Housing Rules too Protective For Undergraduates Over 21

After a review of University housing regulations for undergraduate students we are struck by the realization that our administration has taken upon itself to raise the criteria generally accepted as a basis for adulthood in contemporary American society.

Our society generally holds to the idea that a person over the age of 21 is, and of right ought to be, capable of governing his own actions and making decisions affecting him, taking full responsibility for the consequences.

Yet we find at MSU entirely different standards for adulthood.

THE UNIVERSITY has postulated a plethora of petty regulations on all phases of student conduct. Many of these, we feel, harass the student rather than help him gain self-discipline. In particular, the University has taken it upon itself to restrict areas and "approve" students' living quarters off-campus. The housing office says that this "checking," or "approving" is done in the interest of "health, safety, and sanitation."

According to the Housing office a restriction of areas is needed because it would be impossible for the office to approve living quarters as far away as Lake Lansing or the Capitol City Airport, as they attempted to do in the past.

WE ASK WHAT LEGAL right the university has to require any adult student (21 years or older), graduate or undergraduate, to limit his selection of a residence to those within a certain prescribed area. We can see none.

Besides, it is usually much more burdensome and expensive for students living on their own in wishing to do so, to intensify the search for an area to which they are presently restricted by housing than it is for them to choose from the entire metropolitan East Lansing-East Lansing area.

The areas the Housing office restricts, and the areas to which they are restricted, are not three times as large as the area from which they can choose. Some may be inclined to disagree. They, we feel, should not be allowed to choose, especially when students of advanced age, but few cost less than is available for rent in these areas.

A REPORTED PRICE differential between housing of two in East Lansing and Lansing is noted by the Housing office. But even if the range of rents were equal, some students would be forced to pay more than they could afford because low cost accommodations are limited in number due to the restriction of selection to a certain area. If the arrangement, quarters more rights of the reach of the student budget might be standing empty in Lansing.

The Housing office and the administration may not realize it, but this type of price differential can, and often does, cost a student as much as $300 more a year than it would if he lived in lower cost housing located on the west side of Pennsylvania Ave. in Lansing. This, we submit, occasionally presents a prohibitive barrier to students who want to live off campus.

WE FEEL MUCH TIME and money will be saved, and many students will gain in self-discipline if the University University does away with its policy of "approving" housing and restricting the area of housing off-campus for students over the age of 21.

But the Housing office feels differently, and points out that "the University" (whatever or whatever is denoted by that term we are not sure) also feels differently. They find it in the interest of student welfare to restrict and approve, for "health, safety, and sanitation" reasons, all off-campus living between the age of 21 and 25.

Apparently these students are to be considered incapable of judging what constitutes an adequate level of living conditions for them.

WE FEEL DIRECTLY in opposition to the rather over-benevolent views above, that far more is to be gained by the individual student if the university stays completely out of his non-academic affairs and allows him to exercise some personal responsibility.

Implementing this philosophy might, incidentally, save the state taxpayers a great deal of money now being spent on dorms, and on paying people to worry about students who meet every criteria of adulthood and don't want or need anyone to look after their non-academic affairs.

Who knows, maybe some funds could be diverted from administrative areas to meet some academic needs.

AFTER ALL THIS IS, according to the Housing office, not a nursery. We insist that this distinction be made clear to those parents who, the university insists, want it to give tender loving care to their children.

We believe that students will benefit more in the long run if the present "in loco parentis" administrative policies for students over 21 are done away with and an intelligent approach is taken toward student housing.

Far too often the administration seems to forget that the primary purpose for the existence of a university is education. Many of the administrators on this and other campuses would do far more for the students if they tried to act as educators rather than steering students into adjusting to the existing structure of society.

"Sir, Several More Of Our Men Have Defected To The Enemy"

Sitting in. Rush Rules

Highlights From Other Schools

A campus may be as beautiful as the Michigan State campus, but her right of sitting in is not nearly as lovely as a campus at the State University of Iowa. At SUU (campus) every student must stay in a special study room where they are not permitted to talk or listen to radio.

The Daily Iowan stated the case as a view of punitive action that might be taken with elementary school students. The schools are not checked during the evening by prefects.

More loose identification cards were undetected at the University of Michigan. The dean of men recently compiled a list of names attending the of 11 and a non-distributing list directed to an Amy Arbor area, dorms, and liquor stores.

