Strongman Rule Stirs Protests

Students Inspired By Korean Revolt

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Thousands of tough, Turkish troops patrolled Istanbul Thursday night to curb Korean-like demonstrations against the strongman government of Premier Adnan Menderes.

Inflamed by the example of youths in Korea, about 10,000 students and others took off a noisy protest against the Menderes regime. It grew into a riot.

About 50 persons were injured and four, by some accounts, died. Martial law was invoked in Istanbul and also in Ankara, although no disturbances were reported in the capital.

The military commander of Istanbul, Lt. Gen. Fahri Ozilek, denied the unofficial reports that five persons had been killed.

He also said martial law and a 9 a. m. to 5 a. m. curfew would be enforced as long as he thought necessary.

The most violent rioting took place around Istanbul University. Police used tear gas, clubs and pistols fired into the air to break up the rioting.

By the time the night curfew began, the students were back in their quarters.

American tourists at the modern Istanbul Hilton Hotel were warned not to venture outside after the curfew was imposed.

The presence of so many troops, some of them battle-hardened veterans of the Korean war, restored an atmosphere of calm by nightfall.

Showing signs of praise for Korean students whose presence evoked sympathy from the regime, the week demonstrators denounced Menderes as a dictator, demanding his resignation, and cried for "liberty."

Turkey is a staunch anti-Communist ally of the United States. Since Korea, she has received billions of dollars of U. S. aid.

Sparking the student uprising was a stormy session of Parliament last night, when powers of a special parliamentary commission were broadened. The commission was set up a week ago to probe the opposition People's Republican party headed by former Premier Ismet Inonu. The party, among other things, stands for a cautious foreign policy and a less close identification with the United States.

The parliamentary commission has banned political activity, and party politics came to a halt Monday.

The legislature is controlled by Menderes' Democratic party. Its committee has banned publication of news stories, articles, documents, statements or pictures inside Turkey pertaining to the Inonu investigation. It is empowered to seize or suspend publications violating the decrees and imprison violators.

Turkey's already strict press laws have resulted in imprisonment of scores of newsmen.

Columbia Tells Girls 'No Slacks or Shorts'

NEW YORK (AP)—There was bad news at Columbia University and you couldn't tell who felt worse, the boys or girls.

Slacks and Bermuda shorts are out for coeds — in class and off-campus.

Mrs. Millicent McIntosh, president of Barnard College, the undergraduate women's part of the university, requested that coeds wear skirts to classes to contribute favorably to the image of the university.

Her request, however, does not refer to "outdoors on their own grounds, and will be in abeyance during final examinations," the president said. Formal regulations will be drawn up in June.

Many male students had supported the coeds in their anti-start campaign.

"THERE'S NOTHING TO IT," say the smiles on the faces of these MSU students who donated blood Thursday. The spring term drive ended today at 2 p.m. Have you donated your pint of blood yet?

Last Minute Donations Wanted

Needed: 417 Pints For Blood Drive Goal

Four hundred seventeen pints are needed to reach the 2,000 pint goal as the spring term blood drive comes into the home stretch today.

Thursday's donations totaled 149, bringing the four-day total to 1,333 pints.

Blood drive chairman Cadet Major Don Miller, East Lansing, said he was encouraged by the number of coeds who donated Thursday.

Miller also said that with only one ROTC drill section coming through today, there would be little or no waiting.

The blood drive is being held in Demonstration Hall. Donations will be taken until 4 p.m. today.

N. Thomas Talks Here Thursday

Norman Thomas, known to many as the "great American dissenter," will speak Thursday at 8 p.m. in Fairchild Theater.

The 73-year-old statesman will talk on "Civil Liberties and the United States."

Thomas, a six-time candidate for the Presidency of the United States on the Socialist ticket, is respected as a leader in the fight for American civil liberties.

An ordained minister and associate professor of Princeton, he was one of the organizers of the American Civil Liberties Union 40 years ago.

The 1948 presidential election was the last of six consecutive elections in which Thomas ran for President on the Socialist ticket.

Over the years Thomas has worked for world disarmament with international control and inspection.

He is now chairman of the Post War World Council and of the Labor Research Institute. He is often heard on radio and television and contributes frequently to magazines and newspapers.

