

Old Timers Performance

The State News is disappointed in the poor performance put on by the dazzling array of All-Americans and active professional football players at the Old Timers football game last weekend.

We feel that the fans who paid $.50 to $1.50 were cheated because they were deprived of seeing the "so-called name players" at their best. We admit it is off-season for active pros and the first they have played since the regular season. For others, it was probably the first time they had a football uniform on since the last Old Timers clash last year.

However, pre-game festivities the night before seemed to have had a great effect on the playing ability of the players. There were reports that the Friday night pre-game party lasted until 5 Saturday morning, just hours before game time. There were other reports that beer was consumed in the locker room before the game.

Football coach Duffy Daugherty realized that his team's 31-6 triumph was sort of a fluke. "The game was a false barometer," he said.

Let the alumni have their fun, but not at the expense of thousands of paying customers who want to see a well-played game.

Senior Swingout

Senior Swingout, one of MSU's finest traditions takes place Saturday afternoon at 2:15. The seniors will gather at Beaumont Tower and walk to the Auditorium behind the marching band.

The system has changed from past years when seniors gathered at their respective colleges around Circle Drive and then joined the group as they marched by.

Another innovation is the opening of the convocation to all parents, students, faculty members guests. This will give many persons an opportunity to hear President John A. Hannah speak.

The program has been designed with the parents and students in mind. This is the reason for holding it on Parent's Weekend--when more persons whose children are graduating can hear the President.

Bob Cantrell, the active senior class president, is responsible for the changes and updating of the program. He shows thought, an awareness of attendance problems and a realistic attempt at solutions.

The students and other members of the University community should support the Swingout by attending. It is an excellent tradition and much work has gone into year's program. The Swingout is worthwhile and should be preserved.

Academic Competition

Oscar Handlin, history professor at Harvard has written a sharp indictment of one of the many vulnerable aspects of the American educational system. In the May issue of The Atlantic magazine, Handlin expresses his concern about the stifling competitive atmosphere in the colleges where grade emphasis tends to destroy broader educational values.

Some of Handlin's remarks are applicable to Michigan State. Others, however are way off the target.

Handlin sees this competition, or "process of subversion" as he calls it, being manifested in many ways. The competitive race begins early in high school, when students start setting their sights on a desirable college. Immediately, their task is to train themselves for those all-important College Boards.

As these young people enter college, they find new hurdles, i.e., stronger competition at a faster pace.

"The cruelty of the contest is clearest in courses which establish grades on the basis of a statistical distribution curve. No matter how hard they work, or how able they are, one-half of the class will fall below the average. Each student, therefore, finds himself involved in a struggle with his neighbor, whose success will drag him down."

Grades are important. Consequently, students are forced to use tactics. They "tiptoe gingerly through the curriculum, weighing all the angles." Students attend summer school because instructors are inclined to be more pliable when the temperature rises. "And only the reckless will dare not to know the right answers as the grader expects them, or allow questions to draw their thinking in unexpected directions."

This tremendous emphasis which our educational system places on grades is a "distorted emphasis." And that is the real discouraging part about it.

The process leads to a situation where exceptionally talented students are forced to conform.

"These young people secure an admirable training in the techniques of the correct answer. They learn to remember; to be accurate, neat and cautious. But they are rarely called on to use their ability autonomously or speculatively, to deal with situations in which the answers are not known but must be discovered."

Nor does the instructor escape from the clutches of the system. He has thrust upon him an unconventional role. "His function as a teacher becomes subsidiary to that of the grader; he is judge rather than counselor."

Michigan State also boasts the seemingly indispensable curving system which allots a certain percentage of A's, B's and F's; the students likewise use tactics --getting the right professor, etc.; unusually brilliant students are thwarted by pressure to conform to the classroom norm or face the consequences.

However, Handlin is off beam when he writes:

"The young people who brood in their rooms, who forget to come down to the dining hall, and who burst out in fits of irrationality are not worrying about who will win the game or who will come to the dance or be tapped for the fraternity. Joe College is dead. His successors are immersed in their books and laboratories, and their concern is for the grade..."

Professor Handlin should come out of his crimson Harvard shell on the banks of the Charles River. For Joe College is not dead in the Midwest; students still flock to the stadium Saturday and hold pep rallies Friday night; enthusiasts still hope to wear that fraternity pin; and the weekend twist sessions are more popular than ever.

Letters To The Editor

On I.Q. Tests, 'Pseudo', Etc.

To the Editor:

Dr. Brookover, as reported in the May 10 News, presents with clarity and force a straw man which he then proceeds to demolish with great skill and relish. While I have an inherent respect for his personal views, I submit that Dr. Brookover has been less than academically honest in presenting a distorted picture of the function of an "I. A. score" on the college level.

1. College entrance exams are NOT "I. Q. tests" and that these exams should more accurately be called tests of academic ability. There does, however, appear to be a moderately high correlation between such exams and the general mental ability as reflected in the "I. Q. score."

2. The increasing pressure for more college trained personnel, coupled with the reluctance of our society to pay the cost of such education, demands some attempt on the part of the universities to screen out obvious and/or potential failures so as to best utilize available facilities.

With such demand, we can ill-afford a high drop-out or flunk-out rate, and surely Dr. Brookover would not care to lecture to a class of 300 students, as a result of indiscriminate admission policies.

