

DORMITORY 5 RISES—Unnamed, but already the subject of controversy among East Lansing and University residents, dormitory number 5 construction has begun opposite the new Fee-Akers Complex. With an afternoon shift working until 11 p.m. sinking footings, the noisy pile drivers have disturbed early sleepers and studying students.

GI Bill Brought Vets To College

Over 312,000 Michigan veterans educated or trained.

That's what part of what the World War II GI Bill of Rights twenty years old this month, has meant to Michigan veterans.

At Michigan State they came in droves, having left the services en masse. 1945 saw enrollment at 5,667. A year later it zoomed to a crowded but eager 13,305. By 1948 there were 16,000 on campus.

But the University was committed and no effort was spared. A great complex of quonset huts sprung up to house both bachelors and hopeful new couples.

And supporting it all were the monthly allotment checks from the government which meant literal survival to many.

The great influx continued on with decreasing vigor through to the mid-fifties, with the Korean conflict seeing another GI Bill. Today only a handful of veterans are on campus and still obtaining benefits from any bill.

Obviously, it was this sudden and spectacular phenomenon which triggered the equally quick change and growth in the University.

No longer was it the placid agricultural school. The vets wanted to study for the future and many saw this lying in the modern sciences. So they enrolled in mathematics, physics, and engineering in spiraling numbers.

Michigan State clearly began to assume its present role in those burgeoning years after the war, as this phenomenon—the pressures of so many vets—drove the school on to new paths and into the present era.

Two Strikes Threaten Construction

The two building strikes by plumbers and glaziers which are threatening completion of several campus classroom, lab and dormitory buildings continued Monday, with little change in the situation.

Theodore B. Simon, superintendent of physical plant, said meetings were going on between the unions and contractors involved, but that he had no word of any settlement or significant development.

No word was available from either the plumbers or the glaziers union, but a meeting was scheduled for Monday afternoon between the plumbers union and the Associated General Contractors, bargaining agents for the contractors whose projects are being held up.

Douglas Griffith, plumbers business agent, declined to give details of the union's demands in the strike, which has gone on since June 1. The glaziers union is asking a 50-cent pay hike over a two-year period and a continuation of present agreements on vacation pay and mileage rates.

Foreign Students To Spend Fourth With Thumb Families

An old-fashioned Fourth of July will be in store for a group of foreign students who will spend this weekend in Michigan's thumb area.

The students, who will come from MSU, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, will live with families in the area Thursday through Sunday.

The project was organized by a community organization which has worked with the MSU foreign student adviser for the past year.

About 300 families in the rural communities will host the students.

Foreign Student Adviser August G. Benson said he views the project as having a dual purpose. The first is to give the for-ign student an opportunity to see something of American life apart from that which they see on campus.

The second is to give the American families a chance to learn about the cultures of other countries through association with the foreign student group.

Any foreign student interested in the weekend program may sign up today at the foreign student adviser's office or at People's Church.

There is a $5 fee to be paid by the student or the family unit. If the charge is difficult for a student to pay, a subsidy can be arranged.

A special orientation session for students new to America will be held prior to departure.

The group will depart from the United Nations Lounge in the Union at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Those wishing to leave Friday will leave from the same place at 6:30 Friday night.

440 Students From Abroad On Campus

Some 440 foreign students are attending classes here this summer.

August G. Benson, foreign student adviser, said about 75 of these are new to the University this term. The others attended during the regular school year.

About two-thirds of the students come from African or Asian countries, Benson said. Others come from such places as South America and Germany.

Benson said there are several reasons for the high percentage of foreign students in attendance during the summer.

Some are sponsored by various groups and organizations and are expected to attend all year. Others have visa limitations and must stay during the summer to complete their education within the time limit.

About two-thirds of the foreign students are graduate students, Benson said, and many of them are interested in completing their educations as quickly as possible.

Trim Tops—Swim Stops

Should a bathing suit have straps between gaps or gaps between straps?

At the M.S.U. Outdoor Pool this summer, the gaps had better be between the straps. The new topless bathing suits, which feature two straps between large bare-bosomed gaps, will not be acceptable at the pool.

That was the word from Harris F. "Frank" Beeman, MSU's IM program director, on the suits which have caused such a furor around the nation in recent weeks.

