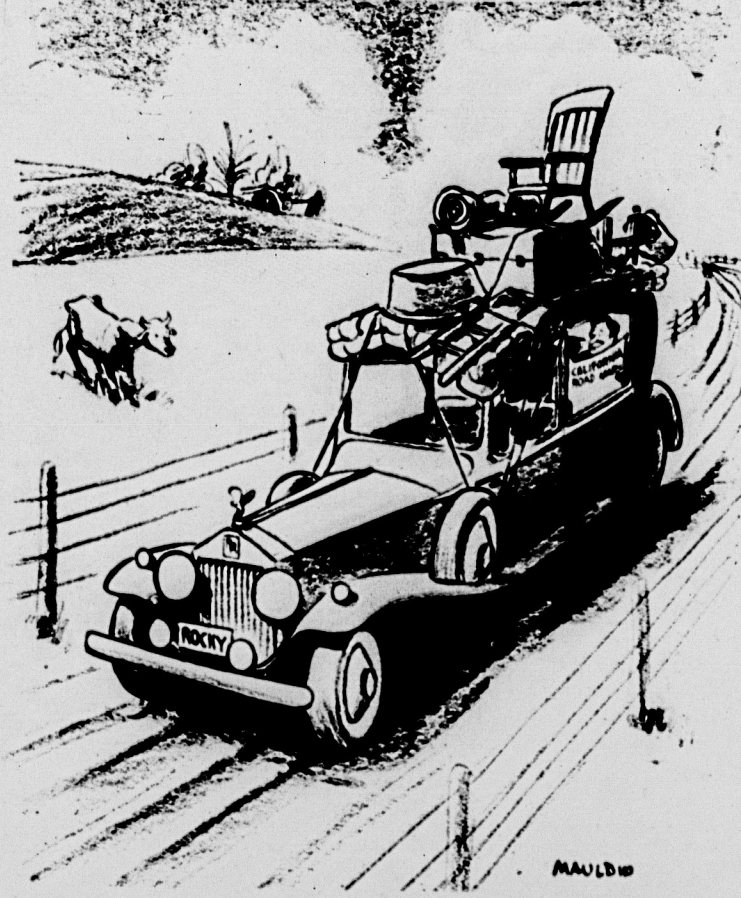

That it takes critical injury to far university citizens and those who must provide needed funds into action on outdated, hazardous facilities is dire reflection on those responsible.

May we add our voices in deep sympathy for Thursday's victims.

Blames State's Cash Crisis On Republican Party Policy

To the Editor:

In view of the fact that the present financial difficulties of our State directly influence the student body of MSU, a clarification of the events leading to the present situation should be provided.

Early this year a bipartisan committee, consisting of citizens from all walks of life, was formed by Governor Williams. Its function was to study the existing tax structure, and to suggest what legislation would best suit the state's needs.

The committee made three major proposals: eliminate the numerous nuisance taxes, abolish the three per cent sales tax on food, and initiate a graduated income tax. As the result of thorough investigation, the committee decided that these were the fairest and most economical methods of solving the state's financial problems.

When the new legislature convened, the Democrats had control of the House, while the Republicans had the majority in the Senate. The Republicans decided to ignore the recommendations of the Citizens Committee.

Instead they advocated a one per cent use tax, and an increase in some minor taxes. The Democrats, on the other hand, wanted to follow the advice of the Citizens Committee. They opposed the Republican suggestions, believing that such a tax program would be disproportionately burdensome to the average wage earner and probably unconstitutional. This resulted in a protracted and costly deadlock.

The state then put them into immediate effect, allowing revenue to be collected. This temporarily relieved the cash crisis. However, last week the bill, as feared, was declared unconstitutional. This decision threw the state into the turmoil in which we now find ourselves embroiled.

The Republicans led the state into financial chaos. They did this without a mandate from the people to dictate legislation. (They didn't receive a majority at the polls) and without following any of the suggestions of the bipartisan Citizens Committee. Clearly, the blame for the situation which now exists, can be attributed to the policy of the Michigan Republican Party.

'Have Right To Petition'

To the Editor:

Aside from the specific question of marching on Lansing, on which I am not stating my opinion, I would like to take issue with the general attitude conveyed in the editorial of October 28.

According to the writer, a proposal for a march on Lansing could only be the result of an "emotional reaction" and untempered reaction of mental patients, etc.

