

AUSG Prohibits Discrimination

A resolution to eliminate racially discriminatory clauses from the constitutions of Greek organizations on campus was passed by Student Congress Wednesday.

The legislation has the effect of urging the faculty and administration to enact six provisions. They include:

(1) All members of the Greek system must remove discriminatory clauses by Jan. 1, 1962 or be placed on probation for 180 days.

If the clauses are not removed by the end of the probation, university recognition of the organizations will be withdrawn.

(2) THE MEN'S Division will notify the national offices of the fraternities of the provisions of this legislation.

(3) The Women's Division will notify the sororities' national offices of the legislation.

(4) The president of the university may grant extension to the probationary period if he feels it will result in removal of the clauses. Extensions will be granted only once.

(5) No member of the Greek system will be allowed to re-establish discriminatory clauses.

(6) The legislation supercedes all previous legislation on racial discrimination in the Greek system.

THE RESOLUTION now goes to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs for further action, according to Dr. Eldon Nannamaker, assistant director of Men's Division and advisor to Student Congress.

During debate on the resolution, Jim Gibson, Farmington junior, pointed out that discrimination will not be eliminated by legislation since members are chosen by those in the group concerned. Legislation did, however, break down barriers which restricted those who did not want to discriminate.

Larry Osterink, Grand Rapids junior, president of IFC, said that the IFC would back the legislation.

Only four fraternities have discriminatory clauses in their constitutions and have been trying to remove them.

Constitutional changes are made at the fraternities' national conventions and are voted on by all chapters. Southern chapters have been an obstacle to removal of the clauses, according to fraternity officers.

"I AM FOR THE status quo," said Karl Lady, Evanston, Ill., sophomore, president of the Conservative club. Lady argued that Congress had no right to legislate the affairs of private groups.

The vote on the resolution was 44 for, 4 against with 3 abstentions.

Jack Shea, Detroit sophomore charged that the resolution had been railroaded through Congress. He said that new members who wanted to discuss the resolution were not given time.

"Other people are familiar with the bill, we (new members) aren't. We didn't have time to iron it out in our minds," Shea said.

AUSG PRESIDENT Larry Campbell, Marshall junior, spoke to Congress on some of the problems and challenges which face Student government during the next year. Campbell called for closer coordination between the executive and legislative branches of AUSG and more effective operation within the context of the university's goals. Congress approved the appointments of Charles Bruce, Saginaw sophomore, as executive vice president, Jim Anderson, Sparta junior, as administrative vice president and Barbara Rall, East Lansing sophomore, as Academic Benefits head. All are executive cabinet positions.

Winnie Bailey, Detroit junior, was also approved as appointed representative to Congress from Snyder hall.

Campus Activities Highlight Annual Parents' Weekend

Free Show, Open Dorms, Trips, Dance

By SHARON COADY
State News Managing Editor

Hundreds of guests will visit campus this weekend to participate in Parents Weekend, the biggest event of the year.

The busy schedule includes the annual Engineering Exposition, International Festival, International Relations Clubs conference, the climax of Greek Week activities and open house in both living units and university farms.

Campus police have put on their entire force to control extra traffic during the high points. Local motel and hotel managers said few rooms were left even early Thursday afternoon.

THE ENGINEERING Exposition is the largest single event. Exhibits by high school and college students will fill the six engineering buildings and Library. Guided tours will be conducted to explain the displays. All exhibits will open at 3 p.m. today.

A special feature will be the first public showing of a tactical, five-ton cargo truck which will float with its payload and can run on jet fuel, kerosene or gasoline. It will be on display in front of Olds Engineering Hall today and Saturday.

Other events include a midget auto race Saturday night and May Hop Saturday night.

The International Relations Club conference is expected to draw more than 150 students from Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana. The theme "U.S. Relations with its Neighbors, Canada, Cuba and Mexico," will be discussed in forums, group discussions and speeches.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS include D.W. Brogan, professor of political science at Oxford and distinguished visiting professor at MSU; Paul Fried, member of the national board of International Relations Assn., and John Wharum, national vice president of Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign relations society.

A West Indian Steel band will perform at a chicken barbecue Saturday night on the banks of the Red Cedar, across from Kellogg, to entertain delegates.

Highlights of the International Festival include a stage show and arts and crafts exhibits in the Auditorium.

The free show, given at 3 p.m. and again at 8 p.m., will have 15 song or dance acts from Africa, Latin America, Egypt, Japan and other foreign nations.

THE EXHIBITIONS are prepared by various foreign student groups to show various aspects of the home culture. They are open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday in the Auditorium.

Greek Week will end with a community project Saturday morning, the traditional Greek Feast Saturday night and Sorority Sing Sunday.

Sororities and fraternity members will clean up and repair various welfare buildings in the Lansing area for their service project. The supper will be followed by a dance with the Kenny Davis orchestra.

Sororities will participate in their annual sing Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Auditorium. Alpha Gamma Delta will try to win the winning trophy for the fourth straight year.

NOT EVEN SPORTS will be left out of the big weekend. A special Old-Timers Football game will be played Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Spartan Stadium. Former MSU stars returning to campus include Al Dorrow, Dan Currie, Dave Kaiser and Palmer Pyle.

The baseball team will play a double-header against Wisconsin Saturday at 1 p.m. at Old College Field.

Children will be specially entertained with an open house at university farms. Baby pigs, lambs, chicks, calves and colts will be on display from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

THE FROSH-SOPH Council is sponsoring a coffee hour Saturday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the Green Room, Union. Special guests include President John A. Hannah, Stanley Idzerda, director of honors College, and representatives from each college.

The council members will man information booths on campus Saturday and Sunday to direct newcomers. Booths at Linden field, Women's IM and corner of East Circle and Farm Lane will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Most living units are sponsoring open houses and coffee hours over the weekend for guests.

Packaging Exposition Saturday

The packaging Society's annual packaging exposition will be held Friday and Saturday in A-2 South Campus.

The exposition will feature apparatus and material used in packaging.

Tests for-tear and puncture strength will be demonstrated and the latest methods of chemical testing and analysis of packaging problems which they have worked on in class and in their own time.

Literature will be available for those interested in packaging and information will be available at each display and demonstration.

Petitioning Ends For '62 Carnival

Petitioning for general chairman of the 1962 Water Carnival ends today at 5 p.m., according to Bob Cantrell, senior class president. Petitions are available in the senior class office, Student Services.

Petitioning for Senior Council will begin Monday, Cantrell said.

Engineering Exposition Finalists

The five finalists for Engineering Exposition queen pose with Bob Fawley, president of Triangle fraternity house. The girls in the top row are, from left to right: Judy Lunsford, Pontiac freshman; Lorelei Hoxie, Armada freshman; Jo Linn Capps, Mason sophomore. In the bottom row are Bonnie Webster, Alexandria, Va. sophomore; and Sheila Evans, Rahway, N.J. freshman.

'Adventures Internationales' Opens Saturday in Aud

By SALLY DERRICKSON
State News Staff Writer

"Adventures Internationales" opens at 10 a.m. in the Aud. Saturday a festival of all nations represented on campus.

Two stage shows, including acts from 15 different countries, will be performed at 3 and 8 p.m. Provost Paul A. Miller will speak at the afternoon show, and President John A. Hannah and Dean Tom King will address the evening audience.

In addition, 25 foreign and American student groups will have booths exhibiting native crafts and costumes. Trophies will be awarded to three outstanding exhibits and three of the acts.

Ed Kelley, Lansing senior and chairman of last year's festival, is emcee of "Adventures Internationales."

THE UNITED States will open the show with an act from the Roaring 20's, including a blues singer and "hoop-hoop-a-doo" girls doing the Charleston. Grass-skirted hula girls will salute Hawaii with traditional songs and dances.

Ora Katz, representing Israel, will sing several traditional ballads from that land, including "Leylat," an audience participation number. Miss Katz was first place winner in last year's festival.