It seems to me one cannot have it both ways: given the present state of higher education in this country, one can have quality education or mass education (with the consequent debasement of the academic for the utilitarian). There does not appear to be widespread stampeding toward the former alternative.

3. College students are not, to the best of my knowledge, "segregated on the basis of high-school intelligence" unless by this he means to refer to the distinction between is an arbitrary one.

If Dr. Brookover means to refer to the segregation of the quality students from other students by the higher admission standards of some school as compared to other, I cannot see his point. I count myself a humanist, but I feel it is carrying egalitarianism to an extreme to hope that Yale will offer an E. A. in Mobile Homes in the future.

4. Since no one has ever managed a definition of "creativity" acceptable to a majority of psychologists, educators or artists.

I find myself wondering about the meaning of a negative correlation between high "I.Q. scores" (somewhat unstable over time) and "creativity" (an unknown quality itself perhaps a constellation of sub-qualities). Surely he understands the folly of failing to define precisely experimental variables.

I agree with Dr. Brookover that it is indefensible to segregate Negroes and Whites. I agree that social scientists ought to study conditions favorable for learning. I also agree that there is merit in a line of argument that ignores a reliable body of factual material to establish points that are misleading and inappropriate.

While the college testing program doubtless results in a number of "false positives" as well as "false negatives," it still appears to be more useful than no testing at all.

Gratitude

To the Editor:

This letter, addressed to Jerry Blanke, expresses the gratitude that we of the Water Carnival Executive Committee feel should be given to one who has worked so hard and has done such an outstanding job.

Dear Jerry:

As the hours fly by before the culmination of months of your hard work are seen in a finished show, we would like to stop for a minute from our duties and reflect.

Five months ago at the first Executive Council meeting of Water Carnival, you gave us the old pep talk and said "I live Water Carnival." We have found in the succeeding months that this is true.

We feel that you, as the General Chairman, have been subjected to a great deal of unfair criticism -- primarily from those who are ignorant of any information about Water Carnival.

The big difference which is noticeable in Water Carnival this year is a real esprit de corps among all of those working on the show.

Each and everyone of us feels that not only have our efforts become part of the 1962 Water Carnival, but above all PSEUDO has become a part of us as individuals. It is easily visible that those of us connected with the show have a tremendous pride in the results of our efforts. There is no other explanation for this than that you have been successful in coordinating the efforts of the varied groups that you have had to work with, and above all in imparting to us your own dedication to Water Carnival -- not only financially but artistically as well.

Finally, as the representatives of Water Carnival among the student body, we have had the opportunity to hear innumerable comments about the fine way in which the show is being handled this year. In essence, the real feeling of quality about PSEUDO, 1962. This can be construed in no other way than as a personal compliment to you.

You can take real pride in the results of the past twelve months, and we would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to you for your leadership and incentive. You have created what will be not only the most successful, but not only the biggest, but undoubtedly the very finest Water Carnival that Michigan State has ever seen.

Sincerely,
The Executive Committee of Water Carnival

Advertising

To the Editor:

In reference to the "Luau Post Mortem" in the May 11 issue of the State News, my personal reaction is--"Speak for yourself."

For a newspaper which had 22 advertisements in it for that one issue, I wouldn't go around slapping other organizations in the face because they advertise. You say they're "setting a precedent of private business running campus events..." I'd like to see the State News operate without any advertisements for private businesses!

Furthermore, the Luau was started and run by students, with professional assistance, not the other way around.

If the editor has such strong objections to professionally-organized activities (much less professionally assisted ones), he'd better come up with objections to the Lecture-Concert series and the World Travel, which are organized by the professional people involved. Otherwise, he owes the Luau committee an apology.

Hairy Legs

By BEN BURNS

With the advent of warmer weather most of the male populace of the university has blossomed out in Bermuda shorts. Hairy legs are everywhere.

A few brave females have joined the throng and worn their Bermudas to class, but on the whole the girls have stuck to the rather antiquated ruling that shorts are taboo in the library, classes and administrative offices.

I have nothing against the "hairy legs" wearing Bermudas. The weather is hot and it makes concentration on studies a little easier when a person is not sweltering.

However, it would seem that the girls should be allowed the same privileges. They should be permitted to wear Bermudas to class and the library just like the men.

There are a number of reasons why the women should be given equal rights in the line of clothing regulations.

The immediate rationale, however, is that when you dress a woman in pants she immediately loses her self respect and her pride in womanhood.

If we assume the average college woman has a normal amount of intelligence, I'm sure they wouldn't abuse the privilege of wearing Bermudas.

I agree that some girls go far in their interpretation of shorts, but Bermudas are not out of line with rules of propriety.

The other big reason for equality is that girl's legs are much more attractive than men's legs anyway, and if we have campus beauty in mind, perhaps we ought to ban men's Bermudas.

Several solutions to the problem are available. The logical alternative would be to liberalize the ruling to the extent that girls are allowed to wear Bermuda-type shorts to class and the library during warm weather.

Another is to have the men shave their legs and thus rid the campus of the hairy legs. However, the men might not take kindly to shearing off this example of their masculinity.

A third would be to ban the male populace of the university from wearing Bermudas shorts. This is unfeasible.

Admittedly, this is a tongue-in-cheek approach to a very real problem. Some girls ignore the ruling and take the chance of being asked to leave the classroom. Others suffer silently through classes and avoid the library, but wear shorts where ever permissible.

