R. B. FINCH

Corps Features Official

Rogers E. Finch, permanent field representative of the Peace Corps Division of University Relations, will appear on campus for "Peace Corps Days at MSU," today through Thursday.

Today Finch will talk at a Delta Phi Epsilon coffee for faculty and students in 21 Union, from 3:30-4:30. Later he will be in the Student Services lounge to address AUSG. At 7:30, Finch will give a lecture at Wilson Auditorium and narrate a movie.

An informal meeting is scheduled for Wednesday at 2:30 for faculty and education majors in the Education building lounge. He will also appear at St. John's student center to narrate the movie at 8 p.m.

Finch will wrap up his three-day session at State by narrating the Peace Corps movie in Union parlors B-C at 7 p.m. on Thursday.

Born in Broadalbin, N. Y., Finch attained his B.S. in mechanical engineering at M.I.T. "It was a trip to Japan in 1951 that got me interested in the international business," Finch said.

He spent two months in Tokyo as an advisor to the Ministry of Education and to Japanese universities on problems of engineering education.

In 1952, he was sent to Burma to further relations at the University of Rangoon. Later, he headed the Rangoon project and stayed in Burma for 18 months as Deputy director and then as Director of the Foreign Aid Mission there.

Finch returned home to the U.S. as assistant director of the Rensselaer Research Division. He became associate dean of the school of science and then Rensselaer Research Director as well as consultant on science and engineering in Latin America for the Ford Foundation.

It was at this time in 1961 that Finch received a call from Sargent Shriver asking him to "come down to Washington."

Since then, Finch has been a permanent Peace Corps staff representative. During "Peace Corps Days," he will meet with as many interested students as possible and show movies on the various projects in all outposts of the world.

Coupon C from the student activity book may be exchanged for a ticket to either "A Program for Two Players," featuring Maurice Evans and Helen Hayes on Nov. 6 or the violin concert of David Oistrakh on Nov. 5.

Any student who has tickets for either performance of "The Sound of Music," and finds he will not be able to attend the show is asked to return the tickets to the Union Ticket Office.

MHA and WIRC Hit Pamphlets

Anonymous pamphlets distributed in the dorms, protesting the Speaker's Committee and urging readers to influence their representatives against participating on the committee were discussed at a joint meeting of Women's Inter-Residence Council and Men's Hall Association Thursday.

The official statement from the meeting was: "Since the pamphlets were unsigned and were slipped under the doors in many residence halls, it would appear that the participating party or parties promoting this action were lacking in conviction and individual responsibility."

The representatives of WIC and MHA feel that the action taken was completely unauthorized in regard to University regulations and individual student rights and privileges.

The pamphlet read: "To the students of MSU: President Hannah has decreed that a committee be formed to determine who you shall be allowed to listen to. This 'faculty-student' committee will screen and judge, by an UNDEFINED policy, those speakers which campus clubs wish to bring to MSU."

"This is being done because the administration does not consider us intelligent enough to hear certain controversial people or ideas."

"How long will we, as students, endure this insult?" "Tell your MHA, WIC, IFC, or Pan-Hel representative to get off this committee as Bob Howard, AUSG President, has done, and let's stop students from betraying students."

"Stand up and be counted! Protest the formation of this committee!" "For once let the voice of the students be heard."

Through special radio facilities, President Kennedy also directed a special message to what he termed "the captive people of Cuba" during the speech.

Kennedy spoke of his deep sorrow that their nationalist revolution was betrayed; that their country fell under foreign domination.

"Now your leaders no longer are Cuban leaders inspired by Cuban ideals. They are puppets and agents of an international conspiracy which has turned Cuba against your friends and neighbors in the Americas; turned it in to the first Latin American country to become a target for nuclear war; the first Latin American country to have these weapons on its soil."

First Statement By The Committee

Out of the first meeting of the controversial Faculty-Student Committee on speakers held Thursday came the following pronouncement by Eldon Nonnamaker, chairman of the body:

"...all colleges, departments, and centers which sponsor student groups will assume direct responsibility for outside speakers brought by those groups, and are not accountable to this committee."

"All regularly chartered student religious organizations will assume direct responsibility through their advisors for speakers brought by such groups and are not accountable to this committee..."

There are two ways to interpret this statement.

On the one hand, you can rejoice in noticing how generous the committee is going to be by voluntarily limiting its control over some campus groups.

On the other hand, you can read the statement issued by Nonnamaker and conclude that, in effect, the committee has not been as generous as it appears.

Let's us be realistic about the situation. The State News has just as much confidence as Nonnamaker that the Catholic Youth Center is not going to invite any outside speaker who might border on the controversial.

Similarly, we have a sneaking suspicion that no dean of any college and no head of any department will stick his neck out to bring someone on this campus who strays too far from the accepted values of the higher-ups.