A student group from the Philippines will dance "Itik Itik," a story-dance about the cultivation of rice. A troubadour band of Mexican students will sing Mexican and Spanish love songs. Folk dances and songs from the fatherland will be Germany's colorful contribution.

The African Club will present a popular dance akin to rock and roll called "Agidigbo." Toga-clad students will dance to traditional drumbeat rhythms and sing native and popular songs.

GREECE WILL present the song from "Never on Sunday," and the Indian students will do a story-dance about Lord Krishna, an ancient god who is trying to decide which one of his four beautiful girl friends he should marry.

The Ukraine, Korea, and Japan will present native folk dances. Japan's group will perform a series of delicate rhythm numbers, among them "Sho sho sho" and "Cherry Blossoms."

Two Egyptian girls, representing the Arab States, will perform the ancient "Dance of the Pharos" and "Glorious River," a salute to the Nile. The West Indies calypso group will do the limbo and native calypsos to "Matilda" and other popular calypso tunes.

The Virgin Islands steel band, which has performed all over the campus and is currently recording for Folkway records, will play mambos, merengues, and cha-chas on their all-steel drums and merracacs. Persian students will sing ancient and modern Persian ballads.

Exhibits at the festival are open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. admission is free for both exhibits and stage show.

Committee Approves Big School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee approved a $2.55 billion school aid bill Thursday and pointed it toward a floor battle starting next Tuesday.

The committee added $252 million to President Kennedy's recommendations but did not change the purposes for which the money could be used. Thus the funds would be available for public school construction or teacher salaries, or both, during the next three years.

Sponsors did not claim White House approval of the higher spending figure, but they indicated confidence that Kennedy would accept it.

ALL TEN committee Democrats and two Republicans voted for the measure, which includes a newly adopted formula for allotting money among the states. Opposing them in the 12-2 lineup were Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Dirksen told reporters he was against the original bill and was even more opposed "now that it has been increased more than $200 million."

The measure was discussed at a conference of Senate and House GOP leaders and Dirksen said Republicans will try to trim it down with amendments on the Senate floor.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, said there will not be "any tremendous Republican support" for the bill, but its Democratic sponsors seemed confident they have the votes for passage.

DEBATE STARTS Tuesday in the Senate. A House education subcommittee approved a $3.3 billion, three-year program last Tuesday, but action in that chamber is not scheduled until later.

The two Senate committee Republicans who voted with the Democrats were Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York and Clifford P. Case of New Jersey.

Javits said he was not satisfied with the distribution formula, however, and would make a floor fight to substitute a plan he worked out with Sen. John S. Cooper, R-Ky.

Javits said this would "do the job for $200 million less," and he saw no reason to spend the extra money.

COOPER COMMENTED: "The only principle in the committee bill is to pass some money around. It will do some good, of course. Whenever you spend money for education, it does some good."

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the subcommittee that drafted the bill, said the formula used would give the most help to the states that need it most. Morse said the objective was to see that every public school child gets "a fair break."

An equalization formula in the bill is designed to give the poorest states three times as much per pupil as the richest one. The range is from $9.26 per pupil for Connecticut to $27.77 for Mississippi, South Carolina and Arkansas.

NO MONEY IS provided for private schools, but private school pupils are counted in a state's enrollment for distribution.

Family Swim Class Canceled This Week

A family swim class scheduled for Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. in the IM Pool has been canceled for this week only.

New Dorm Trend To Be Introduced

A new trend in dormitory living will be introduced next fall with the college of business administration's plans to reserve special precincts in Shaw and Brody for students in the college.

The plan will include the opportunity for one half of the dormitory-housed business administration majors to live in the special precincts.

There will be two precincts for 180 freshmen in Brody Hall; one precinct for 60 sophomores in Shaw Hall; and one precinct for 60 juniors and seniors in Shaw.

"The arrangement will provide closer relationship among students with common interests," Edward A. Brand, assistant dean of the undergraduate program in the college of business and public service said.

A doctrinal candidate in the college will serve as resident assistant in each precinct. He will be available for counseling and academic advice.

Residence in these special precincts is not required but students will be encouraged to move into them for the feeling of association it will provide among students in the same major field.

"Students won't miss too much in broadening their viewpoints and interests," Brand said.

Every student in the precinct will have a different background and various interests. He could also visit other precincts to talk with students not in business administration. "Possibly if this experiment is successful other college will follow," said Brand.

INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL—Two participants in last year's International Festival display artistic articles at the Jamaican exhibit. Similar booths on the lower floor of the Auditorium will be open to the public Saturday.

Red Cross Plane Landing Fails

KATMANDU, NEPAL (AP)—The International Red Cross Thursday unsuccessfully tried to land a single-engine plane on an airstrip at Mingbo, near Mt. Everest, to airlift New Zealand mountain climber Sir Edmund Hillary to Katmandu.

Hillary, who had suffered a slight stroke on his current climb, was reported walking toward Mingbo.

A snowy wind blowing in gusts of more than 150 M.P.H. reduced visibility to zero, compelling the pilot to return to Katmandu.

Emancipation of Student From Teacher Big Aim of Program

An emancipation proclamation was delivered by Provost Paul Miller at a recent student-faculty tea. Miller talked briefly about various facets of President Hannah's new growth plan for the university, and then closed with this idea:

One of the basic aims of the plan, with its proposed large lectures, classes by TV and residence hall instructors will be to emancipate academically the student from the teacher.

Students have been accustomed to having knowledge spoon-fed to them, he explained. This plan, with its emphasis on independent study, will encourage students to seek and learn on their own, without being prodded at every step by the teacher.

LECTURES of several hundred students will be coupled with occasional small meetings with the teacher at which the student will receive necessary direction and guidance. But the main stimulus to learning will be with the student. He will have to learn to actively seek knowledge, rather than passively accept it from the instructor.

It is hoped that these habits of seeking knowledge will remain with the student throughout life, when the teacher is no longer present. Too many people, explained Miller, leave academic pursuits behind when they leave the university.

We agree that an independent seeking for knowledge on the part of the student is desirable, and perhaps attainable, in the long run. At any rate, the present small classes will not be possible in the face of a rapidly expanding student body and a widening ratio of faculty to students.

BUT WE WONDER if a valuable part of the educational experience might be sacrificed in such a program. Contact with the instructor in a class of 10, 20 or 30 students seems as essential for stimulation as independent seeking for knowledge.

In a classroom of this size, the student can ask questions on the spot, when his interest is high, rather than waiting several days for a smaller conference period. Also, the feeling that an instructor is personally concerned with the individual student can be very encouraging to the student, as is interplay and discussion of ideas in the classroom.

Emancipation from the teacher is inevitable in this growing university. The means to achieve it will have to be attained through experimentation, through trial and error. But something will be lost in the process.

WE HOPE THAT this program, still in the planning stages, will not lose sight of the fact that students fresh out of high school are not yet conditioned to take on a great amount of independent study.

Initial stimulation from instructors, emphasis on responsibility and independence in the social arena and the residence halls, and a changing academic emphasis in the high schools are all necessary if the student is to be gradually emancipated from the teacher.

"Careful You Don't Set The Whole Dormitory On Fire"

With Objective News

Editors' Duty To Give Opinion

By WALID KHADDURI
State News Staff Writer

There have been several discussions recently about the Young Conservative Club on campus. These discussions centered around their activities and accusations.

The troubles began when the "young" conservatives began accusing certain organizations around the campus of being "one sided." They centered their campaign mainly upon the State News, and particularly upon the editorial page.

THE OBJECTION was that the State News has been too "liberal" and has been giving the student only their own sides of current issues.

There are several points that the conservatives ought to consider about democracy and liberalism. The editorial members of the State News are active students who hold certain beliefs about certain issues. They spend their afternoons working in order to publish a daily paper for the various parts of the university.

