MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Periodic short-wave broadcasts telling Cubans that "the hour is very near" were heard Sunday as a showdown approached on pledges by militant anti-Castro exiles to go into Cuba.

The refuge colony buzzed with rumors that revolutionary forces of Manuel Ray, who had set a deadline for Wednesday, Cuba's independence day, already were inside Cuba. Ray's headquarters here declined to confirm or deny the reports.

Exiles also predicted strikes by other anti-Castro groups this week.

Sharing exiledom's topic of the day was a report that Samuel Rodiles, Castro confidant and former C-1, or military intelligence chief, had defected. U.S. sources said authorities had a lookout order for him but denied persistent exile reports that he had arrived at Key West, Fla., with 10 companions.

The short-wave broadcasts, unidentified and with no indication as to origin, said:

"Forward, people of Cuba. We speak to the land enslaved by Communism. The hour of the traitors is very near."

Exiled guerrilla leader Eloy Guitierrez Menoyo, one of Fidel Castro's top military leaders in the revolution that toppled President Fulgencio Batista in 1959, has promised early start of what he called "Plan Omega," warfare inside Cuba. The secret operation was not explained.

Rumors that Menoyo already was in Cuba were denied by his headquarters here.

MHA Committee

Approve Relaxed Dress Regulations

The Men's Halls Association committee on dress regulations has recommended a relaxation of dress requirements for fall and winter terms.

In a report delivered at Thursday's MHA meeting, Warren Platt, St. Johns, Ariz., junior and president of North Woods Hall, called on the organization to accept the committee's recommendations.

The proposed regulations call for leather shoes of a type "acceptable to present-day standards," socks to be worn at all meals, dress or "conventional wash-and-wear" trousers, and dress or sport shirts with collars and sleeves.

MHA will vote on accepting the recommendations May 28. If they are accepted, they must go to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs for final approval. If approved, they would go into effect fall term.

Platt said the recommendations were based on interviews with over 1,000 students, both personal interviews and questionnaires, interviews with administrators and committee evaluations.

Says Faith In AUSG Essential

The University administration cannot listen to any student government unless it has confidence in that government and the people in it, Eldon R. Nonsamaker, associate dean of students, told the student government re-evaluation committee Friday.

There is a need for a new definition or a redefinition of all major governing groups in order to help "pull them into a more meaningful relationship with one another" and to eliminate the possibility of their "working at cross-purposes," Nonsamaker said.

The committee, which was recently given a position in the All-University Student Government cabinet, invited Nonsamaker to speak before it as part of its program of interviewing people on areas of student influence.

Nonsamaker said he sees the committee, which was formed to investigate forms and structures, as an important, necessary move on campus. For some time, he said, several administrators have been disappointed and frustrated with student gov-

Lansing School Segregation Seen

By SUE JACOBY
State News Staff Writer

Two prominent Lansing NAACP leaders called for a concentrated citizen effort to combat racial discrimination in housing and education, Saturday.

The leaders addressed the Greater Lansing Area Civil Rights Institute meeting at the Erickson Hall Kiva.

Stuart J. Dunning, Jr., a Negro attorney, said the past 20 years have seen "little or no progress" toward integrated housing in the Lansing-East Lansing area.

Dunning, a past president of the city NAACP chapter, said the great majority of area Negroes live in a "black ghetto" on the city's West side.

"Many realtors make no effort to show Negroes homes on the East, North or South sides of the city," he said. "If a Negro does find a person who is willing to sell him a home in any of these areas, he often encounters difficulty in financing the purchase."

The fear that property values will fall if a Negro moves into a neighborhood is simply based on prejudice, Dunning said.

"There is no objective decline in property values when a Negro moves into a home. The property decline comes only when whites panic and move out because they think they are better than human beings of another color."

Dunning said individual citizens who believe in racial justice have not done enough to promote open housing.

"The churches are in a posi-

Romney, Band Join At Fair

Events Begin On Campus

Official Michigan Week kickoff took place on campus Sunday when the bells of Beaumont Tower signaled the opening of spiritual services.

Spiritual Foundations Day called the religious leaders together under the famous MSU symbol at 1:30 p.m.

Tuesday is designated Hospitality Day in honor of the state's recreation and tourist industry. On Wednesday, "Our Livelihood Day," attention will be focused on agriculture, industry, and the institutions which provide jobs and contribute to the state's economy.

