Plan Represents Third Original Project of Term for Yearbook Heads.

Continuing a series of innovations in Wolverine management policy comes the announcement from Robert Kling, editor, and Curtis Rogers, business manager, that every down-payment subscriber will be given $1.00 for each additional subscription he brings in. The offer will start immediately and will continue until March 1.

This special profit-sharing feature was made possible by a substantial increase in subscriptions from the senior class project and will give early cash subscribers an opportunity to get their Wolverine free.

Unlimited Sales
Anyone is eligible to act as salesman who has subscribed to the yearbook. There must be at least $2.00 down payment on the new subscription. All money is to be turned in to the treasurer's office along with the name and address of the new subscriber. No will call for his receipt at the Wolverine office.

Council Sponsors "Come to Church Sunday"

Following the custom inaugurated some years ago, the student council is sponsoring a "Come to Church Sunday" on February 18 at 10:30 a. m. at the Peoples church. The date chosen for this term is particularly important, since it is also the National Student Day of Prayer.

Each term the council sponsors a Sunday for various organizations to attend. In the fall term a "Freshman Sunday" has been designated for new students to become affiliate members of the church. Invitations have been sent to all fraternities and societies to attend the services next Sunday.

LOCAL SOCIETY TO GO NATIONAL

Alpha Literary Will Become Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi on April 18.

Word was received here this week by officers of the Alpha Literary society local Jewish fraternity that formal induction of that body into Alpha Epsilon Pi national Jewish fraternity would take place on April 18. The notice was received by the local group after the acceptance of their formal petition about a month ago.

Although all of the details of the induction are not as yet known by the local officers, it is probable that most of the national officers of Alpha Epsilon Pi will headquarter in New York city, with headquarters in the city.

The induction of Alpha Literary into a national organization will mark the second time this year a local group has gone national. The first group to receive a national charter was the former Epsilon Phi society which became a chapter of Sigma Nu within this month.

The present officers of the Alpha Literary society are: Morris Glass, president; Phil Schwartz, vice-president; Norman Benson, secretary; and George Lachar, treasurer. The honorary members are: Prof. William Haber and Alex Cohen.

M. W. Glass, president of the Alpha Literary body, told the State News today that arrangements of the induction for the installation would be completed by the end of the week pending the arrival of instructions from national headquarters of Alpha Epsilon Pi.

At the present time there is but one other chapter of the national Jewish fraternity in Michigan. That is, now resident in the University of Detroit.

Speaking on "Russia, 1933," Prof. E. V. Hill of the law management department will address the International Relations club Wednesday night, Feb. 21, in the faculty club dining room of the Union. The meeting will begin at 7:30.

Prof. Hill spent the summer of 1933 in Russia and traveled extensively there. He will give some of his personal impressions.

At 8:30 Wednesday night there will be a dinner for International Relations club members and anyone else interested in the main dining room of the Union at the price of 35 cents. A program will include musical dramatic sketches and musical numbers. Arrangements are in charge of Ferris Mover, president of International Relations club.

In order to offer practical aid to the state highway department in the construction of more durable highways at less expense to the state, and to present an opportunity for the civil engineering students to gain experience in research work, J. Rothgergy has designed a roadster, an electrically powered machine which consists of an automobile wheel attached to a revolving beam.

NEAR SELLOUT SEEN IN SENIOR PROM TICKETS

Muscott Names Marion Bates as Partner for Annual Class Formal.

PROGRAMS OUT FRIDAY
Decorations Remain Secret With Unique Plan Promised.

With completion of plans for the Senior Ball to be held tomorrow evening in Lansing Masonic Temple, Gerald Muscott, president of the class, announces that Marion Bates, Lansing, will be his partner for the affair. Miss Bates is a junior home economics student and a charter member of Alpha Phi society.