They publish the news that is important to the university community, which they must decide upon according to their judgments.

The editorial page is where they voice their opinions about the existing issues, while the other pages are the places where news and events are printed. The editorial page is the opinion of the paper, while the other pages contain the "factual" events.

HERE IS WHERE the conservatives misjudge their accusations. Facts and events are reported, with the most accuracy possible by the reporters of the Associated Press and the State News. Here objectively is a prime concern.

The responsibility of the editorial page is to inform the readers about opinions and information that is not printed as part of the news. This is not something new.

The editors do not just exist where they are. They have worked for several years in order to reach the position they are now in. They hold certain beliefs and take sides in certain issues, as all other papers do, and as everyone does all the time.

WHEN THEY EXPRESS their beliefs and views, they are not responsible to write for the benefit of every faction that exists on the campus. If certain people do not agree with them, they can write letters to the editor, or express their views in a special column on the editorial page, or even write in the other local paper.

If the conservatives would like to write editorials favoring their ideology, all they have to do is work harder in several organizations and wait for the period when they are "in the top," and can start writing editorials.

But they can't expect students with liberal views to write as the conservatives believe, or to favor certain organizations and issues that conflict with the editors' basic values. By asking such a thing, the conservatives are curtailing the freedom of opinion and the responsibility of the editors.

THE CONSERVATIVES claim that their views are not exposed to the students. But the State News is not the sole paper around this community. The students interested in the ideology and activities of the conservatives can easily promote or write in a local paper that will advocate their views.

The truth is, not that the State News is stopping their views from appearing, but that it is assisting in balancing the information media around campus and the area, and especially on the newspaper level.

In Praise of Deserving Presidents

IKE

Dwight D. Eisenhower, America's 34th President, was a very, very good man. Everybody loved him. He was elected President in November, 1952. He was inaugurated in January, 1953. And he took over his duties of office in June, 1959, following the death of John Foster Dulles.

Eisenhower was famous for saying: "Well, now, if we are to look at the overall picture, that is to say, in regard to that question, which of course, I haven't, to any degree, as yet studied or read up on, I would say, in all probability, emphatically, I think so."

Interested students may find additional information of famous Eisenhower speeches in the book, "The Collected Press Conference Statements of Dwight D. Eisenhower, as translated by Casey Stengel".

President Eisenhower used to tell newspapermen during his press conferences why he was strongly against children making bets on horses. This was an example of his typical, hard-hitting statements on the troublesome race problem.

JFK

Kennedy is my shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me lie down on park benches. He leadeth me beside still factories. He restoreth my doubts in the Democratic Party. He guideth me to the path of unemployment for his party's desires.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of soup kitchens, I am hungry.

Surely poverty and hard times will follow me all the days of the Democratic Party.

And I shall live in a rented house forever. Five thousand years ago, Moses, said, "Pack your camel, pick up a shovel and mount your ass. This is the time I shall lead you to the promised land."

Five thousand years later Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "Lay down your shovel, light up a Camel, sit on your ass. This is the promised land."

With Kennedy, he will take your camel, kick you in the ass, sell your shovel and tell you there is no promised land.

(I Kennedy, 1-7; Revised Standard Revision)

Letters to the Editor

Cuban Policy, Spice of Life

Policy Not Bad

To the Editor:
This is written in answer partially to the letter called "Cuban Policy," lest it should impinge on student minds. As I lived in the Caribbean and was caught in Castro's revolution, I have followed the case.

The ideas of the foreign students with whom I live is often amazing, as well as many Americans. Most don't realize the letter is close to the new communist line—the emotional ideological war which has gained so much for Russia. Why fight when you're winning? And how many people want the sober truth anyway?

It seems popular to call U.S. policies bad. Russia can put thousands of volunteers in Laos, but we dare not put Cubans on Cuba, or the U.S. is bad. Seems like a double standard instead of an objective evaluation.

The letter indicates we were bad to Castro, but how? Didn't we help him with his revolution? Have we been bad to other countries by giving them millions of dollars in the face of continuing uncooperation? Latins don't need gifts, but are happy to accept our business.

So Castro feared the U. S. businessman. Because most of Cuba's income was from American trade and tourists? Some people say it was dominating Cuba. Others say this was political maneuvering to gain votes from the uneducated. But then Castro threw out the businessmen, and confiscated his property, and kept on fearing him and all the Americans who helped put him where he is. Psychologically significant.

Do the facts show that Castro had to turn to Russia, or is this the technique of the big lie? From what I read in the papers, it wasn't necessary. Some Latins say it was a maneuver linked with nationalistic pride fostered by Cuban politicians.

Continuing suggestions that we play emotionally myopic roles in countries like Cuba has led to a long series of ideological defeats. Maybe we should clear away the rose-colored cobwebs and consider the facts of these situations, not as we might wish them to be.

From recent past history, the communistic program in South America may be deduced. We may soon have a communist satellite nation, or several, just off our shores, with others infiltrating the government of other unsteady Latin governments.

It is mandatory that we remain a humanitarian nation when other nations disregard this factor with impunity—and do so well with it! A person can turn the other cheek only so often without feeling certain unfortunate effects. How can one justify a "be nice to Castro" program?

It is hoped that American students can penetrate the veil of emotion emanating from these articles, but I do not feel they are prepared to do so, not now or next week either.

R. Gonderman

Congratulations

To the Editor:
Congratulations on your article "History Interpreted" which appeared in the May 10 edition of the State News.

Many of us, our knowledge of the growth and development of our country and its parallels to other countries has receded in to the background of everyday living. An article such as this brings it into sharp focus.

A series of articles—perhaps covering other eras of our American heritage—would be most interesting reading.

Bonnie O'Brien

Wants Variety

To the Editor:
I listened recently to the superb Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam, but with only one ear, so to speak. The other was attuned to the stimulating treat we might have enjoyed had the programming been even the least bit more venturesome.

It cannot be disputed that every offering on the program, was a tried and true masterpiece. There are probably at least a dozen recordings currently available of each of them. But the concert-goer should be aware that this represents an extremely limited segment of the orchestral repertoire. For a university audience, I venture the opinion that it was almost too "safe" a program.

This concert was not an isolated instance of our restricted diet. The fact that the university public was served the same symphony no less than three times in one season, however inadvertently, does point up the extent to which the "popular" orchestral repertoire has become so pitifully narrowed. A whole season of travelogues on the Rhine and upper Danube valleys? Unheard of. And yet we must subsist on virtually the musical equivalent.

This is an educational center, for the entire community, as well as the students. If the situation continues unchallenged, what shall we expect of the public generally, for the next generation? Any center of higher learning which continues meekly to accept such a severe restriction of its artistic fare is fast asleep in a most vital area of art and life.

It is my hope that the students themselves (without whom there would surely be no concert series) will be heard from. Then at least we will know once and for all whether the opinions of New York impresarios (and others) are justified—whether this actually is the "sticks," half a century behind culturally, and unable to tune in to anything but a drastically narrow band of the wide musical spectrum.

I am optimistic enough to question this. But unless we are heard from, our diet will not be altered; that part of the world which is artistically awake in mid-twentieth century will have no reason to change its mind about us, and it will at last be right after all.

Hopefully,
Daniel Kingman

Liberation Efforts Doubled in Goa

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Plans to "redouble efforts to liberate Goa" were announced here Thursday by Goan nationalists who claim to have several anti-Portuguese organizations working in western India. India long has sought to remove Portuguese rule from the enclaves of Goa, Damao and Diu.

A special convention is to be held Sunday when steps will be taken to support an underground movement in Goa, they said.

Armed nationalists, presumably operating from India, recently have attacked Portuguese police and other security forces on the Goan border.

A Long Way Home For This Commuter

Mrs. Lucile Silky is one student whose professors will never be able to accuse of enrolling in a course solely for the grade.

Mrs. Silky lives in Muskegon and commutes to Michigan State twice a week—a total of 500 miles—in order to take classes in parliamentary procedure and religion.

