Senate Defeats Censure

The Academic Senate turned down a resolution requesting the Board of Trustees to reverse their decision barring Communists from speaking on campus by a vote of 156 to 93 Wednesday.

Alan Grimes, professor of political science, said before he introduced the resolution that he felt the University should adopt a more liberal policy concerning speakers on campus.

The resolution stated: "We request the Board of Trustees to reconsider the policy of Michigan State University in regard to the policy concerning speakers on campus. The board is requested to endorse a University policy which would be conducive to the free interchange of ideas on campus as befitting a great state university."

The senate confirmed three appointments to the Athletic Council made by President John A. Hannah.

Milosh Muntyan, professor of education, will replace Madison Kuhn, professor of history. Re-appointed for a second term were Donald Come, professor of social science, and Robert Kramer, assistant director of cooperative extension.

Congress Raps Action on Red

By SALLY DERRICKSON
Of the State News Staff

Student Congress Wednesday night passed a resolution expressing severe disapproval of the Board of Trustees' decision to bar Communist Robert G. Thompson from speaking on campus.

Congress voted 23 to 15, with 2 abstentions, to accept the resolution, after a four hour debate. A roll call vote was taken, but an amendment to include the voting list with the resolution was defeated.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Board of Trustees, President John Hannah, all faculty members and members of the legislature.

Several Congress members opposing the resolution—primarily the wording—attempted to amend it in six different places, but were defeated by a substantial majority each time. Others opposing it attempted to refer it back to Political Affairs Committee, but were defeated.

Representatives from AWS, IFC and Pan-Hel, non-voting members of Congress, also opposed the resolution.

AUGS President Bob Howard said Thursday that he was "fully in favor of Congress taking a stand disagreeing with the action of the Board of Trustees."

"But I don't feel that this resolution is written in the considered and constructive manner that it should be," he said.

The full text of the resolution follows:

"Academic Freedom at MSU!"

Fact: The catalog of Michigan State University states: 'We still hold fast to what should be the fundamental purpose of every university—to seek the truth, to teach the truth, and to preserve the truth. We believe the whole promise of knowledge is a proper area of the attention of a university.'

"On May 17, 1962, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees voted to prohibit the appearance on this campus of Robert G. Thompson, a widely known member of the Communist party. Mr. Thompson's speech was being sponsored by the Young Socialist Club.

"For two years this campus has been privileged to have available to it a great number of Conservative speakers sponsored by the Conservative Club. These speakers have constantly warned against the menace of communism. However, the description of the Communist conspiracy as presented by these speakers is not the one which is universally held.

"Furthermore, one of the reasons for the action of the Board of Trustees appears to be a fear that the appearance of Thompson would endanger the University's chances of adequate accreditation.

Co-op Scores 3 Point

Elsworth House with a grade point average of 3.027 for Winter term became the second undergraduate living unit to score over a three point.

Records dating back to 1957 show that Kappa Alpha Theta had a 3.12 for fall term, 1959, and a 3.046 for fall, 1958.

The sororities topped all classifications with an average of 2.59. The co-ops scored a close second with a 2.58.

The all-university g.p.a. for Winter term rose to a 2.42 bettering Fall term's mark of 2.37.

Every men's dormitory on campus improved its g.p.a. over Fall term.

West Shaw and East Shaw retained their first and second place standings respectively among the men's dorms with g.p.a.'s of 2.57 and 2.47, respectively.

In the Brody group Butterfield maintained its lead by achieving a 2.43.

East Landon replaced West Landon as leader among the women's dorms with a 2.61 compared to West's 2.57.

Delta Gamma lead the sororities with a 2.93 and Farm House topped the fraternities with a 2.68.

City Council Votes In Tax Increase

The East Lansing city council adopted a record $1,512,900 budget this week, putting city residents in line for a new tax increase.

The new tax rate will be $19.50 per thousand of assessed valuation — an increase of $1.08 over last year's rate.

The 1962-63 budget figure represents a $163,000 increase over this year's budget.

John M. Patriarche, city manager, said part of the increase was due to payments the city must make on library and sewage debts.

Included in the coming year's capital improvement program are plans for street construction on Abbot Road, particularly in the area of the new library; plans for street lighting in this same area and payments to the state for the city's share of the cost of road work on M-78.

Housing Changes Go to Trustees

The Board of Trustees will discuss changes in housing rules and regulations at their meeting Friday.

Dean of Students John Fuzak will submit the housing proposals that were recommended by the AUGS Committee on Student Rights and Welfare.

New Housing Proposal Up to Students: Fuzak

Adoption of the newly proposed housing regulations will place much more responsibility on the individual student, said dean of students John Fuzak in an interview.

The new policy, drawn up by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, would make it possible for men and women 21 and over to live in unapproved and unsupervised housing with parent's permission.

Fuzak said he expects the students to meet this added responsibility thereby eliminating any significant increase in problems dealing with social regulations.

"If students want more freedom they have to show by action they want it," he said. "I believe our students are mature enough for this change."

Of course, he added, if this new policy is adopted it does not become a steadfast rule. If problems arise the policy could be brought up for re-examination at any time.

However, Fuzak emphasized his faith in the workability of the new program.

"It is possible this policy could hurt organized off campus living units," Fuzak said. "Yet if they maintain the principles, and objectives upon which they were founded, I don't think it should."

In fact, this could strengthen these units by strengthening their ideals, he added.

This change will in effect put all of the students on trial, Fuzak said. There is a calculated risk involved but the students are ready for the change.

"I have faith in the notion that people will rise to the occasion," Fuzak said, and "I think the students will in this case."

"The basic University regulations will still apply. I hope the students remember this."

"If trouble does arise, he said, the University certainly won't disregard it."

Concerning women students, Fuzak said he doesn't believe this policy will cause any complications.

I believe the women are ready for this change, he said. In many areas, they seem to show more responsibility than men.

Fuzak also expressed his opinion that the increase in the number of students moving out of the dorms would have little effect on the economic situation of the economic situation of these units.

"In the first place, the Lansing area does not provide an excessive supply of housing," he said. "Statistics show that less than half of those presently qualified for unapproved and unsupervised housing take advantage of it."

"I suspect it will be passed," Fuzak said. "I have already spoken with President Hannah about it. I believe the committee has examined the situation thoroughly."

The proposed measure will be decided upon by the Board of Trustees.

'Brigadoon' Tells Haunting Tale

By JACKIE KORONA
Of the State News Staff

If you love someone deeply, anything is possible, philosophize authors Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe in the hauntingly fantastic tale of "Brigadoon," the University Theatre musical comedy production being presented in the Auditorium through Saturday.

The story of love in an enchanted 18th century Scottish village which comes to life for only one day every hundred years, "Brigadoon" combines some deep thought, Scotch-flavored music, dances, costumes, and characters, and just the right amount of modern American humor.

As the lights dim a thirty-piece orchestra under the direction of Hans Lampl of the music department accompanies a hidden chorus of lads' and ladies' voices softly inviting all to the highlands of Scotland.

The curtains travel on two lost American travelers named Tommy and Jeff.

Slanted rocks, a dim forest, and faraway misty waters between two towns on the map fade to show a blue cloudy atmosphere when Tommy and Jeff go off to find some people. Once again Brigadoon awakens from its hundred years' sleep.

The townsfolk sing a jaunty number, and all busily and happily set about their daily business.

Then the Americans stumble into the village, creating quite a stir; for the people of Brigadoon have had no visitors for over two hundred years.

What follows — a sadly beautiful, and an accidental death, enjoyable production, comparable theater performance.

Bennie Middaugh, Lansing graduate student, plays the part of Tommy, the young American who's bored with New York and his fiancée, finds Brigadoon and a serious love.

As the man who discovers that to get everything he must give up everything, Middaugh acts and sings with artistic grace.

"Almost Like Being in Love," is not too loud, not too soft, but is similar to that of Broadway star John Raitt.

And as the sweet lass in love with Tommy, yet aware that she cannot leave Brigadoon to be with him, is Toronto senior Corinne Bowra.

"In 'Almost Like Being in Love,' and 'The Heather on the Hill,' Miss Bowra sings in a high, pure voice, full of emotion and longing, and the faint trace of a Scotch accent.

