Auto Crash On M-78 Sends Four Students To Hospital

Student 'Rider' Convicted

Freedom Rider arrests involved a Michigan State University student Monday in Jackson, Mississippi.

Woolcott Smith, a 20-year-old junior, majoring in mathematics and physical science, was convicted with 21 other riders for refusing to move out of a bus terminal at a policeman's request.

The group received the maximum penalty for breach of peace, a $200 fine and a four month jail sentence.

Smith is the son of Dr. Henry Clay Smith, professor in the psychology department. Vacationing from their East Lansing residence, Dr. Smith and his wife are presently visiting Martha's Vineyards in Massachusetts. Woolcott's twin brother and a sister are accompanying their parents.

Institute To Present Concert

A concert program of the Congress of Strings will be nationally broadcast Sunday, August 6.

The 25-minute program, taped on the MSU campus, will be carried by the Mutual Broadcasting Company.

Locally, the program will be heard on WSWM at 8:35-9:00 p.m. Sunday.

The Congress of Strings is composed of young musicians studying at MSU for the summer and sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians.

The members are from 25 states, Puerto Rico, and Canada. All are studying on scholarships provided by the American Federation of Musicians.

Airborne TV Preview In Kiva Through Aug. 24

Public and school administrators who desire a preview of airborne television may do so now through Aug. 24.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. programs will be shown in the lobby and Kiva of the M.S.U. College of Education building.

This provides an opportunity for principals, teachers and supervisors to become acquainted with the airborne programs.

AUTO CRASH—This is the automobile in which four MSU students were riding Tuesday evening when they collided with a pick-up truck at the intersection of Harrison and M-78.

Today's Weather

Today's weather will be partly cloudy and warmer, with widely scattered showers or thunder showers, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau. High 88 degrees.

The outlook for Saturday calls for cooler temperatures with showers ending early Saturday morning.

The high temperature a year ago today was 74; the low 59. The record high on this date was 95 in 1955 and the low 45 in 1951.

Graduate Guards Kennedy

An MSU graduate has been named to head the White House secret service detail which protects President Kennedy and his family.

Gerald A. Behn, 45, a 1939 graduate of the school of police administration, will succeed James J. Rowley who will assume the duties of chief of the entire U.S. secret service at the end of this month.

Behn has been a member of the secret service since his graduation. In 1941 he was assigned to the White House detail and in 1946 was promoted to head one of the three shifts that rotate around the clock in guarding the President.

The new chief was a 6 foot 1 inch, 180 pound end on MSC's 1938 football squad. He played under recently retired Dean of Students Tom King who was at that time the team's end coach.

MSU Football Player Injured

BY HOWARD GATES
State News Staff Writer

The cause of a head-on collision in which four MSU students and two Lansing residents were seriously injured Tuesday evening remains undetermined, according to East Lansing police officials.

The four students, including an MSU football player, are in fair condition after the auto in which they were riding collided with a pick-up truck at the intersection of Harrison Rd. and M-78.

James Eaton, 21, Cayuga, N. Y., junior, a promising halfback on this year's Spartan grid squad, is in Sparrow Hospital with severe head injuries, a hospital spokesman said.

ALSO injured was Carol Binning, 23, Southfield, senior. She suffered a broken neck and severe facial injuries, hospital officials said.

Judith Borgelt, 22, Toledo, Ohio, senior, received a broken left knee and severe cuts and bruises, they said.

Lynn Bradeen, 20, Kalamazoo sophomore, suffered a broken leg, multiple cuts and body bruises, they said.

The auto, owned by Miss Borgelt, collided with the pick-up driven by Thomas F. Fineis, 28, of 806 W. Lapeer. He is in fair condition, Sparrow officials said.

A PASSENGER in the Fineis truck, Paul E. Johnson, 21, of 5729 S. Washington ave., suffered a broken arm and body bruises. He is in satisfactory condition, they said.

Police, still unable to determine the exact cause of the accident, said that hydraulic jacks had to be used to extract Eaton and others who were pinned in the wreckage.

In a brief statement, Miss Binning told police that, as their East-bound auto neared the intersection of Harrison Rd. and M-78, a station wagon pulled in front of them from Harrison Rd.

"We swerved to avoid hitting it and all I could see were the headlights from another vehicle," she said.

