

Record Student Body Starts Classes Today

Enrollment Of 30,000 Completed

By LINDA MILLER
Administration Reporter

Mass enrollment has again been achieved at Michigan State, and a record influx of 30,000-plus students begin classes today.

Latest predictions from the registrar's office Wednesday were that the spiraling enrollment would break the 30,000 point for the first time in MSU history.

Registrar Horace C. King will release the exact figure at 9 a.m. today. Data processing machines have been working since the close of registration Wednesday to compile the figures.

The newly-attained total may mean a change in rank for the University, which was the nation's eighth largest last year, when 27,669 marched through the Intramural Building.

Summer term students set a new record here, too, with 13,435 catching extra credits during the warmer months.

While University residences expand to accommodate more students, the Registrar's office has altered the enrollment process to ease the expanding flow through the IM building.

Nearly 7,000 freshmen and transfer students registered during the summer counseling clinics for the second year, a plan which eases congestion and confusion in IM gyms. The 6,826 who pre-registered are included in the projected 30,000-plus total.

The 15 per cent freshmen who did not attend clinics registered Monday through Wednesday according to an alphabetical schedule, A-Z.

Students were surprised upon entering the IM Building lobby to register, because the line wasn't jammed up the stairs as it has been in the past.

This was all changed when the Registrar's office decided to add an extra room to the registration process. Instead of

Owen Center Construction Under Way

Construction on a $2.5 million addition to Owen Graduate Center saw a glimmer of a beginning when workmen began to remove shrubbery Wednesday.

Expected to be ready for occupancy fall term 1965, the two-wing addition will more than double the dormitory's present capacity. Residence Hall Manager Lyle Thorburn said.

Two wings will be added at right angles to the existing east and west wings. They will consist of a ground floor and seven floors above. Spaces for 512 students will be added to the present 476 capacity.

Thorburn predicted that excavation to put the pilings in would begin within a week or 10 days. Construction has been started by the University ahead of bid-

Humphrey Attacks Goldwater's 'Quick-Draw' Nuclear Policy

Senate Hits USDA; Lauds Freeman Role

WASHINGTON, 4—The Agriculture Department displayed "disinterest and stagnation" in its handling of Billie Sol Estes' ploy cotton deals and nearly lost track of them in a bureaucratic maze, the Senate investigations subcommittee said Wednesday.

Once word of the situation penetrated to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, the long-awaited report said, he took prompt action to cancel the Texas promoter's cotton allotment transfers.

This version of the subcommittee's report on its two-year-old probe of the politically touchy case was agreed to by all five members.

But two Republican members—Sens. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota—charged, in separate views, that "the free-wheeling, gift-giving Billie Sol Estes, received favoritism on the county level, state level, and in the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

They contended the department was "not only inept in its efforts to cope with Estes but 'in many instances it was actually a companion to this fraud through the actions, or failure to act, of its officials in high office.'"

Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican presidential nominee, has been slamming at the cases of Estes and Bobby Baker in his campaign speeches, describing both as examples of Democratic corruption.

Baker was the secretary to the Senate's Democratic Majority before he resigned last year after evidence of his wide-ranging financial dealings was revealed.

Two Democratic subcommittee members said the lengthy Estes hearings had proved "that the department exhibited no favoritism. There was no evil design, and there were no improper motives." They were Sens. Sam J. Ervin, Jr. of North Carolina and Edmund Muskie of Maine.

Curtis and Mundt said that if Estes hadn't been arrested March 29, 1962, on fraud charges growing out of his liquid fertilizer dealings, his activities "might

Congress Beckons New Candidates

Petitions for student congress positions are now available in 300 Student Services.

Students running for office must have at least a 2.2 all-university grade point average and must be at least a third term freshman. Petitioning closes Monday, and elections will be Oct. 8.

Elections in Akers, Fee, East McDonel and Abbot residence halls will be postponed to give students there a chance to get to know each other. Akers and Fee are new halls, while Abbot was changed from a women's to men's residence this year. Since many coeds, who lived in Abbot last year moved to East McDonel, it was decided to postpone elections there also.

Each hall has one representative unless it has over 625 residents. If the hall drops below 625 during the school year, it still retains the second representative. Off-campus students will have two representatives.

Elections Commissioner Donn Schimp urges all qualified students to petition. Noting recent criticism of All-University Student Government, he asked students to remember that qualified members are necessary for its proper functioning.

"It doesn't matter how good the structure of any organizations," he said, "it's not going to be effective unless there are good people working in it."

"This is a very crucial year for AUSG," he continued. "A lot of its future depends on how this congress functions."

New Dorms Sprout High By McDonel

Work on two unnamed residence halls of the future continues this week as fall term gets underway.

Dorm No. 5, just east of McDonel Hall, is coming along well, according to Lyle Thorburn, residence hall manager.

The $6.5 million structure's east wing has been built up to the sixth floor, and Granger Construction workers are ready to pour the roof. The hall will house 1,276 students fall term, 1965.

Bids for construction of "high-rise" dorm No. 4 will be taken later this term, Thorburn said. To be constructed between the east edges of Fee and Akers Halls on Hagadorn Road, the dormitory will house 1,250 occupants.

No. 4's completion date is set for fall term, 1966, and "it looks like we're going to need it," Thorburn said.

DRAMATIC HUBERT—Democratic Vice Presidential Candidate Hubert H. Humphrey was his old political self Wednesday when he addressed a crowd of partisans in Kennedy Plaza in Detroit. Humphrey's speech drew some jeers from a few Goldwater partisans, but generally the crowd was receptive to his talk. Shown to the left of Humphrey is State Attorney General Frank Kelley.

Candidate Shows Versatility

By BILL PRITCHARD
State News Political Reporter

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey proved himself a versatile speaker on his campaign swing through Detroit yesterday.

The Democratic vice-presidential nominee first spoke at a convention of the National Guard Association in Cobo Hall.

There in a calm and cool manner he spoke of the role of the National Guard and the military strength of the United States, touching upon the need for presidential responsibility in the use of nuclear weapons.

He told the group there is a weapons gap between the USSR and the United States, but in our favor.

Humphrey mentioned the various Senate committees involved with defense and international issues he had served on during the Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations and said he has never known a president to deceive the American public or the Congress.

This statement was made in reply to Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater's charges that the Johnson Administration is not telling all about the situation in Viet Nam.

He made a number of references to responsibility in today's tense world and the need for restraint and adjustment, suggesting that Goldwater does not have the equipment for such a task.

There was moderate applause throughout the talk and then Humphrey left for Kennedy Plaza.

Here he figuratively rolled up his political sleeves and blasted at Goldwater in front of an enthusiastic crowd of his supporters, numbering almost 2,000.

Humphrey was relaxed and much less formal than he had been before the National Guard Conference.

He was the old campaigner and his talk was marked by quips and a smooth and sometimes vitriolic manner of which Barry Goldwater was, of course, the victim.

'Lie And Elect' Tag Given LBJ By Barry

TOLEDO, Ohio, 4—Sen. Barry Goldwater brought his presidential campaign to this industrial lake port city Wednesday night after hurling "lie" charges at President Johnson in a crowded day of whistle-stopping.

The GOP presidential nominee studded remarks prepared for a rally here with attacks on the "socialistic radicals" in the administration and on what he called the "explosive growth" of non-defense spending under Johnson.

Turning momentarily away from these assaults, Goldwater at Springfield proposed a system of federal tax credits to help parents finance their children's education. He said such a system should be graduated in favor of low and middle income families.

Large crowds, chanting "We want Barry," turned out at seven stops on a crisp, sunny day. The candidate obviously was

2 Detroit Speeches Hit Barry

In Detroit

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey renewed the Democratic campaign issues of "peace and prosperity" in Detroit Wednesday, characterizing Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater as "a man whose recklessness in words foretells a recklessness in deeds."

Campaigning in Michigan for the second time in a week, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate told more than 600 National Guardsmen in Detroit's Cobo Hall that "the last day of the 'gun-slinger—the quick draw man'—ended when the first atomic bomb was exploded."

Later, Humphrey addressed a partisan crowd of several thousand in Kennedy Plaza and said, "The man from the sands of Arizona (Goldwater) has no sympathy or understanding for the problems of the big cities."

In his "non-political" speech at the National Guard Conference, Humphrey said that the President is the only person who should have control of America's nuclear striking force.

Humphrey's hard-hitting criticism was aimed at Goldwater's repeated campaign statements that NATO commanders should be given control of certain "tactical nuclear weapons."

"The average tactical nuclear bomb in Western Europe today is five times as powerful as the bomb dropped on Hiroshima," Humphrey said.

He said that small nuclear weapons kill primarily by radiation, rather than blast.

"This doesn't seem to worry my colleague in the Senate from Arizona, Barry Goldwater. But it worries our allies in Europe, where those nuclear weapons would have to be used. It worries me. It worries the President of the United States. And I shudder for the day when we have a President of the United States whom it does not worry," Humphrey said.

He praised President Johnson

A Choice And A Challenge

Most of you 30,000 plus students are registered and ready to begin classes today.

To all of you, Michigan State University offers the opportunity to learn more about the world of men and ideas than you will learn during any comparable period of your lifetime.

MSU also offers you the option of frittering away four years and thousands of dollars in pursuits which can only hinder the development of your intellect and personality.

To all of you, Michigan State offers the chance to grow up, to stand on your own two feet and take the responsibility for your mistakes as well as the credit for your achievements.

The University also offers you the choice of blaming your professors, your parents or your dorm advisers when things go wrong, of shifting the responsibility for your actions to someone else.

This University offers you many faculty members and administrators who are sincerely interested in helping you with your problems--be they academic or emotional.

However, MSU also offers you the option of ignoring the help which is still yours for the asking--in spite of the fact that there are 30,000 of you.

In short, you can mess up your life here.

Or you can graduate as an educated individual in every sense of the word, ready to take your place in a society which needs you desperately.

Good luck!

Warren Commission Verdict -Oswald Lonely, Unwanted

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press International

In assembling its report on the assassination of President Kennedy, the Warren Commission had to sift through thousands of unsubstantiated reports and rumors. The separation of fact from fancy was one of the toughest jobs in the Commission's assignment.

Some of the items examined were not fancy but logical speculation. For example, was the assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, a Communist agent assigned to murder the American President? Did he not, after all, defect to Communism and spend two and one-half years in the Soviet Union?

Oswald was widely reported to have a mysterious source of funds. He brought $5,000 into this country from Mexico a month before he cut down Kennedy with a rifle.

There were rumors, too, that the weak-chinned, 24-year-old ex-Marine was in some way connected with either the FBI or the CIA.

Were these things true? The Warren Commission says "no."

There is no evidence that Oswald had any working relationship with the Soviet Union or Soviet intelligence.

It's believed the Russians never would have permitted

November 22, 1963, says the overriding fact was that nobody wanted Oswald. Not the Russians, the Cubans, the Mexicans, the Communists, the Socialists or for that matter, not even his Russian wife. Whenever the mood moved him, Oswald would blacken Marina's beautifully sad eyes with his fists.

Naturally, the Russians encourage the defector of anyone from the West. But it's believed such turncoats are coddled only long enough to determine whether they can be useful for propaganda purposes or to reveal information to the Communist camp. The Warren Report says Oswald turned out to be virtually worthless to the Russians on both counts.

Why were the Oswalds allowed to leave Russia? It is true that permission was granted within five and one-half months, which is fast, but not unprecedented. It is assumed the Oswalds could have left Russia much sooner than they did. But they were held up until Oswald got State Department permission to reenter the United States.

The Commission says: "There is no evidence that Oswald had any working relationship with the Soviet Union or Soviet intelligence."

It's believed the Russians never would have permitted

Oswald to marry a Soviet girl and take her to the United States if they had planned to use him as an agent. Marina's lack of English and his known status as a defector would have made it virtually impossible for them to operate in secret intelligence work.

The record shows that Oswald did, in fact, make a trip to Mexico a month before the Dallas assassination. But the Commission found no evidence that Oswald may have received instructions and a $5,000 payoff while he was in Mexico.

If at any time in his miserably unhappy and squalid life Oswald had his hands on anything more than a Marine Corps private's pay or an unemployment compensation check, he must have buried it or destroyed it. He was worth exactly $183.82 when he was shot by Jack Ruby.

As for Oswald being an agent for either the FBI or the CIA as his mother has claimed, the Commission found this to be entirely untrue.

The FBI did keep Oswald under frequent check and occasional interrogation after he returned from Russia. But the Bureau knew him to be an unreliable know-nothing and thought he was harmless as far as violence was concerned.

They were right about everything but the violence.

Editor's Note

Edit Page Explained

By John Van Gieson

If past experience is any indication, page 2--the State News editorial page--will again this year prove to be the least understood and most criticized page in the State News.

It has been our observation that much of the criticism directed at the editorial page results from a lack of understanding by some students of the purpose and functions of the various articles on the editorial page. This column is an effort to clear up these misunderstandings and to enable students to know what we are trying to do.

Editorials are printed only on the left hand side of this page and are printed in a larger type size than other articles.

Editorial policy is decided by an editorial board consisting of Charles Wells, campus editor; Liz Hyman, managing editor; Hugh Leach, wire editor; Richard Schwartz, sports editor; myself and editorial writers, Susan Filson and Michael Kindman. All are expected to contribute editorials.

Columns are written by members of the editorial board and the staff of reporters. Regular State News columns can be identified through a title such as "Editor's Note" which appears above this column. Photos of regular staff columnists will run with their articles.

Access to the State News editorial page is available to all reporters who wish to express an opinion on some subject. These columns are identified with the byline of the writer and a statement that he is a State News staff writer. Columns written by staffers other than regular columnists will not be titled nor include pictures.

Columns are also printed elsewhere in the paper including the sports and religion pages. They are identified with titles and pictures.

All State News columns should be interpreted solely as the writer's opinion. Columns do not reflect the official editorial policy of the State News. In fact, they may be at variance with policy and are printed as a means of exposing a viewpoint other than that held by the majority of the editorial board.

As in the past, "Point of View" columns may be contributed by any student or faculty member. The only restrictions are that the writer include a few sentences of identification, the article be typed, double-spaced and not more than three pages in length, that it be stylistically consistent with the requirements expected of students on this campus, and that the writer hold himself with in the bounds imposed on newspapers by libel laws.

Students who wish to express an opinion to the State News may write a "Letter to the Editor." Letters are published if typed, double-spaced and not more than 300 words in length.

Reactions Support Commission Views

Editor's Note: Reactions to the report of the Warren Commission on the assassination of President Kennedy have come from a variety of areas. Most have supported the opinion of the commission that security measures surrounding the late president were insufficient, and have made suggestions or positive moves in the direction of improving presidential protection and precautions in the event of similar occurrences in the future.

The following are excerpts from articles written by writers of the Associated Press since publication of the report.

WASHINGTON -- A White House committee on presidential safety, created to consider the broad recommendations of the Warren Commission, planned swift action Monday to get proposals ready for the new Congress in January.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the new security measures, growing out of the commission's investigation of President Kennedy's assassination, should be "one of the first orders of business" when Congress reconvenes.

The Warren Report, declaring Lee Harvey Oswald to have been the lone and unaided assassin, was selling "phenomenally" after it went on sale at three outlets Monday, the Government Printing Office reported.

The commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren criticized "deficiencies" in the Secret Service preparedness for Kennedy's fatal visit to Dallas last Nov. 22. It called for "complete overhaul" of the service's advance detection practices and other reforms including closer liaison with the FBI and other agencies.

WASHINGTON -- The Warren Commission report has reopened the question of whether a president should be allowed to make decisions about his own security.

There were some broad hints that a president probably would not be objective in assessing his risks, and that he frequently might subordinate security to political or other considerations.

There were strong indications that the aides who planned President John F. Kennedy's fateful trip to Dallas had a strong influence on crowd control and demonstrations as the two most likely problems. More than 200 police officers and federal agents were concentrated at Dallas' Trade Mart, where the largest crowds were expected.

The problem of deciding whether a president should be required to take the precautions outlined by his guards may be one of the toughest facing the new committee on presidential safety. Obviously the chief executive cannot be made a prisoner of his own police force.

The report mentions Secret Service and FBI "deficiencies" which permitted a man with Lee Harvey Oswald's background to gain a vantage point along the parade route without being detected. It also implies that an agent stationed closer to Kennedy could have saved his life.

WASHINGTON -- The Senate approved Monday a Constitutional amendment which provides a method for filling the office of vice president when a vacancy occurs, as is the situation now.

The amendment would also establish a method for handling instances of presidential disability.

The proposal now goes to the House where there is no chance of any action on it this session. Sponsors of the amendment said, however, they hope the Senate vote would give the plan a boost for favorable action next year by both branches. Then, it would still require ratification by at least three-fourths of the states to become effective.

The amendment provides that when the office of vice president is vacant, "the president shall nominate a vice president who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority of both houses of Congress."

On the question of disability, the amendment states that if a president declares he is unable to discharge his duties, they shall be turned over to the vice president.

Letter Policy

The State News welcomes all letters to the editors from any members of the MSU community or non-University readers.

Letters should be no longer than 300 words and typed double spaced if possible. Longer letters may be considered for publication as "Point of View" columns. Correspondents should include name and, if applicable, University standing (Detroit freshman, professor of forestry, etc.) This information may be withheld upon request, but no unsigned letters will be printed.

The State News reserves the right to select and edit letters to fit space requirements.

LBJ Plans K Conference

WASHINGTON, 1--President Johnson hopes to meet fairly soon--probably next year--with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to explore further steps to lessen East-West tension.

If re-elected, the President expects to go to Europe in November or December to confer with leaders and representatives of the 14 other North Atlantic Alliance (NATO) countries.

This trip, it was learned Wednesday, would involve an appearance either at the November meeting of NATO parliamentarians or the December session of the NATO Council. Both are in Paris.

With no firm plans yet made because of the impending election, Johnson was reported hopeful of arranging an appearance before the parliamentary group.

White House press secretary George Reedy, asked about stories on the trips, called them "purely speculative," but said he was neither discounting nor confirming them.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey's only comment was that no preparations have been made.

But other informed sources gave this version of the President's thinking:

Johnson considers the limited nuclear test ban treaty, establishment of a Washington-Moscow "hot line," and last winter's wheat sale to the Soviets as hopeful signs and wants to explore with Khrushchev any further moves that can be made. This summit meeting, contingent of course upon Khrushchev's willingness to meet, would be preceded by meetings with leaders of allied countries.

The President's appearance at either of the NATO conferences would not be an effort to turn either of them into a summit session bringing in the heads of member governments.

What Johnson is hoping for is a chance to address the assembled delegates and confer with them privately.

LBJ Heads Off Dock Strike

WASHINGTON--President Johnson acted Wednesday under the Taft-Hartley Law to head off an East and Gulf Coast Strike of longshoremen. The strike was scheduled for midnight Wednesday, but an Executive Order from the President has created a board of inquiry into the dispute, opening the way for a federal restraining order.

Hilda Heads for Louisiana Coast

NEW ORLEANS -- Hurricane Hilda, the season's fifth hurricane, was rushing toward the Louisiana coast Wednesday with winds up to 80 miles per hour near the center. It appeared to be picking up strength as it moved northward.

1,000 Die as Reservoir Bursts

NEW DELHI, India -- A reservoir which burst Tuesday near Machherla in southern India unleashed waters which washed away more than 1,000 persons, unofficial reports to government sources said.

NLRB Says Kohler Unfair

WASHINGTON -- The National Labor Relations Board Wednesday ruled that unfair labor practices by the Kohler Company brought on a bitter 1954 strike. The company was ordered to reinstate 57 of the 77 striking employees whose discharge an earlier board decision had held justified.

13,000 Enrolled In Summer Term

By LINDA MILLER

Campus construction quickened and political controversy heightened, new regulations were defined, staff changes announced, donations accepted and conferences held at Michigan State as over 13,000 students set a new record in summer enrollment.

A plumbers' strike lasting 50 days crippled campus construction projects, particularly new dormitories and the international center, but University officials were hopeful as the walk-out

Red China Will Hold 15th Birthday Celebration Today

TOKYO, 1--Red China celebrates its 15th birthday today with speeches and parades amid reports the Chinese soon will explode their first nuclear device.

No doubt Chairman Mao Tze-

Tung of the Chinese Communist party would like to cap the festivities with an announcement that

Red China has joined the exclusive nuclear club. But whether his Chinese scientists are ready for the big test is unknown.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean

Rusk said in Washington Tuesday that a nuclear test explosion by

But Mao and the Communist

Chinese organs remained silent on the nuclear question.

Peking's official pre-celebration line was centered on advances in the economy, Chinese

Communist newspapers predicted 1964 would go down in

China's history as one of the country's best agricultural years.

Mao and his revolutionary colleagues have denounced the Russians in the strongest possible terms for having concluded

a treaty with the United States and Britain, banning all except underground nuclear testing. The pact, the Chinese charged, was an attempt to keep them from acquiring the bomb.

The Russians in 1959 refused to honor an earlier pledge to deliver a sample of the bomb to Peking. This, and the subsequent withdrawal of Soviet military and economic aid, brought the Chinese-Soviet dispute over ideological questions to an unprecedented stage of bitterness.

Despite the Peking-Moscow split, the Soviet Union has sent a moderate-ranking delegation.

Last year, the Russians sent a chess team and some football players.

This year the Soviet group is headed by Viktor Grishin, alter-

Fuzak Given Post As Vice President

John A. Fuzak, former Dean of Students, has recently been named vice president for student affairs.

Although the title change involves little difference in duties, there will be an opportunity for greater representation in the area of student interests, Fuzak said.

He will now participate in Board of Trustees meetings and meetings with President John A. Hannah, where he will be able to speak for student interests at a discussion and policy-making level.

He was also made a member of the Academic Council. He was formerly a member of the Council as a representative from the Department of Education.

His job also involves coordinating and directing a vast department encompassing many areas of overlapping student interests and activities.

One of the greatest problems facing him as head of the Office of Student Affairs is that of communication between his office and other University areas, Fuzak said.

He added that he now will have a better opportunity to act as a voice for the students at levels where their interests may best be represented.

Fuzak views the change in titles as a possible trend toward decentralization in the Office of Student Affairs.

Bike Paths Extended For Entire Campus

A continuous bicycle path stretching from Fee and Akers Halls to Brody Hall is being pushed toward completion this fall. Finished last week was a path from Wilson Road to Red Cedar Road connecting North, East and South Shaw Lanes.

Work still to be done on the extensive east-west path includes curb cutting, making rumble strips, painting and re-alignment of existing bike routes, said Bob Trojanek, assistant landscape planner.

Curb cutting provides a gradual sloping of bike paths which feed onto roadways. This prevents a cyclist from having to dismount his bike at a curb. Rumble strips are depressions in the concrete paths immediately preceding a roadway or curb cut.

"These depressions will not give the cyclist a violent jolt," Trojanek said. "They are intended to remind the cyclist that he is entering a roadway and must yield."

Pedestrians and automobiles both have the right-of-way, and an automobile has the right-of-way over a bicycle.

Painting includes three to four-foot-wide bike lanes on roadways, yield signs and roadway markings indicating a continuation of a path that crosses a roadway or sidewalk.

These markings on roadways will be several white parallel lines spaced four inches apart. Those for sidewalks will be narrower and spaced two inches apart.

These markings will be painted all along the path on North, East and South Shaw Lanes and at the Abbott entrance.

Cyclists may use any roadway even though it isn't designated as a bike route, Trojanek said, but he warned that riding on sidewalks is prohibited and that violators will be fined.

Painting is slated for the path along the Kellogg footbridge and for the pavement from the exit of the Brody route to the footbridge.

Realignment of existing paths, rumble strips, curb cuts and painting is still to be done from the Sparty statue northeast across the Kalamazoo Street bridge to West Circle Drive.

The path across Kalamazoo Street will be finished to connect with the Red Cedar route to Farm Lane. The Farm Lane path will be continued to the Bogue Street bridge route, where it will tie up with the McDonel Hall route.

A path east of McDonel and south to Wilson Road and the Fee-Akers route may or may not be completed this fall, Trojanek said. However, he said, the Fee-Akers route will still tie up with North, East and South Shaw Lanes.

Construction of a north route beginning at the Abbott entrance was completed in August and was painted last week. Eventually it will join the Brody route and will connect with the North Circle Drive and Beaumont Tower paths, Trojanek said.

Possible paths to be completed this fall are a connection between Wonders and Case Halls across the fire station and a path under the Bogue Street bridge to connect with the McDonel and Fee-Akers routes.

The latter route, if not completed this fall, will be done by next spring, Trojanek said.

Because of lack of funds, a route between Chestnut Street and Red Cedar Road along West Shaw Lane will not be made this fall.

"Bicycle routes now run mainly from east to west," Trojanek said. "If the bicycle population keeps growing, north-south routes will have to be developed."

State News Names Six Staff Members

The State News announced the appointment of six staff members to the policy forming editorial board today.

New editors include: Liz Hyman, Baldwin, N.Y., senior, managing editor; Charles C. Wells, East Lansing junior, campus editor; and Hugh Leach, Sparta senior, wire editor.

Also Richard Schwartz, Far Rockaway, N.Y., junior, sports editor; and Susan J. Filson, East Lansing sophomore, and Mike Kindman, Franklin Square, N.Y., sophomore, co-editorial editors.

Miss Hyman held the positions of sports reporter, editorial assistant, night editor, women's housing editor and assistant campus editor.

She is a member of Senior Class Council and vice president of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism honorary. She was secretary of her dormitory last year.

Miss Hyman has worked on the Baldwin, N.Y. Citizen and spent the past summer in the research department of Papert, Koenig, Lois, Inc., a New York advertising company.

Wells was AUSG reporter, Kellogg Center reporter and administration reporter. He is treasurer of Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism honorary.

He has worked on the Coloma (Mich.) Courier, the St. Joseph Herald Press and the Wheaton (Ill.) Daily Journal.

Senior Portraits

Seniors graduating this year must have their portraits taken now to be put in the 1965 Wolverine. Appointments may be made by calling 355-7676 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. this week and next. There is no charge for pictures.

Leach is a transfer student from Grand Rapids Junior College and was an editor of the paper there. He held the positions of AUSG reporter, Health Center reporter, MHA reporter, and night editor on the State News.

His other activities include WBRS (Brody radio) Board of Directors, athletic chairman of his dorm precinct and liaison representative to house council.

Schwartz held the positions of sports reporter and night editor prior to his appointment. He is also a member of the varsity fencing team and Sigma Delta Chi.

Mrs. Filson is the former Susan Jacoby. She was student services reporter, editorial writer and general assignment reporter. She is a member of Honors College.

The six editors, along with John Van Gieson, Morristown, N.J., senior, editor-in-chief, coordinate editorial policy of the paper.

Also announced was the appointment of beat reporters and news advisers.

Dick Hansen, Owosso sophomore and a 16-year staff member of the Owosso Argus-Press, will handle the news adviser slot.

Henry Price, Columbia, S.C., graduate student, will handle duties as copy desk adviser. He has two years experience on The State, seven-day morning newspaper in Columbia. He received both his A.B. and his M.A. in journalism at the University of South Carolina.

Folklore Group Meets Monday

The MSU Folklore Society will open the 1964-65 school year with a reception-coffee get-together Monday at the "Fat Black Pussycat", 3000 1/2 E. Kalamazoo St. from 7 to 9 p.m.

Members and prospective members are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served. Membership will be available at $2 and will cover the entire year. Members registering after Oct. 5, will submit the regular $1 per term fee.

Activities for the coming year will be discussed at the meeting. "The Cat" will be closed to the general public, and the Folklore Society will be the guest of the owners at this time.

Coed To Study On Seven Seas

A Michigan State coed will sail around the world when she goes to school. Joan Thorlakson of Bloomfield Hills will attend the University of the Seven Seas, Oct. 27.

The University of the Seven Seas is a ship-board school that includes field expeditions in every port of call from Peru to Egypt. With a crew of 275 students and 38 faculty the M.S. Seven Seas will sail the high sea exploring ancient cultures and natural life in other countries and under the sea.

Horticulture Professor Retires

An internationally-known expert on tree crops retired from the department of Horticulture Sept. 1 after 19 years at Michigan State.

F. L. "Steve" O'Rourke, who has a career in horticulture spanning 45 years, came to MSU in 1945 as a professor of horticulture.

He was formerly associated with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, the U.S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, and the New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

From 1950 to 1952, O'Rourke was superintendent of Hidden Lakes Gardens. His specialties in horticulture have included plant propagation, nursery management, plant ecology, landscape horticulture, geography, and shade trees.

O'Rourke, who was recently elected president of the Northern Nut Growers' Association, is currently serving as a consulting horticulturist in Washington, D. C.

He has worked on the Coloma (Mich.) Courier, the St. Joseph Herald Press and the Wheaton (Ill.) Daily Journal.

$2 Million In Loans Foreseen

Loans to students may top $2 million during the 1964-65 academic year, Henry C. Dykema, director of financial aids, predicted.

Last year 4,677 student loans valued at over $1,755,000 were processed.

A large portion of the expected loan rise will be met by MSU's increased share of funds from the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) loan program, Dykema said.

Last year NDEA provided $483,108 in loans to 1,256 MSU students. So far this year over 1,800 NDEA applications totaling $926,000 have been approved. The average loan is $500-$600, Dykema said.

A student may borrow up to $1,000 in NDEA funds during a three-term academic year, or $5,000 for an entire four-year program. Starting a year after he leaves MSU, the student has up to 10 years to repay the loan at an interest rate of 3 per cent a year.

In selecting students for NDEA loans, priority is given to those undergraduates studying elementary or secondary education, science, mathematics, engineering and foreign languages.

For recipients who become teachers, up to 50 per cent of the loans may be cancelled at the rate of 10 per cent a year for each year they teach.

The University's own loan program, which last year provided almost $525,000 to 2,518 students, is used mainly for emergencies and short-term loans, Dykema said. Freshmen may borrow a maximum of $150, but the maximum increases by $150 each year. Financial assistance is also available from the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Loans, United Student Aid Fund and various state higher education assistance programs.

"Many states, including New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey, have good loan programs," Dykema said, "but few students from these areas are aware of them."

Loans are available at any time during the year, although most applications are received at the beginning of a term.

Several applications for loans have already been received for September 1965, Dykema said.

Radio Plans Symphony

Sunday afternoon the famous New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra will be presented over MSU radio stations WKAR and WKAR-FM.

