Next week will mark the first attempt by the University to bring together many of the cultural endeavors of the campus in one festival combining music, art, dance, theater, and landscape architecture.

"The entire idea behind the festival is an opportunity for students to have the privilege of working with great artists," Dr. Clair E. Taylor, director of summer school said.

Many of the participants are teachers who will be better able to perform their services when they return to their own schools.

MSU faculty members are urged to discuss their classes for the festival at 11 a.m.

Monday, Taylor said.

Robert Shaw, will conduct the concert which will close the program. He will speak at the convention in the Auditorium.

MSU will award an honorary degree to the renowned soprano.

Shaw, perhaps best known as conductor of the Robert Shaw Chorale, will conduct the Boston Requiem.

An associate conductor of the Cleveland orchestra, Shaw has served as conductor with the Boston Symphony and other leading orchestras. He has been director of choral music at the Berkshire Music center as well as the Juillard School of Music in New York City.

PRESIDENT John A. Hannah will introduce Shaw. Taylor will extend the welcome. The invocation and benediction will be given by The Right Reverend Monsignor Jerome V. MacEachron, Saint Thomas Aquinas church, East Lansing.

The Youth Music symphony band, composed of high school people studying on campus, will play. Harry Beglau, director of the East Tech high school band in Detroit, will conduct.

In the afternoon, "A Touch of the Poet" by Eugene O'Neill will be presented in a concert reading by the department of speech.

"Sometimes a Head, sometimes a Heart," this kind of presentation has become increasingly popular in the last ten years, director Louis Cheney said.

There is no scenery and no real moving about, although there is some suggested action," Miss Cheney said. "There are no costumes as such and little make-up is worn. Much is added by lighting, however."

DR. NATHANIEL Fek, assistant professor of speech at MSU, has been working with the light crew.

Miss Cheney teaches speech and directs the theater at Kresge Art Center. Her undergraduate work was done at Mushing College and her MA earned at Kent State College, both in Ohio. She is in her second year of doctoral work at MSU.

LEADING ROLES in "A Touch of the Poet" will be taken by senior Joe Park, as Cornelius Melody, Elizabeth Shaban, a senior, as Sara, and Judy Mason, a senior, as the mother, Nora.

Garth Erington will read the role of Jamie, a senior. Now teaching in Pontiac, Erington did his undergraduate work at MSU.

OTHER PARTS are being taken by George Johnston, a West Virginia sophomore playing Mickey Malloy; Jane Penna, Holland Junior as Deborah; and Freeman Mackon, Wyandotte graduate student as Mr. Gadsby.

Open try-outs for the roles were held at the beginning of the term. The group has been in rehearsal three weeks.

THE READING, lasting approximately an hour and a half, will be given at 4 p.m. Monday at Fairchild theatre. The public is welcome, free of charge.

Also at Fairchild theatre, Garth Eckbo, landscape architect, will present an illustrated lecture, "Design for Living," at 8:15 p.m.

ALTHOUGH MSU does not have a school of architecture, Eckbo is a guest lecturer at Harvard.

A distinguished landscape architect in California, Eckbo has been a guest lecturer at Harvard.

Cool Weather Is Predicted

Cool weather will continue until Saturday or Sunday with little or no rain predicted.

The U.S. Weather bureau's five-day extended forecast predicts temperatures to be three degrees below normal in the northern part of the state and six degrees below normal in the southern part.

Normal maximum for this time of year is 81 to 86. Normal low is 59 to 64.

Schmidt Store Burns

Fire caused damage estimated at between $100,000 and $140,000 to the Schmidt Brothers supermarket Wednesday night.

The supermarket, located on US-10 near Okemos, was reported afire at 6:30 p.m. and was burning out of control when Meridian Township firemen arrived.

State Police are investigating for possible arson. Other, possibly natural, causes have not been ruled out.

MERIDIAN FIREMEN were assisted by two trucks from East Lansing, a pumper and the aerial ladder, a Lansing Township truck, men from the Holt volunteers, and the Lansing department, which brought several tanks of compressed air.

Eleven police cars handled traffic and spectators attracted to the blaze. Township fire officials estimated that nearly 5,000 people watched the fire.

