LBJ Willing To Talk Over Red's UN Debts

Answers Nigerian Request

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (AP)—President Johnson has expressed willingness to resolve the deadlock over U.N. finances "in any number of possible ways" consistent with the U.N. charter. He said the United States is willing to talk with anyone, at any time on the grave issue confronting the world organization. The President's chief U.N. delegate, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, gave Johnson's position in a letter to the Nigerian U.N. Ambassador, Chief O.S. Adebore.

It was the first announced response to letters Adebore sent last Wednesday to Johnson, French President Charles De Gaulle, Soviet Premier Alexei I. Kosygin and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, asking that their governments get together on the issue.

The Soviet Union is two years behind in U.N. dues because of refusal to pay assessments to support peacekeeping in the Congo and the Middle East. Article 19 of the U.N. charter says any member two years behind cannot vote in the General Assembly. The United States has insisted that the penalty must be applied. The Soviet Union has hinted that if that happens it will quit the United Nations.

Adebore's letter said the dispute was a "sword of Damocles which now hangs over the resumption of the General Assembly" scheduled for Dec. 1. He asked the leaders to promote an atmosphere in which it could be resolved.

The Nigerian chief delegate stressed that he was writing as chairman of a 21-nation group trying to work out a formula for financing future peacekeeping operations.

Stevenson addressed his letter to Adebore as Nigerian chief delegate.

Stevenson said that "as far as the United States is concerned, the current financial difficulties can be settled in any number of possible ways consistent with the charter."

He did not elaborate. The United States has always argued that it would be "consistent with the charter" for the Russians to forfeit their vote if they did not pay. But it has also said it is flexible as to the method of payment, because "the only vitally essential ingredient in any solution is that the funds be made available to the United Nations."

Accident Report

Crash Victim Is Near Death

A MSU junior lies near death at an Ann Arbor hospital today. Robert Dennis Fraser of Winnetka, Ill., received fractures of both legs, an arm and the pelvis when his car smashed into an I-96 overpass abutment near Brighton late Tuesday night.

He underwent surgery at St. Joseph hospital immediately upon arrival, and was reported in "extremely critical" condition late Wednesday afternoon.

State police theorized that Fraser fell asleep at the wheel. They said it took 45 minutes to free the injured student from the wreckage.

A radio and television major, Fraser had been attending a National Association of Broadcasters meeting in Detroit. He was returning to East Lansing when the accident occurred. Fraser, who works at 209 Cedar St., has been working as a week-

Communist Conference Postponed

MOSCOW (AP)—The New Kremlin leadership has agreed to put off a proposed conference of Communist parties here Dec. 15 on the Soviet-Chinese dispute in favor of a Peking meeting with Mao Tse-Tung's regime early next year, Communist sources said Wednesday.

Nikita Khrushchev issued the call Aug. 10 to 25 Communist parties abroad to meet with the Soviet Party in December to prepare for a world meeting in mid-1965. The Chinese denounced the plan as "a step on the road to doom" and launched a boycott movement.

The Communist informants said Khrushchev's successor as the Soviet party's first secretary, Leonid Brezhnev, consented in talks here with Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai to hold bilateral discussions in Peking instead. One reported the Moscow preparatory session was tentatively postponed until next spring. Official confirmation was lacking.

The sources indicated the basic positions of Peking and Moscow on Communist questions remained far apart. The talks since Chou arrived here last Thursday have failed to reconcile disagreements on such things as de-Stalinization, revolution in underdeveloped nations and relations with the West.

Agreement was reached to talk over the dispute some more before the projected world conference of 1965.

Atom Sub's Visit To Japan Prompts Demonstrations

SASEBO, Japan (AP)—Heavily reinforced riot police guarded a U.S. Naval base in this tense southern port Wednesday against thousands of leftists threatening demonstrations to protest the first port call by a U.S. nuclear submarine to Japan.

The nuclear-powered Sea Dragon was scheduled to dock at the base at 6 p.m. Wednesday for a three-day recreational visit. Demonstrations in Sasebo and Tokyo Tuesday night and leftist threats of a crippling nationwide strike presented the three-day-old government of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato with its first political crisis.

The demonstrations were not expected to explode into bloody riots similar to those that occurred in 1960 against the U.S.-Japan security treaty. Those riots forced the resignation of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, Sato's older brother. The government rushed 2,500 police reinforcements into Sasebo, 35 miles north of Nagasaki, crushed by an atomic bomb in World War II. Six patrol boats were sent into Sasebo harbor to protect the Sea Dragon.

Bands of demonstrators roamed the city Tuesday night. Socialist leaders said at least 10,000 demonstrators would converge on this U.S. 7th Fleet refueling and crew recreational port before the Sea Dragon docked.

Akira Iwai, leader of the 4.5 million-member left-wing Sohyo Labor Federation, said demonstrators include government workers, threatened a nationwide strike "as a last resort" if the conservative liberal-democratic government allowed the port call.

In Tokyo, 12 police and eight students were injured in a clash Tuesday night. Police tried to break up a sit-down by about 1,400 students who snake-danced up to the front of the Diet (Parliament) building. Nine students were arrested.

Bolivian Political Parties Giving Up Arms To Junta

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Gen. Rene Barrientos said Wednesday most political parties have agreed to surrender their arms to prevent further violence in Bolivia.

This is an important step forward in the understanding we have achieved with the parties, the president of the military junta said in an interview.

"We are gradually strengthening a working alliance with the political forces toward realizing our aim of national unity," he said.

Civilian groups, including peasants, students and miners belonging to different parties, have had weapons for years. Their stocks were increased by looting arsenals during last week's military revolt that ousted President Victor Paz Estenssoro.

All political parties except Paz's Nationalist Revolutionary movement and the Communists gave the military junta tentative backing in a meeting Tuesday night.

Barrientos said some parties gave outright agreement to surrender arms to the government. Obviously this did not include

Paz's party, whose people's militia fought for Paz to the last. "Other parties have not yet come through," Barrientos said, "but the general trend is in that direction."

Party leaders, however, were keeping a watchful eye on the military regime. Their backing is essential to keep Bolivia at peace.

"If the junta keeps its promises, everything should be all right," said Juan Lechin, a powerful leftist leader whose tin miners in the south rose against Paz last month. "But if the promises are not kept, we will fight again."

The promises include calling free elections within six months to a year to name a civilian government.

'Combat Communism With Facts'—Schwarz

By HUGH J. LEACH, State News Wire Editor

The greatest thing the people of the United States can do to combat communism is to gain knowledge about it. That was what Dr. Frederick C. Schwarz, president and founder of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, told an estimated 1,600 people at Lansing Sexton High School Tuesday night.

"We have the responsibility to acquire maximum knowledge of the nature of communism and transmit it to every individual on this earth," Schwarz said. Schwarz, who appeared with former FBI counterespionage Herbert A. Philbrick and songstress Janet Greene, said he hopes to conduct one of his concentrated, week-long anti-communism schools in Michigan to help educate the people about the nature of communism.

Although similar schools have been conducted throughout the country, there has never been one in Michigan before.

"If you do not put this into action," Schwarz said, "what we are doing here tonight is nothing more than phrase-mongering."

