Life As Negro Related

By PAT SANCHEZ
State News Staff Writer

A white man can never realize what it's like to be a Negro in the South until he experiences it himself.

John Howard Griffin, author of "Black Like Me," did experience it. He told an audience of 1,500 in the Auditorium Wednesday night, what it's like to be a Negro.

"The most heinous aspect of racism," Griffin said, "is the continual and subtle eroding away of self-respect. It starts very early in life and can be quite total."

Griffin's knowledge of both sides of the problem puts him in high demand as a consultant on the racial problems in the South.

There were 65 documented cases of physical damage to Negroes in Mississippi from January to June of 1964 on which no police action was taken, he reported.

"I was called down to Mississippi after the 6th crime to speak to the Negro community and keep them from rioting."

Griffin spoke of another case in which he interviewed a Negro woman whose son's body had been found in his car. The mother said there was a large cavity in his chest and several holes in his head, although the coroner attributed the death to heart failure.

Raised in the South, he said he did not realize his own prejudice until he was sent to Europe for his education. He saw what racism really was when he witnessed "the massive human tragedy" of the Nazi persecution.

Blinded in a bombing at the end of the war, he returned to the South. During his 11 years of blindness he said he realized that there had never been any communication between the Negroes and whites. With his sight partially restored by surgery, he started his campaign in 1959.

A New Orleans dermatologist helped him find a chemical that would pigment his skin. He kept his name and background and changed nothing but his color. As a Negro, he applied for jobs in five Southern states and was refused every one. Soon he gave up trying.

Society, he said, forces the Negro into his stereotype. If he varies, he will be called a bad Negro and "taught a lesson." This pressure keeps the Negro from thinking of anything above his conditions.

"What most Southern whites don't realize," Griffin said, "is that these conditions strangle the white population as well as the Negro." He quoted the policing in Mississippi as an example.

For his work on this controversial problem, Griffin has been burned in effigy in his own home town.

Johnson Confident

Taylor To Stay In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (P)--President Johnson expressed "full confidence" Thursday in Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and said he will stay on in South Viet Nam.

White House Press Secretary George Reedy and the State Department joined in Johnson-authorized public statements supporting Taylor following speculation that the U.S. envoy's effectiveness in Saigon has been impaired by Wednesday's coup.

Taylor has been at odds with Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the South Vietnamese strongman who tossed out the U.S.-backed civilian regime of Premier Tran Van Huong.

Reedy said Johnson is not replacing Taylor, who replaced Henry Cabot Lodge last June. "The President has full confidence in Ambassador Taylor and will retain him there," Reedy said.

"There is no basis for speculation concerning his (Taylor's) position," added Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey at the State Department.

Wednesday Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., concluded that the Saigon coup means Taylor now has outlived his usefulness there. Some other Congress members disagreed.

Meanwhile the Johnson administration is continuing to withhold public judgment about the new government being set up by Khanh. But it is doing business with the new regime, including going ahead with the large-scale U.S. aid in fighting Red Guerillas.

McCloskey said the United States has supported military governments before and, in the case of Viet Nam, "we are willing to support a government in Viet Nam which has the support of the Vietnamese people."

However, State Department officials take the position that more information about what Khanh intends is needed to determine whether the next regime will qualify in U.S. eyes as having the necessary support of the people.

The officials said Khanh appears to be deeply concerned about winning the war and wants a strong government.

Katzenbach Selected By LBJ

WASHINGTON (P)--Nicholas Katzenbach, who has been acting head of the Justice Department since last September, was named attorney general Thursday.

His nomination to the cabinet post was sent to the Senate along with President Johnson's selection of Ramsey Clark to succeed Katzenbach as deputy attorney general. Clark, 37, is a son of Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark of Texas, who was attorney general in the Truman administration.

Johnson's action ended months of speculation about who would replace Robert F. Kennedy as attorney general. Kennedy resigned last September to campaign for the New York Senate seat he won in the November election.

Katzenbach, tall and balding at 43, took over as acting attorney general when Kennedy left. The first public indication that Johnson had about made up his mind came at one of the inaugural balls last week when the President omitted the "acting" in referring to Katzenbach as "the Attorney General."

Last night the Johnsons had the Katzenbachs in for a cozy White House supper and broke the news.

"He was very gracious about it," Katzenbach told newsmen Thursday. He added:

"I am very honored to be asked by the President to be a member of his cabinet and to head the Department of Justice. I'll do the best job I can. I think it's a great department, and its greatness depends on the people in it."

Congress Blueprints Plebiscite Procedure

By JO BUMBARGER
State News AUSG Writer

Student Congress set down a blueprint Wednesday night for presenting proposed changes in the student government constitution, despite a plea from Jack Armistead of the re-evaluation committee to table the bill for several weeks.

The bill, introduced by Jim Graham, North Wonders representative, states that a program presenting both pro and con sides of reorganization programs be presented in South Campus, East Campus, West Circle Drive, Brody, and Shaw and Bogue Street residence hall complexes and that another meeting be held for off-campus students at different times.

Proposals must also be presented to each major governing body before a referendum on constitutional amendments may be held.

Armistead asked that Congress delay action until members saw what the re-evaluation group was planning to present and how it planned to present its ideas.

Graham replied that the bill was to affect any group which might want to change drastically student government, not just this year's re-evaluation committee. He suggested that the group should have talked to committee meetings about the bill before, although Bruce Osterink, re-evaluation committee chairman, was at the first committee meeting.

Congress also voted to allot $1,550 to insure an honorarium for Martin Luther King who will speak here Feb. 11.

An amendment to invalidate student referendums unless 15 per cent of the eligible student body votes was cut to 8 per cent on second reading. It must be passed on third reading next week and by a general student referendum to go into effect.

