Soviet-German Trade Pact Signed

LEIPZIG, East Germany. — The Soviet Union signed a trade and aid agreement with East Germany Monday estimated to be worth about $825 million, East German officials announced.

The agreement, covering Soviet-East German economic relations for the current year, calls for the Kremlin to grant this financially shaky country a 1.3 billion mark credit, informants said, plus about two billion marks worth of trade between the two nations. At the official rate for the mark in this country that totals about $825 million.

Tshombe Hits UN Action in Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo. — Shooting flared between United Nations troops and President Moïse Tshombe's armed forces in North-West Katanga Monday, menacing the truce in effect since the battle of Elisabethville last December.

Tshombe charged 1,200 UN troops attacked Kaminaville, launching the assault with a heavy mortar and artillery barrage shortly before noon.

Russians Demand More Meat

MOSCOW. — Premier Khrushchev declared bluntly Monday the Soviet Union needs more food for its 200 million people, especially meat. He reported complaints from cities that "there is little meat for sale in shops, as well as butter."

"The fact is that we simply do not have enough meat," he told the opening secret session of the Communist party central committee. "The party and the government are concerned about this state of affairs and are undertaking measures to increase meat production in a short period of time."

Japan Protests U.S. Air-Test

TOKYO. — Japan protested Monday the U.S. decision to resume atmospheric nuclear testing but the government appeared to be merely going through the motions.

Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka called in U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer and handed him a note saying Japan "deeply regrets" the decision and reserves the right to make claims for any damage suffered from the testing.

Powers To Speak in Public

WASHINGTON. — U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers will tell his story in public Tuesday for the first time since he was convicted in Moscow of being an American spy.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., announced Monday the 32-year-old flier will appear at 2 p.m. E.S.T. Tuesday at an open session of the Senate armed services committee.

B-58 Sets New Speed Record

LOS ANGELES. — A B-58 streaked to New York and back in an unofficial 4 hours and 42 minutes Monday, shattering three speed records and many windows.

The four-jet 1,300 mile an hour bomber trailed a 40-mile-wide sonic boom that caused alarm and damage along the way.

The established record for the 4,900 miles was 6 hours, 46 minutes, set in 1957 by Capt. Robert M. Sweet in an RF100 Voodoo jet.

Meany Asks Shorter Week, Same Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL-CIO

President George Meany put a "must" tag Monday on a shorter work-week to curb unemployment which he said has become the nation's No. 1 domestic problem. He would reduce the hours without cutting pay.

Meany said he does not know how much the regular 40-hour week should be shaved to share available jobs, but it should be reduced enough to assure employment to every American wanting work.

"If this means 35, 34, 33 or 30 hours a week or less, so be it," Meany said.

President Kennedy has taken the position that there should be no general shortening of the work-week at this time.

Meany's remarks to 3,500 applauding delegates to the 8th Annual Legislative Conference of the AFL-CIO building and construction trades department represented organized labor's strongest bid yet for legislation to slash the normal work week.

Meany said that 4.7 million workers are unemployed and several million more working only part-time.

"If we continue to produce more and more with fewer and fewer people, we must reduce the work hours of American workers without reducing their earnings," Meany said.

Linseed Oil, Rags Cause $7,000 Loss

Spontaneous combustion of linseed oil and paint-soaked rags may have been the cause of the horticulture barn fire Friday, the Department of Public Safety said.

The fire caused an estimated damage of $7,000 to the building.

Top Level Meet Is Set

Burns Appointed Editor

BEN BURNS

JIM WALLINGTON

Wallington Assigned Manager Post

Ben J. Burns, Memphis senior, was appointed Editor-in-Chief of the State News for spring term Monday by the Board of Student Publications. James Wallington, Port Huron senior, was named Managing Editor.

Burns, present Managing Editor, replaces Marcia Van Ness, Jackson senior, who will be graduated at the end of winter term.

He has been a State News staff member since fall, 1958 and has held positions of Wire Editor, Sports Editor and Managing Editor.

During last summer, Burns wrote news releases for the Division of Information and Education of the Forest Service in Washington.

Wallington, a former State News Sports Editor and Night Editor, has been a reporter with United Press International.

His newspaper experience has spanned seven years, beginning in 1955 at the Port Huron Times Herald where he was a copy boy and later business page editor and high school correspondent.

Except for one term, this marks the first time in three years that the State News has had a male Editor-in-Chief.