Any coed who appeared at the pool in a topless swimming suit would be swiftly asked to leave, Beeman said.

"The topless suit would certainly not be permitted for swimming or sunbathing at the pool," he added, "As a matter of fact, we require suitable decorum in the coverage on the top of a regular two-piece suit."

In other words, a coed at the pool cannot make herself appetizing by leaving off the topping.

Crops-Soils Experts To Show Advances

The latest scientific advances in crop varieties, weed control and fertilizer practices will be demonstrated at the 1964 Crops-Soils Field Day, July 8.

In all, there will be 14 tour stops during the special event which will be held on the south campus, just off Mt. Hope Road. Signs have been posted to direct farmers to the field plots.

Among the demonstrations being highlighted during the Crops-Soils Field Day are:

—Plowing 22 inches deep to improve soil mixing and boost corn yields.

—Demonstration plots of two new oat varieties, Coachman and AuSable, which are plumper and higher yielding than any varieties now available to Michigan growers.

—Field trails of three annual forage crops that can give farmers 5 tons or more of yields per year: sudangrass, sorgum-sudangrass hybrids, and thickly planted corn (100,000 plants per acre).

—Explanation and demonstration of the alfalfa varieties and management needed to get 5 to 6 tons of alfalfa per year.

Goldwater Here For Delegate Bid

Scranton To Support Any Party Nominee

Senator Follows Scranton

Michigan GOP Await Answers

By OYARS BALCERS
State News Staff Writer

Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton is in the Republican presidential race to stay, but will presidential race to stay, but he will support anyone who is nominated in San Francisco next month.

"I will always be willing to support any nominee," he told reporters during his two-day whirlwind tour of Lansing and Detroit last week. "I'm first and last a Republican."

Scranton met with the Michigan Republican National Convention delegates Friday night but indicated that he was not going to ask for the delegation to commit itself to him. The Michigan delegation, on Gov. George Romney's request, has not thrown its support behind any of the contenders.

The delegates voted Friday night to support Romney as a favorite son candidate until such time as Romney released them to vote for their individual choices.

"I think we should have as many favorite sons and other candidates as possible," Scranton said. "When the nominee is finally made, this would create greater unity in the party."

Scranton is expected to get 36 of Michigan's 48 delegate votes on the second ballot. Indications are that Michigan's delegation is composed of four hard-core Goldwater supporters, eight delegates who are favorably disposed towards the Arizona senator, the other 36 who will support Scranton's drive.

Scranton repeated earlier statements that his campaign was running a week ahead of schedule.

"The arousal for an alternative (to Goldwater) is gaining momentum," he said. "What we are trying to do is to arouse the public and then start pin-pointing delegates (asking for individual commitments from delegates)."

Pin-pointing of delegates started last Wednesday, Scranton indicated. However, he did not elaborate on the number on commitments the move has drawn.

Commenting on Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's return to the United States from South Viet Nam, Scranton said that he had not asked for Lodge's support in the presidential drive but would welcome it.

In a public rally held in the Frandor parking lot and attended by some 1,500 persons, Scranton outlined the broad planks of his platform:

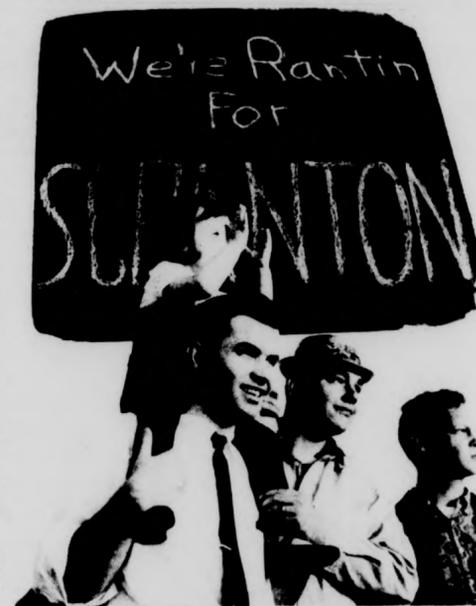

—a sound fiscal policy.
—decentralization of power in Washington, and —a firm and definite foreign policy.

"It's not so much that the Johnson administration has had policy," he said. "It has no policy."