East Lansing Provides Additional Parking Space

Students returning to school this fall should find adequate parking space in the off-Grand River area, according to John H. Patriarche, East Lansing city manager.

Improvements are being made which should provide an additional 243 parking spaces in the downtown area, he said. This would bring the total downtown off-street parking space to 960.

IN THE past, complaints have been received at City hall of students parking all day on streets off Grand River and leaving no room for transient parking.

"It's not only the students but employees of business firms in the local area that have been using this off-street parking," Patriarche said. "We've had this problem ever since 1946 when the university's enrollment started."

The new parking facilities are in three areas:

IN THE 400 block of MAC will be 72 spaces leased on a monthly rental system.

Another parking lot just off Grand River between Bailey and Albert st. will handle some of the Berkeley hall traffic that has been parking in the city by the intersection of MAC and Charles st.

There will be 84 parking spaces in this area charging five cents an hour instead of five cents for a half hour.

THE THIRD lot being developed will also be located and will charge five cents an hour in park. It will be located on Evergreen st. and will have 87 parking spaces.

So far, only the lot on MAC is in operation but Patriarche said that work is being done on the lot between Bailey and Albert st. and work on the Evergreen st. lot will begin soon.

"WE HOPE the addition of these three new parking areas will relieve the situation somewhat," Patriarche said. "We don't expect this to be a cure-all to our parking problems but it should be a remedy."

They May Be Rebels Top Students Need Help

Approximately 70 educators met at Kellogg Center last week to study the problems of dealing with superior and talented students.

The conference was sponsored by the project on guidance and motivation of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools. It was under the direction of J. Ned Bryan and Bruce Sherzer of the Association.

MSU PERSONNEL taking part were Dr. Elizabeth Drews and Dr. Stanley Idzerda.

Dr. Drews, associate professor of education spoke to a highly appreciative audience on the subject of the underachiever.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Drews, superior and talented students generally fall into four categories. First is the "worker" who gets all A's and conforms to what others want of him.

Another type is the "big wheel" who is willing to work for grades primarily so that he can take part in organizations and work on committees.

The "intellectual" wants to study what he wants to study and is often seen in a class

Class Size Not Known

No estimate of the size of the entering freshman class is yet possible, according to the MSU admissions office.

Dr. Gordon A. Sabine, director of admissions and vice president for special projects, told the State News this week that he could not this early in the summer determine how many freshmen will enroll for the fall term.

In recent years, Dr. Sabine said, high school graduates frequently seek admission to several colleges. MSU, like other universities will not know how many of those who have been admitted will actually enroll until registration is completed.

Brighter, Heavier, Bigger New Catalog-New Look

Long Awaited MSU's '60-61 Catalog Has Been Completely Revised, Lists New Course Numbers

MSU's new 1960-61 catalog is longer, brighter and bolder.

And inside, its 163 pages are different. The catalog has been completely revised by faculty members.

The new catalog has been in preparation since early last fall, according to Kenneth H. Smith, MSU registrar, whose office is responsible for the catalog.

THE 1960-61 catalog is the first catalog since 1947 to and thoroughly the first catalog revision in the catalog since 1953.

Some 45,000 catalog have been printed, Smith said.

The catalog goes to a general mailing list to faculty and staff and to students, but distribution is by mail to the general public.

THE MAILING list includes other colleges and universities, public libraries, business and industry, and high schools in Michigan. High schools are supplied for their principal, director, and superintendent.

Students who want a catalog may ask for one, but registration must be by mail. The general distribution is already underway, Smith said.

The catalog is divided into two sections. The first 151 pages contain general information about the university and general course information about the various colleges.

THE SECOND part of the catalog, pages A-1 to A-22, lists all courses alphabetically, by number only. Accounting, 255 and ending with Zoology, 999.

For the first time, MSU students will find courses listed under the new course numbers.

COURSES in the new catalog are broken down into five categories:

1. Numbered courses are numbered 1 to 999.
2. Undergraduate courses are numbered 100 to 299.
3. Advanced undergraduate courses are numbered from 300 to 399.
4. Graduate courses are numbered from 400 to 499.
5. Advanced graduate courses are numbered from 500 to 999.

FOR THOSE whose MSU careers are well underway and who have taken coursework under the old numbering system, the former number of each numbered course is listed in the catalog.