According to Thomas Warner, chairman of tickets, the sale of tickets has progressed rapidly and with a day remaining before the party indications are that the total quota will be reached. Sales have been limited to one ticket per student and room for dancing tickets will be sold after that number has been reached. The official program list is to be followed and all those receiving them will be recognized at the door.

Decorations are yet remain a secret and will not be made known until the night of the party but will be carried out in complete accord with the plan. Farrow states that they will be really novel and unique and strictly different from any other arrangement shown at college parties this far. The color scheme of black and white will be used throughout and will be futuristic in design.

BLOCK AND BRIDLES HOLD BANQUET FEB. 9

Block and Bridle national honorary animal husbandry society sponsored a round-up banquet in room 402 at hall, Friday, February 9.

Prof. H. J. Staebli of the bacteriology department and C. V. Ballard, assistant county agent under C. A. Brown of the animal husbandry department acted as toastmaster.

At present most roads made of some tar compounds do not hold up under the heavy wear of trucking and excess traffic. This machine will enable engineers to test road surfaces before applying them to highways in less time than it would ordinarily take if the road was laid first.

The road-tester is so constructed that in the future devices may be added to test the surfaces under the influence of heat, cold and rainfall.

The machine consists of a circular trough 15 1/2 feet in diameter into which is packed the material to be tested. The beam to which the wheel is attached is powered by an electric motor which gives the beam a speed range of from one to five miles an hour. A standard type transmission is used in order that the accurate effects of automotive traffic may be gained.

Versatile Music Prof. Unfolds Life History

Arthur Farwell, Author and Composer is Introduced to Students.

By JIM QUILLIO
The plot of this story is an American composer's struggle for recognition and the ingenious method of a Michigan State professor of meeting the situation, the theme music and composing the exciting character. Professor Arthur Farwell, journalist, sketch artist, composer, printer, and at present, associate professor of music at Michigan State, unfolded his life history to a class of students.

"Why hello there—have a seat," he had the quick, concise, speech of a serious yet energetic individual. The introduction was disarming. Professor Farwell is presently appearing at medium stature with long pure white hair interlarded with occasional strands of more grayish hue—all combed back in typical musician style. His grayish-blue eyes reflected the combined with the vigor and capacity for practical work of an engineer. From his appearance and the age of his children he was six years ranging from 15 years to two years.

"I arrived—Yes, he's upstairs. I'll call him 'Daddy' a little bluish blue-eyed girl about nine years old called 'man here to see you.' Yes, bring him up, and I did go up to the office which I later learned was the office and composing room of a complete household factory for the production of music.

ALUMNI GROUPS HERE SATURDAY

Discuss Matter of Creating Interest of High School Students.

Representatives from ten alumni clubs and a group of faculty members attended the alumni present congress held last Saturday in the Union building.

Prof. L. C. Emmons of the institutional management department took charge of the first part of the meeting and discussed future enrollment at Michigan State.

The second half of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of alumni affairs. Gen. Stewart, a former secretary of the Michigan Debate League at Wayne University.

On Friday, Feb. 16, the entire men's debate squad of 16 members will journey to Detroit to compete in the national Michigan Debate League at Wayne University.

UNION WILL AGAIN SELL USED BOOKS

Students Are Requested to Turn Them in at Desk.
All students who have used books they would like to sell should bring them to the Union desk in the near future. Last term the demand was greater than the supply and it is hoped that the students will cooperate by handing in their books before the end of this term.

The Union, which is the only place in East Lansing where second hand books can be obtained, allows the student to fix his own price for his book. The price should however, be about 50% of the original cost if the selling is to remain popular. Ten per cent of the price goes to the Union for selling, cataloging, and storing the books.

About two weeks after the beginning of spring term, the Union will find out which of the unsold books will be used in the classes next year. These books will be kept and offered for sale in the fall. Discounted books which are not called for by the owners during the spring term will be sold to a second-hand book dealer in the summer.

