New ROTC Curriculum Ready

Academic Subjects Get New Emphasis

The curriculum changes for Army ROTC effective fall term, was announced this week by Lt. Col. Thomas M. LaPalka.

The changes fulfill a need for closer integration with other academic subjects, said LaPalka. "It also allows more academic credits for the men enrolled in military science instruction."

MSU is among the first to be affected by these changes which are taking place in colleges and universities throughout the country, LaPalka said.

"WHAT HAS taken place so far is a step in the right direction," he said.

With the army and the air force are changing and will continue to change their programs, he said.

These changes are a result of a study which is still going on, LaPalka said.

MICHIGAN State has a general military science curriculum as opposed to a branch military science curriculum, he said. The latter program prepares the student for only one particular branch.

LaPalka pointed out that in the future still will be referred to as leadership laboratory.

"I think these changes will give a better picture to the cadets as to their military role in civilian life," he said.

FOLLOWING are the revised programs for both the basic and advanced Army ROTC.

Six terms of basic ROTC will continue to be required of all male students.

FIRST-YEAR basic: Student majoring in agriculture except forestry, business and public service except economics and political science, engineering and veterinary medicine will enroll in Military Science 120.

All other entering freshmen will enroll in Military Science 133.

Students who completed Military Science 133 will enroll in Military Science 120 winter term. Students who have completed Military Science 120 and all other entering freshmen will enroll in Military Science 133.

Spring term all students will enroll in Military Science 121.

SECOND-YEAR basic: No sophomore military science classroom or leadership laboratory work will be required during the fall term. Students will substitute a university course in one of the following areas for military science: effective communication, science comprehension, general psychology, or social sciences.

The substitution will be approved by the military science department.

WINTER TERM: students will enroll in Military Science 221. Special emphasis in leadership laboratory will be placed on the functions, duties and responsibilities of junior leaders in this course. Emphasis will also be placed on the fundamentals of map reading and introduction to tactics.

All students will enroll in Military Science 222 spring term.

ADVANCED ROTC changes are: Students in the advanced program, must, in addition to junior and senior military science requirements, elect a total of 80 hours of university course work from the following general areas: effective communication, science comprehension, general psychology, social sciences.

With MSU Officials Formosan Discusses Mutual Farm Aid Here

Dr. Shin-Liang Chien, noted educator from Nationalist China, arrived last Thursday for a five-day visit. He met with officials of MSU's International Programs and the agriculture department faculty.

Chien, president of National Taiwan university, met with Milton E. Mueller, vice president for research development, Ralph Smuglier, asst. dean of international programs, Thomas Cowden, dean of the college of agriculture, and Howard McCully, professor of agricultural engineering.

Museum Mystery Where's The Canoe?

The saying, "don't believe everything you read," was never so true.

A press association story recently said that a 100-year-old Indian dugout had been offered to MSU by the Kalamazoo city museum.

The 17-foot-long canoe was recently discovered by a man while fishing at Big Sugar lake.

The offer was made because the Kalamazoo museum already had a dugout.

However, Dr. Frank N. Elliot, curator of history for the MSU museum, said he has never received the offer. He added that he wasn't sure whether the museum would accept the offer, if it was made, anyway. It seems the museum already has a dugout.

Wind Up Tennis

Final matches in the first summer school tennis tournament will be completed this week-end.

Twenty men students have been participating in the contests.

Red Cross Asks Help in Blood Drive

Blood donors are urgently needed, the Red Cross said this week in an appeal for help from students, faculty and staff members on campus.

Twenty-two pints were donated Monday and Tuesday, by students, faculty, and employees and there is every prospect of donations picking up, William Wilkinson, Manager of the Ingham County Red Cross Chapter, said.

Station wagons, driven by Red Cross volunteers, are cruising the campus on Mondays and Wednesdays to pick up prospective donors, take them to the blood center, and return within about one hour.

THE UNUSUAL shortage in the blood supply is a result of a combination of factors: a shortage of donors, a shortage of mobile units, and a shortage of storage space.