The beginning concert will be conducted by Joseph Krips, music director of the San Francisco Symphony. Conducting the concert along with Krips will be William Steinberg, music director of the Pittsburgh Symphony, and Lorin Maazel and Thomas Schippers, internationally known conductors of symphony and opera.

Sunday's broadcast will present the suite from "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by Richard Strauss, William Schuman's "Credendum", and the Symphony No. 2 in D Major by Johannes Brahms.

Maren Credited As Life Saver

David Maren, Hinsdale, Ill., senior, is credited with saving the life of a father of five after an auto crash near Palos Hills, Ill., recently.

Maren was driving near his home when he saw two cars collide and explode. He ran to the scene of the accident and pulled Troy Lewellen from the flames. Lewellen received severe head and face injuries. The other motorist was killed in the crash.

Ten-Year-Old Becomes Youngest MSU Student

Michael E. Grost, a 10-year-old Lansing boy, has become the youngest full-time student in the University's history this fall. Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Grost, 2513 Arlington Road, left elementary school classes behind to enroll as a freshman here. He completed the sixth grade at Cumberland School in Lansing last June.

Although Michael has accumulated 38 credits in courses at MSU since the spring of 1963, this is his first term as a full-time student.

He will take basic courses in American thought and language and social science as well as a five-credit mathematics course.

For two years, Michael has been under the guidance of MSU advisers. They say his intelligence quotient is beyond all established measures for a person his age.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Drews, professor of education, has worked closely with Michael while he has taken courses at the University. She specializes in working with gifted children.

Mrs. Drews indicated that Michael's development is outstanding even when compared with that of other gifted children. While the University does not release specific test scores, Mrs. Drews says Michael's scores are "off the chart."

However, she added that test scores for Michael are not meaningful because of the wide difference between his mental age and his chronological age.

Michael scored higher in the verbal sections of the test than the non-verbal.

Mrs. Drews is the chairman of a special committee which will guide Michael's academic career. The committee includes Rep. Edith Green (D-Oregon), chairman of the House subcommittee on higher education; Robert Havighurst, social scientist from the University of Chicago; Arthur Hitchcock, head of the American Personnel and Guidance Association; Stanley J. Idzerda, director of the MSU Honors College; Walter F. Johnson, MSU professor of education; and Abraham Maslow, a psychologist from Brandeis University.

A professional consulting psychologist who tested Michael when he was nine noted that he was not only intelligent, but "a happy, well-adjusted person, with a sense of humor and a gregarious nature."

Mrs. Drews commented that Michael played on a school basketball team and enjoys shooting marbles.

MSU officials would not enroll Michael as a full-time student until they had received full evaluations from professors who have taught him during the past year-and-a-half.

One of the first definite indications to his parents that Michael was an extremely gifted child came when he began to read at the age of three from a book he had not seen before.

When he was a kindergartner, he drew a complete picture of the solar system and labeled it after his teacher had told the youngsters to draw anything they liked.

Last year Michael won the Grand Award in the Junior Division of the Central Michigan Youth Talent and Science Fair. He has a sister, Patricia, 9, and a brother, Robert, 7.

HPR Sponsors Dance Classes

The Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation will sponsor a series of six dance classes for boys and girls in kindergarten through senior high school beginning Friday, Oct. 16.

Emphasis in the classes will be on creative rhythmic movement and folk and square dancing. Registration at 25 cents a person will be held 4-5:30 p.m. Oct. 9 in the Women's IM Building.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Dixie Durr at 355-4761.

WHERE WE USED TO LIVE—MSU's new residence halls stand on the site of the barracks apartments where Mr. and Mrs. William J. Ruby and their son, Gary, used to live. Gary was born in 1945 when his father was one of the millions of GIs who swelled college enrollments following World War II. Today, Gary is one of the post-war generation that is bringing college enrollments to record heights.

13-Year Absence Ends--Freshman Follows Dad

Seventeen-year-old Gary W. Ruby is returning to MSU after a 13-year absence.

Gary, who will be one of a record number of freshmen beginning classes at MSU on Oct. 1, was born while his father was a GI student at MSU.

Then, Gary's father was a part of the big surge in college growth that followed World War II.

Now, Gary is part of the massive arrival of the post-war generation on campuses throughout the United States.

William J. Ruby was living in a trailer court—typical of the many that sprang up around college campuses—when Gary was born Nov. 24, 1946, in his mother's home town, Bad Axe, Mich.

The following June, the Ruby family moved into the newly erected tarpaper-covered barracks that soon became a landmark on the MSU campus and a home for thousands of families.

The family lived in the barracks until 1951 while the father, a former B-17 pilot in Italy, earned a bachelor's degree and a master's degree (with distinction) in civil engineering. He had a $1,000 assistantship in his last year. Another son, James, was born in 1949.

The family lived largely on GI Bill income and the senior Ruby's part-time job earnings. Mrs. Ruby did not work as many wives did, feeling it was more important to make a home for the family. She and her husband recall with some nostalgia the good times they and other student families used to have in the barracks.

Since leaving MSU, Ruby has worked for a Virginia firm, and as a partner in a California printing firm. He is now with the Cornell University Aeronautical Engineering Laboratory in Buffalo, N.Y., and lives with his family in Clarence, N.Y.

Gary is an excellent student and a "letter of commendation" winner in the National Merit Scholarship competition. He has never seriously considered attending any university other than Michigan State. He will major in electrical engineering with emphasis on computers. Brother James also plans to come to MSU when he graduates from high school.

The Ruby family visited the MSU campus this summer while Gary attended the summer counseling clinic for new students. It was only their second visit to MSU since 1951 and they found many changes. The enrollment, which will be in excess of 30,000 this fall, has doubled, and huge new coeducational academic residence halls stand in what used to be the barracks area.

Gary was one of the 3.4 million babies that made the numbers of American births jump 20 per cent in 1946. The following year, it jumped another 12 per cent.

The many children born then and in ensuing years have strained elementary and high school facilities, notes Gordon A. Sabine, MSU vice-president for special projects.

Now, he says, they are about to strain college and university facilities. There are not only more potential students, he notes, but also a higher proportion that want to go to college.

Across the country, enrollment of freshmen this fall is expected to increase 20 per cent. At MSU, Sabine is expecting an even greater increase.

Sabine notes that MSU is preparing to help increasing numbers of students by careful study of present educational methods and helpful innovations where needed. Over the next few years, he expects to see universities change and grow just as they did after World War II.

Extension Service In New Campaign

The cooperative extension service has embarked on a campaign to make every Michigander aware of the major occupational changes taking place and the educational adjustments that must be made to meet them.

The educational project called "Developing Human Resources in Michigan" is scheduled to blanket the state by February, 1965.

The project is meant to provide an opportunity for citizens to study statewide development problems and consider action programs to solve them, according to William J. Kimball, associate professor of resource development.

Kimball heads the guidance committee for the human resources project. Working with him is Arthur Mauch, agricultural economist and chairman of a national committee that developed a set of leaflets being used as basic study material for the project.

The project will form a central guidance committee in each county with the aid of the local Extension Service staff.

Each central committee will recruit 50 to 75 citizen leaders who will be trained by the county staff in three meetings covering the topics, "People, Jobs and Growth," "Education and Training," and "Matching People and Jobs for Growth."

The citizen leaders, in turn, will conduct a group of neighbors and friends through three similar discussion meetings.

Participants in the study will look at a number of specific problems, such as reducing the Michigan school dropout rate, retraining workers to meet new job demands created by changes in technology, or providing employment or education for the "little wave" of 18-year-olds which will hit the state in numbers 38,000 stronger in 1965 than in 1964.

Humphrey Attacks

as "a man whose deeds and words in the world's most powerful office are the essence of responsibility."

The senior senator from Minnesota characterized Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara for "brilliant, energetic, determined leadership."

Goldwater recently said one of his first actions as president would be to fire McNamara.

Humphrey said that the United States is the most powerful nation in the world, both in nuclear and conventional weapons. However, he emphasized that weapons cannot prevent the slow spread of communism throughout the world.

"I doubt that the Communists intend to blow this world to pieces. They prefer to carve it up piece by piece."

"Only through a combination of economic, political and moral strength can we remain a great people," he said.

In his humorous, sharp-throated political speech at Kennedy Plaza, Humphrey said that Goldwater would "spend a billion dollars for an Arizona dam, but not one nickel for Detroit."

"Now don't get me wrong," Humphrey hastened to add. "I voted for the Arizona dam project. But I vote for projects for our cities as well."

Humphrey said he wants "the temporary spokesman for the Republican Party" to have every opportunity to be heard.

"That's the best thing we have going for us—when Barry is heard," he said.

Humphrey also referred to a soft drink known as "Goldwater" which the Republican Party has been handling out at political rallies throughout the country.

The sale of "Goldwater" was banned in Grand Rapids because the bottles were "grossly misbranded and listed only artificial coatings and preservatives as ingredients," Humphrey said in quoting from a newspaper article.

"That gives a full description of the Republican candidate and the Republican platform," he quipped.

very well have still gone unheeded."

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., agreed that the system built up over many years was a contributing factor in the case. But he added:

"Nevertheless, the timidity, vacillation and indecision, and neglect or unwillingness on the part of high officials in the Department to act appear to be the principal cause..."

In presenting the report to the Senate, McClellan said:

"...Many needed reforms have been brought about in the areas in which weaknesses or deficiencies were revealed by evidence adduced at the hearings. It is probable that the reforms would not have been made except for these revelations."

At the Agriculture Department, Freeman hailed the report as a vindication of his handling of the affair. He said in a statement:

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating, and this report clearly established that Billie Sol Estes did not succeed in defrauding the government of a dime."

"The same cannot be said for the private financial institutions which Estes did defraud of substantial amounts and for which he now has been prosecuted and convicted."

Marine Corps

Team To Visit

The U.S. Marine Corps officer selection team for Michigan will visit MSU Oct. 12 and 13.

At present, limited vacancies exist in the various ground and aviation programs available to college men and women. Marine Corps officer training programs are designed so as not to interfere with the student's normal course of study.

Anyone interested in earning a commission in the Marine Corps will be interviewed at the Union Building Concourse between the 8 and 6 on those two days.

A new ticket sales and price schedule for the 1964-65 Lansing Symphony Orchestra season has been announced.

Tickets for the full season of seven concerts are being offered at $15 and $8 per seat. Tickets are available from any member of the Women's Symphony Association, or by calling the Lansing Symphony office at IV 2-0753 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A revised seat reservation plan was also announced. Rather than reserving individual seats, patrons will obtain reservations in a certain section of the auditorium. This is will not be necessary to get tickets together at the box office in order to sit with friends.

This year's season will include a series of four symphonic and three Philharmonic concerts, plus a presentation of Gustav Mahler's "Resurrection," by the Lansing Symphony and the 300-voice Lansing Festival Chorus.

With the purchase of a season ticket, the purchaser is also entitled to one dramatic performance each of the Lansing Civic Players Guild and the Community Circle Players.

The symphonic series concerts will be held in the auditorium of Sexton High School, and the Philharmonic in downtown Lansing's Civic Center.

Mrs. John H. Flewelling, ticket sales chairman, said that a savings of $6 will be gained by ordering full season tickets.

"Of course, single tickets will also be available at the box office unless the series is sold out," said Mrs. Flewelling.

London Symphony Performs Monday

The London Symphony, on its first American tour in 52 years, will perform Monday, at 8:15 p.m., in the Auditorium.

The 60-year-old orchestra, a self-governing musical organization without a permanent conductor, is touring the United States under the direction of Hungarian-born George Solit.

Romeo Tata, professor of music, said the orchestra's selections from British composer Benjamin Britten, Joseph Haydn and Hungarian composer Bela Bartok have been "tremendous hits."

The London Symphony is the first presentation in the Series "A" Lecture-Concert series for fall term. Students may exchange their activity coupons for tickets today and Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the main desk in the Union.

Britten's "Sinfonia," the first selection in the program, was composed in 1940 to celebrate the 2,600th anniversary of the Mikado dynasty. The Japanese government rejected it, however, on the grounds that the Christian ideology on which the music was based was an affront to the emperor.

"Bela Bartok is one of the great giants of modern music, ranking with Bach and Beethoven," Tata said of the composer whose "Concerto for Orchestra" is on the program. The Bartok composition shows off single instruments and groups of instruments in the concerto style usually used to feature one instrument.

The third number is the "Symphony No. 104 in D Major (London)" by Haydn, rated by music historians as one of the supreme symphonic achievements of the 18th century.

Shook Receives $250 Scholarship

Mark L. Shook, MSU sophomore, has been awarded a $250 scholarship by the National Association of Tobacco Distributors.

Shook was awarded the scholarship because of a winning essay he submitted in nationwide competition among the sons and daughters of retail customers of the association's member firms.

WINS UNIQUE HONOR—Roy E. Marshall, professor emeritus of horticulture, recently received a unique honor from his colleagues in the American Society for Horticultural Science. He was awarded a plaque citing him for "devoted and dedicated service to horticultural science and education." With MSU since 1920, he originated the method from which the apple-juice industry developed.

Josh Jr. Strums In Fat Pussy Cat

Josh White Jr., one of America's bright young folk singers, opened a six-night stand Tuesday at "The Fat Black Pussy Cat," a coffee house on Kalamazoo Street near the campus.

White set the mood of the evening with the quiet "Hush, Don't You Cry." The decor of the coffee house established an intimate intimacy between the performer and the audience.

With Ken Hodges featured on the bass, White sang the popular "Working on the Chain Gang." Two of the real highlights were "Old Cotton Field," featuring Hodges using the "double slap" bass technique, and the novel work song of a "gay" hairdresser, "Big Bad Bruce."

Sensing the audience's enthusiasm, Josh White sang several sing-alongs, "Run, Mona, Run," and "To Sing a Rainbow."

After he broke a string on his six-string guitar, White switched to a twelve-stringed instrument. The result added an abundance of variety to the tone and an unexpected lift to the performance.

Included among the 15 songs White sang was "I'm on the Run," written by Ken Hodges.

Folklore Reception Monday

The folklore society will open the 1964-65 school year with a reception-coffee at "The Fat Black Pussy Cat," 3000 1/2 East Kalamazoo, Monday at 7 p.m.

Members and prospective members will discuss the Michigan Folk Festival in Ann Arbor, activities for the coming year, and the election of officers. Society membership cards will be available at the reception. Dues for the coming regular school year are $2.

The folklore society offers classes in folk guitar, banjo, auto-harp, blues-harmonica, and steam calliope, and an opportunity to swap ideas with others interested in folklore and folk music. The organization provides folklore classes, hootenannies, social activities, song-swapping and a chance to buy and sell instruments.

Faculty, staff, and non-University applicants may register as non-office-holding members. Graduate, foreign and married students are welcome.

Members registering after Monday's meeting will pay the normal $1 per term fee.

Auditions Slated

Auditions for the MSU television orchestra will be held at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the Music Practice Building.

Brass players will be auditioned Monday, and the reed and rhythm auditions will be Tuesday.

STATE THEATRE East Lansing

'Show Boat' Opens Year For Foreign Film Series

"Show Boat," the Kern-Hammerstein musical version of Edna Ferber's novel, opens the foreign film series Oct. 8 and 9, in Fairchild Theatre.

The tale of life on a Mississippi showboat at the turn of the century stars Kathryn Grayson, Howard Keel, Ava Gardner and Joe E. Brown.

Also scheduled for the fall term series are a film version of the Greek tragedy "Oedipus Rex," a comic farce, two satirical films and a romantic drama.

