Professor Loses,
Recovers $1,200

Thefts in the Men's IM building and East Yakeley dormitory were reported to the Department of Public Safety Monday and over the weekend. A $1,200 endorsed money order was stolen Monday from an unlocked locker in the Men's IM building, but was recovered from a parking lot on Saginaw street later in the day.

Dieter Brunnachweiller, associate professor of geography, told the campus police that he left the money order in one of the lockers in his vest in an unlocked locker.

The money order and his identification papers were taken sometime between 12:15 and

1:05, reported the police. The endorsed check was found later Monday afternoon in the Naval Reserve Armory parking lot on Saginaw street, according to campus police.

Ten other thefts in East Yakeley dormitory, which occurred during January, were reported Saturday while police were investigating a theft of a fur collar.

The investigating officer was told of the thefts consisting of money, clothing and cosmetics, amounting to about $40. The thefts have occurred since Jan. 16.

Police are still investigating the thefts.

MARY SUE HODGE, national dairy princess, stops to speak with Mr. Boyd Rice, assistant secretary-manager of the American Dairy Association of Michigan, Inc. and his wife, Miss Hodge spoke at the All Breeds Banquet in Kellogg Center, Monday.

Dairy Princess Awards
Lead Off Farmers' Week

Views of a national dairy princess, milk production, service awards and farm life inside the Soviet Union highlighted the All-Breeds Dairy banquet Monday night in Kellogg Center.

Mary Sue Hodge, recently elected National Dairy Princess, related to the convention how she was elected to her position and what her duties of that office are.

Miss Hodge said that she was the number one sales lady for the Dairy Association, traveling throughout the nation promoting the nutritional products of dairy manufacturing.

She explained that she has traveled about 100,000 miles, appearing on radio and TV shows, at fairs, and before conventions.

Service awards to outstanding dairymen and dairy contributors were made to men selected by the dairy staff at MSU.

The highest honor of the Dairy Herries Improvement Association went to O. F. Foster of Clarston.

Foster's herd was the top producer of milk and butterfat in the U.S.

The award was not made for high milk production alone but for contributing service to his community to various livestock associations in the state, to 4-H clubs, and for skillful farm management combined with scientific progress.

Fifty-nine farmers were also awarded certificates for averaging 500 pounds of butter per month for the year of 1959 by the 500 Club.

Prof to Talk On Playwright Williams' Life

Is the success of Tennessee Williams due to the violence, sex, and strong language he employs as dramatic devices?

John Waite, associate professor of English, will discuss the works of the playwright tonight at 7:30 in the Union Ballroom.

A popular and sometimes controversial author, Williams is well known for his Broadway and Hollywood hits including "The Glass Menagerie," "A Streetcar Named Desire," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "The Rose Tattoo," and "Sweet Bird of Youth."

Waite will summarize Williams' literary career. He will attempt to explain Williams' success in correlation with role of violence, sex, strong language and the author's skill in developing strong, interesting plots.

The lecture is the fourth in a series co-sponsored by Union Board and the English department concerning "New Voices in Contemporary Literature."

Professor A. J. M. Smith will lecture about English novelist Graham Greene on Feb. 16.

French Parliament Seeks Power To Settle Algerian Aftermath

Would Give Government Short Rule

De Gaulle Backed By Labor Unions
PARIS — (AP)—The French government Monday decided to ask for broad special powers to clean up the aftermath of the Algerian rebellion. Parliament was called into an emergency one-day session today to approve the request.

The call for practically unlimited authority—which will be vested in the cabinet, not in the personal hands of President De Gaulle—came quickly on the heels of the collapse of the revolt.

The special powers would give the government the right to legislate by decree for a limited period, probably about three months. One observer said it would be "like a state of siege, without the formal proclamation."

A communique published after a cabinet meeting gave not the slightest hint of why the government thinks it needs the special powers or what it intends to do with them.

It was generally believed, however, that President De Gaulle and the government intend to move quickly and firmly against civil and military chiefs in Algeria who let the right-wing extremist elements get out of hand.

Information Minister Roger Frey, reporting on the cabinet session, declined to say if any special measures had been decided against the leaders of the Algerian insurgents. He said, however, "all the crimes or offenses against the security of the state will be handed over to judicial authorities."

Parliament will be presented with a short bill which cites article 38 of the French constitution. This article says "the government can, for execution of its program, ask Parliament for authorization to take by decree, during a limited time, measures which normally are the domain of the legislature."

De Gaulle's prestige got another big boost Monday when practically all France stopped work for an hour between 11 a.m. and noon. In an almost unparallel show of unanimity, all labor unions backed the strike call to show support for the President and defiance of the Algerian insurgents.