The program opened with a prayer, followed by the Pledge to the Flag and the singing of both verses of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Philbrick, the first speaker on the program, was introduced by John N. Moore, associate professor of natural science.

Philbrick, author of the book, "I Led Three Lives," on which the popular television series about his experiences as a counterespionage within the Communist party was based, said the Communist now control over one-billion people, or 50 per cent of the world's population. However, he said, only a small percentage of these people are hard-core Communists.

He blamed the spread of communism on apathy, indifference

New System Works Fine

Two campus officials told 35 East Lansing businessmen yesterday the campus bus system and parking regulations have had the desired effect on traffic problems.

Richard Bernitt, traffic safety director, said traffic on Farm Lane has been decreased by 50 per cent.

He told the businessmen that there are 800 more cars registered on campus than in 1963. Student cars number 9,188 as of Nov. 2. More than 6,700 employee cars are registered.

The regulations have reduced on-campus traffic but has allowed an increase in speed of cars driving on University streets.

Lyle Bornor, maintenance supervisor, said "We're doing what we set out to do" with the bus system.

The peak hours for the bus system are between 7:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. on class days. About 15,700 passengers use the buses between these hours, he said.

One bus is used to cover the whole campus route between 6:30

Romney Asks Balance In Farm Production

Gov. George Romney told members of the Michigan Farm Bureau Wednesday the greatest need of American agriculture is a creative effort to balance supply and demand.

In a speech here at MSU before the convention of the MFB, the governor said Michigan farmers can lead the way toward building a better farm future on their own.

"The greatest need of American agriculture is for creative, industry-wide efforts to balance supply with demand," Romney said. "This is a need which no amount of federal tinkering can meet--short of total, iron control by Washington."

"If federal programs can't fully take the place of self help, local initiative, voluntary action and state responsibility," Romney said the farmer today is faced with two "tragic ironies."

"Today one of the greatest threats to the farmer's livelihood is a good year, a year when he produces more than he can sell at a reasonable price."

"The fact that the American farmers who have laid the foundation for our society of abundance have not shared proportionately and equitably in its benefits."

Romney said that "the American farmer's ability to produce, which has been a blessing to the rest of society, has boomeranged against the farmer as year by year he sees the income of his city relatives and friends far outstrip his own."

The governor pledged that his administration would "stand ready to assist you in your efforts through enabling legislation, strengthened market promotion and research on new uses for farm products."

All-University Radio: Questions

This year's round of the recurring debate over the feasibility of a single all-University radio station has begun.

The committee includes representatives from various student governing groups, the faculty and the two existing radio stations in the Brody and Shaw dorm groups.

Platt is reluctant at present to discuss specific proposals that have been made for the station.

Platt emphasizes the need to study not only these plans but any others which may come up in discussion.

The committee must determine how much need there is for such a station, and must define what its exact function will be.

The target date for the establishment of the station is winter term, but Platt admits that the end of that term may see discussions and planning still going on.

over the purposes of the station and other difficulties are bound to arise.

"It's going to be rough, real rough," Platt said.

It is indeed going to be rough to establish a station. The current disagreement within WBRS--involving Armstrong Hall's withdrawal from the Brody Radio hook-up--is a hint of things to come.

It will take a committee with some ability in politics and practical debate to reconcile the many issues involved and the several potentially conflicting views of the groups concerned with the station.

It must be determined just what its status in the University will be. Serious questions must be answered concerning the financing of the station and the sources of talent to staff it.

Platt said some answers may be provided by the University Publications Board, which supervises the operation of the State News, the Wolverine and other publications, and may have supervision over the station as well.

An all-University station could, if successful, serve a major function in providing a feeling of unity for a disparate University. It could, on the other hand, turn into an empty and pointless venture in dis-jockeying.

We will be awaiting significant developments from the AUSG committee, and will be ready to give enthusiastic support to any workable, intelligent plan which may be suggested.

Eternal Revenue Service

It is difficult not to sympathize with the sincerity of folk singer Joan Baez in her battle with the Internal Revenue Service.

As a result the "Eternal Revenue Service"--using her terminology--has her in a legal and financial bind which could go on for as long as she holds out on the payments and, we expect, could seriously hamper the success of her booming career.

It is difficult not to sympathize with her, but, on the other hand, it is difficult not to foresee a dim future for anyone who refuses to fall into line and go along with federal decisions regarding the use of the tax dollar.

Miss Baez' fight is a courageous one, but one which does not seem to promise an outburst of the kind of thinking she says she hopes to encourage.

The Strain Was Too Great

A class discussion on the futility of feeling too great an involvement in the affairs of the world was interrupted recently when a tape recorder--used by the professor to keep "notes" on the discussion--suddenly made a strange noise, stopped and started up again, its two reels spinning in opposite directions.

De Gaulle's Stubbornness Could Hold Up Alliance

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press International

An uneasy feeling about the future of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is again manifesting itself among nations of the free world.

The latest developments are not hard facts at all yet, but more in the category of unconfirmed reports. A rash of reports circulating in Paris suggests despite official denials that French President Charles De Gaulle is about ready to pull out of NATO.

It's also possible that France may leave the six-nation European Common Market.

The word in Washington is that U.S. officials expect a major crisis to erupt about the time of the NATO ministerial council meeting in Paris on December 1.

The speculation and rumors all boil down to the same thing.

De Gaulle is more than ever convinced that Britain is not ready for political union with the Continent and that there is an Anglo-American conspiracy to retain sway over Western Europe.

President De Gaulle is disappointed at the results of the French-German accord signed two years ago and irritated by West German refusal to lower grain prices according to the Common Market schedule.

De Gaulle continues to oppose the U.S.-proposed mixed-manned nuclear surface fleet for NATO as inimical to the interests of a united and independent Europe.

Now is the time to settle these and related issues once and for all.

Some observers believe the withdrawal of De Gaulle's 27 air squadrons and his two army divisions from the NATO defense shield will not greatly weaken it. It is undeniable, however, that such a move would deny French bases and communications to NATO and that could be serious.

The Common Market has helped to boom French industry and there's doubt that De Gaulle seriously contemplates pulling out of the trade group. And if De Gaulle really does seek increased European economic and political unity, he scarcely could abandon the one vehicle set up to accomplish it.

Pressure from the independent-minded French president vastly increases the problems of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, who is committed to the abolishment of all trade barriers within the six Common Market nations.

But the government support for grain prices is higher in Germany than in France and, with an election coming up next year, Erhard is not anxious to risk the important farm vote by lowering them. Erhard also has been among those demanding that Britain be allowed in the Common Market, a membership which De Gaulle has blocked.

At home, Erhard is under new attack from former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who is one of the strongest supporters of close cooperation with France. Adenauer appears to be trying to drive Erhard from office even before next year's elections. It's believed top-level American officials may go to Paris soon in an effort to avert a crisis in NATO. But as far as De Gaulle is concerned, he feels that he's operating from a position of strength and shows no sign of compromise.

Red Cedar Report

The State News staff chipped in and bought me a birthday present, a new madras straight-jacket. Happy birthday in February!

I'm not saying that the election campaign was dirty, but Mr. Clean stock went up 300%.

Well, we've got a new registration procedure now. The Administration says it's perfect--even the IBM computer can't figure it out.