SENIOR RECEPTION — Mrs. John Hannah and Cathie Vickerman, Senior Receptions Chairman, inspect the invitations sent to each graduating senior. The Reception will be held Wednesday at Cowles House from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

E. Lansing Man Swerves, Hits Parked Car

An East Lansing resident suffered face cuts and chest bruises in an accident on West Circle Dr. near Morrill Hall early Saturday afternoon.

George Peeke told Department of Public Safety officers that a passing car caused him to swerve his vehicle and strike a parked car owned by the University.

Applications Considered For College of Vet. Med.

Applications are now being considered for entrance into the College of Veterinary Medicine. W. W. Armistead, dean of the College announced.

Deadline for application is April 1. There will be 64 students chosen.

First priority is given to Michigan residents. Consideration is next made of residents from states that do not have a veterinary school. Residents of states that have regional educational compacts on veterinary medicine with other col-

Hannah To Receive Students at Home

President Hannah's reception for graduating seniors will be held Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Cowles House.

The history of Cowles House includes many of these and other receptions.

The President's home was built in 1857 as a farm cottage. It soon became part of Faculty Row, which is now Abbott Rd. In 1857 President Williams occupied the house, followed by President Abbott who remained there until 1874.

In that year a new home was constructed on the site presently occupied by Gilchrist.

After the new home was established, the former residence became the home for Professors Beal and Bessey, well-known botanists. Other residents included Secretary Halliday and Frank Murphy, former Michigan governor.

The house has served as an educational facility as well as a women's residence hall.

In 1941 John A. Hannah became the new president, succeeding Robert S. Shaw. After the war the house was rebuilt and a wing was added to the west. This was possible through funds from the Fred C. Jenison estate. The remodeled house was named Cowles House for the mother of Mr. Jenison, Alice B. Cowles.

Coed's Stolen Car Found on Campus

A stolen car was recovered at 12:31 a.m. Monday on W. Circle Drive near the Graduate School building.

The car is owned by Doris Kridler, 114 S. Lathrop, Lansing.

The vehicle was reported stolen from the Frandor shopping Center, the Department of Public Safety said.

Fiery Air Crash Takes 111 Lives In African Jungle

DOUALA, Cameroon (AP)— Search teams struggled through dense African jungle Monday night to recover the 111 victims of the worst single plane disaster in the history of civil aviation—the fiery crash of a chartered flight carrying vacationers to Europe.

By nightfall 96 torn and charred bodies had been assembled in a jungle clearing three miles from where the four-engine Caledonian Airlines plane crashed after taking off from Douala Sunday night for Luxembourg.

The DC7C carried 101 passengers and a crew of 10. It plunged into the jungle just two minutes after take-off from Douala Airport.

In Douala, an airline spokesman said: "We believe everyone on board was killed instantly when the plane hit the mud. There was no explosion, but the fuel tanks burst into flames on hitting the ground. High flames could be seen from the airport terminal two miles away and they burned most of the night."

The scene at the roadhead where the bodies were collected was dim and silent. The dead were laid out around a spreading Obuchi tree. Army officers and airport laborers walked among the bodies, taking notes hoping to be able to identify the victims.

A light rain was falling when the plane landed.

After a brief stop, the DC7C seemed to take off normally, witnesses reaching here reported, then abruptly plunged straight down into the coastal swamps two miles from the airport. The plane burst into flame on impact, and rescue teams went plowing into the swamps. Investigators sought a clue to this strange parallel to the air crash that took 95 lives in New York last Thursday.

Both planes plunged with unexplained suddenness after normal takeoffs, both crashed in swamps and burst into flames.

The ill-fated DC7C propeller-driven plane which crashed at Douala was a low-rate flight giving persons an opportunity to spend an inexpensive holiday in Europe. The plane left Johannesburg, South Africa, Saturday.

Other passengers were picked up in Rhodesia and in Portuguese Mozambique on the southeast coast of Africa. Then it took off for Douala, in this west African republic.

Dr. Sabine Stresses Need To Up Scholarship Dollars

There is more pressure from better students for more scholarship help this year than ever before in the history of MSU, Dr. Gordon A. Sabine, vice-president for special projects, said Monday.

A total of more than 5,000 students seek scholarship help for next year, according to Sabine. Of these, some 4,000 are freshmen who plan to start next September, and more than 1,000 are students already in school.