A CLASSMATE of Mrs. Silky's is her son Charles who is a junior.

Mrs. Silky plans to teach parliamentary procedure to various groups in the Muskegon area during the summer months. Few people would be better qualified for such a job. Mrs. Silky has been president of every organization to which she has belonged including the Parent Teacher's Association, Americanization Council, DeMolay Mothers Club, and all women's groups in the Lutheran Church in Muskegon.

The rest of the Silky family are also active in civic and school organizations. Charles is the past president of Bryan Hall and is president of his pledge class in Theta Chi fraternity. Charles' sister, a junior at Muskegon junior high, is president of the Y-Teens and is currently in Denver, Colo., as a delegate to the International YWCA.

Charles Silky sr. is president of the Muskegon Bar Association.

Mrs. Silky and her son converse on the steps of Fairchild Theatre following their class. Mrs. Silky commutes from Muskegon on Tuesday and Thursday to attend the class.

Lavish Is Word for Parties

Spring term parties are in full swing on Michigan State's campus this weekend.

Without a doubt, one of the most spectacular will be Shaw Hall's party.

DINNER BY candlelight will precede dancing to the music of John Parks and the Bachelors; intermission entertainment will be the Emers of Central Michigan University. Decorations will be done by the La Van Display Company of Lansing.

Phi Gamma Delta pledges are sponsoring a "Reincarnation Party: Come as You Were," Friday at the Poplars Room. Prizes will be awarded to the couple and the individual who display the most originality.

PHI KAPPA Sigma will hold their annual "Black and Gold Ball" Friday at Dine's. The Modernaires will play for dinner and dancing.

Tramps, gangsters, molls, flappers and 5th Ave. socialites will be entertained tonight by the men of Theta Chi at their annual Bowery Ball. Passers-by will see the fraternity's front yard a refuge for discarded cigar butts, ratty-soaked socks, and other miscellaneous articles in the Abbott Road Bowery.

Adapt to Traffic

Drivers Education Teaches Traffic 'Social Interaction'

By JOHN DANCER
State News Staff Writer

Safe driving is more than just knowing how to mechanically handle an automobile, it is knowing how to drive as a social interaction between people.

Individual driver behavior can be blamed for more than 38 per cent of the traffic accidents in the nation, Norbert Hildebrand, head of information services for the highway traffic safety center, said recently.

"It is obvious from this that a large segment of society has not learned to adapt itself to the requirements exacted by a automotive transportation," he added.

With an annual toll of 40,000 people killed in traffic accidents it is becoming more apparent that this is one of our greatest social problems, he added.

"In Michigan last year more than 1,700 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents at an estimated economic loss of 265 million dollars," Hildebrand said.

For example, he said, suppose a student who was in his second year of college was killed in an accident.

"Of course his life cannot be 'But supposing this is the guy who would discover the cure for cancer."

"This tremendous loss to society is the most disheartening consequence of traffic accidents, he added.

As a consequence of this inability of many to live in a "traffic society" the highway measured in dollars," he said, traffic safety center has developed an interdisciplinary driver education program.

The program is concerned with driving as a social interaction between people rather than a competitive struggle between cars, Hildebrand said.

To accomplish this he said, areas related to driver behavior are brought into the program. Included are social studies, biological science and English.

"By bringing the concepts of these several areas together it is much easier to solve the single broad problem," he said.

Each of these areas is able to offer the student driver a different approach to the various problems he will come up against in our "traffic society" he added.

The faculty consists of a small administrative department working full time, and a large group of instructors from the fields mentioned who offer their services on a part time basis.

As far as I know, Hildebrand said, this type of program is the first one in the nation attempting to meet our traffic problem by educating the student to be good citizens on the highways.

Open House Showing Of Baby Animals at Barns

Married students will have an opportunity to show their youngsters baby farm animals at the university farms open house on Saturday.

Baby calves, pigs, ducks, chickens, lambs, colts and turkeys will be on display at the various barns from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, says Jay Allen, Flint senior and chairman of this year's event.

The open house, sponsored annually by Ag Council, gives youngsters of the Lansing area the opportunity to see the different kinds of farm animals.

Free maps showing the location of all the barns will be available at an information booth set up at the corner of Shaw and Farm Lanes.

A crowd of 5,000 is expected to attend the open house, says Allen.

One of the features of this year's open house will be the Arabian stallion, Ghali, at the horse barn. This stallion was presented to the university last fall by ex-secretary of agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

"The Good Earth" is concerned with the experiences of a Chinese family before World War II and presents some of the dynamics of the Chinese society of that period. The film stars Paul Muni and Louise Rainer.

The Engineering Exposition, highlighting a theme of a "Better World through Engineering," begins this noon with the opening of the JETS (Junior Engineering Technical Society) booth in the lobby of the library.

The exposition, sponsored by the Engineering Council, will run Friday and Saturday and will feature midget auto races, student engineering exhibits, industrial displays, and the May Hop with the crowning of a queen and student awards.

Guided tours and information booths will be provided for parents and students during the open hours of the displays.

THE NINTH ANNUAL JETS Exposition will be open to the public in the main library, where more than 650 chapters of the organization will display hand-built engineering devices.

At three o'clock the student exhibits will be opened to the public in all of the engineering buildings. Some 50 students will have displays throughout six engineering buildings to vie for cash prizes.

Agricultural engineers will display in and around room 107, Agricultural Engineering laboratories; civil engineers on the first floor of Olds Hall and the Mechanical Engineering laboratories; electrical engineering displays will be on the third floor of the electrical engineering building; mechanical engineers will be set up in the mechanical engineering laboratories and the automotive laboratories; and the metallurgical engineers will use the foundry and the metallurgical laboratories.

GUIDED TOURS will be conducted from the entrance of Olds Hall at 3, 5, and 7 p.m. on Friday and 12, 2, and 4 p.m. on Saturday for all persons interested in viewing all of the student exhibits. Information booths will also be set up to direct traffic to the exhibits.

Judging of the exhibits will be carried on Friday afternoon with the presentation of first, second and third prizes for the three categories. Cash prizes of $25 for first, $15 for second and $5 for third in the categories of Upper College, Basic College, and Group displays will be awarded on the basis of originality, engineering content, workmanship and general impression.

At 7:30 p.m. Friday, First Lieutenant Ernest Volgenau, Project Officer of Operation Dyna Soar, will give a lecture on "Space Program" in 111 Olds Hall. All interested persons are invited.

ON SATURDAY, at 9 a.m. the Queen of the Exposition will be crowned at the start of the micro-midget auto races in the Physics-Math parking lot by Miss Jan Linde, last year's engineering queen and Miss Lansing title-holder.

Then the mighty micro-midgets will speed around the race course for three 15-lap heats. The cars, powered by a basic two horsepower engine, are built and entered by member organizations of the Engineering Council.

The winning driver will receive the Race Trophy while the Body Shell Trophy will be awarded for the "best looking" car. The new queen will also greet the winning driver.

THE JETS exhibit will again open in the library at 10 a.m. Other displays will open at 8 a.m. for early glimpses of the prize winning booths.

At noon Saturday, the JETS Awards Luncheon will feature Lt. Volgenau as guest speaker. Awards will be presented to the junior engineers at the luncheon. Following the dinner, the dining area will be cleared to accommodate all interested persons for the free lecture. Tickets for the luncheon are on sale at the JETS booth in the Library.

All exhibits will close at 6 p.m.

THE MAY HOP, annual semi-formal ball, will begin at 9 p.m. and continue the gala activities of the Exposition. The new Engineering Queen will again be crowned for the public and awards will be announced for the student winners.

The music of Gary Walhman's orchestra will lend atmosphere to the Union Ballroom between 9 and 12 p.m. Dean Ryder will present the Dean's Trophy to the department that contributes the most to the Exposition. Awards will be given to an outstanding senior in each of the engineering departments.

