Bricklayers Resume Work Today

Union Gets Pay Raise After Strike

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

A 21-day-old bricklayers' strike ends today as workers of a local union return to completing campus construction projects.

Bricklayers of America Local 31 reached agreement over a wage dispute with the Michigan chapter of Associated General Contractors Thursday.

The two-year settlement involves a 42 cent per hour increase in the bricklayers' present wages, $4.43 per hour, by May, 1965. Here's the breakdown of the agreement:

- a 15 cent per hour wage increase on return to work,
- a 7 cent increase Oct. 1 and
- a 20 cent increase in May, 1965.

Thursday's meeting with federal and state mediators was the second attempt to settle the wage dispute which flared up May 1 when a contract ran out between the union and the management.

The parties could not reach a settlement at the first negotiating meeting, May 8. The union then asked for a 52 cent increase in wages during the next two years. The contractors' association offered a 25 cent increase. The strike slowed construction of Fee and Akers residence halls, Chemistry and Bio-Chemistry buildings and the International Center.

Lyle Thorburn, manager of residence halls, was relieved Thursday when informed of the settlement, but said, "We never lost faith in the fact they would reach an agreement."

"We try to have an optimistic outlook," he said. "We have had some kind of hold-up on every building we have and this was no exception."

Hector MacLeod, site construction superintendent, said last week that if the strike were not settled within two weeks, he and his crew would not be able to lay walks, drives and plantings by the scheduled deadlines.

Adlai Tells UN Aid Will Continue

Stevenson Angered When Soviets Term Talk 'Exercise In Stupidity'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)--Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson declared Thursday the United States will defend the countries of Southeast Asia from armed Communist aggression as long as they ask U.S. help to preserve their freedom.

The Story's Finally On Page One

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations made the statement in a speech to the U.N. Security Council on U.S. policy in Southeast Asia approved in advance by President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Stevenson said that the long Southeast Asian crisis had taken a turn for the worse and added:

"Where's the beginning?" the reader asked, and we wondered too.

The article Thursday on page eight had the ending continued from page one, but it seems the beginning of the story never did make it onto the first page.

The editor fumed, the reporter was puzzled,--all had red faces. Here's the story.

Graduating seniors will have a busy three weeks before commencement June 14.

Monday and Tuesday they will attend a reception hosted by President and Mrs. John A. Hannah in Cowles House, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The seniors will attend with other members of their college to meet their dean and department heads.

Male seniors enrolled in ROTC will receive their regular Army or reserve commissions as second lieutenants May 26.

Senior Swingout, the final meeting of the senior class will be June 7. The students will meet at Beaumont Tower in their caps and gowns and be escorted to Fairchild Theater by the MSU Marching Band.

"My government takes a very grave view of these events. Those who are responsible have set foot upon an exceedingly dangerous path."

Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko told the council Stevenson's speech was an exercise in stupidity and suitable only for those who tell "stories to little children and village idiots."

Obviously angered, the U.S. delegate charged Fedorenko with attempting to "belittle what I had to say." And he warned: "Let me advise him not to take my speech too lightly."

Stevenson said Soviet policy explicitly supports overthrow of national governments and newly independent states and their replacement by Communist regimes.

"That is precisely what the Communists are trying to do in Southeast Asia, Stevenson asserted. "We will support peoples who resist, and that is precisely what we are trying to do in South Viet Nam."

Stevenson's speech dealing with Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia came amid rapid fire developments affecting that explosive part of the world.

Elections Procedures Revised By AUSG

A revised system of elections rules for All-University Student Government elections was passed by student congress Wednesday night.

The revisions, made by a special committee, are designed to prevent a recurrence of the situation which existed in the AUSG presidential election this term. A new election was called because of improper security precautions.

Under the revised system the elections commissioner will set up campaign rules and regulations with the approval of congress. He must also attend the first spring term congress meeting to explain the rules.

The duties of the Elections Review Board were also redefined. The board will no longer investigate infractions of elections rules. This function will be taken over by the elections commissioner.

The board also can declare late ballots invalid.

