'We Are Free' -- Koreans

Fall of Rhee Stirs Giant Celebration

SEOUL (AP)—Scores of thousands of Koreans today joyously celebrated the collapse of President Syngman Rhee's 12-year-old regime as a liberation from dictatorship.

Unprovokedly jubilant students who led the unarmed revolt against the founder of the South Korean Republic now called for public calm to permit an orderly transition from autocracy to democracy.

A continuous 26-hour student rioting and demonstrations ended at midnight last night with more than 100,000 Koreans crowding the streets of this capital to celebrate what they obviously regarded as a historic political victory.

Student demonstrators marched among the throngs shouting, "Rhee, resigned! Others chant, 'We are free. We are free!'" Rhee's formal resignation was considered sure. Only the timing was in doubt.

It was agreed that a caretaker government, possibly to be headed by independent 62-year-old Hub Chung, must take over and elections must be called within three months.

The National Assembly backed by the students, demanded that Rhee resign immediately. Its resolution was adopted Tuesday by the 140 members who showed up. It has 234 members.

All through Tuesday students demonstrated and celebrated. Troops charged with enforcing martial law did little or nothing to check them. Police, hated by many Koreans as a symbol of repression, disappeared. Most apparently either fled Seoul or shed their uniforms, leaving law enforcement up to the army, which has been in charge since last week's "Bloody Tuesday" riots precipitated the climactic crisis.

The Health Ministry reported at least 15 more persons died in Tuesday's riots and more than 170 were wounded. For the week of violence, the totals rose to at least 145 dead, by official count, and more than 800 wounded.

While mobs of cheering students sacked the home of Rhee's vice president-elect, Lee K-Poong, Seoul waited anxiously to see what the pridefully stubborn, 85-year-old "George Washington" of South Korea would do. Some said he might wait at least two more days before bowing to the public clamor for his resignation.

But most agreed he could not wait much longer for fear of rekindling the fury which made Seoul and four other Korean cities battlefields and brought martial law to the country.

Rhee's offer to resign if "the people want," his order to vice president-elect Lee to leave all public posts, his promise of new elections—with no date specified—and his promise of governmental reforms all were hailed by riotously joyful students as a monumental victory for this country's impatient younger generation.

The student celebrations involved an attack on a police station and the looting and sackings of Lee's home. Lee, Rhee's running mate in the March 15 elections, was credited with a landslide victory over the opponent who defeated him four years ago. Students, charging fraud and police coercion at the polls, made Lee their chief target in the demonstrations.

Crowds of young people smashed into Lee's home, buried his personal belongings out the window and built a bonfire to burn them. One of the few items to survive was a huge silk American flag. The students gently placed it to one side, away from the fire, and then presented it to an Associated Press photographer. As for Lee, his whereabouts was unknown at that moment.

Another crowd of students and street urchins stormed a police station and set it afire. Police, known for their brutality and for their support of Rhee's Liberal Party, have aroused furious public hatred.

New York Crowds Welcome De Gaulle

NEW YORK (AP)—French President Charles de Gaulle made another of his great triumphal returns Tuesday, this time to New York City. At one point he strode away from his security guard to embrace well wishers in Time Square.

Police estimated a million persons lined lower Broadway to roar a greeting to the austere old warrior. De Gaulle is one of the few men ever to receive a second ticker tape parade up the historic Manhattan canyon of heroes.

"Vive De Gaulle!" rose from tens of thousands of throats as the lowering figure of the French leader was borne along the route in President Eisenhower's bubble-topped limousine, brought from Washington for the occasion.

"Hey, Charlie!" cried other onlookers, less formally.

Probably not since Charles Andre Marie Joseph De Gaulle returned to newly liberated Paris in 1944 to take over as provisional postwar leader of France has he received such a universally warm welcome. Police on duty could not recall such enthusiasm in recent years.

After the parade, when De Gaulle's caravan arrived at the Hotel Astor, he bolted his police escort, ignored a red carpet at the 44th street entrance, and marched in all his 6-foot-4 dignity across the street to shake hands with some of the 2,000 sixtators massed behind police barricades.

"Good luck to all of you," he said in English, as he embraced some of them with a wide sweep of his arms. "Lots of luck to all Americans."

The dismayed police escort, augmented by Police Commissioner Stephen J. Kennedy who leaped from his own limousine, ringed De Gaulle and virtually shoved him back to the hotel.

De Gaulle last came here in 1945 as premier of his nation's first provisional postwar government. This time he returned at the age of 69, a little grayer, a little paunchier, as first President of the Fifth French Republic.

Senior Ball Gets Unique Advertising

By TONI ROBB

They probably wouldn't "walk a mile for a Camel"—but they ran 26 miles for the Senior Ball.