Scranton repeated his increasing attacks on Goldwater: "You don't do it by abolishing the income tax, you don't do it by making social security voluntary."

"I used to try to sell text books to Michigan State College,"

Gov. William W. Scranton told a public rally Thursday at Frandor.

"I sold so many they made me head of the department."

New Lansing Coffee House Offers Folksingers, Java

By MIKE KINDMAN
State News Staff Writer

What's black and white and red all over, and a little exotic in the bargain? Lansing's new coffee house, The Fat Black Pussycat, which opened its doors Friday night to local enthusiasts of the folk song and the rich, brown brew.

Claiming to be the first establishment of its kind in the Lansing area, The Fat Black Pussycat is located at 3000-1/2 Kalamazoo St., just west of the University, and presents a pleasant appearance and an exciting folk music performance. It may fill an entertainment need for the Lansing area, providing an appropriate before-or after-the-show stop-off with a carefully studied nightclub atmosphere.

The walls and furniture, consisting entirely of very low tables and benches, are all black; the floor and ceiling are white. Red curtains, a low red stage, red cushions on the benches and a red candle at each table for two complete the decor.

Manager, Bill Maloney, said the intent of the owners is not to create an atmosphere by the use of "dust and cobwebs", but to provide an interesting and somewhat exotic watering hole for all local folk music fans, in and out of the University. The bill of fare is limited to soft drinks and variations on plain black coffee.

The admission is $1.25 per person or $2 per couple, and covers the cost of the floor show which is presented hourly on the half-hour, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Currently appearing is folk singer Tom Paxton, who is perhaps better known for his writing than his singing, but who will be a pleasant surprise to those who have not heard him sing.

Paxton is a young Oklahoman who traces the inspiration for his style to Woody Guthrie, the "greatest American folk song writer," he said.

He is a competent guitarist, and has a lively way of presenting such Paxton compositions as "The Marvelous Toy," "Ramblin' Boy" and "What Did You Learn in School?"

Many of his songs deal with contemporary topics and contain notes of comment and criticism of war, poverty, prejudice or ignorance, but Paxton insists he is not a "protest singer" as such.

"I am proud to speak my mind," he said. "I don't care if my views offend some people."

He said he writes "topical songs" in the "simple, honest and musical style" of Guthrie, a native of the same area of Oklahoma in which Paxton grew up.

"I hope that what I'm doing," Paxton said, "is an extension of traditional American music brought up to date without losing the flow of tradition."

"Tradition mustn't be stunted," he said, by ignoring the styles developed in folk music over the years.

The stage on which Paxton is now appearing for two weeks will present, beginning July 7, a California folk singing group, the Chambers Brothers, who will be followed July 21 through August 2 by Doc Stanley and Kathy Arkins.

Each Saturday afternoon, the coffee house will sponsor a hootenanny to which local folk artists are invited, to perform and to try out for a weekly Tuesday evening program in which selected local artists will perform with the current professional act.

Its somewhat cumbersome name is admittedly borrowed from a similar one in New York's Greenwich Village. It is indicative of the type of watering down of the various components of the typical folk music and coffee club which characterizes the establishment.

But it is more "genuine" than an evening in a hamburger drive-in, and can expect a steady patronage from people interested in a friendly "hoot," colored black, white and red.

I Think They're Playing This One Up Quite A Bit!

Spartans Aid Miss. Negroes

By SUSAN J. FILSON
State News Staff Writer

Several Michigan State students are teaching Mississippi Negroes about reading, writing, sanitation and voting rights this summer.

The charred car of three missing civil rights workers in a Mississippi swamp is mute evidence that the MSU students are also risking their lives.

A $600 grant from All-University Student Government and Abbott Hall enabled some of the students to participate in the Negro education and voter registration drive this summer. Others are paying their own way.

Among those connected with MSU are Gerald Bray, Detroit junior; Marlene J. Deutsch, Yonkers, N. Y., senior; and Ivanhoe Donaldson, a former student who was arrested two years ago in Mississippi when he attempted to bring medical drugs to Negroes.

Several other students are planning to participate in the "Mississippi Project" this summer.

Robert P. Moses, chairman of the Mississippi Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), emphasized the importance of education in preparing young Negroes to fight political discrimination when he was recruiting volunteers on campus last April.