Next week's meeting will be in the Shaw Hall lower lounge at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

National Gold Plan Proposed

WASHINGTON (P)--President Johnson asked Congress Thursday to ready itself in advance for quick and temporary tax cuts, if they are needed to protect indefinitely the high prosperity he forecast for 1965.

His annual economic report, suggesting only recessions can be abolished forever in the "Great Society" era, won a generally favorable reception in Congress.

The message -- rated "excellent," "encouraging" and "sensible" by most Democratic leaders--urged $1.75 billion of excise tax reductions at mid-year. This, said Johnson, would help to generate a $38-billion rise in production, matching last year's spectacular gain.

With it, he predicted, will come unprecedented family income, a record $61 billion in corporate profits, rising employment and some reduction in joblessness.

Congress gave its immediate attention to a different Johnson request--prompt removal of the requirement that government gold be used to back up 25 per cent of the bank deposits held by the Federal Reserve System.

"This would unfreeze enough gold to assure support of the dollar in world money market," Johnson said, while leaving untouched the similar 25 per cent gold "cover" on the nation's currency.

"There can be no question of our capacity and determination to maintain the gold value of the dollar at $35 an ounce," the President asserted.

The House Banking Committee scheduled hearings on the gold proposal next Monday and Tuesday, with administration officials as the opening witnesses.

In the Senate, Chairman A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., the banking committee promised prompt hearings while showing no particular enthusiasm for the proposal. Obviously more concerned with the country's basic imbalance of international payments than with the gold maneuvers, Robertson said the President's plan is "more in the nature of an aspirin tablet to deaden the pain rather than a permanent solution."

AF Code Called 'Sadistic'

AIR FORCE ACADEMY Colo., (P)--The honor code at the U.S. Air Force Academy was branded as "impractical" and "sadistic" Thursday by embittered parents who said they may ask Congress to probe the reasons behind the current cheating scandal.

So far 65 cadets have resigned from the Academy rather than face court martial and sources here said the figure may reach 300 before the investigation ends, expected around Feb. 10.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert said last week that more than 100 cadets, including about 30 football players, were implicated, but an Academy spokesman predicted this might be a weak estimate.

"The way they're moving, they could bring 300 into this thing," the source said. Some 700 are expected to be interviewed by a special panel of officers.

A big majority of the students apparently tainted themselves not by actually cheating but by failing to notify superiors when they found cheating existed.

"This is ridiculous--almost sadistic," one parent, who asked not to be identified, said. "For most of us, to snitch on our playmates has always been regarded as something as bad as cheating."

LBJ Asks To Amend Constitution

WASHINGTON (P)--President Johnson recommended Thursday that the Constitution be amended to reform the Electoral College and settle questions that might arise over presidential disability and succession to the presidential office.

In a message to Congress, he said the Electoral College system should be changed to wipe out what he called the "ever present possibility that electors may substitute their own will for the will of the people."

Voters in national elections do not cast votes directly for president. Instead they vote for electors who technically elect the president at a later date.

In some instances, electors have cast votes for the presidency for someone other than the person for whom they were chosen to vote.

Though it presumably has been long in preparation, the dispatch Thursday of a message dealing with disability took on a measure of dramatic quality from the fact that Johnson is recovering from a heavy cold and sore throat which stirred some momentary alarm, at least.

On his first day back at his office desk--and only part of a day at that--he signed the message.

The Constitution is 178 years old, Johnson said, but it has conspicuous defects in the field with which he dealt Thursday.

College Bowl Tilts Sunday

Wonders - Wilson, Alpha Chi Omega-Phi Kappa Tau and Alpha Gamma Delta-Farmhouse will compete in the campus college bowl contest Sunday afternoon at 4.

The residence hall meet will be in Erickson Kiva, moderated by Alex Cade, assistant professor of social science and the Greek teams will meet in the Union ballroom, moderated by William Sweetland, professor of humanities.

Michigan Newspaper Representatives Meet

Representatives from more than 700 Michigan daily and weekly newspapers will gather for the 97th annual meeting of the Michigan Press Association today and Saturday at Kellogg Center.

Space, industrial and political topics will highlight the two-day convention.

Politics will dominate the scene this afternoon with the appearance of representatives from the State Senate and House.

Among those to appear are Rep. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, house speaker; Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit; Rep. Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe and Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis.

The MSU Board of Trustees will host MPA members at the 97th Anniversary Dinner this evening. President John A. Hannah will give his greetings to the group.

The main speaker will be Thomas F. Morow, group vice-president of the Defense, Space and Diversified Products, Chrysler Corp. He will speak on "Michigan Space Age Opportunities."

At a Saturday noon luncheon, George Griffin, chairman of the board of Young and Rubicam Advertising Agency, will discuss "The View from Madison Avenue."

Also to speak Saturday will be Theodore T. Jones, director of Administrative Services for Michigan, U.S. Post Office. His

Funeral Televised

Sir Winston Churchill's funeral procession and services in London will be televised Saturday 7 a.m. - 3:30 p.m., on WJIM-TV Channel 6.

Charles Collingwood, CBS commentator, will cover the procession from its start at Westminster Abbey, through central London to St. Paul's Cathedral, where the funeral service will be held.

After the funeral, Churchill's body will be taken to the pier at the Tower of London. From there it will go by barge to the Waterloo Station and then by train to the village of Bladon for burial.

WMSB-TV will not carry the funeral, but is trying to make arrangements.

EDITORIALS

Quantity vs. Quality

One of the main points of President Hannah's "State of the University" address Monday was the need for Michigan State to adopt a more aggressive recruiting policy for faculty members and to find ways to encourage students here to remain and teach.

Hannah emphasized the growing shortage of qualified college instructors, not only at MSU but all over the nation.

Michigan State, despite its growing stature and burgeoning enrollment, occupies no privileged position. Salaries, working conditions and hours, research facilities, and other incentives to teaching in a particular university must be able to compete with other universities, according to the unfortunate but undeniable practices of "faculty cannibalism."

