

Top Michiganders To Speak At Leadership Conference

J-Council will sponsor its first student leadership conference at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in Wilson Hall Auditorium.

Main speakers will be leading personalities in Michigan government, business and education, who will attempt to acquaint students with the demands of leadership in nearly every area of civic life.

Speakers are Zolton A. Ferency, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee; James M. Hare, Michigan secretary of state; Jack Breslin, secretary to the MSU Board of Trustees.

Walter F. Johnson, professor of education and former president of the American Personnel and Guidance Association; Howard J. Stoddard, president of the Michigan National Bank; and Kenneth J. Boekeloo, vice-president and controller of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The conference will begin with a panel discussion moderated by Starr Keesler, assistant to Breslin. Each of the main speakers will serve on the panel and lead discussion groups.

A coffee break at 2:30 p.m. will give students the opportunity to meet with the speakers.

More than 200 students are expected to attend the conference. Carol Kurzenberger, Park Ridge, Ill., junior and conference coordinator, says the program is "designed to escape from conventional leadership conferences, which have only coordinated ideas on leadership at the student-campus level."

Areas which will be explored in the discussion groups include the problems of a leader when his goals and the goals of the group differ, the leader and outside pressures; the leader when he comes into conflict with other leaders; and the leader and his group organization.

Registration forms for the conference are available in 317 Student Services. A 35 cent fee is required to attend.

University Buses Considered

By CHARLIE WELLS
State News Staff Writer

Lots To Campus Service

President John A. Hannah revealed Wednesday that the University is considering operation of its own bus service between perimeter parking lots and the center of campus.

The service will go into effect next fall when all student driving will be banned on campus street between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on class days.

Hannah would not say definitely whether or not the bus service would be run by the University. All indications are, however, that MSU will operate it instead of working with Lansing Suburban Lines which presently services the campus.

University officials believe a private company simply will not have enough financial resources to buy new buses and supply the service they want for the campus.

"We would have to pay all their costs and have nothing to say about operation," one official said.

"We are seriously considering the possibility of a University-operated bus service," Hannah said. "But the Board of Trustees will make the final decision."

The Board will meet today, but Hannah indicated they would concern themselves more with faculty promotions than with MSU's traffic problem. This issue will probably come up at the next meeting in May.

Hannah said the service would operate every five minutes from a 2,000 car commuter lot at Farm Lane and Mt. Hope Road to the parking lot near East Shaw Hall. Another east-west line is being proposed along Shaw Lane from Hagadorn Road to Harrison Road.

"There will be no change in the student driver registration cost," Hannah said, dispelling rumors that fees would be increased to pay for the improved bus service.

Earlier this week President Hannah said faculty members who want to pay a fee of $18 per year would be able to park their cars on campus.

Faculty members who pay the fee, he said, will receive special tickets which will activate the time-metered entrances to the parking lots.

Faculty members may reserve a parking space on campus which will have their name printed on it for $48 per year.

This space will be reserved for them from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. week days and the forenoon Saturdays.

All students and faculty cars will still have to be registered.

Bob Milne Ruled Ineligible

Wingo Cancels Bid For Office

Today's election for All-University Student Government president is to be a two-man race between James Jesse, Buchanan junior, and Bob Harris, Bryan, Ohio, junior.

What originally sounded like a four-man contest was reduced to the two primary winners when Bob Milne, Standish senior, was disqualified by the elections commission and Herb Wingo, Buchanan sophomore, announced he was discontinuing his campaign.

Both Milne and Wingo had announced their intentions to run as write-in candidates.

Milne was disqualified by the elections commission because he failed to meet the requirements set up in the AUSG constitution which candidates for the presidency must meet, and any votes for him will be voided.

There are five ways a candidate may qualify. He is eligible if, during his junior year, he has served as president of a major governing body for one full year, or if he has served in student congress continuously from the previous fall term elections to the first day of petitioning for spring term elections.

He is also eligible if he has served on the AUSG president's cabinet during the year, or if he has served in a combination of student congress and the president's cabinet during the year, or if he has the approval of congress to run.

Wingo, in announcing that he

Cuba Arrests American For Spying

HAVANA (UPI)—A Cuban court has sentenced a retired American businessman to 30 years in prison on charges of spying.

The court said Frank Emmick, of Rossford, Ohio, had worked for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). A roll of film, showing Soviet military bases in Cuba, was alleged to have been taken from Emmick's coat pocket. The prosecution said the film was then to be transmitted out of Cuba.