Police are continuing their investigation. They plan to question the injured persons further in an attempt to determine the exact cause of the crash, they said. East Lansing police officials also said that they have not been able to determine the driver of the Borgelt car.

Traffic was tied up for nearly two hours as police and firemen removed the injured and cleared the wreckage strewn highway.

Stan Kenton Clinic Closes With Free Jazz Concert

Tonight is "the" night for jazz enthusiasts. Some of the nation's leading jazz musicians will direct a 4-hour concert beginning at 7 p.m. The performance will be staged on the band practice field adjacent to the Music building.

The concert, free to all, will feature 225 high school and college musicians from all over the country.

It will climax the week-long Stan Kenton Clinic.

Besides Kenton, Buddy Morrow, Russ Garcia, Don Byrd, Don Jacoby, and many other well-known specialists and arrangers will be present.

THE STUDENTS will be divided into 12 bands. Each will present a variety of popular jazz arrangements in a professionally lighted setting.

The Stan Kenton Clinic is the first of its kind on campus. Kenton heads the series presented by the National Band Camp.

Similar clinics were successfully held at Southern Methodist University and Indiana University. Many more campuses are asking to be placed on the agenda.

Dr. Morris E. Hall, associate professor of music, is head of the clinic.

THE PURPOSE of the sessions is to instruct youthful musicians in the jazz and dance techniques which they might not otherwise have an opportunity to learn.

On the average, the students put in 2 hours of band practice each day. They also had one hour of sectional study of their individual instruments including theory, arrangement, improvisation principles, and performance techniques, he said.

Highlighting each day was a one hour, informal discussion with Stan Kenton. Individual problems were discussed, and emphasis fell on the role that jazz plays in society.

Dr. Hall said that many persons have hopes that the program will catch on here.

Former Football Player Helps Save Youngster

Quick action and clear thinking on the part of several individuals, including a former MSU football star, helped save the life of a 22-month-old Lansing township boy Tuesday evening.

William P. Snow, son of Mr.

and Mrs. William L. Snow, 1509 Weber dr., was revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation after toppling into a backyard pool at his parents' home Tuesday evening.

Among those who worked over the boy until the arrival of firemen was Randy Schrecengost, of 1504 Weber dr., a standout tackle on the 1952-53-54 MSU grid squads.

SCHRECENGOST and the boy's father were summoned by the cries of young William's sister Debbie. Snow pulled his unconscious son from the 16' by 16' pool.

The two men were aided by neighbors who kept the area clear while they worked over the boy.

Lansing township firemen used their inhalator and removed William to Lansing General hospital.

The boy's mother said Thursday that William has returned home and is in fine condition.

She said that it was the fact of knowing what to do in an emergency that averted a possible tragedy.

Roman Life Depicted By Old Coin Display

A collection of Roman coins dating back to 150 B.C. is on display this week at the Museum.

The coins depict life during the Roman Empire era. Likenesses of emperors and gods or goddesses may be seen.

Jim Billings, a student majoring in economics, owns the display. He collected the coins from a fellow student and from some dealers.

One coin dating from 150-120

B.C. has the imprint of a wolf suckling Romulus and Remus.

Annoa, "The Goddess of Corn," is shown in front of a ship, thus indicating the dependence of Rome on imports of this basic food, Billings said.

The coins give a rather complete sketch of the religious, political and economic life of that period in history, he said.

The display is located on the third floor of the Museum during the regular visiting hours.

Tennis Championships Begin Here Next Week

By FRED BRACK
State News Staff Writer

The top junior tennis tournament of the world will be staged here next week when the International Jaycees bring together the top young tennis players in the world for their 8th annual championships.

The contestants begin arriving in East Lansing for registration on Sunday. Actual match play will not begin until Tuesday morning.

Most of the 50 states are expected to send teams which will include most of the top-seeded players in the country.

THE EXTENT of the foreign entries has not been determined but Japan, Puerto Rico, Panama, Costa Rica, and the Philippines have assured tournament officials that they will send representatives.

One of the biggest guns in the tournament is expected to be 17-year-old Arthur Ashe from St. Louis, Mo. Ashe has won the 1961 versions of the National Interscholastic Championships and the National Indoor Junior championships.

