Kennedy to Visit Michigan To Stump for Swainson

Tentative Visit Set October 6

President Kennedy, because of what Democratic national chairman John Bailey described as "the extreme importance" of the coming election, will make the first of two tentative visits to Michigan Oct. 6.

James M. Vinall, public relations director for the Democratic state central committee, said in Detroit today final details will not be set until early next week. Tentative plans call for visits to Detroit, Flint and Muskegon during the hurried "drop-in" visit. Vinall said the President will swing into Michigan "sometime between 10 A.M. and noon a week from Saturday. There'll be a motorcade through Wayne county and then depending upon the amount of time he'll either fly or motorcade to Flint. It's still dependent upon the amount of time but the more likely eventuality is that he'll fly to Flint.

The Democratic national committee said Kennedy will start out on the four day campaign tour of the Midwest Oct. 5. Bailey said the Chief Executive will fly to Covington, Kentucky, motor to Cincinnati and hit cities in Minnesota in addition to Michigan. Swainson, locked in a hard fight in the gubernatorial race with George Romney, said "We are delighted to learn that the President will be coming here. This is another demonstration of the close cooperation between our state and federal administration."

Before today's announcement, it had been expected that Kennedy would visit Detroit Oct. 22 for the National Automobile Show. The Democrats already have sent three cabinet members to Michigan to campaign for Swainson. Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges and Postmaster General J. Edward Day were in the state last week and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman toured western Michigan early this week. Kennedy's Michigan visit will coincide with an appearance at Ann Arbor by a member of the President's cabinet. Recently-appointed Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz will appear at a 2nd congressional district dinner in Ann Arbor.

Meredith 4th Try Cancelled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department cancelled plans Thursday to make a fourth try to register James Meredith as the first Negro student at the all-white University of Mississippi.

The Department said it had ordered Meredith and his escort of U.S. marshals to return to Memphis when it was learned the force might not be strong enough to get through a cordon of Mississippi State partolmen "without major violence and bloodshed." Meredith and the marshals had left Memphis earlier by car for the 80-mile ride to Oxford, the site of the university.

The statement said in part—"This action was taken at 6:35 p.m. after receipt of information from Oxford that a large crowd had gathered and that the force accompanying Mr. Meredith might not be sufficient to accomplish its mission without major violence and bloodshed for the citizens of Mississippi."

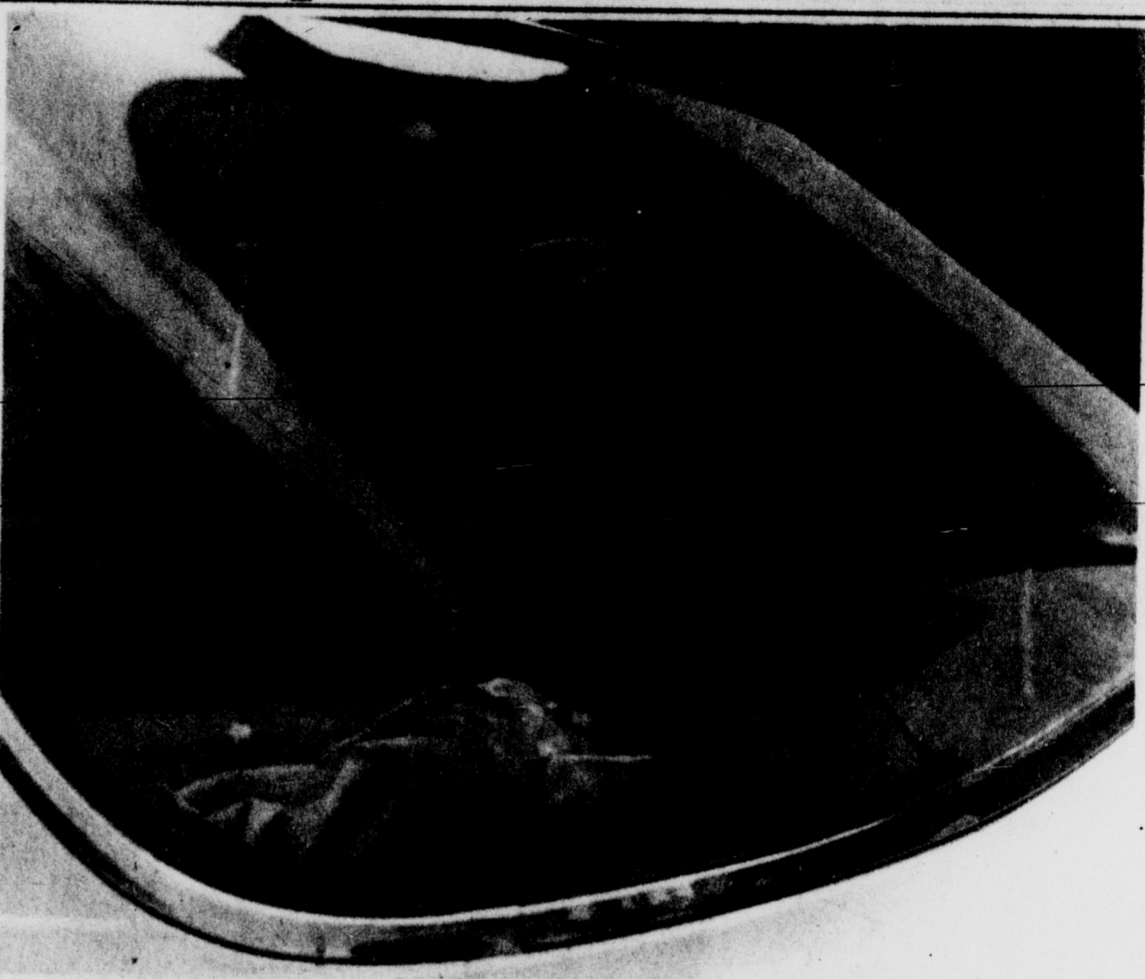

The department added that several hundred additional U.S. marshals were proceeding to Memphis to augment the small force that had been stationed there since last week.

Governor Ross Barnett had ringed the campus with 500 club-wielding police officers and placed a number of police dogs at their disposal.

It was the second time today that Meredith turned back from his attempt to enroll.

In New Orleans, Jack Greenberg, Meredith's spokesman, said he had been told in advance of the second attempt of the day that Meredith would have adequate backing to get past the state officers who set up a human barricade.

During the day, Attorney General Robert Kennedy discussed the Mississippi crisis with President Kennedy and later with major general Creighton Abrams, director of operations in the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for military operations. A Justice Department spokesman said the conference had been held but would not comment on (Continued on page 3)

New Parking, Driving Regulations Announced

By Gerry Hinkley
Of the State News Staff

Times change and so do campus driving and parking regulations. Students take note or a golden opportunity may be missed or a pocket may be emptied. "The major change in this year's regulations," Lieutenant Allen Andrews of the Department of Public Safety emphasized, "is that every student driving on campus must register his car regardless of the number of credits the student is carrying." A student carrying less than seven credits may register his car free, Andrews added, while the student with seven or more credits must pay a $6 fee. The regulation covers all residents of University housing even though they may not be carrying credits at the time, he pointed out. The penalty for not registering—a $25 fine plus the $6 to register or a grand total of $31. All cars should have been registered by midnight Wednesday. A second change in the motor vehicle regulations involves a step process in parking fines. The new penalty regulations for parking in undesignated areas reads: "Beginning with the first day of registration for fall quarter each year, $2 fine for the first violation; $4 fine for the second violation; $6 fine for the third violation; $8 fine for the fourth violation; $10 fine for the fifth violation; $25 fine for each subsequent violation. Towing charges will be in addition to the above fines."

Last year the parking fines were $2 for each violation. The third change adds an hour and a half to the time students may drive on north campus (north campus is part of campus north of the Red Cedar), Andrews said. This year the regulation states that no student may drive on north campus between 7:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday except for the six University holidays. In last year's regulation the time was 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Students may park between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. only in authorized student parking lots, at married housing and in the designated perimeter lots around Brody, Andrews said. Parking for students at Cass and Wilson halls is restricted to the lot south of Wilson road which will be paved in a week or two he added. Student parking is prohibited in front of the dorms except for loading and unloading. Under the traffic ordinance, which is different from the traffic regulations, certain lots are restricted to visitors and employees with permits. Such a lot exists at Brody and another will be designated at Wilson.

Out-Of-State Student Enrollment Rises

Twenty out of every 100 students at Michigan State almost never go home for a weekend. The same 20 put air mail stamps on their letters. The licenses on their cars look strange to Michiganders. "The only people I meet here are either from New York or Birmingham," joke some students. Statistics compiled by the registrar's office tell a far different story. (Continued on Page 11)

The Senate passed a bill Thursday which includes a one-cent increase in postal rates and a one-billion-dollar pay hike for federal workers. The vote was 72 to 3 and the measure now goes to the house.

President Kennedy signed with signal satisfaction Thurs. his much-buffed farm bill and expressed confidence it "will help us sustain prosperity, reduce burdens of surpluses and maintain stable food prices."

The new law is far from what Kennedy originally requested, but it does give him just about the kind of wheat control program he asked.