He concludes very pointedly that we are "certainly above such a display." I would like to know exactly what "such a display" includes. From another paragraph I conclude that he means university students shouldn't get into the act at all.

Well, then what other acts is it acceptable for them to get into, if any? Perhaps social issues which don't affect them personally?

Certainly there is no issue which presses upon us more urgently. We are not "above all this," we are right in the middle of it, whether we like it or not.

In fact one might suggest that if the college and university students and other people did "get into the act" they might make a very valuable contribution toward solving Michigan's financial problem.

Protests Inaction

To the Editor:

I have read your editorial of Oct. 28 on the student reaction to the poorly reported remarks of President Hanan about the possibilities that they might have to close down the school. I must protest.

One of the first reactions of the legislature will be to examine the budgets of all state institutions and see where cuts can be made. It should be obvious that enormous pressures on the part of various interest groups in the state have been brought to bear on the legislature to cut the state budget.

In this situation, for you to claim that students have no interest in acquainting the legislative committees with our feelings on the future of this institution, and of her sister institutions in the state is tantamount to admission that we have no interest in their welfare and future. You imply that it is beneath our dignity to petition. When is it ever beneath the dignity of a free man to petition?

You imply that we should trustfully leave all in the hands of the legislature and at the same time imply that the situation is now so confused that our voices added to the din will befuddle our "state fathers."

Why should we trust the future to their good offices without doing that which all other interest groups in the state regularly do with paid lobbyists, namely attempt to bring our particular problems and needs before the legislature for its consideration.

Many of us are now citizens and taxpayers, all of us soon will be. Your advice for us stems from a mindless notion that we can be mature by being sheep. We should all sign, and all circulate these petitions. A demonstration (which I suspect is the word that put you off) may in our present political climate be unwise, but the right of petition surely is sacred enough not to alarm.

The problem is not the cash crisis, nor (for us) what kind of taxes are to be raised. The problem is simply the yearly budget which this institution will have to operate under next year. That is what we should petition about.

Post-War Poland Setting of Now

The 8th Day of the Week Mark Hlasko Signet Book

A film based on the book will be shown tonight at Fairchild

Many students on American campuses will be familiar with the problem faced by Agnes and Peter, the two principal characters in this book. It is the agonizing and fruitless search of two young people for a place, any place, where they might enjoy each other's company in privacy for a little while, and the physical and emotional frustrations resulting from the fact that no such place is found.

There is a difference, of course. Agnes and Peter are denied their privacy not because of a repressive moral code, but because of the desperate housing shortage and generally squalid conditions prevailing in a country ruined by war and foreign occupation, and governed by a regime caring little or not at all about the happiness of its individual citizens.

All the more remarkable is that postwar misery, communist rule and the mood of bottomless desperation depicted in Hlasko's book could produce problems similar to those of an affluent, satiated society. How dissimilar the two societies, and yet both of them severely restrain the free expression of certain human needs and emotions and thus trespass on rights and violate dignities that ought to be inalienable.

Mark Hlasko, one of Poland's new Young Men (he recently left his country and is now living in France) is unaware that societies other than his own practice such repression, blames the conditions of post-war Poland for the agonies his heroes suffer. His book is, therefore, a desperate cry of accusations against the pettiness, squalor and the misery of contemporary Polish life, also against the hollow phrases and empty promises of an unpopular regime.

Some readers will be shocked by the savage brutality with which he tears the veil off the face of sordidness and ugliness, repelled by his blunt description of scenes to which our culture prefers to give the silent treatment. But the coarse naturalism of the story is born from noble sympathy, from a throbbing compassion for the misery and anguish which impose on their fellow men.

To anyone familiar with government censorship, wherever it may be practiced, and especially to those acquainted with rigid puritanism, the Soviet attitudes toward sex, the appearance of a book in communist Poland, remarkable and worthy event.

Even more remarkable is the fact that the film, which shall have the distinction between Poland and German film makers, many indications of natural and intellectual communist Poland, is akin to the West, and other countries of the orbit.

Storm's Death Toll Rises

Hurricane Claims 3 Americans

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A toll of more than 100 may be counted in the hurricane and floods that hit two Pacific Coast states in Central Mexico, the Mexican government said today night.

The storm hit Tuesday, knocking out communications, and details of the scope of the disaster now are beginning to emerge.

Struck by the winds and rains were the states of Colima and Jalisco. Rescue efforts were being speeded for the stricken areas.