The Faculty-Student Committee has its eye on the student groups such as the Socialists and Humanist Society over which it feels it must maintain constant vigilance.

We feel that, in effect, the first pronouncement released by the committee said little to encourage those who believe in free speech and did little to limit its control significantly.

"Don't be silly, Virginia - of course there's an AUGS!"

Bias and Prejudice The Big Decision

Paul Schnitt

There comes a time in every man's life when he must make a big decision. Some people, of course, have to make decisions of greater significance than others do.

After all his personal and official advisers offered their suggestions, ultimately President Kennedy had to decide whether or not to resume nuclear testing after the Russians had the moratorium. The final responsibility rested with him.

Nobody will ever know how many White House rocking chairs were out before he reached his momentous conclusion.

Meanwhile over on the evil side of the world, where the bad guys, we can see Khrushchev pondering over a glass of vodka, pondering whether to build a stockpile of 100 megaton bombs or a stockpile of more efficient 100 megaton weapons.

No one will ever know (or dare tell) how many times the Soviet passed down Nikkie's esophagus during the decision-making process. But these world leaders are not the only individuals who make momentous decisions. In our own little way each of us do the same.

Every day we are forced to choose:

Should I wear a wool sweater or my bathing suit?

Should we stop at 230 or try to jam a few more students in the room?

Should I get married or join the French Foreign Legion?

Should we or should we not lock George Romney in a room at 173 University of Michigan?

Well, I made the big decision. Truly a momentous one. My personal advisers offered suggestions, alternatives, and but ultimately the final responsibility rested with me.

So, playing an inspired Hamlet, I locked myself in my closet for three days and deliberated, weighing all the factors, the pros and cons, the consequences, etc.

Then out of a clear blue sky (well, it wasn't really a clear blue sky. It was more of a dark, dingy, moth-inhabited closet, the hit me).

After three days of analysis, I reached the following conclusions:

1. The old name of my column, "A Column," was too general.
2. Something should be done about this unfortunate situation for three more days on what should be done.
3. I did not fail. When I reappeared, my mind had been made.
4. Since I didn't like the old name of the column, I decided to change the name of the column to "Bias and Prejudice." See Philosophy 337—"Formal Logic I."

Of course, these six days of mental agony were just part of my thinking faculties. So I gave them a few days to rest to class and studied. But there's that old adage which says that if you have something unpleasant to do, get it out of the way as soon as possible.

Thus, I returned to the closet to think of a new name for my column. There was just something about the name "A Column" which left the reader up in the air, uninspired to read my column and antagonistic toward the writer.

Well, all sorts of ideas came to mind. Why not call it "See?" I asked myself. But my name isn't Wally!

How about "So The Editor Says?" That wouldn't be right because I'm not the Editor. And I'd sit in the closet for a rather than call my column "I'm Not The Editor."

Hence these two possibilities were eliminated immediately the grounds of inaccuracy, unappropriateness and incongruity.

Other ideas swarmed my moth-racked head, only to be rejected.

I could have called my column "The Bible," but that would be blasphemous.

I could have called it "The Encyclopedia Britannica," but that would be incongruous with my level of writing.

I could have called it "Doric Column" or "Ionic Column," but that would be incongruous with MSU architecture.

I could have called it "Mein Kampf," but I don't look like Charlie Chaplin. Besides, everybody who read my column would only laugh and call me a harmless little clown—just like he did in the 1930's.

I could have called it "Classified Ads," but I haven't time to rent. I'm not lost although I haven't found myself. I wanted or for sale. And, though I am in good condition and a hard top, I do not operate with automatic transmission and on white wall tires.

The name, of course, did come to me eventually. I must admit it is not original for, indeed, it was Dean Lewis S. Felt, Flint Community Junior College who first used the phrase three weeks ago.

It was he who inspired me, and it is to him I would like to dedicate this first column under the name "Bias and Prejudice."

So, Jacqueline (no pictures, please), if you'll smash that bit of champagne against the bow of my column, we can launch our good ship "Bias and Prejudice."

And, as Dean Felt would probably say, the craft has work of being sunk — as long as it stays outside of enemy waters, long as it avoids the storm-susceptible areas.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Let's see if we can't make a few more decisions together.

Letters to the Editor

On Parking Lots, Censorship

To the Editor:

This is a complaint about what should not be a problem: the parking lots on south campus. It seems to me that students who pay enough money already for tuition, car registration and parking should not be required to pay double parking. I am referring to the poor paygate system that does not light up to let people know when the lot is full.

I have been caught in this situation several times already this term. It's ridiculous the way so many cars are lined up in these full lots waiting for someone to leave just because the sign is not working. There is no way to see from the street if there are waiting cars, and more people join their ranks. One has a choice of waiting or paying an extra dime to get out to park in another lot farther away.