In complete contrast to Miss Bowra's character role is the part played by Sault St. Marie the male-mad, man-chasing Meg Brockie who is looking for the "Love of my Life," Miss Bates

City Eyes Student Renters

Attempts will be made by the city of East Lansing to devise regulations for MSU students renting homes in the area.

According to Jack M. Patriarche, city manager, students who live in off-campus houses have become a problem to residents of East Lansing.

Patriarche said that unlike sororities, fraternities and other off-campus housing, students living in houses are not under supervision and tend to become a neighborhood problem.

He said residents have been complaining about students who rent homes because there is no control over their actions.

Residents say that the students are noisy, that they don't take care of their property, and that they tend to have visitors through all hours of the day and night, he explained.

"If the University is going to relax its regulations, we're going to have to tighten up ours in order to correct the problem."

At the moment the city has no idea what regulations will be imposed, he said.

"We hope, however," he said, "to have something on the books before school starts in the fall to control the situation."

Right now, he said, the city attorney is working on solutions which he will later present to the City Council for consideration.

Lands 200 Miles Off Target

Pilot Sighted after 35 Minute Scare

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter whizzed three times around the world today, then serenely took to a life raft in the Atlantic Ocean as his spaceship overshot its target area by 200 miles.

America's second man in orbit chatted amiably with three medical parachutists dropped by a Navy patrol bomber to his aid while he awaited a pickup.

For a heart stopping 35 minutes it was feared that the 37-year-old Navy Lieutenant Commander and his Aurora 7 spacecraft had been lost.

Then came the cheering news shortly after 1:20 p.m. (EST) that a Navy patrol bomber had sighted Carpenter floating on a life raft a thousand miles southeast of here instead of the planned 800 miles.

The Coast Guard at the Virgin Islands said he came down off Anegada Island, 19 degrees and 29 minutes north latitude and 64 degrees and 1/2 minute west longitude.

Why the capsule overshot the planned impact area had yet to be explained officially but it set off a fantastic flurry of g.m. activity in which ships were ordered to turn at flank speed and race for the area indicated by radar.

It appeared that a failure of the retrorockets to fire automatically as scheduled may have been responsible for the distant over-shooting of the landing target.

The Astronaut monitors were heard to give a countdown for the rocket firing at 12:17 p.m. Apparently the rockets did not fire.

Carpenter was told: "As your synos are off, you'll have to use attitude by-pass manual override."

There was another short countdown and the rockets apparently were fired manually by Carpenter.

The time interval between the two attempts was about 15 seconds. Scientists have estimated that each second of delay in firing the rockets would result in some five miles of override of the target area.

Navy hurricane hunter planes hurried off the runways at Antigua in the British West Indies.

Soon after sighting the Astronaut in the water, a Navy Neptune patrol bomber swung overhead and parachuted the three medical men into the water. Their tasks were to help Carpenter and to affix a rubber tube to the Aurora 7 to keep it from sinking.

Two jet helicopters from the carrier Intrepid also hastened to the scene to hoist Carpenter and the parachutists aboard to safety.

All contact with the Aurora had been lost a few minutes after it re-entered the atmosphere from orbital flight about 12:35 p.m. and until another Navy bomber picked up an automatic electronic homing beacon from the space ship.

All indications are that the Aurora 7 and Carpenter landed at 12:41 p.m.

The Senate interrupted a debate on the farm bill to applaud the announcement that the Astronaut was safe.

Until the Aurora overshot the intended impact area, the whole orbital flight had been a superb display of precision space flight.

Carpenter left the earth atop a flaming 360,000 pound thrust atlas missile at 7:45 a.m. (EST). Despite the difficulties encountered on landing and during the flight, the nation moved another long step closer to a

The Detroit Tigers won a 5 Baltimore Orioles Thursday night on a wild pitch by Hoyt Wilhelm in the 11th inning.

Ron Nischwitz was the winner in relief. Jim Bunning started for the Tigers.

Three home runs were hit by the Tigers. Al Kaline, Rocky Colavito and Bill Bruton all hit circuit clouts.

AUSG OK's Revisions

Student Congress passed a resolution recommending several changes in the proposed plan for off-campus housing rules Wednesday night.

The revised rules, approved by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, go to the Board of Trustees Friday for review.

Present recommendations urge that students under 21 who have completed residence halls have completed resident hall requirements be allowed to live in supervised housing within East Lansing city limits.

The Congress resolution suggests that approved supervised housing not be limited to East Lansing.

It also suggests that definite criteria be established for extending any boundaries which may be set "if it becomes apparent that rents charged within the approved area are increasing, or if the number of students demanding off-campus housing surpasses 90 per cent of the total number of occupancies available."

Negotiations Should Be Directed to Dutch

JAKARTA, INDONESIA, — Foreign Minister Subandrio said Thursday U.N. acting Secretary-General U. Thant's appeal for resumption of negotiations on west New Guinea should be directed to the Dutch.

Meanwhile, a high ranking military officer said he was elated at the success of paratroop guerrillas dropped in western New Guinea's lush jungles and declared "this is just the beginning of a bigger push."

Thant, attempting to avert a full-scale war for the jungle territory, yesterday urged President Sukarno and Dutch Premier Jan E. De Quay to return to the conference table on the basis of the proposals of retired U.S. diplomat Ellsworth Bunker.

JFK Dedicates Senate Office Building

WASHINGTON, — President Kennedy dug into a bucket with a silver trowel Thursday, slapped some mortar on a big marble block, and helped dedicate a new $70-million house office building.

The President's masonry didn't measure up to specifications, however, and after he had gone the block was hoisted and workmen did the job over again.

The block-long, four-story building across the street from the capitol has been named after the late Sam Rayburn, and Kennedy devoted his brief remarks to a tribute to the man who was Speaker of the House longer than anyone else.

Rayburn's "great skill and lasting contribution," said the President, was his ability to achieve harmony between congress and the executive branch, thus making the system of checks and balances that is the heart of the American form of government work.

Mystery Still Clouds Jet Crash Cause

KANSAS CITY — "Continental eleven, do you read... Continental eleven, do you read."

But there was no reply, thus ending the last radio conversation with Continental Airlines jet flight 11 that disintegrated in the air and crashed near Unionville, Mo. Tuesday night, killing all 45 persons on board.

An official said the radio conversation between the crew of the airliner and a ground control station at Waverly, Iowa shed no light on the reason for the accident. Nor did the crew give any indication of any trouble.

White House Conference on S.E. Asian Crisis

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy met for an hour today with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and key advisers on far eastern problems. The White House described it as strictly a routine session.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said that W. Averell Harriman, assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, and McGeorge Bundy, presidential assistant on national security affairs, sat in.

Also attending, he said, were Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Deputy Secretary Roswell Gilpatric, Gen. Lyman L. McKittrick, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Kennedy's military adviser.

A Successful Spring Weekend

Bob Cantrell and the senior class proved that careful planning can lead to success.

Last year, senior president Cantrell began laying groundwork for Sunday's Senior Swingout. Cantrell was worried about the success of the affair, which traditionally features a keynote address by President John Hannah. Last year less than 200 persons heard Hannah speak.

Coordination of publicity, committees and a few alterations in the program combined with just plain hard work led to attendance of over 2,000.

True, Swingout attendance benefited from Spring Weekend activities which student leaders and administrators wisely scheduled for the same weekend. The success of all the programs speaks well for Spring Weekend in which Parents' Weekend, Water Carnival and Junior 500 were included.

This success leads the State News to congratulate all those involved and urge continuance of Spring Weekend.

Perhaps other programs could be brought into the one weekend next year, such as an athletic event and the International Program.

Delta Sigma Phi

Communist Robert Thompson has come and gone, Michigan State is still intact. We've heard of no sudden conversions to the Marxist-Leninist cause.

It was an incident colored by emotionalism and immaturity on the part of those to which the community looks for responsible leadership and sedate action -- its educators, politicians and controllers of the mass media. The episode clearly shows just how deep a truly lamentable aspect of the cold war irrevocably has engrained itself into the minds of too many Americans.

However, one of the few bright spots in the darkness which blanketed the area as a result of the issue was the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Amidst all the ranting, pressuring and subsequent acquiescing, Delta Sigma Phi volunteered their facilities -- not to please a Communist but to realize a principle being compromised and rationalized away by other interest groups.

And when they, too, were subjected to that inevitable pressure -- in this case by the alumni control board which threatened to withdraw their charter -- the fraternity brothers did not acquiesce. Unanimously they voted to through with the program.