Hannah proposed a recruiting center to aid departments of the University in finding talented faculty to lighten the load of expansion. This is a good idea, one which must be worked out in the practical terms of University operation.

A second proposal made in Hannah's speech is for a means of identifying among undergraduate students those who are suited for college teaching, in order to encourage them to remain here for graduate work and later teaching positions.

This would be almost a glorified combination counseling service and placement bureau, and as such would probably offend many sensitivities. Nevertheless, the need for teachers will become so much greater than it is now, as MSU develops to the projected enrollments we hear so much about, that some means of picking and keeping faculty members will become imperative.

One unfortunate implication of training students for teaching from their undergraduate years on is the chance that a greater portion of the teaching load will be placed on them.

One of the worst aspects of University expansion is the tendency to let graduate assistants and inexperienced instructors take over more and more of the teaching load. There would be a danger that a college teacher-training program would merely institutionalize this tendency and compound its dangers.

President Hannah has pointed to a crucial need of higher education, and has proposed two workable and concrete programs to keep the faculty growing and developing, according to MSU's needs.

But at the same time the faculty expands, its experienced leaders and promising young talents must be kept in the classroom, must be used to the fullest advantage in terms of inspiring students and teaching them what the University is really about. No graduate student, no matter how talented, can light as many fires in students' eyes and hearts as a competent and experienced professor.

Retaining the quality of teaching at the same time faculty and enrollments grow is one of the most difficult, and most important, tasks facing the University.

Yankee Know

Yankee Stores, Inc., whose boycott of goods manufactured in Mississippi was a factor in Robert Lee Green's near-resignation from the East Lansing Human Relations Commission, has continued its strong stand in favor of involvement in the pursuit of justice.

The chain banned Mississippi-made goods from its stores in an attempt to bring economic pressure on Mississippians until that state moves to prevent more crimes like the murder of three civil rights workers last summer.

Joseph Megdell, president of Yankee Stores, said in a paid statement in the Flint Journal Jan. 20 that that newspaper's editorial stand against the boycott was the moral equivalent of the threatening phone calls and letters which have plagued the store's owners since they adopted their stand.

Megdell said:

"Yankee's decision to boycott goods from Mississippi was not made because of 'displeasure with political and social conditions which exist in that Southern state.' ...

"There is a moral issue at stake in the constant misplacement of justice and in the face of multiple atrocities and the reign of terror in Mississippi. There is a moral issue at stake when men allow their own comfort and complacency to consume their leaving them helpless and unwilling to reach out to those who need help."

The stand of Yankee Stores is a brave and conscientious response to a situation which has brought indignant reactions of the entire nation, and one which is couched in the terms and tactics long considered valid. Economic pressures can effect changes that no amount of preaching can bring about.

The fact that the corporation's stand has brought responses from around the country and has aroused tempers all over Mississippi is proof of the potential effectiveness of such methods.

Yankee Stores, Inc. is to be congratulated for taking into its hands a major problem confronting the nation today. Others would do well to follow suit, and not to condemn the action.

Long Ago, Not Far Away

The traditions committee of Spartan Spirit is doing research on the background of customs and attitudes at MSU, in preparation for a booklet to be published next fall. In her research, Cindie Leitman, chairman of the committee, unearthed the following rules, which applied to codes of MAC in 1905:

--If a student appears in public with the same young man twice in succession she must tell the Dean whether she is engaged or not, and her mother will be notified of the answer.

--Upon deciding to come to MAC, please notify the Dean, and the College Bus will meet you with suitable chaperons.

--The Dean of Women will always be a person who has successfully withstood the wiles and temptations of mankind. She is your natural guardian and will advise as to the proper handling of your affections and the refrigeration thereof.

--It bugs the Dean to punish you more than it hurts you, but justice must be done.

--Room doors will be locked and bolted from the outside at 10 p.m., each night and armed guards will patrol the Women's Building at night. Anyone for a p.m. curfew?

Letters To The Editor

Johnson Editorial Much Too Critical

To the Editor:

Your editorial, Hello Lyndon, burns me up! You make it sound like our nation will move forward in spite of President Johnson instead of because of him. He has proven himself in the last 14 months under considerable hog-tying of him with the memory of Kennedy. It is writers like you who make it hard on him.

I believe that President Johnson has greater insight into the American people and their problems than Kennedy ever had. Kennedy was more interested in our foreign affairs than the home situation. Oh, I know he tried to initiate things like Medicare and civil rights but his main interests were foreign.

Aren't you being narrow-minded when you say that Wednesday should be by rights Kennedy's "second chance to stand before the world and pledge himself to the leadership of the United States"? How childish can you be?

When Truman was elected to the presidency was he taking away Roosevelt's chance of another term? We elect a vice-president so that in case something happens to our president we can carry on with competent and excellent leadership.

You are trying to make President Johnson into a carbon copy of Kennedy who happens to be your ideal. Well we're lucky he isn't because if he were a carbon copy he wouldn't think for himself and that would really be a disaster.

I'm sending this to you but I really doubt if you'll publish it unless you're more open-minded than you appear. I'm not the only one who feels this way.

You are right when you say, "He (Johnson) is an innovator, a leader, a dynamic force in American life entirely on his own."

GOP Offers Health Plan

WASHINGTON—Republicans offered Thursday a plan to provide health insurance for any citizen 65 or older, with the treasury paying most of the costs.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., offered the proposal as a substitute for President Johnson's hospital care plan, which would be financed mostly by an additional payroll tax.

Byrnes, speaking for most Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee, said his plan could cost $2.4 billion annually out of the general treasury if all the 18 million eligible persons chose to participate, but that many probably would not.