STUART CHASE TO SPEAK HERE NEXT THURSDAY

Well Known Economist Will be Presentation of Arts Course.

IS FAMOUS AUTHOR
Has Had Varied Career; Was Once a Resident of Mexico.

Stuart Chase, economist and author, will speak at the Peoples church Feb. 22, at 8:00 o'clock, Professor W. W. Johnston, chairman of the lecture course, announced today. The subject of Chase's speech is to be announced later.

Stuart Chase joined the staff of the Labor Bureau, Inc., in October, 1921 to take charge of the accounting and auditing sections of the Bureau's work. Besides the accounting features, he has had extensive studies for various labor and co-operative organizations into national productivity, U. S. government finances, cost of the World War, the anthracite coal industry, and the general problem of waste in a competitively organized society.

In 1914 Chase married Miss Margaret Hatfield and the couple spent their honeymoon in a strange city where he had first hand experience with the problem of unemployment. He accepted himself as a factory conditions and so, in 1915, this experience was subsequently published in small book called "A Honeymoon Experience."

In 1925 the MacMillan Company published Mr. Chase's "Tragedy of Waste," a general study of competitive waste in America, which inspired the Saturday Review of Literature to say "Congress should pass a law compelling every American citizen to read this book at least once."

The same company in 1927 brought out "The New Famous Book, Your Money's Worth," written by Mr. Chase in collaboration with F. J. Schlink in 1929 came "Men and Machines" and in 1931 a group of essays entitled "The Nemesis of American Business" in which Mr. Chase made a scathing reply to the question of why "strong arm America and what might be done about it."

Tells of Mexican Life
In 1928 Chase published "Mexico—A Study of Two Americas," written by Chase in collaboration with Marion Tyler, his present wife. This lively comparison of life in Mexico and life in the United States will far more be said in favor of Mexican habits of work and play than some might expect, and with many illustrations by Diego Rivera, the Mexican artist prominently appeared on best-seller lists throughout the country.

Stuart Chase went to Mexico on the advice of his friend George Biddle, the artist. Biddle said that Indians had no time sense and that he might see the murals of Diego Rivera. Having just completed two moderately exhausting jobs, he had a hard time of it in the machine age. Chase was impressed by both observations. He wanted to see and he wanted to see paintings to which no process of reproduction block and white can do justice. He went there for relaxation, but it's difficult to relax at 7:00 o'clock on the sea. He remained altogether about five months, keeping away from the border states, and then went on to the peninsula of Yucatan and cut across the spiral column of the continent from Vera Cruz to Anapim, Mexico.

Chase talks about Mexico before the Spaniards came—the culture of the Mayas, the Toltecs and the Aztecs; their engineering, architecture, government and handicraft, the Spanish Conquest and the decline of Mexican civilization which followed it.

Further information may be obtained from Professor Mullerburg in the English building.

Prepare Sugarbush For Annual Maple Syrup Run

Forestry Dep't Will Again Have Charge of College Production.

The college sugar-bush will once more become the center of activity for the forestry department during the season's run of maple sap preparations are being made to hang some 400 buckets on the 500 trees of the bush. Although some syrup has already been produced in Michigan this year, the department considers it advisable to wait until the last week of February to commence operations in order to assure a high quality product.

State Students Get Federal Aid Through Government Action

Glen O. Stewart Appointed Secretary of All Student Aid Work in Michigan; Each College Allotted 10 of Total Enrollment.

By CHUCK PALMER
Following the nation-wide announcement of federal relief for students in colleges of the United States, the State News recently received word that 275 Michigan State students will be given jobs by the Federal Emergency Relief Association for the remainder of the year. Of this number, 185 students now in college will be assigned work immediately to help carry them through the balance of this term. This is the result of the efforts of organizations such as the Land Grant Colleges Association, the Association of American College Deans, and the North Central Association of Colleges and Universities.