Six Cubans on trial with Emmick also received prison sentences. He himself had been an exporter of frog legs in Cuba until his business was seized by the Castro regime.

LBJ Sees Hope In Rail Talks

Washington (AP)—President Johnson reported "no settlement yet" Wednesday in the railroad labor crisis. But the President said he still hopes for agreement before a nationwide strike threat resumes next week.

Johnson said labor and management negotiators in five days of emergency White House bargaining talks "have narrowed the area of difference on some of the issues."

But, he reported: "There is no settlement yet and there can be no settlement until all issues are disposed of."

Johnson said "intensive mediation" will continue in the talks which he arranged after obtaining a 15-day strike postponement last Friday. The new strike deadline is 12:01 a.m. April 25.

The White House remained silent about the possibility of emergency legislation if the talks fail, but Johnson indicated he would not let the entire 15-day postponement expire before considering other steps.

$5,000 Exemption Allowed

Tax Fighters Win Battle

Fraternities, sororities and student cooperatives won a $5,000 concession from the legislature Wednesday in their fight against East Lansing personal property tax.

A senate bill reported out of the house general taxation committee contains the amendment which makes "household furniture, provisions and fuel to the value of $5,000" exempt of personal property tax.

The bill was entered onto general orders for consideration of the committee on the whole. The general taxation committee recommended passage of the bill as amended.

This move by the state legislature represents the first concrete advance achieved by the off campus anti-taxation committee.

The committee composed of students, faculty and other interested persons was formed following East Lansing's announcement of its intention to tax personal property of fraternities, sororities and cooperatives for the first time in the city's history.

Red China Sends Troops To Border

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China has sent substantial troop reinforcements to Sinkiang and has cleared and fortified a belt 20 miles deep along hundreds of miles of the disputed border with the Soviet Union, White Russian refugees said Wednesday.

The refugees from the remote region of northwest China gave this picture: Russian broadcasts boast that some Sinkiang border areas eventually will be incorporated into the Soviet Union. The Chinese denounce Premier Khrushchev, calling him "a good friend of the Americans" who deceived China by reneging on promises of Soviet aid.

Defective Cars Called Camouflaged Killers

Gov. George Romney called defective cars "camouflaged killers that stalk every mile of Michigan highways" in a speech at the 34th annual Michigan Safety Conference luncheon Wednesday. Combined with this, Romney said over 50 per cent of all traffic accidents involve a driver who has been drinking.

The governor urged Michigan's oil industries to develop voluntary programs of vehicle inspection as a means of reducing the state's traffic toll.

"It is generally recognized that while the number of traffic accidents that can be directly attributed to defective vehicles is relatively low, defects play an underrated role in traffic accidents," Romney said.

He said that a bill had been introduced in the present legislative session requiring all cars four years or older to be inspected, but the bill died in committee.

"We expect that the Michigan State Traffic Safety Center will present a recommendation for inspection of vehicles which will be able to introduce in the next session of the legislature," Romney said.

Legislative approval of the Traffic Safety Center would provide the state with an adequate research agency, the governor said.

Romney asked for public support in taking the drinking driver off the road.

"Drinking itself may not be a moral issue," he said, "but the drinking driver is."

"Nobody has the right to drive on a highway. It is a privilege granted by license."

Five Injured In Cyprus Shooting

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—U.N. peacekeeping troops came under fire and shot back Wednesday in several sporadic incidents of the warfare between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

The day's disorders were reported to have left five persons wounded. Turkish official sources said four of their followers were hit. A Greek woman was injured in Nicosia.

BRASILIA (AP)—Humberto Castello Branco was sworn in as President of Brazil Wednesday, laying aside a long military career to tackle the pressing problems of Latin America's largest country.

The man behind the April 1 uprising that sent leftist President Joao Goulart into exile took the oath in a ceremony in front of the congress building before a large gathering, including most members of the diplomatic corps.

Syria Government Squelches Plot

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Syrian government announced Wednesday night that its forces have "completely put down an armed anti-government plot" in the central Syrian city of Hamah.

Acting information Minister Shibli Eissami told reporters that latest reports from the troubled city said the entire town was under full government control.

Ex-Peace Corpsman Claims Organization Lacks Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former Peace Corps volunteer has sharply criticized administration of the Peace Corps and said "Corps policy seems to be to have no policy."