For some unusual advance publicity to publicize the annual affair to be held Friday, Bill McMaisters, Bloomington sr., and Don Wiegand, MSU graduate from Flint, ran 26 miles—across the sea to Santa Catalina, but to Boston in the annual Boston Marathon April 19.

According to McMaisters, an advertising major (what else!), this granddaddy of all marathons drew a varied group of competitors, ranging from Olympic hopefuls to a 63-year-old young-at-heart who entered the race this year for the 40th time. The winner of the event was a representative from Finland who reached the finish line in two hours, 20 minutes.

The dance will be held in Hotel Olds ballroom Friday from 9-12 p.m. Featuring the music of Buddy Spangler, the affair will be highlighted with announcement of '60 Club members and the presentation of the Senior Activity award. Tickets are $3 per couple.

Riedel, Livingood To Attend Meeting Of Student Heads

Dan Riedel, who will take over as head of All University Student Government tonight and Bill Livingood, past president, will attend the Big 10 Student Presidents Conference at Indiana University in Bloomington this weekend.

The pair will leave Friday afternoon and return Sunday. Livingood is planning on bringing up the problem of Campus Chest here at MSU. Some schools raise substantial money on the united charity system, according to Livingood.

The purpose of Campus Chest, which started more than 10 years ago, is to represent various charities seeking separate donations.

The fact that the Chest representatives aren't allowed to make collections in the dormitories has stifled their collections, Livingood said.

Other activities which aided their funds were Spartacade and Spartan Review, neither of which were held this year. Only Penny Night supplied funds for the charity this year, Livingood said.

Brody to Talk At UB Award Presentation

Clark L. Brody, former member of the Board of Trustees, will be guest speaker at the annual Union Board Awards banquet tonight.

The banquet is held annually in honor of the outgoing officers. The John Howard Worker's Award will be given to the most outstanding worker of the year, outside of the UB board of directors.

The award was named after John Howard, first winner of the award, who was killed in an automobile accident.

Former President William Hampton, Bloomfield Hills senior, will also give a short speech and introduce the new president, Bob Koozy, Pontiac jr.

Guests invited to the banquet include two former Union Board presidents; Jack Breslin, assistant to the President; F. Ward Ourednik, assistant director of Alumni Relations; and their wives.

As Proposal to Discourage War

Trade of Destruction Discussed

A proposal that could destroy an American city and a Russian city was discussed by Dr. Abba Lerner, professor of economics, in two lectures Thursday and Monday in the Union.

Dr. Lerner cited a hypothetical example. If the Russians decided to invade Turkey, the U.S. would declare that it would destroy a million homes in a Russian city, giving one month's notice for evacuation. The Russians then could bomb an American city of comparable size.

He said the plan, which was initiated by Dr. Leo Sillard, a noted nuclear scientist, is based on the assumption that neither side would war or destruction.

Dr. Lerner said he believed that the Russians would standon their plan to attack Turkey in order to prevent destruction in their own country.

If such a plan were put into effect, both sides would take part in bidding for the size of the city to be destroyed, he said. If the Russians decided that the number of homes stated was expendable and attacked Turkey, the plan would have failed and the cities would be destroyed, he said. However, he said, the plan is preventive rather than destructive.

Dr. Lerner presented the plan to the audience. One man said that once the U.S. attacked an evacuated Russian city, the Russians would bomb an American city or the whole notion without warning.

Dr. Lerner referred to the

ROTC Units Lead Donors

Blood Drive Donations Rising

After a slow start Monday, the spring term blood drive began to speed as it rounded the second turn Tuesday.

More than 100,000 pints of blood were donated during the drive, with ROTC units leading the way.

One again the ROTC units led the donation list. The All State ROTC contributed 293 pints, while the Army ROTC gave 180.

Other ROTC units giving 100 pints each were the ROTC units of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, and Michigan Technological University.

The most promising sign of the drive, according to Miller, was the large turnout of those not associated with the military organizations. There were 92 civilian donations.

Miller said that all of a sudden giving blood is the thing to do on campus, at least we hope Miller said.

Miller added that he wanted to thank all those who have given so far and encourage all those to help make the rest of the week as successful.

The blood drive, which is sponsored this term by the Army ROTC, the ROTC, and the Army ROTC.

Clark also was identified as probably the most important individual in the country when it came to influencing sales of records.

Award-Winning African Movie To Be Presented

"The Boy Komaseni," a British Academy award winning film from West Africa, will be shown at 8 tonight in the Union Ballroom.

Produced by the Ghana Film Unit, the story is of a boy making his way from his tribal village into the glamour and heartbreaks of the Big Town.

It was won three prizes at international festivals and an award from the British Film Academy.

A half-hour color film on the emergence of Ghana will also be shown. Ghana was the first British-ruled African nation to achieve independence.