If the difference between the ballots for two candidates is less than two per cent of the total votes, recounts will be held until two consecutive counts agree within one-tenth of one per cent. Another revision forbids election of a valid write-in candidate on the final election for AUSG president. Write-ins would be allowed for other offices.

AUSG Votes To Send Two To Aid SNCC

Student congress Wednesday night appropriated $300 to send two representatives to work this summer in the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee's Mississippi Summer Project.

The SNCC project is designed to "launch a massive peace corps operation in Mississippi." The program was begun in August, 1961, and by 1963 had become state-wide.

There are four main areas of the project: freedom schools, community centers, voter registration and special projects. The freedom schools will seek to teach such subjects as political science and journalism, as well as giving remedial work in math, reading and basic grammar.

They are designed to "provide politically emerging communities with new young leadership and constitute a real attack on the presently stifling system of education existing in the state."

The community centers will attempt to provide some of the services which have been denied the Negro community in Mississippi. These would give instruction (continued on page 2)

Patton, Wilmette, Ill., sophomore, said he thought the new rules are much better than the old because they are more flexible, and it is harder to find loopholes.

Overall, he said, he thought the powers of district elections chairmen are better defined which will eliminate some of the past confusion.

Overall, he said, he thought the committee did an excellent job. Congress also voted down a move to eliminate the AUSG summer term tax and approved its continuance. Reasoning was that most of the students attend in the other terms too, and there are enough services provided in the summer to warrant the tax.

A bill to reduce the tax to 20 cents was withdrawn by its sponsor.

GOP Concern Pleases First Lady

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)--Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson said Thursday night she's pleased some Republicans are concerned over poverty among tenants on her land in Alabama--because I've been worried about these families a long time.

And if there had been an anti-poverty program 30 years ago, perhaps neither she nor the Republicans would have this worry now, she added.

Grade Changes Pose Computer Problem

By CHARLES C. WELLS
State News Staff Writer

If grading changes are adopted by the Academic Senate Wednesday, real problems will be created in the Data Processing Department.

It may take up to nine months to retool the complex IBM data machines so that student records can be processed according to the proposed changes.

"More than just the grade report is involved in this change," said Francis B. Martin, director of data processing.

"The new 'C plus' grade would complicate our present procedures because special typewriters would have to be purchased to print the plus signs.

"It is difficult to tell what the cost will be for the change, but we are now studying the problem with IBM."

Martin indicated that grade reports, student summaries, grade distribution sheets--almost the whole system--would have to be changed to keep up with any modification in the present grading system.

Martin's staff of 10 people receive grade reports after finals from the registrar's office and turn out all student grade reports in less than three days. They also process registration cards and class lists at the beginning of the term.

The present system is set up on the basis of the five letter system of "A" or 4.0 through "F" or zero points. One of the major proposals before the Academic Senate would institute a "C plus" or 2.5 grade.

He indicated that the changes would be mostly within his department. The complicated part of a "C plus" grade is that the existing range of characters on IBM data processing typewriters does not include a plus sign, he said.

The Academic Council passed the proposed changes May 6, but the final decision is up to the Academic Senate which includes all MSU faculty.

Other changes besides the institution of the "C" plus grade are as follows:

--A "P" grade would be given in certain designated courses taken outside the student's major. It would encourage students to take more courses outside their major area because the "P" grade would not be figured into their averages. If they did not do satisfactory work they would be given a "U" grade.

--Minimum of a 1.80 grade average required for admission to the upper college. The requirement is now 2.0 and supporters of the measure believe the change would give the slow-starting student a chance to improve if he gets into his major.

--Minimum of a 2.0 grade average in the student's major for graduation. Individual colleges can set higher requirements, however.

Martin also said these factors would have much to do with complicating the student record keeping process. His department is now examining how the changes can be instituted.

LBJ Trip Details

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The White House announced details Thursday of President Johnson's scheduled trip to Ann Arbor today, to attend commencement exercises at the University of Michigan.

Johnson will leave the White House grounds by helicopter at 7:50 a.m. for the trip to Andrews Air Force base in nearby Maryland. He will take off from there aboard his jet plane at 8:05 a.m.

He is scheduled to arrive at Detroit Metropolitan Airport at 9:15 a.m. and leave there by helicopter 25 minutes later for Ann Arbor.