Glen O. Stewart, alumni secretary, has been appointed secretary of all student aid work in the state. In this position Stewart will direct the allocation of funds of the 27 college throughout Michigan which are to participate in this project.

Under the arrangement provided in the federal plan, each college is

The following statement was issued by Prof. Emmons Tuesday morning: "In cooperation with the Michigan State News, we are announcing that to students who do not deserve aid, need aid will be given assistance with this plan. The committee in charge will review each application carefully."

allocated ten per cent of the total number enrolled in October 15, 1933. This would give about 255 jobs to this college. Not more than 75 per cent of the jobs, however, may be given to students now enrolled in college. Further regulations require the allotment of men and women to be equalized according to attendance ratio giving about two men to one woman. The remaining 25 per cent of the jobs will be given to former students who have found it necessary to drop out of school because of lack of funds. The committee on applications is now gathering three people and experts to have a sufficient number of them enrolled for the spring term to bring States total up to its quota of 255. Work will then be given to those students for the spring term.

In order to receive this financial assistance, students here must carry at least 12 hours of credit, which is the minimum load for regular enrollment. They must have the character and the ability to do college work, and the ability to do college work. As to the matter of wages, students will be paid from 30 to 50 cents an hour and the monthly salary will range from $10 to $20, with an average of $15. Maximums will come twice a month. Maximums will also cover the spring term.

All departments on campus have been given the promise of requesting workers, and some students have already begun working. The jobs include: central laboratory, janitor, library and research work. There will also be some jobs assigned in

LIST RULES OF LIT. CONTESTS
Student Story-writers, Essayists, and Poets May Compete for Prizes.

Although prizes will probably be reduced from the figures of preceding years, the George F. Lawson essay and the Michigan State News short story and poetry contests will be held this spring as usual. Prof. W. W. Johnston, head of the English department, has announced that entries in the three contests must be on the desk of Prof. W. J. Mullerburg, director of the contests, by the evening of May 6. Winners names will be published early in June following the report of three judges chosen each year by the English department. Past winners included: Robert W. Reynolds, noted author, Harvard Young, former professor at the University of Michigan, and Anne Perrow, who won the major award in poetry in the Avery Hopwood contests in Ann Arbor a few years ago.

Last year's winners were: Ernest White and David Cleary in the essay; Verna Norberg in the short story; and Mrs. Ellen Saltmoull in poetry.

Every contestant is asked to submit three copies of his entry, with his name appearing only on a card he is to hand in separately. Pressing away from the border states, and then went on to the peninsula of Yucatan and cut across the spiral column of the continent from Vera Cruz to Anapim, Mexico.

Arthur Farwell: Our Unrecognized Genius

A BUDDING GENIUS through 61 years is the impression we carry of Arthur Farwell, associate professor in the Michigan State college department of music. Once More a "Go To Church Sunday"

SPECIAL INTEREST to students should be the announcement of the "Come to Church Sunday" being sponsored by the student religious council next Sunday. The council has several times inaugurated this service in the past, and the assigning of a block of seats to each fraternity and sorority on the campus has resulted in a very colorful and pleasing affair.

The Spartan Merry-Go-Round

By THE OLD ROUNDER, II
SPICE, HEUP
Hi, ho dear readers and fellow sufferers. Do you want something more spicy and sensational, eh? Well, here goes for a few of the things I picked up this week. Don't say I didn't warn you because the lid goes off next week in a special razz column.

WALKER FARLEY ORCHIDS

And while I'm delivering my orchids, which makes me a very tired-out delivery boy this week because so many calls, I'll have to stop by Gordie Farley's house. Sam Walker left a pin with her during the past week, culminating a fast romance.

ATHLON DOINGS
Poor Dan Cupid had a hard week here at State, lodging for the most part in the ArtHeon house. Was out East of, under the weather, Mr. Darling passed him in out to some Lansing girl whose first name I understand is Acres. Don Montgomery and Millicent Thompson finally got together and are now saving pennies. And Russ, the former was taken by the likable Ruth Martin for his Ae-embium. Which means that the clear smoke at the ArtHeon house is something terrific. Harold Dunn, also linked in a pinning deal, emphatically denied the truth of the rumor. He got on his face when in the library I am looking for results in a week or two.