Delta Sigma Phi deserves the respect and praise of the students. The State News will back them through whatever difficulty they will encounter.

One of The Sadder Aspects Of Michigan Week

The following article was submitted by Dr. Alfred G. Etter, Assistant Professor of Fisheries and Wildlife.

I see the state bird is out front again proclaiming Michigan Week. A cheery robin redbreast, bursting with song, is used as a front man for the Water Wonderland. His image is posted and printed thousands of times over in the hope that his traditional message of cheer and hope may be associated with the state who "honored" him by making him their bird.

I can't stand hypocrisy, and hence this article. To me, robins mean but one thing--death! Five years ago, when I came to Michigan State University to teach conservation I was dismayed to learn that what I had taken as an attractive campus, rich in its share of natural things preserved from progress, was, in fact, a death trap for many kinds of life -- especially robins. I have come to dread the spring, when all the colored shrubs burst into blossoms and underneath them I discover corpses of birds, or trembling ones secreting themselves away before they die.

This spring in my walks through campus I have found 15 dead birds, 11 of them robins, lying on their backs in the grass or shadow. We know without much doubt that these birds are dying from too much DDT. Analyses of many such birds on campus by students of Dr. George Wallace have shown that they had enough DDT in the brain to kill them.

It has been amply demonstrated that DDT is a persistent and deadly molecule. It is for both these qualities that it is virtually worshipped as an all-purpose insecticide by those who are fraught with problems of insect and disease control. I sympathize with these people, but my main concern is for life in general and not just troubled individuals. I have found 15 birds, and Dr.

Wallace has an additional 30. Though we have tried to get cooperation from grounds department personnel, it is a rare occasion when those who rake and mow the campus, bring in a dead animal. It is much easier to whip them up into a pile of feathers under a mower, or haul them off in a pile of trash.

Many birds go undiscovered under the junipers, or among the leaves. Some could be retrieved during the night by house cats, raccoons, and owls, though the population of predators and scavengers can likewise be reduced by the spray. It is quite possible that the total number of dead birds (and mammals, too, for squirrels and mice have been found trembling) might be at least three or four times the number on hand.

Take a walk through campus and listen and look and see how much life (other than student life, that is) you see. Then remember back this spring when the robins first came and how jaunty they looked, trotting about searching for worms. Some will remember their singing too, for I have seen students stop and listen, and look into the trees for the source of the "cheerily, cheerup" song.

Last spring I found a pair of robins building a nest by the Bell Tower. A day later I returned to find the nest completed but the birds were on the ground, unable to fly. Both were trembling, and the female near death. The male despite all this was trying to sing. A sadder song was never heard.

Equally tormenting was my discovery of a pair of cardinals dead together in some leaves. Each year a thrasher comes to campus and its loud cheerful voice can be heard drifting over the building for days. Then a thrasher is brought in dead, and the singing is no longer heard. This spring, time and again I have seen a pair of robins appear in a likely territory, the male singing, the female attentive. By watching the area closely, it has been often possible to find the couple missing, and then to recover either one or both birds.

To try to convince those that say this sort of thing never happens, I have taken movies of robins, waxwings, grackles, bluejays, cardinals, sparrows, vireos, kinglets, mallards, and mice, all with identical symptoms. I need pictures of additional species. If you find birds trembling or dead, bring them to my office in the Conservation Building.

As a child I remember reading a story about four well-dressed lawyers on horseback, going down a country road. A young robin was seen fluttering helplessly in the dust. While three of the men continued on their way, the fourth, Abraham Lincoln, stopped, picked up the bird, climbed a tree and put the bird back in its nest. This story has stuck in my mind. It is a children's story. It teaches kindness and idealism. Most practical minded adults would laugh at it. But childhood is not the only place where idealism should be taught.

If a university gives priority to the practical, it is not a university. One of the chief functions of a university is to preserve and propagate idealism. Practicalism without idealism is leading us rapidly into many blind and disastrous alleys, many cold and unrewarding relationships. It is high time we bring respect for life back to the campus and cease worshipping horticultural perfection, the power of chemistry, and the efficiency of the machine. The world is a community of living things and not just a pedestal for Man.

One of these days our public relations people may wake up to discover that the image of the

Letters to The Editor

On Jefferson, Thompson and Trustees

To The Editor:

It is extremely unlikely that I would have heard Robert Thompson speak on campus or off campus. However, deeply resent the invasion of my right to learn, which the denial of Thompson of a place to speak represents. I should like to advance three points in defense of my position.

A man, perhaps forgotten by the Trustees, a man who was one of the greatest defenders of civil rights of all time, a man who was once our President, a man named Thomas Jefferson said that "a university is obligated to be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it." As reported in the May 18 State News, it is "long-standing University policy" to "not knowingly invite a Communist to preach his treason on our campus."

"Since error of opinion is not tolerated, then reason is not left free to combat it. From the same source, the Trustees said in 1960 that a "university is obligated to defend academic freedom." Therefore either academic freedom is completely independent of reason or there has indeed been an invasion of academic freedom, the protests of the trustees notwithstanding.

I sincerely hope that academic freedom is in some way connected with reason. This leaves the conclusion that there has been an invasion of academic freedom. It has been shown that this invasion was the result of a "longstanding University policy." But the "University is obligated to defend academic freedom." Thus it may be seen that the policies of this University are such that it cannot fulfill its obligations.

Following the statement that it is the university's obligation to defend academic freedom, it is stated that it "is equally obligated to insure that advantage is not taken of that freedom for purposes of propaganda." Beyond the obvious implication that the students at this University are not competent to recognize that an avowed Communist coming to speak on the subject of Communism might speak in favor of Communism (propaganda - any organized group, effort or movement to spread particular doctrines, information, etc.) Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary - there is implicit in this action of the Trustees the conception that Communism is the only system to use political propaganda.

We of the free world send those behind the Iron Curtain, a message through the Voice of America and Radio Free Europe. The Communist party prevents them from hearing. Now, the Communist party has sent us a message through Robert Thompson, a message perhaps less dangerous to our government than ours is to the Communists, and we are prevented from hearing.

In conclusion then, I can only repeat the words of Jefferson as a plea - let error of opinion be tolerated, and let reason be free - free to combat it and free to go on to higher things.

more about the opinions of legislators and right wing pressure groups than of students and faculty. Such low-towing to expediency aborts the true purpose of a university, to provide a free market place for the discussion of ideas.

Congratulations to the State News for its forthright editorial stand on this issue, and to Don Stevens for remembering that we live in a democracy.

Neanderthal

To The Editor:

In denying the use of University facilities to a speaker who openly admits his membership in the Communist Party of the United States the majority of the Trustees and the President of this University have demonstrated a shocking contempt for academic freedom and the rational capacity of the students and faculty. Their act casts doubts also on their own courage and intelligence.

If the crude rationalization offered for their action is indicative of anything, it is that the reasons given are a shoddy screen to cover their main reasons -- that the ban was imposed not because of any principle, but rather because of a selfish sacrifice of principle to financial and prestige considerations.

They seem to fear that the political Neanderthals who inhabit the state legislature will wreak financial revenge if a Communist, one of Satan's messengers, is allowed to speak here.

The University's fuzzy fiction of a policy statement published in Friday's State News is directed against "subversives" and "propaganda." But by their definition practically the whole faculty would be guilty of subversion and propaganda if we are to take their definition of one's using "his rights in his field of professional specialization to advance his personal political views," as subversion and propaganda.

All shades of opinion on campus from Dr. Moore and the Conservatives, leftward, would come under such a definition.

At best this is a rather medieval conception. It postulates a false dichotomy between reason and politics that is naive in conception and absurd in conclusion. What subject in the University does not have at least some political implications? Such a view seems calculated to sanction little more than a politics of moss-backed and unconstructed reaction from faculty and students.

So how can a man who openly advertises his Communist membership, who clearly states the topic of his talk to be a discussion of the aims and policies of the Communist Party, be guilty of "subverting" anything?

Are President Hannah and the Trustees really fearful for the tender minds of our faculty and students? Their solicitude is very touching. But can they possibly believe the student body would be permanently misled by the "treason" a Communist would "preach."

Their actions indicate that apparently they fear that from somewhere in the simplistic, possibly fanatic presentation a Communist speaker would make, there might emerge a tiny grain of the truth that is there.