Another Missourian who should figure heavily in the outcome of the finals is Jim Parker, 18, from Creve Couer, Mo. Parker teamed with Earl Buchholz last year to win the Jaycee Junior doubles title, and in 1956 paired with Chuck McKinley to win the boy's doubles crown.

TOURNAMENT DIRECTOR

Buchholz and McKinley were Davis cup team members last year, and McKinley recently finished second in the 1961 Wimbledon tournament.

A WELL-KNOWN athletic name pops up in the California girls' entries. The Northern Division champion for 1961 who'll come to East Lansing is Jane Albert, 14, from Pebble Beach. She is the daughter of Frankie Albert, Stanford grid great and later a star and coach with the San Francisco 49ers. Jane is the National Hard Court runner-up and the California state girls runner-up.

A parade through downtown Lansing Monday night at 8 p.m. will open the public festivities. On Tuesday morning before play begins, Gov. John B. Swainson will serve the first ball.

The tournament will continue throughout the week and will end with the finals on Saturday.

On Thursday there will be a clinic and exhibition matches featuring Billy Talbert the former captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team.

Eagles, All-Stars Clash In Football Tilt Tonight

By TOM DeWITT
State News Sports Writer

Two former MSU football players are among 56 college stars who will face the Philadelphia Eagles in the 28th annual College All-Star game today at Soldiers Field in Chicago.

Fred Arbanas and Herb Adderly, former end and back, were co-captains, along with Fred Boylen, of the 1960 team. Arbanas is listed as a back as well as an end in the roster for today's game.

THE GAME starts at 9 p.m. and will be televised nationally as well as broadcast over several radio networks.

Adderly and Arbanas are among 10 players representing the Big 10 conference, its largest showing in recent years. They were selected on the basis of size, skill and speed.

All-Star coach Otto Graham will probably start either Norm Snead of Wake Forest or Ohio State's Tom Matte in the quarterback slot.

Snead, who was the nation's No. 2 passer last year, threw 123 completions out of 259 attempts for 1,675 yards and 10 touchdowns. Matte completed 50 out of 95 passes and compiled a 4.2 rushing average.

HIGH ON the list of running backs are Tommy Mason of Tulane, the south's leading ball carrier last season and Navy's All-American Joe Bellino. Bellino was the winner of the Heisman and Maxwell trophies last year.

Other backs that could get a starting call, are Mississippi's Bob Crespino, Jim Johnson of UCLA, Art Baker of Syracuse and Bill Brown of Illinois.

Sonny Jurgensen will get the starting call for the quarterback position for the Eagles. Jurgensen has been the number 2 man for the NFL champions for the past four seasons behind Norm Van Brocklin, now retired. He came into a game against the Steelers last December when the Steelers led 27 to 0, scored two touchdowns and set up a third.

WITH JURGENSEN, in the backfield, will be Tommy McDonald, Billy Barnes and either Ted Dean or former MSU player Clarence Peaks. Dean replaced Peaks as a starter last season when the latter was injured.

This year's contest marks the Eagles' third appearance in the All-Star series. In 1949 they defeated the Stars but lost in the 1950 game, 17-7.

Farmers Multiply Crop Yield

Michigan growers have greatly increased the average yield of their agricultural acreages in the last 10 years, according to Kenyon T. Payne, head of the Department of Farm Crops.

This good record is the result of using better farming methods, applying the findings of research, using better seeds and using more and better fertilizers, he said.

Corn production has increased almost 50 per cent over the ten-year period. Wheat was harvested from nearly 1,100,000 acres in 1960.

Michigan was the first state east of the Mississippi to have a million acres of alfalfa, according to Payne, and the yield per acre of field beans increased more in the last decade than in any other decade on record.

Communication Seminars Aid International Relations

By DEL BAGNICK
State News Staff Writer

This university plays a large role in the serious problem of international relations.

Ever heard of the ICA Seminars on Communication?

They are conducted by Michigan State in conjunction with the International Cooperation Administration.

AMONG other objectives, the ICA arranges technical and administrative training for foreign nationals here in America.

"A big problem underlies this training. These persons from underdeveloped countries are overwhelmed by our technological advancements. Too much so," remarked Dr. Huber Ellingsworth, director of the seminars.

He explained that the trainees view the advancements of our country. Then they wish to return and immediately advance their homelands to America's living standards through use of the book knowledge they have gathered.