The new numbering system does away with the awkward that formerly marked 300 and 400.

Faculty members are listed in the catalog, and the new weekly journal.

They are shifting from a state society to a modern society through democratic and non-totalitarian methods, he said.

In South Asia the portion of the catalog.

Idzerda stressed that even superior students are concerned about grammar and their ability to write when they come to college.

ACCORDING TO him, "MSU will process about 8,000 applicants of whom 4,000 will be accepted. Approximately 4,000 will actually arrive. Of these, 28 per cent will be from the top 10 per cent of their high school classes."

He urged that high schools encourage capable students to enter honors programs in college.

but faculty members are listed in the catalog, and the new weekly journal.

A FEW RECENT changes have been included. The new catalog covers the new school of students, which was approved by the Board of Trustees, June 13.

The new catalog is eight and a quarter inches by 16 and three quarters inches. It is printed on a more durable type face and the text is in double columns on each page.

THE FOUR color photograph which graced the cover of the last catalog is being replaced by the 1960-61 MSU catalog. It is printed on a more durable type face and the text is in double columns on each page.

ON PAGE SEVEN of the catalog is included President Hannah's statement of the past year of the university, July 1, 1959, to June 30, 1960.

The new catalog carries the same information for the year 1960-61 and for the 1961-62 year.

IT SHOWS that the new catalog will be held July 6 through 16 and that Commission will be on Sunday, June 11.

RANK AND DEGREES held by faculty members are listed in the new catalog, June 11.

India Has A Mission In Asia, Talbot Says

MSU graduate student, Dr. Talbot, who is on a mission to India, said that the Indian situation is a serious one in the Kiva last week.

INDIA FOREIGN policy must be evaluated on three major levels. Indian Pakistanian relations, relations with the rest of the world, Dr. Talbot said.

DR. TALBOT, executive director of the American Friends Service Committee, has been in India since 1952. He attended University of Illinois and received a doctor of philosophy degree in international relations from the University of Chicago.

INDIA AND Pakistan are involved in many problems. Talbot said. This is partly due to the large population, and the large population, and the large population, and the large population.

They are shifting from a state society to a modern society through democratic and non-totalitarian methods, he said.

In South Asia the portion of the catalog.

AUSG to Send 6 to Minnesota

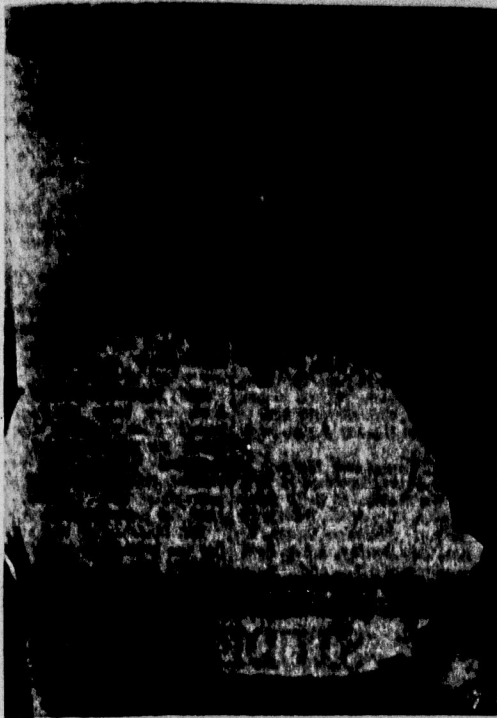

The AUSG Summer Intern Committee Wednesday night appropriated $185 to send six representatives to the National Student Association Student Body Presidents conference and the Student Editorial Affairs conference being held concurrently August 17 to 22 at the University of Minnesota.

The appointment of the six representatives between the State News and AUSG is to be decided at a later date.

No representatives have been named as yet.

Dr. Drews Speaks

Superior Students Discussed at Meet

American schools, through repressive teaching methods, often discourage and inhibit students with exceptional talent, Dr. Elizabeth Drews said in a speech last week.

An associate professor of education at MSU, Dr. Drews addressed the project on guidance and counseling of superior and talented students, held July 7 and 8 at Kellogg center.

Nearly 100 teachers and counselors from schools and colleges in the North Central states attended the seminar.