MSU students and staff members are not only assured blood while on campus, but in addition, their blood needs, wherever they may be, will be met by Red Cross. This "insurance" is provided without obligation and is effective as soon as the Lansing Red Cross is notified, either directly or through the dean of student's office.

THE SERVICE is possible, Red Cross officials point out, because individuals donate their blood and the processing costs are met from contributions directly to Red Cross or through Community chest or United fund campaigns.

MSU students and staff members are not only assured blood while on campus, but in addition, their blood needs, wherever they may be, will be met by Red Cross. This "insurance" is provided without obligation and is effective as soon as the Lansing Red Cross is notified, either directly or through the dean of student's office.

SEVERAL RECENT examples show how the Red Cross system operates. When MSU students were injured in a laboratory explosion at Keeble hall, Red Cross rushed blood for their emergency treatment and later, when the patients were transferred to other hospitals, the Red Cross continued to provide blood and vital derivatives made from blood.

When the child of a member of the ROTC staff needed great quantities of blood for a delicate heart operation, Red Cross provided it to the hospital in Ann Arbor.

In both cases, although hundreds of pints of precious blood and units of derivatives were used, the only charge to the hospital was a hospital expense to cover supplies and services.

DONORS ARE not paid under the Red Cross plan, consequently patients are not charged for the blood. Unless volunteer donations continue, even during the summer, the system will collapse.

An average of nearly 250 pints of blood are used every day in the 55 hospitals in the area and to send blood for patients from this area who are hospitalized elsewhere, some as far away as Mexico.

No! No canoes! That is the sad situation this summer. This idyllic scene is merely a memory now. Construction of a new classroom and office building required the destruction of the canoe shelter... and they no longer rent canoes to the happy couples. (State News Photo.)

Construction Soon New Building Underway

Construction of the new $2,500,000 classroom and office building on Farm lane and across from the Auditorium will begin soon.

Construction will be by Christian Construction Co., who delivered the lowest bid of $1,500,000. Other contracts will not be awarded until next week.

Meanwhile, campus land architects are designing the landscape for the future building.

MILTON BARON, assistant architect said, "The classroom and office building will not only be the fresh and raw look of a new building. It will have a very new effect. The building will be the campus."

About one-fourth of the open area between the Electrical Engineering building and Auditorium road will be used for the construction site. The remaining area will be re-designed to add a spring and fall display to the future building, Baron said.

"Due to the building construction we had to destroy about 50 trees, and had to replant about 14 rare and young species, including one rare oriental maple, one tulip tree, one red spruce, three magnolias, and one rare chestnut tree," Baron said.

HE ADDED that our "losses are never balanced by benefits." "No unusual tree, or one of a kind, was lost. Everything that could be saved outside the future walls were retained or replanted."

Trees that were moved are to be planted by the new graduate dorm site on Shaw lane.

The landscape development of the office and classroom and office building will include the planting of a number of tulip trees, flowering cherries, and different varieties of evergreens. The river area will be made more attractive by thinning out the old and diseased trees and orientating the land area.

"THERE WILL be no canoes for students to use until late spring or early summer of next year," Emery Foster, manager of the canoe building said. The canoes are stored in the station until a new shelter is built for them under the new classroom and office building.

Construction plans for the new building call for a staff parking lot to be located on the north and west side of the office portion.

In the office portion of the building will be a glass-enclosed courtyard with spring flowers and evergreens planned in a special type of gravel to add more color to the building, according to Baron.

There is a proposed bridge construction site which will span the river from the east end of the Electrical Engineering building to the west side of the Education building. It has not yet been approved by the State Legislature.

Also, plans for a new band shell have been laid out in case the existing one has to be torn down.

Wagner, Riley Win Golf Tournament

Fred Wagner, instructor in physiology and pharmacology, and Bruce Riley were the winners of the summer student-faculty best ball golf tournament. They finished with a 69 average score.

Runners-up were Stu Gallacher, foreign language professor, Lew McDaniel, with a 71 tally. Eight faculty men and 22 students entered the tournament.

down. The project will have the Auditorium from the south side of the river and will be on the same level as the shore line.

