Revisions in Order For J-Hop Policy

ANOTHER J-HOP has passed and all that is left is memories. However some of these memories are not the most Following last year's trend the J-Hop lost money this year and didn't sell all their tickets. According to other compus newspapers this seems to be the trend more and more across the country.

Arnie Roberts co-chairman of the J-Hop said before the dance that the students want one big formal dance a year and the J-Hop was this dance.

Roberts also said in an article in January 25th issue of the State News that only a limited number of tickets would be on sale in order to insure dancing comfort and enjoy-

The J-Hop committee tried to sell 1500 tickets to the dance and this would mean if they sold every ticket and made their profit that 3,000 people would have been trying to dance in the Aud to Lester Lanin's music.

PERSONS WHO DID ATTEND the dance thought the J-Hop was very successful in-so-much as entertainment and enjoyment goes. The only complaint voiced by any of them was that it was pretty crowded, If 1800 people crowded the Aud what would happen if they did sell all of their

We feel that the enjoyment would diminish so much that the fact that the J-Hop would make a profit would be immaterial.

This year's senior class-discovered to their dismay during fall registration that they had to kick in a dollar apiece in order to recoup the class treasury after last year's big loss.

The big question, which is wandering around in the minds of many juniors right now is whether they will get by with only having to kick in one dollar this year.

It is QUITE EVIDENT that the J-Hop can't continue on in its present rut and expect to show a profit. It is only a question of time under the present formal dress-system until the J-Hop fades from sight.

If the J-Hop ever is going to make money again it is going to have to be changed radically before next year.

However the question comes up, if the people that attended the J-Hop thought it was very enjoyable, why not figure on financing the J-Hop in the first place instead of stirring up a lot of ill will by confiscating a dollar during registration.

Perhaps some antipathy is stirred up toward the J-Hop in the first place by such arbitrary statements as Roberts', the students want one big special dance a year and they want it formal.

At any rate it should be interesting for the sophomores to sit back next year and see if their junior class is going to try the same old P-R or it is going to get down to work doing something constructive about the future J-Hops

Favor Series

To the Editor:

The purposes of the Lecture-Cheert Series as listed in the University catalog are to give the students coportunity for entirement and enjoyment through personal experience with a variety of artistic achivements; to help the students to understand line cultural, economic and social hockgrounds of the peoples of the world, and to give the facultiva and staff opportunities to experience the intellectual chaining and educational programs.

Finally, the program is supposed to cooperate with other organizations in providing cultural and educational programs for the community.

Dr. Paul, to my knowledies always willing to listen to what the students would like, but how many times have they bothered to talk to him or write to him.

There is also the fact that the series is not for the student alone, but for the faculty and the public. In these college years, students are very lucky to be seeing what they are in so short.

MEN DIE (Random House, 1959, $3.50)

The munitions island was commanded by a man thwarted in his career, unsatisfied in marriage, and with feelings that he was mystically erudite. His world is a contradiction in fact and in mental image. He feels there can be no war but his only solution lies in a war. His vision is of peace but his activities belie him. His second in command, a scholar turned sour, is enigmatic is his fatalism contrasted with his desire to create something artistic for the world

DETROIT (P)—Wilt (the Stift) Chamberlain came alive in the final quarter and paced the Philadelphia Warriors to a 113-111 victory over the Detroit pixtons Sunday in a nationally televised NBA game.

Chamberlain, who had been averaging 37.8 points a game, 28-3 held to seven points in the first half and five more in the third quarter. Then he joined Guy Rodgers in a hot finish as the Warriors rallied to beat the Pistons for the sixth time in nine games.

The Pistons had led most of the way, taking an 11-point edge in the first period and holding a nine-point margin in the second. But Philadelphia chopped the difference, no only 53-52 at the intermiseron.

Icemen Lose to Denver: Drop Both Tilts, 5-0, 5-1

By GARY RONBERG

An improved Spartan hockey team, though showing no scoring punch at all, slapped the puck around long enough to steer Denver's Pioneers clear of a couple of routs last weekend at the MSU Ice Arena. State dropped the two games, 5-0 and 5-1.

The Spartans were far from adequate in their defensive zone and worse yet on the attacking end, but they showed more fight than they have in a long time. Denver showed small MSU crowds lettle but a methodical, workmanlike offense with nothing on the spectacular side. But the Piomer defense was a different story. Hardly a Michigan State attack got underway in both games without banging into a rugged, highly experienced bunch of red-clad defensemen, the foundation of Denver's championship-bound squad all State's Eldon VanSprybrook wound up with 34.

Only 13 seconds were gone in the Saturday evening game when Pioner defenseman George Konik lofted the puck high into the air toward the State zone. MSU's Mel Christofferson deflected the disc in its downward flight and the puck rolled to the State goal, bounced over Van-Spybrook's stick and through his legs for Denver's first score of the night.

Spartan center Jim Atack managed State's lone tally of the series five minutes later when he hit from in front of the goal mouth, after Real Turcotte had centered the puck from the championship-bound squad all year long.

Pionner wing Jay Walker led the way in Friday night's game as he hit for three goals and his first hat trick in collegiate hockey. Bill Masterson, fourth in league seoring, also had a hand in all of Walker's scores.