Directed by Frank Rutledge, instructor of speech, the play was performed before appreciative audiences both Wednesday and Thursday nights, and will be presented again tonight and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Fairchild Theater.

Although Kausley's play contains little actual suspense, the production moved with speed and precision.

Rubashov, on stage during every tense moment of the play, was portrayed intelligently and skillfully by Bernard Tatro, Niagara Falls soph.

Although at first hesitant about establishing himself as the principal character on stage, Tatro soon developed his role as the proud Rubashov with sincerity and conviction.

His facial expressions and gestures were effective and his movements on stage, especially in the difficult transitional flashback scenes, were handled with ease.

Bob Brolli, special student from Montclair, N. J., gave a powerful interpretation of Ivanoff, an old Bolshevik revolutionary, trapped by the methods of the new regime.

Ivanoff's sometimes difficult speeches were delivered with remarkable ease and persuasiveness by Brolli.

His attempt to solicit Rubashov's confession by appealing to his intelligence and rationality resulted in one of the most dramatic and climactic scenes of the play.

The skill evident in the acting of both Brolli and Tatro makes Rubashov's decision to confess plausible to the audience.

Gletkin, the inhuman, diabolical product of the revolution was played dynamically by Charles Cluff, N. Y. C. junior, who sometimes tended to dominate the stage.

Certain lines — "God is dead" — delineated Gletkin's brutality and ruthlessness through Cluff's forceful, authoritative delivery.

The play's only female lead, that of Luba, Rubashov's "petty bourgeois" secretary and mistress, was played with dignity by Anne Cluff, Allen Park soph.

The danger of this relationship being incongruous with the general tone and theme of the play was averted by the lack of emphasis placed upon it.

Luba's belief in bourgeois sentimentality and her devotion to Rubashov finally leads to her unjust execution for sabotage.

Robert Gras, Holland fr., Ken Peck, Bay City fr., and Brian Denton, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., soph, as prisoners 402, 302, and 202 ably supported the leading actors.

The stage setting was designed by Edward Andreasen, assistant professor of speech, and highlighted the play's mood of stark depression.

Special lighting and sound effects, despite occasional poor timing, added to the play's general effectiveness.

MSU Briefs

Sunday Jazz Show

The Jazz Society of West Circle Drive will present a jazz show Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Union porch. In case of bad weather the show will be held in Union main lounge.

Baritone Sings

Donald Circle, baritone, will appear Sunday at 4 p.m. in a graduate recital presented by the Music department. Open to the public, the program features a collection of arias, French songs and songs by Peter Warlock.

Peace Speakers

The Young Socialists Club will present five speakers from local peace organizations at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Union lounge. The speakers will be: "What Can Students Do to Promote World Peace?" Proposals to form a student peace group on campus will be discussed.

Tennyson's Birds

Dr. G. L. Abbott, associate professor of foreign languages, will talk to the Poetry Society of Michigan Sunday at 2 p.m. in 32 Union. His subject will be "Birds in Tennyson's Poetry."

Patch to Lecture

Dr. Richard Patch will conduct a series of seminars, conferences and classes at MSU May 3-12, under the sponsorship of the American Universities Field Staff. Patch spent seven years in the Andes Mountain area studying the Peruvian and Bolivian culture, history, and economy.

Spartan Magazine On Sale Monday

Spartan magazine will be on sale Monday through Wednesday at Berkeley, Union, Short Course Cafeteria, Natural Science and Student Services.

Fiction features include "Graduate Assistant" by Virgil Scott, associate professor of English, and "Just a Song at Twilight," by R. A. Ball, Wilmington, Del.

An MSU student who recently visited Montgomery, Ala., will report on the racial situation in that city.

Tradition, Drama in May Morning Sing

Mortar Board, Tower Guard Tap Sunday

Tradition and drama will mingle Sunday morning as unsuspecting coeds are tapped for Mortar Board and Tower Guard at May Morning Sing.

The announcement of new members of the two honoraries will provide the drama, while the Men's Glee Club and a brass ensemble from the music department will carry on a tradition dating from the 16th century.

