Speaker Committee: It Might Work Out

The student-faculty committee which will screen all speakers seeking a podium on MSU's campus might work out.

The committee includes students from the five major governing bodies on campus, plus five faculty members chosen by the faculty committee on committees, so at least the students will have some voice.

A committee of any kind is no better--or worse--than the people on it. Valuable additions to the group could include representatives from campus political organizations, and from the Campus United Nations.

Granted, the ideal situation would be a campus where any speaker could expound on his philosophies, and anyone who wished to listen could gather 'round the soapbox.

Unfortunately, the fortunes of a state university are tied to a state legislature. And the state legislature is against "un-American" speakers, and anything else which might, to their way of thinking, "corrupt our youth."

MSU is not the only university in Michigan experiencing traumas over this speaker situation. Administrations of state universities all over Michigan are awaiting results of a study by the Michigan Coordinating Council for Public Higher Education which is now formulating a policy for all state-supported colleges, before they "lay down the law" on speaker policy.

Though few clubs were aware of it until furor arose here last spring when a Communist was barred from speaking on campus, the Administration at MSU has always had the power to approve or dismiss a proposed speaker.

This power was formerly in the hands of the dean of students' and the provost's offices. Now it has been put in the hands of a student-faculty committee, which should at least give students some say in the situation, where they had no voice at all before.

And things could be worse. At Wayne State University, the speaker screening group consists of the dean of students and the chairman of the political science department. A third member is to be chosen. Students are not represented at all.

Our policy is this: We don't know if this committee will work out--but it might. It deserves a chance.

Administration's 'Arm'? We Say It Isn't So!

Recent attacks by conservative magazine columnists have labeled the State News an arm of the Administration.

This is ridiculous, because the State News has bitten the arm that feeds it more than once when the paper's editorial staff thought the Administration needed it.

There is no such thing as Administration control over the State News today. Each successive editor is watchful lest some of our editorial freedom be taken away.

The State News aims to present the truth to the students, about the Administration, the faculty and themselves.

We attempt to present the facts accurately on our news pages and make a fair analysis of material on our editorial pages.

Every organization is entitled to fair play from the State News and we have never attacked any organization, group or person without what we considered just cause.

The staff of the paper has many varying political views and we encourage contributions from the Socialists as well as Conservatives.

We may not personally agree with you, but we do respect your right to that view.

There is no excuse for any group to claim that they are being ill-treated by this newspaper.

If you have a complaint write us a letter and if you feel your side of an issue is not being presented fairly come and visit us--we'll straighten it out.

Letters to the Editor

On Liquor in East Lansing

To the Editor: Instead of paying so much attention to Oxford, Miss., MSU students ought to pay closer attention to home, for they are confronted with a grave situation right here on the campus. A money-besmirched scheme is afoot to corrupt the students and drench the people of East Lansing in a foul, evil business: Drink.

Yes, they have succeeded in putting this proposal on the ballot in East Lansing. If this passes, do you know what it means? It means that stores may sell beer or wine. It means smelly taverns will be confined within the city.

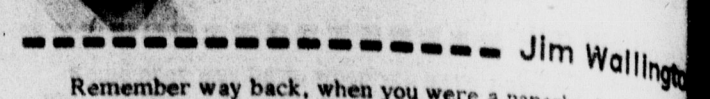

Do we want to make this campus and this town like Ann Arbor, Mt. Pleasant, Ypsilanti, Madison, Wis., or Urbana, Ill.? Obviously the answer is no. Let them keep their stretch there where it belongs. We want a nice clean town.

As Gen. Walker has said in Texas, a crisis is at hand. Perhaps pup tents, flags and skillets

"I don't understand your problem; we've found adequate housing."

WALLY SEZ 23 and Still A Newsboy

Remember way back, when you were a paperboy? I remember when I last delivered newspapers. It seems yesterday. But it's more recent than that. It was this morning. That's right. The managing editor of the State News delivered newspapers. That's really service A-1. But there's more. The editor of this sheet--the big cheese Ben Burns--part of his college living by bringing the State News to my doorstep each morning--that is, if you have a door step to live in Zone II of Spartan Village. I deliver to the lucky folks in Zone III of the same village. This is probably the first instance of anyone with delivery problems writing a letter to the editor, or the managing editor for that matter. Why doesn't someone write to the managing editor for a change? I'm sick and tired of the editor getting the mail.

Greatest benefit this newspaper route has been to me is the complete tid-bits for this column.