Officer to Talk On Rackets

Dan Moore, former ranking intelligence officer, will speak on "Confidence Rackets: How to Avoid Them," Wednesday night at 8:15 in Fairchild as a special feature of the Farmer's Week lecture of the Lecture-Concert series.

As regional administrator for the Securities and Exchange Commission for Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan, Moore headed the much-publicized cleanup of securities and other frauds in that area from 1937 to 1934.

He has participated in many investigations and trials and is responsible for the jailing of numerous racketeers.

It was primarily his work in the field of frauds and confidence games which brought about his appointment as chief of counter-intelligence in the Middle East during World War II.

A writer as well as a speaker, Dan Moore's articles and stories have appeared in such publications as Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest, Blue Book and Adventure Magazine.

Admission will be free.

Defense Secretary

Gates Disputes Soviet Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates Jr. Monday disputed as unrealistic his strategic air commander's estimate that the Russians could demolish U.S. strikeback ability in 30 minutes with 300 missiles.

The estimate, made by Gen. Thomas Power in a recent speech, was thrown before Gates by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) while the defense chief was being questioned by a Senate Appropriations subcommittee about the new $39,335,000,000 military budget.

Symington, who estimates the Eisenhower administration is letting the Russians gain steadily out front in missiles, wanted to know why the Pentagon was asking for only 13 percent of what Gen. Power declared would be needed to keep some of his long range nuclear bombers and their air bases safe.

Gates told Symington that Power's views were thoroughly considered by the joint chiefs of staff and the chiefs do not agree with the SAC commander.

"I don't want to be disparaging of Gen. Power," the defense secretary said. "But we do believe the estimate of mathematical possibility is unrealistic in relation to the facts."

The fact, Gates did not feel it necessary to start an air-borne alert, Gates said and noted the budget contains 90 million dollars to get ready for such a round-the-clock bomber alert, if and when needed.

Power also has been much more drastic in his estimates of possible Russian missile strength in the years ahead.

Council Votes Unanimously On Rose Bowl

The Athletic Council indicated that it was still in favor of the Rose Bowl when it voted unanimously Monday to accept an offer from the Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

Dr. John Fuzak will carry Michigan State's favorable stand to the Big 10 meeting in March in Columbus, Ohio.

The Council also voted yes on the proposal to allow athletes from junior colleges, who have completed two years of competition, to immediately be eligible in the conference.

Presently junior college transfers must sit out a year.

A negative vote came on extending voting power to athletic directors on the conference joint committee. Each school now has one vote.

Plans Brother-Sister Program

AUSG Helps Foreign Students

By SHARON COADY
State News Night Editor

The American Brother-Sister program for foreign students will get underway Wednesday as the AUSG International Cooperation committee begins accepting applications.

Participating students will help foreign students fall terms by taking them through registration, explaining local customs and introducing them to people and organizations.

After applying, students will receive a notification of the training sessions scheduled for spring term. A general meeting will be followed by special ones designed to teach the student

Cadets to Visit Armor Center in Kentucky

Armor and its uses in the modern army will be the topic explored when 150 ROTC cadets visit the Army's armor center at Ft. Knox, Ky.

The group, including advanced and basic cadets, will leave on bus on Feb. 3 and return on Feb. 6.

During their stay, the cadets will be shown the latest in armored equipment and armored tactics, make a complete tour of the post, and witness a live armor demonstration, said to cost half a million dollars.

The trip is sponsored by the ROTC. Major R. L. Dexter and Captain F. L. Loan of the ROTC department will accompany the group.

Cadets from four other colleges and dignitaries from the U.S. and foreign countries will also visit Ft. Knox.

The group hopes to set up a faculty guidance committee which will give continuity to the program by advising students who work in the future.

Applications available through Feb. 24, may be picked up and returned to Men's or Women's Division, Student Services, 12N Lounge, Union basement, or the Union Concourse.

Fact sheets about the program are at the UN Lounge, open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., ext. 2224.

Student Discount Project Fizzles

HERE TODAY, gone tomorrow, that's student discounts—Exciting plans and ideas for a student discount were spread last term by AUSG members...

Nonchalant student government officials were unable to supply much information; it was there, what there was of it, but it was locked up, said Bryce Plapp...

It seems that the plan just fell through, or it may be assumed by the following:

1. SURVEYS that had been delivered to living units on and off campus, asking students the amount they spend on various items...

The few questionnaires that were returned to student government showed a faint student interest, he said.

