Vacancies In AUSG Explained

Dorm Councils To Appoint 10

Nobody knew about the election. Students don't realize that AUSG is more than a training ground for politicians. Student Congress has accomplished much in financial and academic aid to the student body. These are three reasons for the ten vacancies in AUSG representation cited by Mike Barbour, Speaker of Congress and dorm presidents. Currently, South Case needs one, Rather needs two, East Lansing needs five, Lansing, one, and sororities, one. The representatives will be appointed by dorm councils since no one can for the offices.

Barbour, East Lansing junior with two years experience on Student Congress, said he thinks students are not aware of what Student Government has done and can do for them.

"Students in general--I'd say 80 per cent at least--fall to realize that Student Congress can accomplish much, in academic and monetary benefits, at individual student's cost," he said.

Barbour also said AUSG fails to attract the best students. "Some of the best people don't have time. The top students don't have time," he said. "Our vice-president is attending Congress as a temporary representative, but nobody realized the elections for representatives were coming up."

Coloratura Peters Captivates Crowd

Coloratura soprano, Roberta Peters, captivated the audience with her shining voice and vivacious personality Monday night in the University auditorium. A wildly appreciative audience gave her three encores and several curtain calls. They were especially appreciative of "Ah! Non Credea Mitrarti!" from "La Sonnambula" by Bellini. Her exceptional vocal control was shown well in this appealing song.

The color so typical of her style was displayed in the gay "La Ermita de San Simon" by Tedesco. The applause was thunderous after this selection. Miss Peters' superb vocal mastery came to life in the mad scene from "Lucia de Lammer-moor" by Donizetti. Ravel's "La Flute Enchantee" from "Scherazade" gave Miss Peters a chance to exhibit her vast expression from complete joy to utter misery.

Although she sang in English, German, and French, she seemed to favor, as most opera singers do, singing in Italian and conveyed this to the viewers. She sang seven Italian pieces, among them were "Ballata," "Pioggia," and "Contrasto", all by Ottorino Respighi. The emotion and feeling she put into "Nancy-Hanks", a sad

Miss Peters is an actress in her own right, displaying her flawless technique in Debussy's "Apparition". For her first encore, she sang "The Nightingale", a lively Russian song that she sang in Russia during her tour there last year. John Solum, a Princeton graduate, was an excellent flute accompanist for Miss Peters.

Sociology Papers To Be Presented

Forty-six papers representing research and theory in 12 areas of sociology will be presented at an Ohio Valley Sociological Society meeting Friday and Saturday at Kellogg Center. About 250 sociologists from schools in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kentucky will attend the conference. Scholars from 23 schools will present papers in areas of criminal sociology, sociology of religion, political sociology, stratification and minority groups, social psychology and the family. Society president Wilber Brookover, professor of education here, will speak at the banquet meeting.

Loudspeakers 'War' In Berlin May Day

BERLIN (AP)—Loudspeakers bawled across the Berlin wall in rival May Day celebrations Tuesday. It was bloodless, but hard on the ears.

East Germany's communist regime mobilized a battery of 67 loudspeakers, mounted on 11 trucks, in an effort to drown the voices of Western leaders at a rally of about 700,000 West Berliners within shouting distance of the wall.

The West produced six smaller loudspeaker trucks, which zeroed in on the East Germans during pauses in the interference efforts.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who is retiring as President Kennedy's special representative in Berlin, President Heinrich Lübke of West Germany, and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin were among the targets of the com-

Police Clubs, Rifles Quell Lisbon Mob

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Hundreds of police swinging clubs and firing rifles in the air tonight broke up one of the most serious anti-government demonstrations in years.

Witnesses said about 2,500 demonstrators called out by the Communist underground were scattered by police after attempting to hold an anti-Salazar May Day rally in Blackhorse Square. Dozens of participants were reported injured and many arrested.

The center of Lisbon was cleared of traffic and pedestrians in the late evening. Machine guns were mounted on the roofs of ministry buildings and army and police units toured downtown streets.

Cafes and night spots were ordered closed for the night.

The appearance of anti-government leaflets signed "Duarte," the pseudonym of Alvaro Cunhal, general secretary of the underground Portuguese Communist party.

Cunhal was jailed by the regime of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar in 1950. He escaped 10 years later and was reported to have fled to Moscow. Unconfirmed reports said he recently returned to Portugal secretly.

As the demonstrators began pouring into streets leading to the square, police squads waded in, swinging clubs. Witnesses said a number of officers also fired rifles in the air.

Scores of the demonstrators were shown red with blue-dyed water so that they would be marked for later arrest. Portugal in recent months has been relatively quiet but its overseas territories, particularly Angola, West Africa, have been in turmoil. Last December the Salazar regime was shaken by India's takeover of Goa and two smaller Portuguese enclaves in India.

Rule Needs Hannah's Ok

The Housing Office has prepared a list of approved and supervised off-campus housing within the East Lansing boundaries. A new off-campus housing policy pending President John A. Hannah's approval states that students above freshman status and under 21 must live within the East Lansing boundaries off-campus.

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs meets Wednesday to give final approval to the tentative off-campus housing policies. The policy ultimately must be okayed by the Board of Trustees.

"We hope to reach a decision Wednesday so that students can make housing plans for fall term," John Fuzak, dean of students, said.

Townsend To Define Language

Stanley R. Townsend, head of the department of foreign languages, will speak at the third spring term Provost Lecture on "Language, the Bond of Man."

