Stan Kenton Holding Real 'Cool' Classes

Stan Kenton is on campus this week.

So is Sam Danahu, Buddy DeFranco, Buddy Morrow, Don Byrd, Don Jacoby, Ray Santis, Johnny Smith, John LaPorta, Russ Garcia, and Phil Moore.

The big people in modern American music are here to teach jazz and dance band techniques in an unusual National Band Clinic headed by Kenton.

THEY FLEW into Lansing Saturday night from Southern Methodist University where a similar program of instruction has just ended.

The concert climax of activities at Southern Methodist University brought 3,000 persons to the Dallas, Texas, fairgrounds.

"We're hoping it doesn't rain here Friday night," commented Matt Betton, assistant director of the camp.

A free four-hour concert will be staged on the lawn just west of the Music Building at 7 p.m. Friday—weather permitting. If it should rain, the program will be held in the Music Building, across from Landon Hall, where the performers are staying.

EIGHT CAMP bands and four guest bands will participate in Friday's concert which will feature such selections as "Now Hear This" and "Alto Soliloquy."

The program will begin with elementary selections and work up to complex offerings by, for example, the North Texas Lab Band which recently won top honors in a national contest at Notre Dame.

The Texas group of college musicians is listed in all the polls as the best experimental band, Betton explained.

Other guest bands participating are the Southern-Huntington High School Band from Long Island; the band from the Notre Dame Boy's High School of Niles; and the Columbus High School stage band of Columbus, Ohio.

"THESE AMAZING bands are so well trained they sound almost professional," Betton commented.

Clinics, such as the one now in progress at MSU, were originated to offer training and experience to young musicians interested in modern American music, Betton said.

Dr. Morris E. Hall, associate professor of music and head of the clinic, also commented on how difficult it is to receive training in this field except through programs of this type.

"We hope that the program will catch on here at State," Hall said.

OVER 200 high school and college musicians from all over the country are congregated here for the clinic.

The students are divided into 12 bands. An average day includes two hours of band practice and one hour each of sectional study of their own instrument in theory, arrangement, improvisation principles, and performance techniques.

An hour-long informal discussion with jazz-world leaders highlights each day. Topics have included the hazards of being a musician, critics, etc.

In Monday's discussion, the critics were criticized for inconsistency. The jazz leaders also commented that critics, since they are non-musicians, are often not really qualified for criticism.

BUDDY DEFRANCO pointed out that at the height of his career the critics nearly ruined him because they didn't like his music.

The instructors in the clinic are all famous throughout the music world. However, they are not all performers. Russ Garcia, who is teaching arrangement, writes movie scores. He has written, among other things, the score for "Time Machine" and the musical score for Eleanor Powell's comeback film.

Phil Moore, a vocal teacher, is the professional person most stars see before making television and stage appearances, Betton explained. Marilyn Monroe, for example, is listed among the public personalities coached by Moore.

KENTON IS perhaps the most prominent figure in the group currently at State. Kenton started as a band leader in 1940 and developed, along with Dave Brubeck, into what some critics consider to be one of the outstanding exponents of progressive jazz.

Kenton's band extended the swing of Benny Goodman and was one of the most popular big bands in the mid-forties. After progressive jazz, he turned to "innovation in modern music."

Eventually his bands became opportunities for many younger musicians and his interest in this group parallels his interest in beginning artists today.

Draft Won't Affect You

Unniversity Men, You Can Relax

The state of Michigan will be required to provide 1,000 men per month under the stepped up draft program, but should be able to meet this figure without decreasing deferments to college students, said Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state director of selective service.

Students must maintain their grades to qualify for these deferments, however. A freshman must score in the upper half of his class and the requirements get progressively tougher for upper classmen. Senior year students must rank in the upper quarter of the class.

THOSE STUDENTS who fail to meet these qualifications will have the opportunity to take standard deferment test and those who score sufficiently high will be granted further deferments.

"We are urging the local selective service boards to continue as liberal a deferment policy as possible toward students," said Col. Holmes.

He said selective service views education of young men essential to the nation's welfare but the deferment plan only postpones the draft of students until they finish or drop out of school.

Interior Of Auto Damaged

Fire caused extensive damage to the interior of an auto parked on West Circle Drive at 257 a.m. Sunday.

Department of Public Safety officials said that the 1958 auto is owned by James E. Maxwell of Ellis, Kan., a member of the Stan Kenton Stage Band camp.

The University Fire Department brought the fire under control.

Damage, estimated at $200 by the Department of Public Safety, was confined to the rear seat interior.