Such as the time I came to a door and saw the sign proclaiming the name of inhabitants living therein. It read: I.M. Bonner. I thought, "That's nothing, I.M. Wallington." The first morning around the circuit two little girls opened the door of one of the apartments. One said with a disappointed

"It's only the newsboy."
A smaller voice piped in:
"That's not a boy, it's a man."
Finally, someone thinks I'm a man.

There was another little, friendly lad. He was so nice and the first human I'd seen that morning, that I gave him an extra paper. Public relations, you know. However, the State News probably lost a friend, because his parents probably thought I took the paper from a neighbor's door and punished him for it if anyone gets heck for stealing the State News.

I want to explain now to my customers that I don't slam doors. They slam themselves. And often it's their neighbor getting the morning paper from his door who does the slamming.

I've also compiled a list of the items I've tripped over--ranging from A to Z. At least two chaise lounges, one outdoor clothes rack, one and a half grill, two bikes, only one wagon (so far) and a huge pile of cardboard boxes in the 1629 block of Spartan Village.

And a final note to the milkman who complains about picking up the State News at each door--isn't the exercise wonderful?

Attention, all witty, urbane college students:

Students' Feelings Mixed Over Kennedy's Action

President Kennedy's action in adding the integration of the South to the list of "Mississippi" drew a variety of reactions from MSU students when reviewed by a State News reporter.

Comments ranged from commendation for his action, to agreement that Kennedy had violated the Constitution.

Kennedy was forced to do this by Mississippi's reaction to federal marshals," claimed a senior.

"He's doing it using the National Guardsmen against the people who are fighting against their people,"

Kennedy didn't have any right to do this," said Carl Perin, Baltimore, Md. senior. "It boils down to what's stronger, the state or federal government? The same thing happened 100 years ago and it was a little costly. Kennedy couldn't let it go...but what kind of a reception is a Negro going to get down there?"

"He did the only thing he should have," said Gilbert Hill, Lansing junior. "Had I been in his place I would have been in jail now, for inciting a riot. Had he gone down to the school and refused the admittance there may not have been a riot."

Nancy Wise, Lansing sophomore, agreed with her. "I think he is doing about all he can," she said. "He has the right as the head of the government to enforce rules and keep order."

"He had the right but the method he used wasn't so good," said Mike MacNaughton, Fort Worth, Texas senior. "He should have picked a better bunch of troops; not a bunch who would start shooting right off."

"He had the right to, but I don't think he should have," said Jerry Largent, Okemos freshman. "He's caused a lot of hard feelings down there and might start another civil war. I don't think it will be another 'Little Rock' that will be passed over in a couple of months. Kennedy had the right to enforce the Constitution, but to try and force one Negro through college is a different story."

Gordon Wells, Lansing junior, agreed with Largent. "I don't believe he had the right," said Wells. "It's a case of state rights. I don't want to see another civil war. It's just too bad the whole mess had to happen."

Speaker Bill Before AUSG

A bill which would modify the wording of an ordinance section governing the appearance of speakers before student organizations will be introduced at Thursday night's AUSG meeting.

The section to be reworded, or partially deleted, reads, in part, that the speakers "must not be in poor social taste, subversive, anti-American, or otherwise objectionable to society."

The bill's sponsors said the measure is a precautionary step taken to eliminate a repetition of the repercussions felt by AUSG last year with the appearance of Communist speaker Robert Thompson.

Finds Chaff's Laughs Slightly Lukewarm

by Diane Costa of the State News Staff

Chaff, the college student's answer to Mad Magazine, is published seven times a year for the total subscription price of $3. Whether Chaff is worth $3 for seven issues is something else again.

To be sure, Chaff is definitely not an intellectually stimulating magazine, however neither does it abound with unusually witty or original humor. For example, one joke from the latest edition went like this: "You look broken up. What's the matter?" "I wrote home for money for a study lamp." "So?" "So they sent me the lamp." "While a few jokes are truly funny, most are tired and worn out like the letter."

A parody on the State News, State News, is just what the title implies. . . stale news. A column on what would happen if an administrative shake up took place between the top athletic coach and the dean of the Honors College showed promise until the story line got so involved the main point was lost.

However, Chaff does have its bright spots. "Gentlemen Songsters," a story from the recent issue, drives home its point on tolerance well. "Spring Fever," another story in the same issue, while having no moral to it, provides a few chills in a "Twilight Zone" sort of way.