His lecture is scheduled Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the Kiva. "Language is the most common commodity in our lives," Townsend said Tuesday, "yet, perhaps, the most baffling in its complexity and influence."

"Languages are common to all men and yet often unintelligible. I hope to define the part that language plays in the world community of man."

A graduate of the University of Rochester, New York and Northwestern University, Townsend taught French and Latin at

They addressed a traditional May Day rally in the Platz der Republik in front of the old Reichstag building.

The loudspeakers were irritating, but failed to prevent them from making themselves heard in the West. The devices were turned on full volume when Lübke began to speak. March music and songs by massed choirs blared out, heedlessly distorted.

Clay, who is returning to the United States next week, received a big ovation. There was renewed applause when Brandt announced Clay will be made an honorary citizen of Berlin before he leaves.

Lübke said what Clay has done for Berlin will never be forgotten.

The Red trucks massed on the East bank of the Spree River, about 25 yards wide at this spot. A few dozen young West Berliners made for a railroad bridge as if to cross and do something to silence them. But West Berlin police headed them off.

About 3,500 police were strung out on the edge of the crowd to prevent dashes at the wall, which the communists built last August.

In East Berlin's Marx-Engels Platz the Communists staged a Russian-type military parade. About 8,000 troops goose-stepped past the leaders, including Chief of State Walter Ulbricht.

Campus Bus, Car Collide

A campus bus and a student operated car were involved in a minor collision on East Circle Drive near the east end of Berkeley Hall Tuesday.

The car driven by Frederick T. Jolly, Mount Clemens sophomore, and belonging to a friend of his received minor damage. The bus was not damaged. Jolly had started to pull into a parking space but pulled out again without stopping.

The bus, driven by Larry N. Johnson of 3730 N. East St., Lansing, had started to pass the car when it pulled out and the right front bumper of the bus struck the left rear fender of the car. Campus police were summoned but no tickets were issued.

Fifty-seven outstanding coeds were honored at the annual May Morning Sing held at Beaumont Tower Tuesday morning.

Tapped into Tower Board, an honorary for senior women, were 22 junior women. Tower Guard, an honorary for sophomore women, tapped 35 new freshman women.

The newly tapped coeds were chosen on the basis of scholarship, service, character and leadership. New members were serenaded at their living units by the old members of Mortar Board and Tower Guard Sunday night.

The new Mortar Board's will be active members during their senior year, and the new Tower Guard's will be active during their sophomore year. Both are service organizations.

After the program, which included sections from the Men's Glee Club under the direction of Gordon Flood and Wendell Wescott, who played the tower carillon, the new members were serenaded by outgoing Mortar Board's and Tower Guard's. President and Mrs. John Hannah held a breakfast for the old and new Mortar Board's, Spartan Women's League entertained at the Tower Guard breakfast after the ceremony.

Master of ceremonies, Armon Yanders, associate professor of zoology, introduced the Presidents of Mortar Board and Tower Guard, Rosemary Kuhn and Donna Mitchell respectively, who announced the tapes.

Minor Damage In East Lansing

East Lansing received little damage during the heavy thunderstorms Monday police officials said Tuesday.

Only two tree limbs were blown down and neither caused any damage or interrupted traffic officials said.

However, state police reported a display trailer belonging to the Leitch-Huad Co. of Manchester, N. H., was blown over on U.S. 127 South of Pryor Rd.

The trailer, 28 feet long by eight feet wide, was being hauled by a 1960 pick-up truck driven by Herbert C. Scott, 1317 Lorraine St., Lansing.

Space Laboratory for 21 Men Coming Soon

ST. LOUIS—A space laboratory capable of unfolding after going into orbit was advanced Tuesday as the answer to the problem of how such a large object can be put into space. E. A. Weber of North American Aviation predicted at a national meeting on manned space flight that the space station—which would have life sustaining facilities for 21 crewmen—soon can become a reality.

It would weigh about 150,000 pounds. After unfolding in space it would consist of a hub with docking facilities for three spacecraft, three spokes, and a hexagonal shaped outer rim.

Showdown Coming Up on Literacy Test Bill

WASHINGTON—Senate leaders announced Tuesday they will move Monday to force a showdown on the Kennedy administration's literacy test bill.

Under the timetable announced by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana a vote would come next Wednesday on a petition to end debate and put members on record for or against the measure.

Present indications are that the leaders do not have the necessary majority of those voting to cut off debate.

Castro Makes 70 Minute May Day Speech

Housing Recommendations: Step in Right Direction

The two alternative proposals suggested by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs to relax present student housing regulations were a step in the right direction.

Out of last Wednesday's meeting came these promising alternatives:

1. Men and women 21 and over and in upper school may live in unapproved and unsupervised housing with parents' permission.

2. Men and women 21 and over may live in unapproved and unsupervised housing with parents' permission.

Of course, the major change in the archaic rules is, as Dean John Fuzak said, granting men and women equal rights. Previously all women under 25, upper school or not, had to live in approved, supervised housing. Such a policy seemed outrageous to a 23 or 24 year-old coed.

Not only were the overly-protective regulations unnecessary and illogical but actually harmful in the long run to the women who were forced to conform. The opportunity of assuming responsibility had been denied these coeds. With either of the suggested changes, new areas of housing will be opened to bring the supply into line with the great demand that has always existed.