Moonport Construction Halted

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla.—Construction at the nation's $750 million moonport ground to a standstill Thursday as 3,700 building trades workers stayed off the job in a two-year-old contract dispute with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Government officials termed the work stoppage a wildcat walkout and said it would seriously affect vital U.S. space projects. They urged the workers to return to their jobs while differences were negotiated.

Representatives of NASA, the unions and the President's Missile Sites Labor Commission met to try to iron out the difficulty.

Conditions Same In Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam—Business as usual was the official word Thursday in dealings between the United States and South Viet Nam's new government, despite anger voiced privately by American officials at the latest agreement.

"Working conditions remain as they were," a U.S. spokesman said. And, "subject to legal examination if required," the United States recognizes the regime of Nguyen Xuan Oanh, newly chosen by Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh as acting premier.

Midwest Has Power Failure

OMAHA—Most of Nebraska and a large section of Iowa was blacked out Thursday by a 1:26-minute power failure which apparently was triggered by an equipment failure at Fort Randall Dam on the Missouri River.

Included was the metropolitan area of Omaha and Council Bluffs, involving some 450,000 persons. The mercury stood at about 5 degrees when the power failed.

At Watertown, S.D., power systems supervisor Frank Lachicotte of the Bureau of Reclamation dispatching center said the bureau was switching the affected area into its northern distribution network to restore power more quickly.

Guard Killed In Attack

EDMONTON, Alta.—Rifle fire killed a guard and dynamite blasts damaged three U.S. Air Force F84 jets in a mysterious attack on a plant at Edmonton's industrial airport early Thursday.

Police dogs rushed to the scene tracked down a German immigrant farm laborer, Harry W. Hubach, 36, after a 20-block run in the darkness between midnight and dawn.

City police filed a charge of murder against Hubach for the death of the guard, Theron J. Richardson, 48. The killer had left Richardson's body bound and gagged in the security office of the plant, Northwest Industries Ltd.

Churchill Gets Last Salutes

LONDON—Royalty mingled with charwomen, crippled veterans of World War II, bearded men and youths with beetle haircuts Thursday in a final, affectionate salute to Sir Winston Churchill.

The sombre procession wound past Churchill's coffin in majestic Westminster Hall, where England has honored her kings for centuries.

Behind them stretched a queue nearly two miles long that reached out to Lambeth Bridge and beyond.

Stock Market Tops 900

NEW YORK—The widely followed stock market barometer—the Dow Jones Industrial average—closed above the 900-mark Thursday for the first time.

The average of 30 industrial issues advanced 1.43 to 900.95. It topped 900 during trading Wednesday but fell below before the close.

A year ago the average stood at 787.78.

Churchill: A Man Of Many Nations

Very great historic figures have a way of presenting themselves at the crossroads of history, at decisive junctions in the fates of peoples. We have only to think of Alexander the Great or Julius Caesar, George Washington or Abraham Lincoln. Almost always there has been something special in their makeup or their heritage that has fitted them to take their historic opportunity.

Both these conditions are present in the career of Sir Winston Churchill to a striking degree.

Though he had been upon the public stage for nearly half a century before 1940, in that year he emerged not only as the decisive man of action but as an historic symbol in the fate of the English people. It is possible that Britain might have been borne down then and, though it is difficult to conceive of the ultimate subjugation of the English-speaking peoples, there might have followed a vast disarray—worse than that, a splintering up and splintering of what is, after all, the most hopeful federation of peoples in the world, the most promising and beneficent form of society.

At the same time, by birth and parentage, by his very nature, his inheritance from both sides, Churchill was uniquely fitted to express the deepest impulses, as well as some of the endearing foibles, of both main branches of the English stocks.

We can all recognize the two dominant strains, British and American, though there are other elements too, quite a strong Scot-

3 Resolutions Proposed

Campus U.N. Meets Tonight

By JIM HUCKA

Three resolutions are to be discussed at the regular meeting of the Campus United Nations at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Con-Con Room of the International Center.

The Kingdom of Cambodia and the Republic of Bolivia charge the United Kingdom with interference in the British Guiana elections. The resolution asks that the General Assembly advise the United Kingdom to return a district system of legislative representation in British Guiana.

Another resolution, submitted by Sweden, charges Australia with brutality on the Island of Tasmania. It asks the General Assembly to create an "ad hoc" committee consisting of representatives from the delegations of New Zealand, Cambodia and Rumania to investigate the situation and report results at the next meeting.

An honor to the late Sir Winston Churchill is proposed in the third resolution, submitted by the United States. The General Assembly is asked to observe a moment of silence in memory of the late British statesman.

Contributions will also be accepted at the meeting for Abraham Adedire, an MSU graduate and former secretary-general of the Campus UN. He is now in an Ann Arbor hospital with a serious kidney disease.

Presiding at Friday's meeting will be Joy Harrison, Morton Grove, Ill., sophomore, who moved up to the head position upon the resignation earlier this week of Joseph Warren, Pontiac junior.

Miss Harrison said there will be no elections for second vice-president at Friday's meeting. Barry Kolb, Philadelphia, Pa., junior now holds the position of first vice-president pro tem, she said.

She also said UN buttons would be available at the meeting.

CAGERS ARM FOR NORTHWESTERN

'People Who Live In Glass Houses...'

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

Northwestern's basketball coach Larry Glass is probably a troubled young man this week.

His cagers were hard-pressed before nipping Michigan State 75-75 last Saturday in East Lansing, and the victory-hungry Spartans are travelling to Evanston, Ill., Saturday seeking revenge. The game will be televised as the Big Ten "game of the week".

Glass admitted he was lucky to gain the one-point triumph but will probably also admit that he is extremely unfortunate in having to meet the Spartans so soon again.

State startled basketball followers Tuesday night by forcing number-two ranked Michigan into overtime before dropping a 103-98 heartbreaker.