Now that we have the "Meter Maids" to take care of parking tickets the regular campus police have more time for their important duties, like arresting the guys molesting the ducks.

I gave the MSU Development Fund $1.98 so maybe they'll name a dorm after me. Or there's always the new sewage plant.

My roommate always opens the paper and looks for this column first; then he goes and reads the rest of the trash.

Letters To The Editor

'Vette' Controls Needed

To the Editor:

When MSU's first traffic death occurred on campus Oct. 18, 1964, several police administration students surmised that the car might be a "Corvette." This turned out to be true.

Perhaps the MSU police have already had a talk with the various sports car clubs around the city to request their cooperation in abiding by the traffic safety regulations on campus. If not, perhaps this is a good time to engage in some "preventive-methods."

It is not easy to avoid the presence of the 15 or so, beautifully motored-up Corvette Club models that swing thru East Lansing and "gas-up" at MacDonald's. I'm sure the members of these groups would appreciate this interest on the part of our campus police and would readily comply.

Praise For Block 'S'

To the Editor:

I would like to let more people on campus know what a great job Bob Amsler and Block "S" is doing.

I'm a freshman and when I first came down to MSU, I didn't think I could ever develop an attachment or feeling of loyalty to a school this large. But, after a couple of card section practices and football games, I knew I was a part of Michigan State and that Michigan State was a part of me.

What I haven't been able to understand is why more people and organizations such as the State News, don't fully support Block "S" and try to help it all they can instead of making things difficult for everyone involved.

To see such enthusiasm by not only the hundreds of students that participate, but by the chairman and leaders as well is great and I wish more people would take a closer look at the combined card-section cheering club.

It has been said this year's Block "S" is one of the best, despite the rough start it had. Proof of this is that the first official MSU Pep Club may be formed as a result of Block "S".

If this organization has the backing of students and organizations it could really be developed into a fantastic thing, I hope so.

Lansing Film Fans Seek Support

To the Editor:

In Lansing, we are forming a small living room size film society to be known as the Exploring Cinema Society. Once a month we plan to screen 16mm. films that are controversial or/and creative.

Our first program will include "Boy," the film that was banned from WMSB-TV but praised by the Saturday Review of Literature. We would like to find a group on campus-- a dorm, a club, a fraternity or sorority that would be interested in forming a campus branch of the Exploring Cinema Society. We are an informal, non-profit organization.

Hello, Wrong Number, Want A Date?

To the Editor:

We feel that it is our duty and our right to inform you that we are the most popular girls on campus. Our phone rings at least thirty times a day.

However, since we are not Alpha Gamma Delta, Delta Zeta, Alpha Gamma Rho, Alpha Sigma Phi, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa Tau, Theta Chi, Triangle, or Zeta Beta Tau, not to mention two taxi companies, Bob, Pete, Bill, or Steve, the fire department, the police department, Louie's Cleaners, or Phil's Pizza Place, we never have any dates.

So please, if you're going to dial a wrong number, be 6'3", male, well built, and want a date. Thank you very much.

Viet Guerrillas Shoot Up Helicopters

VIET NAM--Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam have shot up two U.S. mercy helicopters and fired at dozens of others. The aircraft were on rescue missions to aid victims of floods which have drowned an estimated 12-hundred persons and left one million homeless.

At the same time...U.S. military spokesman in Saigon disclosed last week was the worst for the fighting Americans in Viet Nam. Seven were killed and 75 wounded during the week.

Democrats To Push Health Bill Through

WASHINGTON--The Democratic majority in Congress, biggest since Franklin D. Roosevelt's days, will push through a health care bill before mid-1965, administration supporters predicted Wednesday.

The plan to provide health services for retired persons through the social security system, a center of controversy for almost a decade, came closer than ever to enactment this year. The Senate approved a variation of the plan, but it died in conference between the two chambers. The House Ways and Means Committee has consistently backed its chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., in opposing the project.

Grenade Explodes In German Playground

HANAU, Germany--At least 34 school children were injured in Hanau, Germany, Wednesday when a grenade exploded in their playground. A boy--described as "feeble minded" by his parents--had found the grenade on the way to school and brought it with him. It exploded among 450 children playing during a recess.

Romney's Press Secretary Resigns Post

LANSING--Richard Milliman, press secretary for Gov. George Romney, resigned Wednesday to become editor and publisher of the Mount Pleasant Times-News.

Search Conducted For Missing Girl

ST. JOSEPH--Civilians and police agencies are conducting a search in Berrien County for a 11-year-old girl who disappeared near her home about 10 miles east of St. Joseph Tuesday.

The girl--Ann Zelenak--has been missing for 24-hours. She was last seen walking along a road near her home. A small plane, a sheriff's posse on horseback and other persons on foot and horseback are searching the Pipestone Township area where the girl lived.

Wives Respond To Hen-Pecked Husbands

STOKE ON TRENT, England--Twenty local wives announced Wednesday the formation of a club in answer to the Hen-Pecked Husbands Club. The wives called their organization the Domineers.

Their badge pictures a hefty woman smashing a plate over the head of a man. Asked why they chose such a militant title as the Domineers, one wife replied: "I look no man who's really hen-pecked is going to belong to a club that calls itself the hen-pecked husbands. First of all their wives wouldn't let them join it."

Tighter Court Practices Needed

LANSING--The president of the Michigan Justices of the Peace Association, George Hutter, said Wednesday tighter auditing practices and higher fidelity bonds could help prevent irregularities from occurring.

Among the irregularities found were cases where persons paid traffic fines, but court records indicated they served jail sentences instead. Saginaw County officials said at least $1,000 is involved.

Heavy Snows Mean Early Skiing

SAN FRANCISCO--California's Sierra Nevada Mountains are being lashed by heavy snows and gale force winds.

The San Francisco Weather Bureau reports snow depths up to 40 inches blocking mountain passes.

Drifting snow is hindering travel on all the major trans-Sierra highways.

Major ski resorts said they'll open this weekend--the earliest ever.

New British Government Raises Taxes

LONDON--Income tax has gone up for Britons...by about two-and-one-half percent. The new Labor government initiated the increase to pay for a "social justice" budget giving more benefits to widows and the jobless. The government says the higher income taxes "fall on the shoulders of those who can best bear them."

Drum And Bugle Corps Breaks Things Up

NORWICH, Conn.--A drum and bugle corps was tuning up for Veteran's Day festivities in Norwich when the vibration from the corps drums shattered the glass office doors of a local attorney--who was guest speaker at the patriotic exercises, after the parade.

Former Counterspy Attacks Indifference To Communism

The United States is losing the battle to the "Communist criminal conspiracy" because of the apathy and indifference of its citizens, Herbert A. Philbrick, former FBI counterspy, told 1,600 persons attending an anti-Communist rally Tuesday night.

Philbrick is the man who for nine years led the three lives of everyday citizen, Communist leader and FBI counterspy.

The Communists are succeeding according to Philbrick, because not enough people care enough to do anything about it. "If you attend an anti-Communist rally today," he said, "you're accused of being a right-winger, a radical or an extremist."

This is false reasoning, according to Philbrick. "Take me," he said, "I'm a liberal but I'm also strongly anti-Communist."

"There are two kinds of Communist groups operating today," he explained. "The Communist fronts and the actual Communist organizations."