The disloyal, subversive parties in this case are not the Socialists, who only commit the sin of suggesting all is not as it should be in our society, and that we must extend the principles of democracy that allegedly guide our national policy.

Neither is it the scheduled Communist speaker whose party sanctions violent overthrow of governments (not a bad idea in some cases I can think of, but certainly absurd to conceive of in ours -- both in intent and execution).

No, the disloyal are none of these -- rather, they are in this case the Trustees and President of this University who would sacrifice principle to political and financial expediency; who would trample on the constituted rights of a student organization to get out from under the pressure of irate reactionaries who fear even listening to a Communist.

They are the disloyal, they are the ones who are destroying the precious academic freedoms of inquiry and free discussion of ideas they are supposed to cherish.

To The Editor:

I call the attention of the Board of Trustees to the following. In case it is not recognized, it is Article II, Section 4, of the constitution of the state of Michigan: "Every person may freely speak, write, and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press."

I wish to ask this question: Can the Board of Trustees, or any other body, even the legislature, be within the limits of the constitution bar any person from speaking his sentiments, not only on the MSU campus, but anywhere in the state of Michigan?

In Defence

To The Editor:

I read that you denounced Michigan State University's Board of Trustees because they voted not to allow a Communist to speak here on the campus. Your editorial said it was an insult to every intelligent student of M.S.U. How dare you include every intelligent student on campus! There are many intelligent students and from your inference non-intelligent students that do not agree with you. I for one have been insulted by your foolish inclusion of all students. I defend and support the Trustees decision which was backed by the legislature. It seems to me you have lost all sense of intelligence or what I had rather call judgement.

Communism is, was, and will be against everything this country stands for. Freedom of speech is respected by me as long as it does not endanger my family or my country. Thomas Jefferson said, "Error of opinion may be

Expediency

To The Editor:

Undoubtedly President Hannah and the Board of Trustees weighed the consequences of their decision to ban a Communist speaker on our campus. They must have known that their decision would draw the censure and wrath of faculty and students.

The other side of the coin would have been to permit the man to speak and draw some fire from a few ultra-right wing legislators who wave the flag but fear freedom of speech. It is obvious that our Administrators care more about a dollar than about principles, worry-robins has no significance whatsoever. People may not like to be confronted with a bird which is dying off. Many children are growing up nowadays who never see a robin, never hear its song, and know nothing of its inspiration. The birdie with the yellow bill no longer hops upon their windowsill, or for many other reasons. I for one am repulsed by the hypocrisy of a people that knowingly kill thousands of robins yet use them on its propaganda.

I am reminded of a statement by Kenneth Burke, in his Rhetoric of Motives, who said it is only a short step from treating animals as things to treating people as things. I do not think that a place of higher learning should continue programs which destroy animal life of all kinds on its campus, much less lend its support to such programs throughout the rest of the state. It suggests an unhealthy disregard for the source of all our inspiration. It is an expression of contempt for nature, and Man is part of nature.

If there is any idealism left in this university, let it become evident through intensive investigation of the effects of spraying on the life and ecology of its campus. Let it become evident through support for, and not criticism of, those individuals who have attempted to bring facts into the open.

Justification

To The Editor:

I was rather looking forward to hearing this Communist speaker, never previously having had the experience. I hope that some of our campus moral watchdogs don't construe this letter as making me a "pinko", although in their omniscient way some undoubtedly will. I merely wish to defend the American ideal of free expression of all ideas, and in the process explode some of the insane and supremely ridiculous rationalizations which the Board of Trustees used to justify its action.

Their main, and incidentally weakest, point is the one upon which I hope to concentrate. Namely, that any dissemination of political viewpoints should be carried out in the sterile and objective atmosphere of the classroom. I feel that the students have a right to demand uniform application of this principle. Thus all speakers to our political clubs should be banned on campus.

Of course, Representative Marshall and Senator Smeekens whose authoritarian outlook is fully nauseous to me as a communist should also avoid tainting our institution. Obviously this policy is not only infeasible but contrary to our whole basis of American ideals of free speech.

It would be nice if the Trustees were honest and just stated forthrightly that they are afraid of the state legislature. Thus arises the hard fact that the price of a truly liberal education must be increased cost to the student due to decreased appropriations. Who's to blame? Legislature or Trustees? No matter what the answer, one thing is clear: the students pay for all this through decreased educational opportunities. I personally feel that a university which is a political pawn in a dubious position to dispense education as opposed to indoctrination in "Americanism" as preached by Michigan's anti-libertarian legislature.

tolerated where reason is left to combat it." Communism is contrary to your opinion and mine and if tolerated any more in this country may control our reason to combat it. Any expression or support of communism asks more than the right to speak but seeks to destroy the very ideals and beliefs many young college Americans died for.

Get off your idealistic childishness and stand up for Democracy. You should be ashamed, little one...I wait for the day when young Americans, led by intelligent editors, fight back at so-called freedom of destruction.

I will not defend with my life your right to say what this country stands against. "Common sense is not so common," said Voltaire. How right he was. He must have been thinking of certain college students when he said it. You as editor of a great newspaper must be responsible; you must show good judgement...you must lead with ideals that help support this country and you must not generalize. Show your intelligence by using good judgement. Judgement is far more important than IQ.

AAUP Opposes Trustees' Decision

The following article was written by Dr. Herbert Weisinger, professor of English and President of the Michigan Chapter of the American Association of University Professors. He submitted one copy in the form of a letter to President Hannah and another to the State News.

The Michigan State University chapter of the American Association of University Professors is well aware of the problems and pressures confronting the Trustees and Administration of the University with regard to the appearance of Mr. Robert G. Thompson on the campus. It is particularly aware that if any punitive action is taken against the University it is the faculty and students who will have to bear the brunt of reduced appropriations. But it is most of all aware of the principle that if freedom of thought, expression, and inquiry is to have any meaning at all, it cannot by its very nature admit of any exceptions: it must be applied equally and universally, and especially with regard to points of view which are distasteful, or obnoxious, or even in direct opposition to the beliefs we hold most dear.

And if this is true for us as citizens, it is especially true for us as members of a university community which is dedicated to the principle that here is one place at least where all points of view can be freely expressed and just as freely exposed to the light of knowledge, reason, and judgment.

We cannot be persuaded that the institutions of the home, the church, and the school have failed so miserably in teaching our young people the values of democracy that a single talk by a Communist will undermine their beliefs. On the contrary, we believe that exposure to opposing ideologies of the left and of the right alike by that very means strengthen our students in their values, for they have met and passed the test of public scrutiny.

For some, Mr. Thompson's criminal record has been the crux of decision. But in fairness, it should be pointed out that Mr. Thompson's crime of a political nature is his guilt of violation of the Smith Act which in effect makes membership in the Communist party a crime; this is not quite the same as theft or conspiracy to defraud.

If democracy is to win the battle for the minds of men it cannot do so by force. Ideas that is what we accuse the totalitarianists of doing and that is what we oppose them. To impose will on others, to insist on what we believe all others should believe, to fear to listen to other voices, to do those things which change ourselves into the thing we profess to hate.

By remaining true to our principles, we show as in no other way the strength and virtue of the American way of life.

We therefore ask that the Trustees and Administration rescind their policy on speakers by Communists or suspected Communists of December, 1960. What Mr. Thompson says, should he come here, will be quickly forgotten; the damage done to the reputation of the University and the spirit of free inquiry, should the students be refused the freedom to hear him, will be remembered.

COMMUNIST SPEAKS OUT—Amidst boos and heckles, Robert Thompson addressed over 2000 students Wednesday night at the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity house. Condemning the United States for its nuclear testing and hitting at the problem of the South, Thompson drew sarcastic comments from the crowd, which included two Hungarians who were freedom fighters in 1956.

Student Opinion Split On Counseling Center

By LINDA LOTRIDGE
Of the State News Staff

Note: This is part four in a five-part series on the Counseling Center.

Students have varied opinions about the Counseling Center. Many who have gone there to change majors and take the interest tests find the counselors interested and the tests helpful.

Others, however, claim the Center is too impersonal and they say they were ill-advised as to a proper major. Students with personal problems have found counselors disinterested and cool toward them.

"We believe in letting a student do the talking," Roland Pierson, acting director of the center, said. "The counselor is there to listen and to be talked to."

