Action-Packed Weekend For State

Balloting Light In AUSG Vote; 2 Districts Pass

JO BUMBARGER
State News AUSG Writer

Positions were filled for All-University Student Government (AUSG) Congress except in two districts, despite an expected light turnout.

"We expected voting to be light and it was," elections commissioner Donn Schimp, Coloma sophomore, noted. "It was heavy in some districts, particularly in Wilson and South Wonders. Off-campus voting was particularly light."

There was no voting in married housing and Bailey residence hall.

The East Lansing Human Relations Committee has decided that the procedure for filing a discrimination complaint should be re-emphasized.

The Rev. Wallace Robertson of the People's Church, reporting from his youth program subcommittee, at the meeting Wednesday, blamed unfamiliarity with the procedure for the lack of complaints of discrimination.

Although the procedure was published in May, no one has yet made a complaint to the committee.

In an interview with Stephanie H. Barch, a member of the Library subcommittee of the committee, she explained the procedure.

The first thing a claimant should do, she suggested, is to write a letter to the committee, giving the details of the offense. "A written statement is very important," she added.

A sub-committee will review the complaint and interview the claimant to make sure all the facts are known and included.

The sub-committee will then interview the respondent, going over with him the facts as alleged and his answer to the charges, she said.

If the committee believes dis-

Trade Ass'n Endorses Republican

Don Potter, Republican state senatorial candidate from 24th District, showed that personality may be an important factor in the November general election by gaining the support of the Michigan State Building and Trades Association.

Report Uncovers Discrepancies

From UPI Wires

Gov. George Romney relieved of command Thursday the adjutant general of the Michigan National Guard and two other top officers for violations of regulations that appeared out of an auditor general's report.

Ordered relieved immediately were Major Gen. Ronald D. McDonald, the adjutant general, Brigadier General Carson R. Neifert, the quartermaster general, and Lt. Col. Versel Case Jr., executive officer to the quartermaster general of the Michigan Military Establishment.

Romney said that at this time it doesn't appear that three officers were guilty of any criminal action, but he cited as basis for his decision a report by Auditor General Billie S. Farnum that "charged 11 violations of state statute and 32 audit exceptions growing out of practices in the military establishment," some as early as the 1950's.

Romney said that involved were matters such as selling state property to private individuals, using armory maintenance funds in violation of statute; irregularities in legally authorized pay scales; illegal sale of liquor in state armories; and various other items.

"It does not appear at this time that the three officers relieved of duty are guilty of criminal action," Romney, commander in chief of the Guard, said. "It is clear, however, that they have continually disregarded the statutes, and been guilty of serious and continuing practices of bad management and poor administration.

"The irregularities are serious enough to assure me that the public interest demands they be relieved of their responsibilities."

"When agency heads and their assistants violate Michigan statutes, intentionally or because of ignorance of them, this must be considered a violation of the public trust they enjoy," Romney said.

"I concur in the judgment of the military board that such violations have occurred. I also concur in its recommendations that these three top officers be

Goldwater Named 'Phantom Candidate'

President Johnson Thursday staged a get-out-the-vote drive across Indiana and Ohio that pictured Republican rival Barry Goldwater as a phantom candidate who wants to go backward instead of forward.

"I'm not sure," Johnson said, "whether there is a real Republican candidate to vote for this time."

While Johnson was campaigning in the Midwest, Goldwater visited the President's home state, convinced he is ripping into Johnson's strength on the "gut issue" of ethics and morality in government, and into government meddling in local affairs.

Johnson pounded the campaign circuit in states Goldwater considers vital, from Chicago to Indianapolis, and on to Cleveland before heading for Louisville to spend the night.

Summing things up a bit differently in the text of his Cleveland speech, Johnson said the campaign issues are emerging clearly now.

"The issue of our foreign affairs, of war and peace, is one issue--and it has to be bluntly stated--of responsibility versus irresponsibility.

"The issue of our domestic affairs is whether the whole course of American development up to this time is right or is wrong."

"The argument to go back--to repeat the present and to veto the

Heavy Traffic

Heavy traffic is expected for the Michigan game Saturday, and residents should not expect to move on campus from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. or from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Campus streets are rerouted for the game, and traveling east to west will be almost impossible.

Spartan Village residents are especially advised to use the Mt. Hope exit as Harrison Rd. will be closed and barricaded during outgoing traffic.

Games, Mixers, Rallies Planned

Pep Rally Planned;
7 p.m. At Jenison

By FAYE E. UNGER

Mix two high tension-producing ball games--one a world series and one an MSU-UM game--pep rallies, mixers, the impossible ingredient of good weather, and Peter, Paul and Mary. The result is an action packed week-end for University student.

Spartan Spirit is planning to give its prompt pep rallies an extra zip with a speech by President John A. Hannah. The organization plans a rally at 7 p.m. tonight in Jenison Fieldhouse.

True participants in a spectator sports can catch both the World Series and the Michigan-Michigan State football game Saturday on WMSB-TV.

A preliminary feature on the Saturday calendar is the first annual 'Old-Timers' baseball game, which will see major league hurlers Robin Roberts, Dick Radatz and Ron Perrano take the mound against the Spartan varsity. Game time will be 10 a.m. Tickets, costing $1, may be bought at the gate.

Starting at 12 noon, WMSB will carry the pennant game between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals. After the game is completed Channel 10 will pick up the football game which will already be in progress.

Michigan State has not lost the Michigan game in eight years. The teams tied, 7-7, in 1963. This year rival Michigan, ranking fourth in the nation, is favored over State, ranking ninth. However, U of M holds the edge on State in the series that started in 1898. State has won 16, lost 39, and tied five.