"The front is composed of innocent individuals, non-Communists who don't realize what the group actually stands for. They usually think they're in a civic, patriotic organization."

"The fronts, according to Philbrick, serve as a transmission belt for Communist propaganda. He said they're the recruiting grounds for new Communist members."

"The actual organization is composed of full-fledged Communists who are members of the Communist criminal conspiracy. They're the hard-core party members who are planning the strategy and tactics of the movement in the U.S."

"After joining front after front, the unsuspecting person is asked to join the Young Communist League, YCL, an actual Communist organization."

"When they join the league,"

Philbrick said, "most persons are not Communists. But they soon learn there are no half-way Communists. They find out you cannot be loyal to your country, to God or to anything if you're going to be a party member."

Philbrick said there are three things we must do to overcome the Communist menace. "We must be dedicated to what Americans are supposed to believe in, we must have faith in God and we must educate everyone. The only way to survive is to have accurate knowledge of the enemy and his strategy."

and 11 p.m. because only 300 passengers use the system then.

On Saturdays, about 750 students ride the buses between 7:30 a.m. and 11 p.m. The main transfer points on the bus routes are Demonstration Hall and the Library, Borner said.

About 2,828 passengers use the commuter lot on weekdays. They average 1.2 passengers per car. There are 1,360 parking spaces in the commuter lot.

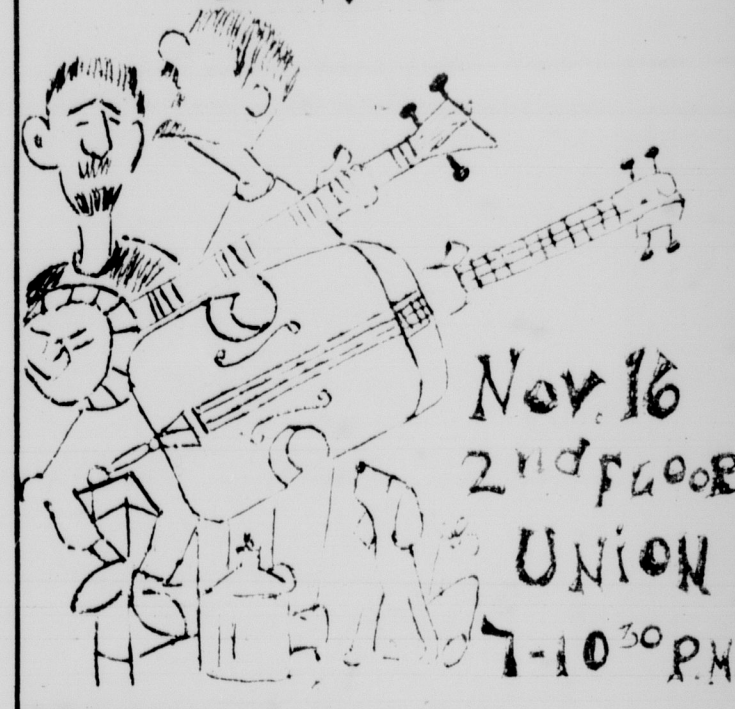

John Patriarche, East Lansing city manager, told the businessmen the parking regulation on campus have also affected East Lansing.

He said more cars now stay longer in the city parking lots. The percentage of those staying longer than four hours has more than doubled.

The percentage of parking spaces used has also increased, though the Valley Court lot is usually only half full. About 40 or 50 spaces are not used there, he said.

Patriarche said the city may consider a higher rate for cars parked longer than four hours in city lots.

IFC Sponsors Orientation

Inter-fraternity Council IFC will sponsor the first of three rush conclaves tonight from 7-10 p.m. at the Grand Old of Brody Hall.

The orientation program is designed to acquaint freshmen with campus fraternity life, but members of all classes may attend.

Each fraternity house will be represented, and students will have an opportunity to ask questions and talk informally with members.

Two other rush conclaves are scheduled for Nov. 17 in Conrad Hall and Nov. 18 in Wonders Hall.

Paper Slated For Study

Joseph Waldmir, assistant professor of American thought and language, will discuss "Two Contemporary American Novels of the Absurd: Joseph Heller's 'Catch-22' and Ken Kesey's 'One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest'" tonight at 8 in 34 Union.

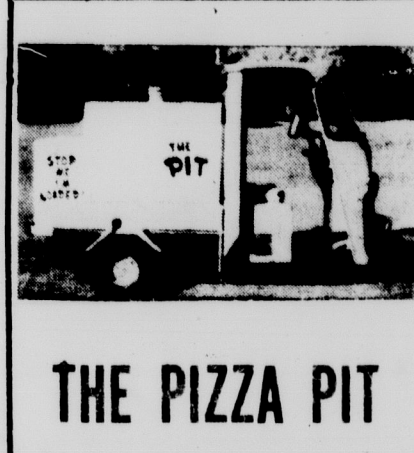

Waldmir's paper, the second in the current series of American Studies Seminars, was delivered this past spring at the University of Helsinki and is to be published in the autumn issue of "Wisconsin Studies in Contemporary Literature."

Next Wednesday, Virginia Rock will discuss "Conservatism in Southern Literary Agrarianism."

Air Force ROTC Initiates Closed-Circuit TV Teaching

By BUD CHAPMAN
State News Science Writer

The Air Force ROTC started using closed-circuit television for instructions Wednesday, and, ironically, the topic covered was the organization and mission of the United States Army.

Teams of Air Science sophomors, working from the MSU closed circuit television studios in Giltner Hall, briefed their fellow classmates in Bessey Hall classrooms.

The instructions were prepared and presented by the cadets as part of their study of military doctrine and the armed forces of the United States.

Lt. Col. George A. Davies, chairman of the Air Science Department, introduced each of three presentations made Wednesday.

He said, "the use of television by the Air Force was in keeping with AFROTC efforts to utilize the most progressive instruction techniques available in presenting current and vital material to the student."

In each of the three presentations eight or nine students gave talks on the various combat branches of the Army, according to Maj. Edwin J. Scarff, instructor for the class.

After the talks were given the class was opened for a question session in which the student lecturers answered their classmates'.

Air Force officials called the first try at the new system a large success.

Capt. Allan M. Jokela, Air Science associate professor, said that this new program is part of a new teaching idea developed by Headquarters AFROTC.

The new dialogue system was experimented with at 15 schools last year and early reports have indicated that it is very successful.

Capt. Jokela said that the dialogue system is similar to the graduate seminar.

He said that there are three different forms that are usually used:

1. The class is divided into teams and each team is assigned a subject which it must research and present to the class.

2. Round-table discussions are conducted in which each student studies all the subjects presented to the class in order to talk on any matter discussed.

3. The class is divided into two groups and each must be prepared to debate one side of an issue such as the unification of the armed services.

Capt. Jokela said that the value of the new teaching system was the interest shown by cadets.

Capt. Jokela said that because the use of closed-circuit television lends itself to this type of instruction it would probably be used more and more in the future.

Composer To Explain His Electronic Music

The electronic laboratory is giving birth to the newest musical form; a form that has no written score.

To explain the new world of electronic music Mario Davidovsky, Argentine composer and exponent of the advanced form, will give a lecture-concert 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Auditorium.