Most students can't afford the wait because of classes on north campus. And it takes at least 15 minutes to get from the parking lot across from the Engineering Building to Berkeley Hall. And many students are on tight budgets and can't afford a wasted 30 cents a week just to find out they can't park in these lots.

Regardless of this, there is a principle involved. It is a senseless waste of time and money. Once I was caught in one of the full lots with only one dime. There weren't any islands left to park on because other desperate students had already occupied them. So I paid my last dime.

When I called the Department of Public Safety, I received the very intelligent answer:

"Well, there might be a police officer around who may be able to let you out. If not perhaps you can borrow a dime."

Like the other 17,000 students attending Michigan State, I am not coming just to borrow money so I can get out of parking lots. We pay enough for the facilities and rightly expect them to be in working order. When they need repair, they should be taken care of or else eliminate the paygates altogether.

I might add that sometimes I've been locked in. It's very depressing to get in a dime and not have the gate go up.

Another complaint is that at times the sign says "Lot Full" and you can see several empty spaces; but you can't get in because when the sign is on, that gate just doesn't open.

I believe I have a just complaint. We students may hope that something will be done about remedying this needless problem—and soon.

Mrs. Richard A. Great

Editor's note—There is an explanation why the system frequently fails to light up when the parking lots are full. At night some of the students living in the Show Dormitory, driven by a passion for thriftiness, jump on the red light strip which causes the warning gate. These incidents repeatedly will throw the system out of kilter to the extent that at times the light will not be on when the lot is full and vice versa.

Foul Air

Has anyone found if the putrid emanation of the sewage disposal plant on the Red Cedar opposite Bailey is harmful or merely noisome? The Brody group is acquiring an infamous distinction among dormitories because of the stench from what is politely called "the beautiful waterfall." Sometimes the stink becomes so powerful as to overwhelm any thought of work. If the purpose of this plant is to destroy any offensive substances, why isn't the offensive odor destroyed also?

The Brody group is fortunate to have a pair of girls' dorms in its midst. We are glad their rooms are the farthest from the "waterfall", but, from some of the coed's comments, it appears they are not far enough away. It was bad enough to have University men tolerating the pungent fumes, but now there are young ladies who must endure this foul air, too.

We feel something should be done to delete this awful smell.

Would someone either arrange to eliminate the odor or supply our rooms with air freshener? We hope the University Administration is interested enough in the welfare of its students to investigate and correct a situation which has been a student complaint for many years.

Solution?

To the Editor:

Perhaps H. Kelley Crockett has a solution for rape and other brutal sex crimes that occur in our society. If he does not, I don't think he should criticize an organization that is attempting to arrive at a solution.

I wonder if the AFL Professor believes that the "trash" available at every news stand could be a contributing factor to these crimes.

If he does, he should have congratulated Clarissa Young of the Lansing Police Department instead of condemning her actions as a waste of time. If he doesn't think this junk is a contributing factor, he ought to have his head examined.

Congratulations to Clarissa Young in her attempt to clean the fifth from our news stands.

Bouquets

To the Editor:

Many thanks for your editorial on Romney's half-time antics and for printing the fine article by Mr. Crockett on "Sex, Censorship, and Slaty." Timely, intelligent reaction toward local events is perhaps the best service any newspaper can offer its readers. In the past, the State News has shown maturity and depth. On these occasions the readership has, on the whole, responded with warmth and genuine pride.

It is to be hoped that this maturity and depth will be carefully nurtured so that accurate coverage and responsible editorship will become routine. We have already seen many pleasant indications of your potential in this respect, our student newspaper can give the local ones something to ponder.

Fringe?

To the Editor:

I'm sure that some of the faculty and staff members were overjoyed at the new fringe benefit that Mr. May provided for them! The question I wish to pose is, "what benefits are they going to provide for the staff members or faculty who do not or are not permitted to use the staff parking spaces on Campus?"

After reading the article in the State News, it was my understanding that a pay raise was due for all the University employees. If we assume that pay raises or benefits are earned or are due to the rising cost of living, then evidently Mr. May and the University feel that the student wives (not permitted to use staff parking) who work on Campus and non-driving faculty members are not deserving of the $25.00 the others are receiving.

I realize the word "discrimination" has several meanings, but I'm sure the above situation will fall into one of them. Of course it may be said that $25.00 a year is a minute sum to be bickering about, but is it fair to pay one worker $3675 and another $5700 when they both started their employment at the same time and do the same type of work and are on the same pay scale?

I realize the foregoing group are probably in the minority and will never realize the benefits due them. Maybe this group should get organized and present their problem to President Hamann who, as I understand it, is a member of some committee which is against discrimination. Let's be fair to all.