Leonard Falcone, director of the University Marching Band, said the half-time show should be a spectacular one. The band will march their "Patterns in Motion," "It's All Right with Me," "Something for Cat," and "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Butterfield and Phillips will hold post-game receptions. Brody will present Sally Noble, Miss Michigan and an MSU freshman, with roses at an MSU-UM mixer, 8 p.m., in the Brody multi-purpose rooms.

Peter, Paul, and Mary, who will appear at the Lansing Civic Center, 8:30 p.m., may complete the Saturday evening for MSU students.

For The Student: Needed Legal Aid

An unfortunate fact of life is that there are always unscrupulous persons in private and public enterprise who will try to cheat those who do not know their legal rights.

Students as a group are particularly vulnerable to being fleeced of their dollars because of legal ignorance. Off-campus housing contracts are a case in point. Many students who rent rooms or apartments are doing so for the first time in their lives. They often neglect to read the fine print in contracts, and they do not know what a landlord may legally require of them.

Moreover, out-of-town and out-of-state students often have no idea of where to go for legal aid when they need it.

It is also an unfortunate fact of life that some students are inexorably irresponsible in living up to their financial obligations. For this reason, East Lansing businessmen and apartment owners are sometimes forced to take extraordinary and time-consuming measures to collect student debts.

The Office of Student Affairs is also forced to spend time talking with students who owe money and urging them to live up to their financial obligations.

The majority of local businessmen are honest and fair in their dealings with students. However, there exists a minority who will stretch the truth to make a buck.

The case of Sandra Feldman, New York City senior, points out that students are not without legal aid.

Miss Feldman won a $10 suit in Lansing Township Justice Court with the aid of a lawyer provided by the Lansing Legal Aid Society.

The lawyer who took the case urged Miss Feldman to publicize the results in hopes that more students would consult the Lansing Legal Aid Society when they were not sure of their rights.

This legal aid is free of charge. It is available for students who are smart enough to seek the aid of the law if they think they have not been fairly treated.

Which Side To Choose?

At the big game this weekend, Gov. Romney will sit on the MSU side of the field during the first half and on the U-M side during the second half.

As the state's governor, he cannot declare support for either side in good conscience.

Civil Rights Commission's Work Extended By Law

Title V, the Commission on Civil Rights section, of the civil rights act of 1964 specifically outlines and amends the duties and powers of the National Civil Rights Commission. It also extends the life of the commission founded in 1957, until 1968.

The opening sections of this title explain the rules used in hearings and whenever testimony is given before the commission or when witnesses are called. It also explains how and when rules of the commission and testimony it receives will be published or distributed. In addition, it outlines the duties and powers of the chairman of the commission, who is presently John A. Hannah, president of MSU.

Each member of the commission not involved in other service in the federal government receives $75 for each day spent in working on the commission. All members are to be reimbursed for any and all traveling expenses that occur when working on business for the commission.

As stated above, this title enumerates the duties of the Civil Rights Commission. It is given the duty of investigating vote fraud cases and registration problems involving alleged discrimination on the grounds of race, color, creed or national origin.

It is to study and collect information concerning a denial of equal protection of the laws.

It is also to appraise laws and policies of the federal government with respect to equal protection of the laws and administration of justice. It is to serve as a "national clearinghouse" on civil rights problems involving such fields as voting, education, housing, employment, the use of public facilities and transportation.

Finally, it is specifically stated that nothing in this title shall be construed that anyone involved with or working for the commission investigate or inquire into membership practices or operations or fraternal organizations, any college or university fraternity or sorority, any private club, or any religious organization. It is also authorized to make reports to the president and Congress, whenever the commission, the president or Congress desires.

In the opinion of the administration and a majority of Congressmen, the Civil Rights Commission has been helpful in solving problems in the area of civil rights and has served its purpose well. There are also some who believe that this commission is simply a snooping agency that causes trouble.

However, in this section of the new law, there is little if any enthusiasm from Southern opponents, there was less dissent over this title than over most of the others. Whether the work of the commission has been or will be pleasing to all is doubtful. One thing is very certain—the National Civil Rights Commission is here to stay until at least 1968.

Voters See Poor Choice

By JOHN VAN GIESON
State News Editor

A most interesting and unique—at least in comparison with the recent past—phenomenon is occurring in this year's election. The clear choice promised to the electorate by certain members of the Republican party when it became apparent that Barry Goldwater would be its candidate has failed to take hold with voters as expected.

It had been thought voters would find it easy to choose between Senator Goldwater and President Johnson, since a significant difference in their approach to solving the problems confronting the country is readily discernible.

Many types of voters have found no need to deliberate over their choice of candidate. Groups such as conservatives continued their near unanimous support for Goldwater, while others, such as Negroes, remained steadfast in their support of Johnson.

It is the vast majority of voters in the middle who have been faced with the dilemma of choice. For many of these voters the question isn't "Who is the better man?" as it has been so often in the past, but "Which is the lesser of the two evils?"

It is this aspect of the current election that most distinguishes it from other elections within memory. In 1960, for example, many voters regarded the candidates as equally able men. The choice then was whether the most active vice-president the United States has ever had or a brilliant young senator from Massachusetts was best equipped to handle the difficult and complex task of presiding over the government. That the choice was a hard one for many people to make was indicated by the final outcome, with only a few thousand votes in a few key states all that stood between Nixon and the presidency.

In 1964 voters are less apt to see the positive aspects of either candidate unless they have dogmatic reasons for supporting one or the other.