Most of the students, he said, would work in freedom schools aimed at 10th, 11th and 12th graders who have received sub-standard educations in segregated schools. The schools are attempting to improve reading and writing skills and increase political awareness.

Another aspect of the program which MSU students are participating in is a freedom voter registration drive. The drive was launched in February to register over 400,000 Negroes on books which resemble the official election books of the state.

SNCC expects its books to serve as a basis for challenging state registration records and the validity of federal elections in Mississippi this fall.

Moses pointed out in April that the students are in Mississippi to educate, not to demonstrate. Yet he warned that anyone working for civil rights faces grave physical danger in the most hard-core segregationist state of the Deep South.

Now three civil rights workers are believed dead. One of them, Michael Schwerner, 24, of New York City, was once a student here. Schwerner was a freshman in 1957-58. He lived in East Shaw Hall and played on a dormitory softball team. A friend said of him: "He was just one of the guys--I wouldn't have figured him for the kind who'd get involved in what's going on in Mississippi."

The other students who are risking their lives in Mississippi now are also just "one of the guys"--or gals.

Yet they are risking their lives.

Letter To The Editor

Grad's Gratitude Expressed

To the Editor:

June 14, 1964 is now history. To my husband and me it is a significant date inasmuch as it marked the culmination of five years of work toward his Ph.D. in Business Administration.

Before the day moves too far into the past and becomes but a pleasant memory of the start of new endeavors, we should like to take this opportunity to thank all those at Michigan State who were instrumental in helping my husband achieve his goal.

One has but a limited amount of space on the "Acknowledgments" page of the thesis in which to enumerate all those to whom one is indebted. Even after this letter is written, I'm sure we'll think of others who deserve our gratitude. To those, our apologies for not remembering at this time, but our sincere thanks, nevertheless.

Among those who eased the pressures of the work toward the degree are the departmental secretary and the clerks who were always so cheerful and willing to do more than they had to.

To the library personnel who, on hot, muggy days, hunted through stacks of dusty magazines and publications to help us find pertinent information, to the Xerox-machine operator who copied, copied, copied vast amounts of material from big books and little books, from oversized tomes and skinny pamphlets-- thanks for making our research load considerably lighter.

Our appreciation, too, to the Administration for keeping the library open late so that we could work evenings when sweltering temperatures dropped, to University Housing for providing a pleasant "home away from home" for one summer.

My husband and I took advantage of many of the facilities and activities offered at Michigan State: the travel shows, the lecture-concert series, the football games, the museums, the library. To those responsible for these activities, we want you to know that we enjoyed the programs very much.

I especially want to thank the University for affording me the opportunity of working as a student wife for the two and a half years that we were on campus. To the fine people in Evaluation Services for whom I had the privilege of working, I extend a heartfelt thank you for their help, inspiration and their generosity. Under them, work was a real pleasure--and I mean that in all sincerity.

As I mentioned above, there will be some whose names, and their places in our lives, have been omitted at this time; they have not been forgotten, however. To those who became our friends, to the community as a whole, and to those who most closely worked with my husband in helping him attain his degree, a sincere thank you.

Life Rushed-Violinist Piastro Hastens To London Concert

East Lansing is halfway around the world from London, but music spans the miles for renowned violinist Mishel Piastro.

Piastro, who conducted the Congress of Strings in its first performance of the summer Monday night, leaves today for a concert engagement in London. He will be back on campus next week working with 102 young musicians in Williams Hall for the rest of the summer.

This is Piastro's fourth summer on campus as a faculty member of the Congress of Strings, sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians. East Lansing is only one of Piastro's many stops in a musical journey which began in Czarist Russia.

A former concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and musical director of the Longines Radio Symphonette, Piastro has performed in locals ranging from Siberia to Siam (now Thailand). Renowned both as a violinist and conductor, he will play the violin in London this week.

"My life is particularly rushed with the concert in London this week," Piastro said. "Things aren't always this hurried."

With a pixyish smile, the white-haired musician added that he is "past the age limit for almost everything."

However, the London concert is just one example of the facet that Piastro's musical career shows no signs of flagging.

Piastro put the members of the Congress of Strings through intensive rehearsals last week to prepare for their first concert.