Often a student can "iron out" his problems by simply telling everything to an objective party, Pierson said. The counselors can not really give solutions. They only listen and then gently advise.

A number of students were interviewed about the Center. The following are their reactions:

A sophomore in education said she went to the Center after contemplating suicide.

"I was torn apart inside already and they made me all the more confused," she said.

She said the counselor made her talk and talk and although she said she felt relieved, she received no help.

"I ended up hating my parents and I felt very insecure," she said. "They put all the responsibility back on me instead of giving advice."

A junior in English, also contemplating suicide, went to the Counseling Center for help.

"The counselor couldn't understand or help because he never became personally interested in the problem," she said. "I did all the talking and received no advice."

A junior now majoring in history went to the Center last year to change his major.

"I waited hours to get an appointment and then they didn't advise me. It was like an assembly line," he said.

The Center needs a better line of communication with the student body, he said. It costs the University a lot of money to run it but few students really seem to take advantage of its services.

A sophomore resident assistant said she was considering dropping out of school. She went to the Center and they recommended she drop out.

"I did not drop out and now I am very happy that I didn't," she said. "I do not recommend the Center to the girls on my floor."

A junior majoring in economics said he went to the Center to change his major but he did not take any tests.

"I was pleased with the Center," he said, "I believe that it is socially acceptable to go there and they generally do a good job."

A junior in radio-television and film went to the Center to change his major two years ago.

"They recommended after I took the tests that I should be a doctor or an engineer," he said. "The results of the tests were not their fault, but mine. They generally do a good job."

Another student, a sophomore in journalism, also took the vocational and interests tests.

"The tests confirmed what I already knew and made things clearer for me," he said. "It was satisfying to find out for sure what major I should be in."

A senior majoring in biological sciences said he was advised by his academic advisor not to take academic problems to the Counseling Center.

A freshman majoring in microbiology said she went to the Center to discuss other possible fields of study for her.

"I was advised about several other majors and a counselor made appointments for me to talk with people outside the Center in these fields," she said.

She said that most counselors are not informed on everything that goes on in the various departments around campus and they usually can't send students to other people because they don't know that many specialists.

"Counselors ideally must counsel and try to help students," she said. "They are great for sounding boards but they don't give anything back."

Students interviewed about the Center tended to agree that the Center is too impersonal. They seemed to feel that the student was expected to talk too much and received little or no advice or help from the counselor.

Next time: The future of the Counseling Center at MSU and what other universities are doing in counseling and guidance.

At times the orchestra seems to drown out her words but the facial expressions and gestures of the character are enough to put across her meaning.

Bob Winters, Columbus, Ohio graduate student, appears perfectly cast as the second American traveler. His straight-faced comments in a secluded cabin with the man-chaser will make even the most serious on-looker smile knowingly.

Choreography of "Brigadoon," done by Mary Kay Babcock of the HPR department is outstanding scene when three young men in Sword Dance.

Costumes by Jack Byers, authentic Scotch tartans of the respective clans, cause a chill to run down every spine upon their introduction just before the wedding.

As a background for "Brigadoon" sliding sets were constructed by Ed Andreasen and crew.

2 Convicted Of Larceny

Two men were found guilty in Circuit Court Wednesday of larceny involving copper take from the University salvage yard.

Louis A. Tremont, 34, 726 N. Pine, and Vernon A. Farr, 31, 117 1/2 W. Maple, pled not guilty to a larceny charge before Circuit Court Judge Louis E. Cassel.

The offense took place February 14. University police saw a station wagon stopping at the salvage yard. Two men got out.

When the men got back in the car and left, the police stopped the car.

Farr, Tremont, and a third man who was driving were removed from the car, searched, and taken to the Department of Public Safety.

The back of the station wagon was filled with copper wire.

Tremont signed a statement. Alvin A. Neller, defense attorney, said the statement was not admissible in court because Tremont had been intoxicated when he signed it.

Corporal Dan E. Hankins, University policeman, said that Tremont had been drinking, but that he was definitely not intoxicated.

The Department of Public Safety sent the copper to Friedland Iron and Metal Co. where it was weighed and valued February 15.

The copper weighed 693 pounds and was valued at $160.

Carpenter

Though Carpenter was calm throughout, he was not cool. At one point the temperature inside his aluminumized space suit climbed to 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Midway through his second orbit, it appeared that a shortage of fuel for his in-flight controls might develop and force him down before the end of the planned three orbits.

Despite these difficulties in flight, all correctable, the voyage was a scientific success, matching that of Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., on Feb. 20.

During his four hour and 56 minute flight in which he reached a maximum altitude of 164 miles and a speed of 17,532 miles the Astronaut:

Concluded that the mysterious particles encountered in space by Glenn and called "fireflies" looked like snowflakes.

Became the first Astronaut to discover that he could change the orbital posture of his space craft simply by moving his head and arms.

Discover that his special bite-sized apple pie and high protein sandwiches crumbled in space like cookies.

'Few 'S' Athletes Injured,' Feurig

The fact that relatively few serious injuries are suffered during the year by Spartan athletes, is a tribute to their splendid conditioning and reflexes, according to Dr. James S. Feurig, team physician for MSU's 13 varsity sports.

"The most common athletic injuries we get during the year are sprained ligaments and torn muscles," he said. "Bone fractures are not as common as might be expected in hard fought Big Ten competition, and the majority of these occur in the small bones of the hands, feet and nose area."

There have been no deaths directly attributed to varsity competition since he came to MSU in 1953, he said, and none that he knows of prior to his tenure here.

"A real problem for collegiate athletics is that the professional image existed long before the amateur," Feurig said. "Part of the reason why boxing was dropped from the MSU varsity program around 1958, was that, as a collegiate sport, it had lost its finesse and developed into a head hunting dual."

Just as this caused the downfall of college boxing, it has also threatened to have the same effect on college hockey, he said. As an example of this, he cited the first MSU-Michigan game last winter, which turned into a bloody melee and caused much concern on the part of both universities.

Lifters Off For Md. Meet

Prospects of a win look good as the MSU weightlifting team travels to the University of Maryland to compete in the National Collegiate Weightlifting Championships Saturday.

Last year MSU took three first places and a second. Ted Begeman, River Rouge junior, placed second in the 1962 Mid-States Meet. He lifted 705 pounds in the 148 pound class. Jerry Thayer, Jackson junior, in the 165 lb. class also totaled 705 to become the 1962 Mid-state Champion.

Bob Hendrick, Muskegon junior, lifted a total of 785 pounds to become the Senior Michigan Champion in the 181 class.

The final member of the team, Gordon Rueh, a Lansing Senior, totaled 815 in the 198 lb. class. Begeman and Thayer will travel to Detroit to compete in the Senior National Championships on June 2.

Grandelius New Eagle Coach

Former Michigan State football star, Everett "Sonny" Grandelius, signed May 17 with the Philadelphia Eagles as offensive backfield coach.

Grandelius was recently dropped from the head coaching position at the University of Colorado following a recruiting dispute.

In three years, Grandelius' Colorado teams won 20 and lost nine. Last New Year's Day they lost to Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl in Miami.

He has had professional experience as a halfback for the New York Giants. Grandelius was an assistant coach at MSU before going to Colorado.

Class B Prep Track Meet Here Saturday

Michigan State University will host to the Michigan Class B high school track and field championships Saturday.

The preliminaries are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. and the finals for 1:30. The meet, which encompasses the biggest of the four high school classes, has over 500 entrants from 125 schools.

Among those competing are Ecotee, River Rouge, Dowagiac and Clio.

Admission for either morning or afternoon session is 50 cents for students and $1 for adults. The meet will take place at Ralph Young field behind the Men's IM.

Scholars to Sponsor Golf on Saturday

MSU students and faculty members will compete for prizes in the annual Golf day sponsored by the Evans Scholars, Saturday, at Forest Akers Golf Course, starting from 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

There will be three classifications, Men's living units, women's living units and faculty. Golf Equipment will be given to the top individuals and trophies will be awarded to winning teams. Publicity Chairman, Bill Daniel said.

Psi Upsilon and Gamma Phi Beta won last year's team honors. Scores are determined on a low gross and low net basis, and the leaders in each will receive awards.

The player with the longest drive and any holes-in-one will also receive recognition.

All play will be in foursomes composed of two players from opposing teams, Daniel explained.