Campaign propaganda has had an important effect upon the thinking of voters who feel uncomfortable about both candidates. There is a marked tendency to think of the Republican candidate as a kind of nuclear-armed, quick-draw, Barry the Kid, while the President is regarded as a "wheeler-dealer" political opportunist involved in unspecified shady maneuverings. Also, the opposing political parties repeatedly hammer away at inconsistencies in both men's voting records in the Senate, further confusing already despairing voters.

How widespread are such feelings? What effect will they ultimately have upon the election? The answer to these questions won't be known until after all the ballots are counted.

However, a clue to the importance of such negativism may be found in a survey recently conducted in Michigan by the Associated Press. The AP, without indicating how many persons were included in the sample, concluded that, "A surprising number of state voters say they didn't think much of either candidate." The survey shows that people who feel uncomfortable toward both candidates will divide their vote about evenly between Goldwater and Johnson.

Whether this minute sampling is an accurate forecast of national voting behavior is undetermined. But if this bloc of discouraged voters is as large as it gives every indication of being, the outcome of this election must be regarded as very much in doubt despite public opinion polls showing Johnson with a large lead.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to protest the treatment of the pep rally of October 1. I am not blaming the police who stopped the rally but the people in the administration who are responsible for the rules the police were enforcing.

What is the purpose of the ruling against having more than five people in an unauthorized group?

Is it to stop the students from having fun? Is it to make the students a docile herd of dispirited servants of the administration? Is it to preserve the Victorian image of this University that an outdated group of stuffed shirts cherishes? (In view of the other rules such as those concerning sunbathing, I think that the last reason carries much weight.)

If these rules are really to prevent riots and destructive acts, why are they not more flexible and reasonable? There had been no destruction and no more disturbance at the pep rally than at many approved functions. There was a spontaneous rally last year which was permitted, so how were the students to know that this one was to be stopped?

I am not trying to say that we were right. All I ask is that the University take a more reasonable stand and do something to help the students instead of saying no. Why couldn't the rally have been directed by a few R.A.'s or someone who would direct it to harmless purposes?

Point of View

Warren Report Is Valid

By John D. Dellara

Editor's Note: This article is written by John P. Dellara, Huntington, N.Y., senior and president of the MSU Conservative Club.

Brian R. Keleher's "Point of View" which questions the guilt of Lee Harvey Oswald for the assassination of President Kennedy and seeks to cast doubt on the veracity of the Warren Commission's findings generally, is a mass of omissions, deceptions, and convenient testimony with little basis in fact. The exponent of much of it on the lecture circuit is attorney Mark Lane who, with others, has been acquiring a tidy nest egg as a result of the assassination, contrary to the opinion of the State News that $100 a lecture is "small."

Keleher relies on an account of Mark Lane which managed to find its way onto the pages of the extreme Leftist National Guardian: a publication which leaves something to be desired in terms of objectivity. He makes much of the point that the Warren Commission was not composed as a court and could not, therefore, judge Lee Oswald. Of course, it was not convened to judge Oswald, though the effect of the report may be to do so, and it is curious that Keleher of the MSU Socialist Club should make the point that too few of the Commission were of the Kennedy ilk while the John Birch Society should make the point that too many were.

As to the more specific references Keleher uses, they rely on testimony of isolated individuals and are generally refuted by the overwhelming evidence gathered in the inquiry. The allusions to threatened witnesses may be discounted as we consider the level of emotion that existed in all citizens' minds after the assassination, the attempts of some individuals to gain publicity as a result of the tragedy and the mis-statements caused by the understandable confusion.

Mark Lane puts much stress in his lectures on an alleged meeting between Tippet, Ruby, and Weissman about a week before the assassination. Keleher makes the point that the Warren Report does not show Ruby denied the existence of the meeting, but he ignores the fact that the report did state unequivocally that "investigation has revealed no evidence to support this assertion (of such a meeting). Nor is there credible evidence that any of the three men knew each other." It is not clear what point the author tried to make by stressing any denial of Ruby that the report didn't note when the evidence indicates the meeting didn't occur anyway.

Keleher also mentions the point of what gun was actually found. It is true that Constable Deputy Sheriff Weitzman testified that it was a 7.65 Mauser. Sheriff Weitzman, however, only saw the gun at a glance and did not handle it. The Warren Report makes this clear but also records that "from outward appearance the weapon would appear to be a 7.35-millimeter rifle, but its mechanism had been rebarreled with a 6.5 millimeter barrel." Keleher finds it convenient to ignore the latter part of the findings.

Also ignored is the fact of the paraffin test results. It is true that tests on Oswald's right cheek proved negative. But it is also true that tests on both of his hands proved positive; A fact Keleher also finds unworthy of mention. In addition, the Warren Report stated that when an FBI agent fired a rifle of the type used to kill President Kennedy, tests on his hands were positive, but negative results were obtained on his cheek; The same results as those for Oswald. On this basis, the paraffin test was ruled "unreliable."

Finally, Keleher makes a point of the reports of the doctors working to save the life of the President. Initial news reports have obscured the findings of the doctors, and the Warren Report expressed the Commission's regrets that the reports flashed inaccurately in the moments after the tragedy could not be corrected quickly. This is not a difficult phenomenon to understand. Obviously, men do not work to their professional capacity when they are reporting the death of a President or attempting to save his life. At any rate, the autopsy at Bethesda Naval Hospital on the night of Nov. 22 showed that the bullets struck President Kennedy from behind, and none entered from the front.

There are many areas for discontent with the Warren analysis, particularly in the area of Ruby's activities in Castro's Cuba during August, 1959, and Oswald's exploits in Mexico. The report is probably weakest in these areas, as the members would acknowledge, but the fact of Oswald's guilt is virtually impossible to question, and any conspiracy of Dallas police would be exceedingly difficult to demonstrate.