Dinner Dress

To the Editor:

As a male resident of the Brody group, I for one have no objections to dressing for dinner. A suit and the art, after all, proper dinner dress. It looks nice for the men of Brody to appear for dinner looking like the gentlemen most of them are. And I don't think too many of the men object to the dress regulations.

What we do object to, however, is the lack of dress regulations for the women of Brody. They may be charming girls dressed in sweat shirts, tennis shoes and kilts, but they would be charming ladies if they took the time and trouble to dress properly for dinner.

Nursery Rhyme for the World

The following is reprinted from "The Argus" of Illinois Wesleyan University. The author is a freshman.

Nikita, Nikita, where have you gone?
"I've gone to Cuba to egg Castro on."
What are you doing there with Fidel?
"We're going to blow Miami to hell!"
And after you've finished there, what then?
"I think I'll go to bomb Berlin. And after that (we will succeed), we'll try out Yugoslavia's new creed."
And how about the good old U.S.A.?
"Its fall will be through self-decay.
With never a worry we'll watch you rot--
Two more Mississippi and what have you got?"

The Ideal College

The Christian Science Monitor reports that when a group of instructors at four Connecticut Valley colleges were asked what they thought the ideal college would be like, they gave the following qualities:

1. Few lectures and much reading.
2. No departments.
3. No college rank or faculty hierarchy.

4. A president drawn from the college ranks for a five-year term.

5. No intercollegiate athletics.

6. No fraternities or sororities.

7. Costs low enough to permit operation on tuition fees.

Romney Threat To Democrats

Gubernatorial Candidates Have Varied Backgrounds

This is the second in a series of articles to introduce readers to the candidates and the issues of the 1962 fall election. Today State News writer Denis Gossett takes a look at the Republican and Democratic gubernatorial candidates, George Romney and Gov. John B. Swainson in the first of two articles on that exciting race.

By DENIS GOSSETT
Of The State News

CANDIDATE ROMNEY

The office of state governor, which for 14 men has been a stepping stone to the presidency, has been nationally spotlighted in five states during the past few months.

One of these states is Michigan where, for the first time since G. Mennen Williams began his 12-year reign as governor in 1948, the democratic gubernatorial bastion in Lansing is being seriously threatened by a Republican candidate.

The GOP threat has appeared in the person of industrialist George Romney who has been waging an energetic campaign to dislodge his democratic opponent, the incumbent Gov. John B. Swainson.

What are the backgrounds of the two candidates?

Gov. Swainson 37, and just 11 years out of college, is a World War II double-amputee as a result of wounds suffered from a land mine explosion during a night patrol in France 18 years ago.

Swainson was born in Windsor, Ontario, and grew up in Port Huron where he attended high school. He received his AB and LLB degrees from the University of North Carolina in 1951.

After college he established a law practice in Detroit and in 1954 successfully ran for election to the Michigan Senate from the 18th Wayne County district.

In 1956 he was re-elected and during his second term served as Democratic floor leader.

Swainson was elected lieutenant governor in 1958 and two years later ran for the governorship, beating his opponent, Paul Bagwell.

The governor is married to the former Alice Nielson of Detroit. They have three children: Steve, 14; Peter, 12; and Kristina, 4.

Gov. Swainson has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the Plymouth General Allied Veterans Council and was Judge Advocate of the Michigan Department of Disabled War Veterans.

He is a member of the Lions and the Elks and has a life membership in the National Association...

tion for the Advancement of Colored People.

Oddly enough, his opponent was also born outside the United States. The 55-year-old ex-president of American Motors Corp. was born in Chihuahua, Mexico, and was raised on farms in Utah and Idaho.

After attending the University of Utah and George Washington University, Romney became a tariff specialist in 1929 in Washington, D.C. for U.S. Senator David L. Walsh (D-Mass.).

The GOP candidate has a long impressive record in the business arena which began in 1930 when he joined the Aluminum Co. of America and later represented that company in Washington, D.C.

In 1939 Romney came to Michigan as Detroit manager of the Automobile Manufacturers Assoc. and from 1942 to 1948 he was general manager of the association. From 1956 to 1958 he served as its president.

During World War II, Romney was named managing director of the Automotive Council for War Production and in 1946 was managing director of the Automotive Golden Jubilee.

He served as a U.S. employer delegate to the 18-nation conference of the Metal Trades Industry of the International Labor Office from 1946 to 1949.

Romney joined the Nash-Kelvinator Corp. in 1948 as assistant to the president. In 1950 he was elected a vice-president and in 1953 he was selected as executive vice-president.

In 1959 he helped organize the Citizens for Michigan, a non-partisan group, and, during the recent Michigan Constitutional Convention, Romney served as vice-president and delegate from Oakland County.

Rickenbacker To Speak At Public Meeting

World War I flying ace and president of Eastern Air Lines Edward V. (Eddie) Rickenbacker will speak Thursday at a public meeting sponsored by the Ingham County Conservative Club.