All films begin at 7 and 9 p.m. "The Mouse That Roared," a British satire starring Peter Sellers in a dual role, will be shown Oct. 16. The movie spoofs the world of international politics and the U.S. foreign aid program.

The Stratford Shakespearean Festival Players recreate Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex" in a color motion picture to be shown Oct. 19 and 20. There will also be a special matinee showing of "Oedipus Rex" Oct. 20, 3:15 p.m.

Three films are scheduled for November. The Italian comedy "Love and Larceny" involves its hero in impersonations of a business tycoon, an army general and Greta Garbo.

"The Good Soldier Schweik" satirizes war and its idiocies. "The Lovers of Teruel" uses a blend of surrealistic, avant-garde and traditional dance and film techniques to tell a legend of star-crossed lovers.

The University's newest organization, the Scots Highlanders, will hold an organizational meeting at 7 tonight in 14 Dem. Hall.

The Scottish kiltie-clad band is sponsored by the MSU Army and Air Force ROTC units. It performs regularly for University, military and social events. The Highlanders, a 50-man unit, features bagpipers, buglers, drummers, Scottish dancers, and a trick guidon drill unit.

Bagpiping classes, under the direction of Pipe Major Jeff Roth, will also be offered by the Highlanders. The classes will be open to both male and female students or faculty members. Registration for the classes will take place at tonight's meeting.

Brass musicians and percussionists can also audition for positions in the Highlanders' Bugle Band and Drum Band at the meeting.

Cadets interested in precision and trick guidon drill can also register tonight.

A favorite on campus, the unit has taken part in the South Campus Weekend, and Cadet Field Day presentations. It performed at various dormitory units last spring term.

The Highlanders provided traditional music for Senior Swing-out last spring, and appeared on state-wide television as a part of the Benton Harbor Blossomtime Festival.

The Scottish band also represents MSU and the ROTC departments at military drill meets throughout the midwest, including the National Scabbard and Blade Drill Meet at Purdue University.

Interested students unable to attend the organizational meeting should contact Bandmaster Dave Jaehning at 5-8311 or Major R.H. Clohecy at 5-2390.

Travel Film Will Survey Switzerland

A travel film-lecture on Switzerland by Philip Walker will open the 1964-65 World Travel Series of 21 programs at Michigan State University, Saturday, in the University Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Other film-lecturers and their topics include: Curtis Nagel, "Mexico," Oct. 10; Ed Lark, "France," Oct. 17; Russell Jameson, "Florida," Nov. 6; J. Gerald Hooper, "Portugal," Nov. 7; Thayer Soule, "Trailing Lewis and Clark to Oregon," Nov. 14; John Goddard, "The Far East," Nov. 21; and Muri Deusing, "Panama," Nov. 28.

Also scheduled are: Robert Davis, "Arizona," Dec. 12; Bill Dalzell, "Australia," Jan. 9; Karl Robinson, "Hong Kong," Jan. 16; John Craig (to be announced), Jan. 23; Robert Cohen, "Castro's Cuba," Jan. 30; Stan Midgley, "Autumn across America," Feb. 12 and 13; Eric Pavel, "The Alps," Feb. 20; Alfred M. Bailey, "Alaska," Feb. 27; Nicol Smith, "Morocco," March 13; Willis Butler, "Canada," April 3; Cliff Kamen, "Mexico," April 10; Kenneth Richter, "Italy," April 17; and Capt. Finn Ronne, "Antarctica," May 1.

All programs will be held in the MSU Auditorium at 8 p.m. Single admission tickets will be available at the box office.

ROTC Aid Bill Praised

A Senate-amended bill to expand the Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) for colleges and high schools and to increase financial benefits for members now goes to the House for approval.

"If Congress passes the proposed legislation, men in the advanced ROTC program will be paid a minimum of $40 monthly and a maximum of $50, Lt. Col. George A. Davies, chairman of the Department of Air Science, said.

"This would greatly enhance cadet enjoyment of the advanced program," he said. At present men in the advanced program are paid $27 monthly.

In the original bill, the House provided for four-year scholarships to students who sign up to accept officers' commissions, but this proposal was modified by the Senate.

"Carefully selected individuals will be able to take ROTC on a four-year scholarship," Col. James F. Skells, chairman of the Department of Military Science, said.

"After graduation these individuals will receive a regular commission and will have to fulfill an active duty obligation of four years."

For several years the Navy has offered tuition and laboratory fees and $50 a month to qualified college officer candidates. Some 12,000 are now in training.

The House voted to authorize similar programs for the Army and Air Force with a ceiling of 8,000 for each of the three military services. The Senate reduced this to 5,500 with permission for a gradual cutback by the Navy.

"The measure, if passed, will be a terrific inducement to take the ROTC program," Col. Skells said. "It will simplify completing college work, going into the service and returning to civil life and pursuits."

Two years ago, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara proposed eliminating high school ROTC units at a $5 million annual saving. He also wanted to realign the college program to offer an intensive two-year course instead of the present four-year one.

Under widespread protests, the Pentagon backed down on these.

McNamara's plan for overhauling the college ROTC included proposed special scholarships and a pay boost for men who participate in the training program. This was approved by the House.

State 4-H Leader Dies Here

Miss Marie A. Wolfe, 50, assistant state 4-H Club leader for the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University, died at her home in East Lansing, last Friday morning.

Miss Wolfe was born and reared in Cedar Springs in Kent County. She developed her interest in a career as a professional youth leader while a 4-H Club member in Kent County when Keats K. Vining, retired county extension director, was in charge of the program.

She attended Western Michigan College at Kalamazoo and was a teacher in rural schools of Kent County while completing her education. She received her B. A. degree in 1941 and then taught in the Grand Rapids schools for four years before joining the Extension Service in 1945.

Miss Wolfe received her M. S. degree from Cornell University in 1956. In 1963, she was on leave with the Federal Extension Service in Washington, D. C., to assist with a youth careers and urban 4-H Club training program. She was currently a member of the 4-H Club sub-committee, a national policy making group for the Extension Service.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Wolfe, Cedar Springs; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Dahl, Grosse Pointe and two brothers, Ralph of Cedar Springs and Paul of Naperville, Ill.

Seminars Focus On Outer Space

Ted Guinn, research scientist of the Douglas Aircraft Co. will speak here today at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Engineering Building.

Guinn's talk on the "First Order Necessary Conditions for Variational and Optimal Control Problems" is part of a series of Mechanical Engineering seminars featuring authorities on the problems of outer space. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Universities Trigger Boom

New York (A-P) construction boom is under way for new college and university buildings. The total spending for construction for higher education is expected to double in the years ahead.

Needs and aims are changing, too.

Now the emphasis is on new dormitories. Ahead, educators say, will be a drive to build more science and research facilities. Despite the growing volume of postgraduate students, the stress will still be on an even larger increase in the number of undergraduates.

Some 200 of the nation's leading colleges and universities say their building programs envision more than $4 billion in outlays in the next 10 years. This is about twice what they spent in the last 10.

While more will be spent for science and research facilities, construction will continue for all types of campus building—classrooms, administration, dormitories.

The 200 replying to queries by Walter Kidde Constructors, Inc., New York, represent 45 states and Puerto Rico. Of these 150 say they have, or will, apply for federal aid under the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963. And 105 of the 200 plan to apply to other government sources for funds.

Some look for aid from other sources. Research and development facilities planned by 52 of the colleges and universities will be able to handle outside industrial contracts to help pay for themselves—and perhaps even attract private endowment funds.

On average the schools spent $2.9 million during the last 10 years on these science and research buildings. In the next 10 they plan to spend an average of $6.1 million. On a percentage basis the jump for science will be from 22 per cent of total outlays to 30 per cent. For dormitories the percentage of the total will drop from 32 per cent in the 1954-64 period to 25 per cent in the 1965-75 period.

While 44 per cent of the higher education institutions are planning to build accommodations for growing graduate schools, more than 75 per cent will be building more facilities for undergraduates.

The rush for higher education is expected to gather speed in the coming decade. Part of this is due to the growing up of the big postwar baby crop. But part is due to increasing stress on the essential role of education in tackling the increased technology of industry, which is building up demand for higher skills. At the same time the fields of employment open to the high school graduates are expanding only moderately at best, and scarcely as fast as the population growth. At the grade school dropout level, job hunting is becoming an ever harder task.

In the coming collegiate building boom, new architectural trends are developing, too. As in many other fields, college and universities are feeling a space squeeze. Builders and architects report mounting interest in high-rise buildings to take care of more students on restricted ground space, and for multipurpose buildings, especially those offering flexibility as educational needs change.

After Record Effort, Toilet Was 'Flushed'

MSU males living in Room 310 of West Fee Hall believe that their room has set a national record.

"Sunday my roommate flushed the toilet in our bathroom and it just wouldn't stop," said Craig Horvath, Rogers, Ark., freshman. "It continued to flush for four hours and 56 minutes until a plumber could get it stopped."

Horvath indicated he figured how much water went down the drain and it amounted to about 2,960 gallons. The plumber blamed a defective water float as the cause of the national toilet flushing record.

The new MSU student didn't indicate if he thought his record would go unchallenged.

Disabled Receive Driving Privileges

Students with certain physical disabilities and other outstanding needs may apply to the University Traffic Committee for special campus driving and parking privileges.

After receiving a recommendation for the student from an Olin Health Center physician, the traffic committee considers the case and makes the final decision. The Motor Vehicle Office is then authorized to grant the permit.

Students can pick up applications at the Motor Vehicle Office at the Department of Public Safety, Quonset 104.

The traffic committee—made up of four students, four faculty members, and one representative each from the Dean of Students Office, the Department of Public Safety, and the department of site planning—rule on the applications.

If denied special privileges, students can make appointments through the committee secretary, Richard O. Bernitt, safety officer, to appear in person before the committee.

A "disabled student" is regarded as an individual with: —a definite paralysis, such as polio, cerebral palsy or stroke.

—a skeletal defect such as an amputation, congenital deformity that limits walking ability, and a fracture and joint surgery for temporary privileges.

—a neurological defect, such as multiple sclerosis, myasthenia gravis and brain or spinal cord injuries.

—a heart disease that was reported when the student enrolled.

—and established cases of cancer or related diseases.

Weak backs, knees, ankles and other reported weakness, flat feet, chronic sinus and migraine headaches do not qualify students as "disabled."

The committee will also consider granting special driving and parking permits to students with "University-oriented needs," such as students working for the University and student leaders with definite needs for cars on campus.

One Of Top 1964 Senior Women Dies

One of Michigan State's 50 outstanding senior women of 1964 died of a heart ailment Sept. 10 at her home in Sheridan.

Miss Alyce Ann Beckmeyer, 22, was graduated from MSU in June with a B.A. in art education. She did graduate work here summer term.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry E. Beckmeyer of Sheridan, she was a 1960 graduate of Sheridan High School and a member of the Congregational Church there.

Miss Beckmeyer was voted one of the top 50 women in her class for participation and leadership in MSU activities.

She was general chairman of the 1963 Activities Carnival, a committee chairman of the 1963 and 1964 Spinners Spin and a member of the activities and central boards of Associated Women Students.

Her other activities at MSU included membership in Spartan Women's League, American Brother-Sister Program, Wolverine staff and Rifle Club. She also served on her residence hall house council, J Hop and Water Carnival committees.

State News Copy Advisor Found Dead

An MSU graduate student in journalism who would have been head advisor to the State News copy reading department this year was found dead Sept. 9.

Isaac Pollack, 23, of 5148 Eastover Rd., Lyndhurst, Ohio, was found dead of a gun shot wound in a field near his home. The Cuyahoga County coroner ruled the death a suicide.

Mr. Pollack entered MSU in the fall of 1963 and, while studying for his master's degree, he was head advisor of the State News copy reading desk. He was to receive a scholarship this fall from the MSU school of Journalism to continue his studies.

He was a 1959 graduate of East High School in Cleveland, Ohio, where he was a member of the National Honor Society, president of his class and second page and co-editor of the high school newspaper, the Blue and Gold.

He was one of four recipients in the Cleveland area of the $4,000 Ed Bang Collegiate Scholarship. He attended Kent State University and graduated cum laude in 1963.

The body was sent to Cheyenne, Wyo., for burial. Mr. Pollack is survived by his mother and nine brothers and sisters.

'Horizons '64' Set As Carnival Theme

Nearing completion are plans for "Horizons '64," the 10th annual Career Carnival. Sponsored by the Placement Bureau as a vocational information service, the event will be held Oct. 12 through 13 in the Union.

Leading representatives of business, education and government will explain informally the types of opportunities available to students and the background and qualifications necessary to fill these positions," said John McQuitty, "Horizons '64" publicity chairman.

"The first of its kind, the Carnival is nationally recognized as the biggest and best in the country," McQuitty said.

Bell Telephone Systems, J. L. Hudson Co., Ford Motor Co., Mich. Education Association, U. S. Civil Service Commission, Standard Oil, and Boeing Aircraft are typical of the 80 companies expected to attend.

Through information gained from company representatives concerning choice of courses, students find that they may major in fields seemingly far removed from their chosen vocations and then specialize in graduate school or through company training programs, McQuitty added.

Students may also become acquainted with vocational areas they were previously unaware of and thus widen their range of vocational choice.

"More than 100 students have been working since last spring to make "Horizons '64" the largest Career Carnival yet," McQuitty said.

Planetarium Offers Trips To Planets

A trip to the distant planets of our solar system—Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune—is in store for visitors to Abrams Planetarium during October.

"Frozen Giants," which begins Friday, will be presented each Friday at 7 and 8:30 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays at 2:30 and 4 p.m.

The public program will not be presented this Saturday because of a special Editor's Day feature, but will resume Sunday at 2:30 and 4 p.m.

The Oct. 10 programs will be at 9:30 and 11 a.m., and on Homecoming, Oct. 24, there will be four morning programs, at 9, 9:45, 10:30 and 11:15 a.m.

"Frozen Giants" will include illustrated discussions of the four planets about which astronomers know relatively little. Of the four, only Saturn, the ringed planet, and Jupiter, largest planet in the solar system, are visible to the naked eye.

Featured in the program will be telescopic glimpses of the planets as they appear in the earth's sky and a view of Saturn as it would be seen from one of the planet's satellites.

Also included will be a discussion of the discovery of each planet. Neptune, discovered in 1846, was the first planet spotted with the aid of mathematical deduction. Its effects on Uranus led to its detection.

Hance To Discuss Speech Education

Relationships between junior and four-year colleges in the teaching of speech will be discussed Monday by Kenneth G. Hance, professor of speech, at the joint annual convention of the Michigan and National Associations of Junior Colleges at Grand Rapids Junior College.

Hance will participate in the speech section of the combined conventions, which coincide with the 50th anniversary of Grand Rapids Junior College.

THE GUIDING FORCE—Members of the Student Education Corps are supplying the guiding force in changing the lives of many area children. Much of the organization's work is carried out in schools with large enrollments of economically disadvantaged children. The ultimate aim of the Corps is to show children that education is the key to a better life and to provide the needed inspiration and motivation for them to advance in life.

Student Education Corps Sets Year's 1st Meeting

By NANCY L. SHENEFIELD
State News Staff Writer

The Student Education Corps (SEC) will launch this year's activities with a general meeting and film tonight at 7:30 in Union Room 32.