Thursday is "Education Day." Friday is "Our Heritage" Day, and Saturday is "Our Youth Day." Army ROTC units, the Scots Highlanders, the Spartan Guard and the Infantry Regulation Drill Week exhibition at Lansing's Comstock Park Friday from 7-8 p.m.

Michigan State's Marching Band will escort Governor Romney today as Michigan Day begins at the New York World's Fair. The band will take part in the day's welcoming exercises and entertain the Governor at an early morning hotel breakfast.

University Secretary Jack Breslin, along with Romney and the presidents of Wayne State and the University of Detroit will speak at the 8 a.m. breakfast at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Television and radio star Arthur Godfrey will emcee the entertainment portion of the program, which includes the State band and a singing chorus from the University of Detroit.

The breakfast is sponsored by the New York Alumni Clubs of Michigan State, Wayne and U of D.

Following the breakfast, the band will lead the governor and his wife from the Amsterdam Gate at the Fair to the United

Ball Tops Weekend Of Student Engineers

Usually known for their work with the slide rule and drawing board, MSU engineering students proved Saturday that they could do equally well in the social area.

Their Engineer's Ball, a dinner dance in Kellogg Center's Big Ten Room, climaxed a weekend packed full of engineering educational and social events.

Educational features included the Engineering Exposition and the Jet's Club Exposition. Exhibits ranged from Chrysler Corporation's turbine car to a soil pressure tester for a cherry hydrocooler.

Winning exhibits in the individual category included: a circuit transistor tester, first place, by Jack G. Shepard, Byron senior; fuel cell, second place, by Surinder Choudhari, New Delhi, India, senior; and digital readout, third place, by Joseph L.

Calkins, Cedar Springs sophomore.

The Civil Engineering Department won the Dean's Trophy for best over all departmental displays.

Group winners were American Society of Civil Engineers for their exhibit on the "Varied Spectrum of Civil Engineering," with second place going to American Institute of Chemical Engineers and third place to Tau Beta Pi.

Highlight of the ball was the crowning of the 1964 Engineering Queen. Some 110 MSU student engineers and faculty members looked on as Judith A. Dengel, Dearborn freshman, assumed her reign over the festivities.

One of her first duties of her year-long reign was to initiate five new members into the Knights of Saint Patrick, engineering honorary.

At Age 98, Oldest Alumnus Finds Campus 'Marvelous'

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

At the age of 98, the oldest living graduate of Michigan State expects to live 10 more years and enjoy every minute of them.

"I don't feel any different physically than I did 30 years ago," said Edward N. Pagelson, class of 1889, of Panama City, Fla. Pagelson was on campus Friday to receive the "Kedzie Cane," in honor of being the oldest living graduate, at the annual luncheon of MSU Patriarchs, graduates of 50 years or more.

A math and engineering major at Michigan Agricultural College, Pagelson's most vivid memory of his college years is dormitory life in old Wells Hall. He and his brothers used the same room in the "middle ward" for 10 years. "There wasn't a single bathtub on campus," he said, "not even in the President's mansion. In warm weather we bathed in the Red Cedar and when it got cold, we used tubs in the barber shops in Lansing."

Of course there were no women on campus in those days, and Pagelson and his school-mates rarely dated.

"One or two of the boys had lady friends in Lansing. But we didn't have any money for dates."

Most of the students worked on farms, at eight cents an hour, to get through school. To amuse themselves, they walked to Lansing—avoiding the bus fare—and window-shopped. Pagelson recalls a visit in 1886 to R.E. Olds' one-room machine shop.

The greatest honor conferred on a student in 1889 was the appointment by the faculty to serve as a commencement orator. Pagelson was one of the six in his class chosen for this honor.

He is also the oldest living winner of varsity letters from M.A.C. He was the only coach on campus until he graduated, and participated in boxing, wrestling and horizontal and parallel bar.

Since his college days, Pagelson has run factories, done survey work, worked for the U.S. patent office and finally opened an office in 1902 as a patent attorney. He retired in 1928 to Florida, was called to Detroit in 1943 to supervise contract-

'Worm's Dream', 'Tropic Of Cancer' Witerature Winners

By OYERS BALCERS
State News Staff Writer

Freud's interpretation of Whitney Worm's dream won first place for Delta Delta Delta and Delta Tau Delta in Witerature's, this year's Water Carnival, Greek division.

"Tropic of Cancer," won first place in the dormitory division for Snyder-Phillips as they took advantage of the recent cigarette scare.