Keleher, like Mark Lane, picks and chooses the facts that best serve his own purposes, largely disregards the very human inadequacies of the moment, and arrives at a pile of implications which are generally foolish and ill-founded.

'Activated Sludge' Method Fulfills Sweet Brody Dream

With the pouring of the settling tanks at the new $3.5 million sewage treatment plant off Trowbridge Road, the residents of the Brody group and those of married housing near their dream of fresh air.

However, the equipment has been up-dated. "The method that's used," said Patriarche, "is called 'activated sludge.' The sewage is first allowed to settle in primary tanks, then it is aerated."

"This is activated sludge. It is allowed to settle out and is then filtered. The clear, filtered liquid is then put back into the river." Another innovation, he added, is that the waste will be burned instead of buried as it is now.

The project, which began in May, is slated for completion about Aug. 1, 1965, indicated East Lansing City Manager John M. Patriarche, Thursday.

The University will pay off 37.5 per cent of the bonds and Meridian Township will pay 18.75 per cent.

The new sewage treatment plant, located a mile west of the present site on Kalamazoo Street near the Brody dormitories, will be able to handle more than twice as much sewage as the old plant.

The present plant capacity is between three and 3.5 million gallons per day. However, the plant actually handles more than 4.5 million gallons daily. This overloading is a major cause of the odor that hangs over much of the west end of campus.

"The new plant will be able to take care of an average of eight million gallons a day," said Patriarche, "and a maximum of 12 million gallons a day."

The new plant uses the same basic method as the present plant.

Noted Bible Lecturer To Talk On Religion

Gerald B. Stanton, prominent lecturer from Boca Raton, Florida, will present a series of Bible lectures at Trinity Church, East Lansing, Oct. 14 through 18.

Subjects of Dr. Stanton's series of lectures are as follows: Wednesday—"The Great Words of the Gospel"; Thursday—"Can A Thinking Man Accept the Bible as the Word of God?"; Friday—"God Is A Trinity"; Sunday—"Life More Abundant" and "What Are the Signs of the Times?" Evening sessions begin at 7:30 except for Sunday when the lecture starts at 7:00 a.m. Saturday morning's lectures are scheduled for 8:30 and 11 p.m.

He will speak to a group of international students on Saturday morning at 8 a.m. at an International Student Breakfast at Trinity Church.

From 10 a.m. until noon a seminar for MSU students will be conducted in the church foyer. Stanton will speak on the subject: "Adam and Eve—Myth or Fact?"

Ecumenical Council Votes; 'Sects' Become Churches

The Vatican Ecumenical Council, in one of the latest moves toward the attainment of Christian unity, has approved part of a draft decree which lays the groundwork for a new Catholic approach to achieving closer ties with the Orthodox, Protestant and Anglican Churches.

The vote, in effect, also approved a new Roman Catholic way of referring to Protestants to ease some of the bitterness that has divided Protestants and Catholics since the Reformation. The document employs the terms "churches" or "churchly communities" instead of the terms "communities" or "sects" as in the past.

"It is certainly a recent development," said an expert with the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat. "Catholics have not talked too much about Protestants in a positive sense in the past, either as individuals or as churches."

A local minister, Rev. Leo J. Tomko, of the Lansing First Assembly of God Church commented on this latest development of the Council: "The recognition of Protestant groups by the Catholic Church is a very good and wholesome sign. This recognition should have been made a long time ago."

The section exhorting Catholics to improve their relations with others calls for an end to the use of mistruths and misconceptions. A Council expert told newsmen:

"The Council wants Catholics to acquire accurate knowledge and to avoid misleading and prejudicial views. In short, anything on the emotional level which could cause damage or widen the rift is to be avoided."

Rev. Walter Kania, of the United Campus Ministry, believes that this is a move in the direction of mutual respect between Catholics and Protestants. "It's a healthy sign," he says, which takes some of the presumptuousness out of the Roman Catholic standpoint.

The approval of this decree was a major triumph for progressive forces within the church who have been urging a policy of increasingly wider contacts with other Christians.

Hillel To Hear Economics Prof

Walter Adams, professor of economics, will speak at the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation Supper-Forum 6 p.m. Sunday. His subject "The Critical 1964 Election", will concern the issues and personalities of the current political campaign.

GETTING PINNED--Philip J. May, vice president of business and finance and treasurer, and Starr Keesler, assistant secretary, are pinned by 1 Per Cent Club Chairman James Anderson. Every employee who contributes 1 per cent of his annual pay to the Community Chest drive gets a club pin.

1 Per Cent Club Drive To Start This Month

Michigan State's 1 Per Cent Club drive picks up momentum this month under the direction of Starr Keesler, assistant secretary of the University.

The United Community Chest's 1 Per Cent Club is composed of employees who pledge one per cent or more of their annual salary to the campaign to provide funds for 58 health and welfare agencies.

This club originated late in the Chest campaign one year ago in Ingham County.

As a prelude to the general campaign which opened Wednesday, MSU pacemakers, staff members who make above a certain salary, were notified Aug. 25 of their opportunity to join the 1 Per Cent Club by giving one per cent of their annual earnings to the drive.

The cards that the Pacemakers received have been sent to all other University employees by this time.

The cards give a choice of contributing a sum of money, one per cent of one's annual salary by monthly payroll deduction, or by check, or one lump sum in February.

Keesler said that 16 per cent of the Pacemakers have joined the 1 Per Cent Club through their donations.

The Pacemakers had more than a month to contribute before the general campaign opened. However, they can still join the 1 Per Cent Club with the rest of the MSU employees, who are making contributions now.

"The 1 Per Cent Club raises the sights of the giver to 1 per cent of his annual salary," Keesler said.