Greek Week Activities End In Sorority Sing, Feast

The Greeks are winding up seven days of activities with a series of events planned for this week-end, including a Community Project, Greek Feast, Dance, and Sorority Sing.

Because of enthusiastic support received last year, this year's Community Project has been expanded.

Seven separate projects, each aimed at the betterment of the Lansing area, will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday morning in Valley Court.

Every sorority and fraternity will participate in services for one of several Lansing organizations, including Lansing General Hospital, Community Chest Building, School for the Blind, St. Vincents Home, YWCA Camp, Ingham County Medical Hospital, and Urbandale.

SPEAKING AT the project will be Joe Rogers, chairman of the Urbandale Clean-up, Fix-up Week, and Dean King.

The highlights of the day's activities, Greek Feast, will begin at 6 p.m. at the Phi Delta Theta fraternity house on Cowley Avenue in East Lansing.

Guests at the feast will be served barbecued chicken in an informal picnic atmosphere, and due to the location of the Phi Delta house, are urged to walk if possible to avoid parking difficulties.

Admission will be ticket only, and in case of rain the feast will be transferred to Jenison Fieldhouse.

FOLLOWING THE feast will be a street dance featuring the music of Kenny Davis's band, beginning at 8 p.m.

Concluding Greek Week is Sorority Sing, which will begin Sunday at 2:30 in the auditorium.

Nineteen houses will compete for the first place rating, won for the last three years by Alpha Gamma Delta.

The Sing program will also include the awarding of scholarship trophies and the announc-

Veterans' Car Wash

The Veterans Assn. will hold an annual car wash Saturday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Pure gas station located at the division of Grand River and Michigan ave.

The money from the car wash will be donated to the local Kiwanis club for uniforms and equipment for its boys baseball program.

Cubans Take School Aid Bill Passes Senate Over Film Distribution

HAVANA (AP) — U.S. movie distributing companies in Cuba have been taken over by the Fidel Castro government, it was announced Thursday.

The government named 20th Century Fox, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner, Columbia, United Artists and Universal International. They will be operated by the Cuban Institute of Cinematographic Arts and Industries.

Dr. Alfredo Guevara, institute director, told a news conference the distributors are being intervened because they had not adjusted to "standards set by the revolution."

He also said that old Charlie Chaplin films are being retrieved from vaults of the intervened firms, presumably for re-release.

(Continued from Page 1.) such states as Pennsylvania and Michigan which have big parochial school enrollments. No matching funds are required, but states must not try to substitute federal aid for their own school spending program. The bill would continue the present impacted area school aid program for three more years. This is a program to help school districts that have been overcrowded by big federal installations. Kennedy recommended that this aid be cut in half eventually.

Talent-Loaded Old Timers Tangle With Varsity Saturday

By ERNIE BOONE
State News Sports Writer

Spartan stadium was haunted by old familiar figures Thursday as former MSU gridgers got down to the serious business of preparing for Saturday's tussle with the current varsity.

Headed by player-coach Al Dorrow, the Old Timers are loaded with talent at the quarterback position, with former All-Americans Earl Morrall and Jim Ninowski backing him up. Tom and Pat Wilson, a brother combination which performed at the signal calling spot will see plenty of action also. Larry Bielat, a name familiar to recent fans, is also on hand to handle quarterback chores.

The Old Timers really aren't old at all, with five members of last season's team on the roster, and several players performing in the professional ranks. Last year's co-captains Fred Boylin and Fred Arbanes are returning, along with Mickey Walker and Herb Adderley.

A FEW OF those returning from the ranks of the pros are Dorne Dibble, long time stand-out with the Detroit Lions, Gary Lowe, Lion defensive half-back, and Dan Currie, hard hitting linebacker from the Green Bay Packers. Former All-Americans Walt Kawalcyzk and Norm Masters also returned to give the veterans a lot of "pro savvy."

The Spartan varsity will be fielding seven lettermen on the offensive unit, along with three freshmen and Pete Smith, a junior who failed to letter last fall.

Dewey Lincoln, speedy half-back from Hamtramck, Mat Snortan, big end from Detroit Northwestern, and Dan Underwood, a hard hitting guard, will be the freshmen in the line up for State.

The rest of the offensive unit will be composed of Tom Winicki and Jim Bobbett at tackles, Ed Budde at guard, Dave Manders at center, Art Brandstatter at end, Ron Hatcher at fullback, and Gary Ballman at halfback.

HATCHER, who led the team in yards gained last season, has been running real fine this season, and is sure to give the Spartans plenty of punch up the middle. The offense will get another big lift from the return to the line up of Gary Ballman, who has been out the last few weeks with a slight leg injury.

Lincoln and Smith, who round out the offensive backfield have also been enjoying the spring competition. Smith having a good time passing, and Lincoln running quite well. Smith's passing will be made or broken by the work of the line, which has been giving him pretty good protection so far this spring.

The Old Timers will try to stop this offense by starting Bill Quinlan and Ed Bagdon at ends, Tom Sadocek and Paul Rochester at tackles, Dan Currie, Archie Matsos, and Mickey Walker at linebackers, Gary Lowe and Jim Wolf at halfbacks, and Jessie Thomas and Roger Donnahoo will be double safeties.

Filling out the Old Timers squad will be Palmer Pyle, Lynn Chadnos, Jason Harness, Harold Dukes, Tony Kalodjiez, Don Wright, Bud Chastin, Bob Jewitt, Ike Grimsey, George Fearless, Henie Young, and Ivan Slanac.

"THE OFFENSIVE line up hasn't been selected yet," said Al Dorrow, this year's coach of the veterans who enjoyed a fine season with the New York Titans of the American Football League last fall, "all of the players haven't arrived yet. We won't be running any college type plays," he commented, "we will be working with slot backs, and doing a lot of passing." With the abundance of fine quarterbacks, passing should be no problem.

One of the big questions in the minds of many fans is whether or not the Old Timers can get in shape fast enough to play sixty minutes of hard football, but Dorrow seems confident that they can do it, and the answer can only come on the field Saturday afternoon.

Senators Humiliate Tigers, 9-4

By PAUL SCHNITT
State News Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Billy Klaus, a .095 hitter, smashed a grand slam home run that sparked the Washington Senators' biggest offensive show of the season Thursday in a 9-4 victory over the first place Detroit Tigers.

Hot-hitting Gene Woodling and Dale Long also hit homers for the Senators, who climbed out of last place by splitting a four-game series with the American League pacesetters.

The nine-run output was two better than the Senators had done in 25 previous games, and their six-run burst in the fifth inning of the young season was the highest of the season.

The Tigers gave reliever Bill Fischer his first start of the season and the sinker ball specialist was in command for four innings. But the Senators loaded the bases on two singles and a walk with one out in the fifth.

Then Klaus, a light-hitting infielder who has had only four hits in 42 trips, lined the second grand slam of his career into the lower seats in right field.

Fischer walked Danny O'Connell, and Woodling greeted Hank Aguirre with a two-run homer, his fourth.

Long led off the sixth with his third home run off Jim Donohue, who yielded another run in the seventh on Woodling's walk and Jim Kink's double.

O'Connell drove in Washington's final run in the eighth off Terry Fox.

The Tigers had built up a 3-0 lead against John Gabler before the Senators launched their attack. Marty Kutyna succeeded Gabler after four innings and picked up his second victory by restricting the Tigers to one run the rest of the way.

Spartans Play Wildcats

Michigan State's baseball team returns to Old College Field this weekend for a single game against the North western wildcats 3:30 p.m. Friday and a follow-up twinbill with the Badgers of Wisconsin Saturday afternoon beginning one o'clock.

The Spartans, tied for eighth, ninth and tenth in the Big Ten with a 2-4 mark, will be fighting to break a five game losing streak.