Nine new members of Excaliber, senior men's honorary, were tapped at intermission and received roses from a canoe brigade of Murter Board women.

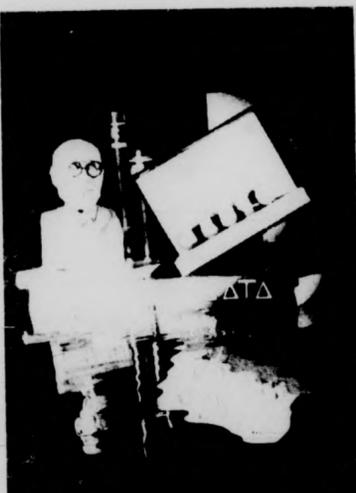

The winning Greek float portrayed Whitney as a bookworm, reclining on an open book being analyzed by a bust of Freud. The cover fell closed, squashing the worm, then reopened again with a page splattered in the shape of a full-winged butterfly.

Snyder-Phillips float consisted of a presentation of a tropic isle inhabited by "cigarette men"—extra large cigarette pack bodies, cigarette arms and fuming filter heads.

Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Evans Scholars combined to win second place in the fraternity division with "For Whom the Cowbell Tolls." Aimed as a slam at the University of Michigan, the commentator insisted "that while we keep our cows in cowbarns, U-M takes their's to parties."

Proving the axiom that "Give the lady what she wants" is not possible, third place went to Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Phi Epsilon. "You may give them perfume, pearls or rings, but

This Week: Michigan Week

The variety and importance of many of Michigan's industries and characteristics will be highlighted this week in various Michigan Week festivities. The 11th annual celebration began Sunday, and will continue through Saturday.

Around the state and today at the New York World's Fair representatives of the state's agricultural and manufacturing industries will be showing off their products. The state's universities have sent delegations to New York to perform at the fair, and will be presenting other special programs through the week.

One official of Michigan Day said, "Michigan Week proclaims the things which make Michigan a great state."

The emphasis will be on learning about and enjoying the diversified field of entertainment, wealth, education and industry which this state possesses. Without being dull and meaningless, Michigan Week will attempt to point out to the people of the state and the nation just what it is that makes this the interesting place it is, and to make real the message that Michigan is a good place to live and work.

U.S. Losing In Viet Nam

It is now obvious that the United States is at war in Viet Nam and is losing. The news grown more ominous daily.

Ho Chi Minh, president of North Viet Nam recently likened the U.S. role to that of a fox "who has already got his two hind legs caught in a trap, and by still jumping around is doing his best to get his front legs caught as well."

Whatever metaphor one devises, the situation is miserable.

Returning from his fifth visit to that beleaguered land, Secretary of Defense McNamara could only muster desperate words about stepped-up guerrilla terror attacks, sending over more U.S. troops and a general increase in both economic and military aid. It would be a "long, hard war," he said.

So, gone are the pleasant plans of recent months to withdraw most of the 15,000 U.S. personnel in Viet Nam by the end of next year.

The stories these days are not so much of progress and gains in the field as about the vile and treacherous enemy, the tragedy of once having had a Diem in power and an ambassador who finds it necessary to carry a revolver to work. Now we're hearing more of DeGaulle's plan for a neutralized Viet Nam and tales about the great French military disaster at Diem Bien Phu.

That, too, was a long, hard war. It began in 1946 and France suffered as she lost support of the Vietnamese people.

Now it is our turn. Viet Nam is proving a test--a test of the U.S. commitment to wage its cause around the globe, and a test of this country's ability to execute this responsibility. We ourselves are powerless to act; the future lies in Washington and in the brutal struggle in far-off rice paddies and swamps.

Perhaps, as adversity mounts, a new reaction will arise equivalent to the challenge. However, regardless of the outcome, the Viet Nam war, if nothing else, will be a lesson in reality, which is something that has been all too often absent on these shores.

Good Word From Congress

Student Congress has voted to establish a fund to provide two scholarships a year, covering the amount of in-state tuition for a year. Students will be chosen by the Scholarship Office, and must be active in extra-curricular activities.

The awarding of these scholarships is an example of the type of new leadership we have been waiting for from student government. Paying part of a student's education costs is a worthwhile project and a plan with more meaning and value than the empty phrases we grow to expect from campaigners.

Men Talk As NATO Grumbles

Foreign ministers of such peculiar NATO allies as Turkey, Greece, Portugal, France and the United States have been meeting in The Hague.