Reports to the office of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos said that as many as 800 persons are believed to be dead in Minatitlan, a community of about 10,000 Colima. The town is 24 miles west of the capital city Colima. Earlier reports had said 500 died there.

American women were among nine passengers aboard a coastal vessel that put out to sea to escape the hurricane and apparently sank. Agents of the missing 1,800-ton ship said 11 of the crew of 20 had been picked up at sea.

There is no word of others or even definite information that the vessel went down.

American bodies identified by Mrs. Lucille Pettit of Lansing, Calif., and two ex-husbands, Mrs. Margaret G. and Mrs. F. R. Harris, both Michigan, Mexico.

The ship was moved from port of Manzanillo when it was apparent the hurricane was bearing down directly on the coastal region.

Seven survivors from the coastal vessel received medical treatment in a Manzanillo hospital.

The ship carried a crew of 29 and 19 passengers.

The survivors said the hurricane hit the ship five hours before it left Manzanillo. The ship and crew were quickly moved to the ship's rudder and toward engine. Finally, the ship sank 75 miles southeast of Manzanillo.

An interview with the Mexican newspaper Novedades, a woman told of clinging to a log in the water for 26 hours before they were picked up by States of Charlie Brown. With the spirit of the Great Pumpkin, MSU students headed for the town of Landon, Mich., for the annual Halloween party. Linus, the character from the comic strip, was the inspiration for the party.

The first annual October season of good will got an early start Thursday night when residents of Landon paraded with the town's brass band on West Circle Drive.

of families. Christmas Eve, the serenaders made their way around the group of homes west of the Union before finally winding through the Gothic entrance to the town. All were garbed in white sheets except for a few "Peanut Butter" that straggled behind in more methodical clothing. In addition, they carried the usual supply of broomsticks and pumpkin faces, without which any good spook wouldn't be caught dead.

Opera Lecture Given at 7 Tonight

Tonight's lecture on opera by the Mario Castelnuovo-Tedesco distinguished visiting professor of music, has been changed to meet at 7 in the choral room of the Music Building.

To climax the weekend several Greek and independent living units staged costume parties on Friday and Saturday nights to bolster the old-fashioned spirit of Halloween throughout the campus.

But alas, their efforts went for naught. A quick check of East Lansing and MSU Police records shows that outside of a few so-called "spooks" in the area, nothing "spooky" happened in the area.

To this sad predicament, Linus had one reply: "Oh, shut up."

Vietnamese High Official to Speak

Wolf Isaac Ladejinsky, Agrarian Reform Advisor to the Presidency of the Republic of Viet Nam, will address faculty and students tonight and Tuesday.

"The Art of Collecting" will be his topic at 4:10 p.m. today in the staff room of Kresge Art Center. Ladejinsky recently sent several pieces from his collection of Asiatic art to display in Kresge.

At 10 a.m. Tuesday, Ladejinsky will address a joint seminar in the auditorium on the fourth floor of the library. An authority in the field of land reform, he will speak on "Social and Economic Aspects of Development Programs."

This meeting is sponsored by the departments of agricultural economics, economics and political science. Both programs are open to students.

Ladejinsky is the guest of Wesley Fisher, political science professor, who was a former advisor to Viet Nam where MSU is conducting programs in public and police administration.

Russian born, Ladejinsky came to the United States in 1920. He spent his early years in this country working in factories making buttons, mattresses and shoes.

By selling newspapers and doing translations, he was able to put himself through Columbia University. He earned a Bachelor's degree in economics in 1927.

Ladejinsky began his career with the United States government in 1935. His first position was with the Department of Agriculture. Working in several Asian countries, he acquired extensive experience in the field of land reform.

With Douglas MacArthur in Japan after World War II, he planned vast land reform programs and saw them carried out.

As personal advisor to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Ladejinsky, by continuing his work of land reform, is helping communism in Asia.

Do You Think for Yourself?

(THROW THESE QUESTIONS INTO THE POT AND SEE WHAT COOKS!)