Minnesota swept State twice; Michigan bettered that by taking both ends of a doubleheader game in the middle.

SINCE THEN, the team split with Ohio State last Saturday. However, the hitting was much more impressive in that series than it had been and head coach John Kobs hopes that and Bill Schudlich hit safely four times in 13 at bats. One was a four bagger.

Tom Riley connected five times in 13 tries. He is not batting .459 in the Western Conference, seventh best.

Senior Mickey Sinks will pitch one of the games. He returned to his winning ways with a victory over Ohio State.

BOB ROSS, GARY Ronberg and Ken Avery are possible balls leader in Garbeff. He has issued 24.

Michigan is in second place with a 5-1 mark. They were beaten by Indiana last weekend.

Northwestern comes into town with four wins and five losses. They boast the league's strike out leader in Jim Garbeff. Garbeff has whiffed 28 in 18 innings. The Wildcats also boast the conference's base on Pat Sartorius went 5 for 12,

The Spartans have found themselves at the plate once again. In the three games - two with the Buckeyes and another with Notre Dame - State collected 33 hits.

Wayne Fontes had three of the hits and five runs batted in including a three run homer, starters.

Ross was scheduled to hurl against Western Michigan Tuesday but the game was washed out.

Avery pitched effectively for six frames against the Fighting Irish before weakening. He will be available.

ALONG WITH Michigan State, Wisconsin is tied for eighth, ninth and tenth, depending on who makes up the standings.

Perched on top of the Big Ten are the Minnesota Gophers with a 8-1 record. They have won eight in a row since bowing to the Wolverines in their opener.

Novi Race Car Engine Explodes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Ralph Ligouri of Tampa, Fla., suffered second-degree burns Thursday when an engine on the famed Novi exploded at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and the big car skidded about 1,920 feet and hit the wall twice.

Ligouri, who was taking a refresher test in the trouble-plagued car, was taken to the speedway first aid station with burns on the face and neck. He was treated and released.

Volleyball Team To Play at Duluth

Michigan State's volleyball team will compete in the championship meet Friday and Saturday at the Duluth branch of the University of Minnesota.

The squad finished second in the Midwestern collegiate volleyball league to George Williams.

Dick Nelson, physical education instructor, who coaches the team said with the entry of two California schools he couldn't predict how the Spartan squad would finish in the tourney.

He said, "I'll be satisfied with a third place finish, but we'll hope to do better."

Golfers Face OSU, U of M at Ann Arbor

MSU's golf team tunes up for the Big Ten championship tournament next weekend by taking on Michigan and Ohio State at Ann Arbor this Saturday.

Coach Jack Brotzmann is taking seven men to Ann Arbor instead of the usual six. "After Saturday," said Brotzmann, "we'll know who's going to the Big Ten." Only six will go to the conference championships.

The seven men making the trip are: Buddy Badger, Gary Barrett, Gene Hunt, Marty Kleva, Larry McMillan, Tad Schmidt and captain C. A. Smith.

Grads Top Mac's AC; Beat Block Three

The Owen Grads, Phi Gamma Delta and precinct four of Emmons hold the spotlight this week in the softball tilt. The Grads came from behind to defeat Mac's A.C. 5-3 for top position of block three in the Independent league.

A surprise victory in block two of the fraternity league broke the tie for first place between Alpha Tau Omega and Alpha Gamma Rho. Phi Gamma Delta, also coming from behind, defeated Delta Chi, 17-9. At the top of the fourth inning Delta Chi led 9-8. Then the Fijis exploded scoring nine runs to win the game and the number one position in the block.

The big change in the Dormitory league was Emmons precinct four's victory over Emmons two to take the block seven championship.

The remaining standings through May 11 are:
Independent League: block one, Howland leads with four wins. In block two the Vets and A.K. Psi are tied with three wins and Tinkles Terrors and Vets II are tied with three wins apiece in block 4.

The Sugardaddys are tied with the Hasbeens in five with three wins each.

Sigma Nu is the undefeated leader of Block one of the Fraternity league while Delta Sigma Phi and Farmhouse are deadlocked for the number one post in block three. Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Alpha Mu are tied in block 4.

In the dormitory league Armstrong one holds the lead with two wins, Armstrong six and eight are tied with two wins apiece in block two, and Bailey three and six are tied with three wins each in block three.

Bryan six leads block five and Butterfield six and eight are tied for first place in block six. In 11, East Shaw three leads with two wins; 12, East Shaw nine with two wins; 13, West Shaw four and three are tied with two wins each and in 14 West Shaw eight and six are tied for first with two wins each.

On the bowling scene this past week the high game was bowled by Roger Griffith, East Lansing freshman, of the AOCs team with 223. The team score went to Vets II with 983.

The block leaders are: one Phi Alpha 12.5; two, Vets I 9; three, Vets II, 14; four, Delta Sigma Phi one, 13.

AF Riflemen Win League Tournament

Air Force AFROTC climaxed an undefeated season Saturday with a victory in the annual inter service ROTC Rifle League tournament at Ann Arbor.

MSU AF took first place with a score of 1414 over Wayne State University (1396), and MSU Army (1389).

Participating in the meet were 11 teams from the tri-state area.

AFROTC cadets participating in the tournament were, Ronald Haugen, Grand Haven junior; Bruce Behrmann, Dowagiac sophomore; Jerry Nye, St. Joseph freshman; Neil Vierson, Grand Rapids freshman; and John Lilley, Spring Lake junior.

MSU AF also took first place in the Midwestern League with a 1408 average out of ten ten matches. MSU Army took second place.

MSU AF was awarded permanent and perpetual trophies for its performance in the tournament and league. Haugen received two trophies for individual performance.

MSU AF completed its second straight undefeated season with the Interservice match.

It has won the MSU Service trophy, second place in the W. R. Hearst match, fourth place in the Secretary of the Air Force match, first in the AF-ROTC area match and second place in the Illinois Invitational.

USAF Speaker 'Space Program' Talk At Olds Hall Tonight

A rocket and space expert, professional engineer and project officer for the Dyna Soar project with the U.S. Air Force will be keynote speaker for the Engineering Exposition.

First Lieutenant Ernst Volgenau will present "Space Program" at an open lecture at 7:30 p.m. in 111 Olds Hall.

On Saturday, Volgenau will deliver his main talk at the JETS Awards Luncheon in the Big Ten Room, Kellogg Center, at noon. Tickets for the luncheon are on sale at the JETS booth, Library lobby, at $2 each but the public is invited to come into the dining room for the lecture.

VOLGENAU is a native of New York, having received his early education in Williamsville.

In 1951 he entered the U.S. Naval Academy. He graduated "with distinction and received his BS degree in 1951. While at the Academy, he was selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Volgenau transferred to the U.S. Air Force in 1959. He received his Masters degree in Electrical Engineering from the Air Force Institute of Technology and was assigned to Orlando Air Force Base, Florida as a Guided Missile Officer.

He is presently assigned as a Project Officer to the Dyna Soar Directorate, Deputy Commander for Launch Vehicles in the Space Systems Division at Los Angeles.

AS A PROFESSIONAL Engineer, Volgenau is a member of the American Rocket Society, Program Chairman IRE Automatic Controls Group in Los Angeles, and a member of TAU Beta Pi national Engineering Honorary, in addition to his military duties.

He is also the translator of Russian technical papers for the American Rocket Society as well as an instructor in engineering at the Extension Division University of California.

Professors Give Papers At Meeting

A number of faculty members and graduate students of the MSU Philosophy Department attended the Fifty-Ninth Annual Meeting of the Western Division of the American Philosophical Association in St. Louis.

Dr. Lewis K. Zerby presented a paper entitled "Human Rights and Legal Rights" and Dr. George C. Kerver presented a paper entitled "Approvals, Reasons, and Some Contemporary Theories of Moral Reasoning."