The corps, which was originated in March of 1963, is a voluntary organization of university students who are willing to give their talents and spare time to serve in schools with large enrollments of economically disadvantaged children.

"Often these children are potential dropouts," said Robin Ruff, co-ordinator. "The ultimate aim of the Corps is to show these children that education is the key to a better life and to provide needed inspiration and motivation."

The organization assigns some volunteers on a regularly scheduled basis to a school which has asked for help, she explained. If interested, the school files a request with the SEC office and agrees to pay the transportation costs of volunteers assigned to them.

"Some volunteers work with individuals, others with small groups," she explained. "We work with students in the areas of recreation and physical education, foreign language, science, fine arts, folk and classical music, and dramatics." "As often as possible," explained Frank Blanco, co-ordinator, "the volunteers use their own cars. However, we have found it necessary to lease three automobiles which are used to capacity five days a week."

The coordinators pointed out that the only requirements for joining SEC are a desire to help people and an interest in working with children, willingness to work and responsibility. "It is not all teaching," Miss Ruff said. "There is a place for volunteers in all fields."

The coordinators agree that there is need for more communication between volunteers and the SEC office. They are planning to increase seminars in dormitory groups for discussion of problems, ideas and methods. "We go about our activities with a Peace Corps spirit," Miss

Patton Quits;
Donn Schimp

Takes Post

Donn Schimp, Coloma sophomore, is replacing James Patton, former Wilmette, Ill., sophomore, as All-University Student Government elections commissioner.

Patton is not returning to MSU fall term, but in his letter of resignation said that he hopes to return later in the school year. He suggested Schimp as his replacement, saying, "he has had the experience that is necessary for the job and possesses a large sense of responsibility." Schimp was assistant elections commissioner last year and served on Spartan Spirit. He is also an officer of Bryan residence hall.

Ruff said. "We all want to give. We work in schools in Lansing, Pontiac, Morrice and Jackson. The schools are chosen by the education administrators in the school systems."

The idea for SEC evolved from suggestions by David Gottlieb, former associate professor of sociology, anthropology and education at MSU to an on-campus class in sociology of education. Gottlieb, recognized the need of volunteers to spend individual time with economically disadvantaged youngsters.

Other SEC meetings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday in Wilson Hall for Wilson, Case and Wonders residents; 7:30 p.m. in Brody Hall for Brody residents; and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in McDonald Hall for McDonald, Fee and Akers residents.

Two Injured In Accidents

An MSU student and an East Lansing youth suffered minor injuries in similar accidents this week.

A motor scooter driven by Donald W. Clugston, 19, of 1666 Melrose, struck a car driven by Raymond A. Graham, 19, of 3005 Galbraithline, Brown City, at the intersection of E. Grand River Avenue and Bogue Street at 7:05 p.m. Tuesday.

Clugston, who suffered a laceration to the index finger and a knee abrasion, was not hospitalized.

Graham was ticketed for failure to yield right of way.

In an 8:03 a.m. Wednesday accident, Randy Hathaway, 12, of 1155 Daisy Lane, East Lansing, was injured when his bicycle hit an automobile at the intersection of Evergreen and Green Streets.

He was treated at Sparrow Hospital for bruises and contusions of the right leg and released.

going upstairs to gym III for fee cards and assessment of fee, students were directed to the sports arena first.

"We have taken the congestion out of gym III," King said. "It's still not as neat as we would like, but it's better than before."

This fall gym III was staffed by the University business office, while the registrar handled all other rooms.

Class lists were distributed to instructors before 8 a.m. today. First changes in enrollment can be made Monday. Courses can be added through Wednesday in the main concourse of the Union and dropped until Oct. 14. Changes which affect fees are handled in room 107, Administration Building.

The only heavy line reported during the early part of registration was the scholarship line when Honors College members went through Monday afternoon. Enrollment is always hectic in the class cards arena, but students who've been there before prepare themselves accordingly.

King said that the registrar's card was eliminated from the packet to speed up registration. But fall term cards are always more numerous because the religious card and the placement bureau card must be filled out.

'S' Practice Starts Today

Freshmen interested in Block "S" should report to the south end of the stadium at 4 p.m. today to practice for the Southern California game Saturday.

Block "S" will be both a cheering and a card section this year.

Both freshmen who sent in cards and those who did not are eligible for membership in Block "S." Those who sent in their cards, however, will have seats reserved at the stadium between 3:45 and 4:15 p.m. After 4:15 the block will be open to all freshmen.

Prospective members should bring their activity books to practice today to obtain free admission to the game.

They are not in the winter, spring or summer term packets.

Most students estimated that they spent 45 minutes registering this term. Some made it through in half an hour, but others took an hour or two, preferring to chat with friends they hadn't seen since last summer.

One area where a little confusion occurred was the name change table. With a great number of coeds returning with new last names, IBM cards had to be altered repeatedly.

About 500 persons were employed by the registrar and the business office to handle the influx. Student helpers for the registrar numbered 150, and 2251 represented various departments.

King said it usually takes two-and-a-half days to set up the IM building for registration purposes. Laying canvas on the sports arena floor took a little longer.

SHINY NEW BUSES - New General Motors buses like this one will be speeding MSU students to their destinations for the coming year. This is the first year the University has operated the bus service on its own. Last year Lansing Suburban Lines buses served the campus.

-State News Photo by Ricki Gilbert

New Bus Services Promise Quick Trip

By JAMES STERBA
State News Staff Writer

Every 12 minutes three MSU buses pull into the new Shaw bus terminal at Shaw and Farm Lanes to pick up students and transport them throughout the campus.

One bus goes to Fee and Ackers dormitories; another, to Spartan Village via south campus; and the third, to University Village and Brody dormitories via East and West Circle Drives.

Meanwhile, every five minutes or sooner, depending on the time of day, buses speed to and from the Shaw terminal to the Mt. Hope Road commuter parking lot.

There are 11 buses working the three basic routes on campus, and four reserve buses to handle critical periods of the day, said Henry W. Jolman, general foreman of the MSU bus operation.

"A student will have to wait no more than 12 minutes for a bus at any bus stop on campus in the daytime," he said. "We have set up the schedules so that in most cases students will be able to make it to their classes on time."

For example, a student living in Fee Dormitory headed for a class at Berkey Hall can board a bus at 7:55 a.m. at the Fee and Ackers stop and arrive at the Shaw terminal at 8:02 a.m. He stays on the same bus and arrives at Berkey Hall about five minutes later at 8:07 a.m.

"Once students familiarize themselves with the routes of the buses, they should have no trouble getting to where they are headed," Jolman said.

"It was reported that one student had to transfer three times to get where he wanted to go," Jolman said. "This is simply impossible unless the student was confused about the routes."

Some students are anxious to see how the buses will operate during rush periods.

"According to a survey, our bus operation must be prepared to move between 400 and 500 students from the commuter lot to classes within a fifteen minute period," Jolman said. "We are prepared."

The buses have a seating capacity of 75-80. Except for four used buses, all equipment and buses are "the latest" in transit vehicles, he said.

Jolman, who has had 28 years working experience in bus transportation, said that the bus set up probably is not perfect, but that changes are being made to improve the service to the students.

For instance, the Shaw to Brody route has been altered to take in University Village. Also, new stops are being added and some old ones changed for the student's convenience.

In order to use the bus service, students must purchase bus passes. They are available at the Union, the MSU Book Store at the International Center, Brody dormitory, North Wonders, West McDonald and West Shaw reception desk, and the Married Housing Manager's Office.

During the first two days of registration over 1,000 passes were sold.

"We expect to sell four or five times that many," said Lyle Borner, Maintenance Superintendent of the Physical Plant.

Professors To Address Ecologists

Two MSU faculty members will speak at a meeting of the Michigan Association of Conservation Ecologists Friday, at the Interlochen Arts Academy, Interlochen.

MSU participants are Christopher Sower, professor of sociology, and William J. Kimball, community development program leader of the Cooperative Extension Service.

They will discuss "coordination of natural resource management planning and activities in Michigan."

10 Hours With Enemy

Dem 'Spy' Stalks GOP

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (AP)—Miss Moira O'Connor, who was invited to get off the Goldwater campaign train at Parkersburg, W. Va., Tuesday, turned up in the press section at Sen. Barry Goldwater's speech in Columbus yesterday.

Victory Gold, press attache, again insisted that she leave and escorted her out.

Before Gold discovered her, however, Miss O'Connor tossed leaflets into a press bus in which she ridiculed Goldwater's statements.

Miss O'Connor, a 23-year-old volunteer Democratic worker, told yesterday of spending 10 hours as a "spy" on Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign train.

In a story in the Chicago Daily News, she said she rode from Washington to Parkersburg, W. Va., but was put off when the Senator's aides discovered she had been passing out Democratic campaign literature.

"I was kind of scared while it was all happening. But now that it is all over I think it was a great joke," Miss O'Connor said.

Her mother, Jean, is a writer for the Daily News.

Miss O'Connor said the idea of sending a member of the Democratic staff with the Republican presidential candidate on his whistle-stop tour came from Richard Tuck, a Democratic campaign strategist.

Tuck told her Sept. 24 to call Republican headquarters in Washington and make a reservation on the train for "Chuck Cicero," of the "Newman News Service." Both are imaginary but the address she gave was that of Democratic headquarters.

"Cicero" was the name of a famous World War II spy in Turkey.

She thought Tuck would make the trip, she said, but a few hours before the train left Monday, he told her she would be going and had her call Republican headquarters and say that "Cicero" had to send a freelance writer in his place.

While Miss O'Connor bought her ticket, picked up her credentials and packed, Tuck and other Democratic workers mimeographed anti-Goldwater newsletters.

"When I got back to the office," Miss O'Connor said, "Dick said there were four sets of newsletters—they're really just Goldwater jokes—and he wanted me to see that everyone on the train got them."

"He also wanted me to keep my eyes open and learn what I could about the Goldwater campaign."

Miss O'Connor said she slipped aboard the train while attention was focused on a rally at the station for Goldwater. She slid copies of the newsletters under compartment doors, then went to her own roomette.

Early the next morning she distributed a second set of newsletters.

"The only people up were a few porters," she said. "They thought it was a good joke, so they helped me."

"The only one of the 18 cars we didn't get into was Sen. Goldwater's. He was in the last car, and I didn't want to take a chance getting caught by a bodyguard or somebody."

While she was eating breakfast, she was approached by Paul Wagner, Sen. Goldwater's press secretary, who took her back to her roomette.

"When we finally got to my compartment, I found that both of my suitcases had been opened and my clothing was strewn all over the bed," she said.

"I told Mr. Wagner: 'You've been going through my luggage.' He didn't answer. All he said was: 'You've been passing out these joke sheets. You think you're pretty funny, don't you?'"

"In a way I'm kind of sorry that Sen. Goldwater is going to get such a horrible press out of this," Miss O'Connor said. "I had heard that he was supposed to have a great sense of humor."

"He probably didn't know anything about it."

Miller Lashes Foes' Principle

OMAHA, Neb., (P)—William E. Miller fired charges at the Democrats in six-gun fashion yesterday as he pushed his hard-hitting campaign through the wide open spaces of the West and Midwest.

The "split images of our opposition reveal a total lack of principle," the Republican vice presidential candidate said in a statement hurling new charges at President Johnson and Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

In a speech to a rally of nearly 1,000 persons at Grand Junction, Colo., Miller recalled that President Johnson once had praised Bobby Baker and Miller said "This would be funny if it were not so serious."

The GOP candidate hammered anew at Americans for Democratic Action which he termed "one of the ultra-left organizations in this country."

He said that the ADA sought to exercise government control "by placing their left-wing disciples in high positions in government."

Throughout his campaign Miller has cited Humphrey's role as a founder and former officer of the ADA.

Miller listed United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman as ADA members in the high councils of government.

Miller flew yesterday from Laramie, Wyo., where he had criticized the administration's handling of the issue of falling cattle prices.

The Miller campaign plane moved to Grand Junction, then on to Omaha.

Another stop in yesterday's schedule was Reno, Nev., where he will address a political meeting today.

In his statement on "split images," Miller said that President Johnson "widely publicized his double life back in 1960 when he ran as a Conservative for re-election as Texas senator and as a Liberal for the vice presidency of the United States."

"We've discovered, too, that there are two Hubert Humphreys," Miller said.

He said Humphrey as a senator opposed the oil depletion allowance, "but now that he's a candidate for the vice presidency, he was able to tell an audience in Texas that if they elected him, they'd find he was 'friendly' on the depletion issue."

taking so progress can be made while the weather is good.

Bids will be let in about three weeks, he said.

In addition to the two wings, the center section will be remodeled to accommodate mail boxes for the new residents, and dining facilities in the Woodland Room will be increased to serve 350. Present capacity is 220.

Architect for the addition is Ralph Calder Associates of Detroit, the same agency which designed Fee and Ackers residence halls.

Thorburn said that the reason for the urgency to complete the addition by next fall is an increased enrollment of graduate students.

About 300 graduate students are living in undergraduate halls this year, waiting for openings in Owen.

cheered by his reception in a state he has said he must carry if he is to win the presidency. GOP State Chairman Ray C. Bliss, riding the special train, predicted in an interview that the entire ticket would win in Ohio.

At Dayton, where police estimated that a crowd of 15,000 to 18,000 filled the streets around the courthouse, Goldwater recalled a statement attributed to the late Harry Hopkins that Democrats intended to "spend and

He said this slogan has changed under Johnson to "lie and lie under Johnson to 'lie and lie and elect and elect.'"

"We have today in this country managed news, or the calculated lie," he said, as the crowd whooped its approval. PUT TO GOOD USE - The Center for International Programs, east of Spartan Stadium, was put to good use during registration when foreign students were greeted there and prepared for registration. Workers' Dedication Accelerates Construction Of Akers, Fee Halls

Amid the sidewalk-sprinkled mud on East campus, some 2,600 students are living in a residence hall construction experiment in Akers and Fee Halls.

The buildings are 90 per cent complete, according to James T. Andrews, area residence hall manager for Akers, Fee, McDonel and Shaw.

"We're trying to finish the buildings as the various areas are needed," he explained. "If you think it's incomplete now, you should have seen it a week ago Monday."

"People have been working almost around the clock to get the buildings ready for the students to move in," he continued. "Some people haven't had a day off since Labor Day. Their dedication has been amazing."

Dining halls, food service areas and student rooms were completed last weekend with the exception of trash cans and study lamps in some rooms, and other areas are being completed daily. Laundry rooms were in operation the first of the week and the snack shop in Akers is expected to begin limited operations this weekend. Fees snack shop should open next week.

The auditorium in Conrad Hall is to be ready for classes today. As an experiment in academic advising, seven graduate academic advisers are living in single rooms in suites with resident advisers in Fee.

"They have office hours, but the purpose is to make them more easily accessible to the students. Students will be seeing them in the snack shop and dining halls and asking them questions 24 hours a day," P. J. Eckel, Fee manager, said.

"It's the same difference as having an RA who lives in the building and one who would have office hours on the other side of campus. In the latter case, the students would never really get to know them," he continued.

Akers houses the offices of the College of Arts and Letters and Fee the College of Social Science.

Fee has two dry laboratories with gas and water for demonstration purposes, and six connecting classrooms which can be made into larger rooms by removing partitions. Each classroom seats 60 and two are presently being used as a 190-seat lecture room.

Akers has a language laboratory and a lecture room which will have permanent auditorium-type seating as soon as it arrives. It is presently furnished with folding chairs.