Davidovsky will discuss the technical and artistic aspects of electronic music and play tape-recordings of the new music.

Two of his "studies" on tape have recently been issued or long-playing records.

Electronic music is an advanced technique by which composers work with sounds produced electronically under laboratory conditions.

These sounds are then recorded on tape and the "musical" work is composed directly as a tape-recording. There is no intermediate written score. The music had its origin in experimental work of the 1950's, conducted chiefly in Germany. Interest in the electronic approach to composition has since spread to most other Western European countries and the Americas.

Davidovsky is currently assistant director of the electronic music center of Columbia and Princeton Universities.

His lecture-concert is co-sponsored by the Colleges of Natural Science and Engineering and the Department of Music.

NAACP Membership Continues To Climb

The majority of recruits in this week's campus NAACP membership drive are white, President Melvin M. Moore said Wednesday.

In the first three days of the week-long drive, 45 students, over half of them white, joined the MSU chapter, he said.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has increased its white membership on the national level considerably in the past few years.

Moore, Inkster senior, predicted the drive would bring the chapter's membership from 195 to 225 by Friday. The goal by the end of winter term is 300.

Moore said he was surprised during the drive by the number of students who do not understand the objectives of NAACP. "Many of them think all we do is picket," he said.

The membership drive is underway in the Union Concourse from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Friday.

Photograph Misleading

A student who had no part in the student protest against Dr. Fredrick C. Schwarz, president of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, but was shown in the picture on page three of Wednesday's State News, called the State News Wednesday to complain that he was being accused of taking part in the protest.

Only the students carrying signs were actually protesting, he said. None of the others were actively involved in the protest demonstration.

ATL Professor Voting Talk Set

He is being sponsored by Case Hall's coed culture committee. There will be a discussion period at the end of the meeting.

and complacency on the part of free people.

Many people, he said, say that "the only people who would waste an evening listening to Philbrick and Schwarz are the nuts, are the extremists, are the right-wing radicals."

"Well," he told the audience, "welcome to the club."

About 15 pickets were on hand to protest, but both Philbrick and Schwarz made light of them.

"I'd like to thank the picket line for advertising my book," Philbrick said, but he emphasized that he did not pay them to do so.

Schwarz said he was always grateful for the pickets. He told how they had appeared when he spoke at MSU Monday, and said he "made them promise they would be here."

"I'm told they came, too," he said. "Let's give them a hand."

Saturday Set For Annual Military Ball

The traditional Coronation Ball for Army and Air Force Reserve Training students will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in Kellogg Center.

The Arnold Air Society, an honorary organization of the Air Force ROTC, is managing this year's annual affair.

One of the highlights of the Ball will be the capping of approximately 19 young ladies who will serve as honorary corps sponsors.

These young ladies will be capped in a special ceremony by both the Army and Air Force students. They will serve as sponsors for next year's reserve students.

Maj. Edwin Scarff, coordinating officer for the Air Force, said that the annual Ball is held to expose the future officers to the type of formal activity they will encounter once they are on active duty.

He said that besides providing an enjoyable dance "the Ball gives the students a chance to join in the tradition of good fellowship."

The Army ROTC managed last year's Ball through their honorary organization the Cadet Officers' Club. The two services alternate the sponsoring of the affair each year.

Lt. Col. Charles Kell is the Army's coordinating officer.

'Did They Really Come?'

Folk Five Calls On Wonders

By PAM JAMIESON State News Staff Writer

The men of Woodbridge in South Wonders had five exciting visitors drop in at midnight Tuesday.

"You're kidding," said Dave Albery, house president. "Did they really come?" Albery and about 10 other men dashed out of their rooms and down the hall to the lounge.

Russian Club Meets Tonight

All students interested in the future of the MSU Russian Club are being urged to attend tonight's meeting at 7:30 in 33 Union.

The business meeting will consist chiefly of electing officers. Students interested in running attended a pre-election caucus Wednesday.

Following the business meeting, everyone will have the opportunity to learn some popular Russian folk-songs. Refreshments will be served.

The Modern Folk Quartet (MFQ) and Judy Collins had accepted Woodbridge's invitation to come to North Wonders after their concert in Fairchild Theatre Tuesday night, attended by nearly all of Woodbridge house.

The MFQ, Tad Diltz, Chip Douglas, Cyrus Faryar and Jerry Yester, have been together since they met in Faryar's coffeehouse, "Greensleeves," in Honolulu two years ago. The group puts their four-part blending ability to use in many different kinds of songs. "We'll sing whatever sells," said Diltz, short, surfer-haired banjo player of the group.

All four of the singers mentioned frequently their new album coming out in the spring.

Yearbook Picture

The International Club yearbook picture will be taken at 7:45 p.m. today in the fourth floor parlors of the Union.

All members of the International Club are requested to be present.

As sort of a "feeling out" plan, they are also releasing 12 singles to find out what the public wants.

Miss Collins, who is touring with the MFQ but appears in concert as a single, discussed combining politics and folksinging.

The temptation to influence an audience with your personal political views is great, said Miss Collins. But she disapproves of campaigning while entertaining, and said that there is ample opportunity to let your views be known.

"For example, an informal situation like this," she said, "is a fine time and way to express your personal attitudes."

Al Curtis, North Wonders graduate assistant, left the meeting to make coffee for the guests, but by the time it was finished, the five had to leave. They went back to their rooms in Kellogg Center for a few hours' sleep before hitting the road again for a concert in New York City tonight.

Scholar To Speak About Shakespeare

Harry Levin, a distinguished American literary scholar, will present a special lecture on Shakespeare Friday in the Kiva of Erickson Hall.

The lecture, which is open to the public, is one of a series scheduled this month to celebrate the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

Levin is chairman of the Department of Comparative Literature at Harvard University. He is the author of nine books of literary criticism, including "James Joyce: A Critical Introduction," "Contexts of Criticism," "The Power of Blackness: Hawthorne, Poe and Melville" and "The Question of Hamlet."

A reception for Levin will be held in the Kiva following his lecture.

Gas Mask Tests Make Green Men Greener

By JEANETTE RUCINSKI
State News Staff Writer

While walking past Jenison Field House many students have been shocked by strange figures in green Army fatigue uniforms, combat boots and black gas masks running a seemingly pointless race.

These "green men" are 16 MSU varsity track men who are testing a new gas mask for the Chemical and Research Development Laboratory with headquarters at the U.S. Army's Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland.

Under the direction of Dr. Wayne VanHuss, director of the Human Research Laboratory, distance and middle distance runners are attempting to determine how much work can be accomplished while wearing the new mask. Conventional gas masks filter harmful gasses through a canister strapped on the wearer's side. The newly developed mask is self-contained with all filtering apparatus included in the face mask.

Since July 1 three main tests have been applied to measure effectiveness of inhalation and exhalation while the mask is being worn.

With electrodes taped to their backs and chests the runners attempt a half-mile track run, a 10 mile-per-hour pace run lasting as long as the runner holds out and a standard run for two and a-half minutes on a treadmill operating at 10 miles per hour. At the end of each test, blood and gas samples are collected to determine the effects of work on the test subject's body.

Track men are being used because their good physical condition and training enables them to respond consistently to the tests.