The films are sponsored by the Academic Benefits Committee of AUSG and the campus Committee on Operation Crossroads Africa. Proceeds will help pay expenses of the nine students taking part in the Operation Crossroads study-tour and work-camp in West Africa this summer.

Tickets may be bought for 50 cents at the United Nations Lounge, Union, and at Puno's Record Shop in Frandor.

Event Plans To Be Heard

This week's AUSG-sponsored radio program of campus events will have representatives from the International Club, the Senior Ball committee, and ROTC.

Every Wednesday night on WILS at 9:30 Pat Fife and Randy Hippler interview students connected with coming campus events.

Tonight, Mohammed Haniff, president of the International Club, and Barbara Contino, Mexico City jr., will discuss the club's program for Friday night.

Dr. Miloslav Ruzek, ambassador to Washington from Czechoslovakia, will address International Club's open meeting in the Kiva at 8 p.m. Friday.

Also on the show will be Ron Barnum, Pontiac sr., who will discuss plans for the Senior Ball to be held Friday night.

Don Miller, Grand Rapids jr., will be on hand to tell about the ROTC blood drive.

The weekly show is sponsored by the public relations committee of student government.

Injured Bicyclist In Fair Condition

Suzanne Rea, Bloomfield Hills freshman, remains in fair condition at Sparrow after a bicycle accident Saturday. Dr. James Feurig, director, health service, said Tuesday.

The cause of the accident remains unknown, according to MSU information services, but it is believed by police that the two tennis rackets she was carrying might have caught in her front wheel spokes as she was turning.

Williams Signs Constitution Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A bill providing for partisan nomination and election of delegates to a constitutional convention was signed into law Tuesday by Gov. Williams.

If a constitutional convention is approved, the legislature will be required to set the times for nomination and election of delegates. Other provisions for partisan selection of the delegates are contained in the new law.

The legislature failed to place the constitutional convention on the ballot by resolution.

The League of Women Voters and the state Junior Chamber of Commerce now are trying to gather enough signatures to put the proposal on the November ballot by petition.

Pre-Law Meeting

Faculty and students interested in pre-law are asked to meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in 34 Union to help reorganize the Pre-Law club. Activities planned for the future are talks by lawyers and deans of various law schools.

Gold Coffins for Spacemen?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lead coffins for astronauts on their way to Mars might be made of gold, according to a University of Minnesota scientist, said Tuesday.

The scientist, Paul H. Kellogg, said that in each case, the material intensity of cosmic rays was measured. Lead is the most effective material for shielding against such radiation—and that this would mean five tons of gold for a spherical space-coffin only 10 feet in diameter.

An alternative, he suggested, would be to have coffins into which spacemen could move when they detected a proton storm.

A lead coffin weighing about 50 tons, conceivably could do the trick, Kellogg said, adding that a similar weight one made of gold, which is just as good for shielding as lead.

"DO-IT-YOURSELF" TEACHER—Lee Smalley, one of 33 teaching machines designed and built by his students.

Do-It-Yourself Projects in Order Students Build Teaching Machine

Building machines prove to be of great value, schools with budgets may find "do-it-yourself" projects in order.

A class of MSU students building industrial arts education recently designed and built teaching machines at a cost of approximately $100 each.

Smalley's teaching machine is a component which gives the user information, guides him through the information and helps him to remember it.

Although these machines are components which would be used in a classroom, they are not intended to be used in a classroom.

Guides Recruited

The student guides for the registration week will be recruited from the student body.

The guides will be Dr. R. L. Anderson, Director of Men's Division, and Dr. R. L. Anderson, Director of Women's Division.

Library Features Rotating Exhibit

A rotating exhibit, commemorating the birthday of famous jazz artists, is featured in the exhibition case in the center of the first floor library.

The exhibition case was donated to the library by the Class of '38, along with a large number of the Landon Gazette, purchased with a portion of the 1959 Water Carnival proceeds.

Since the expiration of the paper, Mr. Koch and staff of the humanities division of the library have prepared the display each day.

Placed in the case are a few of the individual's works, some biographies, and a short biographical notice, containing quotations either by or about the author, reported Koch.

Gates Revises Manuals

Training Books Rumpus Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon has ordered that all training manuals be reviewed before they are issued and at least every year and a half thereafter to be sure they are needed and that they are in good taste.

A new directive signed by Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates II is now being distributed to defense and military service officials.

It is designed to head off much criticism as that caused by the Army training manual which changed their unit composition in the ranks of Department of Defense.

Shortly after the National Council of Churches of Christ complained to the Defense Department last February about the manual, Gates sent a memorandum to the Secretary of Army, Navy and Air Force.

Gates said then that several modifications had been effected on the ground that they dealt with subject matter inappropriate to military training, contain offensive inaccuracies, are lack of good taste or common sense or are not consistent with sound policy.

The new directive follows this up by ordering that all official publications, whether for purposes of administrative training, indoctrination or conduct of personnel, must be reviewed before they are published and at least every 18 months thereafter.