Rooms in the halls are unique in that there are four-man suites with two sleeping areas and a study area separated by partitions, as well as a bath.

There are two lounge areas in each house. According to Donald R. McMillan, Akers manager, each house may decide whether to use them for recreation or study.

Students seem enthusiastic about the new arrangements. Carol Bourke, Escanaba sophomore who lived in Wonders, an all freshman hall last year, said that she was looking forward to having older students in the hall.

Cancer Topic of Symposium

Oral cancer, its various forms and methods of detection and treatment, will be covered in a day-long symposium at Kellogg Center today.

More than 200 dentists from throughout the state are expected for the event, sponsored by the Michigan State Dental Association, Michigan division of the American Cancer Society and MSU Institute of Biology and Medicine.

Committee Aids Foreign Students

Take a man off a plane after a 10,000 mile flight and walk him into a cold, blustery wind wearing a light summer suit and you have just one of the many predicaments faced by the almost 400 new foreign students who arrived on campus for study this fall.

No summer counseling clinic for these new Spartans. Perhaps because of receiving MSU acceptance only a few weeks before leaving their country, they usually arrive with one suitcase and slight ability in English. They could be one of only a dozen of their countrymen studying in the U.S.

So the new strangers take a cab to the campus, having been told to report to August Benson, the foreign student advisor in the International Center. Then they meet Benson, a man responsible for much of the welfare of an MSU foreign student population estimated at 900.

After passports, scholarship funds, curriculum, and the language problem are discussed and clarified comes housing, often the most trying of all difficulties.

This is where the student-organized International Cooperation Committee first aids the foreign student, as members of the committee use wits and wile to find hard-pressed new arrivals both temporary and permanent housing.

The committee's sole function during these hectic days is the assisting of new foreign students. Besides working with housing problems, the five-year-old group spent the first three days of the week assisting Benson's office in the registration of all foreign students.

Committee members guided groups of new foreign students through registration, took them to Morrill Hall for language tests and to Olin for x-rays, and helped them wherever possible.

This year, unlike previous years, members of the committee were themselves assisted by "old" foreign students—those who were here last year.

Carolyn Canfield, committee co-chairman along with Heather McPherson, said that at least 15 committee members worked this year. The effort to aid the new students' entrance to American university life will be climaxed Friday night with a mixer in the Union Ballroom.

The affair, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., is being sponsored jointly by the committee, the International Club, and the Campus United Nations.

Law Speaker To Stress Rights

Mrs. William B. Harris, Howard University professor of law, is scheduled as the main speaker at the first conference on civil rights at MSU, Nov. 12.

Approximately 300 women are expected to take part in the conference, which is sponsored by the MSU Colleges of Social Science and Education. The program is designed to increase the interest of women in equal rights at the home and community levels, school officials said.

Mrs. Harris was one of those seconding the nomination of President Lyndon B. Johnson at the recent Democratic National Convention.

Center Offers Job Placement

Detroit (UPI)—College students looking for part-time work to finance their way through the school year have been urged to register with the Professional Placement Center of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

MESC Director Thomas Roumell said that employers are already making their hiring plans for pre-Christmas part-time help.

The center is located at 7310 Woodward Ave. in Detroit.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I SUSPECT THE PROFESSOR HAS HIS CLASSROOM FAVORITES—SOMETIMES HE TAKES 'STUDENT GOODBYES' PRETTY HARD AT GRADUATION TIME."

Bad English Training Comes Under Attack

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Even the best of California's high school graduates are so poorly prepared in English that almost half of them must take a remedial bonehead English course when they enter the University of California.

Chancellor Edward W. Strong of the University of California at Berkeley, says, "I'll bet you'll find this problem on every campus in the country. It goes right on into graduate school."

The state university system admits only the top one-eighth of the high school graduating classes.

"Presumably these students should have a command of their mother tongue, but they don't,"

Annual Shoplifting Wave Troubles Local Policemen

By JOHN ELMER
State News Police Reporter

East Lansing police view with concern the wave of shoplifting that annually attends the heavy volume of trade associated with the new school year.

Last year, 41 arrests were made in connection with shoplifting in a span of just two-and-a-half weeks, Police Lt. Stephen Naert said.

Thefts have been mostly small items, such as pens, pencils, and erasers, according to Police Det. Robert Brown.

Brown said the thefts may seem insignificant, but they multiply to become big losses to store owners over time.

East Lansing bookstores and shops selling small articles hire private detectives to prevent pilfering, he said, and East Lansing police make periodic checks, also placing officers in the stores during Christmas rushes and registration.

"This is unquestionably the most unpleasant part of my job," said Brown, referring to the arrest and processing of student shoplifters.

"A crazy stunt like this means fingerprinting and a permanent criminal record. They have so little to gain and so much to lose," he said.

"Some of the kids just don't seem to understand what's at stake here. One even thought simply paying for the item stolen would square things. But it isn't that easy," Naert said.

Shoplifters have been receiving a $50 fine for their actions in the past, under a simple larceny charge. But the charge could be larceny from a building, a felony, carrying a possible prison sentence, Naert said.

Most of those arrested do not have any reason for their acts, Brown said.

Much of the stealing stems from a compulsion to "try to get away with it," he said.

"If only we could somehow get across to these people the serious consequences involved," Brown said.

"We are not trying to build up an arrest record, we are only trying to prevent more thefts," he said.

Shoplifting Suspects Arrested

Five students have been arrested for shoplifting since the registration influx, East Lansing Police Lt. Stephen Naert said Wednesday.

Each alleged theft occurred at the Student Bookstore, where the suspects were apprehended by an agent of the Greater Lansing Detective Agency and held for the police, Naert said.

Items said to be stolen included pens and pencils, none of a value greater than $1.98, he said.

The students were caught either with merchandise concealed on their person in the store or walking out with an unpaid-for article, Naert said.

Those involved will probably be charged with simple larceny, a misdemeanor, which generally carries a $50 fine. However, they could be charged with larceny from a building, a felony, and a possible prison offense, he said.

THE GIANT STORAGE TRUNK OF MSU—Spartan Stadium caters to more than just Saturday afternoon football games.

Under the stands in cracks, bins, locker rooms, garages, and nooks—of-plenty—mechanics wield wrenches on MSU football helmets anxiously await the turning of the leaves. Photos by Patti Prout

The Spartan Stadium Game Fans Won't See

By JIM STERBA
State News Staff Writer

At the current rate, by the end of the year 21,964, about 100,250 football games will have been played at Spartan Stadium—if its walls don't come tumbling down first and if football is not out-moded by mental chess.

That's a lot of football. And that is why the giant arena was built. But many other things happen in Spartan Stadium during the 360 days of the year that football is not being played.

At the north end of the Stadium, in an under the stands storage area, is a sign that reads, "Keep Horses Of Grass." There are hundreds of fenced animal pens, a farm wagon, and some "4H-MSU" bushel baskets here. A 1,000 pound "Howe" weigh station sets in one corner.

This is part of the equipment for the 4H livestock exhibit that takes place every summer in the stadium concourse.

Around the corner, on the east side of the stadium, 10 full-time mechanics service and repair 350 university owned cars, trucks, busses, tractors, and jeeps.

Over 17,000 gallons of gasoline a month is pumped into university vehicles, said Max

Juquette, head of the MSU Service Garage. Above this grease gunned, socket wrenched, and always bustling garage is the eeriest of MSU's nooks.

Here, in a dusty, cobwebbed, dimly lit room, that runs the length of the east side of the stadium, is where the MSU Museum stores its relics.

Periodically a lonely curator, unlocks the door to this second story fortress and peers over the countless numbered donations to the museum.

Ancient clocks, World War I uniforms, buggies, and relics of any size and number scatter themselves throughout this antique collector's paradise. An old hearse wearily sets at one end.

Spartan Stadium is the corn-crib of the athletic department. In three large storage areas plus numerous storage bins that line the exterior of the stadium, most of the athletic department's utensils are stored.

"We've got a $54,000 inventory here of football equipment alone," said athletic equipment manager Kenneth Earley.

Countless helmets, jerseys, pads, shoe strings, shoes, and tape boxes line the walls of the football storage areas. Three boxes containing 340 of last year's outmoded $14 apiece jerseys set in one corner.

In a west side of the stadium room, a continually operational

Soccer Team Booms To Rousing Kickoff In Defense Of Title

The accent will be on the sock in soccer this fall.

That's the 1964 outlook as the Spartan booters seek Saturday to make it victory number two in their bid to retain the Midwest Conference Title won last year at the hands of perennial power St. Louis.

Spurred by a 6-1 win in the season opener last week with Earlham College and bent upon extending their unrivaled Spartan record of 61 wins, 7 losses and one tie, State shows all the promise of a championship contender.

While operating under the loss of last year's leading scorer Bill Schwartz and several stalwarts, the Spartans nevertheless claim more over-all experience than the '63 team which relied heavily upon the budding talents of rookie players, now seasoned to the intercollegiate grind.

One such booter, Payton Fuller, accounted for two goals in the season debut, playing in the outside left position occupied last year by George Janes, second highest scorer.

Janes, who in turn was switched to Fuller's inside left spot, had little opportunity to try his boot on the forward line against Earlham. Assigned to the nets while goalie Charlie Dedich was recovering from a knee injury, Janes scored only when spelled by Van Dimitriou, the team's starting center forward.

Dimitriou also found the range for a score as did outside right, Clare DeBoer and halfback John Pierre Diane.

All except Diane are juniors. Diane, a senior, sat out last season with knee troubles but could provide added strength to the front ranks barring any further complications.

Pep Rally Sends Off 'S' Eleven

MSU's first pep rally of the pigskin season Friday will "Swing out with Spirit", if there's mean anything.

Planned to give the Spartans a rousing sendoff in their quest for the Big Ten championship grill and the sweet smell of the Rose Bowl, spectator Spartans will have a chance to see the team before its battle with Southern Cal Saturday.

Beginning with a round campus parade scheduled to start at 2 p.m., the rally will feature "Biggie Munn, head football coach Duffy Daugherty, Student

Barbershop Quarterbacks Debate

Will Spartans Get Clipped?

Clippers aren't the only things that buzz in East Lansing barbershops.

For the price of a haircut, you can, at the drop of a question, engage yourself in the healthiest of pre-season football talks.

Barbers run the gamut of conversational topics. You name it, they've talked it over. But the recurring theme, which usually isn't voiced at least until September, is the MSU football team.

However, even in the midst of registration, in a national election year, and between bouts with the pop machine, football has a way of slipping into and out of the conversation.

All it takes is a little hint like: "What do you think of MSU's football chances this fall?"

With this gem you will find the white jacketed hair trimmers and customers eager to add their two-cents worth.

Before you know it, you are recalling the good and bad plays of last season; listening to armchair coaches suggest improvement; getting your hair cut, your scalp polished; and even a free book of matches on your way out.

All-Americans for the coming season are speculated. Someone usually takes a punch at the bad-weather games. The band gets mentioned occasionally.

This first response to the above question was:

"Is MSU in the Big Ten this year?"

Then came:

"They haven't got a chance of winning the Big Ten."

"Duffy's had the material for the past two years. I can't understand it."

"Yeah, half his team gets drafted by the pros and look at the season he had. It just doesn't add up."

"The trouble is, those guys are studying too hard. They can't remember how to hang on to the ball."

"What that team needs is more beef. We had heavier guys on my old high school team."

"Yeah, you've at least got to have a 180 lb. average in the back-field."

"You want this trimmed around the ears pretty close?"

I think the tactics were all wrong last season. There were too many third-down and six situations when they sent Lewis off tackle. Lewis is a darn good man, but they should have sent him around end more."

"Ow! let him (Duffy) fool you, he's got seven or eight quarterbacks setting around here. He's

Southern Cal Fresh From 40-14 Romp

There's a song that says "love is more wonderful the second time around", but Coach Duffy Daugherty and his Spartans are hoping the same thing applies to football.

The Green and White will meet Southern California at Spartan Stadium at 1:30 Saturday afternoon where they will be making their second attempt to hit the victory column this season.

It will also mark MSU's second attempt to defeat USC in a rivalry that began last year at Los Angeles.

The Trojans won that game 13-10 and will be favored to do the same Saturday afternoon.

But the role of the underdog is not a new thing to the Spartans. They went into last year's Southern Cal game as heavy underdogs but led most of the way before losing out in the second half.

This season's Trojan squad has all the ingredients to be a national powerhouse and displayed their talent effectively in last week's 40-14 victory over Oklahoma and a 21-0 win against Colorado in the opening game.

The Spartans will be attempting to rebound from Saturday's 21-15 setback at North Carolina where a spirited fourth-quarter rally fell just short of victory.

"It's a real challenge for the boys to play a team like USC," Daugherty said.

"It will really give them a chance to see what they can do," Sophomores did most of the scoring against the Tar Heels, and there were some good defensive showings by underclassmen.

Rapid improvement by the young Spartans could help MSU make a much better showing than pre-season polls would seem to indicate.

Most experts rated the Spartans anywhere from the middle to near the bottom in the Big Ten race.

Among MSU sophomores who

Ticket Distribution On

Distribution of tickets for the home football opener with Southern Cal. Saturday is presently underway at Jenison Fieldhouse.

Due to registration, tickets have been issued during the week on a first-come basis except for freshmen.

Freshmen and those who as yet have not redeemed their activity coupons good for one ticket, may do so today and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The maximum number of activity books that may be presented by each student is eight.

Regular distribution of tickets by class status will go into effect Monday for the following week's clash with arch-rival Michigan.

Seniors buy tickets first, then, juniors on Tuesday, sophomores

Wednesday, and freshmen Thursday.

Ticket windows will not be open for coupon redemption next Friday, Bill Beardsley, Spartan ticket manager said. This is in order to determine whether any tickets may be put on sale to the public.

The game was officially announced a sellout last July.

Between 25 and 26,000 students are expected to attend the Southern Cal. game with the stadium attendance anticipated at 65,000.

Student seats begin on the 50-yard line working around into the south end zone area.

Ticket lines for big games such as the Wolverine clash and Homecoming are expected to be long before the sun has had a chance to rise.

Spartan Rookies Hold Key To '64 Chances

Following is a preview on the 1964 Spartan gridmen by Sports Editor Richard Schwartz. It was written for publication in other Big Ten dailies prior to the opening game at North Carolina.

To hear Michigan State football Coach Duffy Daugherty tell it, the 1964 Spartans—minus all-American halfback Sherman Lewis—have one chronic aching back with little hope for a speedy recovery.

To accept as gospel the wizardry of pseudo-expert magazine predictions, MSU gridmen will be lucky to salvage their girdle pads in three or four games.

To digest the basketful of rejection notices spooned by glib public relations men, one or two games might seem more of a reality.

Yet to remember the fall of 1963 and the tale of woe that soon changed to Wow! as an "also-ran" MSU outfit hustled to victory after victory for second-place in the Big Ten and ninth ranking in the nation, one can't help but question this.

So it is for the Spartan fan -- a wait-see breed too easily pawned off as a seedy, glib, slack-jawed lot wholly ignorant of football ways and means.

Chances are the average Joe well remembers the near-catastrophic Duffys of last September that foretold a journey to the brink for State.

If he doesn't, all he has to do is read this year's "confrontation with the facts."