He also attacked his supervisor for doing little but making "occasional ostentatious tours through the jungle area" of Sierra Leone, the West African country where he served as a teacher and coach.

And the former volunteer, Gerald M. Davis of Portland, said Peace Corps administrators wrongly concentrated the corps program on education there instead of on needed health and welfare work.

The views of Davis were placed in Wednesday's congressional record by Rep. Stanley R. Tupper, R-Maine, an enthusiastic Peace Corps supporter who said, "This young man is highly intelligent, very popular, respected in his community, and certainly his observations deserve attention."

A Peace Corps spokesman, asked about the comments, said Davis was "an unsatisfied volunteer who came home of his own choice," and had made similar statements last spring.

"We expect criticism," the spokesman said. "We looked into what Davis had to say and made some changes, but the majority of the volunteers who have served

Contest Of Victors

James Jesse's victory in Tuesday's primary election is a good sign for student government. His quiet campaign was not designed to attract the votes of those who don't know or care about student government beyond the thrill of noisy politicking.

Jesse's plan for reforming the whole organization of All-University Student Government is a serious response to the many problems of that organization. The votes for him Tuesday, it is hoped, were also votes for reform, in the most efficient and effective way that has been proposed.

The balloting Tuesday showed several hopeful trends. The fewest ballots went to the man who had run the most dubious campaign, who in spite of an impressive and expensive campaign evidently did not gain the confidence of many students.

There was an obvious rejection of the candidate who ran on what seemed almost like a revivalist platform, in favor of the calmer, more sensible and rational arguments of the three others.

Today's battle between Jesse and Bob Harris is a contest between two men with realistic views of the function of student government.

The incidental issue in the AUSG election, that of a write-in vote and the abolishment of Student Congress, and the moral implications of both, need hardly be considered in a choice of candidate to support.

A majority of the students who voted Tuesday have indicated support of intelligent, realistic student government, and would do well to consider also voting today for a reorganization that will eliminate many of AUSG's problems, and for the man who is best equipped to put it into effect.

Students government needs reform and reorganization, but does not need it so badly that its representative component need be abolished, thereby removing much of the virtue of the present system.

Student government at MSU certainly does not need reform so badly that all conventions and rules regarding change of its leadership may be disregarded.

The way has been cleared for an improvement in student government at MSU next year. That improvement can be inaugurated with a vote today for the plan and the candidate who is most likely to bring reform, and do it through accepted channels and in a way acceptable to thoughtful students and to the administration.

Today's election is basically, and should remain, a contest only between the two victors in Tuesday's primary. We continue to back James Jesse, and continue to urge a rejection of any last-minute contenders.

Scholarship Plan Lacking

The proposal now before the legislature to institute scholarships for an undetermined number of Michigan high school students for use in Michigan colleges and universities is a fine idea except for one, possibly major, provision.

The awarding of scholarships to students who both need and deserve it is a logical continuation of the state's ideal of providing a good education for all students in the state who show a desire and a capacity for it.

So far, so good, William L. Finni, director of admissions and scholarships, said. "I am in favor of anything that helps students, and this will help students."

A Hollow Victory

But there is little joy in 341 Student Services.

The "mighty" State News has not struck out. The State News has come back from the Michigan College Press Association convention with a packet of award certificates, among them the honor of being named the best college daily in the state.

As long as two of the state's four college dailies, for reasons known only to themselves and/or to MCEA, do not take part in the contest or convention, there is little sense in our considering any awards the judges bequeath to us as anything more than wallpaper.

But, does it help Michigan students to insist that they attend a Michigan institution? The scholarship proposal will require the stipends to be used within the state's borders or forfeited.

As long as there are sufficient spaces for all students in all areas of study within the state, this is fine. But it doesn't provide for students who wish to study outside the state, for specialized subject matter or for a variety of personal reasons.

And their needs should be considered, unless the state of Michigan can feel perfectly confident that within its borders can be found the perfect institution for every student. This seems doubtful.

We have much respect for our University of Detroit counterpart, the Varsity News, but do not take much pride in beating out its editors for the "best daily" award as long as the Michigan Daily and the Wayne State Collegian are not taking part in the fun.

AUSG Platforms

Robert G. Harris

Robert G. Harris, Bryan, Ohio junior, is a pre-med major with a 2.8 average. His activities include West Show activities chairman, Fresh-Soph Council, Union Board, Water Carnival Career Carnival, general chairman of Homecoming, Blue Key, AUSG executive cabinet and director of Spartan Spirit.