Michigan State's Seminars on Communication have the task of telling them they can't do this. At least not on any short-range basis, he said.

A MAJOR factor that the trainees usually overlook is their home cultures. A whole peoples will not be changed overnight. They will, in fact, resist change, he said.

Dr. Ellingsworth stressed that the purpose of the sessions is to teach the participants how to communicate what they've learned to their countrymen.

The trainees will make changes on their jobs, but they will also affect their cultures as wholes. Technological and administrative advancements are inseparable from cultural changes, he said.

The week-long seminars represent a finishing touch to their United States training.

PARTICIPANTS will number over 7,600 before the current contract expires. They represent at least 71 countries.

Thus far, Michigan State has conducted 83 Seminars at Michigan's Boyne Mt. Lodge and Cacapon Lodge in West Virginia.

As to the success of these seminars, Dr. Ellingsworth said that it is difficult to tell as yet.

Success cannot be determined by finding out how well the subject matter was mastered, nor can you judge by the satisfaction of participants, he said.

Hijack Thwarted

An attempt to hijack a Boeing 707 jetliner belonging to Continental Airlines was thwarted Thursday by an alert pilot and crack shot border patrol units in El Paso, Texas.

Gunmen tried to force the pilot to fly the big jet to Havana, Cuba, but when the pilot told them there wasn't enough fuel to make the trip, the plane put down at El Paso airport.

Holding the crew and 4 hostages at gunpoint, the gunmen again tried to force the pilot to fly the refueled plane to Havana. As the plane rolled down the runway, border patrol units shot and damaged the landing gear.

The gunmen finally gave up the ship after 3 hours.

WHAT really matters, are long-range changes in attitudes and behavior. This means in the societies involved, as well as in the trainees, he said. Subsequently, the main objective of the ICA Seminars on Communication is to give a "social dimension" to the technical training of foreign nationals, Ellingsworth said.

Gypsy Rose Lee Stars At Ledges Next Week

Gypsy Rose Lee is baring her past at the Ledges Playhouse in Grand Ledge beginning Tuesday.

She will be appearing in "A Curious Evening With Gypsy Rose Lee", Aug. 8 through 13.

Miss Lee began in show business with her sister June Havoc. They toured the Orpheum Circuit with an act called, "Dainty June and Her Newsboy Songsters".

Bill Slout of the Ledges Playhouse said it should be a very interesting and enjoyable evening for everyone.

Clostridium Botulipum Can Kill You - Watch Out

One of the most toxic materials known is produced by a little micro-organism, technically called Clostridium botulinum.

This germ is the one noted as the cause of food poisoning or botulism.

Though it is only 1/25,000 of an inch in length, its toxin is enough to kill you.

RICHARD J. SIMMONS, graduate student in microbiology, is engaged in research on this organism.

He is not attempting to find a way to wipe out the germ. Rather, he is studying just one phase of what makes this organism tick . . . namely, how it-breaks down sugar, he said.

Several interesting discoveries have been made.

One is that enzymes, similar to those found in virtually every organism ever studied, are also found in this germ, Simmons said.

THESE ENZYMES, involved in the metabolic process, are similar, however, only to the last step. Here, the end products differ, he said.

Only time and research will find a way to eliminate food poisoning. Like cancer, these organisms must be studied according to the various phases they go through, Simmons said. Simmons' findings have cleared up one of the processes important to the studies.

Further findings will probably lead to knowledge of a way to neutralize or destroy these germs before they find their way into home-canned foods, he said.

It's Legal To Copy Pages Now

Making a photo copy of a page from some library book is now legal.

As a result of action taken at a recent American Library Association meeting held in Cleveland, pressure was brought to bear to revise the copyright laws, Dr. Richard Chapin, director of libraries said.

The American Book Company fought the move, Chapin said.

The revision was supported by a New York law firm as well as by the Association of Research Libraries, he said.

Anticipating some 125,000 pictures this coming school year, Dr. Chapin said, "Photo copying differs little in principle from copying from a book in longhand. Photo copying is but a natural and logical service of our library."

Providing photo copying services reduces the number of books and magazines from which whole pages are torn out. For only a nickle, two pages of an opened book can be reproduced, he said.