Students Hurt In Separate Accidents

Nancy Womser, Michigan student, was in Sparrow hospital Wednesday for facial surgery following a one-car accident at 1:27 a.m. Wednesday.

The driver of the car, Michael H. Carlson, 751 Henrietta, Birmingham, was not seriously injured.

Their car left the road and struck a tree at 1501 Roseland.

Miss Womser's condition was listed as good by hospital attendants.

Two MSU students were injured in a four-car "chain reaction" accident Tuesday on Shaw lane, directly south of Spartan stadium.

William B. Landberg, 1626-H Spartan village, and Mrs. Eleanor Rose Bergstrom, 1418-E Spartan village, were injured when the car in which they were riding struck the second car in a line of four and was struck by the car behind them.

Blinding was held for observation of a cerebral concussion and whiplash injury to the neck, sustained when he was thrown against the windshield, Olin attendants said.

Mrs. Bergstrom was treated for severe contusions of the ankle and released.

Damage to the four cars totaled about $650, campus police said.

Knapp's East Lansing Under Construction

Construction began Tuesday on the new East Lansing branch store, J. W. Knapp department store.

The million dollar store building will be completed and open for business in February or March, according to Howard C. Grimes, president and general manager of the company.

THE BUILDING will be three stories high, and will have 30,000 square feet of floor space, according to the architects, Hanson, Jackson, Wilson and Kane of Lansing.

Present plans are for the East Lansing store to feature men's, women's and children's fashions and gifts.

GRIMES SAID building plans allowed an intensive consumer research survey in the Lansing and East Lansing area, which showed that East Lansing represents the best location for a high quality merchandise operation.

The survey showed that East Lansing has a large potential for community growth in the next 15 years. Almost all the merchandise sold in the city is of a high quality level.

THE BUILDING will have no windows. It will front for 132 feet on M.A.C. avenue and for 82 feet on Albert, one block north of Grand River.

The building has been designed for "casual elegance" with the outside walls of vertical panels in pink brick.

THE GENERAL contract for the store was awarded to Hausman Construction company. Subcontractors for the work are the United Piping and Erecting company and the Lansing Electric Motors company.

New Fee Schedule Released

Kermit H. Smith, MSU registrar, has released the revised schedule of fees and out-of-state tuition for the fall term.

Full time students who are Michigan residents will pay $93 for 12 or more credits, an $8 increase.

Basic tuition and fees for students from 29 states will be increased $30 to $215.

SPECIAL arrangements have been made whereby students from 10 states pay the same fees as charged by the land grant college in their state.

These range from $217 for students from California and Delaware to $230 for those from Maine, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, and Vermont.

OTHER STATES involved in this agreement and the fees charged their residents are: Arizona, $134; Ohio, 225; New York, $224; and Massachusetts, $221.

Foreign students pay the basic out-of-state tuition and fees. A sliding scale of fees is paid by students attending MSU part time. Michigan residents will pay Enrollment for the second five week summer session begins Friday for new students.

Students already enrolled may enroll for the session Thursday.

Adding courses is handled by going to the department office of each course and getting an add slip, and then going to 113 Administration building where the cards are, checked and course fees paid.

Students not enrolled in the first five week session are required to obtain an enrollment card from their academic advisor. They then pay their fees at the Ad building, and fill out the various registration cards.

Following this, they go to the departmental office of each course they are taking and verify that there is room in the class for them, and then go to the Ad building again, where the enrollment cards are filed.

Students who have not attended MSU before follow the steps outlined above, but go first to the admissions office in the Student Services building.

Those who have attended MSU before, but did not go during Spring term, must first go to the records office at 106 Ad building for readmission.

The course fees are: 1 to 3 credits, $29; 4-6, $35; 7 to 9, $50; 10 to 11, $70; and 12 and over, $80.

Out-of-state fees are an additional $25, 40, 60, 85, and 100 dollars, depending on the number of credits taken.

The elected subjects must be other than those required in the student's academic curriculum during his freshman and sophomore years.