Actually modern skirt lengths are not a great deal longer than Bermuda lengths, but they are a great deal warmer.

Let's do away with the present shorts system and make Bermudas legal in class and the library.

Housing rules have been updated and are due to be modified. I hope it doesn't take a faculty-student committee change the rules on shorts; a committee could take all summer.

DeGaulle's Delusion Of French Power

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Charles De Gaulle continues his rebellion against the Anglo-American monopoly of control over the nuclear defenses of Europe and against any thought of changing the Allied position in Berlin.

The French President staged what appears to have been a carefully arranged press conference Tuesday, with pat answers prepared for a set of questions following a brief preliminary statement. You have to search beneath the surface for much that is new, and even then you find little.

Unfortunately for the aging De Gaulle, his voice could barely be heard against the beating of tom toms in Southeast Asia. He still seems to be relying upon misconceptions about French power and what it might produce.

To oversimplify, he now classes the dissolution of the French empire as a "disengagement" so that France can concentrate on development of her own strength, particularly nuclear strength, for a return to great power status.

He publicly confesses the right of the United States, point on which President Kennedy seems to be adamant, to conduct exploratory negotiations with the Communists over Berlin, but reaffirms his entente with West Germany against giving these negotiations any substance. Berlin's status has been established once, he says, by the World War II victors, and no change is required or desirable.

In that he is supported by a considerable official system in Britain and the United States, but not in the White House at 10 Downing St.

Where De Gaulle gets on the most questionable ground is his thought that, if France can have an independent nuclear deterrent, she will become once more automatically, a great power.

First, one requirement for classification as a great power is national unity, which France does not have and has not had for many years.

Today De Gaulle is forced to maintain the appearance of a strong France and a strong government by what are, for France or any democracy, most extreme police measures.

Despite withdrawals from Algeria, France has not participated with her allies in the defense buildup in Germany.

There is also a suspicion in some quarters that despite the knowhow of atomic weaponry, France lacks the people, the space and the industrial capacity either for establishment of a nuclear force or its use as a great deterrent.

And you can bet one thing: French nuclear power will contribute to strengthening the Franco-German entente upon which De Gaulle and Adenauer depend so heavily in their relations with Britain and the United States. It will produce hard, resistable demands from the Germans, to Britain and the United States, for equality, just as it would in France if the situation were reversed.

Pole Vault Record Is Sure To Fall At Big Ten Meet

The 62nd annual Big Ten Track and Field Outdoor Championships begin Friday afternoon at Purdue University.

Five champions return to Lafayette to defend six titles and at least one conference record is a sure bet to fall. The record in danger is Don Laz's 11-year-old pole vault mark of 14'10". Since Michigan's Rod Dehart has consistently cleared 15' this year, a new standard could easily be set.

The only athlete holding two titles is Wolverine Ergas Lepa. He won both the half-mile and mile run at the outdoor meet and swept both again in the indoor meet at East Lansing last March.

Michigan's other titleist is crack hurdler Bonnie McRae. He will be hard pressed, however, to repeat in the highs this year since he will be facing Wisconsin's Larry Howard, the man who took away both his indoor crowns last March.

In the broad jump, ailing Deryck Taylor of Illinois who last year, may not be able to defend but at least four 24' plus men will be there.

The sprinters are headlined by such performers as Purdue's Nate Adams (9.3), Michigan State's John Parker in the 220 and 440, (20.6 and 46.6), Wisconsin's Elsie Higginbottom (46.2), Michigan's Mac Hunter, (20.3 and 9.5).

Bill Frazier of Iowa with his 1:30.2 half and teammate Jim Tucker with a 4:11.2 mile will challenge Lepa.

Michigan State's Herman Johnson has the best mark in the 220 yd. low hurdles, a 23.3 mark. Iowa's relay team cracked off a 3:12.7 mile and their two mile men had done 9:23.3.

Indoor conference champs Wisconsin is rated the favorite with tough competition expected from Michigan and Michigan State.

Bowling Green Players Bribed In MSU Game

New York -- District Attorney Frank Hogan disclosed Thursday that former Columbia basketball star Jack Molinas was under arrest for heading a "ring" that corrupted collegiate basketball.

Molinas was indicted on five counts, three for bribery of former Bowling Green University player Bill Reed. Hogan said that in addition to the bribery counts involving Reed, one of the overt acts alleged payments of $500 to Reed and teammate Tom Falentano to dump a game with MSU played in East Lansing on Dec. 3, 1959.

The deal was for Bowling Green to lose by eight or more points. The final score was Michigan State 96, Bowling Green 67. All in all, the alleged conspiracy involved 22 players at 12 colleges, in an attempt to fix 25 contests.

Dook Has Mellowed

CINCINNATI (AP)—Duke Snider, the Los Angeles Dodgers' great outfielder, admits he has mellowed with the years.

He also says his love for baseball is that of a rookie and he hopes to continue playing as long as he can hit and field creditably.

A one-time firebrand, Snider says: "I get a lot of fun and a lot of satisfaction playing with the Dodgers. I did have more fun when the club was playing in Brooklyn."

"But a lot of those players and I were together a long time, and of the same age. The fellows on the club now are younger."

The Duke, who is approaching 36, wants to play "as long as I am able to do the job and can help win."