Examining the two possibilities, we can conclude that the first plan would continue the unfair discrimination against a segment of the college community. Proposal number two would do away with this discrimination. Therefore the State News is in favor of the second alternative.

The "upper school" clause seems an unreasonable inhibition. There are many freshmen and sophomores who are 21 and older. These include veterans, transfer students and those who have worked a couple of years, earning enough money to pay for the cost of a college education.

Basically, the question is still whether class rank under these circumstances should justify more housing privileges than age alone.

Whichever proposal is finally approved by President Hannah and the Board of Trustees, one of the incongruous paternal bonds will have been cut.

We Can Afford Peace

It would be a sad state of affairs if the world had to go on spending $120 billion annually for armaments, as it does today, just to keep the economy from turning topsy-turvy. It is encouraging that a group of nine experts, including Communists and capitalists, has decided that world peace could come without serious consequences.

"All problems and difficulties of transition could be met by appropriate national and international measures," said the United Nations group, which included representatives of the United States and the Soviet Union, along with men from seven other nations.

Some people have wondered what would happen to our missile, airplane, electronics and other industries producing for defense, should Khrushchev "declare" a real peace instead of the phony one he is always talking about.

Obviously there would be much disruption in many communities dependent largely on defense contracts. But Russia would have as great a problem as we, if not a greater one.

Actually, the problem of reconversion would be much simpler than it was after World War II, the U.N. experts pointed out. In the late years of that conflict, the United States poured 40 per cent of its gross national product into armaments. Now the $50 billion a year spent for defense represents only 10 per cent of the GNP.

Of course, there was a great unfulfilled demand for goods at the end of the war. This made it possible to dispose of large numbers of automobiles and other goods the people had not been able to buy during the war. . . . In this country, at least, that demand has been pretty well satisfied since 1945.

But the world needs goods, commodities and services of all kinds which could be satisfied if 8 to 9 per cent of all the world's production were not devoted to preparation for possible war. It would take super planning to finance the satisfaction of these needs and find jobs for some 50 million persons now enrolled in the armies of the world or engaged in making arms. But it could be done.

The U.N. experts said priorities would have to be established among the competing demands for the wealth and manpower released by disarmament. Some of the wealth could go to higher pay, lower taxes and shorter work weeks.

Education, housing, health and increased care for the aged would take a share of diverted money and energy. Research for peaceful purposes, such as travel in outer space, exploration of the Arctic and Antarctic and climate control, could claim scientists now engaged in the arms race. Possible tripling of aid to underdeveloped nations was mentioned.

It is nice to know that the experts think we could afford peace, if it were possible. -- The (Portland) Oregonian.

Jurisdictional Dispute:

Times sure do change. We can remember when preachers were the only ones who were experts at preparing people for travel in outer space. Now it is the government.

Letters to The Editor

On Campus Politics, Dealing With Russia, etc

To the Editor:
A recent editorial "Campus Politics: Dying a Slow Death" attacked the apathy of the students toward student government and class officers. If this is the case, it may be due to the fact that some class governments have been very lax in serving the students. The J-Council of '62-'63 plans to bring class government to a position of respect and leadership.

We cannot accuse the Russians of imperialism, they maintain, since our Cuban policy was so terribly imperialistic. But was it actually? We lent limited support to a small band of Cuban citizens who desperately wanted to bring some semblance of freedom to their Communist and Castro dominated nation.

Do those who condemn our government for this mission really believe our policy was one of annexation or territorial expansion? Did Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy pursue this course because they desired to impose the "American way of life" on another country? Certainly we cannot equate this with the imperialism practices by the U.S.S.R.

Miss DeLong accuses me of "simplistic thinking". To me, her thinking is equally simplistic. She suffers as the April 6 issue of Time so succinctly put it "from the strange liberal assumption that the cold war is somehow the result of U.S. hostility toward Russia and Red China and not the other way round."

The article in which this statement appeared goes on to say that "according to the University of Illinois psychology professor Charles E. Osgood, writing in The Liberal Papers, the great fault of U.S. foreign policy is that emotional distortion of reality creates an "oversimplified world" turning the complex greys of reality into stark black and white.

Therefore, all class efforts will not be concentrated on one activity such as the J-Hop. Instead greater emphasis will be placed on other cultural, social, and service events which will be of more benefit to you and your school. Next year this will be accomplished through the coordination of the Research, Newsletter, Fall Show, Special Projects, Publicity, and Public Relations committees. Also, next year the J-Hop chairman will be made automatic members of J-Council.

We believe that J-Council should become a more united class effort rather than the work of an isolated group. This can be best accomplished with the cooperative efforts of the class officers, J-Council, J-Hop chairman, and most important you the members of the class of 1964.

When this is achieved many of the problems which have arisen in previous class governments will be avoided and a more successful year can be anticipated. Terry Burgon, Pres. Jim Bannan, Vice-Pres. Peggy Sweetland, Sec. Mary Wheaton, Treas.

Philip May was quoted as saying, "With our many buildings, we cannot expect the legislature to provide money for parking facilities. The University's only other choice is to make those who use the facilities pay for them." It seems to me that if these ramps are only in the planning stage that they could never be ready by the fall of '62.

More than likely they probably won't be finished for the school year of '62-'63, and if they are not, why are the students expected to pay for something they won't even have the chance to use?