Grade Points Listed For Housing Units

The all-university grade point average for last spring term came out to 2.52, an accumulative score of 2.47 for the Greek side of campus and 2.54 for the Independents.

Leading the 11 fellow students were the men of Owens Hall, with 3.20; the Room and Board Girls, with 3.09; the women of Owens Hall, with 3.06 and the men of Elsworth House, with 2.87.

Evans Scholars, Van Hoesen Hall and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority achieved averages of approximately 2.8 for their efforts.

Van Hoesen Hall, led the undergraduate women's dorms, with East Landon, East Mayo and South Williams close behind.

Elsworth House, Hedrick House, Evans Scholars and Martin Luther House were the top undergraduate men's living units.

Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Gamma, Delta Zeta and Kappa Kappa Gamma had the best sorority averages, while Farmhouse, Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Gamma Rho and Phi Kappa Sigma took the similar honors among the fraternities.

Added to Faculty

New faculty members have been added to the staff of the Department of Art, according to an announcement by Erling B. Bremer, department chairman.

The new members are Noah Allyn Amundson, drawing; Suzanne Edwards, art; Helen A. Howell, arts and crafts; Joseph Kusza, arts and graphics; Mable Bremer, school certification for teachers; Stacy Proffitt, painting and design; Frank Bremer, drawing and design; Wallace, design; and Well, sculpture.

In addition, Professor Eldon VanLiere continues with us this year as teacher of art history. In the exception of Noah Allyn Amundson, Suzanne Edwards and Nemoto, all are temporary appointments.

These additions help relieve tremendous pressure of increased enrollments on our faculty, Bremer said.

Handmade Fabrics

Handmade pieces in the exhibit vary in size, fabrics, color and treatment.

Mar Wolock Elliot of San Francisco. Mrs. Elliot sent a number of small tapestries along with a number of applique wall hangings. Her most outstanding employs tiny swatches of fabric, some no larger than a postage stamp.

Robert Fischer, an associate professor of art at the University of Cincinnati. Many of Miss Fischer's tapestries are suitable for room dividers, appearing equally well from both sides and translucent. Her work is done from the elegantly decorative to the emotionally provocative effects usually associated with painting.

Edward and Alice Griswold of Lansing, Mich. The Griswolds are professional weavers and their portion of the exhibit is composed mainly of sample pieces of commissioned fabrics. Their outstanding pieces are intricate weavers art are intricate. Of note is a "tour de force" piece of drapery executed recently acquired, but of vintage power loom. Other samples of their work include pieces for almost every use.

Frances W. Robinson of Mogadore, Ohio. Miss Robinson, due to her commitments, could only show two pieces.

In addition there is an exhibit of recent works of a number of works of art by faculty members. Including Leonard Amundson, Thomas Wallace, Allyn Amundson, James McNeill, Clifton McChesney, Erling Bremer, Robert Alexander, James Gamble, Katherine Miller, Ralph Henriksen, and Ed Brainerd.

Error Noted

A mistake was made in Tuesday's State News concerning a literary contest.

James Cash, Grand Rapids, placed 23rd and Walter Lockwood, 25th in "Story Magazine's" national contest for college undergraduates.

The contest was held last year with 4,000 manuscripts entered.

LA Battles Back to Even Series

LOS ANGELES (UPI) The Los Angeles Dodgers evened the playoff for the National League pennant with an 8-7 heartstopper over the San Francisco Giants. The deciding game in the best-of-three series will be played at Los Angeles this afternoon.

Righthander Juan Marichal is San Francisco Manager Al Dark's choice to pitch today's third and deciding game. Marichal is 18-11 for the season, while his Los Angeles opponent will be either Johnny Podres (15-15) or relief pitcher Larry Sherry (7-5).

Tuesday's contest was a thriller right from the start. The Giants took a 5-0 lead and looked like they were home free. Don Drysdale, the big righthander, was manager Walt Alton's choice and he just didn't have it today. His mound rival - Jack Stanford was rolling along with a comfortable margin when the roof caved in in the sixth inning. Before the inning was over three other pitchers followed Sanford to the mound but not before the Dodgers had chalked up seven big runs on the scoreboard.

But the Giants rebounded in the eighth.