President Kennedy's adviser on international security said Thurs. the West is braced for possible new Soviet threats to Berlin this winter. McGeorge Bundy told the Atlantic Treaty Association "West Berlin is bound to us all by a thousand ties of feeling" and declared: "We must and shall keep it as it is, until the day when good sense may outweigh greed in the Soviet Union."

British foreign secretary Lord Home urged the U.N. general assembly to day to put pressure on the Soviet Union to halt tensions on the Berlin wall. He called the wall "An almost intolerable provocation to civilized people."

He expressed hope the assembly would make clear to the Soviet Union it must stop "artificially creating crises" in the divided city, and negotiate a settlement with the West "which pays due regard to the rights and interests of all parties."

Building or buying a new home can become quite a complex matter, especially if three student groups become dependent upon each other's plans for moving. Such was the problem that confronted the Asher Student Foundation, the men of Bower House, and Alpha Delta Pi sorority this past summer.

At the present time, the Asher Student Foundation is awaiting drawings of its new house, to be built on Abbott Road. In contrast, the A D P's have halted plans to begin building their new house and the men of Bower House will stay where they are.

The original plan was for the Asher Student Foundation to buy Bower House and for Bower House to buy the sorority house. With these transactions completed, the A D P's would have been able to begin building a larger house on a vacant lot, across the street from their present one, on Harrison Road.

These plans came to a halt when the Asher Student Foundation decided not to buy Bower House, because a legal agreement could not be reached between the two groups before the third week in September.

The Asher group decided not to buy the house, which is adjacent to the two lots they now plan to build on, rather than wait to meet with eligible officers from Bower House. The only eligible officers which could draw up the legal transactions involved, would be those over 21, according to Paul Decker, general secretary of the board of trustees of the Asher Student Foundation. In order for the new Asher house to be ready for next fall term, the group had to know the exact amount of ground they had to work with two weeks before school began. The additional lot would have provided more grounds around the house. Its lack will just change the surroundings and layout slightly, according to Decker. The men of Bower House, lacking the necessary finances to buy the A D P's house, decided not to move at all. This left the A D P's with their now two-year-old problem of a house which must be sold before the new one is built. The A D P's still plan to build a colonial style house, which will house 45-55 girls. Their present house can only accommodate 34. The Asher Student Foundation, while awaiting its new house, has just completed remodeling an old house, at 343 Park Lane, to house 16 coeds. This will replace the Foundation's old annex, located at 511 Abbott Road, which housed only seven. The Asher group also has two other houses in East Lansing.

Student Building, Moving Plans Snared

HOUSING TRIANGLE CAUSE—Big, bright, modern...and it caused a round of negotiations and inconvenience. The Alpha Delta Pi sorority house, 242 N. Harrison Road, started the summer as Greek residence, was a part of real estate negotiations with Bower House and Asher House, but ended the summer still in hands of ADP's. Committee On Speakers 'A Surprise'

"It came as a surprise," Bob Howard, president of All University Student Government, said referring to the newly approved student-faculty committee on outside speakers. "None of the students were consulted about the formation or even informed that such a committee was being constituted. We did not know about it until we read it in the paper." "I consider it additional unnecessary red tape thrown in the path of student organizations. It seems to me to be an incumbrance to student freedom of speech." The committee consisting of five faculty members, five students, and chairman Eldon Nonnamaker will have the power to judge whether an outside speaker be permitted to speak on campus.

Rollment

Enrollment at MSU this fall will reach 27,728, Registrar Kermit Smith announced Thursday. The enrollment is the highest figure in the institution's history. It is up 11 per cent above last year's 25,014 students on East Lansing campus this year. The enrollment at MSU resident halls around the state.

Stiff Parking Fines Students' Fault

Beginning this fall term, student parking offenders are paying stiffer fines with each succeeding violation. The Board of Trustees, with the backing of the State News, approved this parking law this summer.

The reason we backed the Board was the student traffic violator was getting out of hand. Parking conditions on north campus were "impossible." Even today it is difficult to find parking space on north campus.

The students brought the severe action upon themselves. Frequently students would rather park in a restricted spot and pay a $2 fine than park farther away in a legal parking lot, although it would cost them less to do so.

The ruling is aimed directly at these frequent violators--to discourage them and the not so frequent law breakers from placing their cars in spots reserved for the faculty, staff and visitors.

You should think twice about picking up a parking ticket. Although the first one costs just $2, the second fine would cost $4, the third $6, then $8, $10 and a whopping $25 for the sixth and subsequent fines. If a student receives six parking tickets this year, he would pay as much as $43 for the bundle.

Now, doesn't it seem smarter to park where you are supposed to.

The new parking fine system is the first step toward solving the campus parking problems. It is by no means the final solution.

The University has a long way to go. We will campaign for positive steps by this school's administration to end the campus parking and traffic headaches.

Election Time Approaching Register Before October 8

Just a reminder: The fall of 1962 is, as it is biennially, an important election year for citizens of this state. On November 6th registered voters will go to the polls to elect a governor, members of the U. S. Congress and candidates for many state offices.

Registration is going on now at the East Lansing city clerk's office, 400 Abbott Road. It closes October 8th.

There are many eligible voters within the Michigan State student ranks, particularly those living in married housing. All students who have reached the voting age of 21 and have established the required six month residency in the state are citizens of Michigan and, hence, are eligible to vote.

Last school year, the Young Dems and Young Republicans were relatively inactive, the former, in fact, struggled to secure the minimum membership to remain a formal campus organization.

This election year, however, should present an excellent opportunity (as did the 1960 Presidential year) for these student political groups not only to publicize their organizations but to arouse interest in the issues and candidates and urge eligible residents to register and vote.

Twisted Censors

Someone is forever wanting to improve morality by banning this or that. Books are favorite targets, magazines, motion pictures, television shows all come in for their share of would be censorship. Public conduct also is frequently the target of moral arbiters.

This has been illustrated once again in Easton, where the chairman of the Licensing Board has declared that he will suspend the license of any night club that permits its dance floors to be used for that dance known as the twist. However lofty his motivation may be, outlawing this frenzied but not particularly immoral dance is not going to do much for public morals.

School Days, School Days Dear Old White Mob Rule Days!

Letters To The Editor

On Helping Romney, Africa, etc.

To the editor: With the registration deadline for the November election fast approaching, it is important that all eligible students are registered and cast their vote on Nov. 6.

Married students who live in married housing or East Lansing should register at the East Lansing City Hall before Oct. 8. Voters must be 21 years old on election day, have lived in Michigan for six months and have lived in their precinct for 30 days.

Other students should make an effort to register in their home town and apply for an absentee ballot.

George Romney, candidate for governor, will bring effective leadership back to Michigan and help clean up the mess in Lansing. No student should fail to register and vote in this vital election.

WALLY SEZ Go North, Young Man

Jim Wallington

Yes, Bruce there is a north campus. On that part of campus which you will never see, unless you accidentally drive through, there are all kinds of beautiful things (you should see them in the fall with all their colors). There are stately, old buildings reeking with tradition. Believe or not, a couple of them were built before the beginning of this century. Bruce, you have a real treat if you visit this part of the University.

However, I understand if you don't get across the Red Cedar, you not your fault that you live in the next county in Wilson Hall. You have three classes in your dorm or Case Hall and one in the Engineering.

All of Bruce's classes are south of Shaw Lane. Just a little over a year ago there were only two buildings of any significance south of Shaw Lane.

But today probably hundreds of students living in Case Wilson dormitories have all their classes on south campus. It is, south of Red Cedar. It may be a couple of terms -- or even years before they get north of the river and see what the rest of University looks like and meet their fellow school mates.

Some of the students are living so far away from the traditional old campus, that it might be logical to call the Wilson-Case area MSU-Shaw, just like our Rochester branch in Oakland County is named MSU-Oakland.

Seriously, I'm concerned about the very possible lag in student relations created by the now widespread campus. What is going to happen to school spirit? We're going to have a campus full of strangers. It appears each area of campus is its own little community.

Officials at coed housing say they are attempting to attract their students around campus in attempts to dispel provincialism. But will their attempts be bold enough?

Individual students will have to take it upon themselves to roam over to north campus to discover the glories of that area. Don't you Case and Wilson residents visit the beautiful library? It's a good visiting place.

There's a Union Building there, too. You meet girls, have coffee and hamburgers, play table tennis, lounge in comfortable chairs. But come to think of it, you can do all those things at Wilson Case.

C'mon over anyhow and see how the other half lives!

PRESS CUTTINGS

The Ideal Coed-- To UpperclassMEN

Dave Joehn

To the freshman coed who wishes she wasn't: Advice pours into the ears of every new coed at Michigan State regarding what to do, what not to do, what to wear, how to act and how to wear makeup.

Self-styled authorities on glamour and good-grooming do pointers, physical education instructors emphasize posture, Kennedy-type fitness, and house-mothers try vainly to make new multitudes feel at home.

But the best advice to the fledgling coeds is the advice offered them by the male students of the University.

Upper-classmen have watched several broods of new freshmen make the same mistakes yearly, and those now upper-class coeds still haven't learned the hows and whys of college life for two, three and sometimes four years.