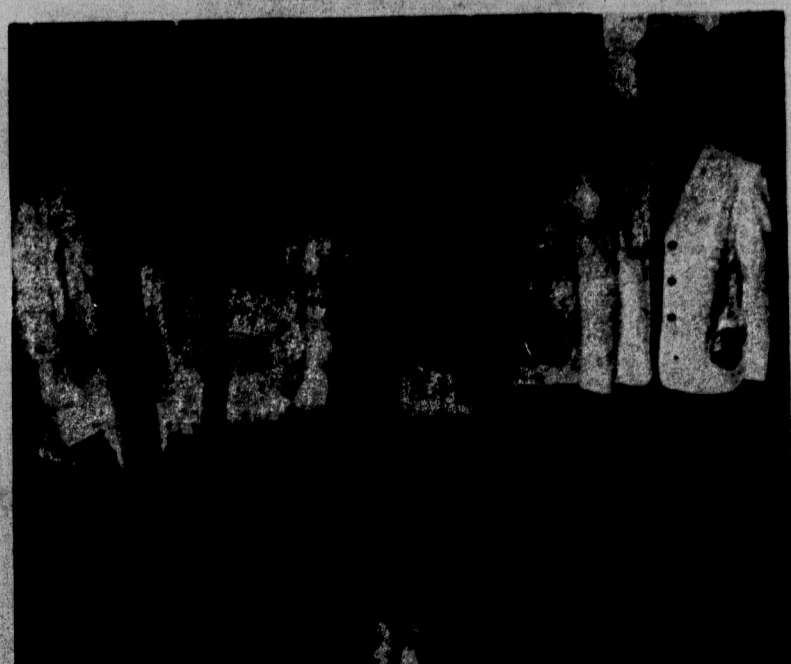

The Men's Glee Club, accompanied by Wendel Westcott, associate professor of music, playing the bells of Beaumont Tower, will sing "Brother Sing On," "No Man Is an Island" and "To Thee MSU," an original composition of a former MSU student.

A brass choir, directed by Byron Autrey, assistant professor of music, will play "Two Marches," a work by Fisher, a 16th century composer.

Dr. Maurice Crane, associate professor of humanities, is master of ceremonies.

A serenade of prospective members was held Thursday night. Each dorm or sorority house with a new Tower Guard or Mortar Board member was serenaded by outgoing members.

The Sing, scheduled for 8 a.m., will be followed by breakfasts honoring the tappers and their parents. Pres. John A. Hannah will honor Mortar Board members, while Spartan Women's League will sponsor the Tower Guard breakfast.

Sensitive Interpretation

Fine Acting Marks 'Darkness at Noon'

Because of the sensitive interpretation of the play and the superb acting ability of the cast members "Darkness at Noon," the University Theater's spring production, escaped the trap of being primarily anti-Communist propaganda.

Fraternity Seat Goes To Plapp

Steve Plapp, defeated presidential candidate, appointed himself a member of the Tenth Congress of AUSA Wednesday night.

Plapp, who was recommended as a fraternity representative by the IPC, made the appointment while presiding as speaker at the first of two extra sessions of Congress.

Dan Riedel, new president of AUSA, and all members of Congress were sworn in by Fred Henniger of the Judiciary Board. Riedel welcomed the new members and reviewed the AUSA constitution.

Nominations for new officers of Student Congress were accepted. Those nominated for speaker were Chuck Herbert, Lansing, and Plapp.

Tim Anderson, fraternities, and Norm Fisher, W. Shaw, were nominated for speaker pro tem. Jim Hume, sororities, was the sole nominee for the office of secretary.

AUSA will elect officers next week from the nominations.

New members of Congress were introduced. They are: Ken Weaver, E. Lansing; Bruce Douglas, Married Housing; Dave Roubottom, Lansing; Barry Boughton, Lansing; Ernie Gible, Emmos; Mike Russell, Kather; Karen Collins, E. Lansing; and Beth Hay, W. Lansing.

Arnold Hoffman, E. Lansing, and Barry Boughton, protesting Plapp's self-appointment, asserted that the speaker of the former congress cannot appoint members to the new congress.

Plapp cited a resolution passed last year which created the two extra sessions of congress for organizational purposes. He said that since the speaker of the former congress presides at these extra sessions, he is able to appoint new members.