Vets Sign Up

All veterans will sign up for the first five-week session at the Ad building, room 113 Administration building according to the following schedule:

A through N, July 28.
O through z, July 29.

Candidates Vie for Support in Primary Tuesday

Contests for Every Job East Lansing Votes on Tuesday is primary election day. Voters in East Lansing—if they take time to go to the polls—will choose:

- Candidates for national, state, and local office on the Democratic and Republican tickets.
- Delegates to their party's county convention which will be held in August.
- East Lansing residents will vote also on three referendum questions.
- Polls in East Lansing will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m., according to Mrs. Dorothy Boedeker, city clerk.

East Lansing

East Lansing voters will be asked to vote on three referendum questions.

1—A question which would authorize the city to borrow two and a half million dollars to pay for construction of sanitary and storm sewers, a pumping station and other necessary equipment. The city would issue general obligation bonds as security for the borrowed funds.

2—A question which would permit annexation of a portion of Meridian township.

3—A question which would permit annexation of a second portion of Meridian township.

Candidates in the Democratic and Republican party primaries:

Governor

Republican

Paul D. Bagwell, 46, MSU professor of admissions, on leave from 1958 and was defeated. He represented the party's primary.

Democratic

James M. Hare, since 1954 Michigan secretary of state. A former high school and university teacher, for three years secretary-manager of the State House.

Representatives

Republican

James M. Hare, since 1954 Michigan secretary of state. A former high school and university teacher, for three years secretary-manager of the State House.

Democratic

Ed Connor, 32, has held executive positions in federal agencies from 1933 to 1943. A five-year member of the Detroit city council, member of the Wayne county board, now secretary of a research organization.

U.S. Senate

Republican

Victor M. Bonifay, now a representative in Congress from the Eighth district. Former member of the U.S. diplomatic corps, has been in Ottawa, Ontario, since 1955.

Democratic

United States Senator Pat McNamara, who is completing his first term in the Senate.

Congress

Republican

Charles E. Chambliss, who has been representing the Sixth district in Congress since 1956. He is unopposed.

Democratic

Jerome P. O'Rourke, of Flint.

Lieut. Governor

Republican

Edward Hutchinson, Fenwick state senator from the eighth district. Has served in the senate since 1950.

Democratic

Clarence A. Reid, a former lieutenant governor.

One of These Will Become Governor Must Write For Absentee Ballot

If you want to vote by absentee ballot in the primary Tuesday you must make application for the absentee ballot.

Ballots for absentee voting can be obtained from township or city clerks.

MICHIGAN Department of State investigators assigned to election activities two years ago uncovered cases where absentee ballots were mailed on telephone request or had been mailed by friendly clerks who wanted to help fellow-townsmen who were ill or hospitalized and could not get to the polls on election day. It is illegal to mail ballots unless a long and written request is in the clerk's file.

THE STATUTORY grounds on which request for absentee ballots can be based are:

1. The voter will be absent from the community in which he is registered for the entire time the polls are open on election day.
2. That the voter is physically unable to attend the polls.
3. That the voter cannot at-

Softball Finals Scheduled Tonight

The final game in the first summer intramural softball series will be played tonight at 6 p.m. at the IM field.

THE BATTLE for the top spot will be between Phillips Hall and the winner of the Lumberjacks-Cryogenics match played last night.

Fifteen teams were entered in the first five-week series.

According to Robert Gowans, assistant program director, ten teams have already signed up for the second five-week session.

ADDITIONAL teams may enter until Tuesday noon, Gowans said.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the offices of the credit union, 1405 S. Harrison road.

Letters to the Editor

Spartan Villagers Victims of Apathy?

Editor, State News:

As a resident of Spartan village I was most interested in your recent article concerning the clash between the villagers and the trains. I do not wish to use this page as a vent for my complaints about the village or its management.

I only wish to comment on the statement of Ernest G. Foster concerning the village children playing near the railroad tracks. He said, "I think a certain amount of parental responsibility is involved here."

Fortunately, neither of my children are old enough for unsupervised play, but I think this statement displays a lack of regard for villagers on the part of the management. In most cases this attitude is just annoying. In this case it is dangerous.