"It is amazing that 102 complete strangers can work together so well and so quickly. I am truly amazed at how well-trained and cooperative they are. As a conductor, I can observe them trying to help each other to improve their performance."

Piastro told the young musicians during a rehearsal that he had lost two pounds. "You know," he added, "I never thought such a thing would ever happen."

The whole group of students clapped when he announced the weight loss.

Piastro works the young musicians hard during rehearsals, but gives them plenty of breaks. The group doubled its rehearsals last week to prepare for the first concert.

"I have one complaint," Piastro said. "They won't open the doors in the rehearsal room in Williams to give us some air. Some kind of red tape prevents it. I told the students I was going to start a petition to the Governor to open the doors."

Piastro has two sons, one daughter, four grandchildren and a "fifth one on the way." He recently was accompanied in a violin solo by his two granddaughters playing the piano.

Noted Conductors Assist

Young Musicians Convene

For the fourth consecutive year, the Congress of Strings will bring outstanding musicians from across the nation to the campus.

The American Federation of Musicians (AFM) is sponsoring the eight-week workshop in Williams Hall for 102 young string players. The students work under noted musicians and guest conductors.

Mishel Piastro, former concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted the first concert last night. Piastro, known to many for his performances as conductor of the Longines Radio Symphonette, will remain on campus as a Congress of Strings Faculty member for the entire summer.

The next major Congress of Strings concert will be presented July 16 in connection with the Fine Arts Festival, Alfred Wallenstein conducting.

Wallenstein was the first American-trained musician to conduct a major orchestra, the Los Angeles Symphony. He has been a guest conductor before orchestras throughout the world.

Other outstanding musicians who will conduct the Congress of Strings are Richard Burgin, associate conductor of the Boston Symphony, and Victor Allessandro, conductor of the San Antonio Symphony.

'Thurber Carnival' Lead Circle Play

The fourth season of M.S.U.'s Summer Circle will open Wednesday with the production of "A Thurber Carnival." The play will be presented at Demonstration Hall through Saturday, starting each evening at 8:30.

Students, faculty, and Lansing area residents are featured in the presentation of many of James Thurber's better known stories and sketches. Appearing in "University Days" will be Dean Kyburz, Lansing Junior; Anthony Collins, M.S.U. instructor from East Lansing; Jan Paulich, Mayfield, Ohio sophomore, and Carol Ford, speech instructor at Okemos High School.

Don Kiel, instructor at the agricultural experiment station at M.S.U., is cast with Kathleen Rafferty, Detroit senior, in "Mr. Preble Gets Rid of His Wife." Featured in "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," are East Lansing resident Connie Chaffee and Burr Belant, graduate student in theatre, and Anthony Heald, Massapequa, New York, sophomore.

Other familiar Thurber excerpts which will be presented are: "The Night the Bed Fell," "The Unicorn in the Garden," "If Grant Had Been Drinking an Appomattox," "The Last Flower," and "The Word Dances."

Tornado Indicates People Ready

The recent Anchor Bay tornado disaster gave evidence that Michigan families do know enough about outwitting tornadoes, according to Vic Stine, coordinator of rural defense for the cooperative extension service.

Stine and two other rural defense staff members spent two days studying the Anchor Bay area where the devastating May 8 tornado killed 11, injured 244, demolished 132 homes and damaged 236 others.

"After visiting the area and interviewing victims, we are convinced more than ever that disaster knowledge beforehand will enhance your chance for survival," Stine said. He also emphasized the importance of husbands and wives planning together what they would do in the event of a tornado.

Stine and his team found that even people who had their radios turned to a local station and heard weather bureau announcements often did not understand what the announcements meant. They had not learned that "Tornado Forecast" means conditions are ripe for a tornado to develop in the area, and that "Tornado Warning" means a tornado has been sighted.

"Warning" was given in the Anchor Bay area. (If the weather looks threatening, Stine advises, tune your radio to a local station to get local weather information.)

Of those who had warning of the tornado and understood its meaning, many panicked. Or, even though they had time to prepare, they simply did not know what to do.

Most of the homes did not have basements or family protection area, Stine learned, and the inhabitants were not aware that their next best move was to lie flat on the floor near an inside partition, away from windows.

Few knew about opening windows and doors to equalize inside air pressure.