The meeting, which is the first major project of the club, will be held at Everett High School at 8 p.m.

Rickenbacker, an early day aviator, enlisted in World War I when he was 25 and was assigned to drive for Col. Bill Mitchell, aviation enthusiast, shop or from members of the Over Germany on Sept. 25, Conservative Club or at the door.

1918, he single-handedly attacked seven German planes, downing two and driving the others back, to win the Congressional Medal of Honor.

After the war, his short-lived Rickenbacker Motor company introduced several models. In 1945 he bought and sold the Indianapolis Speedway. He later became president of Eastern, and since 1953 has been chairman of the board.

Tickets for the speech may be obtained at the Paramount News or from members of the Conservative Club or at the door.

London U. Prof Opens African Lecture Series

The African attitude toward the problems of segregation in the American South is one of acceptance, said Jack Berry, director of the school of Oriental and African studies at the University of London.

Berry, on campus last week to open the lecture series of the African language section, returned recently after a stay in West Africa.

"Of course the Africans really don't approve of the U.S. Southern situation," he said, "but it's clearly seen that the men of good will are making a determined effort to clear up the problems and integrate the South."

"I think the Americans should not try to gloss it over," he added. With the racial incidents in Mississippi so widely publicized, Berry said, "I think really it has increased the American stature in many peoples' eyes."

Berry commented on the African apprehension toward the African nations becoming Communist.

"I don't share this apprehension," he said. "Communism has received a considerable setback in Guinea. The place we're all worried about is Ghana," he admitted.

Berry said that the main desire of the majority of African nations is to remain noncommittal.

The surge of new African nations and the coming importance of them in world events has prompted a large increase in the percentage of students studying African languages and affairs, at least in the University of London, he said.

There are not a proportionate number of job openings for these people, he added.

"I think there is less opportunity than before," Berry said. Generally the students don't intend to be there for any length of time.

He said he feels most students might go to Africa for a year or more, and then return to their homes for work in another field.

Paterra, Mellinga Sideland Azor, Brown Take Over

The joy from the Spartans' splashing 31-7 victory over the Fighting Irish was dimmed somewhat yesterday by two sad notes from team physician James Feurig.

First team guards Herb Paterra and Steve Mellinger will be held from action for at least one week. That means they won't be ready for the Indiana game and will be unlikely starters for the homecoming battle with Minnesota.

demotion after the Stanford game. He has been working with the second team for the last two weeks. Sophomores Rahn Bently and John Walsh were moved up to the second team to replace the promoted Azar and Brown.

Dr. Feurig also reported that Dick Proebstle, junior quarterback from Canton, Ohio, will be sidelined for the rest of the season. Proebstle, who appeared in just two plays this fall, suffered bad-

Dr. Feurig said Proebstle hasn't shown satisfactory recuperation from the two injuries. End Ernie Clark and tackle Ed Youngs suffered minor injuries Saturday but are expected to be ready for the trip to Indiana. Clark acquired a sprained elbow while Youngs suffered a foot injury.

Heavy rain caused Daugherty to move his forces into Jenison Field House for practice Monday. Duffy reviewed Saturday's game.

Replacing Paterra and Mellinger will be veteran guards George Azar and Charlie Brown. Azar, a senior, has been out with an injury most of the season and will be getting his first starting assignment this season. George was a starter in his sophomore and junior year.

Title Blank After TD Run

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quarterback Y.A. Tittle of the New York Giants was hit so hard on the head during the first period his mind went blank, but by the third quarter he was lucid enough to overrule his coach on a decision that won the game.

Coach Alie Sherman of the Giants laughingly confirmed this yesterday in the clubhouse following the Giants' 17-14 upset victory over the Detroit Lions.

The massing occurred with the Giants on Detroit's two-yard line, on last down, with the score tied at 14-14 in the third period.

Sherman at first ordered the Giants to try for the yardage. Tittle thought it unwise. He called time out, ran to the sidelines and convinced Sherman the Giants should try for a field goal. Don Chandler kicked it from the line and this proved to be the Giants' winning margin.

"From where I was standing on the other side of the field, I thought we had only about one foot to go for a touchdown and the kicking angle looked mighty difficult to me. That's why I at first thought we should run for it," Sherman explained.

"But when Y.A. (Tittle) came over and told me exactly where the ball was and that we should go for a field goal, I wasn't going to argue with him," the Giants coach continued. "After all, that's why you have pros out there on the field."

Tittle, 35, and not too robust, was knocked groggy during the first period when he was hit by two big Detroit defenders as he crossed the goal-line for a touchdown on a four-yard "Boottleg" run around right end.