Those who check one per cent on the donation card are not asked to indicate the dollar amount, he said. Only the University Business Office personnel know that figure.

Square Dancing

Cooperative Extension Service Specialists will hold their first monthly dance of the Extension Square Dance Club Saturday at 9 p.m. The dance will take place in the Forestry Cabin on South Campus.

Student Legislature Proposal Discussed

The possibility of a Michigan student legislature was discussed at a regional National Student Association (NSA) meeting at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor recently.

Representing MSU at the meeting were Dianne Ruppe, NSA co-ordinator and Grosse Pointe senior; Marty Phillips, international director of NSA and Coopersville junior; and Ed Venners, student government director of NSA and Detroit sophomore.

"The purpose of such a legislature would be to give students such as political science and law majors a chance to participate in a model government, as well as to give them a larger voice in Michigan politics," Miss Ruppe explained.

"The legislature would have political parties, but they would not be Republican or Democratic," she added.

She noted that such a legislature is working successfully in North Carolina.

The project will be discussed further at the NSA meeting at Mary Grove College in Detroit in November.

Also discussed were plans for an NSA recruitment conference for all Michigan schools to be held here in April and the Winds of Change conference to be held at the University of Michigan in February.

Chapel To House Sunday Services

Sunday morning services sponsored by the United Campus Ministry will be held regularly in the Alumni Memorial Chapel, beginning this Sunday, for the convenience of East Campus students.

A service in the Episcopal tradition, consisting of Holy Communion and the sermon, will be held each week at 9 a.m. At 11 a.m. a sermon will be presented for Protestant students.

The ministers conducting the services will vary from week to week. This week Rev. Albert Gardner will conduct the Episcopal service, and Rev. John Duley the Protestant service.

'Papa Jack,' Jazz Patriarch To Open Television Series

Ask Papa Jack who invented jazz and he will tell you that he did.

Papa Jack Laine, 90-year-old patriarch of jazz, reminisces of the art's bawdy early days, 12 noon, Sunday, in the first of the WMSE series "New Orleans Jazz."

Papa Jack organized neighborhood bands with kazooes, tinpans, and horn as a boy. Years later his jazz marching bands turned out for every New Orleans festival: the Mardi Gras, the Fourth of July, Armistice Day, and even the funerals of other jazz greats of his day. The entire jazz series attempts to recreate the mood of the varied eras of jazz through interviews with the artists and recreations of famed jazz nightspots.

Shows will run 12 noon each Sunday for seven weeks and will be reshowed 7 p.m. each following Thursday.

The third program, "Kings II" restages a meeting between Joe "King" Oliver and Jelly Roll Morton in a New Orleans parking lot that was once the site of a well-known jazz club.

Later the same show recreates a meeting between Oliver and Louie Armstrong. Oliver gave Armstrong his first break. Now years later Louie is moved to tears at the sight of the "King" working as a fruit vendor.

Armand Hug, jazz pianist, styles the background music to create the mood of the era being considered.

Bourbon Street, Basin Street, Storyville, Old Absentee House, Honeysuckle Inn are scheduled stops for the series.

Jelly Roll Morton, Louie Armstrong, Papa John Joseph, and Armand Hug are people to be met.

"My name is Mr. Jelly Lord, and I don't deny it."

This is Jelly Roll Morton. The man who wore a diamond in one of his front teeth again comes alive through interviews with friends, acquaintances, and jazz buffs, and through his own reminiscences as recorded in the Library of Congress. His show is sixth in the series.

The series was produced by WYES-TV, New Orleans, for the National Educational Television network of which WMSE, channel 10, is a member.

relieved of their responsibilities, and that the administrative structure of the military establishment under which these irregularities flourished be thoroughly and efficiently reorganized."

Romney, noting the need to "protect the integrity, reputation and morale of the Michigan National Guard," ordered sweeping investigation and changes to combat the irregularities and prevent them again.

"Some of these irregularities were in practice before generals McDonald and Neifert and Colonel Case assumed their top positions several years ago, and some have begun since that time," Romney said.

The governor appointed Col. Clarence Schnipke, presently assistant adjutant general, as acting adjutant general. Colonel Leo C. Whitaker—the chief of staff of the 46th Infantry Division—was made acting quartermaster general until permanent appointments can be made.

A new faculty member's academic training was put to the acid test Tuesday morning when his second son made an unexpected world debut at Cherry Lane Apartments.

Glenn Louis Finkel, now three days old, was delivered by his father, Maurice Finkel, associate professor of natural science, while his sister, Karen Lee, 3, and brother, Ronnie, 2, looked on, according to campus police.

Brody Prepare For Crowd At Big MSU, U-M Mixer

Men's Hall Association and W. L. Brody residence Council are combining efforts to present the University of Michigan-Michigan State mixer to be held Saturday in Brody.

The Finkel's are a new family to MSU, moving here from Alamosa, Col., a month ago.

The mixer will begin at 8 p.m., according to Bob Preston, Dearborn junior, social director of MHA and chairman of the dance.

Picture Tour Of Mexico Set
Travel photographer Curtis Nagel will conduct a motion picture tour of Mexico Saturday, in the Auditorium at 8 p.m.

John Rasmussen, Grand Rapids senior, representing MHA, and Marsha Kimball, Harper Woods sophomore, representing WIC, are helping Preston in planning the dance.

The "Portraits of Mexico" film-lecture is a presentation of the MSU World Travel Series. Nagel's color film covers the varied sightseeing attractions of America's southern neighbor, ranging from cosmopolitan Mexico City and Acapulco to the ancient remains of Mexico's pre-Columbian civilizations.

Music will be provided by the "Modern-Airs" in the multipurpose room in Brody, while WBRS, Brody radio, will play records in the Brody television room.