"But if non-liberals see the two sides in the cold war as black and white, the authors of the Liberal Papers see them as similar shades of grey--and that too, is an oversimplified world."

Miss DeLong finds it extremely difficult to believe that the goal of the U.S.S.R. is world domination and the U.S. is on the Soviet check list. To her, apparently, world domination is something quite removed from "power politics" in which she readily admits the Soviets engage. I do not know what amount of evidence she needs before becoming sympathetic to the rallying cry to prevent the inevitable catastrophe.

A simple reading of the daily newspapers would seem sufficient. But then, of course, we must remember that Miss DeLong places no trust in the American news media with all of its "distortions, omissions, propagandizing, and sensationalism."

Also I suppose Miss DeLong passes of Khrushchev's famous threat "We will bury you" as a meaningless remark by a charming, pastoral character.

Interestingly enough, Secretary of State Dean Rusk who by no stretch of the imagination could be classified as a member of the radical right, does not agree. In an address before the Advertising Council, Rusk said, "No one has to convince us that when Khrushchev said he would bury us, he was addressing himself not just to a historic inevitability but was proclaiming what the Communist party is working toward."

The real danger in the philosophies of Miss DeLong and her cohorts is that communication understanding and humanism are often placed before national security. For example, Miss DeLong lauded the recent peace demonstration held on the White House lawn. Those who took part in this demonstration called for unilateral disarmament, immediate cessation of nuclear testing, withdrawal of NATO forces from Europe--the usual line.

It is comforting to note that all the bun the bombers got from the administration was a free cup of coffee.

Communication channels between the U.S. and U.S.S.R. should be kept open. Dropping an atomic bomb on Moscow or withdrawing support from the U.N. as many propose would be lunatical. But to place trust in an untrustworthy nation, to sacrifice national security for the sake of humanitarianism, is equally unattractive and irrational as it is this brand of thinking with which I find myself in disagreement.

After careful consideration the policy of University males from residence halls females, and all couples was put into effect. All women were put on their honor. It became apparent to officials from West Shaw that the women were arriving with anywhere from no dates up to one young lady's five or six, of course at different times, but it's hard to miss the same girl bringing in five dates in about an hour.

The next Shaw Executive Council meeting saw a new formula, the present one put into effect: resident hall males, females and registered guests. There has been no trouble, all seems to be under control.

Whenever the case, the seemingly unfair assessment also assumes that all who pay the $6 will be using the ramps. It would be much better to assume that those who use facilities pay for them, if rather than a general assessment, some arrangements were made to collect from those actually using the facilities. Perhaps, like the toll gates now in operation on the present parking lots.

Whether the case, the University would do well to review the situation before adding another expense to the growing list which seems to be growing larger and larger.

One interesting note before I close. You independents who still wish to attend the Shaw Dance, you can. Take time to find out how, if you really enjoy these dances as much as some of my off campus friends. They do it legally by registration. Maybe you can, too.

Fraternity men with the well-rounded social life provided in most fraternities, don't waste their time on a dormitory affair like the childish Shaw dance. Off campus students have chosen to live out of the dorm, and the major reason is not because they can not afford residence hall living. This is the thinking which probably helped the Council decide where to place the limit and boundary.

I believe this approach to student affairs on the part of the Administration is the maintenance of MSU's apathy -- why the Student Government to scream fellow students, and act as a rubber stamp for the Administration or at best be on a committee that discusses problems but rarely institutes any action. This I think is the present view of the junctions of AUSG, and fortunately I believe it to be accurate.

World Problems

To the Editor:
Not wanting to be thought of as a representative of the local chapter of the John Birch Society or an officer of the Minute Man Organization, I wish to clarify some of my thoughts concerning the present world situation. Perhaps I was guilty of over-emotionalism in my letter of April 9. It is also quite possible that I misinterpreted some of Miss DeLong's statements. However, Miss DeLong's letter of April 16 was so littered with absurdities that I think an answer is justified.

One of the basic strands of thought in her letter can be stated so: No two sides are ever completely right in their policies. The U.S.S.R. is guilty of power politics, while the U.S., among other things, was dastardly enough to use the atom bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Incidentally I am surprised that Miss DeLong did not mention the Cuban episode, a favorite point of her set. And according to Miss DeLong, since both nations should find fault with the other, "Let him without guilt throw the first stone," she cries.

Certainly the United States is not infallible, but to infer that we are as wicked as the communists is rather unreasonable. Hiroshima was a pitiful sight after the bomb, but so was Pearl Harbor on December 7. President Truman and his advisors apparently felt it necessary to so destroy the two cities if the war was to be won; a war, by the way, which the Japanese initiated.

Senior Spirit

By BOB CANTRELL
President of the Senior Class

Student apathy is a problem that is often a topic of conversation on our campus. Does it exist? Yes, is it the fault of the students? I do not think so. It is just a result of circumstances. This institution has grown very rapidly over the past years. Communication among students, and between students and faculty, has not always kept up with this growth. A lack of true understanding of many university traditions and events has resulted. Many times students are not aware of the numerous reasons why they should be proud of their university and its traditions.

been changed to bring the program more up to date.

This year, for the first time parents, guests and friends are invited to attend the program in the Auditorium. Since the University's growth has been so large, the seniors will no longer parade from one school to the next. Instead, they will all meet at Beaumont Tower, and from there they will go directly to the Auditorium, accompanied by the Michigan State marching band.