Would he be interested in coaching and later managing a major league team? "Yes," says the Dook emphatically.

Big Ten Tourney Attracts Golfers

Michigan State's golf team travels to Champaign Ill., Friday and Saturday to take part in the Big Ten tournament.

The Spartans go into the meet with a 11-2 season record behind them and a revised line-up.

Coach John Brotzmann substituted Lew McDaniel in place of Tom Gorman after the Spartans poor showing at Ann Arbor last week end.

Brotzmann inserted McDaniel in the line-up and then ordered a play-off between Gorman and Tom Early for the last team position which Early won with a 76.

Big 10 Tennis

MINNEAPOLIS, (AP) -- Defending champion and top-seeded Ray Senkowski of Michigan scored preliminary and first-round victories in No.1 singles as the Big Ten Tennis tournament opened here Thursday.

Senkowski whipped Tom Boatman of Illinois 8-6, 7-5 and Gary Baxter of Indiana, 6-1, 7-5.

No. 2 seeded Marty Riessen of Northwestern, a member of the 1961 U.S. Davis Cup team, won his first-round match over Brian Eisner, Michigan State, 6-2, 6-1.

No Round Robin For Big 10 Football

LAFAYETTE, Ind., (AP) -- Official approval by both leagues of the "open end" pact, similar to the one which expired in 1960 between the Big Ten and the defunct Pacific Coast Conference, was regarded as a mere formality Thursday.

The pact would begin with the New Year's Day game and would include a no-repeat stipulation for a Big Ten representative.

Receipt of the contract was disclosed by Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed at the opening session of the conference's spring meeting, in which the athletic leaders formally dropped the Big Ten's proposed round robin football schedule, tabbed to begin in 1969.

As result of shelving the so-called progressive grid schedule, the conference -- after the 1964 season -- will have a fixed minimum of seven conference games within a 10-game over all framework.

The Big Ten currently plays a nine-game over all schedule with a six-game conference minimum.

CRAM COURSE NO. 5: SHAKESPEARE

Continuing our series of pre-final exam cram courses, today we take up the works of William Shakespeare (or "The Bard of Avon," as he is jocularly called).

First let us examine the persistent theory that Shakespeare (or "The Pearl of the Antilles" as he is affectionately referred to) is not the real author of his plays. Advocates of this theory insist that the plays are so full of classical allusions and learned references that they couldn't possibly have been written by the son of an illiterate country butcher.

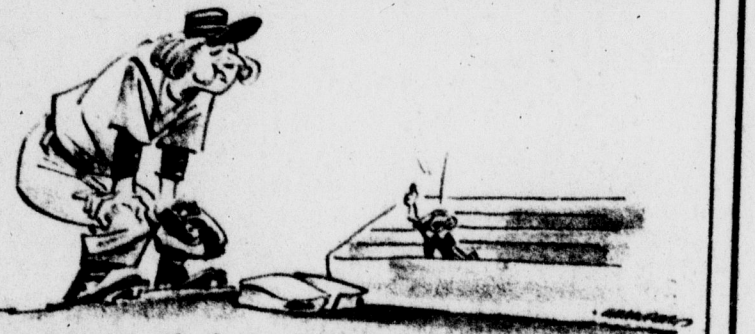

To which I reply, "Fugh!" Was not the great Spinoza's father a humble woodcutter? Was not the immortal Isaac Newton's father a simple second baseman? (The elder Newton, incidentally, is one of history's truly pathetic figures. He was, by all accounts, the greatest second baseman of his time, but baseball, alas, had not yet been invented.) It used to break young Isaac's heart to see his father get up every morning, put on uniform, spikes, glove, and cap, and stand alertly behind second base, bent forward, eyes narrowed, waiting, waiting, waiting. That's all--waiting. Isaac loyally sat in the bleachers and yelled, "Good show, Dad!" and stuff like that, but every once in a while he would see his father, the Newtons with overripe fruit--figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger. Thus, as we all know, the famous occasion came about when Isaac Newton, struck in the head with an apple, leapt to his feet, shouted, "Europa!" and announced the third law of motion: "For every action there is an opposite and equal reaction!"

(How profoundly true these simple words are! Take, for example, Marlboro Cigarettes. Light one. That's the action. Now what is the reaction? Pleasure, delight, contentment, cheer, and comfort! And why such a happy reaction? Because you have started with a happy cigarette--a felicitous blend of jolly tobacco, a good-natured filter, a rollicking flip-top box, a merry soft pack. As Newton often said, "You begin with better makin', you end with better smokin'." Small wonder they called him "The Swedish Nightingale!")

But I digress. Back to Shakespeare (or "The Gem of the Ocean" as he was ribaldly appaled).