There was a chance Johnson might speak informally and greet an anticipated arrival crowd at the Detroit airport.

He is expected to arrive at the University of Michigan stadium at 9:50 a.m. and to speak about an hour later as a closing highlight of the commencement where he will be given an honorary degree.

Time Ripe For U.S. Intervention

Chances Slim To Hold Viet Nam

By BILL PRITCHARD
State News Staff Writer

There is less than a 50-50 chance the United States can hold Viet Nam, according to Guy H. Fox, professor of political science.

If the situation gets any worse, a neutralist government might be attempted, but in the long run it would swing toward the Communists, he added.

Fox spent from 1960-62 as chief of party of the MSU advisory group in Viet Nam, aiding the government in public and police administration.

The time is now if the United States ever planned to intervene, Fox said, because the South Vietnamese army and civil units are strong and morale is as high as it will ever be. Later if the army breaks up, intervention will be next to impossible.

The farmer behind the oxen in the rice paddy has no strong feelings either way in the war going on around him, Fox said. He wants to be left alone and live in peace and will sympathize with the faction that gives him food and security, he said.

That is not the only reason the farmer is friendly toward the Viet Cong, Fox said.

The Vietnamese Communists are not spending Communist propaganda as is thought in the West, he said. They are operating under a "liberation" banner, proclaiming to be nationalists fighting against American "imperialists." The Americans there are portrayed as having succeeded French imperialism, he said.

Cambodia has recently blasted United States policy in Southeast Asia, and much armament and many recruits are said to be coming through that country on their way to Viet Nam and Laos.

Fox said Cambodia really wants to remain neutral but also wants to be on the winning side.

He said Ambassador Stevenson may be somewhat mistaken in saying Cambodia is such a supply route, since much of the recruiting and arming is done in the jungles and mountains of the countries.

Finals To Be Held In College Bowl

College Bowl finals will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Erickson Kiva.

League champions Theta Chi-Gamma Phi Beta will challenge Case Hall. Richard Case, assistant professor of crop science, will be the narrator.

This is the first year of the College Bowl in which 16 dormitories and 16 Greek organizations competed in the single elimination tournaments.

The winner of the finals will receive a trophy.

Salary Inequities Harmful

The individual merit of faculty members does not always determine salaries under the merit pay system at MSU.

In theory, department heads are completely free to recommend any salary which they think a professor deserves. However, they are limited in practice by budgets which vary radically from department to department.

An outstanding economics professor may earn far more money than an English professor who is equally outstanding in his field. This phenomenon can partially be attributed to a divergence of salary levels on a national scale.

However, some MSU departments pay salaries which are much closer to the national average than others. The average economics department faculty member makes a salary which compares far more favorably with other schools than does that of the average English professor.

The same inequity can be found in other departments.

It is much more difficult for the University to keep outstanding teachers in departments with the lowest average salaries.

If an English professor is making $3,000 less than the national average pay for his field, he may be easily lured away by offers from other schools. A small departmental budget will not allow MSU to meet an offer which is close to the national average.

The big advantage of a "step" salary scale is that it does not discriminate between teachers in different departments.

Under a step scale, salaries are rigidly determined by a teacher's academic degree and seniority.

We agree with President John A. Hannah that the merit pay system provides great incentive for professional growth by faculty members. However, some steps must be taken to curb inequities in salaries for teachers in different departments.

Some of this year's increased legislative appropriation should be channeled into University departments where salaries compare poorly with the national average.

Grasser's Lesson

It seems that the game is over, and the coeds who have been locked in every weekend for the rest of the term are just going to have to stay there. The major hope for reversing the campus decision of the Dean of Students office regarding punishment for students arrested at the notorious Shiawassee grasser fell through Monday.

The state Attorney General ruled that there was not sufficient abuse of students' rights at the early morning hearings at which the students were arraigned to justify any legal action against Shiawassee officials. Dean of Students John A. Fuzak said if further attempts are made to demonstrate mishandling of the students the campused coeds will be able to appeal again.

Almost in the same breath, however, he said he doubts that other authorities will investigate the grasser affair, thereby implying the books are closed to hopes for successful appeals of the girls' punishment.