In the past few years, many attempts have been made to revise the antiquated structure of AUSG. Because these attempts have failed, and because of the rapid changes the University is undergoing, it is necessary that we re-evaluate the role of student government, study its problems, and propose methods of alleviating them.

There are four general problem areas confronting us: --Legislative: There is at present a complete lack of influence by congress on University policy formulation. The formation of student-faculty committees can give us this influence.

By demonstrating to the administration and faculty a mature and responsible attitude, we can regain the respect so necessary to an effective student government.

Rather than passing meaningless resolutions after the decisions have already been made, students can intelligently contribute during the actual process of decision-making.

--Executive: AUSG needs the support and interest of the student body to be successful, and it must gain that support by serving them.

Extension of services should include:

1. Polling service: Student opinion questionnaires can find out what the students want so that we can give it to them.

2. Student discount service: By utilizing a successful plan initiated last year at Ohio State University and the data from a research project on student buying habits, we can attain this program.

3. Popular entertainment: Low cost, high quality. We can use the profit to increase service in other areas.

--Judicial: The present structure was set up ten years ago under much different circumstances.

To regain the autonomy vital to a good judicial system, we must expand upon the present dorm-level system. The creation of living units' governing body judicial systems would give the students the individuality they deserve.

The all-University judiciary could better utilize its time in coordinating and advising these systems.

--Communication and coordination between governing groups: Too many times several groups are working toward the same goal, but because they take tangential paths, none of them reach it.

An executive steering committee, with the presidents of major governing groups and class governments meeting weekly, could better coordinate their activities.

By presenting the students' voice to administration; by finding what the students want and giving it to them; by creating a fair, individual judicial system; by co-ordinating and communicating between other governing bodies, AUSG can become what it should be: the STUDENTS' government.

Poverty, Prejudice Related Problems

By SUE JACOBY
State News Staff Writer

The relationship between poverty and racial segregation is a complicated puzzle which plagues civil rights leaders.

Robert P. Moses, chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) in Mississippi, told a sociology class here Monday that racial problems in his state are inseparably linked with economic difficulties.

Moses believes that extreme segregationist policies have a direct connection with the impoverished condition of both whites and Negroes in Mississippi.

Mississippi Supports Claim

An examination of conditions in Mississippi seems to offer some support for Moses' claim. Mississippi is undeniably an impoverished state. A yearly survey of current business by the U.S. Department of Commerce reveals that it has had the lowest per capita income in the nation for the past 10 years.

The state ranks 44th in the nation in total personal income. Like many other states of the Deep South, Mississippi has been largely untouched by automation and industrialization. Does segregation fit into the picture of economic backwardness?

In 1960, plantation owners in the northwest Delta area of Mississippi decided to sponsor a program to train tractor drivers with the aid of the U.S. Department of Labor. Some 3,000 Negroes would have been trained under the program, Moses said.

However, area white citizens councils decided they wanted no part of the program.

"They did not want the federal government in Mississippi," Moses said. "They did not want to train Negroes, and they did not want to place Negroes in a situation where they would be able to assemble for weeks at a time. This might have led to bringing in labor unions."

Councils Assert Power

There was a bitter battle between plantation owners and the white citizens councils. The citizens councils were finally successful. In a congressional election, Frank Smith, Mississippi's only liberal Congressman on national issues and a moderate on the race issue, was ousted from his seat.

Who lost? The Negroes and "poor whites" who would have been trained to drive tractors lost the opportunity to learn a useful trade.

The plantation owners lost the opportunity to prepare their land to meet the demands of automation.

Mississippi lost the opportunity to raise the standard of living for several thousand of its citizens.

"Economic problems are now converging with racial problems," Moses said. "Today the Negroes are marching for the right to vote and the right to receive a decent education. Tomorrow they will be marching for jobs."

It would be foolhardy to establish a causal link between segregation and economic impoverishment.

The economic institution of slavery is undoubtedly the ancestor of modern discrimination. However, today's segregation cannot be said to rise solely from economic causes.

Nevertheless, the link between poverty and segregation is apparent in studying economic and social conditions.

"Tomorrow our people will be marching for jobs," Moses said. Perhaps that is the greatest fear of poverty-stricken whites and the most powerful instrument in the hands of political demagogues.

Nigeria Leader Chose U.S.- Style University

James K. Jesse, Buchanan junior, is a social science major with a 2.8 grade-point average. He has been vice-chairman and, this year, chairman of the finance committee. He has served on the radio, steering and committee on committees. He has been AUSG representative to MHA this year.