"I was all right when I first came back to the bench," Tittle related. "Doc Sweeney (Giants physician) asked me to identify the numbers of a few players and I could do that all right. Then, suddenly my mind went completely blank and I didn't know what was going on until about a minute before the first half ended."

Ann Arbor Women's Swim Team Controversy on Ranks 1st Beats W. Ontario In State

In a record setting meet, the Women's Varsity Swim Team defeated the University of Western Ontario, 49-27.

Coming back from a 61-25 defeat at the hands of Michigan on the previous Saturday, the team showed fine form in Canada Friday.

The team went to London, Canada for the second meet of the season Friday evening. After winning the meet, they were furnished with blind dates, treated to pizza and then spent the night in the dorms as the guests of the Ontario team.

Chris Kluzer broke the 27.3

twist, 1-1/2 sommersault in the prone position, front 1-1/2 in the tuck position in addition to the required front dive.

Second place in the diving went to State's Lucy Fomenko. Carol Kowalewski took the 30 yard backstroke in 35.1 seconds.

Coach Ann Chadwick felt that the team was "really sharp" and stated that she would like to take some of the members to the Nationals this year.

She feels that the team could use "one more good freestyler" and urges any coed who could qualify to try out for the team. The team practices Monday

State officials said today they would seek dismissal of a court suit aimed at prohibiting the scheduled antlerless deer season in Michigan.

A suit on file in Ontonagon County Circuit Court asked for an injunction to prevent the Conservation Department from carrying through with its plans to allow hunters to harvest an estimated 32,000 does and fawns next month during the regular hunting season.

Nicholas Olds, chief of the attorney general's conservation division, said the state would seek dismissal for the suit filed with Ontonagon Circuit Judge Robert R. Wright.

"We will probably not have any papers ready until later this week but we will contend that the court does not have jurisdiction to entertain this suit," Olds said.

State Sen. Charles O. McManiman, D-Houghton, filed the suit Saturday. The judge set Oct. 29 for a hearing at which the state was to show cause why an injunction should not be issued barring the special season.

Olds said McManiman's suit contended the Conservation Department and commission failed to follow state law when it set the special season because it not submit the plans to the legislative committee on administrative rules.

Conservation officials given discretionary power by the state to set special seasons on deer. McManiman earlier said he would file the suit in the circuit court because he believed the judge there might be sympathetic to local wishes.

Normally suits against officials are filed either in the County Circuit Court or the State Supreme Court.

The Conservation Department last week conducted a draw to select the 81,000 hunters who will be allowed to kill antlerless deer. But officials said the court does not have jurisdiction to entertain this suit.

Mickey Wright Cop's 9 Tourneys

To win nine golf tournaments and $21,389 this year, Mickey Wright of Dallas must have hit plenty of fine shots.

She pulled one out yesterday that she says was "the best shot I ever made in golf," and it gave her the Cavern City Open Tournament and $1,200 that most of the crowd thought would go to Kathy Whitworth of Jal., N.M.

Miss Whitworth led the Dallas blonde by two strokes after 36 holes of play, and it was still two strokes with two holes to go. Mickey whacked a long drive from the 17th tee into the rough, but reached for a four wood and lofted the ball to within six feet of the pin.

By DAVE MARFST

Ohio State's faculty council voted to accept the new special season because it would permit the team to file the suit in the Court because of the suspension of the team's participation in the Big Ten Conference.

The council also gave several reasons for its refusal to accept the new season. They were: 1) It is improper for a faculty council to lend its time and efforts to students for a commercial enterprise for the Los Angeles game. 2) The game is held six weeks after the close of the regular season and causes disruption of the central education of the university and 3) the manner in which the game is made is neither fitting nor proper at a time when a major crisis exists at OSU and the country at large.

After 12 months time, the faculty council took the turn and supported the new Rose Bowl pact with the Athletic Association of Western Universities (Big Five).

The pact between the two conferences renewed their agreement which started in 1946. With the Big Ten being the major college athletic conference, and the Rose Bowl considered the patriarch of all bowl classics, the pact was set for the New Year's Day classic.

The pact also provides for the always mighty Buckeyes of Coach Woody Hayes to play two games this year, including Saturday's 14 loss to conference foe, Northwestern.

Northwestern's third conference win in as many starts, against Purdue and Michigan State sporting unbeaten marks, it dampens OSU's hopes of going to the Rose Bowl.

The time passing arm of quarterback Tom Myers is considered the top contender. The Wildcats' pace to date has also moved them into the No. 2 spot behind Texas.

Players of Wisconsin are 2-0 in conference action, while Purdue have won their only start. Selection of the Big Ten is open to all teams this season, since they were the victor last year when Minnesota made the long haul.

The pact says that no team will go two consecutive years and it does specify the top finisher in the standings as the winner.