Tickets for the travel program will be available at the auditorium box office.

During intermission the "Social Pros," a folk singing group, will perform.

Sally Jane Noble, Miss Michigan of 1965, East Lansing freshman, will also be at the dance.

Free refreshments will be served, Preston said, in the southeast and northeast upper lobbies of Brody.

'I May Never Give Up The Fight'

Coed Trades MSU For Mississippi

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

Just one year ago Mary Ann Shupenko was like any other Michigan State coed.

Like most of the women left homeless the previous year when Snyder was converted to a men's hall, she started her sophomore year in brand-new McDonel Hall.

Mary Ann, a 19-year-old from Detroit, spent fall and winter terms like a lot of MSU coeds. She majored in English education, studied and didn't study, dated, went to football games, took finals, became a close friend and confidante of her roommates.

Like most American college girls, Mary Ann wanted to spend spring vacation on the sun-baked beaches of eastern Florida, and like thousands of them, she and her three roommates did.

Then she returned to MSU for spring term.

But Mary Ann's spring term was not like it was for most coeds. First, she joined the campus NAACP. Secondly, she volunteered to spend August as a civil rights worker in Mississippi.

I lived with Mary Ann this summer. I took her to the bus station July 31, the day she left for Mississippi. I expected her back Sept. 1.

But Mary Ann hasn't come back yet. Here's what she says in a letter about her return:

"I'm slowly deciding that I may never give up the fight which is just as much mine, as it is the Negro's."

Mary Ann received $100 from McDonel Hall under the auspices of All-University Student Government for her month in Missis-

.. now with your hand, pull the lever down.

siippi. The $100 is gone now. She lives on subsistence wages from the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO).

As manager of the COFO office in Canton, Miss., and coordinator of civil rights work in Madison County, Mary Ann is in charge of voter registration projects, school integration drives, freedom rallies, mailing, security regulations, and to quote her, "people in jail and waiting for trials."

Mary Ann lives in a community "freedom" house in Canton with another female worker. She is also building a community program for Negro children.

Mary Ann's letters concern the way her job makes her feel about the Negro movement in America today. She doesn't write much about her own personal safety.

But she lives in "dire danger" every minute, as Robert L. Green, assistant professor of education, attests. He visited Mary Ann in Canton last week, along with the Rev. John S. Duley, campus pastor, to speak at a freedom rally she coordinated.

As Green describes Mary Ann's life in Canton, she receives threatening phone calls throughout the night, and when she walks down the street, white residents shout insulting remarks at her. She has even been threatened by local law enforcement officers.

"She tries to dress like a local person," Green said. "But those people can always pick out college students."

"Mary Ann is tired and overworked," he observed. I can verify that statement. I talked to her long distance Tuesday. She had a cold and sounded like her strength was waning.

But here's what Mary Ann wrote about her health:

"I'm fine. I was really under the weather for a couple of days. Finally I went to a doctor in Jackson (Miss.) who gave me pills that help me stay awake during the day, sleep at night, and calm my nerves."

"He also told me to work an eight-hour day and rest for a couple of days. That's impossible. I put in from 12 to 15 hours a day and I'm still not finished. No complaints--it's challenging work, but I'm needed and I love it."

Mary Ann told me that a lawyer gave her $100 recently and told her to use it for a personal vacation. But she gave half of it to COFO anyway, took the other half to New Orleans for a four-day rest and was called back to her position the second day. That's the only time she's left Mississippi--the state she calls "another country"--since she arrived Aug. 2.

She sends Green running summaries of incidents recorded by COFO. Information about Canton is scattered liberally through these reports. Some say that it is one of the two or three most hostile towns in Mississippi.

"The law in Canton has not and will not stop the punishing and degrading of Negroes," Mary Ann writes. "It is bent on a streak of hate to the end. This is the power structure which controls. A majority of the white population does not even know what we are trying to do. They are indoctrinated by white citizen councils and their local leaders."

"White folk here have something to fear--the population ratio in Madison County is 71.9 per cent Negro to 28.1 per cent white. That's only an approximation. However, we outnumber them."

Mary Ann never used to say "we" when she referred to herself and the Negroes. Now she always does. "They are my people," she says.

I asked Mary Ann over the phone Tuesday what impressed her most about her entire involvement in Mississippi. She thought a few seconds, then said:

"I am most impressed by the willingness of the Negroes here to help me. They come to the office secretly and tell me they want to help."

"But they are afraid. They risk their lives when they talk to a white person. It takes real courage for a Negro worker to wave to me on the street."

Mary Ann has become a speaker in her own right during her two months in Mississippi. Almost immediately she began speaking at voter registration rallies. Here's what she has said many times at mass meetings:

"The time has come to tell the white man the cottonfield days are ending. We will fight you. Some may die, but we will be replaced. We ask nothing more than our rights and dignities as human beings. Our children deserve good schools, decent homes, a chance for a future. If this cannot be done with peace then it must be done other ways. We won't ever turn back. In all honesty I can no longer be your 'boy.'"

The whole story of Mary Ann Shupenko and Mississippi could never be told in one sitting. But are you moved by her devotion and seemingly unending energy, her goals and her emotions? If you are, you can help Mary Ann.

She needs more money to run her office and keep the nonviolent Negro movement in Mississippi going. Donations can be sent to her:

Office Manager, 838 Lutz, Canton, Miss.

It is best to end as Mary Ann closed her last letter to East Lansing.

"Do you think Mr. Charlie can possibly hold us for another three hundred years? God, I've only been here two-odd months; there must be a special place in Heaven for people who have lived and died here."