"SCHOOLS are inclined to reward the rapid memorizer rather than the original thinker," Dr. Drews said.

School grades are too often based on speed rather than excellence, on quantity rather than quality, on the fluidity of memorized phrases rather than on originality," she said.

The superior students, with their soaring imaginations, original ideas and advanced interests are sometimes viewed only as uncooperative trouble-makers," she added.

SHE POINTED out that young children are many times discouraged by the absolute standards encountered in such subjects as mathematics and spelling.

The lack of tolerance allowed in these early studies tends to stifle creativity, she said, and later the students are bewildered by the ambiguities discovered at higher levels.

TEACHERS should not discourage flights of fancy in young students, Dr. Drews warned. The most intelligent children usually have the most vivid imaginations, and their "wild, silly" ideas may be the precursor of great ideas, she said.

Epley To Speak On So. Race Relations

Dr. Dean Epley, chairman of human relations at the University of Miami, and currently visiting faculty member at MSU-O, will speak Friday in the library lounge, fourth floor.

Dr. Epley's topic, "Current Status of Southern Race Relations," is set for 8 p.m.

The department of sociology and Alpha Kappa Delta, sociology honorary, are sponsoring the colloquium.

Their next colloquium, on July 22, will have Dr. Copp, a visiting professor from Pennsylvania as speaker.

Now because the pupil "will decline in interest if the challenge declines."

SEVERAL panels and two discussion sessions completed the two-day program. The first discussion sessions dealt with providing for superior students.

The second series considered the special problems of the gifted in the areas of English, mathematics, social studies, science, and foreign languages.

While Atterberry, Michigan State track star from Detroit, won the 400-meter hurdles event in a record-tying 51.5 at the 1960 Penn Relays.

School grades may be influenced by the teacher's biases on such items as clothing, family position, "cuteness," and attitude, she said, and are not always indicative of the child's true intelligence.

She advised that schools make greater use of group discussions in teaching, rather than the lecture method, in eliciting response and ideas from the children.

TEACHERS should pay particular attention to the gifted students, she said, in order to help them develop their unique gifts and to keep them from becoming bored and frustrated.

"There is obviously no lack of people in the world," Dr. Drews said, "but there is a scarcity of superior and talented people."

"We must not waste these unusual talents. The world is in great need of imaginative leadership, both in the areas of science and in human relations."

Robert Shaw

Brahms' Requiem and Mary Anthony and her company will perform contemporary dance works.

THE 200-voice festival chorus is composed of summer school students, faculty members and their wives, and others from Lansing and East Lansing interested in singing a great classic under a famous conductor's baton.

Between 30 and 35 high school students who are part of the Youth Music group on campus this summer will also participate.

Before Shaw's arrival on Monday, the group was working under the direction of Dr. Henry Veld of Augustana college, who is teaching music courses at MSU this summer.

THE 40-piece festival orchestra, composed primarily of MSU music faculty members, began working with Romeo Tata of the staff.

Soloists for the Requiem will be Willa Stewart, soprano, and Marvin Solly, baritone.

THE DANCE portion of the program will feature Louis Calabro conducting his own composition.

The troupe, composed of summer session dance class students, has been working with Miss Anthony and Dorothy Cleveland, a former MSU dance instructor.

THE IDEA for the festival originated two years ago with Taylor and Dr. Wilson B. Paul, head of the lecture-concert series. An advisory committee of MSU faculty members has been working with them since then to plan the first of the annual festivals.

This committee includes Thelma D. Bishop, HPR professor, Howard Church, art department head, John E. Dietrich, head of the speech department, and D. Newton Glick, landscape department chairman.

ALSO COOPERATING in planning the festival were Walter H. Hodgson, head of the music department, W. Lowell Treaster, director of information services, and Wilfred L. Veendael of the graphics division of the audio-visual department.

Theme for the 1961 festival will be "The Fine Arts in Latin America."

WKAR Sends Tapes Of Programs Nationwide

Radio station WKAR, through its Tape Program service, has been supplying quality taped programs to 85 educational and commercial stations throughout Michigan since 1952.

WKAR, with studios in the auditorium, is an MSU owned and operated AM-FM radio station.