If your studies led you to believe you could strike oil by drilling a hole right in the middle of the campus, would you (A) keep still about it so people wouldn't think you were nuts? (B) sell stock in the proposition to all your friends? (C) get an oil man interested in the idea, even if you had to give him most of the profits? A B C

"A watched pot never boils" means (A) the man who made such a statement never watched a pot; (B) if you don't want the stew to boil over—watch it! (C) you can't hurry things by worrying about them. A B C

If you saw a girl perched up in a tree reading a book, would you say, (A) "Timber!" (B) "Is the light better up there?" (C) "Will that branch hold two?" A B C

Assuming cigarettes could talk, would you listen to (A) a filter cigarette that talks only about its taste? (B) a weak-tasting cigarette that talks about its filter? (C) a filter cigarette that lets its advanced filter design and full taste speak for themselves? A B C

Next time you light up, take a moment to think about what you really want in your filter cigarette. Most men and women who think for themselves choose VICEROY.

The Man Who Thinks for Himself Knows — ONLY VICEROY HAS A THINKING MAN'S FILTER... A SMOKING MAN'S TASTE!

J. Dean Darbe graduated from Kansas State U. in 1955 with a B. S. degree in electrical engineering. Today he is Supervising Service Foreman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company at Hutchinson, Kansas. Dean has five Foremen and 58 craftsmen reporting to him. He's got full responsibility—covering installation, maintenance, testing and repair—for 21,000 telephones and all the equipment that serves them.

"It's interesting work," says Dean, "and it keeps me on the go. Here are a few of my activities during a recent day on the job."

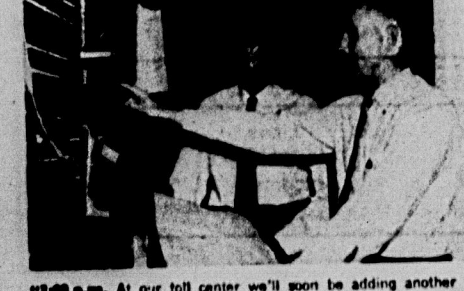

"8:00 a.m. I meet with one of our Foremen at the plant garage to discuss a cable-pneumating job. We're putting all aerial cable in Hutchinson under air pressure to keep out moisture which causes cable failure and costly service interruptions."

"10:35 a.m. My boss, District Plant Superintendent Randy Barron, and I go over plans for an addition to our dial control office. Several pieces of large and complex switching equipment will have to be rearranged to tie in with the new facilities."

"1:00 p.m. After lunch, I drive out to the new plant of a mobile home manufacturer. My men are completing installation of a new-type cordless switchboard. I discuss features of the new equipment with the firm's Vice President and Plant Manager."

"3:00 p.m. At our toll center we'll soon be adding another test desk to increase our facilities for 'trouble shooting' Long Distance circuits. Here, with our Chief Testboardman, I go over some of the board changes which will have to be made."

"That's about it for one day. Tomorrow's schedule will be different. I'm doing interesting, challenging work all the time—and I'm given plenty of responsibility. That's what I like about my job."

There are countless young men like Dean Darbe who are moving ahead in supervisory careers with the Bell Telephone Companies. You could be one of them. Talk it over with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus—and read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.

LSU Wins; Yale. Oklahoma Beaten

Louisiana State's brass, pro-like opportunists continue to move along toward their second straight National Collegiate football championship.

Outscored and outgained for more than three quarters, the Tigers unleashed one quick strike—an 89-yard touchdown run by all-America Billy Cannon—and then stopped Mississippi on the 1-yard line for a 7-3 Saturday night victory.

This not only subdued LSU's most dangerous rival of the season but it bolstered the Tigers' ranking as No. 1 team in the country, extended their winning streak to 19 games and made it almost certain they would be host in the Sugar Bowl.

Seven major teams remained unbeaten and untied—LSU, Northwestern, Texas, Southern California, Syracuse, Penn State and North Texas State.

Northwestern, ranking second, turned up with a new individual star in Mike Stock and whipped Indiana 30-13 in its uninterrupted march to the Big Ten crown and a trip to the Rose Bowl.

San Francisco in First Place After 33-7 Win Over Lions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Half-back J. D. Smith blazed 73 yards to a touchdown the first time he carried the ball Sunday, firing the San Francisco 49ers to a 33-7 victory over Detroit and into first place in the National Football League's western division.

Veteran Hugh McElhenny celebrated his return to full action by catching a pair of scoring passes from Y. A. Tittle, one on a 62-yard play, as the 49ers won their fifth victory in six games.

Smith sent the 49ers on their way on the second play after the kickoff. The crushing 207-pounder smashed over right tackle and raced to the score.

The 49ers added their second touchdown before the opening quarter was half over. The tally came on a 10-yard pass from Tittle to McElhenny.