"A surprising amount of the damage we saw was of an explosive nature in which the house literally 'blew up' because of the great pressure difference," Stine said. At least one man saved his home and family by opening all of his windows, the defense coordinator added.

JFK Libraries Sent Books From Campus

Copies of 32 books published by the Michigan State University Press have been donated to each of four John F. Kennedy Memorial Libraries in Asia, Africa and Central America.

MSU Press director Lyle Blair said the libraries were recently established by the U.S. Peace Corps in Jakarta, Indonesia; Ankara, Turkey; Addis Ababa, Ethiopia; and San Jose, Costa Rica.

The collections are housed in universities in those cities and will be supervised by Peace Corps representatives there.

Among the titles included in the library gift are books authorized by University staff members Lawrence Babb, J. Murray Barbour, Lyle Blair, Thomas Greer, Elwood Lawrence, Russell Nye, Richard Schlegel, Arthur Sherbo, A.J.M. Smith, Herbert Weisinger, Arnold Williams and John Winburne.

Two Coeds Win Ryder Scholarships

Two coeds have been awarded Edward H. and Georgia S. Ryder Scholarships for study abroad this summer.

Bonnie Jean Ellison, Dearborn sophomore, will study at the University of Valencia, Spain. She is a Spanish and art major.

Sara J. Green, Fennville Junior, will study at the University of London. She is a humanities major.

The Ryder Scholarship fund was established by Mrs. Ruth Ryder St. John of Franconia, N. H., in honor of her parents.

The late Professor Ryder was dean of the College of Liberal Arts at MSU from 1924 to 1934, and head of the department of history and political science from 1916 to 1939.

Prof Will Head Colorado Institute

Robert Johnson, a University professor of financial administration, will head the guest faculty for the fifth annual National Installation Banking School, July 19-31, at the University of Colorado in Boulder.

Johnson, recognized authority in consumer credit, will serve as guest professor in residence for the institute.

Bookmen Exhibit Hits Erickson

An exhibit by the Michigan Bookmen opens today in the lobby and lower lounge of Erickson Hall.

The exhibit will open at 8 a.m. and will close at 1 p.m. Friday. Books and other instructional materials are on exhibit, with about 50 companies represented.

Shook Not Shook By Pre-Tourney Troubles

By RICHARD SCHWARTZ
State News Sports Editor

Hardly two months ago, Patti Shook could not have completed nine holes of golf.

Yet Friday, the 21-year-old senior at Valpraiso University, Ind., walked off MSU's Forest Akers golf course after 35 continuous holes bearing the title of National Women's Collegiate Champion.

More than just a win in the 20th annual affair, the success story of Miss Shook is the remarkable comeback from a knee injury which crippled her earlier efforts at golf this year.

In fact, it wasn't until June 3, less than three weeks before the five-day tourney, that the effervescent Miss Shook was able to play the links.

Adding even more challenge to the comeback, it was her first attempt at 36 holes in one match.

Her competition in the final round of the championship flight, Michigan State's Joyce Kazmierski, was resolved at making it even more of a battle for the girl from Saginaw.

Undaunted by leads by Miss Shook of as high as six up after the first 27 holes, the Spartan freshman shunned defeat until next to the last hole.

Miss Kazmierski, who seemed to gather increasing steam as the temperature soared to 92-degrees, was able to narrow the margin to 2-1 before howling out.

"The heat, plus Joyce's bull-dog tenacity, almost got me," the slender Miss Shook said afterwards.

"If the match had gone one more hole, I don't know if I could have survived it."

Miss Shook revealed that the heat finally got to her on the final nine where her steady lead began to dwindle.

"I began to get sick to my stomach and it became increasingly difficult to continue," she said. "I don't think I could have kicked the ball further on my final putt."

"I said some nasty words to my putter," Miss Shook said, "but it was the thing that brought me through this tournament."

Recalled were the slim decisions of earlier rounds when she downed Bobbie Werner of Tennessee, 1 up, Nicki Nordstrom of Arizona State, 3-2, and Sue Hilton of Western Ontario, 3-2.

In the same tournament last year, Miss Shook bowed out in the second round. She went on, however, to reach the finals of the Women's State last summer following a victory in the Western Michigan.