2. The stores, after thinking it over for a second time, Plapp said, decided that it would not be worthwhile for them, as they already have a monopoly on the MSU student's paycheck...

3. The graduation of the AUSG representative in charge of the student discount committee and the departure for Mexico by one of the committee members left the committee in the charge of no one.

4. AS A RESULT of the aforementioned, AUSG has shelved indefinitely the student discount plan, probably until later this term, or next, Plapp said.

Someone must become interested in it again to want to take care of its responsibilities, said Holmes. Probably it may rise again as a platform of some future candidate for AUSG, he added.

The purpose of the discount was to enable the student to buy more cheaply. It would also have increased the student's buying power, and would have given the stores additional publicity.

Reports last heard were that AUSG hoped to have the discount plan in effect before the big Christmas shopping season began, but it is anyone's guess which Christmas they meant.

The discount plan has been successfully tried in several Midwestern and West Coast universities, and has for a few stores in East Lansing, who have boldly dared to step out and give a discount—one bookstore gives it to faculty members only, but feels that it is unnecessary to extend this policy to students...

THESE STORES have partially proved that the discount plans can work.

But, because of the apathy of the student body, the solving of the store managers, and the nonchalance and lack of direction on the part of student government, the student discount is just going before it has ever existed.

Here today, gone tomorrow, that's student discounts.

Book Review: Farmers, Merchants, Artists Forgotten Revolution Heroes

WHAT MANNER OF MEN: FORGOTTEN HEROES OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION. By Fred J. Cook, William Morrow and Company, $5. Reviewer John Abbott.

Of the wars our country has been involved in, the American Revolution probably saw the greatest degree of personal heroism.

This was a war where the individual soldier, not the ballistic missile, was the basic element in every battle and where an individual's bravery and courage could still make a difference.

These forgotten heroes were the farmers, bookkeepers, shopkeepers, and artisans, the little men who fought and died heroically in a war which few honestly believed could be won.

Cook, a newspaperman for the past 25 years, author of four...

books, and now a reporter for the New York World Telegram and Sun, has written a readable and enjoyable account of 15 forgotten heroes of the American Revolution.

The book obviously required a great deal of diligent research but author Cook has not burdened the reader with numerous footnotes and the usual paragon of scholarship.

Cook has traced a rapid-moving narrative the lives and actions of nine men and six women who played an essential, but now forgotten, role in winning the American Revolution.

What manner of men were these? Cook answers: "They were, if I read their story right, men who were guided by a special inspiration, fired by a personal dedication to a cause in which they passionately believed. They were fighting for something new in the world.

Cook's initial statements concerning the nature and extent of the American Revolution may seem oversimplified to the student of history. Nonetheless, the basic aim of the book—that of reviving the lives and deeds of some forgotten American names—has been admirably accomplished in a series of stark, three-dimensional portraits.

Man Owes $6 Million Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam froze the huge estate of "Sweet Daddy" Grace Monday with a batch of court liens aimed at collection of nearly six million dollars in income tax claims against the Negro preacher.

MPA Cites Six State Newsmen

Six Michigan newspapermen were admitted to the Michigan Press Association "Hall of Newspaper Fame," it was announced Saturday by E. C. Hayhow, MPA president.

The names were announced at the 92nd annual meeting of the MPA held in Kellogg Center Jan. 29-30.

This year, for the first time in the nine-year history of the awards, living newspapermen were named to the Hall, Hayhow said:

Newly-admitted members are: Vernon Brown, former Lt. Gov. of Michigan, former publisher of the Ingham County News, Mason, and former MPA president.

S. L. Marshall, former chairman of the Michigan Public Service Commission, former publisher of the Clinton County Republican-News, St. Johns, former MPA president.

Adrian VanKoevring, former publisher of the Zeeland Record, former MPA president, long active in newspaper affairs.

Webb McCall, deceased, former publisher of Mt. Pleasant weekly and daily newspapers, former MPA president, active in state affairs.

Fred Keister, Sr., deceased, former publisher of the Ionia County News, former MPA president and association leader during the difficult years of organizing the newspapers into an active association.

Gen. James Kidd, deceased, former publisher of the Ionia Sentinel-Standard, a Civil War general, community and newspaper leader of his day.

Portraits and brief biographies of these men will be hung in the Journalism building.

Candidates are named to the Hall of Fame, which now brings the total to 24 men, by an anonymous committee of MPA.

Identify Photographs in Spartan Contest

Any student who can identify himself or herself in a Wolverine picture printed in the current Spartan magazine will receive a 100 credit toward the purchase of a 1960 Wolverine, according to Don Stoyer, business manager. The yearbook normally sells for $7.

the "house of prayer for all people" has been estimated at up to 25 million dollars. The bulk has been willed to the church which the eccentric Evangelist founded at Charlotte, N.C., in 1926 when he baptised his first followers in a mudhole.