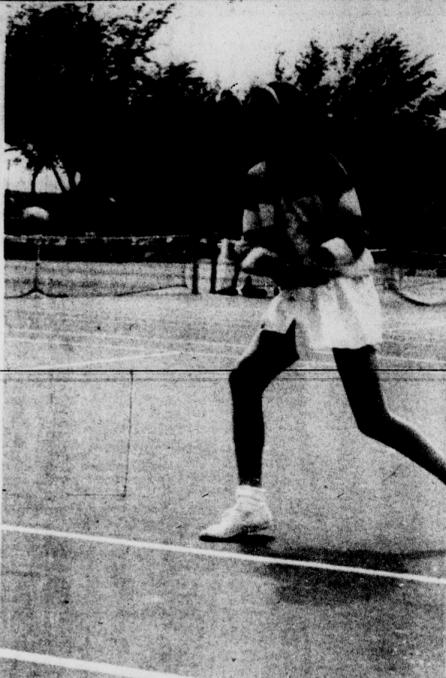

The Evans Scholars were set up by Chick Evans a famous amateur golfer in 1930, the first year a member went to school. The Evans Scholar receives a scholarship that covers tuition and housing. The renewable grants average in excess of $3,000.

To qualify, a boy must caddy with distinction at a WGA member club at least two years, must graduate in the upper 25 percent of his high school class, and must need financial help in order to attend college.

An Evans chapter is different from a social fraternity in that no meals are served in the house, the boys must work for their food, usually in campus dining rooms.

The Evans Foundation is the largest scholarship program in the world financed by individual contributors. There were 4,200 contributors to the foundation in 1961.

There are 57 Evans Scholars at MSU.

"PEACHES" AND CREAM—"Peaches" Bartkowitz, Hamtramck's young tennis whiz, shows here the form that has helped her win a myriad of national titles. "Peaches" added another win to her many Wednesday when she defeated State's Carolee Lum for the second time this season. The score—6-3, 8-6.

Looking At SPORTS

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Gus Triandos, Baltimore Oriole catcher was placed on the disabled list Thursday which means he'll be out of action at least a month. He was replaced on the active roster by Darrell Johnson, who was signed as a coach on April 20 after being released by the Cincinnati Reds.

SAN FRANCISCO — Manager Alvin Dark benched Willie Mays and Jimmy Davenport Wednesday as the San Francisco Giants sought to break a slump at the expense of the Philadelphia Phillies.

MILWAUKEE — Milwaukee southpaw wonder Warren Spahn posted his fifth victory of the season and no. 314 of his career Wednesday night as the Braves snapped a four-game losing streak by defeating the Chicago Cubs 4-2 with the help of a pair of unearned runs.

Spahn stopped the Cubs on five hits, struck out five and walked three while moving within three victories of Mike Welch, baseball's no. 10 all-time winning pitcher.

DETROIT — Pitcher Frank Lary, the Detroit Tigers' "Yankee Killer," may miss the four-game series with the New York Yankees starting Friday night in New York.

Lary was kept home for treatment of a sore shoulder Wednesday as the Tigers were in Baltimore for a series prior to their New York visit.

MODESTO, Calif. — Pole vaulters John Uelses and Dave Turk, the only men to have cleared 16 feet, resume their rivalry here Saturday night in the California Relays.

OAKMONT, Pa. — "She's a monster," Arnold Palmer said after coming to friendly grips with his next major golf antagonist — The Oakmont Country Club.

This piece of real estate nestling in the western Pennsylvania hills is the site of the 62nd National Open Championship June 14-16. Palmer, the game's greatest player, drove the 42 miles from his home in Latrobe, Pa., to play the course for the first time in four years.

NEW YORK — The National Football League adopted a player pension plan Thursday by which players with a minimum of five years' service, dating from 1959, would receive benefits at the age of 65.

NEW YORK — If you've been wondering, or even worrying, where the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight will be held, you can relax now. Chicago is the spot, on either Sept. 17 or 24. Ninety-nine per cent sure says Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports Inc., appointed promoter by the champion himself, Floyd Patterson.

Girls Tennis Team Tops MSU Coeds

Fighting rain, wind, and a strong Hamtramck tennis squad, the MSU Women's tennis team went down to defeat by a score of 9-2.

This was the second time the two teams met and once again, the Hamtramck girls, none of whom are above the junior high level, put on a great exhibition in winning.

Though their youthfulness showed through in their two-handed strokes, every game was played with the same fierce determination.

Hamtramck's number one player, Peaches Bartkowitz, combined sizzling groundstrokes with good placement to defeat Carolee Lum 6-3, 8-6.

In the number two spot, State's Taty Balasis gained one of the two team victories as she defeated Janus Josille in three sets, 7-5, 0-6, and 6-4.

Marcia DeZwarte won the only other match for State beating Darline Pendrake 6-1 and 6-2.

Other singles results were Fran Gruda over Kathy Valente 6-2, 6-4; Melody Kiertonis over Maureen Strait 6-0, 3-6, 6-0; Susan Dykes over Jackie Lowe 6-1, 6-4; Cathy Wroblewski over Diane Wick 6-3, 6-0 and Gloria Nowitsky over Carol Rapson by a score of 7-5, 6-4.

Hamtramck took all three doubles matches, two of them going into three sets. Number one found Lum and Balasis against Bartkowitz and Dykes.

Although State reached the net first and smashed back Hamtramck's lobs, Bartkowitz and Dykes put on a great show returning the smashes time and again. Each team won a set 6-4 but the third set was all Hamtramck as they won 6-1.

Once again in the second match the teams of Strait-Valenta and Kiertonis-Grunda exchanged sets 7-5 with the third set going to Hamtramck 6-0.

In the final match Wick and Rapson dropped two sets by an identical 6-1 margin to Josille and Wroblewski.

The Women's tennis team will finish the season with a quad-rangular meet at Kalamazoo on Saturday.

Horticulturist Tells How To Buy Roses

The things to watch for when buying rose bushes are a healthy root system and general sturdiness, says Donald P. Watson, MSU horticulturist.

There is little difference in the rose bush in a bundle, potted or packaged, especially in early spring.

"What does matter is whether it is a sturdy bush with a healthy root system," he said. The bush should have three to five stems each at least one-half inch in diameter.

Watson said the signs of a poor plant is weak and spindly growth. Poor plants are frequently detected when there are a number of soft, long, thin, greenish-white shoots instead of buds.

Watson said that buying a cheap plant usually sacrifices quality and doesn't pay. The chance of success with the rose bush is limited by the plant's quality at the time of purchase.

Bare root plants are better buys early in the season. Potted roses should be purchased in late spring or summer when in flower. Since the roots are growing, they can be transplanted at any time of the year. The recommended varieties for tea roses which are best for cutting are: orange -- Tanya, Merry Heart; yellow -- Gold Glow, Golden Specter, Eclipse; pink -- Confidence, Hawaii, Ann Leits, Queen Elizabeth; white -- White Knight; and bi-colors -- Peace, Gay Debutante, Dresden, Garden Party.

The Floribunda roses are often used for budding. They have small flowers, grow in clusters, and bloom from June until the end of the season.

Floribunda varieties include: red -- World's Fair, Wildfire, Red Pinocchio; orange -- Sarabande; salmon -- Oberon; coral rose -- Spartan; yellow -- All Gold, Moonprite; and white -- Dagmar Spaeth.

Climber roses are ideal for trellis, fence, or ground cover. Recommended varieties are: red -- Don Juan and pink -- Coral Dawn.

"Remember that these are only some of the varieties that are recommended," said Watson. "You can't go wrong with any of these, provided you insist upon a quality bush when you purchase it."

To assure good quality, buy from a nursery or garden store that has a good reputation. "Plants are more likely to be properly labeled, well stored and well-packed," Watson advised.

Feurig Discusses Blindness

Many people who are 40 and over, are becoming blind without realizing it, according to Dr. James S. Feurig, director of Olin Health Center.

Glocoma, an eye disease found primarily in middle aged adults, can rob you of your sight without creating any noticeable side effects.

Directing his comments at MSU faculty members, he said:

"A person who has the disease may not even know it until it is in its advanced stages. The symptoms of glocoma are vague. You may just feel tension behind the eyeballs. This is caused by increased pressure as the eyeballs expand. The first symptoms manifest themselves in the form of hazy vision, spots in front of the eyes and double vision.