The nearly 1,600 students who came to East Lansing for the Alumni Distinguished Scholarship competition the past two weekends are indicative of the type of need that exists, Sabine said.

"Most of the applications we have received have come from extremely fine students whom any college or university in the United States would gladly welcome," he explained. "So anyone who wins or keeps a scholarship at MSU really is performing well academically."

But MSU's problem is that it is not going to have enough dollars to help all these worthy students, Sabine said.

Various plans for "stretching" the scholarship funds have been considered, Sabine explained.

One group of students who desperately need help includes those already attending State whose families have had sudden financial reverses and who now need scholarship help which they haven't had before, Sabine said.

There may have been severe illness, or an auto accident, or other difficulties which shift the financial burden more heavily to the student, he said.

Nikita OK's New Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has agreed to a U.S.-British proposal to start the Geneva Disarmament Conference at the foreign ministers level.

He has agreed also, U.S. officials said Monday, to have a Big Three foreign ministers meeting in advance of the main session.

Khrushchev's changeabout, after having called for opening the Geneva parley at the summit level, apparently cleared away one final uncertainty over the launching of what was to have been an 18-nation disarmament conference on March 14.

The conference was reduced to 17 nations Monday when France announced it would not send a representative.

Washington authorities had no immediate comment on this development, but they had not expected France to play much of a role at Geneva, anyway. The Paris Government has made plain its distaste for the meeting right along.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported planning to leave Washington March 10 or 11 to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and British Foreign Minister Lord Home in Geneva March 12.

The main topic of their get-together is to be a treaty to ban nuclear tests.

Khrushchev made known his views in a lengthy letter to Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, which arrived from Moscow Sunday.

It was the sixth in a series of exchanges between the leaders which started Feb. 7 with a Kennedy-Macmillan proposal for a Geneva Conference of foreign ministers.

The White House said Kennedy's response to the Khrushchev message had not been sent as of late Monday and it appeared unlikely a reply would be dispatched before Tuesday.

Kennedy and Macmillan have contended right along that the best way to make progress on disarmament is to have lower level officials set the stage.

They have left the door open for a summit meeting later, perhaps before June 1, provided the Geneva negotiators have made some progress or provided that summit attendance would be helpful in solving a deadlock.

Khrushchev had contended that the Government heads themselves should show up first at Geneva. He said this would emphasize the importance of disarmament and boost chances of agreement.

It was still not known whether Khrushchev might decide on his own to appear at some stage during the Geneva proceedings.

It was understood that Khrushchev, while agreeing to a foreign ministers beginning, still contended in his latest letter that the heads of state should go personally to Geneva. It was reported also that the Soviet leader, in a lengthy repetition of earlier Moscow claims, denounced as "blackmail" Kennedy's March 2 announcement that the United States will resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere by late April unless agreement with the Soviets on a test ban treaty is reached beforehand.

Con-Con Delegate Faxon Finds Youth No Handicap

By GARY RONBERG
Of the State News Staff

The youngest delegate to the Constitutional Convention, Jack Faxon, is not allowing his age to stand in the way of doing his job.

"There's a tendency when you're young for older people to try and show you the way," he says, "but the people who sent me here didn't do so to have me sit around and just listen."

"I'm here to use good judgment and intelligence—and represent them in the best possible way."

Faxon is a member of the education committee. He is 25 years of age, a Democrat from Detroit, and has been busy indeed as a convention delegate.

Since the convention opened last fall, Faxon has made 49 proposals, covering all areas except the judiciary.

He feels that members of Con-Con shouldn't be pressured into making hasty decisions because of an arbitrary deadline.

"The important thing is the drawing up of a sound, workable constitution for the state," Faxon said, "and if it takes an extra week or two, it shouldn't make any difference."

Faxon is unmarried and lives with his parents in Detroit.

He is a graduate of Wayne State University and is, at present, studying for a PhD in history at the University of Michigan.

He has been teaching school since he was 19, the six years being equally divided between junior high and high school instructing at Southwestern High School in Detroit.

Faxon became interested in politics only recently.

"I became interested in the political side of things through contacts I made with people in civic, community, and labor activities," he said.

"But I never realized how little I actually knew about state government until I tried to apply what I thought I knew," Faxon said. "You have to start learning all over again."

How about his impression of politics so far?