I only hope Mr. Foster never has to review his attitude, his statement, and his three-foot fence in the light of the injury or death of a village child.

HARE REMINDED Michigan families who have friends and relatives serving in the armed forces that Michigan does not disenfranchise its citizens who are out of the State on military or diplomatic missions. This applies to men and women in uniform, those and women in uniform, those and women in uniform, and their families.

A special form is not needed. All that persons overseas need to get an absentee ballot is to state that he is on governmental, military or civilian service and that he cannot return in person to cast his ballot in the primary election on Tuesday, August 2, 1960.

HE OR SHE must sign his name and address as it appears in the registration books and indicate where the ballot should be sent. Hare suggested that all communications be sent by air mail to expedite matters since only those ballots which reach the local voting precinct before the polls close on election day can be counted.

Point Four Reality Stressed by Hannah

Speaks on Three Day Flying Visit To Geneva and Green Meadow Found

From East Lansing to Switzerland and back in three days is a quick trip, but President John A. Hannah made it last week.

MSU's widely-travelled president flew to Zurich to address the ninth international conference of the Green Meadow foundation.

Dr. Hannah went at the invitation of Gottlieb Duttweiler, businessman and founder of Switzerland's famed Migros co-operatives. Duttweiler visited the campus in January to receive MSU's International Marketing Award.

SPEAKING ON "Point Four: Idea and Reality," Dr. Hannah said a point of friction between the communist bloc and the West would be eliminated if technical assistance and economic development programs were shifted to the responsibility of the United Nations.

"United Nations control would eliminate much of the competitive element in the situation today," the president said.

The Point Four idea of extending technical and economic assistance to underdeveloped countries is here to stay, Dr. Hannah believes, but he noted that early enthusiasm for the program has diminished.

DR. HANNAH reported that Stanley Andrews, the second director of Point Four and now an MSU faculty member, "re-creates with nostalgia the days when success was evaluated in terms of the numbers of people helped to help themselves to better living and better lives."

"Andrews," Dr. Hannah continued, "confesses to a feeling of disillusionment when he contemplates in how many instances programs are now designed in terms that will permit assessment of results only in numbers of tractors placed on the land, numbers of milk cows purchased, numbers of miles travelled by technical experts, numbers of wells dug, numbers of bags of rice produced.

ANDREWS IS now the executive director of national projects in agricultural communications.

Dr. Hannah said he sees education as the key to the solution of problems in what we are now beginning to call the developing countries.

"Anyone who has seen demonstrations of the insatiable hunger for education in Africa and Asia," he said, "must accept the fact that the masses are determined that education be one of the first fruits of their newly born independence."

IN HIS Zurich speech, Dr. Hannah emphasized that in the more than ten years it has been in effect, the Point Four plan has had its effects not only in the underdeveloped countries, but also in the United States.

"There has been a tremendous surge of interest in foreign languages and a similar spurt of interest in the history and cultures of Asia, Africa, and the Middle East," he said.

Dr. Hannah also noted that for the first time in history, on a sizable scale, the colleges and universities are specifically preparing young men and women for careers in foreign service.

THE MSU president said his trip was so short that it was practically like going to Detroit for a conference. He regretted not having time to visit more places in the vicinity, even though he has been in Zurich before.

OSU Hits Housing Bias

Ohio State university has spelled out a new policy on off-campus housing discrimination which will go into effect immediately, according to a report in the university's student paper.

JOHN T. MOUNT OSU Vice-president told the Ohio State Lantern that under the new procedure being set up by the deans of men and women, any student who feels that he has been discriminated against "on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin" may lodge a complaint in the dean's office.

The offices will investigate, the paper reported, and will drop the offending landlord from the approved rolls if the complaint has a basis in fact.

A student organization, the Students for Liberal Action, applauded the step.