There never was a very good reason for doling out stiff punishments to these coeds, and there is no more reason to uphold them now that the attorney general's office has reached its conclusion. But if the girls must remain in their rooms every weekend this term, at least their misfortune can serve to demonstrate a point to other students.

Almost surely, these girls will not refrain from violating the no-liquor rule any more now than they did before the grasser and the campuses. But they will serve to illustrate that greater discretion on the part of students can make future party arrests less likely.

The Smoke Filled Campus

Squabbling between the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans over presidential candidates in next Wednesday's mock primary election fortunately died down in a deadlock before it turned the primary itself into an inter-party battle.

Neither party deserves credit for stopping short of wrecking the primary. The primary rules -- that neither party has to respect the other's wishes -- prevented mayhem over placing of Gov. Romney and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace on the ballots.

Now maybe both parties will settle down to an event -- the first such at MSU -- that will stir political interest among students, extending the "world" of so many students beyond Grand River, the Gables, Mt. Hope and the Brody group.

Awards for "Senior of the Year," the senior activities awards and the members of the '64 Club will be announced. These class clubs are limited in memberships to the "number" of the year. Next year's club will have 65 members, for example.

Seniors can pick up their caps and gowns at the Union Bookstore any time after June 5. Lantern Night is scheduled for June 7.

Students can get tickets for commencement, June 14, at the Alumni Office June through 5. Used only in case of rain, the tickets will admit visitors to Jenson Field House. The exercises are scheduled for 4 p.m. in Spartan Stadium if the weather is good.

Morality Problem Up To Individual

By SUE JACOBY
State News Staff Writer

Father Robert E. Kavanaugh, pastor of St. John's Student Parish, has aptly pinpointed the ethical tragedy of our time as "the transference of moral responsibility from the individual to the group."

Father Kavanaugh was commenting on a recent incident in Albany, N.Y., where 3,000 people eagerly watched a mentally ill youth preparing to jump from the 11th floor of a building. Thirsty for a bloody spectacle, several members of the crowd urged the boy "not to be chicken" and to "go ahead and jump."

"If that boy had jumped, no individual in the crowd that encouraged him would have felt responsible," Father Kavanaugh said. "It would have been the police or the fire department's fault."

Several weeks ago I wrote a column in which I suggested that sex has been greatly overemphasized in the modern definition of morality. To my amazement, several students interpreted my column as a call for a general morality cleanup on campus with sex as the most dirty area of all.

Many persons on this campus who are calling for a curb on the moral degeneration of students are simply trying to impose their standards on everyone else.

A letter from three students in the Brody group which appeared in Tuesday's State News exemplifies this narrow-minded approach to the general subject of morality.

It shudders at the sight of "rowdy, bawdy card-playing" and deplores the "sexual freedom" which is evident outside women's dormitories.

These students have completely failed to recognize the moral problem of our age as described by Father Kavanaugh. They have confused forms of behavior which they personally find repellent with the real moral problems of the twentieth century. I daresay the steps of women's dorms and the Brody grill are not the real centers of moral corruption on this campus.

If there is moral degeneration going on, each of us is responsible. We sit in our rabbit hutches of dormitories and never pay the slightest attention to the sorrow of those around us.

So what if the girl down the hall from you is flunking out of school. You don't have the time to help her. So what if everyone in your psychology class is using the text to find answers on a test. Why worry about cheating? Do it yourself if it will help out your grade. And if you're teaching the class, don't bother to monitor your exams. It would be too much trouble.

Be sure to follow the crowd in everything. Be quick to condemn others who don't agree with you. Don't make any serious attempt to develop a moral code which is not based on unquestioning acceptance of tradition or convention. Don't even think about a moral code.

The transference of moral responsibility from the individual to the group could be a greater tragedy than we know. This is precisely what happened in Hitler's Germany. While six million Jews were murdered, each German closed his eyes to what was happening. Let's stop worrying about "rowdy, bawdy card playing" and open our eyes to the real moral issues of the twentieth century.