A recently rush plan called "total opportunity" has been initiated at Williams College. Under the plan every rusher who lists all 35 fraternities in a preferential order is given at least one bid. If such a rusher does not receive a bid, no fraternity can pledge any of the men it has bid.

In 1959 this year at Williams, Beta Theta Pi pledged a Negro. The board of trustees of Beta has passed a resolution against the Williams chapter, preventing it from initiating any member of pledge until further notice.

The trustees claim the injunction was not issued because the chapter pledged the Negro, but because the climate of opinion at Williams, especially in view of the policy of enforced rush selection, is alien to the objectives of Beta.

Compulsory voluntary have ROTC is being debated at Oregon State College. Recently the faculty senate voted 38 to 26 in favor of compulsory.

The University of Oregon faculty, the student government and newspaper, The Emerald, have all indicated their favorability. The State Board of Higher Education meets this week to hear the cases of both institutions.

To the Editor:

I am writing this open letter in answer to a column and opinion stated in the State News Jan. 26. Through the printing of this article, not only has the sovereignty of Butterfield Hall been grossly assaulted, but it also has served to uncover a malignancy apparently growing in certain forms of student government on campus.

Mr. Bob Gustavson, President of Men's Hall Assoc., should be enlightened to the fact that Charlie Loveland was elected president of Butterfield, not by a few "randomly" selected men from the lobby, but by the entire dormitory. By virtue of this election he has rightfully been given a mandate to act on behalf of the men of Butterfield in all matters concerning him, using his authority and vast experience in the field of student government for our general betterment.

Another point I would bring out, Mr. Gustavson, is that Loveland did bring up the subject of Campus Chest at various precinct meetings throughout the dormitory. Plans Research Information Aim Of Local NAACP

By SAMUEL E. HARRIS
Director of Research and Public Relations
MSU Chapter NAACP

All of us are familiar with the legal activities of the NAACP which have resulted in increasing civil liberties of the American Negro.

With chapters of this organization scattered on the campuses of universities throughout the country, a natural question which one might legitimately raise is why function does a campus organization do and more specifically here at MSU, why incidences of racial discrimination are but non-existing.

The removal of legal restriction is but a facet of the Negro's struggle for assimilation. Thinking cannot be legislated—absence of legal barriers does not cause a group of individuals to accept another race. The most be present. This desire can only come about by a mutual awareness of the part of the involved groups that gain is going to be realized by closer association.

BEGINNING WITH this premise, given a desire on our part for greater assimilation, this chapter feels that it can function as an information dissemination agency. That is, we must in an intellectual respectable manner:

1. Eradicate the dearth of misconceptions about the black man which have been spread by the white-supremists.

2. Fill in the historical details which have been deleted from and omitted in the history of the American people, which is also history.

3. Remove from the category of "racial traits," those social characteristics distinguishing ourselves from the rest of society, by indicating the manner in which our deprived social environment has forged these characteristics.

4. Provide the means by which persons in the university community may have social contact with us, if they so desire.

IN THE DIRECTION of these first objectives, the members of the organization are presenting a play entitled, "The Called Nigger," Feb. 16. The students themselves have written the play. The title was selected because we felt that we have reached a level of maturity when past above being offended by a mere word, we want to be able to look at ourselves and others, and have them laugh with us—rather than at us.

The third objective is to be implemented by a two-year research project, surveying the prevailing attitudes of Negroes and whites in the university community on the subject of race relations. A follow-up to the survey will be an analysis within the framework provided by modern psychology, sociology, to be conducted by competent staff members.

The first step in the fourth objective, the All-University Dance which we are sponsoring Friday, it has been said, "Negroes can really sing and dance." We hope the free dance instruction to be given at the dance, we hope to prove that other people can also dance.

Our success or failure in these ventures will depend upon the support of the entire University community. The assistance everyone is welcomed. One need not be Negro to participate (12 per cent of membership is white), nor is it necessary to become an active member.

Time Brings Sad Changes

Indonesia No Longer Tropic Paradise

How does a nation which ten years ago was a land of unlimited possibilities, become, in the words of its own foreign minister, a land of unlimited impossibilities? Indonesia did it through mismanagement, ignorance, and corruption. As an expert, William A. Hanna told a campus audience Wednesday night.