Proceedings began with France clearly playing a role DeGaulle did not want. One wonders at his patience. Maybe it is propriety which leads him on in acting.

But Dean Rusk wanted to play. He wanted his 'allies' to assist his cause in Viet Nam. Maybe he foresaw potential embarrassment as less with more victims.

However, the group really didn't have much to say about the 'north Atlantic' region. Nor was the Soviet Union looked at with particularly convincing animosity. Maybe all the kings' and presidents' men couldn't perceive much of a threat.

Yet an older man might remember that NATO's original formation came as the result of a grave Communist threat to some member states. Maybe the organization is now crumbling as men forget and try new games.

Faculty 'Raiding' Common

Editor's Note: This is the first of a four-part series on faculty salaries at Michigan State.

By SUE JACOBY
State News Staff Writer

Michigan State University is a prime faculty raiding target today because of its sudden increase in size and academic stature during the past decade. In his "state of the university" address last January, President John A. Hannah deplored what he termed "faculty cannibalism."

"It has become a conviction in the minds of too many," he said, "that the best way to build a department, a college or a university is to bring in from afar a limited number of bright lights of established brilliance, paying salaries and fringe benefits that are sometimes fantastic in light of the established scales for men and women carrying the bulk of existing work loads."

MSU has many of the "bright lights of established brilliance" on its faculty which universities throughout the country are seeking.

Provost Howard R. Neville points out that a concerted drive was launched 15 years ago to attract outstanding young scholars to MSU.

"These scholars have now reached maturity," he said, "and

Public universities	associate professor	assistant professor	instructor
professor	$9,414	$7,805	$6,118
private independent university	$14,813	$10,197	$8,179

other universities are after them." Both public and private universities use a wide variety of ethical and not-so-ethical means to lure top faculty members away from their schools.

"Unfortunately, there are very few accepted standards of ethics in faculty recruiting," Neville said. "About the only standard applying to MSU is an agreement among the Big Ten schools that no offer will be made to a faculty member after May 1."

Last year, MSU lost 9 full professors, 16 associate professors, 40 assistant professors and 29 instructors. The University has already received resignations this year from 5 professors, 3 associate professors, 8 assistant professors and 7 instructors.

"There will probably be more resignations this month," Neville said. What causes teachers to leave a University?

Economic factors are extremely important, although they do not tell the whole story.

Neville gave an example of one professor who is leaving MSU after receiving an offer from another university of half-pay plus a full year of study abroad on a research project.

"In other words, the first year this man is at the other university, he will be away and receive half of a regular faculty salary."

Neville told of another faculty member leaving the University next year who was on sabbatical leave this year.

"MSU has a ruling that a person on sabbatical who decides to leave without returning for a year is obligated to pay back the money he received from the University for the sabbatical. Another university wanted this man so badly that it is going to pay MSU the sabbatical money to get him next year."

Hundreds of offers like these have been received by faculty members during the past 10 years.

It is against the background of increasing "faculty cannibalism" that salaries assume critical importance.

MSU shares the common handicap of all state universities in competition with private schools --that of dependence on legislative appropriations.

A 1963-64 report by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) indicates that public universities are performing very poorly in comparison with private ones.

The AAUP has advocated an average 6.2 per cent rate of growth in salaries and fringe benefits to double faculty salaries by 1970.

While more than 34 per cent of private independent schools increased their salaries at a rate sufficient to achieve the AAUP goal, less than 10 per cent of public universities were able to match the performance.

"We cannot view with equanimity the prospect that even more of our students will receive an even poorer education--a long run prospect which the figures clearly portend," the AAUP report states.

If the state university is at an economic disadvantage to begin with, it becomes even more important that MSU compare favorably in salaries with other public institutions.

Tomorrow: How MSU compares in faculty salaries with other state universities.

He explained that each fraternity, sorority, and residence hall is a student government as well as such organizations as AUSG.

"I would hope that this committee will look at the total student government and not at a specific student government, and seek to relate these student governments into a meaningful whole," Nonnamaker said.

Nonnamaker said he thought students have a duty and a responsibility to participate in University government, but added that this should possibly be "more in terms of students serving on joint boards or committees organized to form policy."

Nonnamaker also said there are areas in which the administration merely carries out the orders of the board of trustees and the voice of the students probably wouldn't make much difference.