IN 1959 more than 2,500 hours of educational productions were taped for other stations, according to WKAR station manager Larry Frymire. This figure is equal to almost 10,000 individual programs.

WKAR personnel, under the direction of Frymire and Production and Facilities Manager Dick Estell, have sole responsibility for the production and dissemination of these programs.

"Some of the programs produced by the Tape Program service are well known to listeners in the local area," Frymire said.

AMONG THE programs, "You Are The Jury," produced by Al LaGuire, won radio's highest safety kudos, the Alfred P. Sloan award, in 1957. It also received the radio broadcasting industry's version of the Oscar, the Peabody award. WKAR is the only college station to ever win such an award, Frymire said.

This program is produced in cooperation with the MSU Highway Traffic Safety center.

OTHER PROGRAMS include "Science News," with Dr. James Stokley, associate professor of journalism, and "Farm Pulse" for persons engaged in agriculture.

"Primarily these programs are produced by WKAR personnel and offered to other stations for non-commercial use," Estell said. "There is no charge to the stations for this service except for the cost of returning the tape."

"THE ANIAN Institute" has been used by NAEB and the Voice of America for overseas broadcast.

"The Cap and Gown" series features the university concert band, the MSU Singers, and the MSU Men's Glee club. Major Barron, assistant professor of air science, discusses a variety of subjects on "Viewpoint."

The National Association of Educational Broadcasters also comes in for its share of the WKAR Tape Program service, according to Frymire.

A DISCUSSION of the Civil Rights commission by Dr. John A. Hannah was heard on the NAEB. "The Key," which deals with individuals in penal institutions was also featured.

The NAEB is currently using a WKAR production called "Situation Wanted" which depicts the unemployment situation.

"THE ANIAN Institute" has been used by NAEB and the Voice of America for overseas broadcast.

"Primarily these programs are produced by WKAR personnel and offered to other stations for non-commercial use," Estell said. "There is no charge to the stations for this service except for the cost of returning the tape."

East Lansing To Get New Bus Terminal

East Lansing will have a new bus terminal this fall, replacing the temporary one set up in a bus several weeks ago near the construction site at 304 W. Grand River.

WESLEY SHELTON, manager, said he expects "about 1150 MSU students to use the East Lansing bus terminal during normal weeks" this fall.

Construction on the depot began July 13 and is expected to be completed by Sept. 15. The building will measure 72 by 15 feet and will extend along the west half of a lot 30 feet wide extending 140 feet from Grand River ave. to Valley st.

ABOUT TWO-thirds of the building will be leased to Shelton who was the manager of the old bus station for several years. The other one-third will be leased to Adney J. VanNorman for a four-chair barber shop.

The East Lansing terminal serves Greyhound, Indian Trails and the Shortway lines.

The first Colt revolver was made in Paterson, N.J., in 1836.

Shaw Directs Chorus, Two Soloists in Brahms' Requiem

Concert artists Willa Stewart, soprano, and Maryin Solley, baritone, will be soloists for a festival performance next Thursday of Brahms' Requiem directed by Robert Shaw at MSU.

The festival chorus of some 150 voices is being prepared by Dr. Henry Veld, conductor of the famed Augustana choir.

The performance will climax the MSU's first annual Fine Arts festival featuring some of the nation's top figures in American art.

BEGINNING her operatic career with the San Carlo Opera company, Miss Stewart continues her professional work at the New York City center, Covent Garden in London, Vienna State opera, and with the Chicago and San Francisco opera companies. She has sung leading operatic roles in Aida, Cavalleria Rusticana, Faust, and Tosca.

A graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music, Miss Stewart is also known for her work in oratorio and her solo concert career, embracing the United States, Canada, and Europe.

Mr. Solley's professional career includes appearances with the American Opera society, Little Orchestra society, Bach Area group, American Concert choir, New York Pro Musica and Schola Cantorum.

He has had five seasons of summer stock and took part in the national tour of "Kismet."

The 12th annual American Farm Research association opened last night in Kellogg center for a three-day meet.

The conference is being held in cooperation with the MSU College of Agriculture, AFRA last met here in 1951.

Participating in the conference are approximately 300 research specialists from various fields and agencies of farm supply organization. They will discuss areas of fertilizer, feeds, seeds, farm chemicals, petroleum, and machinery.