Typical is Duffy's most recent exercise in pessimism, a barbershop chat with this writer:

"Seen what one of the football magazines picked us for?" Daugherty asked, as though he was ready to reveal how he had just been named benefactor of the National Football League. "Yea, Dick, they've tagged us for seventh place!"

Had it not been a crowded barber shop, Duffy might have swung the apron around his head, bounced off his chair, and performed an Irish jig to the merriment of nobody but Duffy Daugherty himself.

One could only imagine the scene if Look magazine, with its eight place pick for State, had come across Daugherty's desk. Or maybe Duffy was aware of that too, but also knew how easily a razor could slip under such circumstances.

Yes, nothing could perk up the spirits of this so-called "incurable optimist" more than to be assigned to the doghouse.

Certainly then, when the many unknown sophomores and seniors, who never played much only because they weren't seniors, come to the fore, their coach can offer polite apologies for "underestimating" his team.

Evidence of how successful this approach can be is last year. Evidence of how unsuccessful a "high-hatted" approach sometimes winds up is the season before when seven pros-to-be could barely scrouge up a 54 record.

If it's names you're interested in, try these:

Don't be misled by the fact that State has three experienced quarterbacks in Steve Juday, Dick Proebstle and Dave McCormick. True, these boys may get first crack, but if spring practices are any indication, Lukasik has one of the finest arms to grace Spartan Stadium in a long while.

Better yet, he has a receiver not found on the '63 varsity in Eugene Washington. The evasive soph end hauls in footballs as though they were pithballs and he were a glass rod rubbed with silk.

Looking for a replacement for Lewis? You won't find one. But what you will find is a backfield with perhaps even greater potential than the net worth of last year's--Lewis included.

Dick Gordon and Harry Ammon, the two halfbacks most commonly mentioned, haven't the playing time to merit loud raves. But they have the speed--maybe not breakaway variety--but enough to chalk up first downs with.

An unknown with the markings of greatness is Clinton Jones, who some peg as the chap to replace Lewis with--given three years. Surely several touchdowns in spring scrimmages are promising credentials.

Jim Garret's another--an established broad jumper in track who beat out Lewis for the Big Ten championship last winter. Not to mention Herman Johnson, out last year because of illness, who many persons acknowledge as the number one defensive back but whom few realize is equally versed at offense.

Duffy is one of the few, and he'd like it to remain that way until a few touchdowns are scored.

At fullback, Duffy would have you believe there's nobody in the way of a sensation. That's the way things were to have been last year after all-American George Sames graduated, but which just never were as Roger Lopes belly-spun to the largest ground-gaining total on the squad-- 601 yards.

This time around you'll want to keep your specs geared to Ed Cotton and Gary Rugg. Although Rugg is casually mentioned in pre-season press releases, the real powerhouse is Cotton, a solid 200-pounder.

While Duffy would like nothing better than to conceal rookie end Bubba Smith, his 258-pound, 6 foot-8 inch frame wouldn't allow it.

We won't say he's potential all-American material; rather we'll attribute that prediction to one of the scouts from Dallas Cowboys of the NFL, who was already keeping tabs on the Jolly Green Giant before he ever played in a scrimmage. And so on it goes. Don Japinga, Lou Bobich, Captain Charlie Migyanka, Dick Flynn, Rahn Bentley, Jerry Rush, Ron Goovert, John Karpinski, etc.

It's almost axiomatic that if there's something worth shouting about, Duffy's going to let the crowd in Spartan Stadium do it, rather than he or his publicity men.

Four Of Top 10 Teams Greet MSU Schedule

(UPI)--Michigan State has its hands full of nationally ranked football opponents the rest of the season, according to the first weekly major college football ratings of United Press International.

The poll showed MSU meets four of the top ten teams the rest of the way, and the only teams on the Spartan remaining slate that weren't mentioned at all were Indiana and Purdue.

On Saturday, the Spartans meet

No. 2 ranked Southern California, unbeaten in two starts.

Big Ten champion Illinois, rated 4th, is the final opponent on the MSU schedule. No. 7 Notre Dame is a Nov. 14 foe at South Bend and traditional arch-rival Michigan journeys here Oct. 10. Michigan is ranked No. 9 in the poll.

In addition, Northwestern another Spartan foe, is 17th in the ratings and Wisconsin received honorable mention votes, as did North Carolina.

Uphill Fight

could change that picture are halfback Clinton Jones, end Eugene Washington, and defensive lineman Charlie (Bubba) Smith.

Jones and Washington scored Spartan touchdowns against North Carolina, and Smith played nearly 60 minutes on defense.

The Spartans went into this season with 22 lettermen but missing such standouts as all-American halfback Sherman Lewis, Roger Lopes, Dan Underwood, Dewey Lincoln, and Earl Lattimer, who played key roles for the Green and White in their senior year last season.

Leading returning ground gainer from last year's team is fullback Harry Ammon who racked up 174 yards in 1963 to put him fourth behind Lopes, Lewis, and Ron Rubick.

Junior quarterback Steve Juday, injured in the sixth game last year, was the leading passer for the Spartans and his 88-yard pass play to Sherman Lewis in the Southern Cal game stands as the longest touchdown pass in Spartan grid history.

Revamped Block 'S' Section Moves To South End Zone

Football won't be the only game played in Spartan Stadium this fall. Another--what might be called a game of blocks--will see the upheaval of the sideline Block "S" card section and introduction of a new end Zone Block "S" club.

The move, according to Block Chairman Bob Amsler, Spring Valley, Ill. junior, will be made with the hope of increasing the visibility of the section to Stadium fans and the improving of performances.

Reserved exclusively for freshmen, the Block will take on a club nature, requiring Thursday afternoon practice sessions.

Students who replied to requests for membership during the summer will have first crack at available seats, Amsler said, providing they attend the first practice today by 4:14 p.m. Remaining opening will be assigned on a first come basis, he said.

"From the standpoint of spectators," Amsler said, "we will now be able to be seen by over 70 per cent of the viewers where as before only a quarter or a third could watch the halftime show."

"For the members, we look forward to working only with those truly interested in the Block, eliminating persons who subtracted from the finished product," he said. "And besides, these persons will be assured seats for all games without having to wait on the long ticket lines before each home game."

The program will be upgraded, Amsler noted, with the ability of performing eight or nine complex, progressive routines in the 13 stunt show.

Further plans, he said, anticipate the expansion of the club into all-year activities to promote spirit.

Supervising some 1,008 participants, Amsler works with a 12-man stunt committee headed by Joanne Re, North Bellmore, N.Y., senior, and a 10-man equipment staff under the direction of Bob Flack, Jackson, sophomore.

The Block, sponsored jointly by Men's Housing Association and Women's Inter-Residence Council, organizes its activities with those of the marching band and the cheerleaders.

Special programs are currently being drafted for half-times of the Homecoming game with Northwestern, and the annual Michigan clash.

Spartans This Saturday

Greatest Underdog In Years

(UPI)--"We could be the greatest underdog Saturday in a dozen years," State football Coach

Duffy Daugherty has said of Saturday's home opener against unbeaten Southern California.

Daugherty, whose Spartans lost a 21-15 decision to North Carolina last Saturday, noted the tremendous odds against breaking into the victory column but seemed to almost relish the disadvantage.

"We have a history of playing well against big odds," he said. "I hope our players accept the challenge. It's a great opportunity to play a team and really find out what you have."

This game, against a club that soundly whipped highly ranked Oklahoma 40-14, will give Daugherty's sophomores "an opportunity to come of age," he feels, especially on defense.

The Spartans had 11 first-year varsity men on the traveling squad to North Carolina, led by halfback Clinton Jones, end Gene Washington and defensive lineman Charlie (Bubba) Smith.

Jones, a Cleveland, Ohio speedster who gained 83 yards in eight carries against the Tarheels, including a 47-yard touchdown run, will play more this week, Daugherty said.

"I don't know if he'll start or not," Duffy said while announcing only minor changes from the "three-deep" roster.

Washington grabbed four of quarterback Steve Juday's 10 pass completions during the MSU opener, including one for a touchdown, and Smith filled in admirably as an almost-60-minute man on defense after end Doug Roberts was left home with an injury.

"They (Washington and Smith) did quite well and will get better as the season goes on," Daugherty said.

Daugherty also promoted junior tackle Don Bierowicz of Chicago, who played only 16 minutes in 1963, to the first defensive unit for the USC game.

"I sent him into the game and he made six tackles in a row," Duffy noted in making the switch.

Named as the outstanding Spartan of the North Carolina contest by Daugherty was senior tackle Dick Flynn of Mount Pleasant "for his blocking especially."

It was Flynn who sprung Jones loose on his touchdown gallop. Back on Southern Cal, Daugherty said, "our scout Bert Smith saw them against both Colorado (21-0) and Oklahoma and called them the finest college football team he's seen in years."

Six MSU Athletes Involved With 1964 Olympic Competition

Six Michigan State athletes will have competed in the 1964 Olympics when the Summer Games come to an end Oct. 25 in Tokyo.

Four will compete in Japan and two were contestants in Innsbruck last winter.

Gary Dilley, a surprise winner in the 200-meter backstroke in the Olympic Trials this summer, is Michigan State's representative on the U.S. swimming team.

The 19-year-old Huntington, Ind. sophomore finished ahead of the best backstrokers in the country, including Thompson Mann of North Carolina and Tom Stock of Indiana.

His winning time of 2:12.0 was just over a second short of Stock's world record of 2:10.9.

Former Spartan track letterman Sonny Akpata is a member of the Nigerian track and field team.

Akpata lettered for the Spartans in 1960 and 1961. During his college career he placed in two Big Ten indoor and two Big Ten outdoor meets. He is the last MSU trackman to score points in an NCAA meet, placing six in the hop, step and jump in 1960 and fifth in the broad jump in 1961.

He made the Nigerian team as a broad jumper after a recent jump of 25-4 1/4 in a meet in Canada. He has been in Canada continuing college studies for the last two years.

Marcia Jones, a recent MSU graduate, and Bill Smoke, a sophomore, will represent the United States in canoeing.

Miss Jones is entered in the women's 500-meter kayak singles and Smoke will compete in the 1,000-meter men's kayak pairs.

The two are members of MSU's Kayak Club and trained for the Olympics all last year in the school's Women's Intramural Pool. Miss Jones had been a champion swimmer before taking up the unusual sport three years ago. Smoke has been kayaking for about two years and his winning performance in the Olympic Trials was his first major victory.

Barbara Lockhart and Jean Ashworth, both in graduate school at Michigan State, were members of the U.S. women's speed-skating team in the Winter Games in Austria.

It was the second Olympiad for both, Miss Ashworth winning a bronze medal in the 1960 Games.

Two members of the MSU athletic staff are directly connected with the Games this year. Athletic Director Biggie Munn heads the NCAA Olympic Committee and former Spartan wrestling coach Fendley Collins is manager of the U.S. team in Tokyo.

Pep Rally Planned

Government President Bob Harris, cheerleaders, and Mr. and Miss MSU, Bruce Osterink and Judy Smith.

The colorful parade will include such MSU favorites as the Sigma Phi Epsilon's Sparty, the Delta Upsilon Bell and the marching band.

Jim Tanck, director of Spartan Spirit, said, "This is a good chance for freshmen to get to know more about the school." He guaranteed the rally would put the students in the proper mood for the game.

Pep rallies, most of them anyway, are planned before all home football games. Some of the most spectacular, however, have been impromptu with thousands of students marching up and down campus shouting encouragement to the team. The largest planned rallies here are usually before the first home game and the Michigan game.

Last year's MSU-Michigan

pre-game spirit resulted in a massive demonstration of enthusiastic students chanting "Go State go", while harried police followed the fleet crowd to prevent property and individual damage.

Spartan Spirit leaders anxiously held an organized rally at the next game to corral the energies of the students.

Spartan Spirit leaders said that following the campus parade students are to meet in the stadium for the rally at 4 p.m.

Participation in the rallies is a road to the Spartan Spirit trophy for fraternities, sororities and residence halls. The trophy is presented each year to that residence which most promotes spirit on campus.

Added to participation in the rallies are campus events such as the blood drive and student government, all of which add points to the competitors' score card.

Spartan Stadium

laundry washes and dries athletic garb.

Hurdles, javelins, strawbales, pole vault standards, rowing shells, and hockey nets fill another storage bin. Most of the equipment for the baseball, tennis, soccer, and track teams, plus intramural sports equipment is stored somewhere in the stadium.

Under the steel reinforced concrete, in the windy corridors leading to the stands are busses, automobiles, trucks, tractors, jeeps, and even motor scooters. The athletic grounds crew, whose job it is to see that all the playing fields, along with the stadium football field are kept in excellent condition, works out of the stadium area.

Lawn mowers, gas cans, chalk markers, paint cans, rakes, shovels, and brooms fill the rooms designated to these men.

Norm Arman, athletic grounds maintenance man, said usually about five men are kept busy taking care of all the athletic fields. During the school year, in the spring and fall, students help with the task.

In the tunnel entrance to the playing field, in the varsity locker rooms, on top of a row of lockers rests an eight ounce can of "Libby's Brains". A sign above the entrance to the locker room states: "Sorry, if you are not directly connected with the team, KEEP OUT."

Visiting team facilities, an officials' locker room and a heating plant are also located here.

High above the corridors, in a glass walled, multi-decked, telephone strewn press box, rows of seats sit empty and unswiveled.

The telephone switch board is covered with a snug fitting cloth. A 1964 Spring Commencement program is lying on one of the tables. On the wall are 8 by 10 photographs of 33 MSU All-Americans plus a picture of Duffy and one of Biggie.

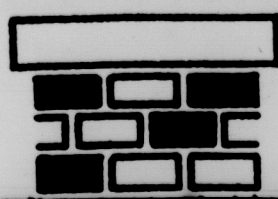

A homemade roster of the 1963 Notre Dame football team sets gathering dust at one end of a press table. All the team members, their sizes and numbers are listed. Plays are diagrammed at the bottom of the two-foot square cardboard. The "Flood Pass, 52 Off-Set Rover series," and the "61 Gap Rover series" are spelled out.

One level below the pressbox, the press cafeteria stands vacant and dark.

One story below the cafeteria, six press darkrooms await photographers and developers. Among the cracks and corners of Spartan Stadium are: 41 1/2 bags of "Diamond Grit", a baseball field drying powder; signs that say among other things, "College Week for Women", "Open Rush", and just plain "Welcome."