Shakespeare's most important play is, of course, Hamlet (or Marbeth, as it is sometimes called). This play tells in living color the story of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, who one night sees a ghost upon the battlements. (Possibly it is a goal he sees: I have a first folio edition that is frankly not too legible.) Anyhow, Hamlet is so upset by seeing the ghost (or goat) that he steals Polonius and Bare Bodkin. He is thereupon banished to a leather factory by the King, who cries, "Get thee to a tannery!" Thereupon Ophelia refuses her food until Laertes shouts, "Get thee to a beanery!" Ophelia is so miffed that she chases her little dog out of the room, crying, "Out, out damned Spot!" She is fined fifty shillings for swearing, but Portia, in an eloquent plea, gets the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Thereupon King Lear and Queen Mab proclaim a festival--complete with amateur theatricals, kissing games, and a pie-eating contest. Everyone has a perfectly splendid time till Banquo's ghost (or goat) shows up. This so unhinges Richard III that he drowns his cousin, Butt Malmsey. This leads to a lively discussion during which everyone is killed. The little dog Spot returns to utter the immortal curtain lines:

*Alack, the play forsooth was sad and sobby,
But be of cheer--there's Marlboro in the lobby!*

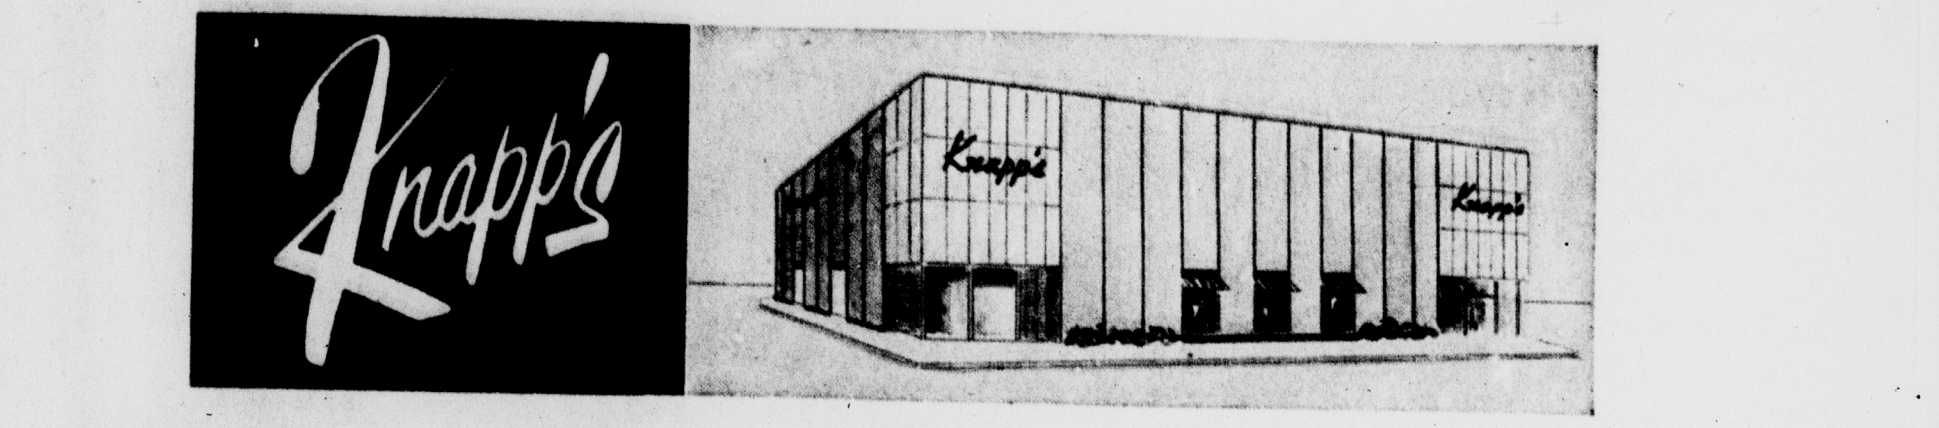

But baseball, alas, had not yet been invented.

As the slings and arrows of outrageous finals loom closer, perchance the makers of Marlboro are not untoward to offer this friendly suggestion: Get thee to a library!

Bill Myers and Linda Dickson

Weeks Seniors: Dickson, Myers

Linda Dickson, Kalamazoo art major, and Bill Myers, Hastings psychology major, have been chosen by Senior Council to be seniors of the week.

Linda Dickson has used her artistic abilities in a variety of activities. She has done publicity for Water Carnival, Hawaiian Luau, the Wolverine and SC.

Linda has also served as Block art and publicity chairman, chairman for the J-Hop, program chairman for Greek Week, decorations chairman of Union Week, display chairman of C-Pan Hel Big 10, and member of the "Chaff" art staff.

A member of Sigma Kappa, Linda has been social chairman of her sorority, member of Fresh-Soph Council, Junior Council, and Union Board, and has been active in "Tarot and Dramaturgical sports."

Commenting on her experience here, Linda said, "I expected college to teach me, but learned that you get out of college only what you put into it."

Linda feels that the responsibility for learning rests with the student, not the professor, and that the student can be taught only as much as he is willing to learn.

After graduation this spring, Linda plans to enter the graphic arts field and hopes to do work in commercial art and typography.

Bill Myers has combined his scholarship with leadership in his career at MSU. His scholarship has won him membership in Phi Eta Sigma, Green Helmet, Blue Key, Psi Chi, Tau Sigma, and Honors College.

A member of Delta Tau Delta, Bill has been vice president of the fraternity and has worked as editor of Delta Tau Delta's journal.

Bill's other activities have included being Vice-President of Junior Class, member of Senior Council, Spartan Spirit Board of Directors, Union Board, Water Carnival, and Block art chairman.

Bill has also worked as editor of "Chaff," and assistant night

Manuscripts must bear no identification of any kind as to the writer.