Why? Maybe you nearly missed the point when I said "upper-classMEN" a few lines back.

Those mixed-up, still unsettled coeds that you freshmen are so loyally looking up to, have been taking their cues from the boys of the University.

Once in a while, you will meet junior or senior coed who has tried to fit the "University boys' mold." But they are few, and we are speaking of that average upper-class coed that lives in her door or just down the hall.

What do the men of the University look for when they look for a freshman coed?

Only three things!

Naturalness, wholesomeness, and social grace.

Three abstract terms, you say? I don't think so.

What the University men are seeking is best summed up in a phrase that dates from grandma's day . . . "The old-fashioned girl."

By naturalness, the college men mean that clean, scrubbed look, no oversupply of goopy make-up, no affected walk or posture, behavior, no stuck-up, "look-at-me" attitude. They want a friendly, easy-to-talk-to, interesting and always interested coed, not the sophisticated snob.

By wholesomeness, believe it or not, the men still mean the old standbys of purity, modesty and virginity. The picked-on, and picked-over female is not for college men.

By social grace, the men mean the ability to dance with ease in older company, the ability to carry a conversation about something more serious than the weather. College men do not mean that in order to have social grace, a girl must be party, be able to drink the males under the table, or even able to do the twist.

All that the college men are looking for are women, feminine and feline. They don't want the coed that conforms to the common University boy mold.

Biggest advice in one sentence from the college men? Be what your mothers taught you to be . . . ladies.

3 Men Hurt In Explosion

An explosion ripped the basement of the Shoemith building at the corner of M.A.C. Avenue and Albert street yesterday afternoon injuring three men, one seriously.
 George Brocken, 45, an employee of the Central Electric Co. was taken to Sparrow Hospital where he is being held for observation overnight with possible internal injuries. Thomas Major, 45, and Eyring Comden, 55, employees of the Shaw-Winkler Co. were treated for abrasions at Sparrow and released.
 Police believe that the three men were working on a boiler and it exploded. Police are investigating the cause.
 No estimate of damage has been made according to police.

Teachers Convene Here Saturday

Michigan's commission on teacher education and professional standards has scheduled a fall workshop to greet the new school year. The day-long conference will be held at the Union with registration beginning at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday.
 The general theme and purpose of the workshop will deal with the selection and recruitment of promising young people for service into the teaching profession. Special discussion sessions are planned for local committee chairmen, advisors of the student programs and college officials interested in both selection and recruitment.
 Some 200 educators will participate in the workshop to which E. Dale Kennedy, MEA executive secretary, will bring greetings and which will be presided over by Fred Vescolani, University chairman of MCTEPS.

Parking Rules

 students find it necessary to drive on campus. Special permission may be granted by the student-faculty motor vehicle committee through applications which may be obtained at the Department of Public Safety or at the Dean of Students office.
 The committee meets only once a week, he emphasized, so plans should be made well in advance. The campus police, he said, can grant permission only in the case of unforeseeable emergencies.
 A few changes made this summer have resulted in confusion for motorists on campus, he said.
 At the corner of Harrison and Shaw lane a special right turn lane has been constructed to permit right turns without stopping for the light. Andrews added that the motorist making the right turn must stay on the right side of the yellow line until it ends and then merge into the other lane yielding to oncoming traffic.
 The one-way circle at Power Plant road and Shaw lane has also resulted in confusion for motorists, he commented.
 As a word of warning, Andrews pointed out, the rate of speeding violations has increased on Shaw lane and the campus police are out clocking the speeders. Campus bicyclists have regulations, too, with their riding ordinances a duplication of the Michigan Motor Code. When riding a bike, he said, a student must obey all traffic regulations such as stop at stop signs and riding the right way on a one way street.

 Bicyclists are prohibited from riding on the sidewalks, and they are required to park in a bike rack and to lock their bikes. Failure to obey the parking or locking regulations will result in the bike being impounded, and the student paying the $3 impound fee.

7000 Novices Survive Registration

Another registration week is over and approximately 5000 new freshmen and 2000 transfer students are registered for the first time.
 Each of these students before entering the I.M. building this week attended a pre-registration meeting run by the student guide committee. This committee, a part of the student orientation program for new students, is composed of 80 upperclassmen who work with these new students to make their first registration as easy as possible.

Working Women Confab Topic

A conference on the employment problems of working women will bring top speakers to Kellogg Center Saturday.
 Rep. Marie Hager, R-Lansing; Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit; and Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of Labor and director of the Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor, are among those addressing the conference.
 This year's conference, a continuation and extension of a similar one held at the University last year, is sponsored by the Michigan Council on Employment Problems of Working Women, the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor, the Michigan Department of Labor and the School of Labor and Industrial Relations.

 (Author of "I Was a Teen-age Dwarf," "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis," etc.)

ANOTHER YEAR, ANOTHER DOLLAR

High school entry I begin my ninth year of writing columns for the school newspaper for the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes. You may believe you will agree, is a long time. In fact, I think only a little longer than nine years to dig the Suez canal and you know what a gigantic undertaking that was? The Suez canal was not invented until 1946 by Walter R. Shovel of the Suez Canal Co. Before Mr. Shovel's discovery in 1946, all digging was done with sugar tongues—a method unquestionably more laborious than what one would call rapid. There were, naturally, many efforts made to speed up digging before Mr. Shovel's discovery, notably an attempt in 1912 by the immortal Thomas Alva Edison to dig with the phonograph, but the only thing that happened was that he got his horn full of sand. This impressed Mr. Edison that he fell into a fit of melancholy which he did not emerge until two years later when his friend William Wordsworth, the eminent nature poet, cheered him up by imitating a duck for four and a half hours.
 I digress. For nine years, I say, I have been writing this column for the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, and for nine years they have been paying me money. You are shocked. You think that anyone who has tasted Marlboro's unparalleled flavor, who has enjoyed Marlboro's filter, who has revelled in Marlboro's jolly red and white pack or box should be more than willing to write about Marlboro without a penny's compensation. You are wrong.

Competition is the very foundation stone of the American way of life. Whether you love your work or hate it, our system demands that you be paid for it. For example, I have a friend named Rex Glebe, a veterinarian by profession, who simply adores to worm dogs. I mean you can call him up and say, "Hey, Rex, let's go bowl a few lines," or "Hey, Rex, let's go batter some pennies on the railroad tracks," and he will always reply, "No, thanks. I better stay here in case somebody wants a dog wormed." I mean there is not one thing in the whole world you can name that Rex likes better than worming a dog. But even so, Rex always sends a bill for worming a dog because in his wisdom he knows that to do otherwise would be to roid, possibly irreparably, the fabric of civilization.

It's the same with me and Marlboro Cigarettes. I think Marlboro's flavor represents the pinnacle of the tobaccoist's art. I think Marlboro's filter represents the pinnacle of the filter-maker's art. I think Marlboro's pack and box represent the pinnacle of the packager's art. I think Marlboro is a pleasure and a treasure, and I fairly burst with pride that I have been chosen to speak for Marlboro on your campus. All the while, I want my money every week. And the makers of Marlboro understand this full well. They don't like it, but they understand it.
 In the columns which follow this opening installment, I will turn the hot white light of truth on the pressing problems of the Marlboro graduate—burning questions like "Should Chaucer class be converted to parking garages?" and "Should proctors be held for ransom?"
 And in these columns, while grappling with the crises that beset Marlboro America, I will make occasional brief mention of Marlboro Cigarettes. If I do not, the makers will not give me any money.

The makers of Marlboro will bring you this uncensored, free-of-charge column 26 times throughout the school year. During this period it is not unlikely that Old Max will step on your toes—principally ours—but we think it's all in fun and we hope you will too.

LINCOLN PARK -- Lincoln Park High School faces a ban on night football games following an outbreak of rowdiness at last weekend's game against Trenton. Ten youths were arrested and another 50 were sent home by the police after rock-throwing and fighting broke out. School officials say they have scheduled tonight's game as an afternoon contest and say they are studying the matter further.

Dutch Denies Fall Term Housing Pinch

Housing director Tom Dutch short course students will move picked up Thursday's State News into their reserved rooms at and glanced at the For Rent advertisements.
There are lots of ads for wing at Owen have been turned over to men to relieve the crush of the larger male graduate student body.
Men are now in the seven floors of their wing and the bottom two floors of the women's wing.
Drop-outs will ease the housing problem soon, Dutch said, and his office will begin routine plans for next fall.
Dutch added that while women have come into their own this fall in housing privileges, they have not stamped for off-campus housing.