Swingout - Class Convocation has been in existence for 103 years. Because students have not been as thoroughly informed about this event as they used to be when the school was smaller, attendance has fallen off. Students are not familiar with the purpose of the event.

This event will take place on May 20, at 2:30 p.m. President Hannah will give, on behalf of the University, his closing remarks to the class of 1962. Senior class members will be invited to attend a program keyed to the President Hannah. I hope that of you who read this will take advantage of the opportunity.

It is often said that "schools that have smaller enrollments are able to create a sense of community and class spirit second to none." Need this only apply to small schools?

Whether this is true or not, I am not sure, but it makes a believable story.

Youngblood Defends Con Con's Position

Con-Con acted wisely when it reversed its ban on pari-mutual betting, Charles N. Youngblood, Jr. (R - Det.) said in an interview.

Youngblood, a deputy sheriff said:

"A ban on pari-mutual betting will not halt betting -- it will only drive it underground. Bookie rooms would flourish and would rob the public."

It is better to keep the betting in the open and keep strict control over it than to allow it to go underground, he said. The harder it is to place a bet the less bets there will be.

Youngblood also said he had no urge to undercut an industry which pays $8 million a year to the state, high property taxes to individual cities and supplies 10,000 jobs.

"The Michigan Racing Commission reports there are approximately 150 farms in the state breeding thoroughbred and standardbred horses for the racing industry," he said.

"The Commission reports this comprises an investment of upwards $50 million and the annual payroll exceed $25 million. At this time of grave financial need in the state this industry should not be undercut."

Youngblood admitted that broken homes and welfare cases did result from betting at the race tracks. However, banning pari-mutual betting was not a solution to this problem he said.

"Some people would go to their bookies anyway," he said. "They would probably go to Canada or even move to another state if they had to."

"Betting is a sickness with these types of people."

Coleman A. Young (R - Wayne) agreed with Youngblood that barring pari-mutual betting would only make corruption worse.

"Bookies would extend credit to people and get them over their heads in debt," he said. "Then forceful means would be used to make these people pay. However, under pari-mutual betting people must have the cash to place a bet. No credit is extended."

Some homes were broken and welfare cases resulted from betting at the tracks, he said, but this could not be eliminated whatever was done.

"Some people have a gambling disease just like some others are addicted to drugs and alcohol," he said.

"These kinds of people always are able to find some way to gamble."

Arthur J. Madar (Rep.), Detroit, said he felt pari-mutual betting was the greatest cause of broken homes.

"This form of gambling causes more welfare cases and disrupted homes than any other form," he said.

Strict control over this betting was unlikely, he said.

"I don't think effective controlling means can be found," he said. "However, I don't think this will result in any more bookies because we have so many now."

Madar also said that gambling money was used to raise and influence children in the 4-H club in Michigan.

Four racing associations in the Detroit area, Detroit Race Course, Hazel Park Racing Association, Northville Downs and Wolverine Harness Raceway have been financial contributors to the 4-H foundation ever since it was formed, he said.

"Those children are being raised on gambling money," he said.

However, it is only those persons who gamble and can't afford it, not gambling itself that is wrong, Madar said.

"Sure, you can gamble and it's all right but you've got to control yourself," he said.

"What I am opposed to is the men and women who gamble when it takes away money needed to feed their children."

The lottery would help the state out of its financial crises and should be made legal, Madar said. This would net an additional $50 million a year.

"This would lower everyone's taxes -- including those convention members who protested against the lottery but turned right around and complained about the taxes they have to pay," he said.

As long as pari-mutual betting was made legal so should other forms of gambling, such as bingo and the lottery, he said.

Brody Food Complaints Answered by Manager

By STEVE COLE
Of the State News Staff

Keeping abreast of the whims of student appetites is a full-time job for the dormitory food service staff, T.L. Smith, manager of the Brody group of dormitories, said.

In order to ensure a variety of entrees the food service staff has prepared a list of 43 different meals.

Some of these items, Smith said, are the same kind of meat served in different ways. However the dishes are rotated in such a way that similar items are not served frequently.

Menus are planned at special meetings of all the dormitory food service managers.

At these meetings cycle menus are prepared for an entire term. Every item is served in a cycle of three weeks so that the students may never tire of the same thing.

Each term has a different cycle. All dorms generally serve the same thing on the same day.

The dormitories have figures which serve as guides for how many students will eat at a certain meal. It is also known approximately how many students will be on campus for the weekends in which there are games or other activities and weekends when no events are being held.

Some students might wonder why popular items such as tomato soup, peas and corn are not served more often.

Smith explained that complaints flood in when these items are served more frequently than other dishes.

Thorburn said he thought the major trend is for appetites to be more cosmopolitan now. People gradually learn to change appetites, to take something they've never tried before.

More fish are being consumed today also, he continued. "I think this is because fish products are now in a more appetizing form," he explained.

"Liver never was universally popular," Smith added, "but we serve it for variety. You can't serve roast beef every night." Moreover, if roast beef were served more often complaints would be received from the same students who complain about the liver.

Smith and Thorburn said that many new ideas have recently been introduced into MSU food service policy.

There is a general trend for large food processors to direct their products toward large food services, they said, therefore it is easier to serve, for example, french fries often because they now can be purchased already cut.

"We're always looking for new ways, better ways, and improved ways to do things," Thorburn said.