Students To Cast Ballots Wednesday In First Presidential Primary

MSU students will vote Wednesday in the first mock presidential primary election to be held at a Big Ten school. The election, titled "Horizons, 1964," is sponsored by Union Board, the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans. All-University Student Government is providing the elections facilities. Students will be able to vote for candidates from the party of their choice. Nominees listed on the Republican presidential ballot are Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, former vice-president Richard Nixon and Ambassador to South Viet Nam Henry Cabot Lodge. President Lyndon B. Johnson is listed on the Democratic presidential ballot. Students voting on the Democratic ballot will also be able to choose a vice-presidential candidate. Included on the vice-presidential ballot are California Gov. Edmund Brown, Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Wisconsin Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and New York Mayor Robert Wagner. The Young Democrats and Young Republicans are receiving support from higher party organizations for their campaigns, according to Jim Patton, Wilmette, Ill., sophomore AUSG elections commissioner. Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity will count the ballots. Patton said the ballot counting will be done "under strictest security conditions." "We hope that every student will vote in this election," he said. "It is the first opportunity of its kind for MSU students."

Two Meter Maids To Be Employed

Meter maids—a subject which evoked explosive comment when suggested in Lansing—will soon be seen at MSU.

The MSU Department of Safety recently requested additional funds for the hiring of two meter maids for the campus for next fall.

Lt. Allen H. Andrews said that the employment of the meter maids will free his officers for police work while maintaining a vigil on parking enforcement on campus.

Controversy over the proposed meter maids arose in Lansing when an official of an Oklahoma police department severely criticized the use of women as parking enforcement.

Center Studies 'Deputy' Play

"The Deputy," a play against Pope Pius XII for his actions during the 1940's, will be discussed at St. John's Student Parish, at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

George N. Shuster, assistant to the president at the University of Notre Dame, will give his views on the play.

The German Protestant author of "The Deputy" attacks Pius XII for failing to openly protest against the extermination of the Jews by the Nazis.

The play, which first appeared on a Berlin stage, has been translated and has become a best seller in several countries.

Police Department and Fire Board, the Oklahoma police official cited that meter maids were a particular problem. He accused them of preferring to gossip and window shop while on duty rather than performing their tasks.

Andrews defended the women officers saying that if they did not do their job it was the fault of the police administration.

He assured that there would be no problems with the meter maids on campus.

Parking enforcement on campus is presently sporadic, since police officers more often than not are summoned away to enforcement and investigation work to the neglect of the parking chores, he added.

With the meter maids, police will be freed for more important work while parking enforcement will remain thorough and effective.

First Prayer Breakfast Held

Over 70 student leaders had breakfast Thursday morning with Bill Bright, director of International Campus Crusades for Christ, as part of a pilot plan to introduce prayer breakfasts to the University.

Modeled after presidential and gubernatorial prayer breakfasts, the event was held in the Red Cedar Room, Kellogg Center and sponsored by student representatives of residence halls, sororities, fraternities, activities and athletics.

Bright told the gathering in a brief talk that prayer breakfasts are held "that we might acknowledge our rightful relationship with God."

"We are here as a result of prayer meetings held during the founding days of the nation," he said.

Bright read several quotations from great American leaders who were Christians. He noted that many universities were founded as Christian institutions.

He urged students to "re-evaluate Jesus Christ and his relation to the collegian."

"The Jesus Christ of 2000 years ago is still the most significant person who ever lived," he said. "Here is a man who came to be alive now."

Bright, a former business man who now devotes his full time to Campus Crusades for Christ, said that "Where I once sought material gains, my investigations led me to believe that He was all he claimed to be."

He concluded that "There is no other explanation for this life. He has to be God. We need to consider afresh our accountability to Him."

Mr. MSU, Bruce Osterink, Grand Rapids junior, explained the history and meaning of prayer breakfasts.

Talk Sunday Gives History Of Baha'i

A history of the Baha'i Faith and its relationship to the present will be given by Thomas Thompson at 4 p.m. Sunday in 33 Union.

"The Fine Print of History" is sponsored by the Michigan State Baha'i Club in commemoration of the declaration of the Baha'i Faith.

The Baha'i, meaning the gate, is the forerunner of Baha'U'Llah, founder of the faith. He occupies the same position as John the Baptist in Christian circles. His declaration on May 23, 1844, that he had come to pave the way for "Him whom God will make manifest" marks the beginning of the world-wide religion.