"A person entering the field of politics shouldn't be too idealistic, or he's in for a real surprise," he said. "In politics, many theories and idealistic ideas fall by the wayside and are sacrificed for practicality."

Politics isn't a "dirty" word, Faxon says. It is responsible for all governmental advancement.

"I don't know what you would do without politics," he said.

Faxon differed acutely with fellow party members recently on the subject of economic development.

Most Democrats were for the program, but Faxon voted against it for two reasons.

"First of all, I was against it because of a procedural reason," he said. "I didn't know the subject was going to be brought up that particular day and I didn't have the language of the proposal in front of me."

"As a matter of practice and principle I will not vote for something I'm the least bit unsure of."

Faxon said his other reason was that he couldn't see private business benefitting through state expenditures.

"I'm opposed to granting state money for private purposes," he said. "We were giving public money for private purposes, and unless I had assurances that it wouldn't depart from the basic principle of public dollars for public purposes, I wasn't going to vote for it."

Faxon said he didn't plan to stay in politics.

"I've learned so much through this experience, though," he said. "It has been something you can't learn by just reading about it."

Faxon will remain teaching in high school.

"I imagine I could fit into college teaching easier and would find it enjoyable," he said, "but as a high school instructor I am in a position to influence more students to continue on to college."

Faxon's main outside interests are classical music and art. He has worked at painting considerably and was a member of several musical organizations in Detroit.

At the age of 25, Jack Faxon hasn't done much "sitting around."