Detroit linebacker Joe Schmidt set up the Lions' lone touchdown by intercepting a Tittle pass in the first quarter. He ran it back 16 yards to the 49er one, and Ken Webb smashed over for the score. Jerry Perry converted.

In the second period Tittle flipped a cross-field pass to McElhenny two yards ahead of scrimmage line and flanker Mac raced a total of 62 yards to score.

Finally the 49ers drove 76 yards in seven plays featuring gains of 39 and 18 by Joe Perry before Smith went the final two INJURED EARLY in Saturday's soccer game, forward John Bennett returned to action with four stitches and a patch over his outmaneuvered a towering Wheaton defender on this play.

On the move at home and abroad

From Florida to the Philippines, from Alaska to the Dominican Republic... General Telephone — America's second largest telephone system — is getting around these days.

Our job is to bring people closer together through modern communications — in the states and overseas, as well. Right now our operating companies and affiliates serve more than 3 1/2 million American homes and offices and a number of foreign countries. On top of this, our overseas manufacturing subsidiaries in Belgium and Italy provide much needed communications equipment to markets almost everywhere in the world.

In this country, General Telephone's growth in the past ten years has paralleled the strong, healthy growth of America, itself. As for the future — every sign indicates a continuation of this expansion, a growth potential that's practically unlimited. For instance, we are adding new telephones at a rate of 750 a day. And we're investing almost $200 million in new telephone facilities this year, alone.

This is a typical example of how we strive... not only to meet today's communications needs but to answer tomorrow's.

Ohio - Ohio State's victory over the Spartans Saturday afternoon at Columbus, Ohio, was a triumph for the Buckeyes. The Spartans, who were ranked 10th in the Big 10, were defeated 33-14. The game was played at the Horseshoe stadium in Columbus, Ohio, and was the first game of the season for both teams. The Spartans had a record of 2-1, while the Buckeyes were 0-0.

The Spartans narrowed the score with a field goal by Brandstatter early in the last quarter. With a 23-17 score, a touchdown by State could have tied or won the game, but OSU killed the Spartans' chances by immediately scoring.

Ohio State's last touchdown on a 33-yard run by Bob Ferguson, was the only one not from a pass. Ferguson appeared to have been stopped after a short gain, but he slipped through for the touchdown. The field goal by Brandstatter was the Spartans' only scoring drive in the game.

The final half time score was 16-14 as OSU made a touchdown pass from Look to Alderfer for 11 yards. Brandstatter's placement was good, and OSU led, 16-14.

The same Buckeye combination of Matter to Houston clicked again in the second quarter for a touchdown from 17 yards out. This time the kick was good, and OSU led, 16-14.

He said, "I told the boys at Wisconsin last week forget about the Rose Bowl and winning the conference championship. From now on you're not playing for any exterior prizes. The football you play from now on is the football that will do you some good. If you get beat, that's one thing, if you stay beat, that's another."

Injured fullback and Buckeye star, Bob White, played only sparingly in the game.

The horseshoe stadium was filled with 82,130 spectators, breaking the record for Michigan State and Ohio State bands played.

Woods Hayes, Ohio State coach, also praised the last six minutes, calling them "extremely vital" in his team's victory.

Seniors of the Week

... Mary Huff ...

... Bill Hampton ...

Mary Huff, Midland senior, has struck another blow in the steady demise of the male dominion in modern America.

Taking over as editor-in-chief of the State News this term, Mary succeeded in topping her previous achievements as a night sports editor, night editor, editorial page editor and managing editor, and invaded a traditionally male position.

Among her journalistic accomplishments, "the Huff" was co-editor of the 1958 State News supplement on higher education and co-editor of this year's Welcome Edition.

She is also a member of Theta Sigma Phi and Kappa Tau Alpha journalism honoraries and treasurer of Kappa Alpha Mu photo-journalism honorary. She has also worked on the Wolverine staff.

With an all-college grade-point average of more than 3.4, Mary is a member of Mortar Board, and was a member of Tower Guard and Alpha Lambda Delta, where she was vice-president in 1957-58 and senior adviser last year.

An Honors College student, she has received the Alumni Distinguished Scholarship Award, the Outstanding Junior Award, and was chairman of Outstanding Junior Awards last spring.

Somewhere, this bundle of energy found time to become treasurer of her sorority, Delta Gamma. In 1958, the same year she was defensive captain of the Powder Puff football team and originator and head cheerleader of Black Lush, the distaff side of Lushwell A.C.