One of the more popular tourist attractions on the MSU campus is this cow—and several other like her. The window in her side doesn't bother her a bit. MSU veterinarians maintain, and provides a peep-hole into bovine digestive mysteries. With the cow is Dr. L. R. Montgomery of the Veterinary college's department of medicine and surgery. (State News Photo by Bob Gurnham)

Service Given Vet School by 'Holey' Cow

A cow with a hole in her stomach is being observed by the college of Veterinary Medicine in the large animal clinic in Gilbreth hall.

The five-year-old animal has a "window" over the rumen, one of her four stomachs, for most of her life.

DR. GEORGE R. MOORE, professor in the department of surgery and medicine, said the cow was originally used for research by bacteriologists.

Cows are aided by certain bacteria in the digestion of their food, Dr. Moore said. Bacteriologists removed samples from the cow's stomach to study these bacteria. This was done by removing the window.

MSU developed the idea and the leader in this research, according to Dr. Moore.

There are a number of cows in the Dairy barn which are being used for these studies.

THE COW is being kept in the large animal clinic for a different purpose.

Sick cows, which are cared for in the clinic, are given antibiotics to kill harmful bacteria. Antibiotics, however, also kill the digestion aiding bacteria.

THE USEFUL bacteria is therefore taken from the "windowed" cow and transferred to the sick cows. This enables the cows to continue normal digestion.

1,000 Study Career Aspects

Homemakers Hold 33rd Meet

More than a thousand Michigan homemakers are meeting at MSU this week to consider some of the aspects of their careers. This is the 33rd annual conference of the group.

The first general session was a Tuesday afternoon symposium on children and youth in the years ahead. Lawrence Fyrite, manager of WKAR, was the investigator.

Participants included Mrs. Lesnaly Backus, extension specialist in parent education and child development, and Dr. Alice Thorne and Dr. Frances Pascoe, both of the department of home management and child development.

MRS. PETER Tark, president of the Michigan Home Economics Extension Council, and Leta Rhodes, a student at Lansing Community College, also took part in the discussion, based on results of the White House Conference.

Catherine Cleveland, Gladwin county extension agent, spoke on the Middle East at the Tuesday evening meeting. This was followed by dancing on the grounds.

"KITCHEN Dictionary" by Mascoia was the topic for Wednesday afternoon. An Ableton, former associate editor of "Better Homes and Gardens."

Thursday morning, the Honorable Martha Griffiths reviewed the 85th Congress. Mrs. Griffiths is the representative from Michigan's 13th congressional district.

THE EVENING session on Thursday will be devoted to music. Group singing will be led by extension specialist Wanda Cook, Miss Marie Klosser, Ottawa county home economist, will accompany.

Karl Raas, director of the area for WAR in Detroit, will speak on "An Adventure in Music."

The final general session will be held Friday morning. Dr. E. C. S. Young, of General Motors corporation, will speak on "Home Economics."

CLASSES IN a variety of areas of interest to the homemakers will be held Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

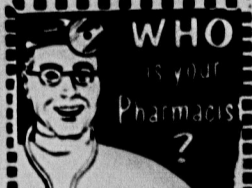

George H. Fowler will speak on the Food and Drug administration, what it is, what it does, and how it fits in the homemaker's life. Fowler is assistant to the director of the Detroit district of the FDA.

Another study group will see plans of a house that was constructed by a student of home building. This study house was a joint project of MSU and the National Association of Home Builders.

BETTY GRAYSON, field editor of "Better Homes and Gardens" will show slides of the project. The house was furnished by the student.

Berrol M. Rudolph, of the department forest products, will also participate in this section. Mrs. Maxine B. Virtue, assistant attorney general for Michigan, will discuss the role her office plays in protecting consumers from frauds, cheats, and sharp practices.

I. J. TOLLE, of the department of horticulture at MSU, will demonstrate the techniques and principles of flower arrangement.

A study of the Blue as a living book will be conducted by Dr. David Dickson of the division of language and literature. Rita Paszek of MSU's music department will offer training in group singing. Wanda Cook will provide practical help for those attending group singing in their church choirs.

LEILA FOERCH, recreation leader for family and other groups, will discuss some activities. The effects of population change on suburbanization, land use, highway patterns, and the demand for local services will be examined. This study group will be addressed by Dr. William Kimball, program leader for community resource development and public affairs.