"A major problem in glocoma detection is that its symptoms are all indicative of several other related eye disorders," he said.

Feurig recommends frequent eye examinations once a person reaches the 40 and over age bracket. Olin does not have facilities for these check-ups but can refer patients to local eye specialists, he said.

He noted that in the past periodic clinics have been set up in the area on a voluntary basis.

appropriations from the State Legislature. "Principle: The principle of academic freedom must not be compromised. We believe that any group which seeks to prevent the presentation of an unpopular viewpoint, is not qualified to govern a state university. We wonder for what price Michigan State University sells its belief in free speech and tolerance of minorities.

"We believe that no person can make a reasonable decision on any issue if he is allowed to hear only one side of an argument. We further believe that no person has the right to decide what others shall be allowed to hear.

"Declaration: The Michigan State University All-University Student Government opposes this blatant disrespect which the Board of Trustees has shown for their students, their principles, and the rights of the American people. We pledge ourselves towards building a better university; one which will allow the freedom of expression to all people.

"We oppose the selling of our beliefs and freedoms in exchange for appropriations from the legislature. A university that is afraid to defend the basic rights of the American people does not deserve to be supported by the taxes of those people."

"Mandate: The President of the All-University Student Government and the Speaker of Student Congress are mandated to communicate this resolution to the Board of Trustees, the President of this University, all members of the faculty, and all members of the Legislature of the State of Michigan."

English Center Offers Course

The American Language and Educational Center will offer an intensive course during the summer session. The course will be of ten weeks duration beginning with registration on June 18 and 19 and continuing until August 30. The course will follow the program of the regular academic year with twenty-five hours of classroom contact for full-time students.

Students may elect work in the program either on a part-time or full-time basis. Foreign students now enrolled in the University may elect courses to improve specific skills. Students interested in taking summer work in the Center may contact the English Language Center, for additional information.

In addition to the intensive course, the Center is considering offering a course for students' dependents on a semi-intensive basis during the summer. This course would meet Monday through Thursday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. The course would also run two weeks and tuition would be $104.00. Whether the course materializes depends on student response.

One MSU Coed Sure of Crown

An MSU coed will be named as Lansing at 9 p.m. Saturday at the Michigan Theater during the intermission of Elvis Presley's new film "Follow That Dream."

Along with the title goes a wardrobe and the opportunity to compete for the Miss Michigan crown in Muskegon this July. Winner of the Miss Michigan title has a chance at the Miss America title.

All 10 of the finalists in the all-day competition are MSU students according to Robert Romal, general chairman of the Miss Michigan pageant.

They include Nancy Kaczmarek, Bay City senior; Patricia House, Lafayette junior; Margaret Soulliere, Mt. Clemens senior; Sue Scott, Okemos junior; Hasmig Tepikian, Yonkers, N.Y. junior.

Also included are Janet Cable, first sophomore; Sandra Word, Kalamazoo sophomore; Nancy Kingston, Grand Rapids freshman; and Lucille Bishop, East Lansing, freshman.

Bob Runyon, WLS news director, will be master of ceremonies at the intermission program. Entertainment will be by vocal accordion recording stars Talboys and Don Lee.

Pages include Miss Demetra, MSU associate professor of retailing; Lansing Mayor Willard Bowerman; cosmologist, Craig McKay; past JCC president, Frank Ghinelli; Martha Dixon, woman's editor at WJIM; Roger Busfield, public relations man for the Michigan Hospital Association; and past judge Mrs. Jean Matthews of Lansing.

Trophies will be awarded to the winner, two runners-up, and to the coed judged most congenial.

As part of their public appearance schedule, the coeds are handing out Michigan Week buttons at the Jack Tar Hotel.

Friday noon they will participate in a style show at the City Hall Plaza.

The Miss Greater Lansing Pageant is sponsored by the Lansing Junior Chamber of Commerce; Sprague Salon of Hair Design, which is doing the hair-styling free of charge for all the ten finalists throughout the competition, and the Michigan Theater.

Feurig Raps Chic Footwear

Recent trends in shoe styling, which have been emphasizing the slim, tapered look, can be harmful to the human foot, said Dr. James S. Feurig, director of Olin Health Center.

Commenting on a recent American Medical Association report, Feurig said:

"The extremely narrow width of the Italian shoe creations which have dominated the shoe market in recent years do not give adequate support to the foot. The tendency to form the toe of the shoe in an exaggerated point hinders the movement of the toes inside. This puts a strain on the other parts of the foot and Achilles tendon when a person walks."

Poisonous Jewelry Stolen from Fair

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Someone somewhere may be wearing a deadly dose of poison around her neck.

Nine pieces of costume jewelry, made not of stones but of crystallized poisons, were stolen Sunday from a science fair exhibit.

Jacqueline Frahm, 14, said she made the jewelry as a science project to show the beauty of the crystals.

The crystals contain such poisons as potassium ferrocyanide, copper acetate, potassium ferricyanide, sodium ferrocyanide, nickel ammonium sulfate and potassium dichromate.

Jacqueline said she had to handle the red, green, orange, and yellow crystals with tweezers while fashioning them into necklaces, pins and crosses.

Her greatest fear, she said in reporting the theft to police, is that some child may get hold of the jewelry and place it in his mouth.

Police Image Needed

Arthur Brandstatter, chairman of the school of police administration and public safety, has advocated sweeping changes in law enforcement to combat crime and to project a "new and positive image of the police to the American public."

Police scandals, an increase in organized crime, and the indictment of police by official agencies has resulted in a steady loss of respect for the law enforcement arm of government since the 1920's, Brandstatter told a National Institute on Police and Community Relations meeting Monday at Kellogg Center.

Entertainment will include a duet by Dan Dillon and Jerry Lindeberg and the annual skit by the housemother, Mrs. Juanita Lloyd, and graduate students, Majorie Clark and Dawn Lindquist.

Former policeman Brandstatter said that crime in America has increased four times faster than our population, and some authorities say our society is the most lawless in the world.

To combat the rising crime rate and the declining public image of the police, Brandstatter made the familiar cry for "new frontiers" for the police.

Although he contended that many police functions need review, he concentrated only on the areas of police patrol practices, personnel management and police organization and crime prevention.

"The concept of today's police patrol has reverted from a positive to a negative function," said Brandstatter. "The once friendly, personal relationship of the police patrol to the community is today lost or obscure, and contact currently made is usually the result of a complaint."

He suggested to win community respect that officers be assigned on a permanent basis to schools and interested community agencies as a means of salvaging early offenders before it is too late.

Brandstatter said such a system had been tried at Flint with a good deal of success.

In the area of police personnel management, he advised police to hire men who have the "greatest capacity to understand and work with the tensions which define today's complex communities."

"Men are still being recruited for police service whose educational qualifications are limited to the high school diploma... while college graduates are virtually ignored," he said.

Brandstatter advocated the elimination of certain barriers which discourage capable people from going into police work such as pre-employment residential requirements, lack of opportunity for advancement, and lack of competition for positions of responsibility.

His final "frontier" was the formation of an organization exclusively for American municipal policemen, composed of those "who represent communities where the highest standards of ethics and service are observed."

Band's Last Show Sunday

The Concert Band will perform its last concert of the year Sunday at 4 p.m. on Landon field, adjacent to the music building.

The program, to be conducted by Leonard Falcone, director of bands and dean of the Big Ten bandmasters, will open with Wings of Victory March by Ventre and the dramatic II Guarany Overture by Carlos Gomez.

The concert will be presented in the University auditorium in case of inclement weather.

Van Hoesen To Hold Annual Party Saturday

A life size mermaid will be the main feature of Van Hoesen's term party "Neptune Nocturne," Saturday 9-12 p.m.

Bob Aichele and his band will provide the music.

Entertainment will include a duet by Dan Dillon and Jerry Lindeberg and the annual skit by the housemother, Mrs. Juanita Lloyd, and graduate students, Majorie Clark and Dawn Lindquist.

After the house has been remedied, it will be re-leased to the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

Coop Council Elects Officers

The Inter Cooperative Council elected officers for fall term last Tuesday night at Howland House.

Elected were: vice president Robert Bartholomew of Elsworth House; secretary Lloyd Schlicker of Hedrick House; public relations chairman Richard Johnson of Hedrick House; and athletic chairman Duane Stout of Beal House.