During the McCarthy controversy some years ago many magazines and books carrying specific articles about him were badly torn up, Chapin said.

Dr. Chapin added, "This is a moral problem current on every campus but in providing photo copying services the temptation to mutilate library materials should be greatly reduced."

Prof Conducts Two Studies in Costa Rica

Dr. Paul Deutschmann, head of communication research center, is in Costa Rica organizing communication research. He has been granted an 18-month leave of absence for the project.

Deutschmann will actually conduct two studies. In the first project, he will try to discover what effect the mass media have on the population. He will return to Michigan for a short stay later in the month.

In September, he will return to Costa Rica to begin another study concerning the effect of training in the United States. Deutschmann will try to determine if there is a difference in attitudes between the students who came to this country and studied and those who remained in Costa Rica.

The first project is sponsored by the Rockefeller Brother's Institute and the second by the Pennsylvania State University has been ordered to appear before the Sanitary Water Board at a hearing scheduled for August 17 in Harrisburg.

The hearing is scheduled to determine whether existing sewerage permits issued to the University for discharge to a tributary of Spring Creek should be revoked, modified or changed.

The admission of students will be limited to 22,560 for the coming year, said Gordon A. Sabine, director of admissions and scholarships.

This figure is the same as last year's figures in accordance with the university's policy because of the budget cut, he said.

The majority of these 22,560 students will be those who have been previously admitted and are returning. The criteria for the readmission of this group is first their desire to return and second their college record, Sabine said.

The other group to be admitted will be new students and transfer graduate students. This group will be admitted on a qualitative basis, he said.

The policy to be followed, he said, is to admit no student who cannot make it.

Geographers To Meet In Kellogg

New research in geography will be revealed when the Association of American Geographers holds its annual meeting here Aug. 28 - Sept. 1.

Nearly 1,000 geographers from the United States, Canada and Europe will meet at Kellogg Center to hear and discuss research papers on current trends in geographic thought.

The research papers will range from such topics as "Soil Erosion in Spain" and "Local Migration and Urbanization in Sweden" to "Charting for the Project Mercury" and "The Description of Vegetation for Military Purposes."

"THESE TOPICS probably will not have a great deal of meaning to the average person, but they are important to geographers who are constantly studying and analyzing the variable character of the earth's surface," explains Dr. Lawrence M. Sommers, conference chairman and head of the co-sponsoring department of geography.

To the layman, geography usually means the memorization of the names of countries and their capitols, rivers, boundaries, plains and other very basic information, he said.

But to the geographer, the field is a great deal more complicated than the fifth-grade geography which most people know, he said.

The geographer is interested in what places are like and what makes them tick - both from physical and cultural standpoints, he stated.

DURING the five-day meeting, general areas of discussion will center around physical geography, problems in land use, population and settlement, transportation and quantitative geography.

Also on the program are topics related to various aspects of geography in the high school, military geography, urban and political geography, and the geography of Latin America, Europe, Russia, the Urban Midwest and Middle America.

Presenting papers will be 94 top geographers from 48 colleges and universities in the U.S. and foreign countries, and

Edward E. Horton Says,

"You're Never Too Old To Start in the Theatre"

By DAN WHITNEY
State News Reviewer

Edward Everett Horton's 102-year-old mother said she hopes her young, 72-year-old son can make something of himself yet.

After graduating from Columbia University, Horton spent six years on the legitimate stage. He then went into silent movies, where he played in "Ruggles of Red Gap". Talking movies took over and he was in greater demand. He played in "Top Hat", "Gay Divorcee", "Alice in Wonderland", and many others.

He is also the holder of a Doctor of Law Degree from Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and Doctor of Letters from Oberlin College.

HORTON WAS the first guest star at the Ledges Playhouse in Grand Ledge last year and he starred in "Springtime for Henry".

While rehearsing for "Nina" at the Ledges, which runs through Saturday night, Horton commuted 700 miles daily between here and Pittsburgh where he was appearing in "The Chocolate Soldier". After his morning rehearsal in Grand Ledge, he would catch a plane to be in Pittsburgh in time for the evening performance.

One of the few actors who works 52 weeks a year, Horton has toured with such shows as "Harvey", "Once Upon a Mattress" with Imogene Coca, and "Nina". Perhaps his most popular role is Henry in "Springtime for Henry" which he has played over 2,600 times. He also just finished making a movie.