Although Pioneer netminder George Kirkwood was extremely tough, the Spartans were sound asleep when any scoring opportunities presented themselves. MSU's Terry Moroney messed up a fine breakaway late in the second period, and when Denver was skating two men short with three minutes left in the same stanza, the Spartans managed to take only three Again Michigan State blew Again Michigan State blew scoring opportunities throughout the game as Atack missed a breakaway and Spartan wingmen failed to handle loose pucks in front of the Pioneer net.

Gymnasts Go Unbeaten; Stop Wolverines, 60-52

ANN ARBOR-The first undefeated season since 1952 was a tough trick for Michigan State's gymnastics to pull.

For the second time this year the Spartan's had to go right down to the wire to miss defeat, but came through with a sweep in tumbling, the final event, to beat Michigan, 60-52.

The story was similiar to the lowa meet two weeks before. Steve Johnson blew his trampoline exercise, Capt. Angie Festa

The meet's biggest upset, Sonny Akpata outjumped Michigan's Big 10 indoor broad jump champion, Les Bird, with a leap of 23' 5" to Bird's 23' 2½".

The Spartans swept the pole vault event with Mike Kleinhans winning the event with a vault of 136". Gerald Dehenau and Frank Mehwald finished second and third respectively.

The mile relay supplied an exciting elimax to the meet with Michigan's anchor man Tony Seth barley edging Willie Atterberry. There was never more than six or neven yards separating the two teams during the entire race. MSU's team of Atterberry, Castle, Carr and Weissengruber broke the varsity record in this event as they recorded a 2:18.4 time, but the mark in not official since the Sparians did not win the race.

The Wolverines, losers of 11 straight Big 10 games prior to Saturday night's clash showed the Spartans and a crowd of 5,000 that they weren't going to make it 12 in a row by playing a hydrotry-hungry? ballgame, the kind of game Coach Forddy Anderson expressed fear of last week.

the kind of game Coach Fordov Anderson expressed fear of last week.

Tidwell, a junior from Herrin, Ill. was virtually the entire Michigan offense. He scored 17 field goals out of 26 tries and seven free shots for 41 points. Tidwell's performance broke M. C. Burton's Michigan scotling record of 38 set last year.

Michigan held a 68-61 lead with 1:40 to go but Michigan State inearly pulled the game out in the remaining minutes. Dave Scott scored two free throws to bring the Spartans within five points. Scott stole the ball from Michigan's guard Jon Hall seconds later and scored with 55 seconds left to bring State within three. Again the Spartans stole the ball but couldn't eash in on the opportunity, and the Wolves came hack with two fast break scores to lee the game.

WASHINGTON (A)-The navy is trying to test a theory that many mysterious radio noises coming from outer space may be the whispers of further creation.

one big bang billions of years.

Ago.

The Navy's planned studies stem from a theory first advanced by such men as the famed English cosmologist. Dr. Fred Hoyle that the creation of matter is still going on in the vast reaches of other space.

Hoyle's "steady state" theory, shared by some scientists but challenged by advocates of the one-shot universe concept, further holds that galaxies, great clusters of stars similar to our own Milky Way, are continuously being formed.

Finally, it proposes that many of the still-unidentified radio noises from outer space may be related in some way to the process of formation of new galaxies—adding to the billions of such galaxies already known to exist.

Cosmic radio noises—some—of the still-unidentified Tadio noises from outer space may be related in some way to the process of formation of new galaxies—adding to the billions of such galaxies already known to exist.

Cosmic radio noises—sometimes called "the music of the cosmos"— are being picked up constantly by huge radio telescopes in various parts of the world. And these radiowaves, when converted to andible sirbals, sound "like gravel on a tin roof," according to some astronomers.

Sources of some of these emissions have been traced to certain stars, constellations and even planets within the Milky May Galaxy, and some to gaseous areas of space beyond that. But the cause of many of the more distant noises still remains a mystery, although some scientists believe they may be due to previously formed galaxies coilding at enormous distances from the Earth.

Friedman said the Navy's prospective tests are not concerned directly with the radio noise but with a related aspect of the theory held by Hoyle and others—sity from 1947 to 1956. He has more distant noises still remains a mystery, although some scientists believe they may be due to previously formed galaxies colliding at enormous distances from the Earth.

Friedman said the Navs's prospective tests are not cencerned directly with the radio noise but with a related aspect of the theory held by Hosle and othersmanely, that a particular type of x-rays is also released with the formation of "new" galaxies.

Thus, says Esiedman, the Navs's opicitive is to determine whether, in fact, there are x-rays bombarding the Earth's atmosphere from distant areas of space far beyond the Milky Way.

"If we find such x-rays," he raid, "it would mean a strong plug in favor of the concept of thoyle and others about many of the distant radio noise sources and also a plug for their con-cept of the continuous creation of matter." Saying a rocket soaring only as high as 60 miles above the Earth has a chance of detecting such rays, if they exist, Friedman said the Navy already has made one trial with a high-flying rocwet.

"We weren't successful," he said, "but we believe it's possible that in the particular area under observation, dust and other particles may have ruled out detection of any such rays by our instruments.

"What we must look for—and we intend to try again as often as we can—are 'windows' in our own Milky Way galaxy through which such x-rays might come if they exist."

Why do we hear "Every-ne needs glasses after forty"?

Sooner or later everyone starts to have trouble reading fine print. It begins, for most, after age forty. This condition is normal and is called "pres-byopia." The best answer to the problem is, generally, bi-focal glasses.