Beyond Grace: Human Dignity

By Linda Miller

Is the classical humanist concept of the inherent dignity of man incompatible with the Christian view of life as merely a means to attain eternal salvation?

In a final analysis, the only answer to this question is "yes" if one insists on a traditional, rigid view of either humanism or Christianity.

Classical Greek tragedy is based on the premise that man is capable of a nobility which transcends even the most disastrous circumstances. The tragic protagonist is never insignificant, although he may be buffeted by the inexplicable designs of Olympian deities.

The tragic hero bears ultimate responsibility for his own downfall. However, he is also ennobled by a glorious human dignity which can never be obliterated by earthly tragedy.

Christianity also views suffering as the inevitable lot of man. However, most orthodox Christians maintain that the only meaning of human tragedy lies in the hope of a glorious afterlife.

Christianity has traditionally regarded man as a puny being, incapable of any good without the benevolent grace of God. This concept conflicts directly with the classical belief that human nobility is achieved in spite of the perverse designs of the gods, or the fates.

Is there no middle ground between the view that "man is the measure of all things" and the orthodox Christian concept that humans have no inherent worth except in their relationship to God?

I think there is a middle ground, if we are willing to discard stereotyped ideas in both schools of thought. I believe that each man was created by God with a free will and polar tendencies toward good and evil. The longing for truth and beauty which all men hold in common is an expression of divinity, or what is called the soul.

Most orthodox Christian theologians do not blame God for the evil that men do. They postulate that evil is a product of the dark side of man's nature, or the tendency to do wrong. Unfortunately, most theologians do not transfer this concept to the phenomenon of good. They usually attribute the good actions of men to the grace of God working in their souls.

This idea would be most unacceptable to a humanist. However, I choose to believe that God is directly responsible for neither evil or good. How can Christians believe in heaven, hell and divine judgement while maintaining that man's every good act stems from God's grace? If God were responsible for all of our actions, there would be no reason for him to judge men.

However, the idea that man alone holds the key to his existence is equally preposterous. There are limits to human understanding which indicate to me that there must be an intelligence far greater than our own.

Silver Dollar 'Mint' Closed In Bozeman

BOZEMAN, Mont. (P)—The government Thursday closed Bozeman's mint.

A treasury department agent told Bozeman merchants to stop gluing together half dollars to take the place of silver dollars, now in short supply.

"We're closed," butcher Larry Restvedt said after receiving a telephone call from the agent.

Restvedt and other merchants started gluing together halves in protest to Congressional action which ended the minting of silver dollars--Montana's traditional medium of exchange.

The agent also advised Restvedt it was illegal for merchants to paste on the glued halves a red sticker reading: Minted in Bozeman, Montana or the new Montana cartwheel.

When the stop order was issued, Restvedt and other merchants had a new supply of $500 in halves ready for gluing.

"You don't know anybody who would like to buy five pints of rubber cement and 400 little red stickers?" Restvedt said.

'Pirates' Delightful Show Ends Year On Happy Note

By SUZANNE McGRATH State News Reviewer

"The Pirates of Penzance, or the Slave of Duty," presented by the Performing Arts Company in the auditorium tonight and Saturday is perfectly delightful.

The Gilbert and Sullivan opera is always lovely, and this presentation, under the direction of Gomer L. Jones, professor of music, and Frank Rutledge, instructor in speech, retains all that loveliness.

Rutledge has taken certain liberties in his staging of the opera, and this may disturb those devotees who feel that Gilbert and Sullivan must be presented exactly as they were originally. The less static chorus, however, is not out of keeping with the spirit of the opera and lends freshness to the entire production.

Jones handles the orchestra and cast with beautiful precision. He has obviously worked long and hard with them, and much of the credit for the fine presentation is due solely to him.

Mary Lois Taylor, as Mabel, and William Beidler, as Frederick, are outstanding, particularly in their vocal roles. Miss Taylor's cadenzas are breathtaking, and Beidler handles his role of the love-sick swain extremely well.