The apparent cause of the blaze was a carelessly discarded cigarette, Department of Public Safety officials said.

Ledges Presenting Hilarious Comedy

By DAN WHITNEY
State News Reviewer

Edward Everett Horton was the laughing stock of Grand Ledge Monday night.

This was to his credit however. He starred in a French bedroom farce, "Nina", at the Ledges Playhouse.

HORTON plays the part of an injured husband. His wife (Marte Boyle) is having an affair with another man (Harry Cauley).

The play opens with Horton threatening to kill Cauley. As the play progresses, he attempts to kill his wife and commit suicide, but fails miserably.

Unbelievable situations are turned into probable happenings by the use of brilliant dialogue. The play begins with a tither, but ends with a long sustained belly laugh.

A MASTER of comical facial expression, Horton delighted the audience with his excellent double takes. His sneezing and coughing were so realistic it was hard to believe he didn't actually have a cold.

Horton has what can be called "audience awareness". He never speaks when his audience is coughing or laughing. Punch lines are never smothered by audience reaction. He is always in perfect tune with his cast and audience.

It could be said that Horton was a good actor down to his toes. In one scene he was to put his feet on a hot water bottle. Wiggling and curling his toes, he had the audience in stitches.

CAULEY teamed up perfectly with Horton. Together they produced many scenes of high comedy. They read their lines so well, it was hard to believe they were following script.

Although Cauley was listed as the director, Horton said he aided. This because he had performed the play so many times in the past.

Miss Boyle was superb as the wife. She did an even finer job than last week. Maybe Horton brings out the best in the people with whom he acts.

Horton came out after curtain call and gave a little farewell speech. He said this was the fourth of his ten farewell tours.

Guest Editorial

Who's Joining Peace Corps?

Editor's Note: The following guest editorial is the first in a series on the Peace Corps written by Daniel Archibong, a Nigerian student who expects to see the work of the corps first hand in his own country.

As a unique humanitarian movement, the Peace Corps can be a hit all-and-miss-none weapon for winning friends in an almost unfriendly world.

If the right type of men and women participate in the mission, peace corps can be one of the best ways of promoting international understanding, mutual cooperation, and racial-harmony.

According to Sergeant Shriver, director of peace corps movement, each participant is expected to teach, build, and do all kinds of work in the host country.

But who volunteers for Peace Corps? What are his motivations? Why Peace Corps, and not Freedom Corps or Progress Corps? How is Peace Corps movement likely to be received by the natives, not the governments, of the host countries?

This article aims at offering suggestive answers to some and other questions. These answers should serve as advisory notes to volunteers as well as the administrators of this noble movement.

In keeping with democratic ideals, there are many political and social factions in American scene. Socialists, liberals, Democrats and Republicans dominate politics. It will be interesting to-know the total number of faithful Republicans who volunteer for peace corps!

Will it be surprising if race separatists like the members of the Klu Klux Klan lobby congress to prevent allocation of money for Peace Corps?

Just at the same time race unionists like the freedom riders will be soliciting funds from Congress and private agencies to support peace corpsmen and fight for freedom and equality of opportunity for all races on American soil.

Scattered betwixt and between these groupings are the dissatisfied and disgusted with the status quo. These either become the so-called "do-gooders" or "com symp" or social deviates of some sort.

Usually these discontented are the men and women who strongly identify with the suppressed or underdogs.

These people are the ones often found on the front line of enthusiastic volunteers for such movements as NAACP, Operation Crossroads Africa, Peace Corps and Moral Re-armament. It will be quite enlightening to expose the sociology and psychology of these movements and their participants.

However, the people in the host countries may not be curious to know who is a liberal or member of the Klu Klux Klan. But they will be highly interested in knowing the answer to the question, "What does these peace corpsmen think of us as a people and as a nation?"

Chances are that their hosts will easily discover the attitudes of these emissaries of peace during the brief period of their contact.

Therefore it becomes vitally necessary that every peace corps volunteer re-examine himself, his intentions, and his attitude towards his will-be-host country.

Let it be noted, before these men and women set out, that they, the Peace Corps volunteers, will promote, implement, and quicken the failure of this plausible new frontier movement if:

- (a.) They are going out to proselytize;
- (b.) They are going out to spread cold war propaganda;
- (c.) They are escaping social failures and conflicts at home;
- (d.) They are on adventure in host country to confirm some of their stereotypic beliefs; and
- (e.) They have no genuine love and desire to meet, understand, appreciate, and help the peoples of their host countries.