Hanna, journalist and MISU visitor from the American Universities Field Staff, has just returned from 18 months of study and residence in southeast Asia. His talk Wednesday was sponsored by Delta Phi Epsilon, professional fraternity for diplomacy and international trade.

Indonesia—with Red China, India and Japan, one of Asia's four great powers—has nearly 90 million people. Its strategic position is important in relation to the mainland and to the neighboring island nations of Australia, New Zealand, and the Philippines, Hanna said.

Dr. Ahmed Sukarno, Indonesia's nationalist leader since 1945 and President since the republic was born in 1950, is a political genius and a spectacularly dramatic figure in any measure, Hanna said.

Sukarno has personally represented and voiced the aspirations of the Indonesian people since his career started. He speaks a dozen major languages fluently and this Russian is coming along fast, Hanna said.

He is a master of political manipulation, one step ahead of a crowd of rivals, enemies, and would-be successors for most of the 60-year years. Hanna also described Sukarno as a lady's man of heroic proportions, whose memoirs if ever written frankly would make the autobiographies of every other great leader obsolete.

Hanna said Sukarno was pleased when Eisenhower gave him an autographed photograph, but even more pleased when Khrushchev gave him a brainy, beautiful blonde who has been living in the Indonesian presidential palace for several years.

Ten years ago Sukarno's Indonesia appeared to have a bright future.

The population had just gone through the tremendous revolutionary experience of winning freedom from the Dutch. Its leaders had great confidence in the future, and the whole picture was one of great promise, Hanna said.

The bright young men of Indonesia's military services, united in 1950 in their recent revolutionary struggle, are now disillusioned, Hanna said. Many of the best officers have been purged or participating in various rebellions against the central government, including a major one last year between anti-communists and a violent neutralist group.

The stable democratic institutions of 1950, including courts, congress, and free elections, have given way to "guided democracy" with nearly unrestricted powers for the Indonesian president.

The booming economy of 1950, stimulated by the Korean war demand for Indonesian rubber, oil, tin, and agricultural products, is now "a shambles," according to Hanna. Production is off in all fields, the oil industry has just been nationalized, and experienced Dutch technicians have long since been driven out.

The thriving Chinese minority, who formerly controlled most small businesses and most foreign trade, have been stripped of their property and concentrated in refugee camps, Hanna said.

A few months ago, Hanna portions of the military and pro-American politicians launched a civil war against Sukarno and his increasingly dictatorial methods. The U.S. was caught giving aid to the anti-communists.

"We have a little support—not enough to help our friends, but enough to cause identity of trouble and embarrassment for ourselves," Hanna said.

Indonesian relations with Russia got off to just as bad a beginning, Hanna said. In 1950, Stalin spent only a few minutes with the first Indonesian mission to the Soviets, and mistook them for Indonesians.

By 1956, however, when Sukarno paid a state visit to Moscow, crowds lined the streets, and an audience of 100,000 met him in the Lenin stadium, crying "Merdeka," the Indonesian word for peace, Hanna said.

A Russian grant of $100 million was followed by huge aid programs, bringing Soviet technicians to Indonesia.

Khrushchev and Sukarno are cool to one another at present, Hanna said. The communist leader behaved with conspicuous rudeness on a state visit to Indonesia last year.

Indonesia's China problem boils down to the question of 3 million Chinese, more than half loyal to Peking, who have been forced out of business in Indonesia," Hanna said.

"Indonesia votes for admitting Red China to the UN every year, and will have nothing to do with Formosa, but there is an open cleavage between the Reds and the Indonesians," he said.

The Indonesians and their Philippine neighbors frequently accused each other of subversion and invasion plots. Manila is a "U.S. stooge to the Indonesian, but the Philippines say Indonesia is full of spies training to leave for the Philippines, and the whole country is going to be communist any day," Hanna said.

Hanna said that during the Japanese World War II occupation, the Indonesians were able to organize and train for their post-1945 revolution against the Dutch.

When Indonesia became free, Japan was anxious to import raw materials for Japanese factories and delivered $157 million in manufactured goods in response to orders from the Indonesians.

Instead of payment, however, the Indonesians presented a bill for $15 billion in reparations for World War II obligations, and announced that they would keep the delivered goods as a down payment, Hanna said.

"In a sense, Indonesia owes its independence to Japan, and Indonesia is trying to take advantage of the reparations for its debts," he said.