A GOOD TRADITION DOES NOT CHANGE

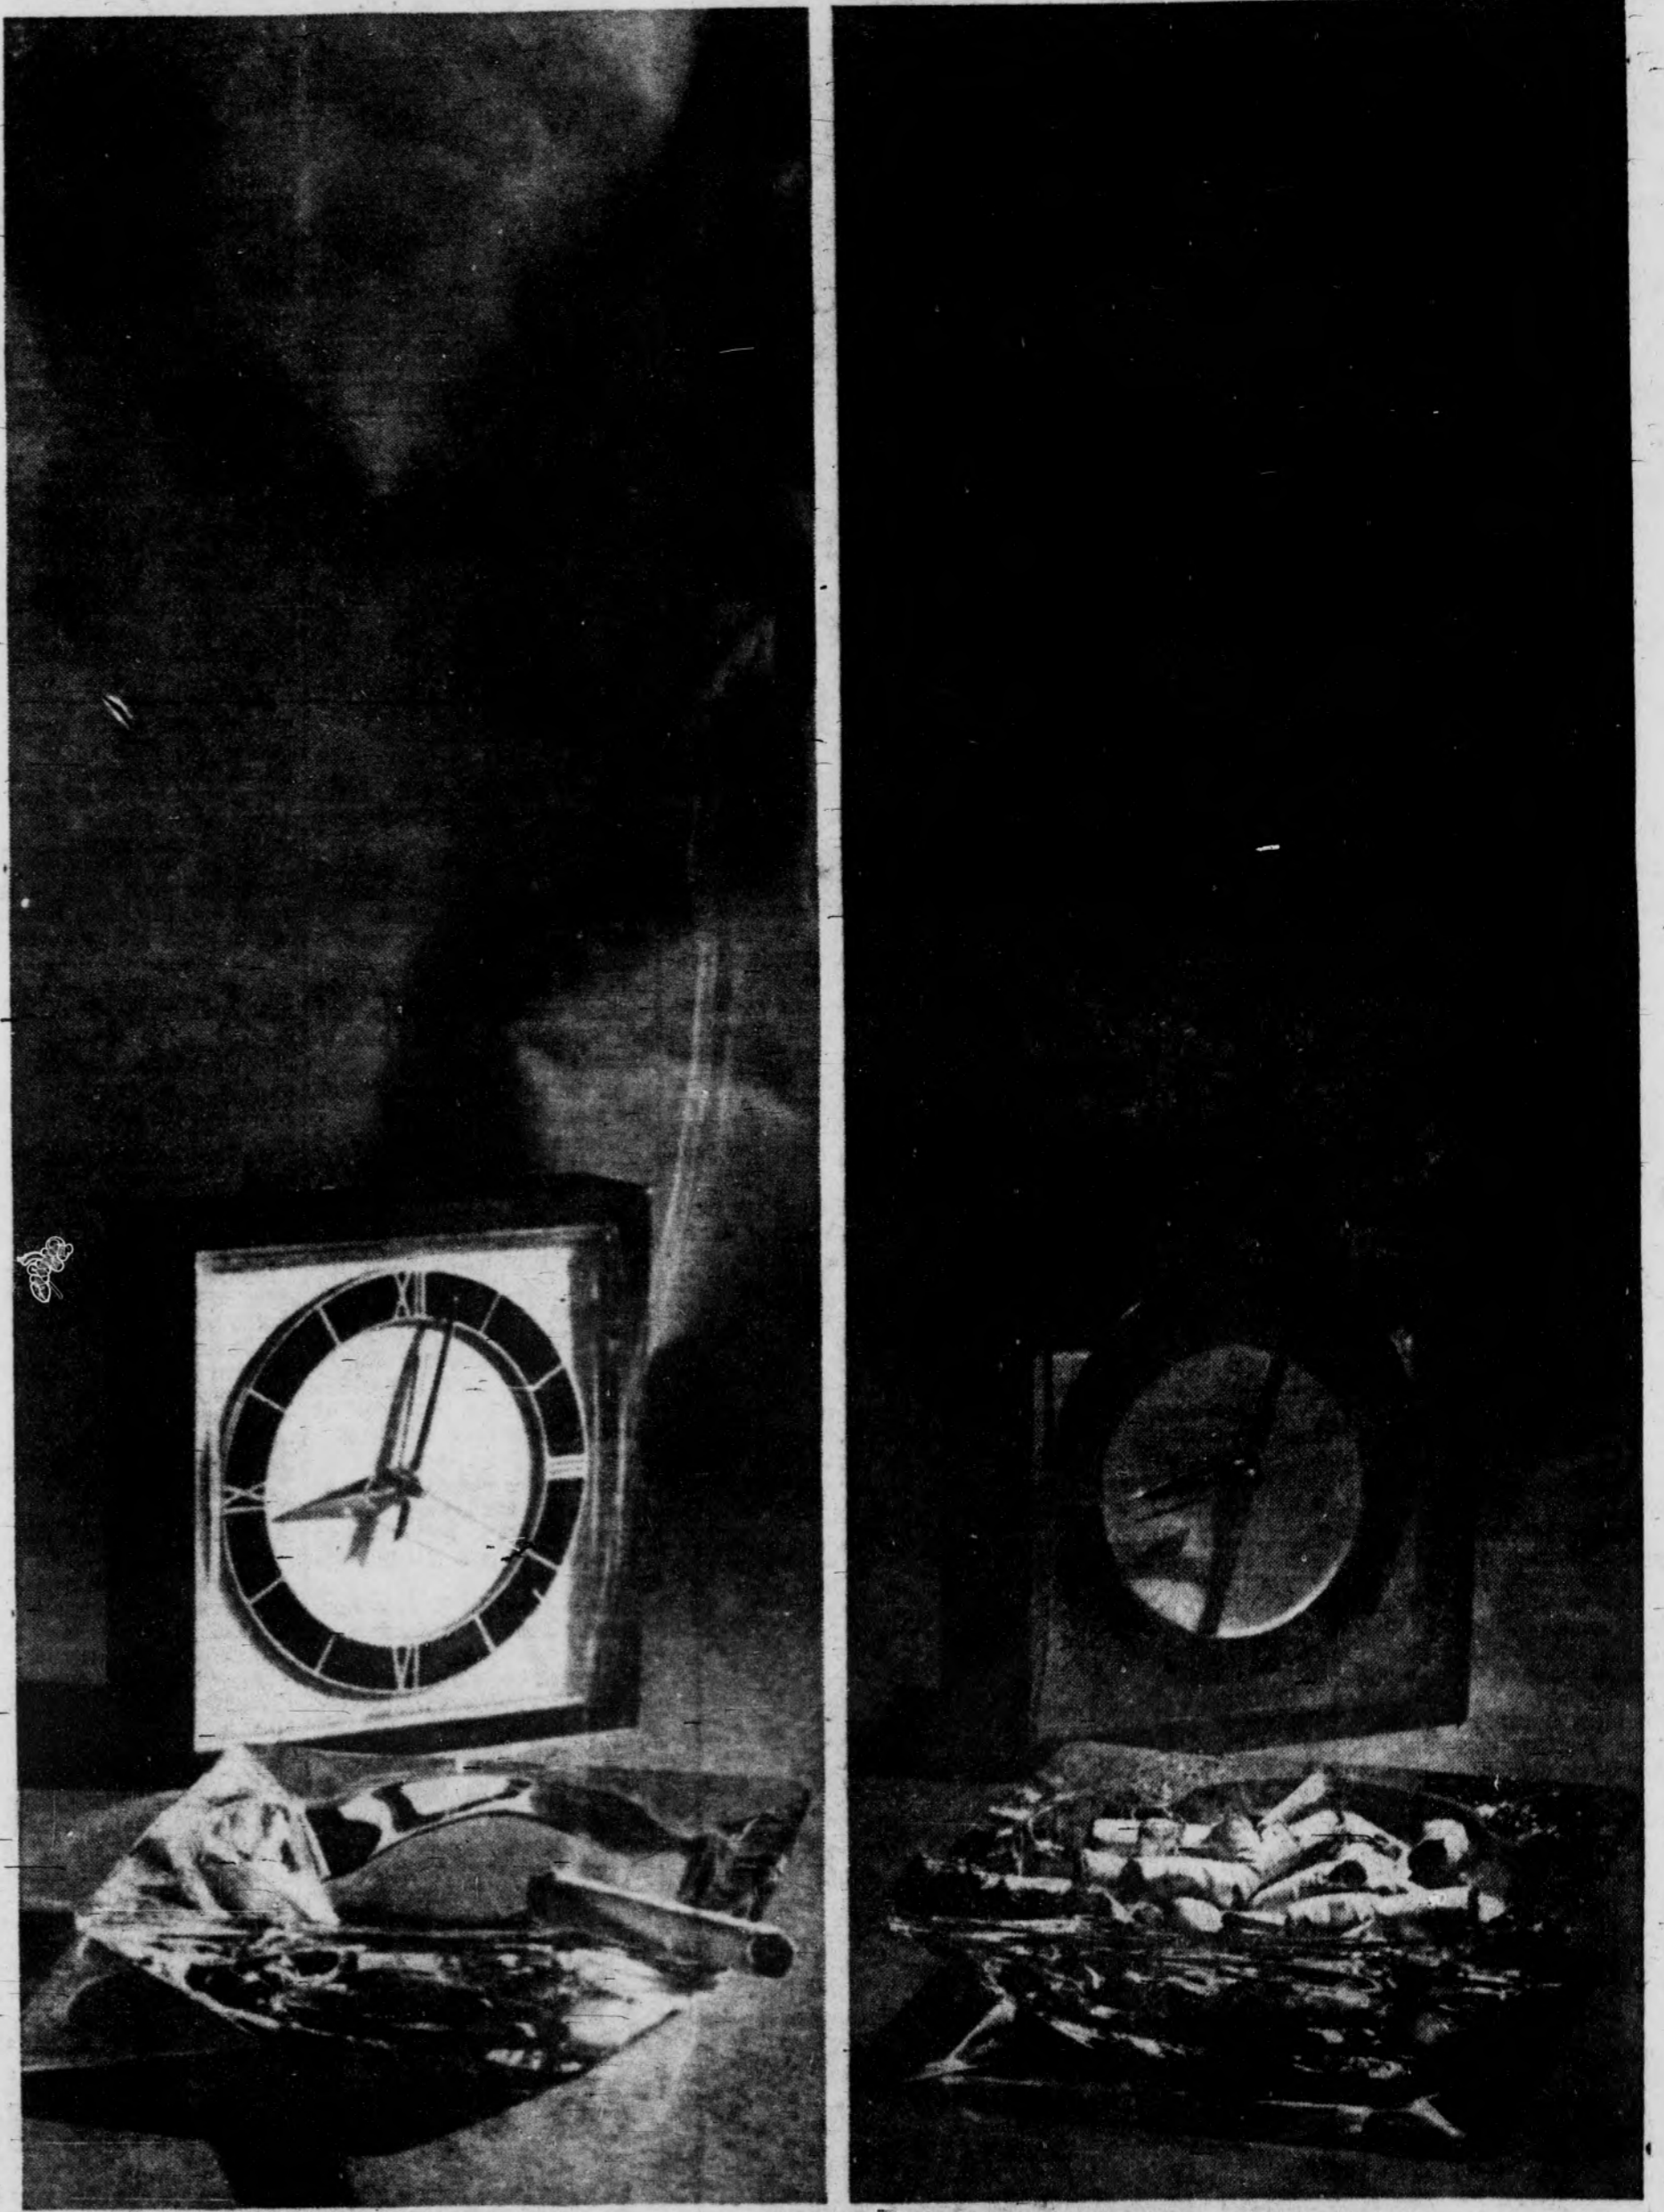

In this world of speed and space, we are so often tempted to change for the sake of change. Yet a classic is timeless... like the traditional look and soft shoulder tailoring of the College Hall clothes we feature.