MSU Weather Service Guards Farmer's Crops

The weather man calls for warm and sunny for tomorrow. Instead there's cold and rainy weather.
Like many other people, you can make a better forecast than the weatherman.
But, try it sometime--you can't continually top the experts. Their forecasts are 85 per cent accurate--a lot higher than guesswork.
Weather forecasting is a full-time job, 24 hours each day, seven days a week and 52 weeks per year, according to C. Van Den Brink of the United States Weather Bureau located in Lansing.
At the University, the weather bureau is keeping close check with agricultural specialists to provide a unique new weather forecasting service for Western Michigan.
The new reporting service saves farmers many sleepless nights and can also mean higher profits by saving a crop. The communication link brings up-to-date weather forecasts and outlook for farmers through radio, television and the newspapers.
Van Den Brink said that continuously changing atmospheric conditions make forecasting difficult.
"While we have accurate checks on weather conditions, we cannot control temperatures, humidity, wind or pressures," he said. "And, too complicated matters, conditions may shift completely, five minutes after a forecast is made."
Although the farmer can't control the weather either, he is able to obtain a pretty good idea of which days will be ideal for harvesting his crops. This can easily mean the difference between a profit or loss on many farms.
More than 200 observation posts collect weather data throughout the United States. The weather bureau also receives information from points in Canada, Mexico, ships at sea and from airplanes. Rockets and satellites are now also being used to collect weather data.
All of these reports are funneled by teletype into an analysis center located at Suitland, Md. The information maps are quickly transmitted from the analysis center to other offices where forecasters make weather predictions for a particular area.
Besides these maps, each office receives daily and hourly area weather reports. This helps them in making a more detailed and precise forecast for their area. Van Den Brink pointed out.
But regardless of what people think about weathermen, they still seem to place a lot of confidence in their reports.
"When the chips are down and an important decision is to be made, most people turn to the latest weather forecast," Van Den Brink added.

Changes May Study Makes Pesticides Safe for Farm Use

Diversification of Michigan's economy may prove to be a mixed blessing, Roger L. Bowly of the bureau of business and economic research said Thursday.

Most Michigan residents are accustomed to thinking of Michigan as a relatively high income state, Bowly said in an article in the September issue of the Michigan Economic Record.

There was sound historical reason for such a belief but indications are that the belief may no longer be justified.

Wages and salaries in manufacturing accounted for 32 per cent of all personal income in Michigan in 1961, more than in any other state.

"Average wages are higher in manufacturing than in non-manufacturing, and they are higher in auto manufacturing than in manufacturing generally," Bowly said.

Research has eliminated the danger of residues from correctly applied pesticides, according to Gordon E. Guyer, chairman of Michigan State's entomology department.

"About two million dollars is spent screening each material to make sure it's safe," reports Guyer. "Every one is carefully evaluated for toxicity and safety."

That's why Michigan growers produce excellent, high quality agricultural products free of insect contamination or harmful pesticide residues.

Guyer said less than one out of every 2,000 insecticides investigated ever reaches the market. Each is first tested on the basis of its effectiveness and is given detailed tests for safety and toxicity to man and other animals. This is followed by long term trials of the material by state, federal researchers.

Finally, the pesticide goes only to specific areas to be used only for specific problems. For example a material may be sent to Michigan to help control a fruit insect.

Experiment's Yield On Display Here

Visitors will be able to see both yield and quality results at the site of last spring's State Minimum Tillage Field Day on Tuesday, October 9.

Yield samples have already been taken from various tillage treatment areas in the 40-acre corn field, says Robert White, agricultural engineer at MSU. The 40-acre field was planted with many different tillage practices on May 10.