During the day, bands of eight to 18 chimpanzees lope through the African jungles in search of fruit, berries, nuts and leaves. At night they weave branches into nests and camp in trees. The male leader of the family occupies one tree, the females and younger another.

Wait for ICC International Conference on Laos May Finally Get Under Way

GENEVA (AP)—A major international conference on Laos, long threatened with delays, now seems likely to begin on schedule at the UN Palace of Nations here today.

This was the assumption Thursday night of various diplomats gathered from East and West — an assumption based as much on hope as on solid fact.

That is the one important document which all the diplomats in Geneva are waiting for. Once it is received they can open their negotiations on schedule at 2 p.m. (9 a.m. EST).

American sources insisted Secretary of State Dean Rusk will not sit down at the conference table until he has received official assurance that the fighting in Laos has stopped. Many leading international figures — including Rusk himself, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko — found themselves in a strange sort of diplomatic race against the clock.

Hours ticked away without any official word from the Indian-Canadian-Polish International Control Commission

(ICC) assigned to certify a cease-fire in the southeast Asian kingdom.

Informed sources in London said they understood that organized fighting in the troubled southeast Asian country has, in fact, sputtered to a stop. They noted that sporadic clashes continue and one commented "These things still have to be regularized."

Steed Elected President Alpha Chi Sigma

David Steed, East Lansing junior, has been elected president of Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemical fraternity for men.

Other officers are: Gary Sommer, New York freshman; Barry Tisdale, Grosse Pointe freshman, secretary and Stuart Spencer, East Lansing junior, treasurer.

Any male student with five terms of chemistry is eligible to rush Sunday at 3 p.m., 341 Evergreen.

Dr. Reul at Conference

Dr. Myrtle Reul, assistant professor of social work, was a delegate to the National Triennial YWCA Convention in Denver, Colo., last week. She is one of the seven Lansing area adults participating in the convention. Sixteen-year girls from the Lansing area also attended the convention which had 3,000 United States delegates and many foreign delegates representing their branches of the YWCA. The convention meetings dealt with problems of politics and practices in the YWCA, the role of the YWCA in the future and cooperation between the YMCA and YWCA. Among the speakers were Dr. Donald Dodgson, New York University; Dr. Allen Nevins, American historian; Dr. H. Wesley, president of Central State College, Ohio; Miss Elizabeth Palmer, general secretary of the World YWCA; Miss Lelace Barnes, president of the national YWCA and Miss Edith Lerrito general secretary of the national YWCA association.

Club Topic Is 'U.S. Relations'

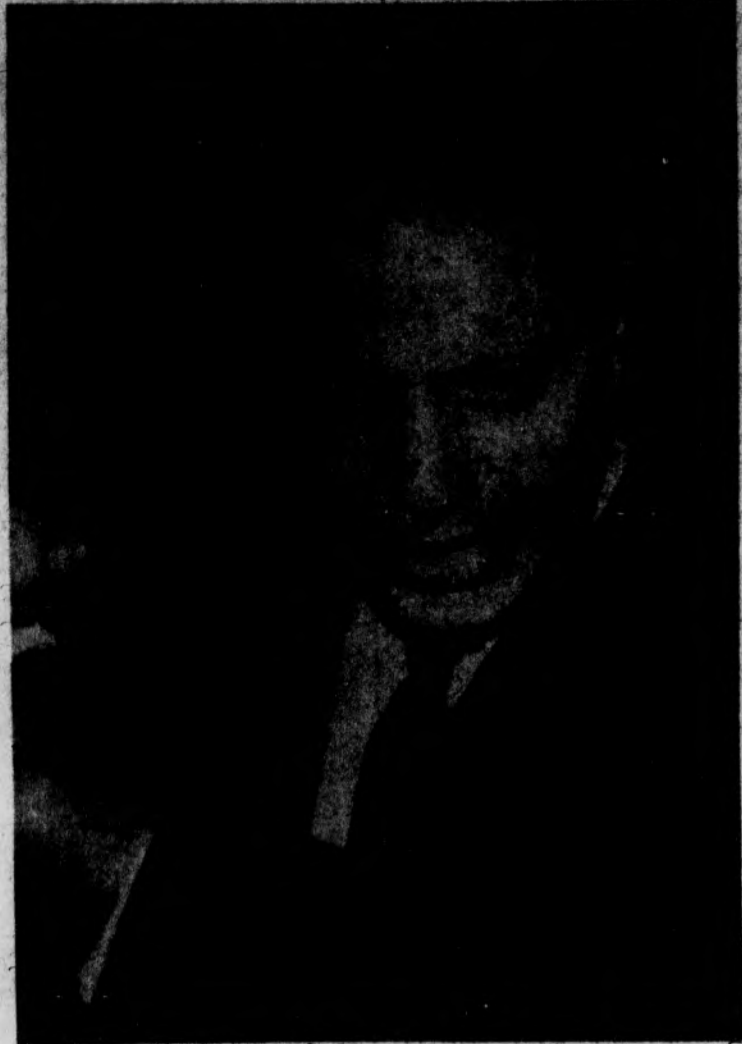

The Midwest conference of the Association of International Relations Clubs opens officially Friday at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln Room at Kellogg Center with an address by Stanley J. Idzerda, director of Honors College. U. S. relations with its neighbors, Canada, Cuba and Mexico, will be discussed by Charles C. Cumberland, professor of history, Alvin C. Gluek, assistant professor of history, and Donald A. Yates, assistant professor of foreign languages. Phillips W. Foster, assistant professor of agricultural economics, will be chairman of the discussion. Saturday morning at 8:30 in the Lincoln Room current political and economic problems of the four nations will be discussed by Daniel Goldrich, assistant professor of political science; John L. Hazard, professor of marketing and transportation administration; John M. Hunter, professor of economics, and Howard A. Scarrow, assistant professor of political science. Chairman of the panel will be Donald W. Urquidí, assistant professor of political science. Following this panel discussion, student discussion groups of about 25 people each will be led by the faculty panel members in the Lincoln Room. Lunch will be served at 12:15 in the Kellogg Centennial Room. The luncheon address will be D. W. Brogan, distinguished visiting professor of history and professor of political science at Cambridge University. He will be introduced by Wesley A. Fishel, professor of political science. A panel discussion at 2 p.m. in the Kellogg Lincoln Room will consider Nationalism and anti-Americanism in Canada and Latin America. The panel includes Victor Goldkind, instructor of sociology and anthropology; Julio Larrea, professor of philosophy at the University of Tucuman in Argentina; Norman Penington, assistant professor of humanities, and A. J. M. Smith, MSU poet-in-residence and professor of English. The chairman will be Gordon L. Thomas, professor of speech. Student discussion groups led by faculty members will be held in the Lincoln Room at 4 p.m. A chicken barbecue will be held at 5:30 p.m. at the Old Secret Practice Field, across from Kellogg on the Red Cedar Band will provide dinner music. At 8 p.m. the International Festival stage show will be held in the auditorium. Convention participants will be urged to attend. Student discussion groups will meet at 10 a.m. Sunday in the Kellogg Lincoln Room. The subject of discussion will be the preparation of resolutions. SUNDAY luncheon will be in the staff dining room of Brody Hall at 1 p.m. The West Indies Steel Band will provide dinner music. At 2 p.m. there will be a surprise speaker in the Kellogg Lincoln Room. His subject will be Latin America and the United States. The final session will begin in the Kellogg Lincoln Room at 3 p.m. Members of the University of Michigan Peace Corps group will discuss the forming of an intercollegiate association of Peace Corps groups. They have been working closely with Peace Corps Director Sergeant Shiver, according to Robert Immel, conference coordinator. John Wharam, a national vice president of the foreign service fraternity, Delta Phi Epsilon, will also speak during the final session. Conference registration will be this afternoon from 3 to 5 p.m. in the lobby of Butterfield Hall. Immel said late registration will be possible but added that all participants in the conference should register as early as possible.