In so doing, the Spartans proved they can play with the best in the Big Ten, if not the country, and the intense disappointment of just missing the biggest upset of the year could be just the spark needed for the Spartans to unleash their wrath.

However, when Michigan beat State two years ago, on a last-second shot by Wolverine guard Doug Herner, the narrow loss had a demoralizing effect on the Spartans and they lost the rest of their games that season.

But Michigan wasn't the number-two team in the nation then and coach Fordy Anderson said he felt the great effort against the Wolverines will have a positive effect on the team.

Anderson said the game was a morale-booster for the Spartans and has provided them with enough incentive to "go full tilt for every game from now on."

State, 0-4 in the Big Ten and 4-9 overall, will go with the same lineup that faced the league-leading Wolves.

Mark Vander Jagt has earned a starting forward spot. The 6-6 senior scored 11 points in relief against the Wildcats and came back with 12 against Michigan.

Junior Bob Miller is slated for the other forward post. Bill Curtis, who scored a career high of 36 points Tuesday night, is set at center. The 6-4 pivotman is averaging 30 points a game.

Stan Washington, top scorer on the team with a 20.6 average and leading rebounder, will be a ward along with Capt. Marcus Sanders.

The Wildcats will have a tight edge on the Spartans along with a home court advantage this time.

Northwestern is expected to start with 6-8 junior Jim Pitts at center with Jim Burns and Walt Tiberti in the guard slot. Ron Kozlicki and Don Jackson will be at the forwards.

Jim Cummins, whose last second shot won the game for the Wildcats last week, will also see action along with forward Rich Mason.

Grid's Jones, Washington Lead Sophs In Track Debut

By MIKE BROOKS
State News Sports Writer

State's largest and perhaps finest group of sophomore runners will get its first taste of varsity competition tomorrow when the Spartans open their indoor track campaign with a dual meet against Ohio State.

On this season's 34 man roster, 21 are sophomores. If this number doesn't sound impressive enough, maybe the versatility of these second year men will.

At least one sophomore is entered in 14 of the 15 events listed on Saturday's program.

The only event they have been left out of is the 1,000-yard run. The sophomores won these team berths in time trials held during the week. Only three men qualified to run in each event.

Coach Fran Dittrich is hopeful that the sophomores will grab their share of points, but cautiously admitted he would have to see them in actual competition before he could make a valid appraisal.

Dittrich will be keeping an especially close eye on his hurdlers this week end.

The sophomore trio of Clinton Jones, Bob Steele, and Gene Washington has run exceptionally fast times in recent trials, and will represent State in both the 70 yard high and low hurdles. State will be stronger in the distances and field events than in last year's 78-63 loss to Ohio State, according to Dittrich.

Last year the Spartans were only able to capture one-third of

A somewhat disappointing Purdue team has the next shot at league - leading Michigan Saturday as the Wolverines (4-0) travel to Lafayette, Ind., to highlight Big Ten basketball action. The Boilermakers have lost three of four conference games this season but Michigan, still unsteady after barely getting by MSU, is in a good position to be upset.

Wisconsin (1-3) is a winless Ohio State (0-4) to round out conference competition while third-place Illinois (3-1) meets tough Notre Dame, one of the Midwest's top independents.

Iowa, a surprising 4-1 second-place team, and fifth-place Indiana are idle.

the total points in the field events. In addition to the efforts of last year's indoor conference broad jump champ, Jim Garrett, State will seek points in other quarters.

Shot putters Tom Herbert and Gary Rugg will have to improve on pre-season efforts, but could help State's cause as could high jumper Mike Bowers, a sophomore who is due to climb back to the heights he reached last year.

Bill Schnarr, a junior pole vaulter who has seen little past action, will have to soar much higher, even with the absence of Ohio State's 10-foot vaulter Bob Neutzing.

In the distance events, veterans Mike Kaines, Eric Zemper, Paul McCollam, and Jack Amie will welcome the added strength provided by sophomores George Balthrop and Keith Coates.

Another sophomore, Daswell Campbell, has developed to the point where he can perform equally well in any distance from 60 yards to 600, including the low hurdles.

Jim Summers will represent State in the 60- and 300-yard dashes.

Dittrich said State will make it "an interesting meet." He said that workouts have been harder and more varied than in the past, and consequently the team has been able to use the short training period to the best of its ability.

Coach's Alma Mater Site For State Fencers

By PHIL LOOMIS
State News Sports Writer

MSU's fencing coach Charles Schmitter returns to his alma mater Saturday when the Spartans clash blades with Wayne State and Penn College.

The meet will be held at 11:30 p.m. in Memorial building on the campus of the University of Detroit where Schmitter served a dual role as fencer and coach in the 1950's.

This year's team boasts only four returning lettermen from last year's squad which tied with the University of Iowa for second place in Big Ten competition.

Heading the list is captain Joel Serlin, senior. Other monogram winners are juniors Mel Laska and Mark Haskell, and senior Bryan Kutchins.

In sabre fencing, Schmitter will go with Haskell and Laska as the top two, respectively, with senior John Cooper and sophomore Clarence Chappie as the third and fourth men.

Don Lund, junior, heads the epee fencers. Schmitter plans to follow with Ed Siebert, junior. John Mack, sophomore, Berlin, and Andre Lick, senior in his sophomore year.

In foil, Kutchins will lead the list. This is his third year as a foil fencer, after he switched to epee for the conference championship last season and captured the runner-up spot.

The other three starters will be Steve Laska, sophomore, Steve Van Center, Ronald McComben, sophomore, and James Portico, sophomore.

In looking ahead to Saturday's bout, Schmitter felt that of the Spartans' two opponents, Penn College would be the one to be reckoned with.

While an uphill fight confronts the Spartans this season, Schmitter feels that if the team approaches its potential, it could fare well.