Folk Songs Will Be Sung At Seminar

A Canadian seminar on folk music, sponsored by the history department, will be presented at 7 p.m. Monday, at the Kreige Art Gallery.

Folk songs will be sung by Alan Mills, Montreal, a bilingual vocalist and Finvola Redden. Mills has had a program on the CBC network for many years. Miss Redden has appeared several times on CBC programs.

Jean Carignan will accompany Mills on the violin. Dr. Helmer Creighton, of the Natural Museum of Canada is coordinator of the seminar. Alvin Gluck, assistant professor of history, is chairman of the seminar.

The public is invited to attend the seminar and hear the Canadian folk music. A second seminar will be held March 6. The topic of discussion will be "Canada, United States, and Cold War."

8,000 Management Opportunities!

That's right. There will be 8,000 opportunities filled from within the Western Electric Company by college graduates in just the next ten years! How come? Because there's the kind of upward movement at Western Electric that spells executive opportunity. Young men in engineering and other professional work can choose between two paths of advancement—one within their own technical field and one within over-all management.

Your progress up the ladder to executive positions will be aided by a number of special programs. The annual company-wide personnel survey helps select management prospects. This ties in with planned rotational development, including transfers between Bell Companies and experience in a wide variety of fields. Western Electric maintains its own full-time graduate engineering training program, seven formal management courses, and a tuition refund plan for college study.

After joining Western Electric, you'll be planning production of a steady stream of communications products—electronic switching, carrier, microwave and missile guidance systems and components such as transistors, diodes, ferrites, etc. Every day, engineers at our manufacturing plants are working to bring new developments of our associates at Bell Telephone Laboratories into practical reality. In short, "the sky's your limit" at Western Electric.

Opportunities exist for electrical, mechanical, industrial, civil and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. For more information, get your copy of Career at Western Electric from your Placement Office. Or write College Relations, Room 4124, Western Electric Company, 193 Broadway, New York 7, N. Y. Be sure to arrange for a Western Electric interview when the Bell System team visits your campus.

Dior Fashions in Paris Parade

PARIS. (AP)—A modernized flapper style, launched by Marc Bohan in his debut show for Dior, Thursday looked like the big hit of the Paris spring season.

In a Dior-de-die spirit, Bohan's "Slim Look" collection was probably good enough to go down in fashion history with the new look itself.

Good taste and simplified elegance were the trademarks of the new silhouette, based on bodiceless, waistless, hip-fitting creations that were short enough to give a glimpse of the knees.

French radio reports promptly rated it "the best since Dior died." Many fashion experts agreed.

There was not a single tuppé waist, hooks hem or eccentric exaggeration in the whole show.

Bohan's slim, trim suits had unfitted midleg jackets and gently flaring skirts. Loose belts at the top of the blouses were sometimes on the jackets and sometimes on the skirts.

All-headed short evening dresses followed the same line, with sleeveless, straight tops lightly bloused over fitted hips.

With Dior's big success, Paris could count at least four top collections for the season.

lo's "see of diamonds" shape tapered from wide shoulders to a trim hem.

Stripping the silhouette of frills, drapes and flourishes, the designer relied on impossible cut for his effect, which was pure and simple elegance—and prettiness besides.

Some skirts broke away in fine pin-pleats from the hip, and some jackets were cutaway in a curve to the waist in front, but the general line of the show was consistently streamlined flapper.

Gymnasts Host Indiana Thinclads Open Season at Ohio State

Seek to Extend Long Streak Against Hoosiers

By NANCY KUEHNER
State News Sports Writer

Looking for their 16th straight win, Michigan State's undefeated gymnasts meet Indiana in the only home variety athletic event of the week-end. The Spartans beat a weak Ohio State squad 73-38 last Saturday for their 15th victory.

The meet will be held in the arena of the Men's IM Building Saturday, at 1 p.m. Two of Michigan State's transients, Coach George Thompson and Coach Tom Geyer, are in the house. Coach Thompson thinks their performance will be impressive and he expects for top Big Ten and national honors this season.

Thompson, a son of from Detroit, has been the trampoliner in the Mid-West meet in Chicago in December and first in the Michigan AAU meet in 1957. In Thompson's sophomore year coach Syppula decided to see how his trampoline act would fare as a tumbler. Last year Thompson finished second in the Big Ten in this event and is regarded as one of the nation's best tumblers.