The school cast its ballot for a conference team to make the New Year's Day excursion. The school relieving the greatest of votes will be the team offered the bid. In case of a tie the team that went last will be excluded. If the case that two teams tie that have never gone to the classic, the representative will be chosen by a flip of the coin.

The new innovation is that the expenses of the team that wins is paid from the receipts of the game. The remainder money is then divided into 11 equal shares. One share goes to each of the 10 schools, with the other going to the commissioner's office.

Detroit Lions coach George Wilson says X-rays show that the team's big linebacker and defensive captain Joe Schmidt did not suffer a rib fracture during the Lions-Giants game yesterday.

Wilson says Schmidt possibly will see action when the Lions meet the Chicago Bears Sunday. The clubs are tied for second place in the Western Division of the National Football League.

Schmidt was injured during the second period of the Lions' 17-14 defeat by the Giants in New York.

Also on the injured list is leading pass receiver Terry Barr who is suffering from a bad leg.

The Detroit Red Wings continued their winning pace last night by outskating the Chicago Black Hawks, 3-1.

The Detroit Hockey Club's record now stands at four victories against one tie, that coming in a deadlock previously with the Hawks.

Michigan State (1-0) and Purdue (1-0) were close behind.

The Wildcats get a breather next Saturday, facing Notre Dame at home, while Wisconsin must tackle Ohio State. The Badgers defeated Iowa 42-14 Saturday; Purdue walloped Michigan 37-0, and Minnesota beat winless Illinois 17-0 in conference play.

Outside the conference, Michigan State became the third Big Ten team to defeat Notre Dame this season, winning 31-7, and Washington State became the fifth West Coast club to beat a Big Ten team with a 21-15 victory over Indiana.

Wisconsin's Ron Vanderkelen, Purdue's Ron Degraivo and George Saines of Michigan State were Saturday's scoring heroes.

Vanderkelen threw three touchdown passes, one to his favorite target, end Pat Richter who ran his scoring streak to eight games.

Degraivo heaved three long touchdown passes in the Boiler-makers' romp. They went 54 yards to Tom Fugate, 34 yards to Don Brumm, and 58 yards to Tom Bloom.

Northwestern's coach said there "were so many heroes I couldn't name them," but Tom Myers, a 19-year-old youth from Troy, Ohio, had to be one of them.

The Wildcats' sophomore quarterback threw two passes to bring his team back into the game after Ohio State moved to a rapid 14-0 first period lead. He also called the shots on the winning drive before a stout-hearted defense took over and muffled the Buckeye's last chance on the Wildcats, eight-yard line.

Northwestern, which hasn't won a Big Ten Championship since 1936, stayed atop the league standings with a 3-0 record. But three others--Wisconsin (2-0,

Ball Commissioner To Meet with Japs

TOKYO (UPI) — U.S. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said Monday he will meet with Japanese baseball officials during the current Detroit Tiger tour to work out ground rules for the switching of players from the United States to Japan.

Japanese professional baseball usually harbors several American players—most notably Don Newcombe and Larry Doby this year—and occasionally there are squawks from American owners that the players have jumped their contracts.

The most recent example was that of pitcher Joe Stanka who is with the Nankai Hawks of Japan's Pacific League. The Chicago White Sox claimed they owned his contract. Stanka said he was a free agent.

The difference has been smoothed over but could recur again any time, Frick, in answer to a question following a lunch speech at the Foreign Correspondents Club of Japan, said that is why he will be meeting Japanese officials.

"I don't believe any complicated arrangement is required," Frick said. "All we need is a simple agreement set down in black and white that would govern the exchange of players between the two countries."

Dave Behrman, Michigan State's All-American center, tinkers with radios and things mechanical when not facing the opposition across a scrimmage line.

Michigan State's gymnastics captain for 1963 is Jerry George, sophomore all-around performer from Jesuit High School in New Orleans, La.

Doug Roberts, fine Michigan State grid hopeful from Detroit Cooley High, rates as a top prospect for play with the Spartan hockey team as well.

Wildcat Coach Cites Squad Turf Tactics

CHICAGO (UPI) — Like a prospector coming upon gold, coach Ara Parseghian today revelled in the discovery that Northwestern, hailed as the nation's best passing team, can also win on the ground.

This, Parseghian said, was the most significant fact to emerge from Northwestern's 18-14 victory over Ohio State Saturday.

"We beat them at their own game. We went for that last touchdown on the ground and not a pass was thrown," Parseghian said of the late 42-yard drive which carried the unbeaten Wildcats to their fourth consecutive victory.

Northwestern's coach said there "were so many heroes I couldn't name them," but Tom Myers, a 19-year-old youth from Troy, Ohio, had to be one of them.

The Wildcats' sophomore quarterback threw two passes to bring his team back into the game after Ohio State moved to a rapid 14-0 first period lead. He also called the shots on the winning drive before a stout-hearted defense took over and muffled the Buckeye's last chance on the Wildcats, eight-yard line.