Editor's Note: This is third of a four-part series on the University's project in Nigeria. It is by an associate professor of economics, John P. Henderson, who is now completing a project tour as economics adviser. The article was prepared to reflect the activities of all MSU advisers to the University of Nigeria.

To Nnamdi Azikiwe, President of the Republic, founder and chancellor of the University of Nigeria, the model of education which his country needed was to be found in the United States, where he had earned his degrees, rather than in England.

The United States and England have differed significantly in the philosophy and structure of their educational systems, with the United States emphasizing quantity, as well as science and experimentation in the universities.

For many decades the British reserved their universities for a small elite drawn from a hierarchical society, while in the United States the "land grant philosophy" has extended education to an ever increasing number.

In the United States we have drawn an increasing number of vocational subjects into our universities and colleges. In England such training has been carried on in institutes and technical schools.

The United States has sought to broaden the base of university education and to train students for participation in a society dominated by science and technology.

Advocates of change in Nigeria envisioned a curriculum which would give priority to agriculture, technical education and engineering.

Nigeria needs agronomists to work and study on her farms to change the technology, and agricultural extensionists to teach the farmer new techniques of crop cultivation. Nigeria needs engineers to build roads, bridges, and dams to harness the potential water power that may one day drive her factories and light her cities.

And she needs youth who are science-oriented, who understand electricity, mechanics and agronomy. Thus Nigeria needs an education system that is science-oriented and stresses the application of science to the everyday problems of living; and she needs a system training teachers to carry the message to the children of the present and future generations.

This is why there are 27 of us from Michigan State University at the University of Nigeria.

Many dissident voices proclaim that it is not the function of a university to turn out technicians and farmers. Of the thousands of Nigerian college students studying overseas today, the largest percentage hope to return to their native land to practice law, or become politicians.

Until the secondary schools are staffed by faculty who believe in the need for science and its application, the stress will continue to be upon the humanities and the arts, the hallmark of a gentleman's education.

Agriculture College

In the Cardozo College of Agriculture there are five professors from Michigan State University, and it is here that perhaps the greatest impact will be made.

Letter To The Editor

Winds Of Change

To the Editor:

On behalf of the chairmen of the Winds of Change Conference, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to those who helped to make the conference a success.

Thanks are due especially to departments of sociology, political science, and geography, the Office of the Dean of International Programs, Continuing Education and All-University Student Government for their generous contributions. We are indebted also to the many members of the faculty who gave freely of their time and professional knowledge to make the student workshops interesting and worthwhile and to MHA and WIC for their cooperation.

Special appreciation goes to our adviser, Wesley Fishel, and to all the students who gave so much of their time toward putting on this conference.

And last but not least, without the wholehearted support and publicity from the State News none of this would have been possible. It is heartening to find our student newspaper lending its enthusiastic encouragement to a serious student effort. Again--THANKS!

Jolynne Cappo, Co-Chairman, Winds of Change Conference

France Balks In Vote

MANILA (AP)—Seven of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization's eight members agreed Wednesday the alliance must be ready to act in South Viet Nam if necessary to keep that nation from falling to the Communists. France, the eighth member, abstained.

The representatives of President Charles De Gaulle's government said they considered the issuance of such a declaration unwise. The split was the deepest in the treaty group since it was formed in 1954.

Far East policy differences between France and the other SEATO nations highlighted the organization's 10th anniversary meeting that ended here after three days of talks.

France, which recently recognized Communist China, has proposed the neutralization of Southeast Asia. That proposal came under sharp attack in the SEATO council of ministers.

Despite the French abstention, the U.S. delegation headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk was said to be well satisfied with results of the Manila meeting. One informant said the Americans felt the inclusion of the question of South Viet Nam in the final communiqué demonstrated SEATO is a live, vital organization.

South Viet Nam is not a member of SEATO but is one of the states that come under the organization's protective umbrella. Laos and Cambodia are others which could call for SEATO's help. For the first time, a South Vietnamese delegation was invited to the SEATO meeting as observers.

Highly placed sources said the Saigon government had not asked SEATO to take any action at the meeting.

United Nations Conference

Reuther To Discuss Role In Peace Effort

Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers (UAW) president and vice president of the AFL-CIO, (American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations), will speak at a United Nations conference Saturday at Kellogg Center.