WE WONDER
QUEER: Why did Ed LeBauer, trash class, press, stay home last Saturday night? Who were the two State students who had a bloody fight Saturday night in the alley behind Mary Stewart's? When is Jane McJellan going to get out of her cage and pay Don Sexton his 50 cents? When is Georgia Wing, beautiful fish miss, going to make up her mind who and when she is going to marry?

ASURE FIRE TIP
What will be the decorations, programs, band, etc. It looks like the senior ball coming up this Friday is going to be one of the best we've had on the campus this season. Here's a few things to be waiting for: Programs in the form of miniature Wolverines with a different arrangement inside the covers than the standard type of program. And here a hot tip may be the decorations at the party will feature something conferring around graduation, we damn for sure we're just passing the rumor on. My old right-hander, basily suggested the week in pushing out the tickets to this affair says it looks like a sell-out before Friday night. A better try to locate a ticket before then, and we'll be seen 'yall at the sim-dig.

HOW LONG, OH LORD, HOW LONG?
We don't know who out-maneuvered who in this little meeting-engagement but the results are a matter of record. Helen Sutton surrendered and is now totting a Tic Bin; it belongs to Ed Kramer, ya musk along with her Chi O hardware and her Coling's eagle decorated for bravery we saw after all we've heard from Sutton. Congratulations to you both, and don't forget to stop off that special walk at the Chi O formal next week.

than I can understand. Down East swimming is a varsity sport in nearly all schools. Here in the middle west many of the larger universities and colleges also consider swimming a varsity sport. The same is true on the Pacific coast. Why shouldn't it be so at State? Many of the comments are based upon lack of student body enthusiasm and lack of good swimming teams. I grant that the enthusiasm is poor and the teams are only fair. However, those who stress these points are short-sighted in quoting these as reasons for not making swimming a major letter sport. The very thing which will put swimming on the basis it should be here at State is making swimming a major sport and engaging teams which will attract the attention of the student body. Clarence Bos believes that unless a sport draws a large following it may as well be a minor one. I would like to ask how you can make a sport draw a large following unless you place it on a basis which will make it attractive. You cannot make a thing rare until you rate it yourself. Placing swimming on a major sport basis would improve the morale and ability of those who make the team. There are many fine swimmers on this campus who are indifferent to swimming because it is a minor sport and because of the attitude of the athletic department. This department has given dirty deals to several fine swimmers during the past few years. Two years ago Evans Boucher, first captain of the swimming team, took a first place in a meet with Ohio State. The athletic department had stated that a first place against a Big Ten school would be deserving of a major letter, but no letter was awarded.

STUDENT PULSE
Signed and Initialed articles on any topic pertinent to student interests are welcome in this column.
Thinks Varsity Tankmen Should Get Major Letters
Recent agitation to raise the sport of swimming to the rank of a major sport is of great interest to me since I have spent the past two years as a member of State's swimming team. For more reasons than one this year think me neither a member nor an aspirant to membership. The campus comments collected by a State News reporter and published in the last edition of the State News were in almost every instance collected from men engaged in sports which are major letter sports. Naturally, their opinions were prejudiced. What do they know about swimming? What do they know about the extent and disagreeableness of training for swimming? What do they know of the exhaustive effort required to swim a competitive event in a college swimming meet? During my four years at high school and one year at a preparatory school I participated in four different sports and I defy anyone to prove to me that any sport unless it be track requires more effort and takes more out of an athlete than a competitive swimming meet? During my four years at high school and one year at a preparatory school I participated in four different sports and I defy anyone to prove to me that any sport unless it be track requires more effort and takes more out of an athlete than a competitive swimming meet? During my four years at high school and one year at a preparatory school I participated in four different sports and I defy anyone to prove to me that any sport unless it be track requires more effort and takes more out of an athlete than a competitive swimming meet?