Two groups will meet to study photography. The beginners will be instructed by Dr. Otis McMeale and the advanced group by Dr. James L. Paige. Both are on the faculty of the College of Education.

CLASSES IN various aspects of speaking and reading will also be held. Tuesday, Smith of MSU's speech department will teach the principles and practice involved in effective speaking.

Klaus Edwartz, speech specialist in teacher education, will discuss what a parent can do to help develop good speech habits in children. The child will be a speech partner will also be presented.

Discussion of methods of reading instruction for children will be led by Dr. William F. Durr. Training for those who would like to read more rapidly will be provided by Dr. Eugene Geary. Both are in the department of teacher education.

DR. GRACE Gerald, of the department of home management and child development, will instruct those interested in art. Anna Goehs will discuss creative stitching. Dr. William Koestlander's tone will be great.

paintings of the world. Dr. Robert Myron will provide an introduction to contemporary art.

TECHNIQUES for conducting meetings effectively will be explained by Dr. David Ralph, department of speech.

William T. Gillis, admissions counselor, will discuss "College for Your Son or Daughter." Included will be such matters as the large versus the small college, entrance requirements, and costs.

Gillis is also an instructor in safety and plant pathology. Instructors will even be included for the benefit of the required post-driving sex. A class will be given for those interested in becoming better drivers.

IT WILL BE conducted by Richard W. Bishop and Leslie R. Silverman, both of the high-level traffic safety center. Bishop is also on the faculty of the department of teacher education. A discussion will be held dealing with what home extension groups are doing in traffic safety. The film on rescue breathing will be shown.

about U.S. foreign policy. Ruth J. Peck, program assistant in home economics, has been responsible for many of the conference arrangements.

HOSTESSES for the gathering are Miss Eastman, Miss Rann, Miss Peck, and Mrs. Miriam J. Kelley.

Mrs. Kelley is the assistant director, in home economics, of the cooperative extension service. She will conclude the conference with an address on "Living - with a Difference."

A SPECIAL class is being provided for those homemakers who attend the conference for a single day. This will involve a discussion of our stake in the underdeveloped world.

Dr. Phillips Foster, extension specialist in agricultural economics, will address this group. He will deal with such problems as what the homemaker can do

There were no fires reported on campus in the last week. The last fire run by the campus fire station was July 17. "Everybody's been careful," Sgt. Sam Gingrich said.

Dr. Price To Join Olin Staff

Dr. Leonard Price will become a staff physician at Olin Health center on August 15. He previously practiced general medicine in Muskegon.

HE WILL replace Dr. Clifford Menzies, who resigned June 30 because of ill health, according to Dr. James Feuriz, medical director.

Dr. Price received his BS and MD from the University of Illinois medical college in Chicago.

He will specialize in intestinal disorders at the health center. Lifeguards at Atlantic City, N.J. rescue an average of 1,200 swimmers each summer.

Art Students Display Work

Summer session painting students are currently displaying their work in the lobby of Kresge art center. Predominantly abstract, the 54 oil paintings represent only work done since early June.

THE BULK of the exhibit was painted by students of the university's artist-in-residence for the summer, Morris Kantor. During the regular academic year, Kantor teaches in New York City at the Cooper Union and the Art Student's league.

"THE REACTION to Kantor has been enthusiastic. We feel his visit has been enormously successful," said Howard Church, head of the art department.

The show, which will continue through July 31, is supplemented by an exhibit of jewelry, ceramics, painting, and etching, the work of Arlene Watonen. Miss Watonen's collection is presented in partial fulfillment for her master of arts degree.

DeWaele Lectures On Flemish Art

Visiting Lecturer in the history department, Prof. Ferdinand J. DeWaele, discussed "The Glory of Flemish Painting" Monday in Detroit's Kresge Art Center. He is on summer leave from the University of Nimeguen, Holland, where he is a member of the department of literature.