Reuther, a member of the board of the American Association for the United Nations (AAUN), will speak on "The United Nations and the Total Waging of the Peace" at 11 a.m. in the Lincoln Room.

The conference will keynote the annual meeting of the 14 state chapters of the AAUN in Michigan. More than 250 persons from throughout the state are expected. The AAUN is a national, state, and local organization.

One of the chief aims of the conference will be the expansion of high school United Nations associations, and 194 high school students are also registered to attend. College associations and UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) will also be discussed.

In addition to Reuther, several other speakers will be featured, including two professors and Iina J.C. Ferringa, Netherlands embassy diplomat.

Miss Ferringa will tell of her country's strong support for the UN.

Sponsored by the Michigan division of the AAUN and the department of political science, the conference is open to the public.

Students and faculty will be admitted free of charge to any conference activities, except the noon luncheon.

Luncheon reservations cost $1.95 and must be made by noon Friday.

'Thinking' Picture Artist's Problem

A standing room only crowd listened to a discussion of problems of contemporary art Monday evening at Kresge Art Center.

Piero Dorazio and Barnett Newman, artists and lecturers, gave their views on art and some of the artist's problems in a discussion moderated by Charles Pollock, assistant professor of art.

Dorazio and Newman agreed the real problem comes when the artist sits alone in front of a bare canvas.

Dorazio said there is a tendency to "see" painting rather than "think" painting. There is an inclination to look for problems where none exist other than the problem of just sitting alone and painting.

Meat Judgers Win 4th Place

A team of meats and livestock judges took fourth place in a recent collegiate animal evaluation contest at Waterloo, Iowa.

The contest, consisting of 10 classes in live evaluation, meats appraisal and livestock appraisal, attracted eight teams from the Midwest.

Leslie Severance, Decker, senior, took top honors in the live evaluation phase of the contest. He also finished fourth in the overall contest.

Harlow Bailey, Mattawan, senior, was the top student judge in the meat appraisal section of the contest. Irene Chmielewski, Leslie junior, and Stan Smith, Waldron, senior, tied for ninth place.

As a team, the members placed fourth in live evaluation, second in meats appraisal and fourth in livestock appraisal.

Prof To Discuss Africa Problems

William J. Hanna, of the African Studies Center, will discuss "Threat and Ethics in African field research: Some Procedural Problems" from 4-6 p.m. in 34 Union.

The program is the first of a series of faculty seminars sponsored by the African Studies Center to explore problems of emergence. The core faculty of the African Studies Center and scholars having a special interest and competence in a problem being raised will be included in the seminars.

All interested faculty and students are invited to attend as observers.

Corps

In particular, he said, most Peace Corpsmen there think the emphasis on education is necessary before other things can be accomplished.

And Davis' comments on the Peace Corps training program lacking inner discipline conflict with Davis' earlier expressed enthusiasm for this program, the spokesman said.

Davis criticized the Peace Corps administrator in Sierra Leone, Walter Carrington, saying he lived in the capital of Freetown.

"He does nothing," Davis said. "He lives in the capital city of Sierra Leone. He makes no effort to help the volunteer...Mr. Carrington makes occasional ostentatious tours through the jungle areas. He never visited my classroom or athletic field. He never visited any Sierra Leonean schoolroom to my knowledge.

Creative Awards For Music Go To 3 Seniors

Three Michigan high school seniors have been awarded Creative Arts Scholarships in music. Announcement of the award winners was made by Ronald J. Jursa, associate director of admissions and scholarships.

The recipients are David Eaton, Dearborn; Judith DeLoach, Blissfield; and Roger Smeltzok, Twin Lake.

The winners submitted original musical compositions in a statewide competition sponsored by the music department.

Each award includes a four-year renewable scholarship based on achievement and need, and a guaranteed campus job or loan which may amount to as much as $1,000 for the academic year.

'Rhino' Tough But Well Done

By SUZANNE McGRATH State News Reviewer

The Performing Arts Company's production of "Rhinos," by Eugene Ionesco, has begun with a fine opening night performance.

The show owes a good portion of its success to C. David Colson as Berenger, the play's hero. Colson turns in a remarkably good performance, stimulating the cast and the audience each time he appears on stage. He is especially good in the third act as he tries desperately first to stave off the herd of rhinos outside and then to become one himself.

Earl Boen's portrayal of Jean is excellent, particularly when he changes into a rhinoceros. To become an animal before the critical eyes of an audience is no easy task, yet Boen manages the scene with the finesse of an accomplished actor.