Ike Says Don't Criticise JFK's Foreign Policy

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Thursday the country is in a series of crises and this is not the time to criticize President Kennedy's foreign policy. After a five-hour meeting with former officials of his administration, Eisenhower said Republicans are reserving the right to question Kennedy's decisions in foreign affairs. "We are in a series of crises and it is not the time for divisive voices to be heard in the country," the ex-President said. Eisenhower met with 20 of his former cabinet members and aides at his Gettysburg office. He told an informal news conference on the steps outside that while the Republicans intend to be, as he put it, "completely bipartisan" on international matters at this time, they do not intend to be hesitant about criticizing Kennedy administration domestic moves.

Provost Miller Backs Hannah Plan; 'Increase Student Responsibility'

By CURT RUNDLELL
State News Staff Writer

The number of college students in America is expected to double within the next ten years.

As a result of this expected increase, President John A. Hannah has proposed a radical new program to meet the greater demands placed on Michigan State.

Essential to this plan is the idea that students will have to accept more of the responsibility for their education and depend less on the faculty.

What effects will this have on the academic life of the student? How will this effect the role of the faculty? What steps will the university's administration have to take to prepare the university for this proposed shift away from the classroom?

DR. PAUL MILLER, university provost, said he thinks the change will work out for the better. He thinks that increased responsibility will be a great aid in preparing the student to enter society.

"Confidence is obtained alone," Miller said. "Most of our early leaders practiced this ideal. Jefferson, for example, lived by regimentation. He studied the arts from 6 a.m. until 7 a.m., he studied science from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. and so on."

Today's universities don't follow this theory, according to Miller. Instead they attempt to do too much for the student, not allowing him to work things out on his own and at his own speed.

"In my opinion, the greatest untapped resource in education is the student's capacities and resources," he said.

Universities should provide more training in the skill of individual study, Miller said. The student should be encouraged to read and write more and spend less time in the lecture hall.

THIS ISN'T to say that the beginning freshman should be expected to change over night and accept such a great increase in responsibility at first.

Such a program would have to be progressive, Miller said. Where the freshman would take a five hour course and be with the instructor five hours a week, the senior should be expected to take a five hour course and spend only two hours with the instructor. The rest of the time should be spent doing the work on his own, in the form of research.

"I grow worried that education is leaning too much toward a locked-step basis, where 15 credits a term should be taken, certain courses should be taken before the student can begin to study along the lines of his major and that sort of thing," he said.

To prepare the entering freshman for his college life, Miller said he thinks universities should do a better job of orientation.

THEY MUST BE shown that the university requires them to work hard and grow up, he said.

"Michigan State is attempting to do this in another way, too," he said.

"We are emphasizing the improvement of the residence hall system. Here we hope to make the student more at home and, at the same time, give him an emphasis on education along with others like him.

Programs will have to be changed too, Miller said. Just as universities display a genius for adopting the new, they must display a genius for removing the outmoded.

"A UNIVERSITY is an enterprise of sorts," he said. "It must be able to remember the successes of the past and balance them with problems of the future, eliminating outmoded programs as it goes."

Another problem arises from the fact that, as the student body grows, so does the campus. This often makes it difficult for the student to get from class to class in the allotted time.

An attempt to solve this problem is found in the university's move to group the major subject classes into one area, such as: business administration classes in the area of the new building being constructed near Shaw hall.

This cannot completely solve the problem, Miller said, in that no student will ever take all his credits in one area of study.

"AS LONG AS chemistry majors take philosophy courses and education majors take language courses, the problem will never be completely solved," he said.

Concerned about the problem of building new classroom buildings, Miller said:

"I don't know of one university administrator who doesn't stay awake nights worrying about how to build new classroom facilities."

The problem is that, where dormitories are self-supporting and even pay for their own construction, classroom buildings are not.

THIS PUTS the university on entirely different ground when it approaches the state legislature with a building proposal, Miller said.

As a result, Michigan State has been able to do well in the construction of residence halls. But the university has a classroom problem.

"In fact," Miller said, "we have the best resident halls of any campus in the country."

As the university has grown, it has met with some opposition from faculty members on the grounds that too much money is being spent on building and too little on academic advancement.

THIS, MILLER said, is partly due to the fact that it is too easy to sit in the background and say, "These boys up in the office don't know what they are doing."

It is also true, according to Miller, that there has been some instances where these claims are partly justified.

"In any growing organization," he said, "there is some loss of balance. In this case I don't believe it is the fault of the university."

"Due to our problem with the construction of classroom buildings, we are often left no other course but to build accommodations where it is possible. We must move in the direction that is open or not move at all."

ANOTHER PROBLEM that faces the university is that of students from out of state. The problem is whether or not it is costing the state too much to educate these people.

Miller said, however, that he was satisfied with the present distribution of students.

"What good would a university education be," he asked, "if the student wasn't offered the opportunity to sit down to a cup of coffee with another student from Nigeria, or Arizona, or California?"

Another factor that must be considered is that many of our graduate students are from out of state.

CARRYING THE value of mixed student bodies a step farther, Miller said:

"Any Michigan student is better educated if he is given the opportunity to mix with people from all countries and of all colors and religions."

Twenty per cent of the university's students are from out of state, Miller said.

Talking of graduate study, Miller said that the university has progressed at a "phenomenal" rate.

IN THE LAST ten years Michigan State has increased its number of doctorate awards more than any other university, he said.

"During one year in the 1940's we awarded ten doctorates," Miller said. "Last year we awarded 192 of them."

In short, universities today are faced with a multitude of problems resulting from vast increases in the number of students.

Michigan State has many of these problems and has, according to Miller, taken definite steps toward their solution.

Some problems, however, still face the university. Among these are:

What means should be employed toward educating this many students?

HOW CAN THE university better serve the academic needs of the student?

How can students be brought to a point where they can accept more of the responsibility for their education?

Of these problems, the most essential is the role of the student accepting more responsibility for his education, according to Miller.

The university, Miller said, will be in a better position to serve the needs of the student

Track Capt. Reynolds Cops Award for Grades

Track captain, William Reynolds, added another scholastic award to his credit Saturday night at the annual Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity dinner dance.

Reynolds, graduating senior from Galt, Ontario, has received four other awards this term for his academic achievement in the College of Business and Reynolds accepted his fifth award, a scholarship from Len in Harrington, Detroit lawyer and president of Alpha Kappa Psi at the dinner dance at Dine's in Lansing.

Earlier this term, he had received a $500 award from Has-kins and Sells, the Beta Alpha Psi business fraternity scholarship and a fellowship from a public accounting firm.

He also received the Big Ten Conference Medal for his proficiency in track and cross country and his academic achievement. This award is presented to one man in each of the Big Ten schools.

As a member of IC 4-A national collegian championship teams and the 1960 conference championship team, he has lettered in track for three years.

Miller said that he is not satisfied in this last half chapter. This, he said, is because he feels that once he is satisfied he will be neglecting his duty to the university.

ONCE AN administrator becomes satisfied with his university, he has reached a point where he will stop working for the university's progress in the future, Miller said.

"Of all the questions concerning universities, one stands out as the most fascinating," Miller said.

"When people say Michigan State, what will they be thinking of?"

WILLIAM REYNOLDS

Public Service and for his athletic proficiency.

In addition to being captain of the track and cross country teams, Reynolds has maintained an all college point average of 3.84, the highest average of the graduating male class in the business and public service college.

Two other awards were presented Saturday night to Paul Sands, instructor in personnel; and Robert Garvin, former president of the local chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi.

Reynolds, who plans to go on to graduate school, has set a record for awards in the College of Business and Public Service.

Brogan Speaks To History Club

David Cox, president of the history club, announced that the History club and the history department are co-sponsoring a talk by Professor Denis Brogan of England as their guest speaker.

Professor Brogan will speak Tuesday, May 16, from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in 33 Union. Everyone is invited to attend.