This season, we continue this tradition. We bring you our own exclusive innovations in fabric and fit... subtle refinements in suits and jackets that augment the authority of our authentic styles... all, of course, within the soft shoulder framework. That is why the clothing you see in our store has the inherent good taste in fabric and look that marks the wearer as the man to watch... naturally.

Admen work awfully short hours ... and a lot of them.

A lot of us in advertising just can't seem to switch off our enthusiasm when the clock hits five. But our hours go by with astonishing suddenness when we're wrapped up in an intriguing problem. Which is almost always. (Oh, we've got our share of clock watchers, and their work shows it. But their number is dwindling, because people don't pay attention to their ads. That's fine with us.) If you're a little bit interested in working very, very hard to develop an effective piece of advertising, drop us a line. Any time. We'll be happy to answer, no matter how late we have to stay. ■ Members of the Michigan Council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, 4-160 General Motors Building, Detroit 2, Mich.

Talk Scheduled For Bus. Ad. Men

A program is scheduled for a meeting between business administration representatives from community colleges and Michigan State to be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, March 16.

The program is entitled "The Business Administration Curriculum in the Community Colleges and the Four-Year Collegiate School of Business," said Max S. Smith, director of community and junior colleges.

Administrators, counselors, and faculty members of the community colleges will work with the business administration department of the University in coordinating current views on curricula planning.

Highlighting the meeting will be four panel discussions, each moderated by a University faculty member.

"The Marketing and Transportation Administration Program" will be moderated by T. A. Staudt of the department of marketing and transportation administration.

James D. Edward of the department of accounting and financial administration, will lead the discussion of "The Accounting and Financial Administration Program."

A representative of the department of business services, Mary Virginia Moore, will moderate the topic, "The Business Law Program."

"The Personnel and Production Administration Program," the last panel discussion, will be led by Rollin H. Simonds of the department of personnel and production administration.

Kullervo Louhi, associate dean of the College of Business and Public Service will be the luncheon speaker. Louhi will speak on the "Collegiate School of Business in the Sixties."

The Lumber and Building Materials Merchandising Curriculum is one of only four other programs of its kind in the country.

By The Associated Press
 NEW YORK, March 5 — Tom Bolan, president of Sports, Inc., today postponed for 24 hours a trip to Philadelphia to meet with advisers of boxer Sonny Liston to conclude arrangements for a heavyweight title fight between Liston and champion Floyd Patterson.

Bolan said here that he has the flu and could not make the trip today. He will go late tomorrow afternoon, he said. Bolan said he had informed Morton Witkin, Philadelphia lawyer for the No. 1 challenger, that he would be delayed.

NEW YORK, March 5 — Colorado State University, third in the Skyline Conference, was selected today as the 10th team in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 15-24.

The Rams had an 18-8 record in their just-concluded season. It is the second appearance in the tournament for Colorado State U., loser to St. Louis in the quarter-finals last year.

Only two spots remain in the 12-team field, and they likely will go to the Missouri Valley Conference runnerup (either Bradley or Cincinnati), and to a team from the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Previously selected for the 25th NIT tourney were defending champion Providence, Navy, Dayton, St. John's, Duquesne, Loyola, Houston, Wichita and Holy Cross.

AUSTIN, TEX., March 5 — The State Department of Public Safety said today that a number of southwest conference basketball officials were here taking a lie detector test.

The DPS statement said: "We are confirming that, at their own request, a number of southwest conference officials are today taking a polygraph examination."

The DPS spokesman said that the department was only in the position of granting the request. Abb Curtis, supervisor of officials, made the request to the department, the spokesman said.

Curtis was quoted as saying the officials requested the polygraph tests.

TERNI, ITALY, March 5 — Libero Liberati of Italy, former World Motorcycling Champion for the 500-CC class, was killed today in a road accident near here. He was 34.