Next: How are peace corpsmen likely to be received by the natives, not the governments, of the host countries?

Protests Prejudice Article

To the Editor

I am writing to protest Mr. DeWitt's article, "Freedom Riders Pathetic" in Friday's State News. I realize that life is dull in the summer session, and that a nice bit of controversy in the correspondence section livens things up, but it would have been better to have chosen a more expertly written bone of contention.

Mr. DeWitt's article is curiously disturbing, mainly because his intentions are as confused as his prose. On his own showing, lethargy is a bad thing (paragraph 3), but there is no point in fighting prejudice when even Lincoln couldn't do it (paragraph 6) (possibly no one ever told Mr. DeWitt that Lincoln was not trying to defeat prejudice, but to save the Union).

"Freedom" and "civil rights" are fine slogans, he says (it is hard to say why he put the words in quotation marks), but are over-used! Then, according to Mr. DeWitt, we can't blame anybody—the South, the North, the white man, unless we also blame Negroes for something they have never been given the opportunity to do—discriminate against the whites.

There is little point in continuing to analyze Mr. DeWitt's errors of content and style.

I should only like to commend to him a little meditation on the word "prejudice." Pre-judgment, coming to conclusions before considering the facts, is hardly an "affliction" as he calls it—it is slovenly emotional reacting, and not the sort of thing any student should blithely admit he can never overcome. And when Mr. DeWitt confuses the literal with the figurative in his statement that prejudice is a "disease of the mind," he is either being dishonest in his eagerness to influence his audience, or he has fallen into the trap his own words have built for him.

What he is really talking about, in his muddled attempt at sociological exposition (paragraphs 9, 10, 11) is xenophobia—hatred of the stranger. It is true that xenophobia has always played some part in human societies, particularly in their more primitive stages, which has led to a fairly frequent erroneous conclusion that it is an instinct.

But, if I make an analogy, a fear of heights is more legitimately considered an instinct, and it has not prevented mankind from inventing stairways, ladders, airplanes, and rocket ships.

I recommend to Mr. DeWitt a course in logic, and some earnest efforts to clarify his thinking before he rushes to the typewriter. An article such as this serves only to antagonize people, who will inevitably be led by Mr. DeWitt's own prose to believe he is rigidly intolerant in the matter of racial differences.

Old Married Housing on Shaw Lane Will be Gone

The corner of Shaw Lane and Harrison Road, will have a new look when students return to campus for fall term.

The flat top married housing units which have been such a familiar sight on the campus since the end of World War II are going to be gone.

These units were sold to individuals for removal from the campus. A construction company bought a group of them and is offering them for resale, said John Roteman, assistant manager of married housing.

With the removal of these 50 apartments, the area from the corner of Harrison to the Department of Public Safety buildings will be cleared.

Harold W. Lautner, head of the department of urban planning, said this cleared area will be used as an extension of the university's intramural area. It will also undoubtedly be used as a parking area for football games this fall, he said.

New Reflectors Will Be Placed Along Freeways

Michigan's freeways will have a new look soon.

State highway department officials said that more than 35,000 white and amber reflectors are being placed along the shoulders of the state's super highways.

The reflectors, mounted on steel posts, will be installed every 200 feet along the 550 miles of freeway. In addition, double amber reflectors are being placed every 100 feet along the numerous on-and-off ramps at interchange points.

The highway department officials said that the new reflectors will aid the motorist in defining the roadway and ramps at night.

Projected plans now call for a total of 800 miles of freeway open to traffic in Michigan by the end of this year. They will be lined with more than 50,000 roadside reflectors, they said.

Highway Figures Released

East outdoes West in highway safety, according to the National Safety Council. Michigan stands about average.

More people die on uncrowded Western highways than on crowded Eastern roads.

In figures just released by James M. Hare, Secretary of State, the totals are: Nevada, with a yearly average of 60 highway deaths per 100,000 thousand population, is the deadliest; Wyoming ranks second with 41.9 deaths per 100,000.

"ON THE other hand," Hare said, "northeastern seaboard states had the lowest fatality rates. Rhode Island shows 8.6, Connecticut 8.7, Massachusetts 8.9, and New Hampshire 9.0 annual deaths per 100,000 population.

According to Hare, the national average was 20.9 deaths per 100,000 population, is better than average.

"If we continue our across-the-board efforts in education, engineering, and enforcement, we can make Michigan a more accident-free state in which to live, work, and play," Hare said.