Horton places the responsibility for encouraging young actors on the parents.

When a child shows a desire to be in the spotlight, he should be aided as much as possible, he said.

ACCORDING TO Horton, all of us have this desire, but some more strongly than others. It is those with the strongest desire that finally end up on the stage.

Young aspirants should make

Edward Everett Horton

they can. He said, "You're never too old."

"THE SUMMER theatres," said Horton, "are the most important part of the theatre in general."

They replace the old summer stock, which was forced by the wayside because of the high rent of theatre buildings.

According to Horton, it's harder to make the summer circuit now. He says there is no longer such a thing as a "hick town". The advent of T.V., radio, and movies has sophisticated nearly everyone to the point of knowing what is good and what is bad.

"You can't fool them anymore," he said.

every effort to get on their feet and speak, says Horton. He says youngsters should join debate clubs, drama clubs, and speech clubs as soon as they feel the urge to go into acting.

Horton didn't limit his advice to the young people. He said college and university students should do all the acting

FROM HERE, Horton is going to Ohio to play in a theatre he opened five years ago. Then a company of British actors, he is off to Canada to act with His tour ends in Kennebunkport, Maine. From there, he is going to California where he will join his mother.

Maybe he can convince her he already has made something of himself.

Dean Combs Appointed Director For Con-Con

By JOE HARRIS
State News News Editor

Dr. William Combs, dean of university services division, has been named staff director for the upcoming state constitutional convention by the governor's preparatory commission on Con-Con.

In an interview Thursday, Dr. Combs described the function of the three man board he will head as a non-partisan fact finding group dealing with research and study of constitutional issues.

"One of our principle functions," Combs said, "will be to break down the present constitution into issues we think will be considered by the delegates, and prepare papers on them."

"INCLUDED in the breakdown will be the opinions of experts on constitutional matters, and also what is being done in other states," he said.

As an example, Combs pointed to the reapportionment question which is listed as one of the more controversial issues before the convention.

"The big question here will be that of geographical apportionment versus population."

"OUR JOB would be to prepare papers on both of these issues in a meaningful and useful form, and make the papers available to the delegates," he said.

Appointed to assist Combs as associate directors were Dr. Charles W. Joiner of the University of Michigan and Alfred H. Kelley of Wayne State University.

In a letter to his preparatory commission, Governor Swainson listed three guiding functions for Dr. Combs committee.

1. TO PREPARE studies and reports relating to the issues before the delegates and to provide available facts.

2. To bring together available information on constitutional convention matters from whatever person or group prepared them.

This covers the fact finding committees appointed by the governor on such matters as local government, taxation, education, etc., Combs said.

3. To provide such consultant services to the delegates as they request.

COMBS POINTED out that this would include such things as providing information on home rule government to a committee on municipal government, so that they would be in possession of all the available facts.

Combs' committee will come under the direction of the Con-Con preparatory commission, directed by Howard J. Stoddard. This commission is financed by funds from the Kellogg foundation, and not by public funds.

Dr. Combs is also secretary of the faculties, chairman of the university services division, the committee on course and curricular changes and the committee on ROTC.

He was formerly administrative assistant to the president, head of the department of public administration, and an assistant professor of history and political science.

Khrushchev's Farm Host on Campus

Roswell Garst, Premier Nikita Khrushchev's farm host when he visited the United States in 1959, visited the Michigan State campus Tuesday.

The white-haired farmer from Coon Rapids, Iowa, stayed at the Kellogg Center before leaving Wednesday on the State Farm Management Tour, an annual event co-sponsored by the MSU department of agriculture economics and county extension service.

Visiting three farms in Gratiot County, Garst spoke to 2,000 farmers on the future of American agriculture. The 63-year-old Garst compared Russian and American agriculture, stating that the U.S. had much better resources than Soviet Russia. Garst has been to Russia three times.

Concerning Michigan's agriculture, Garst advised farmers who cannot yield 100 bushels of corn an acre to convert their farms to permanent pasture and raise beef herds in poor grain-growing areas. He also talked about changes in America's farming methods that will take place in 20 years.

Garst, who raises seed corn, came to Michigan especially for the farm tour and returned home Wednesday.

This was the first time Garst had visited that particular agricultural section of Michigan.