Such areas are those concerning alcohol and members of the opposite sex in rooms.

tion to shock the public conscience on this subject. They have been neglectful in the past, and it is time for them to take leadership in educating their congregations to the justice of open housing."

Dunnings urged that citizens who believe in open housing boycott realtors known for discriminatory practices.

However, Dunnings said the problem of housing discrimination will not be solved without strong legislation.

Dunnings said the same attitudes responsible for slavery exist today.

"Without legislation, the problems of discrimination will not be solved, because it takes too long to change attitudes."

Mrs. Clinton Canady Jr., chairman of the NAACP subcommittee on education, said Lansing is well on its way to having schools which are segregated "as effectively as those in any Southern city."

ing of material by the war company.

Pagelson has visited MSU for the last 20 years on alumni week-ends. He believes that President John A. Hannah is "the most marvelous man in the United States. I've known him since he took care of the chickens here."

He is surprised by the beauty of the campus and the enrollment. When he graduated, there were only 400 students and 12 faculty members.

Pagelson finds the students "extremely well-dressed" and most of the buildings on campus "marvelous"

Pagelson's wife was with him on campus Friday.

GODFREY CAMBRIDGE IS HERE IN A HILARIOUS NEW ALBUM!

Here's Godfrey Cambridge

Ready or not...

FLM 13101

With wickedly pungent satire and wit, Cambridge hits the funny bone--and more! He dramatizes vital issues... he brilliantly uncovers "moments of truth" of the fads and foibles of our times... he comments, with disarming innocence, on the after-effects of the Negro revolt. Godfrey Cambridge is uproarious. Godfrey Cambridge is a name to remember. "Ready or Not, Here's Godfrey Cambridge" is an album to own.

Three Sophomore Women Awarded $100 Scholarships

Linda Gilmore, E. Lansing sophomore, Johanna Smith, Richmond, Mich. sophomore, and Mrs. Carol Ross, Peoria, Ill. sophomore, have been awarded $100 scholarships by the Faculty Women's Association.

The girls were selected on the basis of grades, extra-curricular activities, and financial need out of more than 50 girls submitted by faculty and staff members.

Faculty women volunteers helped with this year's fund-raising event which was an aebleskiver luncheon. An aebleskiver is a round Danish pancake according to Miss Mabel Petersen who worked on the luncheon and also helped select the girls.

Miss Gilmore is majoring in Bio-chemistry; Miss Smith is in the honor's college program and is no preference; and Mrs. Ross is majoring in foreign language.

Vet Med Awards Presented

Several awards were presented to Veterinary Medicine students and faculty during the College of Veterinary Medicine Honors Convocation Friday.

The Ken-L-Ration Division of the Quaker Oats Company was host.

Vincent DiLella, Spartan Village, received the Dr. Gail Hawley Scholarship for a third year student, scholastically above average, most deserving financially and who is likely to make outstanding contributions to veterinary medicine. The scholarship award is $500.

Wallace E. Voeks, Lansing junior; and Sandra Karn, Howell senior, each received $300 from the Dean Clark Memorial Fund Award. The fund, established by the College of Veterinary Medicine, is given to financially deserving third and fourth year students with a 2.8 or better average.

William C. Haefner, Decatur junior, got the Pfizer Award for students entering their fourth year showing scholarship, leadership and financial need. The award brings $400.

Faculty award recipients were W. O. Brinker, chairman and professor of surgery and medicine, who received the Outstanding Teacher Award for a faculty member who has taught at least one course to students now in their fourth year. Dr. Roger E. Brown, anatomy department, received the $100 Norden Annual Teacher Award for a faculty member who has been judged by the students as outstanding in teaching ability, leadership and high moral character. The M.S.U. Veterinarian Award was presented by the student chapter of the American Veterinary Medicine Association to those serving major roles on the staff of the MSU Veterinarian, a quarterly publication.

Other awards were given to Thomas G. Easton, Franklin, Ohio senior; Lauralee Sherwood, Pontiac sophomore; Arthur I. Hurvitz, University Village fourth year med/vet student; Richard H. McFarlin, St. Johnsbury, Vt. 4th year student; Martin G. Martinsen, Posen 4th year stu-

ROTC Cadets Show Skills At Field Day

The Army ROTC cadet brigade performed for almost 1,000 Parents Weekend visitors Saturday at the second annual Armed Forces Day Field Day.

Combat and drill skills were demonstrated and modern army weapons were displayed.