AUSG Elections

(continued from page 1) was ending his bid for the presidency, said he did not do so "because I feel I can't win."

"I do not pledge anything to anybody," he added. "I would like to leave the candidates to run on their own merits. I don't want to play a formative role in the election of the president."

Elections Commissioner Gary Falkenstein, Sturgis sophomore, said he expected about 7,000 votes to be cast in today's election. He also said that Eric "Chips" Harris, Oceanside, N.Y., sophomore, more, has been ruled ineligible to run for junior class vice-president because he does not meet the grade requirements. Today's election will be not only for AUSG president but for class officers as well. Class officers a student may vote for will be determined by the number of credits the student has.

Mobile units will go to off-campus housing as they did in the primaries. Polls will also be set up in Berkeley, the Union, and South Campus Grill, and will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. There will be no voting in Anthony Hall.

Voting at residence halls will be in the meal lines. Polls there will remain open until 7 p.m. Any student wishing to vote must present his ID card.

State's 1st Lady Talks At Dinnes

Woman is the "guardian of the morals of future generations" Mrs. George Romney said Tuesday in an address to the MSU Women's Club's Ninth Annual Bosses Luncheon.

Mrs. Romney spoke of the career woman and the responsibility she plays in this society.

For a woman to be successful in her career, Mrs. Romney said, she must first be successful in her home.

Mrs. Romney spoke to a capacity audience of about 500 people.

TV Orchestra To Compete

The Television Orchestra will participate in the Collegiate Jazz Festival this weekend at the University of Notre Dame. The group will appear on the Saturday afternoon concert.

Among the 26 bands competing will be groups from the University of Michigan, Ohio State, Duquesne, Indiana, Denver University, and Illinois.

Judging categories are best band, best combo, and best individual artists.

Meet Views Relations

A conference on the improvement of international understanding will be held today and Friday at Kellogg Center.

The conference is sponsored jointly by the Foreign Relations Project, North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the MSU Institute for International Studies in Education.

Beitz Wins Ralston Grant

Donald C. Beitz, East Lansing graduate student is one of 10 students in agricultural colleges to receive a Ralston Purina Company Fellowship award for 1964-65.

Competition is open to agricultural students in colleges throughout the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. Recipients are chosen on the basis of their scholastic records and objectives in animal agriculture. Beitz is in dairy science. The fellowship amounts to $2,400.

Four Rooms Planned For 'Little MSU'

A contract for a four room addition to the Spartan Village School has been awarded by the East Lansing Board of Education.

The rooms are being constructed to meet an increase in enrollment. One to two more grades will be added to the present two grades.

Approximately 80 per cent of the $135,202 cost will be paid by the University. This portion is based on the number of Spartan Village children attending the school.

The $115,512 contract was awarded to the B. J. Siweck Construction Company and is scaled down from the firm's original low bid of $118,488.

Construction will begin later in the month and will be completed by fall term.

Added to this, the College of Education will pay $15,900 for facilities and space to produce telecasts of classroom activities at the school.

These telecasts will be filmed and shown to education students. In the future telecasts will be live.

Senate Amends School Prayer

(Lansing) -- A state senate committee today proposed an answer to the impending ban on prayer in Michigan public schools.

The education committee amended a house bill to provide release time for religious instruction...not more than three hours a week...if the pupil's parents request such permission.

A report adopted by the education committee said, "It is a legally meaningful alternative to the recitation of prayer and bible reading in public schools and may be in the public interest to have this alternative available prior to enforcement of the prayer ban."

Firemen Put Out Grass Blaze

East Lansing firemen put out a grass fire at West Shaw and Hagadorn in the Sanford Woodland lot.

"The blaze spread to within 25 feet of the MSU Press building," firemen said.

Firemen said they believed that the fire started from a cigarette about 3 a.m.

Poitier Cops Oscar For Best Actor

HOLLYWOOD -- "It's like the continuation of an extraordinary dream sequence that just keeps going and going. I'm just now beginning to accept the idea that I'm not going to wake up."

That was the reaction Tuesday of Sidney Poitier, 40, a Bahamas tomato farmer's son and the first Negro ever to win Hollywood's top-actor Oscar.

Poitier received the golden statuette at the 36th annual movie academy award ceremonies Tuesday night for his performance in "Lilies of the Field."