Senior Ball 9-12 Tonight

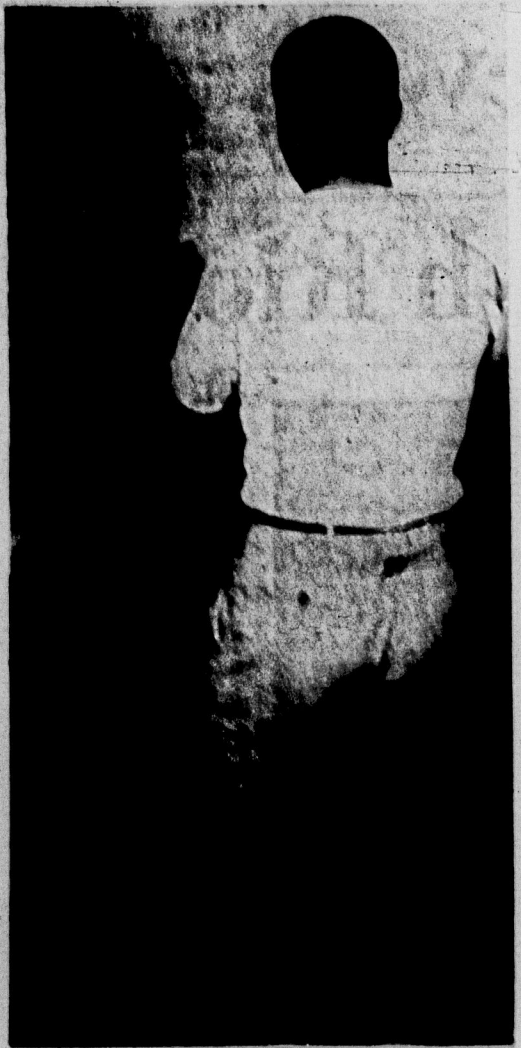

Seniors will have one last dance tonight to "rather ye tobede while ye may," and dance the hours away at the Annual Senior Ball in the Hotel Oak ballroom from 9-12 p.m.

The gala event will feature the music of the Buddy Spangler combo in an atmosphere of nostalgic memories.

Highlighting the evening will be the announcement of '60 Club members, 1960 graduates honored for outstanding scholarship, activities and contribution to the university.

The '60 Club members, the core of future alumni only, will also nominate candidates to serve as permanent class officers.

The Senior Activity Award will also be presented to an outstanding member of the 1960th graduating class at MSU.

LINDA BAUMER, Lansing Senior and Dick Pines, Post-Chief, will make a few minutes of the Senior Ball. The ball will be held in the Grand Ball Room at 10:30 p.m. Friday at the Lansing Y. W. C. A. Ball Room.

Spring Clean-up Religious Organizations Feature Guest Speakers

Members have also scheduled their work for the spring. The Lansing Y. W. C. A. will have a "Spring Clean-up" on Friday, April 29, at 10:30 p.m. in the Grand Ball Room. The speaker for the evening will be Linda Baumer, Lansing Senior and Dick Pines, Post-Chief. The Y. W. C. A. will also have a "Spring Clean-up" on Saturday, April 30, at 10:30 a.m. in the Grand Ball Room. The speaker for the evening will be Linda Baumer, Lansing Senior and Dick Pines, Post-Chief.

Truman Expresses View on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harry S. Truman Thursday threw out some good words for foreign aid and the United Nations and some critical ones for race prejudice.

The former president, in good humor, strolled the three blocks from his hotel to speak at the seventh National Conference on International Economic and Social Development at another hotel.

The conference, which meets once a year, includes representatives from various farm, labor, education, religion and civic organizations interested in technical assistance and economic development programs, both government and nongovernment.

In a prepared statement which he read, Truman told his several hundred listeners that it was their job to make the aim of the foreign aid program as clear as "the help remove the current organized opposition to it."

"And the UN will work, he said. He reminded his audience that he will be 70 years old on May 8.

"And I sincerely hope I can go another 14 years," he said. "I've promised to run for president when I'm 90 years old."

But, he added, someone had written him to say the year he would be 90 (1974) would be off-election year. Truman grinned while his audience laughed.

"You all know how I feel about race or religious prejudice. I abhor intolerance in any form. There is no room for it in our republic. And we cannot deal with race prejudice by high sounding words and pious phrases.

"We must practice tolerance in every phase of our daily life. In the work that you are doing you have to keep in mind that the poison of race prejudice whatever its source, may undo all the constructive work that you are trying to do."