AOCS Announces Activities

The Association of Off-Campus Students has announced a full schedule of activities for the final stage of their new All-Year Activities Program.

Summer Coordinators Patricia Real and Carol Geier said that the group will round out the busy schedule with pool and tennis parties, as well as another round of beach parties.

This coming weekend the group plans an evening of horse-back riding to be concluded with a hot dog and marshmallow roast.

During the past weeks the Off-Campus Students have been engaged in a variety of activities including miniature golf evenings, a "slide-night," in which the past year's activities were viewed.

The AOCS softball team, the "Huddas" has been kept busy with a full slate of games and last weekend a game-dance party was held in honor of retired President Lt. Jack R. Miller.

The group will conclude their activities program with a progressive dinner and party for all who participate in the services that AOCS plans to provide for Welcome Week.

Do You Know 3 Ways Of Driving Backward?

"There are three ways to drive backwards," a driver training instructor told his charges.

"There are four," said one of the pupils.

The instructor agreed to list the three he knew and have the pupil list the one he thought had been omitted.

"Twist to your right," the instructor began, "lay your right arm on the back of the front seat, put your left hand at the top of the steering wheel and look back through the rear window..."

THE ABOVE story isn't true, but it demonstrates what state highway department people believe is one of the most neglected facets of the art of driving—how to drive backwards.

Most drivers assume they automatically know how to back up, but a Kalamazoo driving instructor claims this isn't so.

If you use the rear-view mirror for backing, the instructor said, you are one of the mistaken ones.

THE DRIVING instructor said the rear-view mirror was never intended to be used for this purpose. Its only use is to tell a driver going forward what is coming up behind.

It has—too many blind spots to be used while backing. In addition, he said, it forces a motorist to drive from a reflected images in which everything is reversed.

Broadway Play To Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—After two years on Broadway, Paddy Chayefsky's "The Tenth Man" sets out on coast-to-coast tour in September.

The production has set an eight-month trip, including visits to Wilmington, Washington, Baltimore, New Haven, Columbus, Louisville, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Denver, Des Moines, St. Paul, Milwaukee, and Chicago.

Rome Denies Demoting Saints

authorities have denied rumors that St. Christopher, patron saint of travelers, might be stricken from the roster of saints, as was done in the case of St. Philomena. Authorities also labeled erroneous reports that St. Patrick's feast, March 17, might be relegated to a lesser place on the church calendar.

Wash-Day Ease

Fabrics in clothing and household articles can lighten the homemaker's job on wash day. Home economists at Michigan State University note that smooth weaves shed dirt more easily than napped or pile surfaces. Weaves such as jersey or terry cloth require little or no pressing and special fabric finishes can add to ironing ease.

ACCORDING to the instructor, a motorist who sticks his head out the window and looks back is also flirting with danger.

The right way to back up, said the instructor, is demonstrated in the above story.

Motorists who follow the instructor's advice will have a wide field of vision and avoid the dented trunk and scraped fenders that go hand in hand with improper backing.

Workshop Conducted In Special Education

Training of the 14-year-old boy who does not know how to tie his shoes and instruction of the kindergarten pupil who knows more than many fourth graders are getting special attention here this summer.

Prominent authorities in special education are now conducting workshops on campus for teachers and future teachers of the gifted and trainable retarded child.

The workshops began Monday and will continue through Aug. 11.

The largest of the special education workshops concerns "School Experiences for the Trainable Retarded Child." About 75 persons from several states and Canada are taking part.

"These children," explained Dr. James M. Crowner, who is in charge of special education curricula at MSU, "can be trained to dress themselves, make their beds, go to the bathroom, understand certain signs such as 'stop,' 'men' and 'women' and do other things which will enable them to become partially socially competent."

Also new in progress are workshops for visiting teachers and for "Driver Education for the Mentally Handicapped Child." These will be followed by "Education of the Brain-injured Child," Aug. 14 to 25.

Soviets Draft New Program

Following are textual excerpts from the Soviet Communist Party's new draft program as reported by the Soviet news agency Tass:

The present generation of Soviet people shall live under communism. Socialism has triumphed in the Soviet Union completely and finally. Within two decades the Communist society will on the whole be built in the U.S.S.R.

The world capitalist system on the whole is ripe for the social revolution of the proletariat.

To eliminate wars, to assert everlasting peace on earth, such is the historic mission of communism. The Soviet Union has consistently pursued, and will continue to pursue the policy of peaceful coexistence of states with different social systems . . .