Pipe Smoking New Coed Fad

New Brunswick, N.J., (U-College girls are going in for the manly art of pipe smoking, says the proprietor of a smoke shop.

Sam Watkins says he has sold 100 pipes to women in the past three years. "Mostly Douglass College coeds, I think."

And one coed confessed at the tobacco counter admitted yesterday. "I enjoy a drag on a pipe once in a while."

THIS COULD BE THE MOST COMFORTABLE SUIT YOU WILL EVER WEAR

Rash claim? We think not. Several years ago we set out to produce a traditionally styled suit a man could wear most of the year. It had to be light, well detailed, and above all—comfortable through a variety of seasons (though not designed for winter, some men wear it all around the calendar.) We selected one of America's leading woolen mills—Abbott of New England, who blended fine worsted with the right proportion of DuPont Dacron. Then we cut and snipped and sewed and tailored until we were blue in our corporate face. Finally we knew we had found it—a fine, quiet elegance in styling in a material with a no-nonsense practicality. We made rabbit fins out of doubters with this one. It could happen to you, too. Price: a budget-kind $68.50.

sive Thai, mostly dockworkers, as they came off the ships. But crowds along the streets cheered as the Marines rode in Thai army trucks through the town to the airport.

The popular reaction to the arrival of foreign soldiers had been watched keenly, for the Thai are proud that all of Southeast Asian countries they alone have never been under colonial rule in all modern history.

The Marines seemingly were not bothered at all by the humid heat. Some seemed to take their sudden visit to this land of gold-entwined temples as a lark. Others looked grim and serious.

All the political news from Laos pointed to a resumption of negotiations to create a three-faction government pledged to keep the country neutral.

The United States and other Western powers, the Soviet Union and Red China all have agreed at the Geneva Conference on a policy of a neutral Laos under a neutralist premier, Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Neutralists, the Pathet Lao and the conservative government of Premier Prince Boun Oun and his defense minister, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, all have hedged with conditions, their willingness to negotiate.

of his political adherence. Neither should he be allowed to use his rights in his field of professional specialization to advance his personal political views.

This philosophy has special validity in the case of communism, which is not a political party in the sense we know political parties but which is recognized as an international political conspiracy aiming at world domination through the subversion and overthrow by violence of existing governments, especially our own.

Students need to be taught and to learn about communism; but they should get their facts from faculty members who are competent in the field, and who respect the obligation to tell the full truth. The University never has and never will knowingly invite a communist to preach his treason on our campus, for we see no point in providing a platform for an exponent of communism who is not bound by any obligation to tell the truth.

Under the law, final authority to decide who may use the University's facilities rests with the members of the Board of Trustees as the continuing custodians of the University's welfare and prestige; but faculty members, administrators, and students are equally responsible for the defense of the University's best interests.

Service Council Dinner Scheduled
Students in public health, sociology, social work, psychology, political science and continuing education are invited to attend the annual dinner meeting of the Community Services Council, according to Kay Fuller, public relations coordinator.

The meeting will be held at 6 p.m., May 21, at the Y.W.C.A. Reservations can be made by calling IV 4-1357 before May 18, she said.

The program will include a premiere showing of the council's slide film, "This is Your Business." She said that group discussions will be held on fluoridation, urban renewal, hospital expansion, housing for the elderly, a community health center and a medical social service department at St. Lawrence Hospital in Lansing.

Warren said Stevenson would be allowed to finish his dream house.

Borrows' Dream House
Bedford, England, W-Joe Stevenson, a building foreman, bought two acres in a beautiful Bedfordshire Village on which to build his dream house.

From the building firm he worked for he stole 12,000 bricks, 50 bags of cement, 20 metal window frames, 3 door frames, 21 rolls of rubber roofing, 250 tiles, 2 radiators, 8 blocks of pitch, 20 units of metal decking and 70 insulation boards.

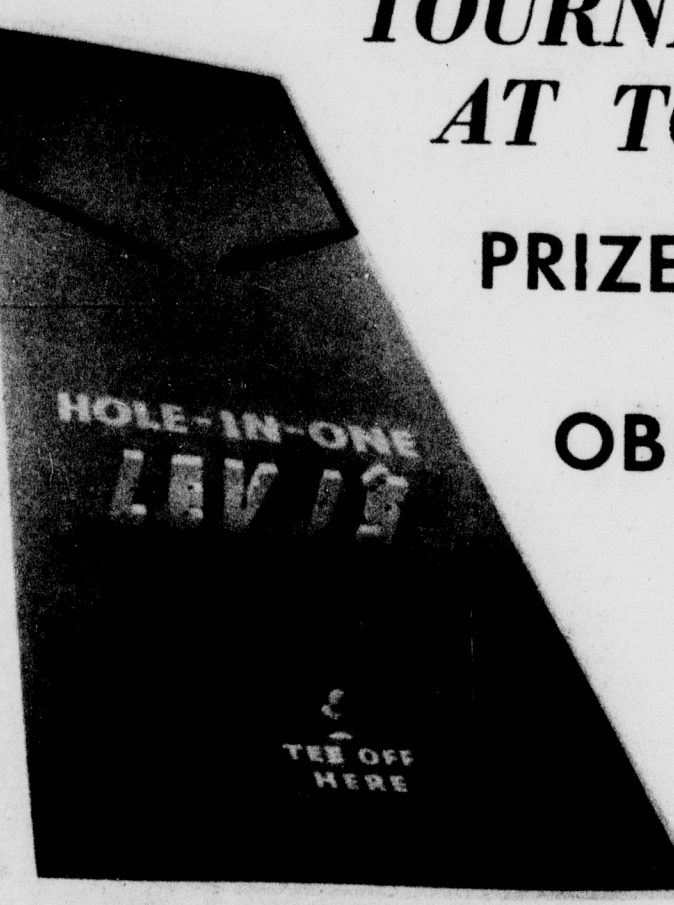

The bungalow was nearly roof-high when Stevenson's employer, William Warton, stopped by the site and recognized the firm's labels on some of the materials.