ROBIN ROBERTS

Former Bat Coach Kobs

Discovered Robin Has Wings

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

John Kobs is largely responsible for one of the most valuable trades in baseball history. It happened in 1946 when he made Robin Roberts trade his first baseman's mitt for a pitcher's glove.

Kobs retired at the end of last season after 39 years as Spartan baseball coach. During that time he helped develop many outstanding stars, but the Roberts story is an especially interesting one.

He was a first baseman then, and the team had about two months of winter practice under its belt by the time Roberts came out for the squad. His lack of practice caused him to make a poor showing at the plate, but he was quick to tell Kobs, "I pitched a little in high school."

Kobs gave Roberts a chance to throw, and, although it took hours of hard work, he eventually became the ace of the Spartan staff.

"He had an easy motion," Kobs said. "Normally you'd expect a boy in his situation to throw the ball anywhere, but he kept it pretty close to the plate. I could tell his pitch had something on it."

After leaving the MSU campus, Roberts headed into organized ball, and he was soon on the roster of the Philadelphia Phillies.

At present, he is with the Baltimore Orioles, and his 258 major league victories puts him second to Warren Spahn in career wins among active players.

But Roberts is not the only one of Kobs' former players to make good in the big time. Dick Radatz, Ron Perranoski, and Al Luplow are also products of MSU along with former big leaguers Jack Kralick, Hobie Landrith, and Ed Hobaugh. Kobs has coached many great Spartan teams through the years, including the 1954 team which earned third place in the NCAA tourney after winning the Big Ten championship.

COACH JOHN KOB'S

'S' Gymnast To Compete In Tourney

Freshman gymnastics performer Ron Aure will compete in three events in the U.S. Gymnastics Federation National Championships at Iowa City Friday and Saturday.

Aure won his frosh numerals this past winter and is a former state free exercise champ from St. Clair High School. He'll be competing in the free exercise, tumbling and vaulting events in the Federation meet at Iowa's field house.

Individual titles will be the only championships decided this weekend with no team title at stake.

having put in four seasons at Hamline before coming to East Lansing. During that time he has seen many changes in the game. "There are more power hitters now than there were years ago," he said. "Then there was more base stealing and more hit-and-run plays."

Does a more "lively" ball account for today's great number of power hitters? "I don't think it's the ball, but the bat that's causing the home runs," Kobs said. "The bats are lighter than they used to be and they're thin-handled. They cause more power... and more strikeouts."

'Big 4' State's Answer To Big 10

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

Although the hitters on Michigan State's baseball squad have caused the biggest sensation of the term, the pitching staff, deemed "questionable" by coach Davey Lirwhiler earlier this year, may not be such a question mark after all.

The Spartan mound staff has compiled a creditable 3.7 earned run average and with a little relief help could become one of the better pitching corps in the Big Ten.

A quartet of experienced hurlers form the core of the staff. The "Big Four" Phil Collins, John Ellward, John Krasnan and Howie Miller have compiled an impressive 2.8 ERA with Miller's .50 average topping the list, Krasnan is right behind at 1.81, followed by Ellward (2.44) and Collins (3.16).

Spartan Hurlers Make Big Pitch

Krasnan, undefeated in two games is the workhorse of the corps. He has hurled 24 2/3 innings while Collins (2-1) has thrown 22 2/3, and relief man Dick Proebstle (2-0) 22 innings.

Krasnan also leads in strike outs with 25, although Ellward has whiffed 19 in ten less innings of work. Collins has 17 strike outs to his credit, and Proebstle has fanned 13.

Dennis Erickson leads the moundsmen with a perfect 0.00 ERA

State's opponents have scored an average of four runs a game while earning only 3.4 of them. The Spartans have combined pitchers for ten runs a game, earning 8.1 of the tallies. State hurlers have 7.6 batters a game, and opposing moundsmen have averaged 4.4 strike outs.

However, the Spartans have an advantage over most pitching staffs—they don't have to face booming Spartan bats.

For two innings. Fred Devereux is at 4.50 for six innings, Tom Phipps, 5.40, Proebstle, 6.12, and Doug Dobrei, 7.20.

The staff sizes up fairly well when compared to the opponents' records which show 62 runs allowed (47 earned runs), 101 hits and 99 strike outs. State has given up 131 runs, 173 hits and has struck out only 58.

HITTERS BEWARE—Mainstays of the Spartan mound staff (l.-r.), John Krasnan, Bill Collins, Howard Miller, and John Ellward, cock their arms in defiance of the Big Ten hitters they will be facing this season.