Chosen because of previous background in this type of testing and the availability of track men, the MSU Human Research Laboratory is under contract to the Army for the experiment.

Defense Progress Depicted In 'Trailing Lewis, Clark ...'

The Strategic Air Command rolled out the red carpet for the colonel that followed Lewis and Clark.

Offutt Air Force Base, Kansas, headquarters of the Strategic Air Command, opened the base to Thayer Soule for the first time. "Trailing Lewis and Clark to Oregon," to be shown 8 p.m. Saturday in the Auditorium.

"Soule had written the Pentagon for permission to visit and photograph the base for his travelogue, but he hadn't anticipated the warm welcome he got," Wilson Paul, director of the Lecture-Concert series, said.

"They even addressed him by his old marine title of colonel," he said.

Soule photographed the Air Force base to compare the modern American defense system with the frontier defense of the days of Lewis and Clark.

"Trailing Lewis and Clark to Oregon" tells the story of the expedition itself and shows the changes that have occurred in the 169 years since the expedition.

"Contrasting historical events and landmarks with the changes brought by progress has not been done much for America, although it is a method constantly used for European travelogues," Paul said.

In "Trailing Lewis and Clark," Soule includes visits to Promontory Point, to Louis and its connection with the Lindbergh flight, a restored Indian village, the smokejumper's of Missoula, Mont., Yellowstone and Crater Lake, Oregon.

Soule decided on a photography career at the age of seven and by his freshman year in college he was earning pocket money with his film programs.

A 1939 graduate of Harvard University, he became production assistant to Burton Holmes, the man who first coined the word "travelogue."

Now in business for himself as a member of Associated Film Artists, Soule has traveled through more than 70 countries.

Carnival To Provide Activity Smorgasbord

An organization smorgasbord, with everything from Scottish highlanders and folk singers to guns and rifles, is being set up for the Activities Carnival Nov. 16.

All major governing bodies, religious organizations, honor societies, clubs and political groups are planning exhibits for the carnival, said Jim Simpson, chairman of the event.

The All University Student Government, sponsor of the carnival, has reserved the entire second floor of the Union for displays and programs.

A free hootenanny will open the carnival at 7 p.m. Another hootenanny will be offered later. The highlanders and square dancers will perform between them.

Hosts, hostesses and information booths will be new to the carnival this year, Simpson said. Students will be directed to organizations in their fields of interest through a topic index at the booths.

The carnival is planned to give students the chance to become familiar with campus clubs and student organizations. These organizations will be introducing themselves in a variety of ways, he said.

The Association of Women Students is planning a mock judiciary to explain the rules for coeds. An extensive display of weaponry is planned by the Rifle and Gun Club, he said.

Representatives of the Packaging Society will be on hand to laminate student ID's without charge, Simpson said. Several groups are also planning to show films throughout the evening.

Detroit Newspapers Closer To Settlement

DETROIT (UPI)—Local 10 of the Paper and Plate Handlers Union voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to end their 121-day strike against the Detroit news and Detroit Free Press.

But the papers cannot print until a similar agreement is reached with striking pressmen.

President Bart Piscitello of Local 10 says his local members voted by a 93-8 majority to accept the new contract.

The Detroit Newspaper Publishers Association, which represents the News and Free Press, is scheduled to meet today at 10:30 a.m. with the bargaining committee of Local 10 of the Printing Pressmen's Union.

State and federal mediators said Tuesday the only issue separating the Pressmen and Publishers Association was the size of crews on new eight unit presses at the news. The association wants the new presses manned by a 15-man crew, while the pressmen have demanded 16-man crews on the presses.

Piscitello says the plate handlers dropped one of their major demands in reaching agreement on a new contract. That demand called for payment of a premium time-and-one half for Saturday night work at the Free Press.

He said the local won the other major demands it had made. They included:

A welfare plan that is "one of the best in this area." But he did not reveal any of the specifics of the plan.

A fourth week of vacation after five years seniority. Piscitello said it meant that about 90 percent of the members of the local are eligible for the added vacation which will help make more jobs.

Alexander Schuster, conductor of the University Orchestra from 1938 to 1953, returns to conduct the overture for the orchestra's opening concert at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Auditorium.

The University Symphony Orchestra will open its 1964-65 season with a concert devoted to works by Beethoven, Roussel, and Brahms.

During his years as conductor, Schuster, now professor emeritus of music, brought concert artists like Schnabel, Feuermann, Platigorsky, Cadadesus, and Zimbalist to play concertos with the students.

Schuster will conduct the overture, "Leonora No. 3" by Beethoven in this first concert of the season. The opening program also includes "Concert pour Orchestre" by Roussel and "Third Symphony" by Brahms.

Gomer L. Jones, professor of music and present conductor of the University Orchestra, will conduct the Roussel and Brahms works.

Jones, who also directs the University Chorus, was appointed conductor last fall.

The 78-member orchestra rehearses five hours a week to prepare for the eight-concert season. The orchestra will perform at Central Reformed Church, Grand Rapids, Tuesday.

With the University Chorus the orchestra will perform Handel's "Messiah," Part I-complete, Dec. 6, for the annual Christmas concert.

Admission is free for all performances except the Mozart opera, "The Marriage of Figaro" in May 1965.

'14 Hours Solid Basketball' Highlights Weekend Clinic

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

More than 400 prep basketball coaches will saturate MSU's campus this weekend for the 12th annual High School Basketball Clinic.

Coaches from Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan are expected to attend the colorful two-day event.

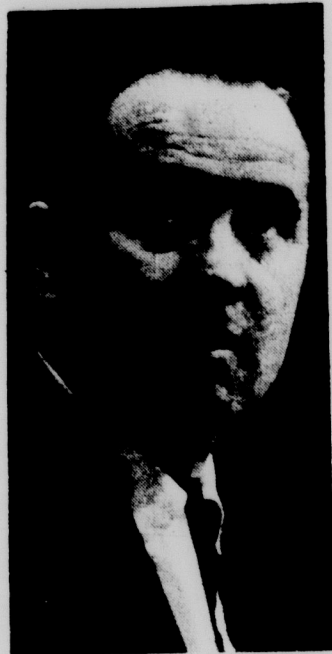

Assemblage of the coaches in Kellogg's Auditorium Friday morning kicks off the clinic. "We'll give them 14 solid hours of straight basketball," said MSU cage head Forddy Anderson, who is conducting the clinic.

Anderson, a veteran of several clinics, said he has chosen the best features from previous endeavors to include in this one and is eliminating the less successful components of past clinics.

"We try to present a different approach to basketball every year," he said.

Using the latest techniques in teaching aids, Anderson will address the 10 p.m. gathering. He will talk on the various phases of basketball, invoking several of his theories on the game. Theory becomes actuality when the coaches move to the Men's IM arena where Anderson and stressing fundamentals, follows the demonstration.

The clinic's highlight, a Frosh-Varsity game at 8 p.m. in the arena, is followed by a semi-social gathering at the Elks Club in Lansing.

Instructional films and discussion of the clinic takes place during an informal meeting, capping the day.

A wrap-up of the clinic, including films of the scrimmage and a panel discussion, is scheduled for Saturday morning.

Anderson, who rates the clinic as "one of the best in the country," has devoted many hours to insure success.

