EXPECT MANY TO TRY FOR CHORUS

Permission for Outside Participation in Organization Draws Crowd.

The recent approval of the faculty for non-student membership in the Michigan State college chorus will result in a large number of persons turning out for the first meeting of the group tonight at the Home Economics building on the campus, according to Zinovy Kogan, conductor of the organization.

Permission of the faculty to allow outsiders to participate in the chorus is expected to attract both Lansing and East Lansing vocalists. The present 60 member chorus is expected to be augmented to nearly 125 at the tryouts tonight.

At the initial meeting, voices will be tested and parts assigned. Fred Killeen, instructor of voice, will assist Kogan with this work.

After the organization and assignment of parts, the chorus will undertake one of the most extensive programs ever attempted by a similar group, according to Kogan.

able for the free list. A letter explaining the system and including a list of offices on the campus which are eligible for free tickets will be furnished each campus organization.

It is expected that this move will be welcomed by Michigan State college as a means of ending a controversy and settling, for the benefit of every organization, a question which has been an open sore for many years.

A one-and-three-quarters kilowatt relay simplex paramotor has been purchased by the Electrical Engineering department for testing samples of ferric alloys for hysteresis and eddy currents. A new student potentiometer, vibration galvanometer, along with a Kelvin bridge has also been added to the present equipment.

My Ego And Yours
By JOHN TATE, Jr.

Having Has Flunked!

The unprecedent, the unbelievable has occurred. Custom has been violated, not only violated, but seduced, not only seduced but abandoned. Michigan State, after a youth full of awkwardness and waywardness, has reached at least a semblance of maturity. There ain't going to be any more crazing. Any more swaddling clothes draped over rocks near the river. Nor more freshmen deprived of necessary apparel in the middle of the unfriendly night miles from the protecting walls of the abode of their books.

This collegiatism, this child-lishness, this witless display of idle minds has been abolished. And it was done by the Student Council! Even if the idea was suggested to them (forcefully.) We salute, we make humble obeisance. With crass criticism still irking their bosoms they gazed with steady eye into the bloodless orbs of venerable tradition, and perpetrated startling precedent.

Upon a period of arrested development has been superimposed an edict of subtle force. Where old habits have been outlawed new fetishes will grow. It augurs of a new attitude gathering momentum. An attitude of quiet simplicity and effectiveness. Who knows but that if students act as civilized human beings long enough that they will be accepted as such?

Now that a picture has been drawn it is faintly possible that the suggestion will be infiltrated into the customary stipules of the undergraduate, and modify them hotly. Perhaps even the exponents of the obvious braggadocio of the rah-rah, the garish loudness of collegiatism will vaguely comprehend a shifting point of view. In the lives of all morons a little rain must fall.

What has ever been accomplished by having other than grievances, broken heads, lost clothing, lost freshmen, sunken courses, adverse publicity, empty classrooms, worried parents, fresh hiding under beds, except a certain amount of sadistic satisfaction on the part of frustrated sophomores?

NAME DATE FOR INTERFRAT BALL

Council Decides to Hold Fall Term Event November 7; Petition Conrad.

A series of minor business details occupied the Interfraternity Council at its regular weekly meeting last Tuesday evening. Definite decision that the coming Interfraternity ball would be held Nov. 7 was the highlight of the proceedings.

Plans for the ball are expected to be completed before the council meets next week. Randy Bessbrook is in charge of arrangements. To date, it is definitely known that the affair will be held in the Union ballroom and that an out-of-town band will furnish the music for dancing. The council voted not to give programs.

Members of the body examined a number of designs for a key drawn up by jewelers, but tabled the matter of a definite choice. It is understood that another jeweler will present some designs based on suggestions from the members of the council at the next meeting.

A committee was appointed by the president, Bob O'Connor, to petition Dean Conrad for an extension of the attendance limit at radio parties.

Ry Bredin reported that a substitute for soccer proposed when it became definitely known that that sport could not be added to the intramural schedule this year on account of lack of a playing field was not possible. Lack of facilities for a suitable sport for intramural competition was given as the reason for the failure of the petition.

STUDENT PULSE

Signed and initialed articles on any topic pertinent to student interests are welcomed in this column.

To the Editor:

In a recent issue of the Michigan State News the editorial staff of the paper came out with a campaign advocating a drastic change in the activity point system in use at present on the campus.

Among other things, the News sought to place men and women on an equal footing as far as points are concerned. Rather idealistic it is true. There is no reason why women shouldn't get as many activity points as the men. But why have points at all, especially for women? Points, it seems, is a sweet sounding word, which by its honey-coated euphony draws a haze of ambition and glory-hungry persons whose one and only hope is to get the appellation of "big shot" or B. M. or B. W. O. C.

In many cases that is the one and primary objective of the person who goes out for some sort of position. Especially is this true of co-eds.

Many co-eds don't, as a rule, wish the present activity point system get into extra-curricular activities for the sake of the activity itself. Instead they make sure of the number of points they will get out of a certain position and then set their caps for the job.

Many of them attain posts which are not interesting to them from the standpoint of the work itself, but from the fact that it is getting them a certain number of activity points. They then set out to parade their honorific job to the gaze of the campus in general. Soon they are designated at influential B. W. O. C.'s. Their pride and vanity is satisfied. They are in the campus eye. Their innate egotism is satisfied. They are admired, respected, and feared.

Chances are it is justified? Co-eds are hypocritical. She hasn't fulfilled her obligations. She has gotten her points, but little else.