Susan Weiner, in the role of Ruth, displays as much ability as a vocalist as she does as a comedienne. Douglas Norwick and Richard Leinawever, who play Major-General Stanley and the Pirate King, are both fine actors although their singing abilities are over-shadowed by others in the cast.

Perhaps some of the best bits of acting are to be discovered among the pirate crew. William Livingston and David Coleson manage to distinguish themselves with some fine farce and fantastic facial expressions.

But the unsung heroine of the entire production is Hertha Schulze, instructor in speech. Miss Schulze designed many of the costumes and coordinated all of the others to present a visual loveliness as great as the music.

As the last production of the season, "The Pirates of Penzance" is in keeping with the atmosphere of spring, ending the theatrical year on a buoyant and happy note.

Golf, Tennis, Track Teams In Big Ten Meets

M-M Duo Pace 'S' Linksmen

The Big Ten golf championship is this weekend at Minneapolis and the M-boys are on the prowl.

No, they're not Mantle and Maris but two gentlemen named Marston and Meyer who are State's best hopes for individual honors in the 45th annual tournament.

Phil Marston and Bob Meyer, both seniors, have paced John Brotzmann's golfers this spring. Meyer has been the most consistent player on the squad averaging 77.6 per round.

Marston has been in a slump during the past two weeks and the hope is that he will break out of it in time. He has averaged 76.1, lowest on the team.

Another M-Man is Dick Marr who, although his average of 78.7 ranks him fourth on the team, may prove a surprise. His round of 74 against Michigan last Monday, however, was the lowest of that match.

Sophomore Ken Benson will make the trip after averaging 77.8 the last several weeks since replacing Doug Hankey on the first six. Shep Richard and Doug Swartz will round out the six-man team. They had respective averages this past spring of 79.8 and 80.2.

The NEWS In SPORTS

Net Title Go Today

The Big Ten tennis meet gets into full swing today at Champaign with defending champion

Northwestern favored to repeat against one of the most power-packed fields in the history of the conference.

Michigan and Indiana are expected to give the Wildcats their biggest challenge, but the Spartans are also hoping to break into the top three positions in the standings.

The MSU squad arrived in Champaign Wednesday afternoon after home workouts on Monday and Tuesday.

Coach Stan Drobac called this year's Big Ten tennis the best he's seen since he began coaching the Spartans.

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

Big Ten track teams have been competing against one another all spring, but today and Saturday are the only days that really count.

The loop meet gets underway at Evanston today and by late Saturday afternoon the conference champion for 1964 will be crowned.

Michigan and Wisconsin will play the role of favorites when the 15-event card begins with the field events today at 1 p.m. MSU will play the role of a dark horse behind Wolverine and Badger teams that have an abundance of newcomers and improved veterans.

The Spartans finished fourth behind champion Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan last season and will send 17 athletes, one a defending champion, to compete at Evanston.

The defending champion is Jan Bowen who captured the mile

Cinderman Travel To Evanston

sota, and Ted Kelly of Michigan have each been clocked in 1:53.3 or less.

MSU's Jim Garrett won the indoor broad jump championship during the winter with a leap of 24-7. He jumped 23-3 Saturday in his first outing since the end of spring football but should better that jump at Evanston.

Other Spartan entrants who scored in last year's contest are Bob Moreland, Dick Mather, Mike Kaines, and Walker Beverly.

Mordland placed second in the 100 and 220 last year, but a leg injury has hampered him all season, and he will compete in only the 100.

Mather was fourth in the 660 last year and will take part in the same event this year.

Mike Kaines will run with Bowen in the mile. Last year he placed fourth with a time of 4:15.

Beverly will carry Spartan hopes in both the 100 and 220. He was fifth in the 220 last season.

Batsmen Set For Homestand

Michigan State's baseball team, eliminated from the Big Ten title race but holding some satisfaction from beating arch rival Michigan last Monday, finishes the conference season this weekend with a home stand against Indiana and Ohio State.

The Spartans, 6-6 in the league and 19-10 over-all, have not been defeated at home yet this season. But the Hoosiers and Buckeyes stand to offer a strong threat to the flawless Old College Field record.