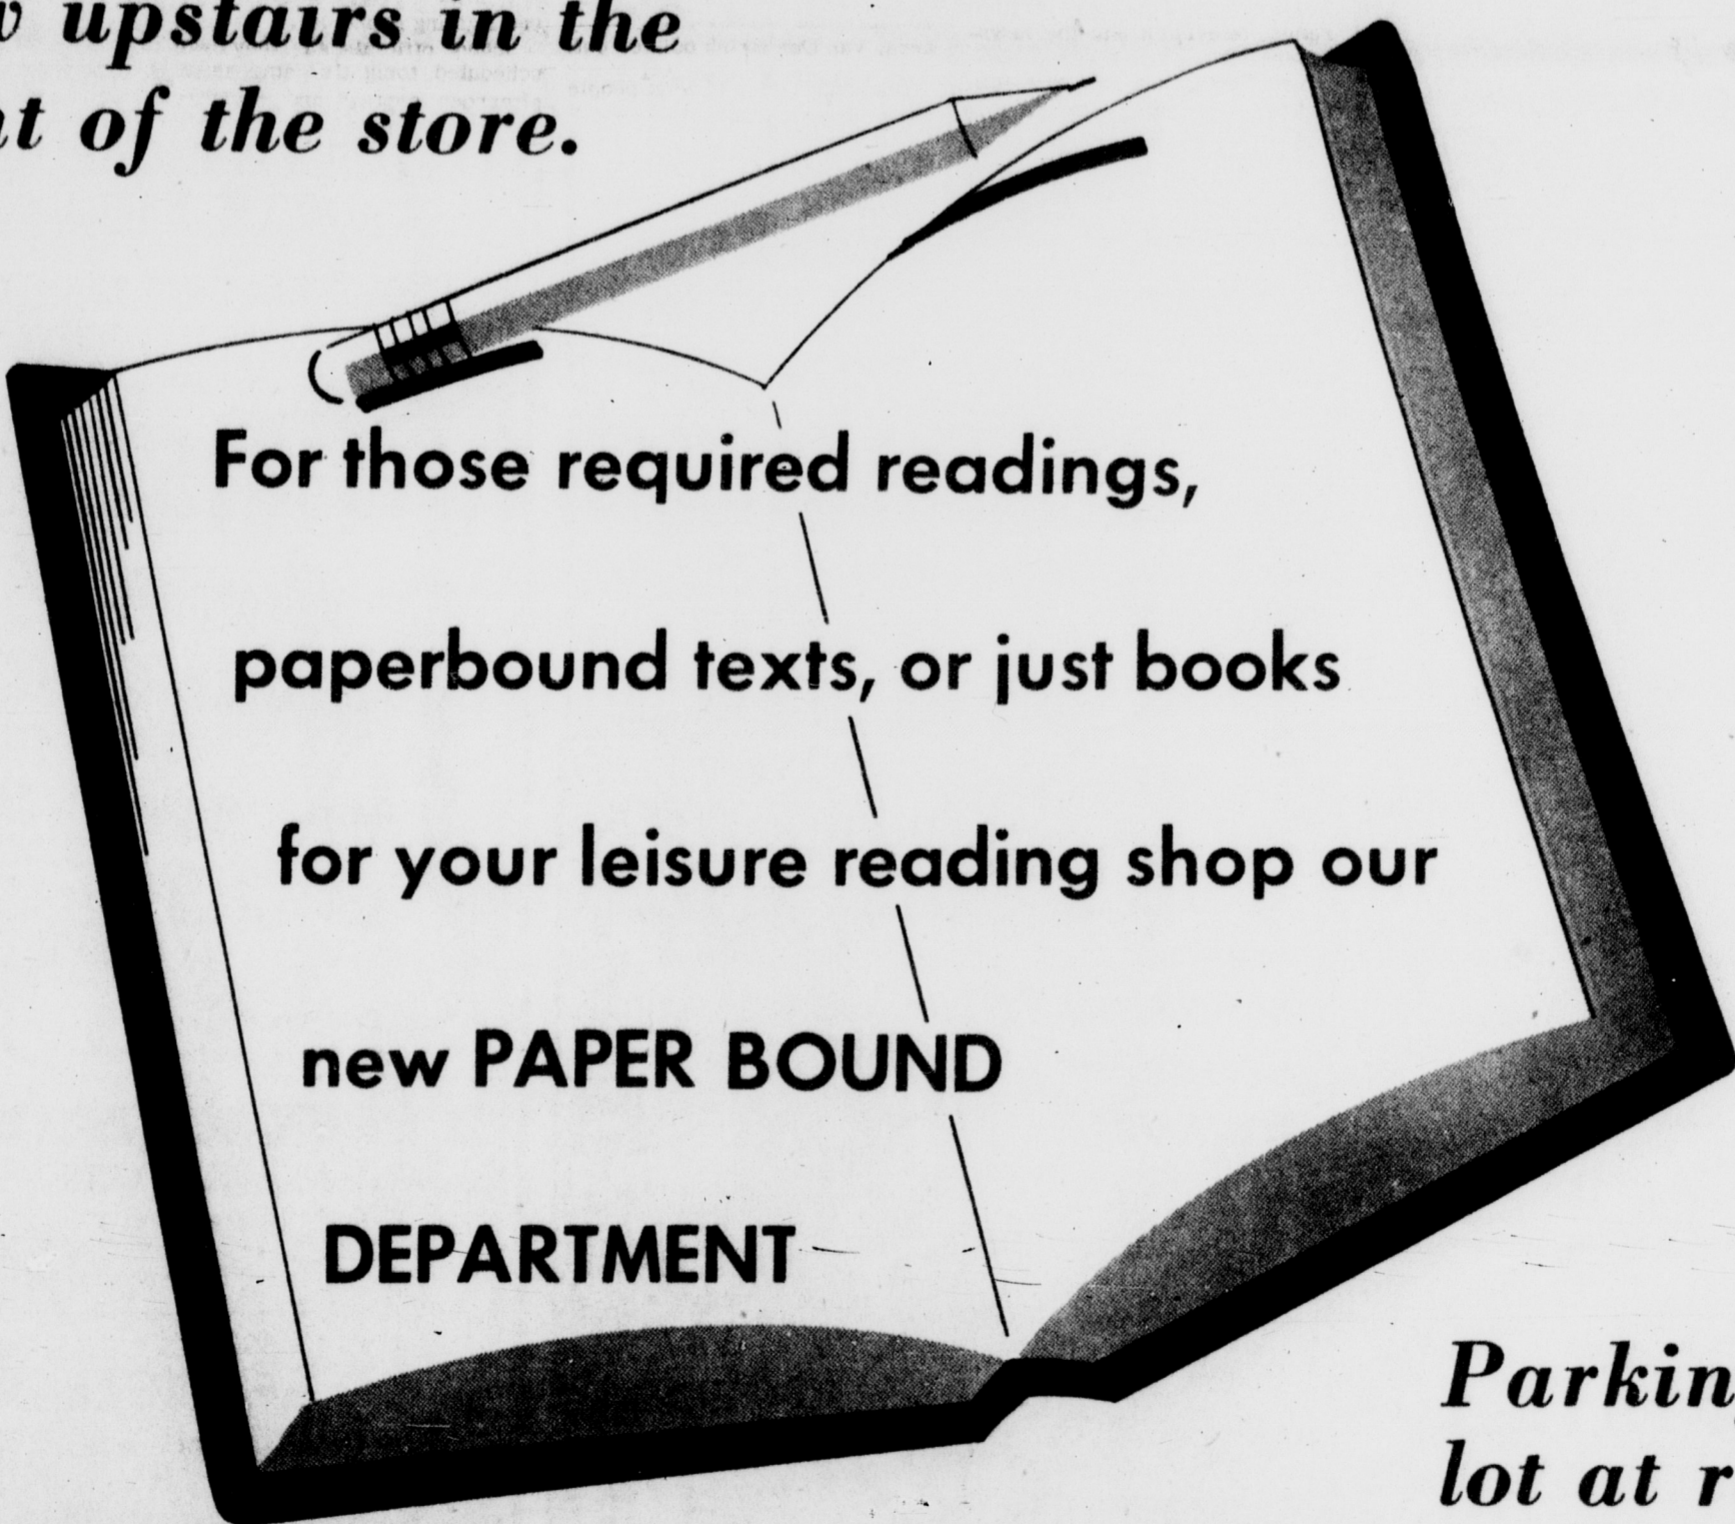

The meeting will start at 3 p.m. at the field located at the Mueller Brothers farm two miles east and two miles south of Britton in Lenawee County. The program, requiring about one hour, will continue until dark.

Lund Leaves U-M to Head Tiger Farm Operations

Don Lund, University of Michigan baseball coach and former Detroit Tiger player, will take charge of minor league operations and scouting for Detroit. He replaces James A. Campbell.

Campbell with the Tigers since 1949, will take charge of Tiger operations, in the majors and minors.

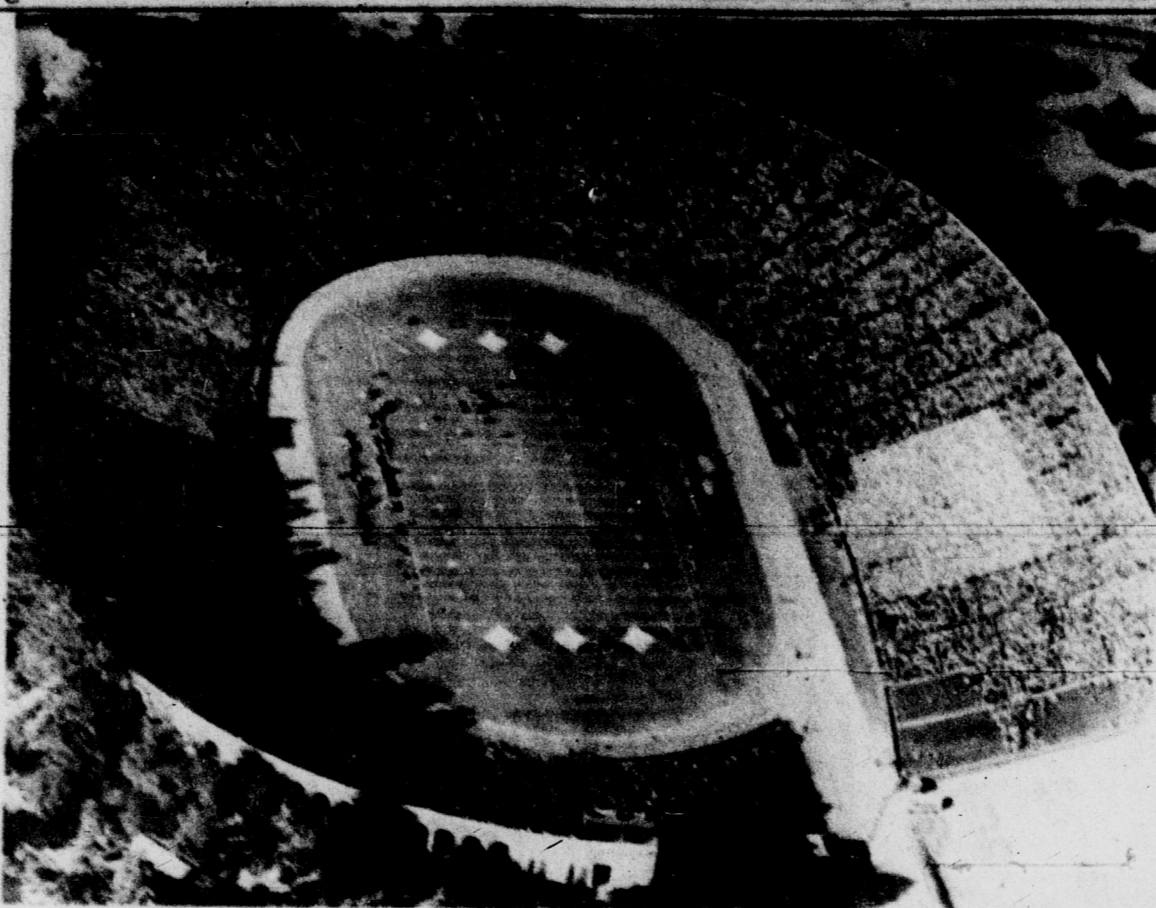

Coach at Michigan for four years, his teams were some of the best in the nation. In 1961, the Wolverines took the Big Ten championship. This year they won the NCAA title after being runner-up in the conference.

Dekker

Paul Dekker, giant end who has seen service for the last six seasons for the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, retired in February.

But the attraction of combat on the field was too great for Dekker to give up and he signed for his seventh season yesterday.

Dekker lettered at MSU in 1951 and 1952.

FOOTBALL OPENER HERE--Coach Duffy Daugherty's charges will open the 1962 gridiron campaign on sod of Stanford Stadium, which seats 90,000. It marks final meeting of two clubs, which signed a home-and-home series for 1961-62.

Gridders Ready

"Peppy and in good shape," were the words of Duffy Daugherty as his Spartan grid squad left East Lansing for Palo Alto, Calif.

Saturday, the MSU eleven will throw their high pre-season ratings on the line against the Stanford Indians.

Rated sixth in the nation and second in the Big Ten, the Spartans face a tough defensive team in the Indians.

The West Coast squad held Tulane to a field goal in their opening 6-3 victory last Saturday.

George Azar, senior guard, was a surprise member of the Spartans' 35-man traveling squad, Daugherty said Azar was counted on for a starting role this season, but would be used only for field goal kicking Saturday to allow his foot more time to mend.

Jim Bobbitt, another member of the Spartans' awesome forward wall is recovering from a knee injury, but was expected to see considerable action in the Stanford contest.

Aside from the question marks of Bobbitt and Azar, the first string unit remained intact from opening drills.

The line will be centered around All-American center Dave Behrman, with Charlie Brown and Steve Mellinger-Azar's replacement at guards, Dave Herman--if Bobbitt doesn't start--and Ed Budge will go at tackles, while ham-handed Ernie Clark and Matt Snorton will be at the ends.

Quarterback Pete Smith, tailback Sherman Lewis, wingback Dewey Lincoln and fullback George Sarnes remain intact as backfield starters.

Daugherty doesn't expect an easy victory in this year's game in spite of last year's 31-3 romp.

"Stanford is tougher this year, as their opening 6-3 decision over Tulane indicates," stated Daugherty.

The rugged Indian forward wall will be centered around senior C. E. Summers, a six-foot 230-pound center and the fastest lineman on the squad. Stanford's squad boasts five tacklers averaging 6-5 and 235 pounds.

The probable starters in the Indian backfield are Steve Thurlow at quarterback, Ken Babajian at fullback, Tyce Fitzmorris at one halfback with the other halfback position still up for grabs.

Tomorrow's game marks the end of a two year home-and-home contract with coach Jack Curcio's Indians.

Mantle Gains on Runnels

YORK, (UPI)—Mickey Mantle has moved into the lead in the New York Yankees' batting order in all-out drive for the American League championship.

Mantle led off in Wednesday's leadoff man in Wednesday's game against the Washington Senators, hitting a home run in the first at-bat, walking in two runs before he walked in the second.