Liberati, who won the world title in 1957, was practicing on wet roads when his motorcycle skidded and crashed against a rocky wall. He died en route to a hospital. He is survived by his widow and two children.

SARASOTA, FLA., March 5 — Luis Aparicio and Jim Landis, who stole 72 bases between them last season, became instructors at the Chicago White Sox camp today and held a half-hour seminar on how to steal second base.

Manager Al Lopez, who presided, said that he wants the Sox' to steal even more bases than last season when they led the league for the 13th successive season.

Al Kaline Better Now Than Champ in 1955

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Al Kaline, who is the tough and silent kind, figures he is more valuable today to the Detroit Tigers than he was in 1955 when he won the American League Batting Championship. "Anybody can hit singles," he said rather contemptuously. "High hitting is over-rated. It's what you do with it that counts. I think I do more for the club now than when all I was thinking about was my batting average. Now I try to advance runners."

His batting average isn't so bad, however. Last year he finished second in the league with .324. His team-mate, Norm Cash, won the championship with .361.

Can he overtake Cash this year?
 "I don't make predictions,"

Smucker Says

Rehabilitative Prisons Better in the Long Run

By CAROLE TRAZOS
Of the State News Staff

Dr. Orden Smucker, professor of sociology and anthropology, said he agrees very definitely with statements made by the Rev. Fr. Charles Dismas Clark, S. J., "the hoodlum priest" from Milwaukee.

Father Clark is the executive director of Dismas House, a rehabilitative center and employment agency for paroled convicts. An advocate of rehabilitative prisons, he has said he doesn't think imprisonment reforms criminals. He has called the American system of releasing a man from prison with $25, a new suit and a pat on the back ineffective.

Although rehabilitative prisons are far more expensive than custodial prisons, Smucker said, in the long run the cost for the state would probably equalize itself when the number of repeaters produced by custodial prisons was taken into account.

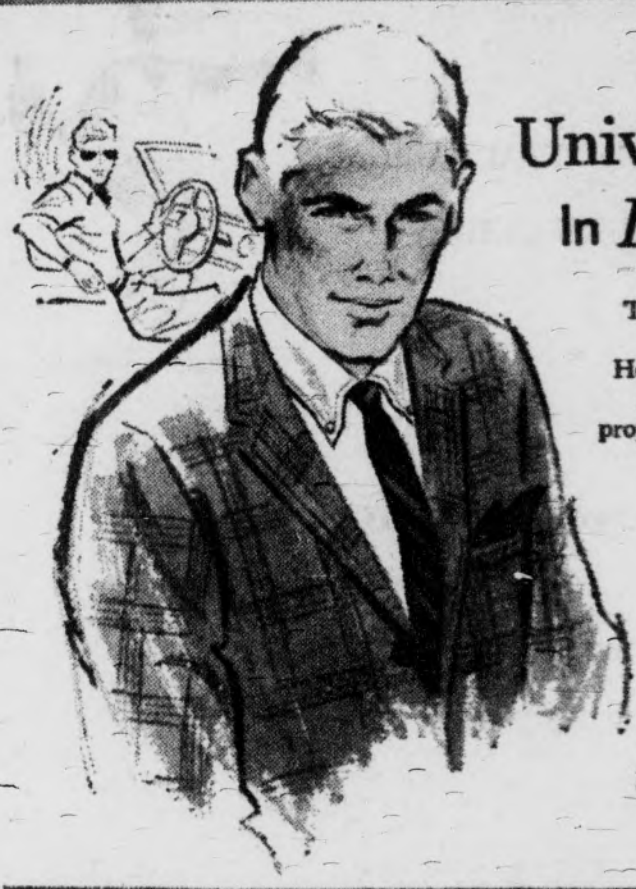

Smucker said that Michigan is committed to the notion of rehabilitation.

"Each state has a unique system. In Michigan we have Conservation Correction Camps," he said. "The prisoner is examined and if he is rehabilitative he is sent to one of these camps. They're in wooded areas where the prisoners have relative freedom. There are no guns or walls. Neither are there clanging cells, a peculiar odor or the regimentation that is found in a maximum security prison like Jackson (Southern Michigan Prison)."

The guards are called counselors, the prisoners don't wear uniforms and they live in cottages under self government, Smucker said. The prisoners build dams, plant trees and work on soil conservation.

"One of these camps is so attractive that tourists, thinking it's a resort, occasionally stop and try to rent cottages for vacations," he said.