Carry over officers for fall term include President Charles Evans of Hedrick House, and Treasurer William Plank of Elsworth House.

WLS Denies Reporting Red Ink Canceled

Spokesman for Lansing radio station WLS said Thursday that news director Bob Runyon did not announce at 6 p.m. Wednesday that Robert G. Thompson's Communist speech was called.

However, the station did broadcast its 7 p.m. newscast that Thompson was barred from speaking on Delta Sigma Phi property, said WLS news editor Baum.

He made the announcement on the basis of the fraternity's board of control announcement which said the Communist speaker was barred."

Bob Baurlie was our news editor at that time," he said. "Runyon was far from the station when the story was read."

Delta Sigma Phi fraternity members defied the alumni order allowing Thompson to speak to 300 spectators in their back-

Mediators Called Local Strike

Work on the addition to the engineering building has been halted to a standstill due to strike.

General and state mediators were called in to help settle the strike involving workers on the engineering building and Willard Hill, Wesley Jeldema, executive secretary of the Association of General Contractors, said Tuesday.

The re-enforcing steel workers, a local union out of work, have been on strike since Monday. The strike covers the entire part of Michigan.

Jeldema reported that no progress was made at the meeting Tuesday night. He said the first time the union had agreed to meet with the contractor was April 25, he said.

JFK Phones Congratulations to Carpenter

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy radio-telephoned Malcolm Scott Carpenter his personal congratulations shortly after the globe-circling astronaut returned safely from his successful mission today. The President also authorized the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to award its distinguished service medal to Carpenter—an honor bestowed on America's three other pioneer explorers of space. The 37-year-old Navy Lieutenant Commander had reached the carrier Intrepid, which was on its way to Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, when Kennedy talked to him. Kennedy had made similar congratulatory calls after Carpenter had been plucked from the Atlantic. Kennedy expressed the nation's gratitude for Carpenter's safe return, his courage and the Mercury team that worked with him. America's pride in this second triple orbit by U.S. astronaut was echoed by an outburst of applause on the Senate floor when it was announced that Carpenter was safe.

Crusade To Hear Flack

John Flack, national representative of Campus Crusade for Christ, and Bob Davenport, former All-American fullback, will be the guest speakers for the MSU Campus Crusade this weekend. Flack will be speaking at a conference for students Friday, May 25, from 7-10 p.m. in Room 31 Union. He will discuss such questions as: "Does faith make sense? Is Christ credible?"

On Saturday, May 26, at 1 p.m. both Flack and Davenport will be meeting with all interested students at the Colonial Village Church at the corner of Mt. Hope and Boston Blvd., in West Lansing. Sunday Flack will be sharing some of his experiences encountered in the Orient with various churches in the Lansing-East Lansing area. Flack, who travels nationwide, spent four months visiting five foreign countries. These included: Japan, Formosa, Hong Kong, the Philippines and Korea. He was graduated from Princeton in 1954 where he majored in English. During his time spent in college, Davenport was a 205 pound guard. The football team, lost only one game in three years and was rated sixth in the nation. For two years Princeton remained undefeated.

Prayer Stirs Court Action

An historic decision that could affect religious practices in approximately half the nation's public schools is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court, Associated Press reported recently. In New York State, center of the far-reaching test, the State Board of Regents drafted the "non-sectarian" invocation, to be used at the option of local communities, hoping to minimize conflict on the issue. An estimated 10 to 15 per cent of the schools in the state, not including the big New York City school system, use the prayer. Children may be excused from taking part at request. Test case, 19 other states have filed brief, supporting constitutionality of the practice, and saying that to prohibit it would have far-reaching consequences across the nation. The National Association of Evangelicals declared the constitutional principle of church-state separation was not meant to exclude such practices as school prayer and Bible reading, and that to assume it does plays "into the hands of irreligion and atheism."

Pastor Teaches Eichman

Reprinted from Time, May 18, 1962. Twice each week armed guards escort Pastor William Lovell Hull of Jerusalem's non-denominational Zion Christian Mission into the maximum security cellblock of Israel's Ramla prison.

With the approval of the Israeli government and the wary cooperation of the prisoner, Pastor Hull is trying to bring Adolf Eichmann back to the Christian faith he left in 1937. Hull has been Eichmann's spiritual adviser since his conviction. He and his wife, who serves as German-English interpreter, are the only strangers Eichmann is allowed to see, and they hope to convert him before the Israel Supreme Court rules, probably next month, on his appeal of his death sentence. Eichmann so far seems to have accepted the idea that he has a soul that will be judged by God, and that that soul can be saved before death.

But he insists that as a helpless tool of Adolf Hitler he was not fully responsible for his crimes, does not yet agree with Hull that faith in Christ is the way to salvation, speaks of a creator that Hull feels is a Nazi God of power and force, not a God of love. "So far we are not talking about the same God," Hull says. Hull spends about two hours a week with Eichmann preaching and reading Biblical passages with him. At the end of their sessions he leaves a written lesson, which Eichmann studies and returns, usually marked with questions.

Studies have indicated that prayers of some kinds are used regularly in public schools in about 33 per cent of the nation's communities, and occasionally in another 17 per cent. In New York State, center of the far-reaching test, the State Board of Regents drafted the "non-sectarian" invocation, to be used at the option of local communities, hoping to minimize conflict on the issue. May Crowning

The 18th annual May crowning and buffet supper will be held Sunday at 6 p.m. in the St. John's student parish. The occasion to honor Mary includes a processional in the church where the May crowning will take place, preceded by the recitation of the "living" rosary. Actual crowning of a statue of Mary will be by a recent first communicant from St. Thomas Aquinas school.

The Rev. Eugene Sears of Resurrection parish in Lansing will be the principal speaker. He will speak on the general topic of the Mother of God. St. John's choir will perform under the direction of Gilbert Gervais.

Spiritual Healing Revived

The minister moved slowly down the row of persons kneeling at the altar. Pausing before each one to minister the laying on of hands and to make the sign of the cross, he intoned softly: "The Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord make his face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee; the Lord lift up his countenance upon thee and give thee peace and healing in answer to thy prayer both now and always." And so it went until nearly all of the approximately 100 persons gathered in St. Paul Episcopal Church in Lansing had come to the altar. The service conducted recently by the Rev. Alex Holmes of Sault Ste. Marie, underscored the latest rediscovery in Christian teachings -- faith healing. Neglected for nearly 1600 years, spiritual healing is being used in a variety of ways by many Christian churches today. During the years of establishment of the Christian Church, spiritual healing was done by the Apostles prior to preaching in order that the people might be more receptive to the Word. The Gospels contain abundant evidence that Christ commissioned his followers to heal the sick and gave them power to do so. "And He ordained 12 that they should be with Him and that He might send them forth to preach and to have power to heal sickness and to cast out devils." (Mark 3:14-15.) Prior to the Ascension when Christ appeared to his Disciples, He again commanded them to go into the world and preach the Gospel. And these signs shall follow them that believe... they shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover. (Mk. 16:17) Evidence indicates that the ministry of healing continued as a vital part of the early Church, for the following 300 to 400 years. During this time anointing with oil, because of its supposed medicinal powers, came into popular use along with laying on of hands and prayer. Although spiritual healing never died out completely -- Roman Catholic shrines were noted for miracles of healing -- its use diminished greatly. The service used by Holmes consisted of prayers read from the services of Holy Communion, Morning Prayer and Visitation of the Sick contained in the Book of Common Prayer. There were no miraculous cures and the service was marked by an air of solemnity and worship. During an interview later, Holmes said that during the course of his healing ministry spanning 10 years, he had been the agent of some more spectacular cures -- a three-year-old child in England received sight at a service. If healing takes place, however, Holmes said that it was more likely to occur slowly.

He never intends his services to be a substitute for medical attention, and indeed, refuses to see persons who have not sought medical aid before coming to him. Holmes set forth the philosophy of healing in a leaflet used at Cavendish Chapel in Manchester England to which he ministered for several years before accepting a call to All-Peoples United Church in Sault Ste. Marie, Canada. "God has created law and order and God does not break His law. While we sometimes see instantaneous healing, in the vast majority of cases, the physical body is so weak or has suffered for so long that healing takes place within the God-given law of progress." Commenting on the Oral Roberts variety of spiritual healing, Holmes said that Roberts makes his mistake in pronouncing people cured. "I never do that," Holmes said, "that is for doctors to do."