These publications, the directive said, will be reviewed for accuracy, content, timeliness, and appropriateness to the needs of the service.

Regulations and instructions, the directive said, will be reviewed for accuracy, content, timeliness, and appropriateness to the needs of the service.

Faculty Corner

Having received his bachelor's and master's degrees at Michigan State, Dr. Vincent is well aware of the problems and needs of the students at MSU.

DR. WARREN VINCENT
Assoc. Professor of Agriculture

After receiving his master's in 1939 he went on to Iowa State for his Ph.D. Completing his Ph.D. in 1943 he came to State where he has been doing extension work and later teaching on the agricultural economics staff.

Vincent is active in committee work concerning student relations. He was on the first committee on Student Affairs from 1952-1954 and at present is a member of Seminars for Faculty and Deans of Higher Education. Another aspect of his first relation to his work in extension agriculture, training, and one of selected professors to present his performance standards.

Vincent also serves as advisor to Alpha Zeta agriculture honor society, and has been advisor for the past several years to the Agricultural Education Club. His other activities include being on the board of advisors for Farmington and Student Council, and on the Board of the Department of Agricultural Extension.

He is not engaged in farm extension work, having to do with the Farm Accounting Project in Michigan. This project enables the farmer to analyze his system, learning better farm techniques.

COLLEGE: THE FINE OF EDUCATION

In a nation for a while there has been a feeling of a general pessimism, or at least a feeling of being a bit down. It is not a pessimism, but a feeling of being a bit down. It is not a pessimism, but a feeling of being a bit down.

Let us examine our minds. We are living in a time of great change and growth. We are living in a time of great change and growth.

Let us do not, we are living in a time of great change and growth. We are living in a time of great change and growth.

Well, do the best thing we can do. Let us do the best thing we can do. Let us do the best thing we can do.

Let us do the best thing we can do. Let us do the best thing we can do. Let us do the best thing we can do.

Let us do the best thing we can do. Let us do the best thing we can do. Let us do the best thing we can do.

Job-Seeker Problems Aired

The effects of persistent unemployment problems in our economy can be fully understood only in terms of the individual job-seeker and the unpleasant difficulties confronting him and his family when their income ceases.

"Situation Wanted," a program produced and narrated by Al LaFare of WRAR radio, concerns itself with these problems. Dr. Daniel Kinnert of the MSU Labor and Industrial Relations Center was the series consultant. Featured in the series is Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Unemployment.

Let us examine our souls.
We will wear the day with a crisp, smiling smile in White Marlboro. Then we will go over to receive history and spend a happy hour with the Marlboro. Then we will open our eyes by driving with the ROX for a spell. Then we will enjoy a moment of calm and sensible a bit of Marlboro. Then we'll go to the school and palpate a few lessons. Then we'll go to home economics and have lunch.
And between classes we'll smoke Marlboro Cigarettes. This, let me emphasize, is not an added fillip to the broadening of our education; it is an essential. To learn to live right and well is an important part of education, and Marlboro is an important part of living right and well. Do you think there's any cut when it comes to Marlboro? Well, hush, the idea is on you. Marlboro, with its Selecto filter, delivers flavor in full measure. Flavor without stint or compromise. Flavor that wrinkles into derisive, flavor holding both in one. The triumph of the tobaccoist's art comes to you in soft pack or three-in-one box and can be lighted with match, lighter, candle, Woodchuck, mangle, or by rubbing two small Indians together.
When we have embarked on this new regimen, or more accurately, had a regimen, we will soon be convinced with sufficient like a beam with glass. When strangers meet near the street, they will say, "What was Woodchuck doing for miles above Tintin? Kinnert," we will no longer ask when it is about education. We will only ask and say:
"As my truly educated person knows, Woodchuck, Shellen, and Kinnert used to go to the Woodchuck Inn every year for the poster-writing contests and three-legged race, both of which they enjoyed wildly. Well, sir, imagine their chagrin when they arrived at the Inn in 1971 and learned that Olive Cromwell, jittery because Gay Fawkes had just invented the spinning jenny, had cancelled all public gatherings, including the Woodchuck Fair and Woodchuck, Shellen was so upset that he drowned himself in the Bay of Naples. Kinnert went to London and became Samuel Johnson, and Woodchuck ran blindly into the forest until he collapsed in a heat for miles above Tintin Abbey. Then he lay for several years, sobbing and kicking his little feet. At length, peace returned to him. He composed himself and, realizing for the first time the beauty of the forest around him, he wrote Joyce Kilmer's immortal "Trees." And that, smartypants, is what Woodchuck was doing ten miles above Tintin Abbey!"

Point and parcel: white know that if you like Marlboro but you don't like them, you can't do better than Marlboro's companion cigarette—Philip Morris.