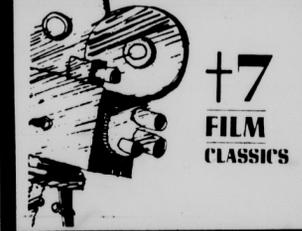

Love, Mary Ann"

"If the matter cannot be reconciled," she adds, "it can be taken to the State Civil Rights Commission."

Before the procedure was set up, two students made a complaint last spring, the matter was resolved on the local level. Since then there has been no complaint.

Labor Party 1-2 Favorite Say Bookies

LONDON, (AP)—British betting men are pouring it in by the hundreds of thousands of pounds sterling on the outcome of the national election next Thursday. Bettingwise, it's the biggest electoral rat race in United Kingdom history.

As day dawned, the labor party was a steaming 1-2 favorite to unseat the conservative government, meaning you had to put up 2 of yours to win 1 from the handbook. If you fancied the conservatives, the book would lay 6 against your 4.

William Hill, the biggest bookie in the country, started quoting odds on the election only last Friday. In six days hot-eyed partisans swamped his clerks with wagers totaling more than 100,000 pounds ($280,000) and the flood continues.

Police Arrest Lansing Man For Speeding

Campus police arrested a Lansing man early Thursday morning on a charge of speeding and driving while intoxicated.

Lodged in the East Lansing jail was Lawrence D. Hunt, 21, of 1818 Todd Ave., police said. Hunt was travelling at speeds up to 70 m.p.h. and weaving back and forth on Hagadorn Road, according to police.

In another police action, Jerry K. Hilliard, 1215 Hickory, Lansing was ticketed for failure to exercise due caution Wednesday when his truck tipped over on Stadium Road east of Chestnut. The driver received an ankle injury, and was transported by police to Sparrow Hospital.

Freshman Fractures Hipbone

A Waukegan freshman who suffered a fractured pelvis when he was struck by an auto Wednesday was reported in good condition at Olin Health Center.

As he attempted to cross the street at Harrison Rd. near Kellogg Center, Robert D. Sybrandy, 18, was hit by an auto driven by Michael J. Gerson, 21, of 124 Northlawn Ave.

Gerson told police that he did not see the pedestrian until the impact. Sybrandy said that he did not see the car until he was hit. No summons was issued, police said.

Big Canada Geese Gather

HICKORY CORNERS -- The big Canada geese are gathering for public inspection at the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary of Michigan State University.

Wildlife specialist R. D. Van Deusen reports that nearly 1,500 geese as well as hundreds of ducks are presently stopping over at the sanctuary, located on the east side of Gull Lake in Kalamazoo County.

Van Deusen also reports sighting flocks of whistling swans, which ordinarily do not begin their migration until about Nov. 5.

The geese and swan migrations are apparently brought about by the passage of weather fronts from northern Canada. The first migration coincided with the passage of a front through the lower Hudson Bay area on Sept. 22.

The heaviest movement of Canada geese is in mid-October. The peak season at the MSU sanctuary comes in the first week of November when more than 3,000 Canadas will gather there.

Tom Jennings, a retired bookie whose father was a founder of the Labor Party, has bet 10,000 pounds ($28,000) to 8,000 pounds ($22,400) on a laborite victory.

For betters who like a little side action, some of the smaller books are quoting odds on the size of the winning House of Commons majority of 1 to 39 seats in the 630-seat house, and 5-2 that the conservatives don't. The books offer 5-2 that the laborites won't win a majority of 40 or more seats, and 3-1 that the conservatives won't be returned by a similar margin.

If neither party winds up with 316 seats for a bare majority—and this could happen if the liberals captured enough seats to hold the balance of power—these books will win all bets.

Dental Society

To Hold Seminar

The Michigan State Dental Association and the MSU Continuing Education Service will sponsor a special seminar Monday and Tuesday here.

The goal of the public relations seminar is to present ideas which dentists might use to promote dental profession and dental health as a major health need.

The meeting will involve about 30 public relations committee chairmen from the state's district dental societies.

Key speakers are Peter C. Goulding, Chicago, director of the Bureau of Public Information, American Dental Association, and Ken L. Croft, Toronto, Ontario, director of the Bureau of Public Information, Canadian Dental Association.

New Bus System Draws Comments

Now that classes are under way and things are beginning to fall into a routine the State News decided to try and find out what some of the people who purchased bus tickets felt about the new intra-campus system.

The majority of the people interviewed had one basic complaint: the overcrowding of the buses during the rush hours of 8 a.m., noon, and the late afternoon return from campus to dormitories.

Many of the students felt that if two buses could run one behind the other in close time intervals, it might eliminate people being left behind at bus stops, and minor stops being passed by overcrowded buses.

Not all of the comments were complaints. One of the most common compliments voiced was for the bus drivers. Charlene Levie, an MSU freshman from Atlanta, Ga., summed up the compliments best when she said:

"The bus drivers are all nice. I found myself lost several times during the early weeks and the bus drivers never failed to help me."

Debbie McComb and Sandy Shellenbarger, both veterans of last year's bus services, felt that the new system is "better, much better."

Cheri Faison, a sophomore staying in Fee dormitory, expressed a common complaint among the less frequent bus users when she said, "For the number of times I use the bus service, it's just not worth the $12."

Gary Hornbacher, MSU junior, agrees with Cheri and goes on to say, "Using the 10 cents per ride charge the new $12 fee means that you would have to use the bus more than twice a day to get your money's worth."

The general feeling among those interviewed was that the bus system had its faults but that it also had its good points, particularly the quality and courtesy of the bus drivers.

Most felt that with time, experience and one or two more buses the new system will be, not as Tom Stundt, MSU sophomore said, "A necessary evil", but a necessary and useful good.