Ray Mears, head basketball coach at Tennessee, will be the guest coach. He offers an interesting contrast to Anderson's theories on the game of basketball.

Mears, whose team captured second place in the tough Southeastern Conference and who has a life-time record of 150-42, stresses defense and percentage shooting while Anderson is an advocate of high-scoring and fast-breaking.

LOOKING THEM OVER—Burt Smith, AUSG's selection as "Coach of the Year" last season, checks the progress of his freshmen team. The squad will be matching talents with the varsity today when the two teams clash at the IM Building.

IN FROSH FOOTBALL

All-Staters Occupy Each Of 11 Positions

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

Ask MSU freshman football Coach Burt Smith what would be his vision of a frosh "dream team," and he might tell you: "A high school All-Stater at every position."

And, for those who think it may sound a bit ambitious, Smith could do one better—show it to them.

"There is at least one All-State player for every position," Smith explained, while scanning the frosh roster. "Some spots, especially halfbacks, are even supplied with three or four All-State players."

In all, a record number of 13 athletes boasting histories of state-wide honors can be found in the daily work-outs at Old College field. Nine of the members are from Michigan and the other four from out-state.

Smith attributes the high caliber of freshman talent to the intensive efforts of the various assistant coaches under Duffy Daugherty.

"We began early during last fall's football season in selecting the outstanding high school talent from Michigan and across the nation," Smith said. "We knew State would need such players to fill vacancies that arise with each graduation on the varsity."

Smith noted the increased competition amongst different schools when bidding for gridironers who were conference leaders. He pointed to the increasingly fierce recruiting programs of other Big Ten universities.

"With this in mind, we were selective in number and tried to get only the best," Smith said. "There could be no margin of error."

Smith admitted that most of the candidates were attracted by grants-in-aid. Out of the 26 prospects considered, 24 accepted tenders.

"Our biggest attraction," said Smith, "is the fine football climate we have here. For this, we are quite fortunate."

Smith said that for the past

The NEWS In SPORTS

six weeks of practice, the main emphasis has been on fundamentals, with particular stress on the basic offensive and defensive patterns.

Considered by the freshman coaches as good fullback prospects for next year's varsity are Hawaiian-born Bob Apisa, Mitch Prulett and George Chatlos.

Those showing the best ability at the halfback positions are Jess Phillips, Wade Payne, Sterling Armstrong and Drake Garrett, one of the nation's most sought after high school players.

At quarterback Chris Combs, James Raye and Dan Stamos head the list.

John Whalen, Jim Juday, brother of quarterback Steve Juday, and Bill Durr are the best prospects for the end positions.

Interior linemen include Larry Smith, Anthony Conti, Dennis Miller and Joe Przybycki, the only All-American selection on the team.

"The coaching staff feels very successful with the results of the recruiting program," said Smith. "This is a well represented freshman team."

Grid Rookies Square Off In Intrasquad Tilt Today

The Green and White squads will start out even for today's intrasquad game at Spangin Stadium but that's no guarantee they'll be even at the finish.

Game time for the contest is 1:30 p.m. and there will be no admission charged.

Coach Dick Proebstle of the Green squad and Ted Guthard of the White made certain they'll start out on square terms by flipping again earlier in the week.

The game will be played under Big Ten rules with the exception of substitution. Each team will be allowed free substitution during the contest.

Up until this season, the Green-White clash marked the climax of the frosh fall practice.

This year, however, the freshmen will have a chance to participate in two contests.

Battle With Injuries Plagues Notre Dame

Injuries to three key Notre Dame gridgers could force the Irish to reshuffle their lineup for Saturday's contest with the Spartans.

Left halfback Bill Wolski, tackle Jim Carroll and guard Jim Lynch are still listed as "questionable" participants for the MSU contest.

Wolski, who pulled a leg muscle in the Pittsburgh game, is ND's leading ground gainer.

Carroll, who leads the Irish in tackles, suffered a knee injury against the Panthers.

Lynch missed Saturday's game after sustaining a bruised knee in the Navy game.

The Spartans will enter the contest in good physical and mental condition.

They have been undergoing heavy workouts all week but will ease up tonight.

The Green and White will leave Lansing by train tomorrow at 1 p.m. and will run through a brief workout at Notre Dame.

Soccermen Relaxing After Title Deadlock

MSU soccer players have been enjoying an off-week, catching up on their studies and awaiting the close of the regular season, which is this Saturday.

The undefeated Spartans' 1-1 tie with St. Louis, last Saturday put them in a stalemate with the Billikens for top Midwest honors. Coaches from the Midwest will vote for the top team next week, and in all likelihood St. Louis will get the nod.

MSU, which finished out the season with a 7-0-2 record, will still snare in the Midwest Collegiate title.

MSU's first-round opponent and the site of the playoff in the NCAA tournament will be announced Nov. 15, with play beginning Nov. 20.

St. Louis, the defending NCAA champion, will play the third-ranked team in the Midwest.

The winners of the first and second rounds will advance to the championship finals, to be held at Brown University, Dec. 3 and 5.

Coach Gene Kenney has not called for any practices this week, although some of the players have been working out on their own. Official practice will be resumed next Monday.

The Mystery Of Copper Cliff

Hockey Team Has Answer

By BOB KAMINSKI
State News Sports Writer

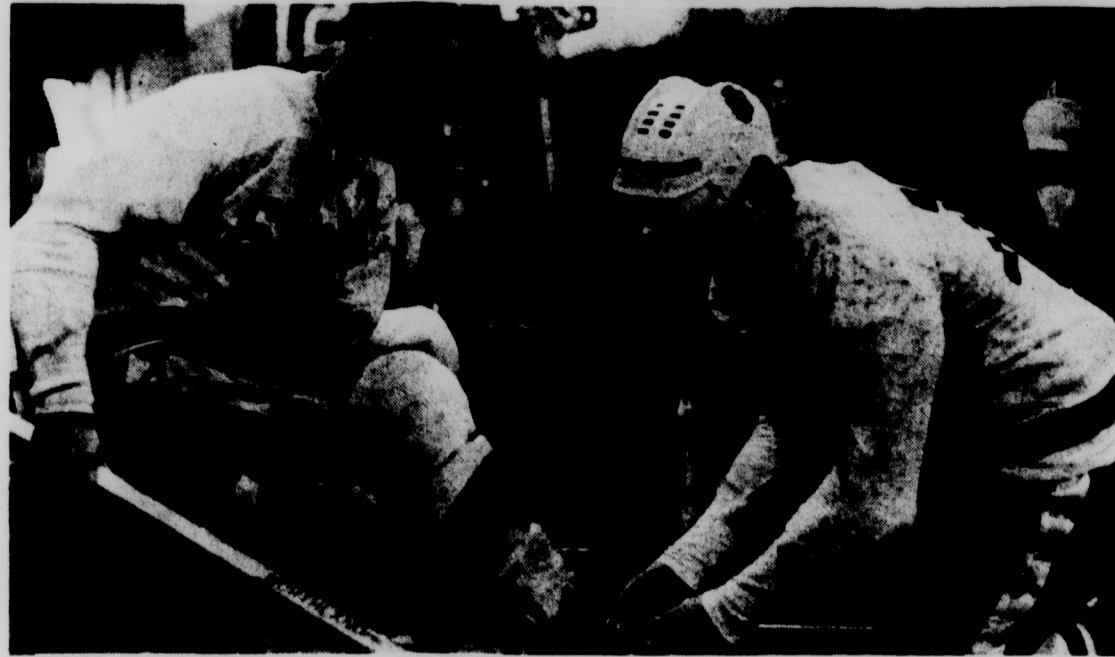

The Sudbury, Ont., suburb of Copper Cliff may be unknown to most people around MSU, especially since it is over 500 miles from East Lansing. But, around the MSU Ice Arena, it is quite the familiar town.