Also a member of Psi Club and the Catholic Student Organization, "the Huff" plans to graduate at the end of winter term, but has no definite plans as yet.

Grad school or newspaper work are the most likely possibilities, and Mary would like to study or work abroad.

Bill Hampton, Bloomfield Hills senior, recently returned from a summer of serving summonses to serve as president of Union Board, president of Excalibur and vice-president of Blue Key. High offices are nothing new to this social science major, who plans to enter law school after graduation next spring, and aims for an eventual career in politics.

A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Bill has been junior class president, sophomore justice on the all-university judiciary, chairman of the All-Board Affairs Committee, for Union Board, chairman of tickets for Union Board Week, and chairman of the Union Board Special Events Committee.

Bill has managed to maintain a 2.5 all-college grade average through all of this, and has been a member of Spartan Roundtable since 1958, a member of the Water Carnival TV Committee in 1957 and a member of the library research committee.

Politics seem to have been a natural habitat for "Hamp" ever since high school days in Pontiac, where he was president of the Union Board and of the senior class, while earning five letters in athletics.

Bill has not entirely forsaken the playing field, however. He can still be seen throwing and receiving passes for SAE in IM football, and, with the help of football captain Don Wright, has plans for fielding an Excalibur team against Student Government before the season wanes.

Lawrence's Idea of Sex Discussed

D. H. Lawrence is not only a master of English prose, unrivaled in depth of insight and imagery, but Lady Chatterley's Lover, far from being obscene or pornographic, takes sex out of the realm of the purely physical.

So Dr. John Walte and Major John Barron, both of the MSU faculty, agreed Sunday afternoon on WKAR's "Viewpoint".

Dr. Walte, assistant professor of English, said that it was a mistake to consider Lawrence as obsessed with sex in its physical dimensions. Unquestionably, Lawrence was deeply concerned with sex. But it was sex as a door to a greater reality, not as an end in itself, he added.

"In his earlier novel, 'The Rainbow,' Lawrence used the rainbow as a symbol to suggest what he means. The rainbow rests on two pillars with their ends grounded in the earth and its arch paralleling the great arch of heaven. Through this arch human beings may perceive the ultimate reality of the universe.

But men can only approach the arch of the rainbow through sex or what Lawrence calls the blood.

Lawrence reacted against the taboos of his time which treated sex as a "dirty little secret." In his novels he protests implicitly against the prudery and perversity which makes us torture reality to the point where any statement of truth is instantly regarded as "unclean" or "unwholesome" or "unnecessary," Barron said.

Dr. Alvin Gluck Talks to Honorary

Dr. Alvin Gluck, history professor, addressed the Phi Alpha Chapter of The Alpha Theta, National History Honorary, Thursday evening.

Dr. Gluck's topic was "History at Trinity College, Dublin," he spent the 1958-59 school year as a Fulbright Exchange professor at Trinity College.

John Honick was elected president of the honorary at a joint meeting following the speaker.

Other officers elected were: Paul Calvo, vice president; Alvin Gluck, secretary; David Drury, treasurer; and John Curry, historian.

Paleontology Display Set At Museum

A new exhibit showing how the age of fossils can be determined by the depth at which they are buried is on display at the museum.

The exhibit is a stratigraph which shows a cross section of soil to a certain depth. The display contains a number of mammal bones as well as other fossils and Indian artifacts.

The recently opened display shows fastodon bones buried in the muck or marl of a swamp. The mastodon probably became trapped in the marl and died.

Above the marl is a layer of sand of more recent origin. A number of Indian artifacts are shown. Above the sand is a layer of soil and grass.

Attempting to make the exhibit as real as possible, Victor Hogg, the museum artist, has placed a Coke bottle in the grass. Hogg explains that the Coke bottle will in time be covered and may become an archeological find in a few thousand years in the future.

Lot 'R' Closes Tuesday

The Department of Public Safety announces that lot R at the reservoir will be closed all day Tuesday, due to repairs being made by the grounds dept.

of East Lansing, at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Upon arrival the cadets were given their assignments. The actives acted as the enemy force and occupied a prearranged position. The pledges were the attacking force.

The first assignment of the pledges was to carry out a daytime reconnaissance of the enemy position and then attack it.

After successfully attacking the enemy force, the pledges next set a defensive line and prepared counter-attack.

The cadets were armed with small arms and blank ammunition.

Upon completion of the time operation, the men prepared for another night reconnaissance.