All of the dormitory food services operate in pretty much the same way, Smith said. All mens dorms have identical menus with the exception of breakfast at Brody.

The women's dorms have slightly different menus and policies in regard to second helpings as appetites and tastes of women are somewhat different than mens.

Case presents special problems as both sexes eat the same meal, but by substituting certain items with others a list of menus agreeable to both men and women has been worked out, he said.

This year the Brody dormitories have initiated a breakfast entree choice policy.

Each of the six dining areas offers a different entree. A student, by going to the same dining room every morning, can have eggs for breakfast every day. By going to another dining room he can have pancakes or rolls or a meat entree.

Smith said he thought the new breakfast policy was working out very well. He said that Shaw residents wanted to have a similar choice but Shaw facilities are not set up to handle such a situation.

Smith said that students complain more in the winter about the food than in other seasons.

They probably complain as a way of letting off steam.

Thorburn said that the cost for feeding a student is about $1.15 per day. This cost compares favorably with hospitals, schools, and other institutions serving food to large numbers of people, he said.

Duffey Outlines Literature Meet

The second annual literature conference sponsored by the college of science and arts, the school for advanced graduate studies, and the department of English is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Kellogg Center.

Purpose of the conference is to provide an opportunity for investigation of the many questions raised by twentieth-century writing and its study Bernard Duffey, professor of English and conference director, said.

Eleven distinguished scholars, writers and editors have been invited to offer remarks for discussion, Duffey said. The conference attempts to create the fullest participation by all those who attend, he added.

Particular emphasis will be given to the works written within the past 15 years Duffey said.

This is a national conference, Duffey said, anyone, critics, writers, teachers, or interested persons are welcome to attend. He said there is no registration or other fees for the conference.

Duffey said last year's conference attended by persons from 14 states and Canada was very successful. He said about 125 persons are expected to attend this year.

Duffey said one of the highlights of the conference will be a poetry reading by Miss Denise Levortov, a young poet whose work has achieved a great deal of recent recognition.

Wood, Mattson Honored Swimmers Name Captains

By LIZ HYMAN
Of The State News Staff

Mike Wood and Jeff Mattson were elected captains of Michigan State's 1963 swimming team at the team's annual banquet Saturday. It was the first time in six years that co-captains had been selected.

Mattson, Olympia, Wash. junior, swims the 50-yard freestyle and the 200-yd. backstroke.

Wood, Jackson junior, swims the 100 and 220-yd. freestyle. Both were members of the Spartans 400-yd. freestyle relay team which took the NCAA title this year.

Dick Gretzinger, who swims the individual medley, was awarded the Porpoise Fraternity trophy which goes to the outstanding freshman swimmer.

Mattson also was the recipient of the Matt Kaplan award for the most improved swimmer of the season.

The Frederick Stillman Coaches Award went to the record breaking 400-yd. freestyle relay team of Mattson, Wood, Doug Rowe and Bill Wood.

Sophomore Bill Driver, who swims the breaststroke, was awarded the Oilcan award for his humorous antics during the season.

Dick Brackett, 400-yd. freestyler copped the senior scholarship award for maintaining the nity Memorial Award. This honor, voted by the team, is based on ability, most scoring, sportsmanship, loyalty, leadership, scholarship and dependability.

This award went to Captain Carl Shaar. Shaar, a senior from Lancaster, Penn., swims the butterfly events.

He won the same trophy a year ago.

Also honored at the banquet were the five departing seniors who include Shaar, Rowe, Brackett, Dick Blazewski and Jurgen Matt.

Coach Charles McCaffree served as the master of ceremonies.

State Golfers Beat Weather Win Seventh Straight Match

Neither Notre Dame, Southern Illinois or a tornado could halt the Spartan golf team as it won its sixth and seventh straight matches at South Bend Monday.

Dan Townsend was medalist for the second straight match with a 73-69 for a 36 hole total of 142 as State downed the Irish 2 1/2-1 1/2 and Southern Illinois 2 1/2-7 1/2.

The match was delayed for about an hour and a half during the afternoon 18 when a tornado struck the Notre Dame course and the golfers headed for shelter.

Some of them dove into sand traps and others gathered in the wooden shelters around the course said coach John Brotzmann.

Brotzmann said the twister was not upright but the funnel was on its side and went along shearing off trees. He estimated that about 50 trees were blown over or damaged.

Everyone eventually went to the club house to wait out the storm. It was a good thing because some of the course shelters were crushed by falling trees.

The tornado must of helped as two Spartan golfers broke par in the afternoon Townsend and Tom Early both had 69's.

CHIP SHOTS — Gary Barrett was one Spartan golfer who hated to see the tornado strike. He was five under par for fiveholes, three birdies a bogey and an eagle, when the twister hit. After the wait he finished the ninth in 35, one under par.

Barrett also did some fancy footwork during the tornado. He is the lightest man on the squad and heading for the clubhouse the wind caught hold of his umbrella. Brotzmann said it was the fastest he'd ever seen Barrett move trying to keep up with his umbrella.

Jim Neumann, making his first trip with the golf team also had wind problems with his umbrella. Neumann, being on the opposite end of the weight scale from Barrett, turned his umbrella inside out and it collapsed. Tom Early had the distinction of shooting the Spartans highest and lowest 18. His morning 78 was high and his afternoon 69 tied for low.