Hockey Coach Amo Bessone has been tapping members of the Copper Cliff High School entry in the Northern Ontario High School League for the MSU varsity on many of his recent recruiting trips.

This year an entire line of Copper Cliff sophomores, Mike Jacobson, Tom Mikkola and Sandy McAndrew, will be leading Bessone's crop of new players as they will be trying to improve on last year's mark of 1-12-1 in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

"This is certainly going to be a rebuilding year," Bessone said. "We have only two veterans back on defense, Don Heaphy, who's also from Copper Cliff, and John Ford. The other four defense positions will all be filled by sophomores."

Despite the small size and inexperienced defensemen, this is not the greatest of Bessone's problems as he whips the team into shape for their Thanksgiving Day opener against St. Lawrence University.

"Our biggest problem is in the nets," Bessone said. "We are very shallow in goaltending experience."

Alex Terpay, a convert from center ice last season, is currently number one in line for the starting job in the nets, but he is being pressed hard by sophomore Carl Howell.

Jerry Fisher, who has the most experience of the three, will not be competing for the starting job.

Up front on the forward lines, Bessone plans to lead with his only veteran line of Rich

Hargreaves, Mike Coppo, last season's sophomore scoring surprise, and Mac Orme, last year's leading scorer who will be eligible until January.

After this combination, Bessone will be forced to counter with all sophomore lines.

"Due to heaviness of the squad this season we are going to change our style of play," Bessone said. "In the past we used to use our speed more. This year we are going to throw more of our weight around."

The hardest battle in practice this year has been Bob Brawley, a rugged new defenseman from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Another question mark facing

OLYMPIC MEDALIST ON SQUAD

Outlook Bright For Swimmers

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

Spartan swimming fans are hoping that during November they'll learn the inside story about MSU's chances this year. The outside story was concluded two weeks ago when the swimmers worked in the IM outdoor pool for the final time this fall.

The squad then moved indoors, intent on stepping up their practice pace for the forthcoming season.

Coach Charles MacCaffree has begun working the squad vigorously and has announced that double sessions will get underway as the season opener approaches.

The Spartans will start their schedule on Dec. 5 with the Michigan Collegiate meet, but the real test will begin after Christmas when the Green and White battle for honors in the Big Ten.

Last year, MSU finished fifth in the conference meet after chalking up a 6-2 mark during dual competition.

This season the Spartans have most of their team returning and will have the services of several newcomers who could blossom into outstanding performers.

Best known of the newcomers is Craig Dilly, who has already made a name for himself.

Dilly placed second in the Olympic 200-meter backstroke competition at Tokyo and will be a welcome addition to the MSU squad when he enters school during winter term.

Bert Desmond, Bob Wolf and transfer student Bob Smith are expected to back up Dilly in the event.

One of the brightest spots in the swim picture is the return of the Spartan 400-yard freestyle team which captured first place in the Big Ten meet at Minneapolis last spring.

The relay squad was composed of Jim MacMillan, Darryl Kifer, Dick Gretzinger and Bob Sherwood.

MacMillan, a sprinter, was named the outstanding member of last year's team as a sophomore.

Kifer and Sherwood, both juniors, are also sprinters and Gretzinger, a senior, works in the individual medley and butterfly.

In the middle distances, the Spartans will be counting on sophomore Ed Glick, junior Denny Hill, Ken Walsh and Joe Buys.

Glick earned fame at MSU last spring when he won a three-mile marathon race at the Barbados Islands.

Terry Hagan was a steady butterfly performer last season and will take part in the event this year. He'll be backed up by sophomores Danny Harner and John Ladd and Dick Mull.

In the breast stroke, the Spartans will have the services of veterans Jack Wheeler and Mark Hunt, along with sophomore Jack Marsh.

Ken Genova and Jim Gierach will handle diving chores for MSU in their first season as Spartan regulars.

MSU meets are held at the IM pool and are free to students.

Band Makes 1st Trip

State's 175-man marching band will make its first trip of the year Saturday when it travels to South Bend to perform at the MSU-Notre Dame football clash.

The band will present a 10:30 a.m. concert at South Bend's Courthouse Square, then put on pre-game and halftime shows at the afternoon game.

For its halftime show the bandmen will set their famed "patterns of motion" marching style to four musical hits from past band performances.

Directed by Leonard Falcone, the band will play "Toot-Toot Tootsie," Henry Mancini's "Not from Dixie," the spiritual "Joshua" and "When the Saints Go Marching In."

The latter number, featuring a special musical arrangement by Assistant Director William C. Moffitt, opens in concert fashion and builds into a rousing Dixieland production.

Britons Visit Campus

Debators Comment On Girls

"I wish American girls would either lengthen or shorten their pants." That was Michael Beloff speaking.

"Preferably shorten." And that was Jonathan Aitken speaking.

The pair is the Oxford Debating team, on campus Tuesday for the MSU-sponsored International Debate with Oxford.

"Aren't you afraid of being accused of extremism?" Michael asked him, referring to his waiting shorter shorts on women. The two don't especially care for girls' Bermudas.

Michael, to be sure that the "typical" British opinion on American politics be presented, said that personally he preferred

Bobby Baker, Clare Booth Luce and Adlai Stevenson--in that order. But he wouldn't say why...

"With a name like Beloff, it's a wonder that they let me talk here."

Michael is a member of the British Labor Party, the left-wing of English government. But he hastened to say that he isn't what we call "Communist," maybe a little "pink," though.

On the other side of the fence is Jonathan, who is president of the Oxford Conservative Association (quite different than the American conservatives, he added).

The two commented on a variety of subjects, with Michael doing most of the talking.

He explained, "Jonathan is the man of action."

Michael insisted that their opinion of American girls be recorded.

"They are more aggressive here, but friendlier," he said, with a wink for Jonathan.

"But less feminine," Jonathan put in.

It had been reported that the debaters were unaccustomed to facing women debaters. Michael soon dispelled this idea.

"We will butcher them always, and show them no mercy," Michael growled.

One very important thing they didn't have an opinion about was, surprisingly enough, the MSU campus. They were sure that it would be "lovely" if they had seen it. A tour of the campus was crossed off when Tom Steinfatt's car's starter broke. Tom is the MSU Forensics coach. So they were resigned to tour Lansing in an unregistered car.

Just so they could have something down about MSU they wanted it known that Kellogg Center was "very lovely."

"I knew you'd ask that," Jonathan said, referring to a question about Britain's Beatles. Jonathan is wild about them, and has even eaten with them. "They eat like any other group of animals," he offered.

"American women are suckers for British accents," Michael said, sounding very British.