Allan B. Kline, an internationally-known farm leader and past president of the American Farm Bureau federation, keynoteed the conference in an address entitled, "Today and Tomorrow in Agriculture."

Farm problems in the sixties and coming changes in plant science, animal science, and business management will be examined by a panel of experts from the MSU faculty of agriculture.

AFRA is jointly sponsored, financed, and managed by the American Farm Bureau federation and a number of state-wide cooperative farm supply organizations.

Marketing Club Sponsors Panel

Students will have a chance to meet and talk with executives from 40 companies after a panel discussion sponsored by the Marketing Club at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Kellogg Center.

Several executives will discuss opportunities at their companies and then open the panel to questions.

The Marketing Club arranged the discussion as part of a week-long Executive Program in Retail Management beginning Sunday, July 17.

Anyone may attend the discussion. Refreshments will be served.

Graphics, Ceramics

View of Modern Art

Graphic, ceramic, and jewelry art by a university student is on display in the Gallery Espresso, 547 1/2 E. Grand River.

The artist, Richard Cunningham, 22, of Flint, is a graduate student in art.

"Cunningham is meticulous whatever the medium, and he seems to have no style limit within the modern brackets he has embraced," Bill Meloney, owner of the gallery, said.

The exhibit, which will continue through Friday, includes 44 line drawings, woodcuts, and oil paintings, several pieces of pottery, and a collection of fine silver work.

Cunningham has previously exhibited in Detroit, Flint, and several midwestern cities.

Honor Grads Remain In Education

A recent survey of the approximately 250 graduates of the honors college shows that most of them are still involved in education, either for themselves or for others.

Sixty per cent of the graduates are currently taking advanced work in graduate and professional schools.

Another 16 per cent of them are teaching in the public schools, 12 per cent are employed full time in industry, seven per cent are housewives, and five per cent are in the armed forces.

Of those doing post-graduate work, approximately 10 per cent are here, and 10 per cent at the University of Michigan.

Harvard, California, and Pennsylvania lead other graduate schools in the number of honors college graduates enrolled.

More than 90 per cent of the honors college graduates doing work have received scholarships, fellowships, or assistantships. Those received range from $800 to $1200.

MSU vs. U of M Gridiron Clash A Sellout for 1960

The Michigan State-Michigan game is sold out for the 18th consecutive year, according to the MSU ticket office. The last official tickets were sold on June 14.

The game scheduled for October 1, will be the fifty-second gridiron meeting of the two schools since 1930. MSU has won 2, lost 2, and tied one with the Wolverines.

LAST YEAR, before the largest announced crowd in Michigan Stadium history, MSU defeated the Wolverines 34-8. State rolled up 282 yards on the ground to Michigan's 90.

The Paul Bunyan trophy, a four foot statue first presented to the winner of the MSU-Michigan clash in 1953, went to State for the fourth straight year.

LAST YEAR MSU finished second in the Big Ten behind Wisconsin. Michigan came in seventh.

The only other sellout game is the Notre Dame game, with the MSU allotment of tickets gone, the ticket office said.

The 1960 football schedule is as follows:

Sept. 24 Pat away
Oct. 1 Mich home
Oct. 8 Iowa home
Oct. 13 N. Dame away
Oct. 22 Ind. away
Oct. 29 O. State home
Nov. 5 Purdue away
Nov. 12 Northwestern away
Nov. 19 Detroit home

Journalism Teachers Train Here

Three journalism teachers and student newspaper advisors are studying at MSU this summer under a grant from the Newspaper Fund.

They are:

Miss Jo Kleynenberg, advisor to the Spectator student newspaper at Central high school, Grand Rapids.

Worthington Smith, advisor to the Blue and White student newspaper at Jackson State college, Jackson, Miss.

JOHN F. Gutka, advisor to the Pitt-Herald student newspaper at Warren high school, Warren.

MSU's school of journalism is one of 40 journalism schools participating in the Newspaper Fund, the effort to improve the United States.

high school journalism and to point more talented young students toward newspaper careers.

PERSONS nominated as Newspaper Fund fellows are journalism teachers and publication advisers who seek more practical experience in handling technical aspects of student publications.