Mantle's two hits—a single and a double—raised his average to .322, leaving him only four points behind pace-setting Pete Runnels of the Boston Red Sox. And equally important, his five at-bats gave him a total of 493 appearances. A player must have a minimum of 502 appearances to qualify for the batting title.

When Mickey drew a base on balls in yesterday's seventh inning it was his 120th walk in 120 games this season.

Manager Ralph Houk explained that Mantle didn't ask to move into the lead-off spot.

"I told him I would like to give him a rest in these last few games but I feel he has a chance to win the batting title, so I suggested the move," Houk said. "Mickey said, 'It's all right with me, anything you say.' So from now until the end of the season, or as long as the batting title is in question, Mickey will lead off."

Board of Trustees

The Board of Trustees gave approval Saturday to 13 appointments, 18 leaves, 19 miscellaneous changes and transfers and 23 resignations and terminations.

Appointments were approved as follows: Paul W. Thompson, agricultural agent; Albert S. Mowery, district extension director for the Upper Peninsula and associate professor of continuing education; Richard W. Chase, assistant professor extension, farm crops, and Richard B. Fetters, assistant professor, intercollegiate athletics.

Other appointments approved were: Gordon K. Dennis, horticultural agent; Charles K. Spillman, instructor extension, agricultural engineering; Harold G. Elrod, professor, mechanical engineering and engineering research; Matthew A. Medick, professor, mechanical engineering and engineering research; Raymond T. Galvin Jr., assistant professor, police administration and public safety.

Louis Guttman, distinguished visiting professor, sociology, anthropology and psychology; Vincent Leo Lombardi, instructor, social science; Mary J. Long, instructor, veterinary pathology, and Pierre E. Berry, librarian.

Sabbatical leaves were granted for: Ruth A. McInay, home economics agent, to study here; William Lazer, professor, marketing and transportation, for research and writing in East Lansing; Fred S. Siebert, dean communication arts, for travel in Europe, Russia and the Near East; Calhoun C. Collier, associate professor, education, for writing and research and Lucile Ketchum, associate professor extension, home management and child development, to study at the University of California.

Leaves were also approved for: Victor C. Beal, cash crops agent; Carol J. Abraham, 4-H agent; and Michael J. Dmochowski, manager, Union.

Other leaves included: Betty V. Bernard, home economics agent, to work on M.S. in Washington; Anna B. Brown, home economics agent, to complete Ph. D. at the University of Michigan; Jean E. Schubel, home economics agent, to complete an M.S. here; Daniel M. Slate, assistant professor of marketing and transportation, to accept a position at the University of Hawaii; and Thomas Dandbury, instructor, social science, for research in Sardinia, Italy.

Leaves were also approved for: Jerome H. Hemmye, instructor, mechanical engineering, to complete Ph. D. at the University of Michigan; Herbert P. Phillips, assistant professor, sociology and anthropology, for study; Frederick B. Waisanen, assistant professor, sociology and anthropology and communication, to accept a position in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Clinton A. Snyder, instructor, social science, to work with Airborn TV at Purdue University, and T. Harry McKinney, assistant to the president, to work with Michigan Council of State Col-

Soccer

Michigan State's soccer team swings into action this Saturday at Purdue and coach Gene Kenney's starting lineup includes three and possibly four newcomers.

Dennis Checkett, St. Louis, Mo. sophomore will start at right fullback. Louie Eckhardt, Port Chester, N.Y., soph is slated to play right halfback, and another soph, Karl Thiele from Lansing, will go at outside left.

Two junior college transfers, Ted Stachow and George Rendon are possibilities for the center forward spot along with veteran Mabricio Ventura, team scoring leader in 1960 and 1961.

Coach Kenney said that the team returned from the summer in good condition and that the Spartans looked "fairly good in their first two scrimmages."

Purdue compiled a 4-6-1 record in 1961 and tied for third place in the Eastern Division of the Midwest Soccer Conference with a 2-3 mark in league play. State has won the Eastern Division title for the past several years and has defeated the Boilermakers in all six of their previous meetings.

Last year's score was 13-2 and the year before the Spartans plastered them 17-0.

Richard O. Niehoff was assigned additional duties as assistant dean for International Programs in the College of Education.

WITH CAMPUS SHOPPING--Built to serve East Lansing residents living near Harrison Road, new shopping center is located at Trowbridge and Harrison. Married housing, Brody group and Lansing Township residents will find new center as close as downtown shopping districts. Center will also be served by new Lansing by-pass, immediately south, and will be completed in near future. (See Story.)

New Shopping Center To Serve Students

A new 15-acre shopping center located between the Cherry Lane and Spartan Village apartments is serving married housing. The first phase of the Spartan Shopping Center will include a supermarket, barber shop and beauty salon. Eighty thousand square feet of parking space will be provided at the center initially.

Shopping Center Managers Meet

The shopping center, one of America's most familiar suburban personalities, will be studied at an institute here Oct. 1-5. Meeting for this sixth Institute on the Management and Operation of Shopping Centers Kellogg Center will be some 30 shopping center owners, managers and developers from Michigan and other states.

On the agenda for the week-long institute, sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers and the College of Business, are topics concerning the development of small shopping centers or more and who has conducted research, merchandising, management, labor relations and other related topics.

Institute officials point out that the 4-H girl's program, Her 33 there are today more than 5,000 home economics extension clubs shopping centers in the country, are carrying on special studies and this figure will be more than doubled in the next five years.

They add that with the growth of established centers and the increase in new centers, owners and managers are looking for ways in which they can do a better job in running their centers and provide better service to the public.

To do this, they say, shopping centers are beginning to tap the resources of universities, such as MSU, for professional advice on a wide variety of problems.

Following the opening of the center, Prince Brothers Shop Rite Market will open a new branch along with Ken's Barber Shop.
William Hicks Jr., of Hicks Bros. Real Estate, said that eventually a drugstore, variety, and other buildings will be added. The shopping center will be located north of the railroad tracks at Harrison and Trowbridge roads.

One of the main reasons for the selection of the center site is that one of the I-96 feeders to the Lansing-East Lansing areas will pass by the western boundaries of Spartan Village and the Spartan Center. An interchange for the University area will be located west of the center.

The completion of the interchange is scheduled for next year, and will bring additional people past the center, Hicks said. "The Spartan Center will be designed to cater to both students and East Lansing residents," he said.

Group To Honor Home Ec Agent

Anne Field, Eaton County home economics agent since 1949, has been named the 1962 winner of the National Home Demonstration Agents Association Distinguished Service Award for Michigan. She will receive the honor at the annual NHDAA conference in Chicago Oct. 23-26. Such recognition goes to an agent in each state who has served 10 years or more and who has conducted programs considered outstanding and promotion, shopping center research, merchandising, management, labor relations and other related topics.

AUSG Sponsors Mixer Dance

All University Student Government will sponsor an informal dance Friday from 9 to midnight in the Auditorium. The dance entitled, "Getting to Know You," is especially designed for new students both transfer and freshmen. Anyone may attend either stag or drag.