There is an accelerated creation of the material conditions that make possible the replacement of capitalist by Communist production relations, that is, the accomplishment of the social revolution which is the aim of the Communist Party, the politically conscious exponent of the class movement of the proletariat.

Soviet experience has shown that the peoples are able to achieve socialism only as a result of the socialist revolution and the implementation of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Soviet experience has shown that socialism and peace are inseparable. The might of socialism serves peace. Soviet experience has fully borne out the Marxist-Leninist theory that the Communist Party plays a decisive role in the formation and development of socialist society.

The world socialist system is a new type of economic and political relationship between countries. Its experience has confirmed the need for the closest unity of countries that fall away from capitalism, for their united effort in the building of socialism and communism.

The world socialist system is advancing steadfastly toward decisive victory in its economic competition with capitalism. It will shortly surpass in aggregate industrial and agricultural production . . .

World capitalism now has entered a new, third stage of a general crisis. . .

The general crisis of capitalism finds expression in the following:

The break-away from capitalism of more and more countries; the weakening of the imperialist positions in the economic competition with socialism; the breakup of the imperialist colonial system; the intensification of imperialist contradictions with the development of state-monopoly capitalism and the growth of militarism;

The mounting internal instability and decay of capitalist economy, evidenced by the increasing inability of capitalism to make use of the productive forces (low rates of production growth, periodic crises, continuous underloading of

A Job Well Done

Theatre Season, Best Yet

By HANK BERNSTEIN
State News Staff Writer

The culmination was only the beginning.

Saturday night the efforts of the university theatre department hit their peak, the lights going out for the last time on a season of snowballing excellence.

Within 24 hours after the lights ceased shining on the radiant blonde hair of Phelia Rutledge and her coronation siple, the MSU Summer Circle was a pleasant memory.

The garden chairs had all been removed and the north side of Dem Hall was once again the brown brick building with its high walls and wooden gymnasium floor. The University Theatre was busy moving out and all glamour and beauty seemed to be going with it.

But that ugly old room now houses the memories of a theatre season well done and all the spirits, blithe and otherwise, which came alive for a few brief hours in the middle of MSU's Summer Circle.

The kaleidoscope of color, sound and emotion which is the the memory of the season singles out little snatches and brings them into focus . . .

. . . the hysterical little lady interrupting Skin of Our Teeth . . . Tartuffe playing while Or- gon and the television set burn . . . the self-starting phono- graph and other ghostly actions in Blithe Spirit . . . Sadie Thompson's change of charac- ter . . . the agony of Joan, her shoulders hunched forward . . .

The Summer Circle presen- tations were all good, but they seemed to get better from first to last, from the Noel Coward music at the start of Blithe Spirit to the coronation of Charles, the Dauphin, conclud- ing The Lark.

Summer Circle was the frost- ing on the cake; it was the cul- mination of an excellent year for University Theatre — a year which gave the university community the dreams of the Cave Dwellers, the interesting scene changes of Man and Super- man.

This was the year University Theatre gave the community the downfall of Macbeth and his pathetic wife, the delightful troubles of Harvey, the invis- ible rabbit, and his friends, along with the color and music of Kismet.

Films, Tapes Win ASAE Awards

Two films and a series of radio tapes produced on cam- pus won awards during re- cent meetings of the American Society of Agricultural Engi- neers at Ames, Iowa.

A series of three five-minute radio tapes produced at WKAR received a first place.

A 15-minute television film showing electrical applications in an egg-handling plant in Jen- ison also received an award.

The final award was for a film designed to better tell agriculture's story. The subject was a trip to a peach orchard where the mechanics of mod- ern peach harvesting were shown.

Theta Alpha Phi, the theatre honorary which rates the un- iversity actors, proclaimed Lin- da Herr the best actress for her performance as Lady Mac- beth. The year's award for best actor went to Bob Winters, as John Tanner in Man and Super- man.

The honorary rated Lois Martin and Dick de Laubenfels as best supporting actress and actor, respectively. Miss Mar- tin kept the audience laughing as Vida Louise in Harvey. De Laubenfels played Hero, the seductive friend, in The Re- hearsal.