Then he went on to the United Nations, saying it was the only institution to prevent destruction of the world in a terrible war.

"And the UN will work, he said. He reminded his audience that he will be 70 years old on May 8.

"And I sincerely hope I can go another 14 years," he said. "I've promised to run for president when I'm 90 years old."

But, he added, someone had written him to say the year he would be 90 (1974) would be off-election year. Truman grinned while his audience laughed.

Closes Conference Management Meeting To Hear Bagwell Speak

Paul Bagwell will talk on "Business and the American Political Scene," May 4 at 8 p.m., closing out the first annual management conference at Kellogg center.

The conference is sponsored by the Management Club made up of undergraduate students in Business Administration.

Bagwell, MSU director of scholarships, is on leave to seek the Republican nomination for governor of Michigan.

Previous to his present appointment, Bagwell was head of communications skills, from 1944 to 1953.

He was president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in 1949 and 1950.

From 1940 to 1953 Bagwell served as a member of the U.S. national commission on UNESCO.

He was a chairman of President Eisenhower's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped from 1950 to 1953. He is still a member of this committee.

Bagwell has taught and directed an executive training program for the Ford Motor Company and the Michigan Feds Bureau during the last few years.

He helped evaluate and reorganize the Communication Division of Instruction for the USAF ROTC at Maxwell Field and is a consultant to this branch of the military.

Bagwell received a master's degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1933 and has published many articles and speeches for professional journals.

Deans, Faculty To View Parade

Tuesday will be Deans and Faculty Day for parading All Fords and Army ROTC cadets on Old College Field. The parade begins at 4:30 p.m.

Revised seating for faculty members will be erected near the official reviewing stand.

Club organizations and the university band will assemble at 4:15 p.m. for review at 4:30 and then pass in review. All students are invited to attend. In case of rain the review will be postponed.

EYE HI-LITES

by Dr. Joseph B. Gutstein

Questions about eye problems will be answered by Dr. J. B. Gutstein in this column every Monday.

QUESTION: What are some of the advantages of contact lenses?

ANSWER: There are some improvements in vision. The lenses are plastic and are, therefore, safer than glasses. No reflections are in glasses or "steaming up." The lens move as the eye moves and so it enhances the field of vision. They can be worn for sports. And (by no means least) they are, to all intents and purposes invisible.

QUESTION: Which gives better vision, plastic lenses or glass lenses?

ANSWER: In general, you would actually "see better" through the plastic lenses because they have better light transmission.

QUESTION: Can the plastic of contact lenses irritate the eye?

ANSWER: We have some leading authorities who wrote in the American Journal of Optometry of May 1941, "Synthetic plastic compounds such as 'Lucite' and 'Plexiglass' cause no irritation to human or animal tissues nor are they absorbed or changed in any manner."

Conrad Berens, M.D. and Sydney Rothbard both of New York.

Two European Scientists To Give Lecture on Campus

Two distinguished European scientists will lecture on campus next week.

Dr. Paul-Ramondot, renowned professor of the Mineral Institute, University of Heidelberg, Germany, will be the guest of the geology department.

The physics and astronomy department will be host to Dr. Pierre Grivet, professor of electronics and radioelectronics at the University of Paris (Sorbonne).

They will give lectures and take part in informal discussions of teaching and research.

Both are visiting American universities as part of broad national programs to stimulate interest in their sciences. They are traveling under the auspices of professional societies which have received support of the National Science Foundation for this purpose.

Dr. Grivet is lecturing for the American Institute of Physics and its member societies, the American Association of Physics Teachers.

Passion Play on Crete Is Setting

Dassin's Allegorical Drama A 'Must' for Serious Minded

By ED FLOURNOY

Jules Dassin's "He Who Must Die" (at the State) is an allegorical story of a modern day counterpart of Jesus who is crucified in his village because he insists upon the practice of a fundamental Christian ideal: doing unto others as he would have them do unto him. The opposing faction is the church which insists that such a practice in this case would not be in the least beneficial to them.

The tale is told through the experiences and persons on the island of Crete which was under Turkish dominion after World War I, when this story takes place. It is based on the late Nikos Kazantzakis' novel, "The Greek Passion."