Applications Ready For Security Test

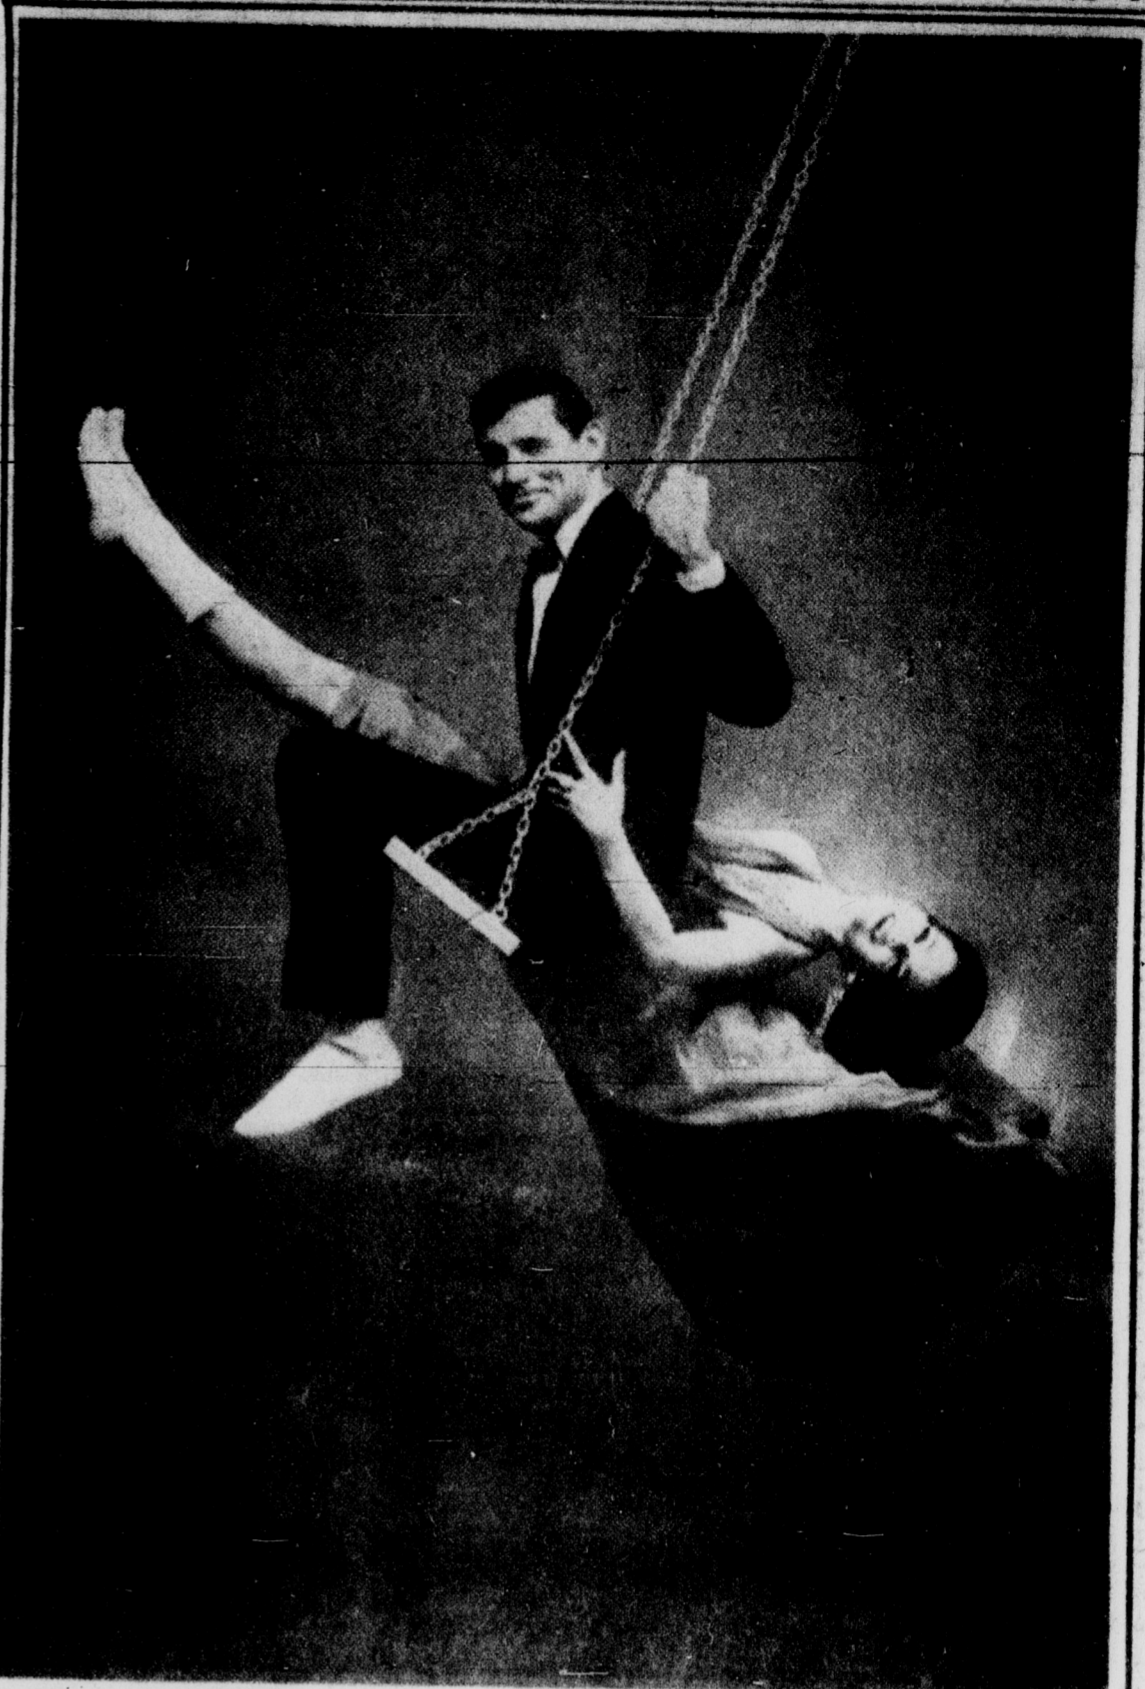

Applications are now available for National Security Agency's professional qualification test which will be administered on the campus Dec. 8.

Unusual and challenging careers to college graduates at all levels are offered by the National Security Agency. The wide variety of NSA duties and the changing needs for projects require specialists who are not only well trained but who also possess a high degree of flexibility and ingenuity.

Any native-born U.S. citizen and holder of or candidate for at least a bachelor's degree by June, 1963, is eligible to take the professional qualification test.

Interested students should complete the application contained in the professional qualification test bulletin of information, which is available from the placement director or the chairmen of the following departments: Communication Skills, economics, English, foreign language, economics studies, geography, history, philosophy, political science, English social sciences and sociology.

The deadline for receipt of applications is Nov. 23.

WILL HISTORIC CHURCH BE SAVED? Donations are pouring in from all over Michigan in the current campaign to raise $100,000 by Oct. 1 to save and restore the 129-year-old St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Tecumseh as an historic shrine. It is the state's oldest church in continuous use, but now faces doom. It must make way for a new St. Peter's presently under construction. The community's weekly newspaper, The Tecumseh Herald, started the drive. Gifts of $1 are sought from 100,000 interested Michigan citizens. These can be sent to The Herald.

UCCF Organized After Five Years

United Campus Christian Fellowship was consummated in August, 1960, at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, after five years of negotiation. Here at Michigan State, UCCF was organized June 1, 1962. According to Rev. Walter Kania, University pastor, UCCF represents not a merger or a council but an organic union. The motivating force behind this union was the need to determine how Christians could justify what they seek to do separately and to consider how separate actions fulfill God's work of reconciliation. It was concluded that separate action was not the means by which God's work of reconciliation was or is to be fulfilled.

As its aim, UCCF has declared to further the mission of the church within the campus community, to deepen the Christian faith of the members of the academic community, to strengthen campus units, and to broaden ecumenical understanding through common experiences in intercollegiate campus Christian movements. Furthermore it aims to provide for effective growth and participation of members of the campus Christian community in the life and work of the church; to increase sensitivity to and understanding of the responsibilities of the Christian community within the university and to help the university become more fully itself; to increase sensitivity to and understanding of the responsibility to which God calls members of the academic community in the political, economic and social world; to deepen the understanding of and participation in the ecumenical movement in the church, especially through the National Student Christian Federation and the World Student Christian Federation; to further conversations with fellow campus Christian movements, and to make it possible for communions without organized campus Christian movements to share in the mission of the church within colleges and universities.

United Campus Christian Fellowship represents a union of the Disciples Student Fellowship of the International Convention of Christian Churches, of the Student Fellowship Council of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, of the United Student Fellowship of the United Church of Christ, and of the Westminster Student Fellowship of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

The Channing-Murray Fellowship (Unitarian) will hold an open house in the Art Room of the Union, Sunday at 7:00 p.m. Coffee, punch, and cookies will be served.

Rev. Gerald K. Wyman, religious advisor, announces that G. William Hughes of Audio Visual and Gordon Cunningham of Forestry will serve as staff and graduate advisors. Plans and programs for the year will be decided upon by the members. Channing-Murray seeks to serve all students interested in religious liberalism.

Trinity Collegiate Fellowship starts off fall term with an informal get-together following the evening worship service at East Lansing Trinity Church. The program including a buffet dinner and group singing will begin at 8:45.

Also on the agenda for this term are a get-acquainted party scheduled for October 5, a hayride on October 19, and a mass rally with other Christian organizations later in the term.

He attended the graduate Theological Seminary of Texas Christian University. There, he received his Bachelor of Divinity and was ordained. His next year was spent on the faculty of T.C.U. in the undergraduate department of religion.

Later in his career, he held pastorates at Forest Grove and Grand Saline, Texas, and served a short term as a missionary in Jamaica.

Although serving presently was a university pastor, Kania is also completing the requirements for a Ph. D. in counseling at Michigan State University.

Out-Of-State' Enrollment

Michigan State is a big school, especially in the fall, and its enrollment is recognized as tops nationally and academically.

For most persons, the answer is affirmative.

Take these examples:

1. Of the 180 students who made perfect 4.0 averages winter quarter, close to half were from outside of Michigan.
2. Many campus clubs and organizations are headed by out of state students.
3. Athletic teams draw heavily on talent from other states.

Thirty-seven of the 80 man varsity football squad last year came from outside Michigan. The last two football captains, Ed Ryan and George Salmes, were from Illinois and Ohio, respectively.

Pennsylvania with 261, Indiana with 220 and Wisconsin with 160 were the only other states sending more than 100 students.

Ingham County sent 570 more students to Michigan State last fall than the top seven out of state contributors combined.

Oakland County sent 1,959 students to East Lansing, less than the top two out of state areas combined. MSU-Oakland took up much of the slack here.

Michigan State draws out of state students from all 50 states, Arizona and Alaska are last among the out-of-state areas. Each contributed two students last fall.

Enrollment from foreign countries has also risen by nearly 200 in the last five years.

Canada sent 128 students to Michigan State last fall, more students than 25 per cent of the individual Michigan counties sent.

China with 36, the Philippine Islands with 24, and Korea and Japan with 23 apiece were next.