Drill demonstrations were given by the Scots Highlanders drum and bugle corps, Spartan Guard trick drill team and the Pershing Rifles Company. Members of the Counter-Guerrilla Company demonstrated hand-to-hand combat maneuvers.

Also included in the program was a competitive drilldown among representatives of the brigade's six basic companies. The competition was won by the honor squad from Company A-1. Dennis Kim, Honolulu, Hawaii, senior, and Martin Ehrlich, Springfield Garden, N.Y., senior, were project officers for the field day, which was sponsored by the National Society of Scabbard and Blade.

Spring Festival Winners Chosen

A production of the comedy "The Tender Trap" and an art and literary contest highlighted the first McDonel Hall Spring Festival this weekend, sponsored by the East and West cultural committees.

First place winners included Charles Wagonlander, Flushing junior, for oils; Darwin Davis, Lapeer junior, sketches and drawing; Sara Stuart, Grand Rapids junior, sculpture; Ricki Gilbert, Norfolk, Va., junior, photography. Other divisions are still to be judged.

"The Tender Trap" was presented Friday and Saturday nights in the McDonel Kiva. It starred Jim Sollo, Kankakee, Ill., sophomore, and Sue Jackson, Drayton Plains sophomore.

Chairman of the entire event were Bill Woehle, Jackson sophomore and cultural committee president, and Sara Stuart, committee vice-president.

Bernard S. Schweigart, professor and chairman of food science, is to speak on "The New World of Processed Foods" at the luncheon.

Police Talk At Kellogg

The 10th annual National Institute on Police and Community Relations is being held at Kellogg Center this week.

The conference started Sunday and will continue through Friday. Nearly 300 people from 27 states, the District of Columbia and seven foreign countries have registered.

Speakers from law enforcement and other segments of the community will talk on "Achieving Ordered Liberty and Justice for All," the institute's theme.

McDonel gained third place by "researching the facts that led the author of 'Lord of the Flies' to write the book." The float concluded that the Michigan State sanitation department was responsible.

The new members of Excaliber are juniors: Gary Wright, of Pontiac and new president of Men's Halls Association; Ron Walter, of Clarkston and president of the Inter-Fraternity Council; Bruce Osterink, Grand Rapids and former president of the sophomore class; Dave Jackson, of Detroit and chairman of the 1965 Water Carnival.

Phil Frank, of Holland and State News cartoonist; A.J. Harris, of Walled Lake and president of next year's senior class; football captain Charles Migyanka, of Conemaugh, Pa., and new president of Excaliber; Dick Sawdey, of Battle Creek and president of Union Board; and Mike Kelly of Holt.

'Non-White Job Picture Still Poor'

While the hiring of non-whites has increased, there is a need for qualitative improvement in Negro employment, William W. Layton, director of education for the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, said Saturday.

Addressing the Human Rights Institute in Erickson Kiva, Layton stressed the need to deal with recruitment and promotion of employed non-whites.

"The promotional picture in employment is not good," he said. "In many places, Negroes are working far under their potential."

Netters Win Two; League Meet Next

The Spartans will make final preparations for the Big Ten tennis meet Monday and Tuesday after capping two of three contests in Minneapolis over the weekend.

MSU defeated Minnesota, 8-1, Saturday after whipping Wisconsin, 6-3, and losing to Indiana 7-2 on Friday.

Now the Spartans have played each team in the conference and will carry a 6-3 loop record and 14-6 overall mark into this weekend's Big Ten meet at Evanston. The Green and White won the top five singles matches and number two doubles against the Badgers, but they captured only second and third singles against the Hoosiers.

MSU won all, but the first singles, while whipping the Gophers Saturday.

Dwight Shelton and Tony O'Donnell finished the weekend with a sweep of their three singles matches.

Against Minnesota, O'Donnell stopped Mack Lutz 7-5, 6-1 in second singles with Shelton winning over Dave Rosenberg 6-1, 5-7, 6-1 in third singles.

Other singles winners for MSU were Charlie Wolff, Laird Warner, and Dave Click who captured victories in two-set matches against their Gopher foes.

The doubles teams of Tom Jamieson-Wolff, O'Donnell-Shelton, and Warner-Mike Youngs all recorded victories.

The Spartans will leave for Evanston early Wednesday morning and begin play Thursday.

Track Depth Begins To Show

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

Spartan track fans had a double dose of excitement at Ralph Young Field Saturday.