Jim Davenport and Willie Mays singled to set the stage. Ed Bailey batted for pitcher and singled one run across. But Mays was thrown out at third. A bitter argument followed. A walk followed by a sacrifice fly Duke Snider and Manager Dark and it was all even again at signaled for Gaylord Perry to relieve Lemay. Spencer sacrificed and Willis ended up on third. Mike McCormick then came on for the clincher. Maury Willis replaced Perry and the National League's top batter -- Tommy Davis--was purposely walked mound. Daryl Spencer batted for Ron Fairly was the next batter, and he sent a fly to Willie Mays. Willis tagged up and scored. And that was it. The series now goes the limit.

Ford Will Face Today's Victor in Series Opener

NEW YORK, (UPI)—Manager Ralph Houk has yet to make it official, but it looks like it will be ace left-hander Whitey Ford, pitching for the New York Yankees Thursday when the World Series starts in the home park of the National League pennant winner.

Ford's selection would hardly come as a surprise to the baseball world although Houk hinted late Monday that his original plans were to start 23-game winner Ralph Terry in the opener. The realization that the delayed start of the series will assure Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves. He shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates twice in the 1960 series and pitched 14 shut-out innings in two winning games against the Cincinnati Reds last year. His 32 consecutive scoreless innings set by Babe Ruth as a Red Sox pitcher.

The Yankees flew to Los Angeles Tuesday after a final workout at Yankee Stadium. They will work out in Los Angeles today.

UNNERS READY TO GO

pects are bright for cross-country squad as it begins the season's start today. The Spartans open with a regular meet against Ohio State and host Ohio University in Columbus, Ohio.

Coach Fran Dittrich said the team to be as strong as it has ever been, if not stronger, than our previous ones.

The Spartans had a fine showing in their first dual meet, winning four of five duals and taking a first, second and eighth in championship.

This was slightly sub-par performance for a team which has won eight firsts and records in its last 12 championships in three championships in which the State cross country squad annually participates are the Big Ten, NCAA, and NCAA meets. This year the NCAA cross-country championship will again be held at Forest Akers Golf Course, the Spartans home course.

Individually the Spartans should again be strong. Six returning lettermen add considerably to Dittrich's optimism. A seventh letterman, Al Duncan, was expected to return, but his whereabouts remains a mystery to Coach Dittrich.

Lettermen who are returning are led by co-captains Roger Humbarger and Don Castle. Other lettermen are Ron Berby of Milford; Bob Fulcher, Hazel Park; Dick Gyde, Hazel Park; and Pat Stevens of Lansing.

State-Stanford Movies Tonight

The coaches also are looking closely at two sophomores who may have the potential to become great distance runners. They are Jan Bowen of Alma, and Mike Kaines of Drayton Plains. Other sophomores who may break into the starting lineup are Jack Amie of Flint, and Orlin Larson of Davison.

Movie highlights of Stanford's 16-13 squeaker over State will be featured tonight at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom with narration to be supplied by a member of the State coaching staff.

This kickoff review will mark the first of five showings to follow each of the away tilts.

Deulen Meet

The Spartan fencing team will hold an organizational meeting for all freshmen interested in the sport and varsity swordsmen, Thursday at 5 p.m. in Men's Intramural Building.

Coach Charles Schmitter will be scouting fresh with or without experience who exhibit a desire to duel on a collegiate level.

Soccer Team Shooting Second Straight

Michigan State's soccer team is gunning for its second consecutive triumph in as many games against a tough Earlham Saturday's home opener.

The Spartans have been bitten by the injury jinx which could hamper their chances. Coach Kenney also praised the play of Jerry Papachristou, an unheralded veteran, who did a great job on defense against Purdue.

Saturday's game will begin at 10 a.m. and will be played on the soccer field south of the Spartan Stadium.

Earlham, who compiled a 5-2-3 mark last season to place second behind the Spartans in the Eastern Division of the Midwestern circuit, have an unblemished record going into Saturday's game. Coach Kenney feels that Earlham will be dangerous and will be definitely out to revenge last year's loss.

One bright spot though was the impressive play of sophomores Louis Eckhardt and Dennis Checkett in last week's victory.

The Splash, the women's swim team, will hold a meeting today at 7:15 p.m. in the lounge of the women's DM. There will be a presentation of awards.

YOUR FRATERNITY CHECK LIST

In deciding which fraternity you would like to join, here are important factors to consider. We believe that Alpha Tau Omega offers them in greater abundance than you will find elsewhere.

Members whose fellowship you enjoy -- who "wear well" -- who take a personal interest in you and your future.

Surroundings that offer every opportunity for scholastic excellence, with men who put education first.