"We have a lot of green ones on the team," he said. "We're lacking in overall experience, but we could have a good team if the boys approach their potential."

Iceemen Hope To Nip Bulldogs

Shake-up Promised In Line-up

By LARRY MOGG
State News Sports Writer

State's ice team will try to boost a sagging win-loss record this weekend, when it journeys to do battle with the University of Minnesota-Duluth, a non-conference opponent Friday and Saturday night.

The Spartans, who reached an early-season peak with a 6-1 record, have tumbled to a dismal 9-7 overall.

Michigan pinned State with its latest setback, Wednesday night, with a flurry of third period goals, winning 6-3. With a 5-4 mark the Wolverines vaulted past State into fourth. The Spartans occupy fifth spot in the WCHA with a 3-4 record.

The two game set against Minnesota-Duluth will mark the Spartans fifth contest in nine days. The ice men left for Duluth at noon Thursday.

"Minnesota-Duluth is as good a team as there is around," commented Coach Arno Bessone in the MSU locker room, after the Michigan loss. They're a big team that skates and shoots well, and although their record might not show it, they have given every team they've faced trouble."

The Bulldogs have a not-so-hot record of 7-9-1, but all of their defects have been by the margin of three goals or less. Two weeks ago, Minnesota-Duluth dropped a pair of games to Michigan, 6-5 and 5-4. In the 6-5 overtime loss, veteran Bulldog goalie Bill Halbrekner turned aside 79 Wolverine shots.

Junior Keith Christiansen has sparked the Bulldog attack again this year. Christiansen, who led his team in scoring last year, has compiled 32 total points this season, by way of 14 goals and 18 assists. Senior linemen Bill McGiffert and Terry Shercliffe are also constant scoring threats.

Bessone was far from pleased with his team's efforts against rival Michigan. "We bogged down after a period and a half, and let Michigan take the play away from us," he said.

The Spartan boss promised a shake-up in his lines, but didn't specify any particular switches. He will be looking for a more intensive punch as his boys managed only 20 shots on the Wolverines' nets Wednesday.

HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT TOP ATTRACTION

Wrestlers Flex Muscles In Lafayette

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

MSU's powerful wrestling squad hopes to strong-arm Purdue tomorrow in Lafayette as it continues in its drive for the Big Ten championship.

The heavyweight bout should prove to be the most exciting contest of the afternoon, as State's rough Jeff Richardson, who has won his only two collegiate matches by pins, meets Bob Hopp, who finished fourth in the NCAA last year.

Hopp's biggest win last season was over Larry Christoff, of Southern Illinois, who later went on to win the number-one heavyweight spot on the Olympic team. Undeclared Spartan Don Behm will meet Moe Trail, who gained a second-place finish in the Big Ten last year, at 130 pounds. Trail is unbeaten in two years of dual competition.

Emerson Boies, at 177 pounds, will take on Purdue's George

Reed, while 137-pound Joe Ganz will have to contend with Roger Anderson.

Ganz made his presence known last Saturday as he defeated Pittsburgh's Mike Johnson, 137-pound NCAA runner-up two years ago.

Other probable starters for MSU are Gary Smith, 123 pounds; Dick Cook at 147; Dick Turnbull, 167 and Terry Leonard, 177.

The Spartans and Boilermakers met once before this season, in the Northwestern Quadrangle. State finished first in the meet, while Purdue could only manage third place.

State enters this match fresh from its crushing victory over Pittsburgh last weekend, 21-8, and has compiled an impressive 4-0-1 record thus far this season.

Swimmers Maintain Torrid Pace With Back-To-Back Road Meets

The record-busting Michigan State swimming team is on the road this weekend to face Big Ten opponents Purdue and Illinois.

The Spartan tankers will meet Purdue at Lafayette on Friday, and close out the weekend against Illinois at Champaign on Saturday.

State is now 3-1 for the year, after losing to arch-rival Michigan in one of the top dual meets in the nation this season.

Records were set in every event, and many of the times surpassed last year's best marks in the Big Ten.

The top individual performance of the meet was turned in by State sophomore Ken Walsh. He won two firsts, established two Spartan varsity records, and swam on the victorious 400-yard freestyle relay quartet.

Walsh beat out Michigan's Olympian Bill Farley in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:45.5 and repeated the feat in the 500-yard freestyle, covering the distance in 4:51.2. Both times set varsity and pool records.

State's Olympian, Gary Dilley, also got in on the record smashing by whipping Michigan's Ed Bartsch in the 200-yard backstroke. Dilley set Spartan varsity and pool records with his time of 1:57.6. He also finished second in the 50-yard freestyle, in the time of 21.8, and swam a leg on the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Junior freestylers Danyie Kifer and Jim MacMillan teamed up with Walsh and Dilley to win the 400 relay, in the time of 3:14.1, to set a pool record. Kifer tied his own varsity record with a 21.8 clocking in the 50-yard freestyle, and MacMillan equaled his 100-yard freestyle mark of 48.1.

The Spartans' return home next Wednesday to meet the Minnesota Gophers.

Let's talk about engineering, mathematics and science careers in a dynamic, diversified company

Campus Interviews Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 1, 2 and 3

Young men of ability can get to the top fast at Boeing. Today, Boeing's business backlog is just under two billion dollars, of which some 60 per cent is in commercial jetliner and helicopter product areas. The remainder is in military programs and government space flight contracts. This gives the company one of the most stable and diversified business bases in the aerospace industry.

No matter where your career interests lie—in the commercial jet airliners of the future or in space-flight technology—you can find an opening of genuine opportunity at Boeing. The company's world leadership in the jet transport field is an indication of the calibre of people you'll work with at Boeing.