Attends Workshop

Phyllis Nelson, of the Edgewood Peoples church, East Lansing, was one of four Lansing area church officials who took part in the church music workshop July 17 to 22. Others were Gladys Benfield, Seventh-Day Adventist, Okemos; James H. Jennings, Methodist church, Holt; and Mrs. Richard Klausli, Plymouth Congregational church, Lansing.

4,000 New Students Want Housing Here

More than 4,000 freshmen and graduates, Armstrong and Mayo transfer students have applied for fall term housing. That's 700 more than last year at this time, according to Tom Dutch, housing director. Additional applications are still being processed, he said.

THERE IS room for more students, Dutch said. MSU houses more students and faculty members than any other college in the county, he said. To accommodate more under-

Most of the 2,038 men requesting fall term housing ask for rooms in Shaw hall, already filled by 1,300 upperclassmen who reserved quarters spring term, Dutch said.

A NEW undergraduate residence hall will be constructed on Shaw Lane and is expected to be completed by fall, 1961.

Although permission to build has been granted, it hasn't been decided whether the structure should house men, women, or a wing for both, Dutch said.

"IT WILL depend on our needs nearer to the time construction begins," he said.

Some 185 persons have reserved housing in the new graduate center; it can accommodate 476.

Altogether, the campus residence halls house between 7,500 and 8,000 students, Dutch said.

WILL THE campus be crowded this fall? "We won't really know until after registration," Dutch said. "But we've never turned anyone away because we couldn't find them housing."

Scouts Hold Camp at MSU

More than 500 Lansing area Boy Scouts and Explorers staged a three-day camporee at MSU over the weekend.

The scouts, from Chief Okemos council, BSA, arrived Friday night and set up camp off Chestnut St., three blocks south of Shaw lane.

THE BOYS planned their own menus, did their own cooking, and had to "police" their campsites.

Many had elaborate displays of scoutcraft, including log dining sets, rustic fences, knot tying, and signal towers.

Internationalism was a feature of the camporee, with 43 Canadian scouts from Wallaceburg, Ontario, attending.

A COUNTY conservation fair was presented Saturday by representatives of the conservation department, who gave pictorial and practical demonstrations of water conservation, fish life experiments, and wild life needs. The scouts were reviewed Sunday by Major General Ronald McDonald of the Michigan National Guard.

THE GREAT ESCAPE

Forensic student Gail Olin, of Ada, Minn., drama student Ernest Smith, of Rockwood, and journalism student Carolyn Pett, of Essexville, compare notes on their respective curricula. They were among some 900 high school students on campus in July.

Journalism students spend afternoons building a paper which will be published and sent to them later in the summer. Left to right are Nancy Chinn, of Birmingham, Jean Isbell, of Pontiac, Ernie Boone, of Ecorse, and Sharon Smith, of Lansing.

Bylines & Bands

Several hundred high school students will leave campus tomorrow as the Youth Music conference and the Communication Arts institute draw to a close.

During the past six weeks, 900 students were on campus for classes in drama, forensics, radio, television, newspaper and yearbook editing, and music arts.

THE YOUTH MUSIC conference is finishing its 17th year. This year, 486 students participated in the conference programs of orchestral and choral training.

The Communications Arts institute is the oldest and largest of its kind. It is growing yearly, both in enrollment and breadth of curricula.

The majority of the students have been Michigan residents, but the institute have drawn from a dozen other states from New Jersey to Texas.

ONE OF THE new journalism courses offers student photographic experience. Three of the pictures on this page were taken by Joan Wilson, of Benton Harbor, only two days after her first instruction on adjustable cameras.

Each of the three Communication Arts sessions completed questionnaires on their likes and dislikes of curricula, living conditions, and facilities.

ALL THE students expressed enthusiasm for the recreational programs and facilities. Few recommended curriculum changes, and even fewer complained of being worked too hard.

But the 10 p.m. curfew drew blistering fire. The girls resented being locked in an hour before the university women. The boys were offended at being locked in at all.

Drama students Nancy Banfield, left, from Norway, Mich., and Stephanie Burns of Holly, rehearse for the second session play. Drama students rehearse daily.

On a field trip, advance journalism students observe the operation of a State Journal linotype.