His employer told the magistrate the firm would like to keep him on, saying: "This man was a prisoner in Japanese hands during the war and scrounging was necessary to life then. Provost's Lecturer Talks on Freedom Fight

Southern Negroes are fighting not only for segregation, but for freedom on a moral and spiritual basis, Rev. C.T. Vivian said Wednesday afternoon in the provost's lecture at the Kiva. Vivian's topic was "The Basis of the Present Drive for Freedom." He is a Negro pastor at the Cosmopolitan Community Church in Chattanooga, Tenn., and is known for his work in the non-violent integration movement in the South. "Our efforts are to bring about a moral basis for the drive in our country," Vivian said. The issue is not desegregation or even integration, but an "ultimate community of love" where people can live as brothers regardless of race, he continued. The freedom drive in the South can't be successful unless the Negroes keep the main issue in view and in mind. "At the center of our movement is the Christian concept of love," he said. He explained that it was a kind of love that can't be destroyed, but is actually a desire to absorb hate by placing personalities in the picket lines and the ballot boxes. Vivian said the whole Negro struggle is against the "evil system" in the South. "We have pitted ourselves against the power structure in the South."

for the freedom of other men. Therefore, we struggle not for ourselves, but for America, too."

Placement Bureau

The South has to make a decision between Christianity and culture, he said, because they have turned their churches into social clubs. "We are forcing action so dignity can come. No man can act in any way that degrades him and still have dignity." The Negroes want freedom, he stated, but they don't want to be accepted on the basis of color. They want to be accepted as God's children. He went on to state that while there are many Southern Negroes not psychologically ready for freedom, that freedom is an inside condition and must be "gained not given." "The truly free man works

Cuts Heart Ills

NEW YORK, (AP) — A preliminary study of 883 men on a diet low in saturated fats shows they have far fewer heart attacks than persons not on any prescribed diet, it was reported this week. It was based on the first four years of a 10-year study the department is making of men 40 to 59 who volunteered to remain on a "prudent diet" low in saturated fats.

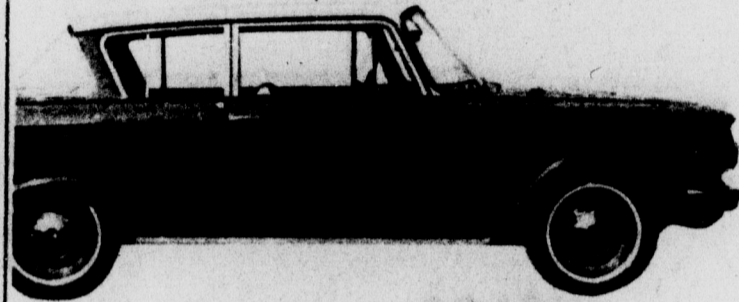

65 Living Units Compete in Junior 500

Sixty-five living units will compete for trophies in the 15th annual Lambda Chi Alpha Junior 500 pushcart races Saturday. Runners will begin racing around West Circle drive at 1:30 p.m. The starting point is near the Women's IM. Each entry is allowed one race cart which must be built to certain specifications. One driver and five pushers will compete from each living unit. Each runner pushes the cart for a quarter of a mile. A special pace car will be used to start each heat and relay the progress of each contestant back to the starting point. Junior 500 Queen, Diane Ricketts and her court will lead the parade of convertibles to the starting line, followed by queens representing each participating living unit. The pre-race parade will begin at the Sigma Kappa house on M.A.C. at 12:15 p.m. Ray Straffon, Junior 500 chairman, said chairmen from each living unit are to meet at the race track pylon at 12:30 to sign in runners. Seven trophies will be awarded in each of three divisions:

men's speed, women's speed, and mixed humorous. A humorous float parade will also be part of the event. Since the race was first initiated on campus in 1948, several other Lambda Chi chapters have started similar events on campuses across the country, Straffon said.

Methodist Church Starts Construction

By JUDY PORTER
Of The State News Staff
The University Methodist Church celebrated its fifth anniversary three weeks early when they broke ground for their new church on Sunday, April 8, at the Wesley Foundation.

The new sanctuary, which is presently under construction, will be located next to the Wesley Foundation at 1120 S. Harrison Rd.

The $1.5 million structure will connect the Wesley Foundation and will have a seating capacity of 800. The design will be modern and similar in architecture to that of the Wesley Foundation.

One outstanding feature of the new building will be a carillon tower reaching 121 feet in height. The bells will show from the street and will be controlled from the church organ.

The Rev. Willson M. Tennant, minister of University Methodist Church since its organization five years ago, said that the new sanctuary is being erected as a tribute to Bishop Marshall R. Reed, the Methodist Bishop from Michigan.