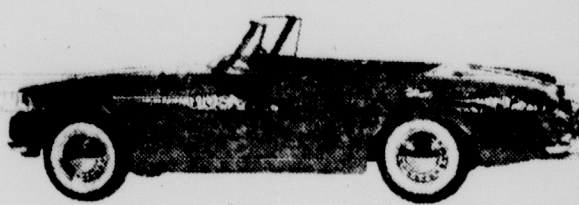

Boeing is now pioneering evolutionary advances in the research, design, development and manufacture of civilian and military aircraft of the future, as well as space programs of such historic importance as America's first moon landing. Gas turbine engines, transport helicopters, marine vehicles and basic research are other areas of Boeing activity.

Whether your career interests lie in basic or applied research, design, test, manufacturing or administration, there's a spot where your talents are needed at Boeing. Engineers, mathematicians and scientists at Boeing work in small groups, so initiative and ability get maximum exposure. Boeing encourages participation in the company-paid Graduate Study Program at leading colleges and universities near company installations.

We're looking forward to meeting engineering, mathematics and science seniors and graduate students during our visit to your campus. Make an appointment now at your placement office.

Orientation For Study Program

Orientation meetings for students interested in MSU overseas language study this summer will be held Saturday at the Center for International Programs.

Three intensive credit language programs in French, Spanish and German will be held in Paris, Madrid and Cologne. They are offered under the auspices of the American Language and Educational Center (AMLEC) of the MSU Continuing Education Service, in cooperation with the Department of Foreign Languages.

Instruction will be provided by three MSU professors. Nine credits will be given for each of the courses.

In addition, non-credit language courses will be offered in Paris, Cologne, Lausanne, and Neuchâtel, Switzerland, Madrid and Barcelona, Spain and Florence, Italy.

All courses will run from July 5 to Aug. 20.

The summer group meetings are as follows: German, Room 108, Mark Kistler, 10:30 a.m. to noon; French, Con-Con Room, Laszlo Borbas, 9 to 10:30 a.m.; Spanish, Con-Con Room, Carlos del Prado, 10:30 a.m. to noon; Italian, Room 204, Sheldon Cherny, 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Session Set On 'Hostage'

Three professors will conduct a discussion of the Performing Arts Company (PAC) production of Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" at 4:30 p.m. Monday in 108 Kresge.

John A. Waite, associate professor of English; Kenward L. Atkin, associate professor of advertising; and Gene E. Greifwell, associate professor of music, will consider the play both as a theatrical performance and as a literary work.

The MSU Players are sponsoring the series of discussions in which both students and faculty attending participate after each PAC production.

200000000—This Chrysler turbine-powered car was given to the Arthur F. Churchill family of Lansing to use for a three-month period. Several families around the country are driving cars of this type under the three-month plan to test the acceptability of the turbine autos.

Photos by Larry Fritzman

'Let's Jet Downtown'

A new idea in automobiles was introduced here Thursday, when the Chrysler Corporation gave a Lansing family a turbine car for three months.

Chrysler had 50 of the turbine cars built to explore public attitudes and test the future of a possible turbine market.

The car bodies weighing 4,000 pounds each, were hand-built in Turin, Italy, by Ghia.

The turbine, which operates on a principle similar to a jet engine, has a torque curve comparable to that of a 230-horsepower engine. It sounds like the whistle of a jet airplane while the car is idling.

To the driver, the car feels much like any other, except that it idles at 2,200 revolutions per minute, about twice the speed of a piston engine. The car is equipped with power steering and power brakes.

The car's four bucket seats are separated by a transmission hump, which rises about a foot above the floor. It includes a console that houses the gear-shift lever and accessories.

The sound of the turbine is hardly noticeable inside the car and diminishes as speed builds up. Chrysler officials said most people would not object to the sound.

The family of Arthur F. Churchill, of 2511 Harding Ave., will drive the car for three months and then, along with 200 other drivers, will be asked for their reactions to it.

NAACP Play Auditions

Auditions for a revival of the play, "The Man Called Nigger," will be held from 7 to 11 p.m. tonight in the Union Ballroom.

The play, written and produced by former students in 1961, will be performed at the end of February to raise funds for a summer project in Mississippi, said Ron Brown, Cincinnati, Ohio, graduate student and program chairman for the campus NAACP.

About 150 parts are available, he added, and anyone is invited to participate.

imprisoned in a bombed-out church.

Starring in the production are Barry Morse, co-star of ABC's "The Fugitive," Paul Stevens, who appeared with Morse in "The Turn of the Screw," Ramon Bieri, known for his performance on Broadway and on several TV series, and Jon Voight, a newcomer.

Christian Athlete

Russell Speaks For Christ

Cazie Russell, basketball All-American, will speak Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the interdenominational College Life meeting, at the Sigma Chi fraternity house, 729 E. Grand River.

Russell, the University of Michigan hoop star, will be sharing his experience as a Christian and telling how his relationship with Christ has influenced his athletic career.

Also speaking will be Bill Krisher, football All-American in 1954-55 from the University of Oklahoma, and now president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA).

Russell is an education major at U-M, and wants to become a sports announcer.

He has been a Christian for six years, and has found that time to be the most rewarding of his life. He thanks God for his athletic talent and likes to tell others about what Christ has done for him.

Russell, like Michigan's Bob Timberlake and Dave Butler, has

Tape To Be Heard By SCFTonight

The Spartan Christian Fellowship will present a tape on "Dating, Love and Marriage" tonight at 7 p.m. in Bethel Manor, 303 Grand River.

The talk has a new and exciting approach to some old questions.

found real meaning in life since dedicating himself to God.

Many other athletes have found this to be true, and have founded the Fellowship of Christian Athletes to unite themselves in fellowship and service.

The FCA includes such men as Bobby Richardson and Felipe Alou among its members as well as Krisher, its president.

A former New York Giants football player, Krisher is coming here all the way from Kansas City, Mo., to speak at this College Life meeting.