Her most recent win had been a victory in the Spring Lake Invitational, which she had won once before. Next stop for Miss Shook is Women's State, to be followed by the National and the Western later this summer.

In the consolation round, Ann Baker of Tennessee defeated Sharon Wilder of Aquinas, 3-2. Darlene Anderson of Minnesota was victor in the first flight, Caryl Meyer of Adrian in the second and Jeannie Chisholm of Western Michigan, the third.

Consolation winner in the first flight was Darlene Anderson of Minnesota and in the second flight, Carlette Paquet of Colby College, Maine.

Runner-Up Showing Satisfies 'S' Golfer

The magic number for Women's Golf winner Patti Shook may have been 17, the green on which she sank a two-foot putt for the title Friday.

But for runner-up Joyce Kazmierski, Spartan freshman from Detroit, it was 18--her age.

The young coed, competing in the tournament for the first time, established a name for herself which is certain to gain distinction as she gains experience.

Her powerful drives, which won her the driving championship opening day with a 216-yard slam, were only matched on occasion by winner, Miss Shook.

But what may prove to be her strongest asset in future competition is the unusual perseverance which almost carried her to victory when Miss Shook began to wilt in the 92-degree weather.

Her future plans: "After the State Amateur this summer, I just want to concentrate on finishing college and take it from there," Miss Kazmierski said.

An elementary education major, she plans to teach school after graduation. At the present, she rules out any further pursuance of tournament play after that.

All she had ever bargained for, Miss Kazmierski explained, was a shot at the Women's Golf Championship. And Friday's performance brought only smiles.

Coming to State from Grosse Ile Country Club last fall, Miss Kazmierski had been practicing on the 6,024 yd. Michigan State layout since January.

Continued night-time use of the tennis courts adjoining Spartan Stadium may bring about an extension of closing hours, the men's intramural department reports.

Instead of a 10 p.m. closing time, 11 p.m. may become the new curfew for play, Frank Beeman, intramural program director said.

"So far this summer," Beeman said, "the courts have been in full use at 8 p.m. The number of students using the courts at 10 p.m., however, has varied between 20 and 30 persons."

During daytime hours, all 30 courts are open to students, faculty, and staff.

Reservations for evening play after 8 p.m. must be made prior to that hour at the lobby reservation desk in the men's building.

Lewis Gallops For East TD As Underdogs Topple West

BUFFALO, N.Y.--State's 5-foot - 9, 155 - pound halfback, Sherm Lewis, showed spectators on hand here Saturday for the all-American football game what he showed Big Ten fans all last fall--that its points, not pounds that count.

The former Spartan co-captain tallied the final of three touchdowns for the East team to give the underdog outfit a 18-15 victory over the favored West.

Quarterback George Mira of Miami, Fla., connected with nine of ten third period passes to spark a comeback rally and earn the most valuable player award.

Lewis will join pro ranks next season with Toronto of the Canadian football league.

Other Spartans expected to play pro ball are: Guard Earl Latimer, Buffalo; guard Mike Currie, Detroit; guard Hubert Benson, Oakland; End Matt Snorton, Denver; ends Ed Lothamer and Dan Underwood, Kansas City; fullback Roger Lopes, Baltimore; and tackle Charley Brown, Calgary, Canada.

Hankey Panky On Golf Links

A 19-year-old MSU student became the youngest Michigan Amateur Golf champion in 34 years by defeating champion Bud Stevens and challenger Steve Uzelac in Charlevoix Sunday.

Doug Hankey, St. Johns junior, is five-feet eight-inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He is the number six man on the MSU team and the son of Robert Hankey, owner of the St. Johns Country Club.

IT'S A LONG WAY DOWN-Just going off the high board at the Intramural Pool is an accomplishment for most swimmers. How graceful the diver is matters little, compared to the pride of having had the courage and the ability to complete the dive without belly-whopping on the pool surface. Tom Rudolph, actually a graceful high-board man, demonstrates the off-hand 'German' technique. Photos by Ken Roberts.

Education Full-Year Operation

THURBER WORD DANCE-Opening Wednesday evening, the first of the Summer Circle productions, 'Thurber Carnival,' includes a series of sketches such as the Word Dance with Connie Chaffee. The Summer Circle productions are given in Demonstration Hall each Wednesday through Saturday evening. Photo by Larry Fritzman.