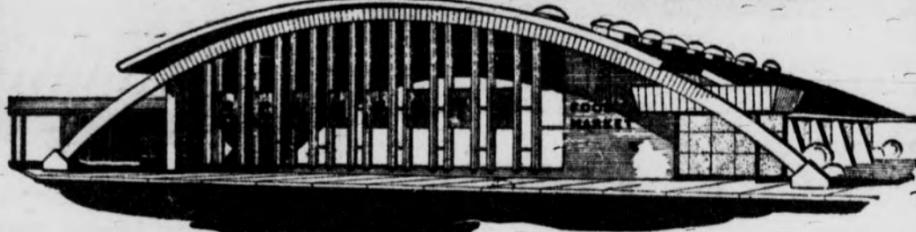

The exceptional talents and leadership of several staff members combined to produce what is probably the greatest theatre season in the univer- sity's history — the set designs of Edward Andreassen, the cost- uming of Jack Byers, the di- rection of Corliss Philabaum and Frank Rutledge, and the business management of Nat Eek.

To these staff members and the other staff members, stu- dents and people from the local community who helped them, we offer our congratulations on a good job, memorably done.

Car of Groceries Goes To Student

Bachelor Dwight T. Menard, 20, Shoreham, Vt., senior, has a problem many married students might like to have. Menard won a car full of groceries in a drawing sponsored by Shaheen's food market in East Lansing yesterday. Menard said he hasn't figured out what to do with the groceries yet. He lives in Elsworth House.

Teachers of Very Young Should Get Most Pay

Elementary and kindergarten teachers exert a greater influence on children than do high school teachers and college professors, a Michigan State University scientist said. "The handsomest rewards of pay and prestige" should go to teachers of the very young, Dr. Lincoln C. Pettit said.

WRITING in a recent issue of the Ohio Journal of Science, Dr. Pettit theorizes that the relative importance of events in a person's life is determined by his age at the time the event takes place.

A given event has greater influence on a younger child than on an older child in determining his ultimate destiny, according to this concept.

The MSU assistant professor of natural science calls it the "primogens" principle. It means that a person is affected more by his earlier than by his later education, he said.

"FOLLOWING the primogens principle to its conclusion we can appreciate the tremendous importance of having excellent teachers in the earliest stages of education," he said.

"The traditional view—that the best teachers are to be reserved for the higher levels—must be softened. Teachers in the lower grades should be well versed in psychology and should themselves be lively, dynamic persons, fully receptive to advanced developments in their fields.

"They should be capable of encouraging curiosity and creating attitudes with the greatest 'primogenic' effect.

Ultimately, with so propitious a start, able pupils as well as the less gifted would reach, at a much earlier age, that enviable state of education—self-education—that is so conspicuous by its absence among a large proportion of our college students today," he said.

DR. PETTIT illustrates his primogens principle by noting that at the very earliest stage of a person's life—conception—his sex and hereditary characteristics are determined.

Between conception and birth, many other characteristics of a person are ordained, he suggested.

For instance, the early embryo may become twins, he said.

In addition, research indicates that severe emotional stress in a woman during late pregnancy could influence a fetus in such a way that it would develop into a neurotic infant, he said.

BIRTH itself is considered a traumatic experience by many psychologists. Seemingly unimportant events in early childhood have been known to cause personality problems later in life, Pettit said. been partially expressed in

This primogens principle has maxims such as, "Give me a boy until he is six and you may do with him what you will," and "As the twig is bent, the tree's inclined," he said.

State Parks Development Plan Under New Permit-Bonding Program

Here, Michigan state parks users, is where your new permit fees will go to work under a $5,000,000 bonding program recently approved by the Legislature. The program calls for $1,000,000 in new parks lands and $4,000,000 in improvements to campgrounds, picnic areas, toilets and bathhouses, and other facilities. All receipts from permit sales are earmarked to retire bonds which will finance the program. No part of your permit fees will be used to cover maintenance costs. Included under the land buying phase of the program are two new parks, where some 380 acres have already been approved for purchase, and additions to 15 established parks. Construction work scheduled for September will add some 1,300 new campsites, 35 miles of road improvements, and facilities for an additional 3,100 daily visitors and 1,750 bathers at one time. Over a season, improvements will take care of 50,000 camping groups now being turned away for lack of space and provide for approximately 200,000 additional day visitors annually.--Mich. Dept. of Conservation.

production plant, and chronic unemployment,

The mounting struggle between labor and capital and acute intensification of contradictions within the world capitalist economy, and an unprecedented growth of political reaction in all spheres; rejection of bourgeois freedoms and establishment of fascist and despotic regimes in a number of countries; and the profound crises of bourgeois policy and ideology.

United States monopoly capital has become the biggest international exploiter. It is performing the function of a world gendarme. The economic, and with it the political and military center of imperialism, has shifted from Europe to the United States.

The United States, monopoly bourgeoisie is the mainstay of international reaction.