Rusk Denies Playing Politics With South Viet Nam Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk protested Thursday against any assertion that administration decisions on Viet Nam could be influenced by election campaign considerations.

Also in reply to Republican critics, Rusk said the previous GOP administration rather than the Democrats should be blamed for Cuba's shift to communism.

Rusk told a news conference that South Viet Nam presents major issues of war and peace and this is "not a matter which any President of The United States can deal with on electoral terms."

Stressing that The United States remains deeply committed to the security of Southeast Asia, Rusk said that this commitment "has nothing to do with our electoral process here."

"We are not concealing anything, or postponing, or marking time, or refusing to make the decisions that are required," he said.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said in Chicago yesterday that South Viet Nam might be lost within a year, and all Southeast Asia within three years, unless there is a change in U.S. policy.

The United States, Rusk said, is making the necessary decisions "on a day-by-day, and week-by-week basis in consultation with the South Vietnamese Government."

Rusk said it is impossible to be a prophet in connection with Southeast Asia especially as Communist North Viet Nam and Communist China "are writing the scenario."

On Cuba the Secretary was asked about a speech Republican candidate William F. Miller made in Miami Wednesday. Miller said the Johnson administration is pursuing a policy of "accommodation" with the Castro regime.

"The present administration was not responsible for the prevention of Communist Cuba," Rusk said.

"We were confronted with the problem of Cuba, and the cure is more difficult than prevention," he added.

Rusk said he is encouraged that other countries in the Western Hemisphere have recognized the Communist threat from Cuba.

"If the Cuban government continues with any program of interference with other countries in this hemisphere, then I think we shall have a very serious situation," Rusk declared.

Rusk also made the following points:

--He in effect warned President Sukarno of Indonesia that "if there is an attack on the Philippines from any quarter, that is an attack on the United States."

--He said the United States expects the participation of a "considerable number of NATO countries" in the multilateral nuclear force, a mixed-crew surface fleet equipped with Polaris missiles to defend the western alliance.

Commenting on the situation in Cairo where Moise Tshombe, the Congo's Premier, is a virtual prisoner after attempting to attend the conference of nonaligned nations, Rusk said that "it is of some concern...that in an international meeting delegates undertake to determine who shall represent governments invited to the meeting." Such an attempt, he added, could "give rise to a great many complications in the very structure of international affairs."

--Rusk said that Soviet Russia's reluctance to pay its debts to the United Nations "deeply affects the constitutional structure" of the world organization.

"Every small country member of the United Nations has a stake in this constitutional issue," Rusk declared and added that the United States is hoping some arrangement will be found to remove this issue.

Johnson, Goldwater

(continued from page 1) becoming more troubled every day "by this look of hatred" he sees on the faces of young people turning out to boo him. Goldwater believes they are being used in a well-planned, organized campaign.

Turning from decrying the Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes cases at Lubbock and El Paso, Tex., Goldwater hit hard at centralized government power here.

"Do you really believe the government can make you rich and happy and confident and secure?" he asked the Contractors and Plasterers Association Convention Thursday.

"You and I know that this nation of ours has grown great and strong and prosperous through its free economy."

He said in a speech prepared for delivery it was time to get the government out of strictly local affairs to "cut the government down to size."

Night Ticket-Wait Endurance Pays

The class of 1968 hasn't set any packed telephone booth or continual telephone conversation records.

But Wednesday night, freshmen waited in two lines at Jenison Fieldhouse for the ticket office to open. If that night wasn't a record for mass perseverance then it was mighty close.

Approximately 174 freshmen teams representing every residence hall calmly passed the time sleeping, sitting or studying. Most of the adventurers wrapped themselves in an array of colorful blankets so that the Jenison lawn looked like a patchwork quilt.

Radios blared forth rock and roll, a football was tossed back and forth in the parking lot, guitar players strummed melodies, but of the students most just slept.

A few students added the luxurious touch by bringing lawn chairs and spending the night in relative comfort. Some displayed their ingenuity—starting little fires or stretching across a grate from which warm blasts of air shot upward. Spirits remained high as everybody retained their sense of humor; laughter was prevalent.

Some of the fellows became quite lonely and one blurted out his sentiments, "girls should have special hours on occasions like this...to keep the fellows company."

There was no lack of spirit. When a rumor came that U-M fans were trying some "funny business," state men grabbed flashlights and were ready to do combat.

However, when the hue and cry went out for help, the radios drowned out the call to arms. Intrepid U-M students drove up in a car and put Michigan's mark on "Spartan."

Later the MSU frosh got together a resolution of revenge. They knew the vandals' car and vowed to paint it green and white by Saturday.

The ordeal started at 12 noon Wednesday with the men from Fee camping on the Jenison doorstep. The next team didn't arrive until 4:30 a.m.

Every man in line was getting the maximum amount of tickets so the night involved a great number of tickets. Marv Smith proved to be one of the most outstanding troopers. He stood from 9:30 p.m. until he obtained his tickets the next day about 8:15 a.m.

Potter

the Lansing City Council to pass prevailing wage laws.

Arnold felt the sympathy for Potter in his union was from Republican legislation during Governor George W. Romney's term in office. He cited the minimum wage law and the construction laws which have helped reduce accidents.

Arnold stated that lack of union support for Sen. Barry M. Goldwater has been caused by the senator's voting record.

"Goldwater has voted 'no' on everything labor has urged and has felt to be necessary," he said.

During and after his speech, Potter attacked the Austin-Kleiner reapportionment plan as gerrymandering.

"The outlines of the reapportioned areas are most unusual shapes. The planners said this was due to the difficulty of balancing the voting population in the districts."

According to Potter, population-based districts could be retained that are almost square.