At the time of his death in Los Angeles Jan. 12, Grace claimed a membership of three million, nearly all Negroes, in more than 60 cities.

The bill for $5,966,000 in taxes for the years 1945 through 1956 is one of the largest ever entered by the internal revenue service against an individual. The sums claimed range from $108,916 for 1946 to $1,331,063 for 1953.

The IRS filed the liens and levies against real property and other assets of the estate in Washington, D.C., and 15 other federal jurisdictions in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, New Jersey, Florida, Michigan and California.

These had the effect of blocking any distribution of the estate pending settlement of the tax claims.

An IRS spokesman said the agency was preparing to prosecute Grace when he died at the age of 78. The government had a go at him in 1934, charging he paid $41 in tax on a $190,000 income but he was as persuasive in court as in the pulpit and the case was thrown out.

The followers who were the chief source of Grace's wealth generally called him "Sweet Daddy" Grace but Monday's liens give several names, including Charles Grace, Marcelino Manuel Grace, Bishop C. M. Grace and Daddy Grace.

The federal action was only one of the post-mortem complications surrounding the vast holdings which were amassed by the picturesque preacher who painted his 350 churches—and his fingernails—red, white and blue. He favored outaway coats in green and purple, with plenty of gold trimmings, including cuffs and epaulets.

Yamasaki, of Yamasaki, Leinweber and associates, has offices in the Detroit area but first gained national prominence for his work for the St. Louis airport.

Born in Seattle and a graduate of the University of Washington, he was greatly influenced by a trip to Japan in 1954. On his return he began turning out plans for buildings which use precast concrete in graceful curves and delicate delicacy which are distinguished by skylights and surrounding pools.

Art Shown In Kresge

Two widely divergent shows will hang in the galleries of Kresge Art Center until Feb. 10.

Paintings by children from 25 countries comprise one exhibit.

It has been collected by the Art for World Friendship league. Photographs and models of the work of American architect Minoru Yamasaki comprise the other show, which was previously displayed at the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Detroit Engineering society. The photographs range in size up to 8 1/2 by 10 ft.

Mountaineers' Coach Raps High Pressuring Athletes

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia basketball coach Fred Schaus said Monday the pressures of fans eventually will destroy intercollegiate athletics unless something is done to stop them.

He said the push to win at all costs has filtered down to the scholastic level and is unhealthy, not only for the game and the coaches, but for the players who come to school first to get an education.

"We've found it's usually the man who has lost five dollars on a game who does the most screaming," Schaus stated.

Schaus had nothing but praise for two big centers of teams which have beaten his fifth-ranked Mountaineers—Jeff Cohen of William and Mary and Darrell Imhoff of California.

Schaus put West Virginia's All-American Jerry West, who set a season with 42 points in the WAM loss in a class by himself.

"He's the heart and soul of our team," the young coach stated.

Mat, Tank Teams Host Purdue State Adds New Faces To Lineup

Collins Gambles With Grapplers

Two Spartan wrestlers will be making their first appearances of the season tonight when State meets Purdue at 7 p.m. in the IM building.

Senior letter winner Joe Marchal and sophomore David James will be inserted into the starting lineup by head coach Fendley Collins in a move to give two of his regular starters a rest.

Collins explained he thought it was a good opportunity to give 123-pounder George Hobbs and Gordon Johnson, 147 lbs., a well deserved rest.

Although Purdue has lost four straight dual meets and finished last in the Jan. 9 quadrangular tourney, which Michigan State won, Collins admitted he was taking a gamble in making the substitutions.

"We like to give as many fellows a chance to wrestle as we can," the coach said, "and since Purdue isn't rated too highly we figured this was as good a chance as any to work them in."

The Spartans will carry an undefeated, 3-0 dual meet record into the contest, which includes last Saturday's 18-6 rout of Minnesota.

Marchal, at 123 lbs., has been on the team since he was a sophomore, but has gained only taken appearances in that time. He came to Collins with no previous wrestling experience.

James, the other newcomer to the State lineup, hails from Tulsa, Okla., and will be replacing Johnson in the 147-lb. division. He was on State's freshman squad last year.

Tonight's match will be the second in as many days for Purdue. Monday night Michigan's top ranked Wolverines blasted the Boilermakers, 23-3, in Ann Arbor.