The United States, the strongest capitalist power, is past its zenith and has entered the stage of decline. Imperialist countries such as Great Britain, France, Germany, and Japan also have lost their former power.

The CPSU considers fraternal alliance with the peoples who have thrown off colonial or semicolonial tyranny to be a corner stone of its international policy . . .

The antagonism of labor and capital, the contradictions between the people and the monopolies, growing militarism, the breakup of the colonial system, contradictions between the imperialist countries, conflicts and contradictions between the young national states and the old colonial powers, and—most important of all—the precipitous growth of world socialism, are capping and destroying imperialism, leading to its weakening and collapse.

Next Two Decades

Communists have never held that the road to revolution necessarily lies through wars between countries. The great objectives of the working class can be realized without world war . . .

Where the exploiting classes resort to violence against the people, the possibility of non-peaceful transition to socialism should be borne in mind . . .

In the current decade (1961-1970) the Soviet Union, in creating the material and technical basis of communism, the strongest and richest capitalist country, the people's standard of living and their cultural and technical standards will improve substantially; everyone will live in easy circumstances; all collective and state farms will become highly productive and profitable enterprises; the demand of Soviet people for well-appointed housing will, in the main, be satisfied; hard physical work will disappear; the U.S.S.R. will become the country with the shortest working day.

In the next decade (1971-1980) the material and technical basis of communism will be created and there will be an abundance of material and cultural benefits for the whole population; Soviet society will come close to a stage where it can introduce the principle of distribution according to needs, and there will be a gradual transition to one from or ownership—public ownership.

The party sets the task of achieving in the Soviet Union a living standard higher than that of any of the capitalist countries . . .

The national income of the U.S.S.R. in the next 10 years will increase nearly 150 per cent, and about 400 per cent in 20 years.

The Shape of a Skirt

A lining helps keep the shape of a skirt. Home economists at Michigan State University say this is especially true of slim, close fitting skirts which have been made from soft, loosely-woven fabric.

Agricultural Information Personnel Win Awards

Four blue and three red ribbons won by MSU agricultural information personnel in the 1961 communications contest of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors.

Awards were presented last week at the annual convention of the organization in Washington, D. C.

Donald Gregg, MSU extension publications editor, edited two blue ribbon winners. They were a home economics circular by Bernetta Kahabka and a consumer marketing series by Mrs. Mary Holmes.

A blue ribbon was awarded Jean Gillies for her photograph showing three children leaving school.

The winning television program was "Plants are for People," produced by Robert Worrall, former MSU television editor. The film featured Donald P. Watson, professor of ornamental horticulture.

ROTC Cadet Given Silver Ribbon Bar

An MSU Cadet received double honors as the outstanding cadet in both his company and platoon in ceremonies at Fort Riley, Kansas.

Cadet Joffre W. Filion II, 325 W. Saginaw St., East Lansing, a senior at MSU, was awarded the silver ribbon bar and certificate for being the outstanding cadet in ROTC company "I."

HE WAS also presented the gold ribbon bar and certificate for being the outstanding cadet in his platoon.

The presentations were made by Lt. Gen. Emerson L. Cummings, commanding general of the Fifth United States army.

CADET FILION, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joffre W. Filion, 325 W. Saginaw St., East Lansing, is one of the 1,450 students from 37 colleges and universities through the Fifth army area who have just completed six weeks of intensive field training.

Old Highway Will Get New Number Soon

Michigan's oldest highway will get a new number next year. The state highway department reports that US-112 between Detroit and New Buffalo will become US-12 in January.

Existing US-12 in Michigan is being replaced by the Interstate 94 freeway.

THE PROPOSED change in numbering will permit continued uniform numbering of the US-12 route between Detroit and Yellowstone National Park.

Highway Department officials said that the change is being made now so businessmen who travel the US-12 route can make plans to revise their literature promotion and advertising.

The old US-12 route has played an important part in Michigan's history.

Historians believe the route was in use centuries before the discovery of America. Known as the Great Sauk Trail, the route was later used by Indians in attacks on Detroit during the American Revolution and the War of 1812.

The route has been known as US-12 since 1925.

Government Ag Program Plans More Acreage Cuts

The government program of planned farm acreage has resulted in several acreage cuts in the planted acreage of corn, grain sorghum, oats and barley, John Ferris, MSU agricultural economist, said.

Ferris said that an estimated 58.3 million acres of corn were planted (for grain) this spring. This is a reduction of 18 per cent from the 1960 total.