Northwestern, which hasn't won a Big Ten Championship since 1936, stayed atop the league standings with a 3-0 record. But three others--Wisconsin (2-0,

Fires Reported on South Campus

fires broke out within minutes of each other on south campus Monday.

The first warning came when a Lansing fire dispatcher was to investigate a report of an electrical fire in a building on the south campus.

When he entered the building he found no signs of smoke or fire. He could smell an odor of burning.

After this first call, a fire was reported in the South Power Plant. The fire fighting units left one truck at Anthony and went 200 yards to the Power Plant area.

The only visible signs of fire were small amounts of smoke coming from manholes in the construction area. The fire was reported to be in one of the tunnels leading to the mechanical rooms of the plant.

A party was formed under the direction of Chief Murle Cory to enter the tunnel. One man, wearing oxygen breathing apparatus entered the tunnel followed by the Chief. A third man fed a hose in from a pump

WE ARE LOOKING FOR ONE MAN WITH ONE IDEA OR TWENTY MEN WITH TWENTY IDEAS

The man is probably a member of the faculty at a university or college... or is employed in an important technical or executive capacity in industry. He is well grounded in his field. He is creative, and somewhere during his past experience he has conceived a good sound idea.

The idea is a saleable one. It may be a method for improving certain components in industrial machinery. It may be a new industrial application for a chemical compound. It may be a technique, a system, a discovery in the physical sciences. Or it may be a design or a concept for a new consumer product. He has what he feels is a "better mouse trap." It is probably patented, copyrighted or otherwise owned and protected by the man. But then again, perhaps it is not.

Our aim is to locate the man with the idea. As part of a major expansion of our research and development program, we are looking for new ideas and products to put into use... and men to guide them to success. We will probe, investigate and analyze both the idea and the man. And if both should measure up, we would finance the exploitation of the idea by financing a new subsidiary company in which the man would receive a stock interest. This company would manufacture and market the idea. We believe this method affords the man the optimum satisfaction and profit from a successful venture.

If you feel you qualify to the above description—if you are this kind of man (or woman) with this kind of idea—please contact Mr. J. C. Mueller, Director, Research Division, at once.

New Vacancies Exist in Married Housing Facilities

Although the University's building program is continuing, there are no immediate plans for more married housing facilities according to Joseph Lamphear, manager of married housing.

"There are more factors to consider than just the building program," Lamphear said. "There are more than 100 married students in the area. At the end of spring term there may be only a few vacancies after fall and winter drop-outs."

"The dormitory drop-outs, however, are more than 100," Lamphear said. "The married students can't leave their units because of the fluctuating market."

Lamphear said that a waiting list for these apartments must be maintained. The units will be vacant in the near future.

"The waiting list for single-bed apartments is greater at present," Lamphear said. "In 1953, there have been permanent apartments built. This is the largest married housing project in the nation, he said."

The university does build married housing.

"Our only building project at the moment is the new married housing office and maintenance building which will be completed in early November of this year," Lamphear concluded.

Students Eat Free Apples, During Nat'l Apple Week

Hungry students consumed over 40 bushels of Snow apples Friday which were given away in front of the Horticulture building by the Pomology Club.

Bill Austin, vice president of the club, said that the club gave away the apples during National Apple Week to promote the healthful properties of apples as demonstrated in research tests conducted by the horticulture and health departments.

Research done by the departments over a three year period, indicated that students who consumed two apples a day had a lower incidence of upper respiratory disorders and tension-pressure phenomena than would be expected on a basis of the entire student body.

The club also operates the apple vending machine in the Horticulture building. Austin called the machine a research project to determine which varieties of apples the students like best. The machine dispenses three varieties of apples: McIntosh, Jonathan and Delicious, with Delicious being the present student favorite.

Grad Receives Banner Award

A University graduate student is one of the first two students ever chosen to receive a unique fellowship.

Joseph S. Johnson, who is working on an advanced degree in the department of television and radio, will report to New York City Monday for eight weeks of study on a Banner Foundation Fellowship.

He will observe and study procedures at the major networks, the new New York educational TV station, WNET, and at Bob Banner Productions, whose programs include the Gary Moore Show and Candid Camera. The Banner Foundation will pay his travel and residence expenses.

The fellowship was offered this year for the first time. Charles Smith, a Stanford University student, was the only other recipient.

Johnson is from Sandy, Ore. He attended the University of Utah, which granted him the B.A. degree in 1961. He was assistant news director at KSL, Salt Lake City, in 1960 and 1961, while attending the university. In the summer of 1961, while attending the Stanford Institute of Radio, TV and Film, Johnson received a KPIX-Westinghouse Outstanding Student Award.