At MSU the Newspaper Fund fellows are taking courses in advanced advertising, photography, and assisting in the high school journalism clinic. They also work with the Michigan State News staff.

The Newspaper fund is made possible through donations by participating in the Newspaper Fund, the effort to improve the United States.

Arts Festival To Feature Band Concert

The MSU summer band, Leonard Falcone, conductor, will play an open air concert at the campus band shell at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The program is a special feature of the Fine Arts festival sponsored by the summer school office.

For the past several years the summer band has not appeared in the popular open-air performances—this concert promises therefore to be a popular attraction.

THE PROGRAM opens with the "Marche Militaire Francaise" from the "Algerian Suite" by Saint-Saëns. Rossini's brilliant music is to be heard in the "Italian in Algiers Overture."

Gino Marinuzzi, composer of the text selection, "Valse Campestre" from the "Suite Siciliana," was a well-known opera conductor and capable composer of the mid 1930's. He is best known in the Midwest for conducting the Chicago Opera company.

THE RHYTHMIC "Malagueña" from Lecuona's "Suite Española" is to be followed by a novel composition, "The Three Trumpeters" by Agostini. The three soloists here, Ronald Phillips, Kenneth Vince and William Bernini, are all graduate students in the music department.

Old dances of America are treated in symphonic style in Bennett's Suite of Old American Dances. The "Garden of Granada" by Torroba shows strong Spanish style, and the closing Friedmann "Slavonic Rhapsody" will end the concert on a brilliant, deeply-moving note.

Grant Given MSU For Human Relations Study

An $18,000 grant has been received by the school of police administration and public safety to finance a national study to determine the need for a police-oriented national human relations center. The center would presumably be located at MSU, according to A. F. Brandstatter, director of the school.

The grant is financed by the Marshall Field Foundation. GEORGE EASTMAN, manager of the police administration faculty, is contacting various people around the nation as part of the study.

Eastman left June 21 and will return August 12. MSU has been sponsoring one-week police-community relations institutes yearly since 1953.

THE IDEA for this year-round consultant center originated from three institutes, Brandstatter said.

Law enforcement officials and leaders from religion, education, community organizations, social welfare, corrections, business, labor, government, and mass media attend these institutes. Under the plan, police and

Dr. Fromm Article in July Coronet

Excerpts from Erich Fromm's latest book, "The Art of Loving," appear in the July issue of Coronet magazine.

A psychology professor at MSU, Dr. Fromm also teaches at the National University of Mexico. He has achieved international recognition as a writer, teacher, and psychoanalyst.

A native of Frankfurt, Germany, Fromm studied sociology in preparation for his psychoanalytic training in Berlin.

Heidelberg University awarded him a PhD in 1925. He lectured in Europe before coming to New York in 1934 to escape

Hitlerism.

He began his American teaching career at Columbia, Yale, and Bennington college, and at psychoanalytic institutes.

His first book, "Escape from Freedom" (1941) gave a psychoanalysis of Nazi behavior. In "The Sane Society" (1955) he and communism are turning men into robots.

THE THEME is continued in "The Art of Loving" (1956). "From birth to death, from Monday to Monday, from morning to evening—all activities are organized and prefabricated," he wrote.

"If man is to be able to love, he must be put in his supreme place. The economic machine must serve him, rather than he serve it."

IN THE book, Dr. Fromm cites the need for a better understanding of the true meaning of love, and insists that love is an art that we should all strive to learn.

"Love is active, not passive," says Fromm. "It is a 'giving' but not a 'giving for.' Love is primarily giving."

HE SAID that his criticism of Freud, a "Typical Puritan," according to Fromm, was not that Freud overemphasized sex, but that he failed to understand it deeply enough.

Swing your partner and around we go to a meeting of the Promenaders, Student Square Dance Group.

Square Dancers Invite Joiners

The Summer Sessions of the Promenaders Club will meet every Wednesday, 7 to 9 p.m. in the Women's IM room 44.

Those interested in joining fall term must attend three of the fall open-house sessions. Members are required to have some basic knowledge of square dancing.

Membership in the Promenaders is limited to 80 persons, including undergraduate and graduate students. In cases where only the husband or the wife is an MSU student both may belong.

Dances are free and open to everyone.