Financial requirements comparable to dormitories and private homes, yet yielding far greater returns.

Friendly help in campus activities and athletics, by older men who are already participating, often as leaders.

An enjoyable but not over-emphasized social life, within the standards of good taste and Christian living.

Finally -- an international fraternity with a great heritage of leadership, character and scholarship, who members stand together long after campus days are over.

excellent press relations with the department.

"A police department is only as good as its public relations," said one of the supervising corporals. "Our public relations, except for the personal public relations of the officers, and a recent, sudden improvement in press relations with the State News, are nil."

University officials setting up the freshman orientation program last year rejected a request to permit the safety department director to speak to the incoming students, another officer said.

"And that was our best chance to talk to the freshmen before the upper classmen gave them the wrong ideas about the role of the campus police," he said.

Questioned about the department's request, President Hannah admitted that he had not heard that such a request had been made, or that it had been refused.

"If the police feel it will help them to perform their job better, I would certainly approve their request to speak to the incoming freshmen," he said.

Panhel Ball Rush To Pick Workers

Committee rush for the IFC Panhellenic Ball gets underway Thursday from 10 to 11 p.m. at Old College Hall in the Union.

Openings are available in the decorations, public relations, tickets, entertainment program and favors committees for the Nov. 10 ball to be held in Kellogg Center.

All fraternity and sorority members are invited to attend, operation from the students who

Not allowing the police to speak in their own behalf permitted students to get their entire picture of the police from contacts with individual officers, and from other students and faculty.

"Apparently the faculty is killing us," said one of the supervisors.

"Some faculty members think that because they are faculty they aren't subject to University ordinances and regulations, whether it's parking, traffic or what have you, and they take out their hard feelings on us by criticizing us in the classroom."

"We're here to protect faculty and student, and neither one is better than the other when they commit a violation of one of the regulations."

An anti-police philosophy on the part of the student seems difficult for the police force to combat.

"We seem to get along all right with the individual student," said a patrolman from the busy day shift. "But as a group, students seem to have an anti-police attitude."

"In a city, we wouldn't worry as much about the police image. But on a university campus those students are forming opinions of police that they will carry with them for a lifetime."

Berbed comments from the students also bother the officers.

"We're here to serve and protect the student and his property," said an officer. "But that doesn't mean that we are expected to accept and ignore some of the extreme insults thrown at us by the students."

The student body could be a help in combatting dormitory thefts, sex offenders and minor disturbances, he said.

Cooperation between the student body and the officers could reduce these occurrences. Instead, campus police often get sullen attitudes, lack of cooperation from the students who could be the most help.

"We've made mistakes handling the students," admitted a supervisor. "We hope we've learned our lesson."

Students present a unique problem which is new to some campus patrolmen who have come here for the state police or big city police forces. Formerly, their supervisors told them to get tough.

"Here we tell them to remember they're working with students," the supervisor said.

"Sometimes it doesn't work, but we've learned a lot."

Dealing with 22,000 students each day, the officers still make noticeable mistakes. Flairs of temper at cat-calls make a bad impression.

A mistake by one officer can alienate hundreds of students and take years to regain good will. Because of the stakes, officers are cautious. Perhaps this is an encouraging sign. Perhaps it's a sign of weakness.

Yankee's Fairy Tale at Fairchild

The anger and frustration of non-Yankee fans watching helplessly as the hated Bronx Bombers won pennant after pennant has been give a fairy tale slant in the musical "Damn Yankee" to be shown Wednesday and Friday in the auditorium at 7:30 and 9 p.m.

The film, shown as part of the foreign film series, retains all the snap and sparkle of the original Broadway play.

Students will be admitted to either of these showings for 30 cents with their identification cards at Fairchild theater.

don't know what they are planning."

He added that on the surface it appeared as if it might work in with our plans for a two-year medical school.

The two-year program here would provide the training which has been the bottleneck in M.D.

training. The students could then be transferred to advanced schools at the University of Michigan or Wayne State University, the only two medical schools in the state at the present.

The "med" school would be a separate unit, Byerrum said, and State is actively engaged in hiring someone to head the program.

A committee on medical education of the Michigan

Coordinating Council for Public Higher Education in July recommended a cooperative program of graduate education in the biological sciences between the U. of M. and WSU to strengthen and avoide unnecessary duplication. A two year program of graduate study in human biology MSU was also recommended leading toward either a Ph.D. or an M.D. degree.