Competing Pro Leagues A Bonanza for '61 Grads

NEW YORK (AP) The football war among the two American pro football leagues and the Canadian circuit is providing bonanzas for the 1961 college graduates.

"They never had it so good," said A. Doros, quarterback for the New York Titans of the American Football League. "The National League is paying the big bonuses to almost everyone for the first time and the Canadian teams are paying more for the one or two stars they really want."

Larger, onetime Michigan State star and an NFL and Canadian player, before he hooked up with the Titans, is in a position to know. Part of his all-year job with the Titans is going around the country signing up players for his team.

"Our league is paying plenty to get the top players," he said. "I've signed my share of them but I've missed a few, too. The bidding is going up."

"I thought I had the inside track on Herb Adderly (the Michigan State halfback) because of my school connections, but we couldn't come anywhere near matching Greer. Bays Philadelphia was the only National League club to hit less than 110 home runs last season. The Phils hit 99.

Much Action Seen Intramural Basketball

Action again for intramural basketball during the week-end at Michigan State. The IM basketball program is in its second week of action.

Monday night's game between the Spartans and the Hoosiers was a close one. Indiana had a lead of 10 points in the second half but the Spartans fought back to win 33-31.

During the game the Spartans were downed by a combination of a couple of minutes of grade school and high school play.

Accent on Youth For NFL Vikings

NEW YORK (AP) The Minnesota Vikings put the accent on youth in their selection of 36 players from 12 other National Football League teams today to build up a roster for their first season.

General Manager Bert Rose said Coach Norm Van Brocklin picked 11 first-year men from the draft and counted on with 25 players with more than two years of pro experience.

Evans Scholar defeated the Hazrate 80 to 27 in Independence. Justin English of the Scholars was high man of the game with 20 points.

The 68ers and 69ers start their season with a double header on Saturday at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The 68ers will play the 69ers at 10 a.m. and the 69ers will play the 68ers at 2 p.m.

Tareyton delivers the flavor...

Here's one filter cigarette that's really different!

The difference is this: Tareyton's Dual Filter gives you a unique inner filter of ACTIVATED CHARCOAL, definitely proved to make the taste of a cigarette mild and smooth. It works together with a pure white outer filter—to balance the flavor elements in the smoke. Tareyton delivers—and you enjoy—the best taste of the best tobaccos.

winners are Tom Jefferson, high and low hurdles; Sonny Akata, broad jump; Gerald Dehenau, pole vault; Zach Ford, 60 and 300 yard dashes and Al Neumann, shot put.

Also looking impressive are hurdler Bill Mann, quarter-milers Bill Boyd, Larry Sharon, and Bill Green and miler Orlin Larson and Roger Hungarger.

One of the main reasons why coach Dittrich will be relying so heavily on his sophomores is because of the scholastic ineligibility of Ed Graydon, Max Wessingruber, John Sharp and Mike Gerhart all seasoned campaigners of last year.

By events, the Spartans appear strong in the sprints, in the long distance (two-mile), in the broad jump and in the pole vault. Sophs will carry all the weight in the 400, 600 and 800 yard runs.

Next week Feb. 4th, one of the Midwest's oldest and finest indoor track events will take place at Jensen Fieldhouse, with the 38th running of the Michigan State Relays. 23 colleges and universities will send approximately 375 athletes to East Lansing for the 18-event program.

Mr. Buell and Mrs. Vandamm during a selection session.

Some Late, All Great

The late Don Buell, professor of speech, will be remembered as all useful and unselfish men are—for achievements and contributions of permanent and increasing value.

Of his many contributions to the University, the Don Buell Theater Collection is one of the most striking.

With the sponsorship of the MSU Development Fund, and with funds of his own, Mr. Buell selected more than 500 photographs of almost 70 Broadway productions.

The collection was shaped to meet the specific needs of drama students, but no one interested in the theater can fail to appreciate these graphic records of some of the finest hours of the stage.

The photographs were made by the New York theatrical photography studio of Mrs. Florence Vandamm.

There are two complete sets of photographs. One is filed in the Rare Book Room of the library for future theater historians. The other is available in the Humanities division for limited circulation to faculty, staff, and students.

The photograph collection is supplemented by Mr. Buell's personal file of reviews, programs, and literature of all major Broadway productions since World War I. Because it would be impossible to duplicate this file, it is kept in the vault and may be seen only with special permission and under supervision.