APPROXIMATELY 13.9 acres were planted to grain sorghum. This constitutes a drop of 26 per cent from 1960, Ferris said.

The reduction in corn and grain sorghum acreage is somewhat less than the number of acres signed up for diversion, he said, but is in line with goals set by the administration.

Total U.S. oat production is forecast at 961 million bushels, 16 percent below 1960. The barley crop will reach 366 million bushels a reduction of 14 percent, said Ferris. He added that a cool wet spring and drought conditions have also contributed to the decline in production.

PRICES ON the 1961 corn crop will probably average a dime higher than on the 1960 crop.

Since the government is offering to farmers who complied with the feed grain program, $1.20 at takeover date on July 31, 1962, the market price would have to move up at least to a minimum of $1.10 to attract corn away from the support program.

Oat and barley prices should also average somewhat higher on the 1961 crops than on the 1960 crops, Ferris said.

Bill of Sale Helps

Ollie Dunlap, 20, of 600 W. Main Lansing, has been arrested and charged with simple larceny in the theft of a bicycle reported missing from the campus in June.

Department of Public Safety Officials said that Dunlap was apprehended following the positive identification of his signature on a bill of sale involving the missing bicycle.

THE OWNER of the stolen bike notified officials that it was parked in front of Berkey Hall. When a student attempted to leave with the bike, officers questioned him.

Confronted with the fact that he was in the possession of a stolen bicycle he produced a bill of sale and further investigation was made.

A call on a Lansing concern listed on the bill of sale brought forth their receipt which was made when they purchased the stolen bike. It carried Dunlap's signature.

Department of Public Safety Officials said that Dunlap, who is not a University student, has made no denial of the charge.

All the Kids Work for Church

FREDONIA, N. Y. (AP)—All five children of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Essex are engaged in church work, but for various denominations.

The eldest son, Phillip, is developing the Baptist mission field in Anchorage, Alaska; another son, Glenn, is assistant pastor of the Homestead United Presbyterian church in Homestead, Pa.; the youngest son, Allan, is associate pastor of the Wakefield Baptist church, Wakefield, Mass.

A son-in-law, the Rev. Charles Moore and his wife, the former Alice Essex, are in training for a foreign mission in the Congo; and another daughter, the former Martha Essex, is married to the Rev. John Kotun, pastor of the Reformed Church at West Co-pake, N. Y.

Serious Gas Line Break Prevented

Quick action on the part of individuals, the Department of Public Safety, and Consumers Power Company, eliminated a serious break in a gas line Friday evening on the site of the new engineering building, now under construction.

The leaking gas line, apparently broken by construction machinery, was discovered at approximately 11 p.m.

University plumbers were summoned and notified the Department of Public Safety and Consumer's Power Company.

By 11:18 p.m. the area had been cleared and blocked off by the Department of Public Safety, and the Power Company's emergency crew was at the scene.

HELD OVER THROUGH AUG. 10TH EXCLUSIVE — FIRST RUN

Former Yankee Great Has Divided Loyalties

In 1925 Walter "Wally" Pipp had a headache while playing first base for the New York Yankees. He was replaced that day and his replacement went on to play 2,130 consecutive games to set a major league record. The replacement was Lou Gehrig.

Wally Pipp retired the next year but he had a distinguished 11-year career as a New York Yankee.

Pipp is now living in Lansing and finds himself in an unusual position. Currently the Detroit Tigers and the New York Yankees are engaged in a spirited battle for the American League lead. Pipp understandably has divided loyalties regarding the pennant race.

PIPP said Tuesday that he is trying to be neutral. "I have many friends on the Yankee team, but it would be nice if the Tigers could win," said Wally.

Pipp sees the deciding factor in the pennant fight as pitching. "If the Tiger pitching holds and injuries don't hurt them anymore, the Tigers should win it," he said.

"The Yankee pitching is not outstanding," he said, "and I think the Tigers have as much batting punch as the Yankees."

Pipp said he wouldn't be surprised if either Mickey Mantle or Roger Maris breaks Babe Ruth's record of 60 home-runs in one season. Both are currently well ahead of the pace Ruth set in 1927 when he set the record.

HE INDICATED that it would be a healthy thing for baseball if one of them managed to hit more than 60 home runs.

"It is a tough job to compare baseball in my day and baseball today," said Pipp. "I think the Yankee teams I played on are a little better than the present Yankee team, however."

Pipp is well qualified to speak of pennant races. Three times during his playing days the Yankees won the American League flag and once, in 1923, they were also victorious in the World Series.