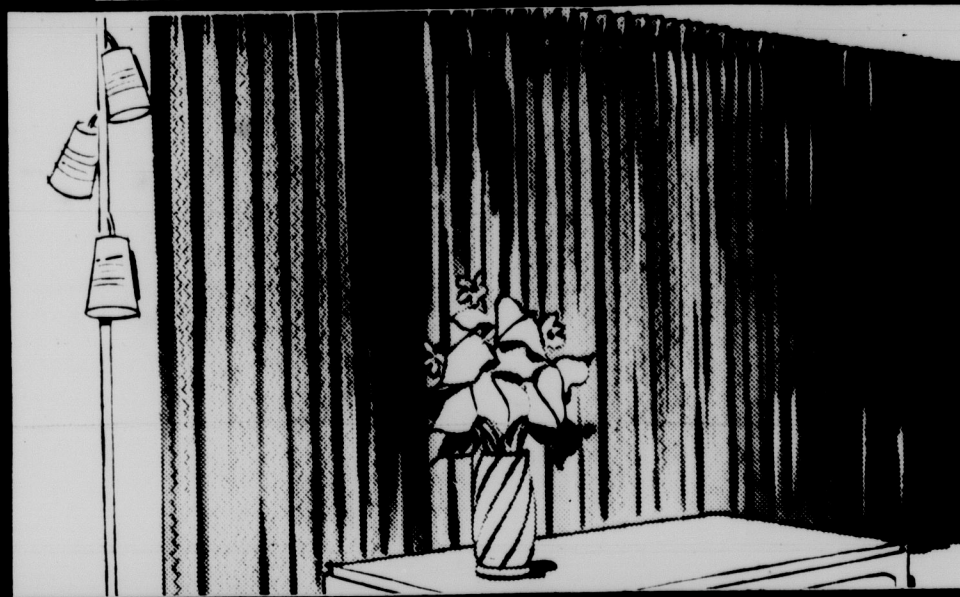

There are 5 spools of one inch thick Manila rope, desks, canvas, a cement mixer, some 1962 Purdue game programs, push carts, empty telephone booths without phones, green garbage cans, 2-3000 feet of watering hose, wire and wooden picket fences, cords of lumber, and four pages of the sports section of the "Austin Texas Statesman."

Cover all this with a little dust, a warm breeze, some cracked egg shells, and a top-side coat of pigeon feces and you've got the birthday cake of a lifetime---Spartan Stadium.

DICK SHARKEY

X-Country Weakened By Sharkey Injury

The Spartans should be in for another good season on the cross country course, but who will lead them?

That's the question Spartan harrier fans are asking themselves in the wake of a pre-season knee injury to Dick Sharkey who paced the Green and White to an excellent record last year.

The same injury kept Sharkey out of most of the indoor season and forced him to run at less than his peak performance during the outdoor season.

Its recurrence comes as a severe blow to MSU harriers who still hope to better last year's performance when they won their 11th Big Ten title in 14 years, finished third in the IC4A, and fifth in the NCAA.

"Any chance of Sharkey running during the cross country season is extremely remote," said Dr. James Feurig, team physician.

Last season Sharkey placed second in the conference meet as a sophomore.

On the positive side, the Spartans hope to fill the gap with four returning lettermen and some bright sophomore prospects.

The leading contender for top position is sophomore Keith Coates, of Sarina, Ont., who set the MSU freshman mile record last spring with a 4:12.2 clocking. Other lettermen include Rick Zemper, Jan Bowen, Mike Kaines, and Paul McCollam.

Zemper placed 11th in the Big Ten last season with Bowen placing in the top ten in the conference meet during the past two seasons.

Another sophomore who could

Team Meeting

develop into a star is George Balthrop of Staunton, Va.

Balthrop is also expected to compete in the mile and two-mile run in track this year.

The Spartans will open their 1964 season Oct. 10 at 11:30 a.m. against Wisconsin and Indiana at Forrest Akers.

After that, the Green and White will compete in dual meets with Minnesota and Notre Dame before taking part in the cross country championship circuit.

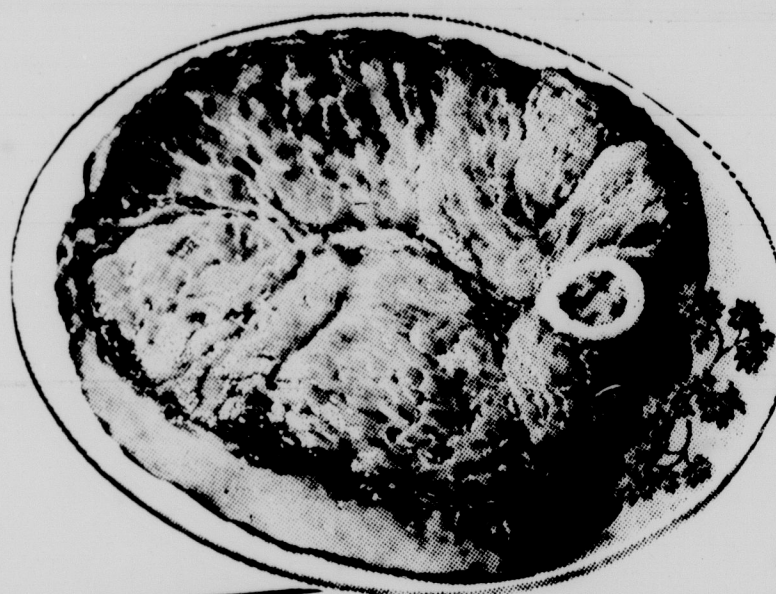

The Big Ten championships will be held at Champaign, the IC4A at New York City, and the NCAA run here at Forrest Akers.

Coach Fran Dittrich said he expects Indiana, Illinois, and Minnesota to be strong in the Big Ten and Villanova and Notre Dame, the teams to beat in the IC4A. Defending champ San Jose State, Fresno State, Oregon, and Oregon State are considered top threats for national honors.

Trustees Accept Grants of $3.8 Million

Gifts and grants totaling $3,827,558.42 were accepted Sept. 17 by Michigan State University's Board of Trustees.

Included was the previously announced $1,250,000 grant to MSU from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation. The funds will support the new two-year College of Human Medicine.

The Kellogg Foundation also granted $115,000 to the College of Education for a two-year program to assist in preparing community college and junior college administrators.

Dr. Max Smith, professor of education, is director of the program, and Dr. John X. Jamrich, associate dean of education, is general coordinator.

The U. S. Office of Education granted $264,431 to MSU's Audio-visual Center for a two-year study aimed at providing teachers with inexpensive instructional film clips. Coordinator of the grant is Dr. Charles F. Schuller, professor and director of the center.

Three more grants from the U.S. Office of Education will support research and training programs in the College of Education. Funds totaling $175,800 will be used to train specialists in the education of handicapped children. Director of the training program is Dr. William V. Hicks, professor of education.

Dr. William Farquhar, professor of education, will direct a study of motivational factors influencing academic achievements of eleventh-graders in Puerto Rico. The study will be supported by $74,025 from the Office of Education.

A three-year investigation of learning strategies used by deaf, blind, retarded and normal children will be carried out under a $69,588 grant from the Office of Education. Dr. C. J. Martin is director of the study.

Expansion of the university's undergraduate course offerings in international studies will be provided through a $250,000 grant from the Ford Foundation to the Office of International Programs.

The funds also will support development of a new undergraduate program in comparative cultures.

The Board accepted $182,540 from the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Welfare and Education to support training of 51 rehabilitation counselors. Dr. J. P. Keith and Dr. Gregory A. Miller will direct the two-year program.

Another grant from the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration, $74,264, will provide training of specialists in speech and hearing therapy and in methods of clinical rehabilitation.

The one-year teaching and training program will support 18 advanced degree students. It will be directed by Dr. Herbert J. Oyer, professor and chairman of speech.

The Board acknowledged a bequest from the will of Burr Wheeler, a 1903 graduate of MSU. The bequest provides $100,000 or 18 per cent of the residuary, whichever is smaller. Wheeler, of New York, died July 30.

An $81,698.13 grant from the U. S. Air Force, Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio, was accepted for support of a 13-month master's degree program in accounting. Participants in the program, now underway, are 40 captains and majors preparing for posts in the Air Force comptroller's office.

AUSG Role Described By Harris

Student government must concern itself with student-faculty relations, alumni relations, community and student affairs as this year's order of business.

That is what All-University Student Government President Bob Harris stressed in a speech before a student leadership conference held on campus last week.

"Students and faculty must have a greater understanding of each other," he said. "We must create the machinery for interchange between the two groups."

He told the group that alumni relations are very important to the University and must be improved.

Harris pointed out that students must also be concerned with student affairs.

"Students of MSU are at the focal point of anything that happens in the University community and in East Lansing. Student government ought to create an awareness in students and a concern for the University's image," he said.

The fourth and most immediate purpose of student government is to provide a means for students to organize, claimed the AUSG head. He feels that more publicity is needed for AUSG activities so more students can benefit from them.

"If responsible, well-organized student groups do their best to convey information between students they represent and the administration, much student-administration friction could be reduced," he emphasized.

Harris asked the student leaders to recognize the value of student government, choose areas to which their groups could most successfully contribute, and set as the primary goal the improvement of the University.

"We are the leaders of tomorrow. We must learn our lessons today," he added.

L-C Series Ticket Policy Changed

A new student-ticket policy will be initiated this fall for Lecture-Concert Series programs at Michigan State University, according to Dr. Wilson B. Paul, series director.

He explained that students will be permitted to secure advance tickets for all fall term programs, at one time today and Friday. Formerly they had to claim individual tickets before each performance.

Dr. Paul noted that the new student-ticket plan could affect the availability of customary reserved seats for non-student patrons who fail to make their program selections and seat reservations before today.

AUSG Seeks To Define Student Government Ills

The All-University Student Government Re-evaluation committee chairman believes his 10-member will only define the problems of student government.

"The answers to the problems of student government must come from the student leaders and the students themselves," said Bruce Osterink, committee chairman.

"The need for re-evaluation stems from the fact that the present student government framework is outdated," he added. "It hasn't been revised since it was instituted 13 years ago."

Osterink spoke at the Student

Accounting Assn. Elects MSU Prof

Herbert E. Miller, professor of accounting at Michigan State University, has been named president-elect of the American Accounting Association.

Miller was elected at the association's annual meeting at Indiana University. He begins a one-year term Sept. 1, 1965. Charles Gaa, professor of accounting at MSU, is a past president of the association. With the election of Miller, Michigan State enters a select group of three universities ever to have more than one accounting association president.

Miller joined the MSU faculty three years ago. He is co-author of a leading textbook series on accounting. The series has sold over two million copies.

Miller is a member of the accounting principles board of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. He has served as consultant to the controller of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Previous teaching assignments were at the University of Hawaii, University of Michigan, State University of Iowa, Stanford University and Simpson College.

Leadership Conference Sept. 22 through 24 at Wonders Hall. An estimated 600 student organization heads and dormitory advisors attended the three-day meeting.

"Student government has not kept pace with the changing University. The road ahead will require cooperation from everyone, including those who are always ready to criticize."

Preliminary findings of the committee, which began its work last spring, were that they were on the right track in their re-evaluation study, and that an altered definition of "student government" was necessary.

The term must include all forms of government on the campus—not just AUSG, but also residence hall governments, AWS, MHA, IFC, PanHel, WIC, ICC, RLUC and others.

The committee's purpose is twofold: it is to define the workings of Student Government at MSU and to establish a framework for the accomplishment of whatever revamping may be deemed necessary.

$1,000 Borden Award Goes To MSU Poultry Researcher

Alfred M. Lucas, U.S. Department of Agriculture research zoologist at MSU, is the 1964 winner of the Poultry Science Association's $1,000 Borden Award.

The award was presented at the association's 53rd annual meeting in August at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. The association also elected Lucas a fellow of the organization, citing his outstanding contributions to the Association.

The Borden Award, which also carries a gold medal, is given annually by the association for distinctive contributions to poultry science advancement over the preceding seven-year period. It is donated by the Borden Company Foundation, Inc.

Lucas' specialty is avian anatomy. He has served USDA at the

The findings of the committee thus far have indicated the necessity of a flexible student government which can change as the University changes. Its study has been concentrated in seven areas of interest, each of which contains a problem which must be solved in the course of the University's progress.

The seven areas are: housing, academics and curriculum, student-faculty operations and communication, student government organization, the judicial system, representation to an all-University body (Student Congress) and a definition of the responsibilities of student government. The final report of the committee is tentatively due by the end of fall term.

"These are just a few of the many questions the committee is faced with," said Osterink. "We can't answer all these questions today. This is a 'Challenge of Change' which the University is presenting to the students and to student government. This challenge is presented to us—to grow with the University."

Agricultural Research Service's Regional Poultry Research Laboratory, East Lansing, since 1944 and now directs Avian Anatomy Investigations there. The first of a series of monographs by Dr. Lucas on avian anatomy, a volume on skin and its derivatives, is presently nearing completion.

Lucas is a native of New Albany, Ind., and received his A.B. degree at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind., in 1924, and his Ph.D. degree at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., in 1929.

Between 1924 and 1944, he taught in general zoology, embryology, and cytology at Washington University, the University of Iowa, Iowa City and Iowa State College, Cedar Falls.

Student Engineer 'Interns'

Chia-Shing Lai, graduate student, was among 18 other graduate engineering students who participated in the Summer Engineering Practice School, sponsored by the Associated Midwest Universities and Argonne National Laboratory, near Chicago.

Lai, a sanitary engineering major, is interested in the fields of radiological health and engineering.

During their 12 weeks of "internship" the students worked on selected engineering problems directly related to the Laboratory's research and development activities.

The students carried out projects at Argonne in teams under the direction of Laboratory staff members and university faculty members. Each student in the session worked on four separate projects, each of three weeks' duration.

Academic credit for the work may be requested by the students and received.

Problems assigned to the students included heat exchange design for the Argonne advanced research reactor, hazards associated with a plutonium critical facility, and engineering-cost study of fast reactor fuel re-fabrication process.

The Practice School was established on the recommendation of the Associated Midwest Universities Nuclear Engineering Education Committee in 1963 with the cooperation of Argonne's Institute of Nuclear Science and Engineering.

Air Force ROTC Sets Bus Service

Air Force ROTC is providing a new service for its cadets this fall.

The Department of Air Science will provide transportation for all AFROTC cadets who are issued a uniform at Air Force Supply in Quonset T-190 and need transportation to their campus residences. The route and time schedule will be in effect for a two-week period beginning September 28.

Route

Quonset T-190 to (1) Brody group; (2) Wonders, Wilson, Case group; (3) Fee, Akers, McDonel Halls; (4) Shaw, Phillips, Snyder, Abbot Halls; (5) other dorms as the need arises; (6) fraternity and other organized residence houses, as possible.

Transportation will depart from Quonset T-190 on the above route approximately every half-hour between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

AFROTC cadets are reminded that they must have a $10 deposit card for their Air Force uniform and textbooks when they report to Air Force Supply.

This deposit card can be obtained at the Administration Building. Uniforms will be required for the first leadership laboratory meeting on Friday.

At Trustees Meeting

Approve Med College Form

An academic structure for the new two-year, preclinical College of Human Medicine was approved at the Sept. 17 Board of Trustees meeting.

The structure consists of 13 departments, of which 12 have been operating in other areas and will now be jointly administered by their present colleges and the new college.

Only one new department, the Department of Medicine, was created by the action.

The existing departments are: anatomy, pathology and the School of Medical Technology, part of the College of Veterinary Medicine; biophysics and zoology, part of the College of Natural Science; anthropology, sociology and psychology, of the College of Social Science; biochemistry, jointly administered by the Colleges of Natural Science and of Agriculture; microbiology and public health, pharmacology, and physiology, administered jointly by the Colleges of Natural Science and Veterinary Medicine.

William H. Knisely, director of the Institute of Biology and Medicine who is responsible for coordinating and integrating medical and biological studies at MSU, noted that the University has a long history of intercollege cooperation. Many departments, he pointed out, have been jointly administered by two colleges in the past.

Andrew D. Hunt, who began his duties as dean of the College of Human Medicine in August, is engaged in organizing the curriculum and hiring the new staff members necessary to start the two-year medical program at MSU in the fall of 1965.

The MSU Board of Trustees also formally accepted a $1,250,000 grant by the Kellogg Foundation to be used by the Institute of Biology and Medicine in support of the new college. The grant was announced Sept. 10.