Indiana presents the first challenge Friday in a contest starting at 3:30. The Hoosiers have been strong at the plate with outfielder Don Dilly, a Lowell product, and pitcher-outfielder

Eddie Palko providing most of the punch.

The latter is swinging at a .370 clip while Dilly is hitting a lousy .349. Indiana is batting .286 as a team and with the heavy-hitting Spartans breaking out of a recent batting slump, a slugfest can be expected.

Indiana stands 6-6 in the Big Ten to share fifth place with State and Purdue.

A day later, Ohio State (8-4) invades East Lansing for a double header which winds up the conference season for both clubs. Memories of Michigan State's only Big Ten diamond championship will be recalled at the contest as members of the 1954 Spartan squad hold a reunion and will attend the State-Buckeye twinbill.

The Bucks, in moving to third place in the Western Conference have been led by the hitting of first baseman Arnie Chonko. Chonko is currently in second place among Big Ten hitters with an impressive .488 clip on 20 hits in 41 plate appearances. Second sacker Don Harkins is at .286 and sophomore outfielder Russ Magelson is swinging a big bat for Coach Marty Karow.

State Coach Danny Litwiler has announced he will start left handers John Krasnan, Doug Dobrei and Bill Collins. Krasnan will work the Indiana game while Dobrei and Collins open against Ohio State at 1 p.m.

Hitchhiking Writer Meets Dead End

Duane Lancaster, State News sports writer who hitchhiked 135 miles to cover an MSU-Notre Dame baseball game two weeks ago, was ticketed Thursday by East Lansing Police for the same "offense."

Lancaster was only able to get as far as Haslett Road and Grand River, less than 200 yards from the State News office, this time.

Big Bad Wolves Paw At 23rd League Title

The University of Michigan, Big Ten's answer to the New York Yankees, moves into the final week of conference play closely eyeing its 23rd league basketball title.

The Wolverines (9-2) face a stiff challenge Friday against third place Ohio State, however. And with second place Minnesota only a game out at 8-3, the championship is far from being decided.

Following the Wolves and Gophers are Ohio State and Wisconsin both with 8-4 marks and mathematical chances for swiping the crown should the front runners falter.

The Spartans, Indiana and Purdue are tied for the number five position all supporting even 6-6 record. But the jam should be unclogged Friday when the Spartans and Hoosiers battle in a single game at Old College Field.

Late starting Iowa, one of three Big Ten teams to beat the league-leading Wolverines, and Northwestern, both with 4-8 marks share eighth place. The two squads collide in a double header at Iowa City Saturday to decide matters.

Cemented deep in the cellar position is last season's champion Illinois with an unblemished 0-12 record. With only six letterman from the title-winning squad, the Illini have made the biggest fall since the House of Usher.

Intramural News

The baseball throw contest is being held Monday-Friday 12 noon til 1 p.m. and 3 to 5 p.m. The contest will continue through May 29.

Tea Honors Mrs. Wilson

The women of West Wilson Hall will give a tea in honor of Mrs. Matilda Wilson Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. in the main lounge. Mrs. Wilson and her late husband, Alfred G. Wilson, for whom the residence hall was named, donated the land and money for the University branch at Oakland. Among the guests of honor at the tea will be President and Mrs. John A. Hannah; Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Nonnamaker, associate dean, office of student affairs; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Neville, provost.

First Jug-Off To Be Tonight

The Folklore Society will hold the first jug-off tonight at 8 in the Union parlor. Unlike the hootenanny which includes all folk music, the jug-off concentrates on ethnic forms of American folk music, including country music, ragtime, and blues. The jug-off takes its name from the common jug used as a rhythm instrument in the jug bands common in the '30's. The instrument is again becoming of interest to folk enthusiasts. The addition of the suffix "off" to jug connotes the competition of the old-style spelling-bee.

African Students

The African Students Association will hold a meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday in 32 Union. Officers will be elected.

J-Hop Posts Petitions Due

Petitioning for J-Hop chairmanship positions will be Monday through Friday in 317 Student Services from 2 to 4 p.m., and at the Union desk. Petitions are available for the following positions: programs, favors, tickets, photography and concessions, publicity, public relations, Miss MSU, guests and patrons, decorations and business manager.