Christian athletes such as Russell, Timberlake and members of the FCA accentuate the fact that being a Christian is a challenging and enjoyable experience.

They agree that their main goal is to serve God, not to seek material gain in the world, and they find they can fulfill this mission in the realm of athletics.

St. John Student Card Party Set

St. John Student Parish's annual card party is scheduled for 8 tonight at its Student Center.

A fashion show will be presented by Knapp's Department Store. For the grand door prize a sterling silver bowl and other door prizes will be awarded.

Tickets are available at the door where there will be a donation of $1 per person. The money received from this event will be used for vestments, linens, new equipment for the nursery and to further the fund for students' summer work projects.

Free refreshments of coffee, cake and potato chips will be served.

'Sex Status Symbol' Says English Girl

LONDON, 1--Loss of virginity is regarded as something of a status symbol among high school seniors, writes a 17-year-old London girl in the current issue of the Family Planning Association's Magazine.

"About 10 or 15 years ago non-virgins were looked down upon," she explains, "but now non-virginity seems to be something of a status symbol."

"I think that, by the time a girl is 17 and is still a virgin she begins to feel sexually incapable and says to herself: 'Is there something wrong with me? I must be frigid or something.'"

"A boy who has never had intercourse by 18 begins to be talked about and is often said to be impotent or scared. The losing of his virginity is a great event in his life because he thinks he has now made the grade."

The girl, whose name is not given, says about 30 per cent of her classmates--17-and-18-years old--are not virgins and they are neither looked up to nor scorned.

"It is treated as something natural among us and nothing out of the ordinary," she writes. "Promiscuity is looked down upon though."

The girl says most of her friends in North London have lost their virginity by the age of 16.

"It is not unknown for girls to lose it at the age of 12," says the article, "but they are mainly precocious and have lost it through going out with boys considerably older than themselves--say 19 to 25."

"Boys whom I am in contact with tend to be non-virgins at the age of 17 and only the exceptions are before that age."

The writer says most girls only have intercourse with their boy friends. Though a few will have intercourse with anyone, these are definitely in a minority.

Marriage Meeting Planned To Further Understanding

Those planning marriage or who are newly married are urged to attend a series of talks designed to aid in the understanding of the meaning of marriage.

Each meeting will be presented twice during the year, Wednesday from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

"Marriage is a Partnership", Feb. 9 and April 7.

"Managing Time and Money in Marriage", Feb. 10 and April 14.

"Spiritual Values in Marriage", Feb. 17 and April 21.

"Sexual Harmony in Marriage", Feb. 24 and April 28.

The enrollment fee, $1.50 per person, is payable at the first meeting.

The program is sponsored by Family Service Agency, Ingham County Medical Society, Lansing Area Council of Churches, Lansing Ministerial Association, Lansing Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. and Lansing Adult Education.

Guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service will be Roger W. Coon, assistant instructor and doctoral candidate in MSU's Speech Department.

The Adventist congregation is meeting temporarily in the sanctuary of the University Lutheran Church each Saturday morning.

Faith on Campus

Personal Contact Needed

By Mary Fischer

Much has been said about students losing their faith through the influences of college life. It is obviously true that this happens to many men and women on campus. Like the weather, most people find plenty of time to complain about it, but few ever take steps to correct the deficit.

There is an abundance of religious organizations on campus. Each has activities designed to interest those who wish to continue their education in their particular faith. Fliers are sent at the beginning of the year and orientation meetings are organized.

Most churches have campus ministers who are employed to counsel students and see that their activities include participation in a fellowship whenever possible.

Churches and synagogues are located in strategic points or have buses to make Sabbath worship as convenient as possible.

Where then does the fault lie? The students? Perhaps. There are those who have little or no interest in religion and no amount of persuasion could convince them any differently. But I feel that these are far in the minority.

The various fellowships send their fliers, but unfortunately many of them stop there. Therefore, those who can not make the first meeting or two and those who can be convinced to attend with a little encouragement are out of luck. Announcements printed in the newspaper are, at best, glanced over at breakfast, for lack of other reading material. Personal contact is one of the few ways to reach those who are undecided. People can relate an enthusiasm which is lacking in a jumble of words printed on a piece of paper.

It is true that campus ministers can't go into the dorms to talk to students. They haven't the time and the dorms do not provide the facilities.

Most students receive a letter from their individual church giving information as to when and where such a person can be reached. Their names and phone numbers are listed in both the student and faculty directories, but I have found it almost impossible to reach many of the campus ministers.

There are exceptions to what I have said, of course. There are organizations which are making a valid attempt to reach as many of their congregations as possible and apply their ministries to student needs. But I would sound the call to extend witnessing to its greatest limit.

America cannot hope to remain a God-fearing nation if the questions raised by its youth go unanswered. Now is the time to take action.

They have gone, quite naturally, about their various duties failing, however, to leave any indication as to when they can be reached and in some cases without even a receptionist to answer the phone in their absence. Unfortunately this leaves a poor impression and undoubtedly many students fail to try again.

Not only should churches make it convenient to attend worship, but they should gear their services to the particular needs of college students. It seems inappropriate to speak to students about matters which are yet outside their realm of existence.

There are exceptions to what I have said, of course. There are organizations which are making a valid attempt to reach as many of their congregations as possible and apply their ministries to student needs. But I would sound the call to extend witnessing to its greatest limit.

tish infusion as well as a French one coming from way back.

On the British side I should single out the sheer bull-dog pertinacity and persistence; there is also a rarer quality than physical courage, shining through that is--there is moral courage, an aristocratic gift of political indomitability, the instinctive thinking of the safety of the state, no matter what anybody says or however unpopular a course he may have to hold.

On the American side I place the zest and high spirits, the indefatigable good nature, the optimism and sheer boyishness which have radiated fun and the enjoyment of life in the gloomiest of places and at the worst of times.