Next for the Spartans is Wisconsin at Forest Akers Golf

CRAM COURSE NO. 4 BATHYMETRY

Continuing our series of pre-final exam cram courses, today we take up bathymetry—the study of ocean depths.

Admittedly, this is not a terribly popular course on most campuses. And is not wonder. In the whole world there is only one bathyscape, and only two people can get into it.

Nevertheless, the study of ocean depths is of great importance. Why, do you realize that the ocean is by far the world's largest biological environment? The ocean has more than three hundred times as much living room as all the continents and islands combined! Unfortunately, only fishes live in it.

And small wonder. Who'd want to live some place where he couldn't smoke? Surely not I! I wouldn't give up my good Marlboro Cigarettes for the Atlantic and the Pacific put together. Nothing could induce me to forego Marlboro's fine mellow flavor, Marlboro's clean white filter, Marlboro's flip-top box that really flips, Marlboro's soft pack that's really soft. Let others repair to the spacious deeps. Me, I will stick with my Marlboros and the tiny garret I share with a tympant.

But I digress. Back to the oceans. The largest, as we know, is the Pacific, which was discovered by Balboa, a Spaniard of great vision. To give you an idea of Balboa's vision, he first saw the Pacific while standing on a peak in Darien, which is in Connecticut.

Even more astounding, when Balboa reached San Francisco, he clearly saw the Hawaiian Islands! Being, as we know, a friendly cuss, Balboa waved merrily to the Hawaiians and shouted, "Great little ocean you got here, kids!" The Hawaiians, also, as we know, friendly cusses, waved back, declared a half holiday, organized a luau, built a cheery fire over which they prepared several gallons of poi, a suckling pig, and Captain Cook. This, of course, was the origin of Cooking.

YOUNG MODERNS—STREET LEVEL, EAST LANSING

Who'd want to love there?

But I digress. The Pacific, I say, is the largest ocean and also the deepest. The Mindanao Trench, off the Philippines, measures more than 5,000 fathoms in depth. (It should be pointed out here that ocean depths are measured in fathoms—lengths of six feet—after Sir Walter Fathom, a noted British sea measure of the seventeenth century who, upon his twenty-first birthday, was given a string six feet long with which he used to go scampering all over England measuring sea water until he was arrested for loitering. A passion for measuring seems to have run in the family; Fathom's cousin, Sir Sol Furlong, spent all his waking hours measuring race tracks until Charles II had him beheaded in honor of the opening of the London School of Economics.)

But I digress. Let us, as the poet Masfield said, go down to the seas again. (The seas, incidentally, have ever been a favorite subject for poets and composers.) Who does not remember Tennyson's "Break, break, break"? Or Byron's "Roll on, thou dark and deep blue ocean, roll"? Or the many hearty sea chanteys that have enriched our folk music—songs like "Sailing Through Kansas" and "I'll Swab Your Deck If You'll Swab Mine" and "The Artificial Respiration Polka." My own favorite sea chanty goes like this:

A girl loved a sailor and he did jilt her,
And she did weep and roar-ho!
Until she found a perfect filter,
And a perfect smoke—Marlboro!

Sing hey, sing ho, sing ring-a-ding-ding,
Sing tars and spars and patches,
Sing pack and box and lots to fibe,
And don't forget the matches!

The landlocked smokers of Marlboro wish you smooth sailing through your final exams and smooth smoking with Marlboro, of course. Have YOU settled back with a Marlboro lately?

Keplers Place Second

The Michigan State Union bowling team finished second to Illinois in the team competition at the 14th Annual Big Ten Bowling Tournament at Ann Arbor on Saturday.

State totaled 2818 pins to Illinois' 2872.

Illinois got off to a fast start in the first game and led State more than 80 pins. MSU came back in the second and third games to close the gap only 10 pins with three frames to go.

Michigan State was led by Hank Kief's 621 and Bob Hanson's 578. Hanson also placed sixth in singles with 588 and fifth in all-events with a total of 1754.

Also placing high in doubles were Jerry Eiseley and Richard Simmons with 1144.

Terry's Talkin'

A new attraction will be added to this year's Old Timers' game. May 12 will find the Varsity Alumni club sponsoring a Hall of Fame which will honor Michigan sportswriters and sportscasters.

George S. Alderton, sports editor of the Lansing State Journal for the past 40 years, will be the first to be enshrined.

Alderton is the man who named Michigan State athletic teams American in 1926. The induction presentation will be made on the field before the game.

Alderton has done much to develop sports activities in the state of Michigan on the high school, college and pro levels.

Each spring new members will be inducted into the Hall of Fame. The presentations will be made at the Old Timers' games.

Al Dorow, New York Titans quarterback and former MSU All-American, said Monday that he looks forward every year to the Old Timers' game more than any other game.

Dorow spoke at a luncheon at Kellogg Center which kicked off a promotional tour of the state that he and Dan Currie are making for the game.

Currie is also a former MSU All-American. He is a lineman for the NFL's World champion Green Bay Packers.

"This year's Old Timers will be the best team yet," said Dorow. "Our defense will average 275 pounds per man, and our offense will average over 245."

Dorow was quarterback in the Munn era while Currie played under Duffy Daugherty, MSU's present football coach.

"The spring game is just like your family coming home for the holidays," said Biggie Munn, ex-coach and present athletic director.

There will be over 55 players on the Old Timers' squad this year, according to Daugherty. Of these, about 20 will be last year's seniors.