For many of the University's 11 colleges Summer term is a welcome break from the hectic rush of the regular school year. Not so in the College of Education.

Thomas C. Cobb, associate professor of education, said the College of Education is probably closer to a full four-quarter operation than any other college, and he offered figures to support his statement.

The graduate enrollment both this summer and last ranged between 1,900 and 2,000. This compares with 1,400 Spring term and 1,300 Fall term.

The summer undergraduate enrollment is about 1,200, he said, compared with 1,750 Spring term. This number is quite high, he said, and is increasing each summer.

The biggest reason for the high summer enrollment is teachers who are employed full-time during the school year use the summer for full-time study, Cobb said.

Still others come back to take advanced courses in their areas. And then there are those who are working on their master's or doctor's degrees.

Cobb estimated that between 150 and 200 students will complete work on their master's degrees during the summer session and as many as 15 will probably complete their doctor's work.

Several more people are taking courses for transfer credit, Cobb said. These are people who want to take a particular professor or a particular course or want a change from some other college or university.

Most people who graduate from MSU with a bachelor's degree in education and a teacher's certificate teach for a while before doing work on advanced degrees, Cobb said.

However, he said, there are many places all over the state of Michigan where these teachers can go to take courses leading to these degrees. Many of them take one course per term in these sessions and come back to campus Summer term to work full-time on their degrees.

It is almost a necessity for people in the teaching profession to come back to college in order to keep pace with the changing world, Cobb said.

Journalists Praise Grad's Excellence

Gerald J. Keir, Snyder, N.Y., graduate, was cited for achievement by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

Keir, a June graduate of MSU, was one of 62 graduates in journalism to be selected as outstanding in their classes at colleges and universities where the society has chapters.

Selections are based on character, scholarship, and competence to perform journalistic tasks.

The purpose of the citations, which are not restricted to Sigma Delta Chi members, is to promote high standards and encourage broad and thorough preparation by students who intend to follow journalism as a career.

Lucky

MIAMI (AP)—Royce Atwood Wight was taking a nap in the bedroom of his small cottage but suddenly awoke and dashed out of the room recently.

Seconds later a 36-foot, three-ton concrete piling, which workmen had been erecting near the place, crashed through the roof. "I had a premonition of trouble," said the grateful Wight.

Lansing Area Among Lowest

State Unemployment Down

Michigan's unemployment rate continued to decline in April, dropping more than one per cent below the March figure, reports the University Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

Some 126,000 persons were unemployed in April, or 4.3 per cent of a labor force totaling 2,921,500. In March, the jobless total was 157,000, or 5.4 per cent of a labor force of 2,912,100.

Lawson Honored By Alma Mater

Chester A. Lawson, research professor and former chairman of the department of natural science, has been honored by Thiel College, Greenville, Pa.

The national unemployment rate for April was 5.3 per cent. In April, 1963, the jobless rate was 5.5 per cent.

The Bureau's report, based on figures from the Michigan Employment Security Commission, is included in the June issue of the Michigan Economic Record.

All 14 of the labor market areas listed in the report showed unemployment declines in April. Flint again had the lowest jobless rate, 1.6 per cent. Following were Saginaw (2 per cent), Ann Arbor (2.1 per cent) and Lansing (2.2 per cent).

April's business activity index (1947-1949 equals 100) was 270.6 compared with 259.1 in March and 246 in April, 1963.

The state's bank debits index for April was 322.3, compared with 308.9 in March and 291.5 in April, 1963.

The retail sales index for March was 194.6, compared with 186.7 in February and 185 in March, 1963.

Lawson was one of three alumni cited by the Thiel College alumni association for distinguished service in their professional fields.

Goldwater

notable one is Richard Durant of Detroit, who has repeatedly opposed Romney's leadership during his term as governor.

Romney has stated that he cannot support Goldwater unless the senator has been "misquoted" on matters such as civil rights, the United Nations and U.S.-Soviet relations.

Romney invited Goldwater to appear before the delegation the same day as Scranton, but the Arizona senator was unable to come because his daughter Peggy was being married last weekend in Phoenix.

Following Goldwater's address to the delegates, a reception will be held in the Jack Tar for the Romney staff and Republican State Central Committee.