The town of Lycovrissi, at peace with its Turkish government, is preparing for its traditional Passio Play to be given during Holy Week celebration. The leading roles have been assigned to various citizens chosen by the town's council, when the inhabitants from a distant village arrive seeking shelter and consolation.

Their own town was destroyed by hostile Turks, and they abandoned it to find a new homeland. But now, in Lycovrissi, they are rejected by the town's "Pope" and its wealthy patriarch who fear that sheltering the refugees would tax their own resources and provoke a disturbance with the Turks. They frighten the townspeople by insisting that the refugees have cholera.

The young shepherd chosen to play Christ in the play tries to help the starving refugees who in the meantime have settled just outside the village. Before long the other members of the play, including the town patriarch who was chosen to play the role of the high priest, are ultimately captured and put to death as the refugees insist to fight for what they believe they now have a right to.

The main characters involved in the crucifixion of the Pope are duplicated both in punishment and in participation in the story. One of the less prominent villagers, chosen to play Judas, and parallel to Judas Iscariot, betrays his fellow.

Dassin tells his story with a gripping frankness that unabashedly presents an established church contradicting its ideal and pardoning its own weakness. He has charged the screen with faces, scenes and events that one cannot easily forget and will not easily disregard.

One of the final scenes is noticeably patterned after the Odessa Steppes sequence of Sergei Eisenstein's aged film classic, "Potemkin," the result is appropriate and appreciable. The entire cast, which includes John Serrano, Pierre Vaucek, and Marina Mercouri, performs beautifully and helps to make "He Who Must Die" a classic of its kind and a "must see" for anyone interested in serious drama.

Lansing, fisheries and wildlife and ag. chemistry; Don Luck, Africa, mathematics; John Smith, E. Lansing, mathematics; and Paul Woodruff, Lansing, civil engineering.

The remaining two grants are Human Fellowships of $1,000 plus tuition, which are given to Michigan residents. These went to W. Bruce Erickson, E. Lansing, economics; and Anthony Guthrie, E. Lansing, education.

Students Injured In Crash on M78

Three MSU students were injured in an automobile accident Wednesday night at Abbot and M-78 and taken to Sparrow, East Lansing, police reported.

The injured, who were transferred to Olin, were the driver, Charles Schroeder, Roseville, Mich., with lacerations of the right forehead; Dale LePage, Grand Blanc, Mich., with a possible jaw fracture and cuts to the arms and legs; and Arthur Ankeny, Detroit, with a possible concussion and several head lacerations.

The car driven by Schroeder, was going south on Abbot Road and was struck by a car going east on M-78 driven by Robert Schable, East Lansing, police said. Schable was not injured.

Both cars were severely damaged, police said, with a loss of about $1,000. The cause of the accident is still under investigation.

Huh Chung Moves Fast To Remove Injustices

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Syngman Rhee faded into retirement Thursday and his provisional successor set a three-month deadline for his aides to rid the nation of "long accumulated illegalities, injustices and corruption."

Political illegality and deep popular suspicion of corruption sparked the demonstrations which forced the resignation of strongman Rhee, founder of the Republic and its first and only president. But Wednesday he was hailed as a patriot by the very students whose violent demonstrations toppled his 12-year-old regime.

A picture of patriarchal fragility, he was covered as he left the presidential palace with great esteem on his craggy countenance over the suicide pact death of his protégé, Lee Ki-Poong.

Acting president Huh Chung, who has a reputation for rugged independence and political honesty, moved swiftly to set the nation on an even course.

The 64-year-old provisional chief named six new ministers and planned to name two more to fill out a 12-man government. He told his ministers their supreme task is "to get rid completely of the long accumulated illegalities, injustices, corruption and other disorders in various departments of the administration."

Huh said the cabinet should carry out reforms in close cooperation with the legislative and judicial branches, "so the current explosive feeling of the people can be transformed into voluntary and constructive patriotism."

Huh's statement said the uprising of the past two weeks "could provide, if its lessons are put into practice, the best circumstances which would promote the democratic development of the nation and rapid prosperity for a free economy in this country."

The acting president said irregularities in political institutions made injustices possible in the past. He demanded prompt reorganization of the police into a politically independent force.