This perhaps is a trifle far-fetched. It is true, nevertheless. Without activity points, co-eds would go out for whatever interested them. They wouldn't be any incentive for the position other than the activity itself. This would mean that more interest would be shown by co-eds toward their work.

Cornell University and the University of Wisconsin have dispensed with all point systems and have inaugurated a major and minor activity scheme whereby no co-ed can participate in more than a certain amount of outside work. The system in the two schools has been praised highly. Other universities and colleges are beginning to utilize the idea. There is no reason why it couldn't be started at Michigan State.

There are a number of competent women students on this campus. It should be an easy matter for them to work out an idea which would do away with activity points. The present condition on the campus is far from ideal. There is a remedy. Someone should do something about it.

The industry that succeeds today is the one that looks outside its own "back yard" for ways to make itself more valuable.

For many years, Bell System men have been working out ideas to increase the use and usefulness of the telephone. For example, they prepared plans for selling by telephone which helped an insurance man to increase his annual business from $1,000,000 to $5,500,000—a wholesale grocer to enlarge his volume 25% at a big saving in overhead—a soap salesman to sell $6000 worth of goods in one afternoon at a selling cost of less than 1%!

This spirit of cooperation is one reason why the Bell System enjoys so important a place in American business.

His closing remarks were to the effect that the Student Council should be responsible for all undergraduate affairs—the true pulse of student life. He continued, "It is my earnest hope that every student be imbued with the true spirit of Michigan State college, ever ready to give or sacrifice anything or all for the sake of the institution."

Panhell Holds Special Meeting For Discussion

Decide on Delegates to Represent State at National Convention.

A special meeting of Panhellenic was held in the private dining room in the Union building Thursday evening to discuss the suggestion made by National Panhellenic in reference to delegates who will represent Michigan State at the National Panhellenic conference. The national organization suggested that the acting president represent the local group.

It was decided that Dorothy Wickstrom, president, will attend the convention which is to be held in St. Louis, Missouri, October 29, 30 and 31. All representatives are to send their rushing expenses and criticisms into Dean Conrad's office as soon as possible.

Two suggestions were made to the representatives to discuss with the individual chapters. One was that a permanent record of all sorority members and pledges be kept in Dean Conrad's office and that all averages of pledges should be sent in to the Dean's office the beginning of winter term so that a check may be made on all initiates.

Co-ed Lectures Prove Popular With Freshmen

'Mike' Casteel Addressed First Year Girls Last Tuesday.

Deepening interest in the series of freshmen lectures on co-ed problems which were sponsored throughout last year by the women's physical education department has given rise to a similar schedule this year. The lectures are held each Tuesday night at 5 o'clock in the Horticultural auditorium.

Miles Casteel, football coach, addressed the co-ed Tuesday on the fundamentals of football. He explained the rules, plays and penalties.

The first lecture of the course was given the first of the month by Dean Elizabeth Conrad. She discussed the cut system, the inadvisability of naming, the system of taking notes, the conservation of money and energy. "Don't sponger, play fair" was the theme of her talk.

Miss Anne Hodgson of the women's division of National Amateur Athletic association, New York, gave the second lecture on the point system. She believed in playing for play's sake. She advocated no material awards.

Miss Elizabeth Whitaker and Miss Ethel Webb, both of the Home Economics department, and Dean Elizabeth Conrad are booked for coming lectures.

ART DEPARTMENT ADDS TO STAFF

Alma Schulmerich From U. of Oregon is New Member.

The personnel of the art department has been increased this year by one new member, Miss Alma Schulmerich.

Miss Schulmerich graduated from the University of Oregon in 1928 in the Home Economics division. She then received her master's degree from Columbia University, and has been teaching for the past two years at Oregon University. Miss Schulmerich is very enthusiastic over Michigan State, likes the people, admires the campus, and predicts almost unlimited advancement in our art department.

A new innovation which has already been started by Miss Schulmerich are the art classes meeting every Tuesday evening at Olds Hall. Here there are groups painting Christmas cards, some doing figure sketching, others soap carving, and some still-life set ups. Miss Schulmerich states that this is not considered as a class but merely a gathering of all those who wish to try or use their talents in whatever way they wish. Next Tuesday, October 27, officers will be elected for the group and as many as possible who care to come are urged to attend.

let's all go to TOBACKEY

Eastward ho! Four thousand miles nearer the rising sun—let's go! To the land of mosques and minarets—so different from our skyscrapers, stacks and steeples. Let's see this strange, strange country. Let's see the land where the tobacco* grows in small leaves on slender stalks—to be tenderly picked, leaf by leaf, hung in long fragrant strings, shelter-dried and blanket-cured. Precious stuff! Let's taste that delicate aromatic flavor—that subtle difference that makes a cigarette!

XANTHI . . CAVALLA . . SMYRNA . . SAMSOON . . famous tobaccos!

*Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the "spice," the "sauce"—or what rich, sweet cream is to coffee! You can taste the Turkish in Chesterfield—there's enough of it, that's why. Chesterfield has not been stingy with this important addition to good taste and aroma; four famous kinds of Turkish leaf—Xanthi, Cavalla, Samsoun and Smyrna—go into the smooth, "spicy" Chesterfield blend. This is just one more reason for Chesterfield's better taste. Tobaccos from far and near, the best of their several kinds—and the right kinds. And pure, tasteless cigarette paper, the purest made. The many requisites of a milder, better smoke, complete! That's why they're GOOD—they've got to be and they are.