Rev. Tennant said that plans for completion are scheduled for Christmas of 1962 or early in 1963.

The sanctuary is being built by contributions from Methodists all over the state of Michigan and by members of the University Methodist Church.

Earl Confer of Detroit is the architect of the new structure, and Hanel Vance is the general contractor of the building. Both were also responsible for the design and contracting of the Wesley Foundation.

After each of the three regular church sermons, Rev. Tennant held ground breaking ceremonies. Participating in the ceremonies were: Rev. Warren Brown of Mt. Hope; Stephen Rennells, Lay Leader of the Methodist Church; Roy Kramer, President of the Board of Trustees; Theodore Hedricks, Chairman of the Building Committee; and also several students, Margaret Wolsey, Joyce Tarrant, and Robert Thaler.

Former members of University Methodist Church, organized April 28, 1957, came from all over the state of Michigan on April 29 for the fifth anniversary celebration.

The dinner was held after the third church service for all those people who had been a part of the church and in honor of all new members received since the first of the year.

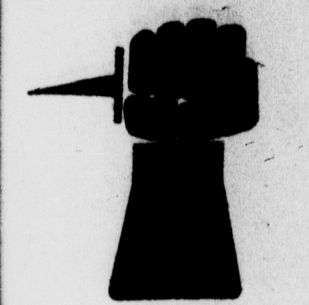

The anniversary dinner, which was held in Asbury Hall in the Wesley Foundation, was built around the church history and activities. John Fouts presided over the dinner.

The Wesley Foundation was organized on Jan. 31, 1957 at MSU. The Rev. George Jordan is the minister director of the Wesley Foundation.

Construction is underway on the new $1.5 million University Methodist Church on Harrison Road. The structure is scheduled for completion early next year.

Campus Crusade Seeks Charter

By ALLEN ROGERS
Of The State News Staff
Campus Crusade for Christ, a Christian group which has as its purpose to encourage students to be intellectually honest in considering Christ, hopes to be chartered as a recognized campus organization by A.C.S.C. before the end of the month.

Don Peterson, energetic director of Campus Crusade, discussed the objectives of the group in an interview last week.

Peterson guides the activities of the organization which meets at his home, 541 Abbott Rd., at 6:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

"Seeing the problems young people struggle with in dating, finding reality, choosing vocations and military obligations," said Peterson, "I came to realize that as Dr. Howard Pusey of Harvard has said, 'Young people today want a creed to believe and a song to sing.' I have felt that Christianity provides the potential for a workable solution."

Peterson attended Bethel College in St. Paul, Minn., and later transferred to St. Cloud State Teachers College where he earned his degree in sociology and physical education.

He met his pretty wife, Carol, at St. Cloud State. She completed work for her degree in English at the University of Minnesota. The Petersons have two children, Pam, 4, and Lance, 1.

After two years of service in the Army stationed in Germany, the Petersons settled down to teaching and coaching basketball at Minnehaha Academy, a private Christian high school in Minneapolis.

Peterson became acquainted with the work of Campus Crusade at the University of Minnesota. He decided to assume the duties of a full time staff member a short while after involvement on a part time basis.

Before coming to Michigan State in January of 1961, Peterson received his field training at the University of Texas.

Crusade Sets Life Weekend

Bob Davenport, former All-American and Rose Bowl star, and John Flack, national representative of Campus Crusade for Christ, will be the featured speakers during College Life Weekend, a student conference conducted by Campus Crusade for Christ May 25 and 26.

Davenport, UCLA graduate and football coach at Taylor University, is traveling throughout the midwest addressing banquets and conferences.

Flack, a graduate of Princeton University and Dallas Theological Seminary, travels internationally for campus to campus speaking to various student groups. During April, he spoke in the New England area, visiting Harvard, Yale and Smith College. He recently returned from Tokyo, where he was an instructor at Rikkyo University.

In addition to Flack and Davenport, College Life Weekend will include seminars and informal discussion on the relevance of Christianity to collegiate life.

Mormons Discuss Ancient America

Ancient America, its people and religion from 2200 BC to 421 AD will be discussed Sunday at 7:30 p.m. a public lecture, the fourth in a series on Mormonism.

Martin Pond, MSU doctoral candidate in agricultural economics and graduate of Utah State will be the speaker. Pond is the second counselor to Bishop Albert Pearson in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Mormon.

The Deseret Club, college organization of the LDS Church, is sponsoring the series held at 149 Highland Ave., East Lansing.

The Book of Mormon, which relates the history of remnant of the tribe of Joseph who migrated to the Americas in 625 BC, is the "stick of Joseph" and the Bible is the "stick of Judah" as referred to in Ezekiel 37:15-19.

The Book of Mormon is a second witness to the Divinity of Christ, the Bible being the first. It tells of Christ's appearance to the people of this land in 34 AD after His resurrection in Jerusalem. At this time Christ organized His Church in the Americas, taught Christian principles and told of His second coming (the reason the Aztecs thought Cortez was the White God).

In the fourth century AD the people became corrupt and lost the authority to act for God the same as in the Old World, which fulfilled the Old Testament Scriptures. The people Columbus found on this land and called Indians were the offspring of the Book of Mormon people, the Lamanites. Evidence proving the truthfulness of the Book of Mormon will be the core of the discussion Sunday.