They saw the Green and White defeat the Chicago Track Club, 84-53, but they also had a chance to watch an Olympic star and an outstanding long-distance runner perform for the opposition.

The Spartans had little trouble gaining the victory with first-place finishes in 10 of 15 events.

One of Chicago's firsts was earned by Willie May in the 120-yard hurdles. May, who won a silver medal in the 1960 Olympic games, turned in a winning time of 14.2 to beat MSU's Fred McKoy.

Hal Higdon, the first American finisher in last fall's Boston marathon, won the two-mile event in 9:17.5 for Chicago Saturday. Higdon was pushed most of the way by MSU's Eric Zemper and Dick Sharkey.

MSU with a 1:52.8 victory in the 880 and by running anchor on the victorious mile-relay team.

Defending conference mile champion Jan Bowen won his specialty in 4:12.9, and league broad jump champion Jim Garrett turned in a leap of 23' 3" in his first effort since he joined the team after spring football.

MSU's Bob Moreland, injured at the Penn Relays, made his strongest showing in recent weeks when he placed second in the 100 behind Chicago's Henry Wiebe.

Wiebe also captured first in the 220 with Walker Beverly placing second.

The Spartan trio of Tom

Herbert, John Robertson, and Dave Mutchler swept the shot with Mutchler winning the shot put.

Other MSU firsts were recorded by Ron Horning, 660-yard run; Ayo Azikiwe, 330-yard hurdles; Dennis Radke, pole vault; and Fred McKoy, high jump.

Golfers Suffer Loss; Play Today

Michigan State's golf team dropped a close non-conference decision Saturday, to Northern Illinois, 18 1/2-17 1/2.

The loss to last year's number two small college team left State with an overall dual meet mark of 7-11. Their conference record stands at 6-6.

Leading scorer for the Green and White was Bob Meyer who shot a 73-79-152. Runner-up was Phil Marston with a 78-75-153. Other scores were: Shep Richard, 76-81-157; Ken Benson, 78-81-159; Dick Marr, 83-81-164; and Doug Swartz, 83-81-164.

Today, the Spartans will wind up their dual meet season at Ann Arbor with their second meeting with the University of Michigan. State won the first meet, at Forest Akers, on May 2.

The match is the final tune-up for State linksters before the Big Ten Championships at Minneapolis next Friday and Saturday. Coach John Brotzmann will take ten men to Michigan and will play only 18 holes.

Batsmen Try Again To Stop Wolves

State's baseball team (18-10) will try to salvage something from a dying season this afternoon at 3:30 on Old College Field when Michigan returns the Spartan's weekend visit to Ann Arbor.

Michigan, 9-1 in loop play, took over sole possession of first place on the twin win as last week's leader Minnesota was upset twice by Ohio State.

The pattern of the two U-M State games was the same. Michigan scored in the early innings and held on to get the win.

Pollock had three hits to pace the Spartans 12-hit attack and Michigan second baseman Tom Lasio had four of his team's 16 safeties.

Dave Campbell, who attended Lansing Sexton High School, started off the second game with a three run homer off Eliward in the first inning. That was all Wolverine hurler Bill Wahl needed as he allowed only five hits and one run in the seven inning nightcap.

The Spartans scored their tally in the second inning on a lead-off double by Sutton and singles by Billings and catcher Bruce Look. But the Wolverines got it back in the fourth on singles by outfielder Al Bara and Lasio.

Krasnan relieved Eliward in the second inning and allowed only three hits and no runs in five innings of work.

Soccermen Trip Alumni

Rainclouds threatened and the alumni threatened, but neither was able to dampen the performance of the Spartan soccer team Saturday afternoon.

If there was any outburst at the third annual old-timers game, it was the explosive boot of forward George Janes, who accounted for three goals in a 4-0 varsity win.

Janes, runner-up for team scoring honors last fall with 13 goals and 11 assists, took command at the outset with a first period score. Janes evaded defensesmen twice more in the final quarter to seal the scoring.

Larry Christoff tallied the only other goal for the varsity on an assist from Jean Pierre Diane. For Diane, it was his first starting role after being sidelined most of the '63 season with a leg injury.

State was not without competition, however. Bill Schwarz, last season's leading scorer and former captain Sam Donnelly were among the newer additions on the alumni roster. Other '63 performers in old-timer togs were George Rendon and Art Dworken.

Also on hand for Saturday's contest were former All-American forwards Erich Streder ('59) and Reinier "Dutch" Kemeling.