Duffy said the game will be played under "former college" rules -- free substitution. He promises an exciting game.

"The thing is, the kind of players we have at State, none of them like to lose -- even when they come back to play," he said.

"It is a great training period for my boys to get hit by pros. It gives spring practice an added incentive. It also gives our pass defense a workout," he added kiddingly. "Dorow only runs eight to ten plays all game."

COACHES MEET--Duffy Daugherty (left) discusses opposing strategies with Old Timers' coaches Don Currie and Al Dorow. Dorow will be the Old Timers' head coach while Currie will handle the defensive line duties. The discussion took place in the Galaxy room of Kellogg Center after the kick-off luncheon for sportswriters and sportscasters. The luncheon was the beginning of a barnstorming tour of the state by Dorow and Currie to publicize the Old Timers game with the MSU varsity May 12.

Amu Shows Em'

In the Michigan Open track meet at Ann Arbor Saturday, Abdul Amu, a Michigan State grad student had the honor of being the only contestant to win two first places.

Amu, a former South African track athlete of the year, won the 100 yd. dash in 9.8 seconds and took the 220 yd. dash in 21.9.

GREAT DOUBLE EAGLE

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—The assistant pro at Rockrimmon Country Club in Stamford claims the record for golf's longest double eagle.

Joe Morozan, playing the 547-yard 14th, used a 3-wood to belt his second shot 260 yards into the hole. The most famous double eagle previously known was made by Gene Sarazen, a former Connecticut champion, who holed it on the 520-yard 15th hole of the 1935 Masters.

A double eagle, which is three under par for a single hole, ranks as golf's second most unusual feat -- behind a hole-in-one.

Tomado Halts State-N. Dame Baseball Game

A tornado struck South Bend, Ind. Monday night and canceled Tuesday's game between Michigan State and Notre Dame.

State was supposed to leave by bus Tuesday morning but Irish Coach Jake Kline called beforehand and told John Kobs, Spartan coach, that playing conditions were impossible.

The game has been rescheduled for May 26.

The canceled Irish game leaves State without a warm-up before its important three game clash with Michigan this weekend.

Meanwhile, the University of Detroit Tuesday handed the Wolverines a 5-1 defeat in a rain-shortened game.

It was Detroit's 10th straight victory of the season.

Pete Craig, picking up his fourth win for the Titans, held the defending Big Ten champs to only three hits over 5-1/2 innings before heavy rains forced an end to play.

Knapp's Salutes Michigan State University for recognition of our 50th State, HAWAII!

Our Aloha Week be the great success that it deserves! It is a fitting tribute on the part of our great university to our newest state... and a wonderful exhibition by its Hawaiian students to acquaint all of us with the wonderful things their state has to offer as well as their manners and customs.

Our congratulations to Roy Tokujo, one of 14 Hawaiian students at State, who conceived the Aloha Week Celebration, and to the hundreds of Michigan Staters who are earnestly working on committees.

Knapp's, East Lansing, is pleased to be a part of this major celebration and looks forward to its success.

Let's all enter into the spirit of Aloha Week! Knapp's has a Hawaiian Lei for you to wear with our compliments.

Bell Ringers Solid Hit At MSU Men's Club

Spartan Bell Ringers received enthusiastic applause and praise for an excellent half hour of entertainment by MSU Men's Club members at their weekly luncheon Tuesday.
 Members listened intently and smiles crossed their faces as the nine students shook each bell with gusto in six numbers which ranged from the serious to Dixieland.
 The numbers included "Chopsticks", "Music Box", "La Cucaracha", "Five feet Two", "Stars and Stripes Forever", and "In a Swiss Clock Shop", a number written especially for bell ringing.
 The music was colored with a great deal of action. The exuberant bell ringing of Mary Ann Paul, Manchester sophomore added even more punch to the highly entertaining performance.
 Wendell Westcott, assistant professor of music and director of the group, told members that a great deal of timing and precision is necessary in playing the bells. Each person must ring a particular bell at just the right moment, he said.
 The ringers grab bells with speed, their arms shooting under the arms of others to pick the right bell for the right note.
 To demonstrate that bell ringing can be done by almost everyone, Westcott asked club mem-

perpetual motion?

Not! But scientists and engineers at Ford's research and scientific labs do deal in perpetual notions -- and they have more than a few about what might be commonplace in the future, some of them just as startling.

Studies at Ford involving new energy sources and improved materials may help bring jet-propelled cars with gyro stabilizers... automatic driving controls... flying automobiles and wheel-less vehicles that glide on a cushion of air... vehicles propelled by atomic energy... plastics with the strength of conventional metals... adhesives that replace welding... radar and other electronic controls to assist or replace the driver in many situations.

Basic studies in these and other fields are just part of a continuing program of progress, aimed at reinforcing Ford's leadership through scientific research and engineering.

Student's Court Case On Drug Sale Dropped

A prosecuting attorney requested and won dismissal of a two-count warrant charging a Michigan State student with unlawful sale of a drug, Monday in Ingham County Circuit Court. Elliot Fruhling, Long Beach, N. Y. was accused of selling amphetamine, a type of pep pill, to another youth, without a license last Dec. 7, in East Lansing.

A second count alleged disorderly conduct by the sale of the drug.

Leo Farhat, prosecutor, said the accused was not aware of a recently passed law controlling sale of the drug. He said that Fruhling received no profit from the sale.