National police influence in politics and police brutality were among factors which led to South Korea's explosion. Police coercion at the polls March 15, when Lee Ki-Poong was elected vice president over the opposition incumbent by an 8-1 margin, touched off the demonstrations. Apparently ornamental-style atonement for his role in the violence led Lee into a suicide pact. His elder son shot his parents and his brother and then turned the gun on himself. All four died.

Bringing new knowledge to eager finger tips

Braille has opened up bright new worlds for thousands and thousands of blind persons. However, the difficulty of translating printed material into this complex "touch language" has limited the number and variety of publications.

To make more Braille material available, a method of transcribing the printed word into Braille automatically has been developed by IBM scientists in cooperation with the American Printing House for the Blind.

The text, in punched card form, is processed by a high-speed IBM electronic computer. The computer can translate a 100-page book into its equivalent Braille in less than an hour.

It takes all kinds of talents to develop computer systems that can handle complex jobs like this. Expanding computer applications at IBM have created opportunities in research, engineering, programming and manufacturing. Perhaps one of these IBM careers is the "future" you've been looking for.

Greeks Win Big 10 Prize For Display

The Big 10 IFC-PanHtel Conference awarded its annual trophy to the MSU delegation for the best informative display of Greek activities.

MSU choose Greek Week as its theme. Pictures of the 100 Greek Feast, fraternity and sorority houses, and pennants were included.

Miss Mabel Petersen, PanHtel advisor, and George Hibbard, IFC advisor, accompanied Pat Anderson, president of PanHtel, and Bill Mitchell, IFC president, to the conference which was held last week at the University of Minnesota.

Other PanHtel delegates were Pat Graff, Flint soph., Judy Hauer, E. Lansing jr., and Judy Klugman, Chicago jr., and Tod Reuling, E. Lansing jr., and Jim Kirshend, Burlington, Indiana, jr., represented IFC.

University of Minnesota's Dean of Students, Edmund Williams, made the opening address. His topic was "How the Greeks Can Maintain Effective Leadership Although a Minority."

The conference was designed to establish a good source of communication between the Big 10 Greeks. A broader insight into the entire fraternity system through the Big 10 was accomplished through an exchange of ideas.

Leadership, existing problems, mutual process, pledging and dues, and the need to appeal to superior scholarship students were among the topics discussed.

Beauties Try For '60 Title

The 17 women, 10 of whom are MSU sophomores, have been selected from the preliminary screening contest to compete for the Miss Lansing Pageant title for 1960.

The 17, who will participate in the finals on Saturday, May 21, at the Lansing Everett High School Auditorium, are:

Elizabeth Beach, Bay City; Jane Collins, Greenburg; Kay Smith, Martha Hicks, East Lansing; Janet Lankke, Crosswell; Patricia Parks, Wayne; Trudy Martin, Royal Oak; Birmingham; Patricia Saunders, Dearborn; Barbara Whipple, Lansing; Judith Young, Huntington Woods; Janice Labyak, Lansing; and Ruth Thomas, Okemos.

One of these young ladies will represent Lansing in the Miss Michigan contest, which will be held in Muskegon in June, and the winner there will be "Miss Michigan" in the subsequent Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City in September.

Jordan Receives Award From UB

The Union Board John Howard Worker of the Year award was awarded to John Jordan, Atlanta, Ga., senior, for his work as chairman of this year's Union Board Week.

The award was presented Wednesday night by ex-President of UB, William Hampton, Bloomfield Hills, senior, at the annual Awards Banquet.

Clark L. Boddy also spoke on MSU as it existed when he served on the Board of Trustees. He retired last December.

Intelligent or Stupid? Dentist Says It's Teeth

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A dentist claimed Wednesday that people glance at your six upper front teeth and decide from them what sort of person you are—vigorous, feminine, predatory, intelligent or stupid.

Dr. Wood Swaggart of Denver did not insist that teeth present an accurate picture of character.

But in a demonstration lecture at the Texas Dental Assn. convention, he said they cause strong initial impressions.

Based on his experience in manipulating false teeth, he said dentists can give the woman who needs it a soft feminine look combined with just a touch of hardness.

Dr. Swaggart demonstrated with slides and said probably the real personality kids are two teeth immediately adjacent to the two central teeth.

By turning these and changing the angle, softness can be given to a face, he said.

The dentist said that when a person smiles, his lower lip con-