The combined total of these top five foreign countries was more students than nearly half of the individual Michigan counties sent to State.

Hawaii may be the place where "East meets West," but Michigan State has a legitimate claim to the title.

Gas Topic At Confab

The practical aspects of gas chromatography are being studied by over 300 scientists from across the nation in Kellogg Center Wednesday through Friday.

Much of their program will be relative to the accuracy and precision of gas chromatography, a laboratory process for separating a complex mixture of gases for analysis.

The process, which cuts analysis time from years to days or hours, is used in the analysis of citrus flavors and aromas, essential oils of flowers for synthetic perfumes, cigarettes, beverages and other consumer products, in law enforcement, medical and other fields.

The conference is sponsored by The American Society for Testing and Materials and the MSU College of Engineering.

Adult Coloring Books Become Fad

New York, (AP)—One of the hottest items in the publishing business these days is the coloring book - for adults. They aren't expected to color it, however; just buy, look and laugh.

Presumably they have been looking and laughing, because they certainly have been buying the books.

At prices ranging from $1 to $2.98, sales are nearing the million mark after only eight months.

The genre of coloring books - done in the style long popular with children - got off to a fast start late last December and its origin was about as much of a gag as anything else.

Its authors were three Chicago advertising people, Martin A. Cohen, Dennis M. Altman and Marcie Hans.

They put up $300 each to bring out what was called "The Executive Coloring Book," to sell for $2.98 a copy. It was designed as a spoof of advertising executives.

For instance, a drawing representing an executive carries this line below: "This is my suit. Color it gray or I will lose my job."

By Christmas, all 1,600 copies of the original printing were gone and there was a clamor for more.

The authors turned over distribution to Pocket Books Inc. of New York.

The book now has sold about 300,000 copies and still is going strong.

A rash of similar books wasn't long in hitting the stands. There were coloring books for secretaries, housewives and just about anybody you could name.

The second to make a resounding splash was called the "JFK Coloring Book." Its subject is President Kennedy and his administration, and sells for $2.

The book is published by Kanrom Inc. of New York. This is a corporation composed of Jackie Kramon, a professional comedian, and Alexander Roman, who runs a printing firm. Kramon estimates sales (nearly 300,000 since publication) a May.

A similar book was published in April, at $1.25, by Joe B. Nation an aircraft research engineer in Texas. It is called "The New Frontier Coloring Book."

A drawing of a rocking chair is captioned: "This is the symbol of the New Frontier. It gives a feeling of motion without getting us anywhere."

Pocket Books has brought out "The John Birch Coloring Book," another $2.98 item which lampoons the controversial ultra-conservative organization.

Two of the authors, Martin A. Cohen and Dennis M. Altman, were in the trio which hit pay dirt with the first of the coloring books. The third in this case is Robert E. Natkin.

The book's opening page has a drawing of an American eagle, with one wing clipped. Says the caption: "This is our Eagle. We cut off his left wing. Now he is an All-American eagle. But he only flies in circles."

One page is blank. At the bottom is printed: "How many Communists can you find in this picture? I can find 11. It takes practice."

Pocket Books doesn't know whether to expect a blasting from Birch Society members, said a spokesman for the distributors: "It's too early and difficult to say. However, some persons who have seen it, and who are terribly conservative, have taken it in good humor."

Seniors May Register For Yearbook Shots

Seniors and candidates who will receive a degree within 12 months may register for their senior pictures at 43 Union building.

STORE FOR MEN -- KNAPP'S EAST LANSING

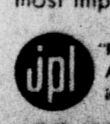

Who, me? We've had three interviews already!

But your fourth interview might be the most important. Especially if it's with the man from JPL. That's right, Jet Propulsion laboratory.

Caltech operates JPL for NASA. Gives the place a campus atmosphere. 3500 people there. Eleven hundred of them are scientists and engineers. The rest are technicians, secretaries, librarians - all kinds of people to back up these scientists and engineers.

JPL's job? Space exploration. Designing the spacecraft and instrumentation that'll explore the moon and planets. They want to find out what the moon is made of and if there's life on other planets. And they will. They're a dedicated bunch. And they like their work. After all, what could be more fascinating and more challenging than the work they do?

Take a half hour or so to talk to the man from JPL. Make an appointment now. It could be the most important 30 minutes in your life.

Frosh-Soph Daze Pits Two Classes in Zany Fun

The Freshman class of '66 will clash with the sophomore class in the traditional Frosh-Soph Daze on Saturday. This hilarious highlight of Welcome Week begins at 1:30.

All those wishing to be in games should report to Landow Field at 1:30 to sign up. Spectators as well as participants add to the fun in store by cheering on their classmates.

The competition includes a three-legged race, looking for garters in the hay, a chicken race with live chickens, a tug-of-war, cheering competition led by MSU cheerleaders, and other contests.

The special event of the day will pit Bruce Osterink the president of Frosh-Soph Council, against last year's president, Jamie Blanchard in a tree-sitting contest. Jamie holds the current record of more than twenty-four hours.

The winning class will be awarded the time honored Brown Jug during half-time of the North Carolina game, October 6. For the past four years, the Freshman class has emerged victorious.

This hilarious highlight of Welcome Week begins at 1:30.

Big Rock Plant Reports Success

CHARLEVOIX (UPI) - A successful fission reaction was sustained Thursday at the Big Rock nuclear plant near here.

Consumers Power officials, who operate the plant, said seven fuel bundles were loaded into the reactor and they went critical at 2:55 p.m., sustaining a controlled reaction.

Board chairman A.H. Aymond Jr. said appropriate movement of the adjacent control rods permitted fissioning to occur in the bundles.

Aymond said the number of bundles will be increased gradually in a step-wise manner to produce a 56-bundle core.

The boiling water reactor is expected to produce electricity for Northern Michigan homes in early November.

Rebels In Yemen Proclaim Their Regime A Republic

Aden, (AP)-An army faction in neighboring Yemen announced Thursday it has seized power and proclaimed the kingdom a republic.

The Red Sea country's left-leaning ruler, on the throne only a week, was reported assassinated or deposed.

Shortly after its announcement, the U.A.R. Minister of State, Abdel Kader Hatem, declared "The U.A.R. opposes any foreign intervention in Yemen affairs."

The radio at San'a, Yemen's capital, repeatedly broadcast a statement by the "Liberal Revolutionary army" that it had taken control.

It said "Those who subjected you to torture in the past... have been shot and killed," but mentioned no names.

An informed source in Aden said the 35-year-old king, Imam Moammad Al-Badr, was slain last night. The Cairo radio which also announced the coup, said Badr was deposed, not killed.

Whatever his fate, the rebels apparently were intent on keeping any of the royal family from making an escape. One broadcast called on the people to seize any officials of the old regime who tried to leave the country.

Badr ascended the throne Sept. 19 after his father, Imam Ahmed, often a target of assassins, died of natural causes. The old man, known as "Big Turban", governed with an iron fist for 14 years.

The San'a radio interspersed the announcement of the coup with U.A.R. Army music. Yemen once had a loose federation with the U.A.R., but Nasser declared the alliance dissolved last year.

Nasser and his program of Pan-Arabism were known to have the support of some military men in Yemen.

The San'a radio did not give further identification for the "Liberal revolutionary army."

A broadcast to Yemen's 4.5 million people called on them to rally behind the revolution which "saved our country from the bitterest enemies of the people, the staunchest foes of the worker, peasant and merchant, the dictatorial cruel one-man rule, the imamite monarchy." Every king of Yemen was officially called an Imam.

Sophs End Compulsory ROTC Era

This fall sophomore men will be members of a vanishing breed; they will be the last class to attend the required Basic ROTC course at MSU.

Each sophomore ROTC man must register for Military Science 220 or All Science 210 for fall term this year. MS 220 will include one hour of leadership laboratory per week with an elective academic course.

The elective academic course will be chosen in substitution for this term of Military Science from the following general academic areas: Effective Communication, Science Comprehension, General Psychology, Political Developments and Political Institutions. Many of the courses offered in the University College program can be enrolled in to fulfill this requirement.

American Military History 135 will be offered for any sophomore men who were not able to complete the course earlier.

Reflections of Telstar

Remember the picture above? It flashed across your television screen on a hot night last July. Perhaps you remember that it originated from France. And that it reached the U.S. via Telstar, the world's first private enterprise communications satellite.

Since that summer night, the Bell System's Telstar has relayed electronic signals of many types—television broadcasts, telephone calls, news photographs, and others.

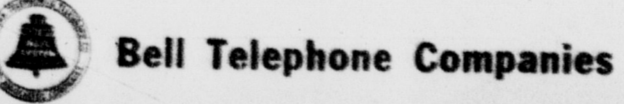

But there's one Telstar reflection you might have missed. Look into the faces of the Bell System people below and you'll see it. It is the reflection of Telstar's success that glowed brightly on the faces of all who shared in the project.

Their engineering, administrative and operations skills created Telstar and are bringing its benefits down out of the clouds to your living room.

These Bell System people, through their talented, dedicated efforts, make your phone service still better, more economical, and more useful.

The reflections of Telstar are many.