Phillies Work Out Pact

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies Monday announced a limited working agreement with Chattanooga of the Southern Assn.

recorded wins over Iowa State, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northwestern and are looking for their sixth straight victory. The team also participated in the Big 10 relays with Michigan and Indiana, but scores were not kept.

Coach Charles McCaffree's squad has seen little competition with the Boilermakers in recent years. This season the Spartans meet all nine of the Big 10 teams in what McCaffree terms the "best schedule any conference team has."

McCaffree will be using his sophomore lineup, including 220 and 400-yard, freestyler, Dick Brackett, who broke his first dual-meet record in the Wisconsin win. Brackett was challenged by Dick Blaszewski Friday, though, as Blaszewski beat him in the 20 for his first dual meet mark.

The individual medley will have Dave Diget, Tosh Imai or Carl Shaar. McCaffree said that Imai is beginning to look good in this race.

Butterfly swimmer Shaar will be swimming in his event with Wes Roberts or Art Manwell. Manwell has had a cold, and did not swim last weekend.

Grades Halt Scorer

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's basketball team has lost 6-5 Darrell McQuitty, its second leading scorer, for the rest of the season because of poor grades.

Frank Medina, Donny Ruppert, Jim Tyson and Bill Singleton will be swimming the breaststroke in the individual events and medley relay for the Spartans.

McCaffree will choose among Denny Baker, Larry Jones, Dan Convis, Bob Erler and Juerg Matt for his sprinters. Chauncey Johnson and Jib Aenis will go in the distance races.

Ron Gage, Jack Wickering or Leo Boreis will be set for the backstroke, while the divers will be Jerry Chadwick, Ron Wallfars or John Walker.

Spartans Play Spoilers, Beat Minnesota, 84-63

Still smarting from their biggest loss in conference play, Michigan State's Spartans upset second place Minnesota, 84-63, Monday night before 6,475 fans, the smallest Jenison Fieldhouse crowd this season.

Just last Saturday Ohio State drowned the defending Big 10 champions unmercifully, 111-79. Co-captains Horace Walker and Lance Olson, who were hobbled by a re-aggravated leg injury, supplied the scoring and the rebound punch. Walker looped 24 points and gathered in 23 rebounds. Olson scored 24 points, 14 of them coming from a perfect night at the charity line.

Despite the win the Spartans are still mired down in the conference pack with a 4-3 mark. Minnesota (5-3) remains second in the Big 10 despite the loss, but its chances of overhauling league leading Ohio State were cut.

The Spartans, using a combination of slowdowns and control ball tactics, came from behind twice to beat the sluggish Gophers.

State was on the short end of the score through most of the first half, managing only 14 points in first 10 minutes, while Minnesota had 20.

From the six point deficit, their largest of the night, Anderson's midsets picked up their scoring pace. On five straight points by Olson, State moved ahead for the first time, 31-30, with three minutes remaining.

The squads traded baskets to run the score to 35-35 before Tommy Wilson canned a goal and Olson two free shots to give State its 39-35 half-time margin.

After State's John Young opened the second half with a field goal, the Gophers mashed seven points to take a short-lived lead, 42-41. Olson recaptured State's lead momentarily with a jump shot. Ray Cronk sank two free shots as Minnesota went ahead for the last time.

State then ran up seven consecutive points to take a 55-44 lead.

The Spartans coasted the rest of the way with the final tally their biggest margin of the night, 21 points.

Minnesota's all-American Ron Johnson led the Gophers with a 22-point tally. Dick Erickson and Cronk followed up with 15 and 14 points respectively.

The Gophers fell from their usual shooting accuracy, getting only 36 percent of their shots. Their league average was 45 percent. State was only one percent better for the game.

Olson's 14 for 14 at the free throw line gave him a tie for second in the Big 10 one game free throw mark.

Coach Fordy Anderson was disappointed with the small turnout of Spartan rooters. "I hope the fans haven't given up on us after we got smashed by Ohio State," he said.

Robertson Sets Cage Mark

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati halved down an easy 96-61 basketball victory Monday night over Drake and All-America Oscar Robertson breezed past the three-year scoring mark for major college basketball players with a 36-point performance.

At halftime, Cincinnati coach George Smith walked onto the floor and gave Oscar the basketball. Robertson, who has customary slight smile, took the ball with our word and walked off the floor toward the dressing room.

Smith called Robertson "the greatest basketball player in the world," and said, "I'm proud of Oscar both as a great basketball player and a fine student."

Only 16 points now separate Robertson from the other major college scoring mark — Dickie Hemric's 2,587 points for four seasons at Wake Forest, ending in 1953. Chances are Oscar will reach that summit Saturday in a conference game with Bradley.