Placing swimming on a major sport basis here at State will not only improve the morale of the swimmers and bring more men out for the team but it will also improve the competition. Larger schools will be attracted and more easily contracted and State will build a foundation to a reputation for swimming teams which is impossible under the present system. Many of the larger schools will better teams are anxious to contract for meets at the beginning of the season with troops to send sure they can beat and yet which will test their ability. The expense under such a program would be no greater than under the present one because more money would be received from the larger schools contracting. This additional income could be used to invite other schools to State's swimming pool or to invite the same schools during the next year. As far as that goes, when a team is contracted for a meet at a stated price, an agreement is made wherein there will be a return meet the following year at the same price. Also swimming is not near as expensive as track which is more expensive than wrestling, fencing and cross country put together. Where does the money come from to pay the expenses of trips to the Penn. Relay, Drake Relays, Virginia Relays, and numerous other trips taken by the track team? Track is not a paying sport. I do not believe enough money is taken in at track meets during one year to equip a team for that year. John Hammer believes a sport should be based on a paying basis to be a varsity sport. If this were true there would be no major letters for track and none of the trips the track team seems to enjoy the privilege of having at the expense of other sports and the student body through the athletic assessments made each term. Furthermore, who does it all have to be placed on such a commercial basis. Why can't college athletics be like high school athletics—enjoyable for the sport they afford themselves instead of being based on commercialism and exploitation. But, I realize

I am departing from the realm of realism and dreaming of an utopia which probably never will exist. It is too bad, however, that commercialism and exploitation have to enter into such a great degree. They enter into participation in athletics for a great many who would otherwise enjoy the opportunities afforded by good clean sport. I think it is high time our athletic department and athletic board realizes what a narrow minded viewpoint they have been taking. They realize that if they are ever going to have a real swimming team they must place the sport on a correct basis for a good rating. By making swimming a varsity letter sport it would not be necessary to give every member of the team a varsity letter. Give letters only to those who equal or pass certain set standards. But be sure when those standards are equalled or passed that a letter is awarded. There are four men who earned twenty points or more in swimming last year who understood that they were to get varsity letters. No letters were awarded and today not one of those four men is swimming even though three of them are still in school and eligible for swimming. If there is going to be a swimming team at State and there is no reason why there should not be one, why not make for a real team which will be a credit to our school and to our splendid athletic reputation.

What do College Leaders HAVE IN COMMON?
AN OUTSTANDING characteristic of the men who lead in the classroom, on the campus, and in the social life of school is their vitality. They have the abundant energy that comes with good health.

Your health and well-being can be slowed down by common constipation. Yet this prevalent ailment can be corrected usually by eating a delicious cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will help promote regular habits. ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk," vitamin B and iron. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The most popular ready-to-eat cereals served in the dining-rooms of American colleges, eating-clubs and fraternities are made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. They include Kellogg's Corn Flakes, PEP, Rice Krispies, Wheat Krumbles, and Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Branlet. Also Kellogg's Hot Coffee—real coffee—97% caffeine free.

WILL REQUEST FEDERAL HELP FOR STUDENTS

Plan Widespread Campaign in National Education Project.

TO HELP PAY TUITION Committee Proposes Use of Government Funds to Operate Schools Also.

—NEW YORK, (NSFA)—Realizing the need for federal funds to insure the normal operation of schools, the Federal Advisory Committee on Emergency Aid in Education, asking for the first time that the federal government help pay the school bills of the nation is advising that $50,000,000 be made available before July 1. To help students pay their tuition and other needs, $20,000,000 has been asked. George F. Zook, United States commissioner of education, finds the situation at present "so critical that the people are justified in using federal funds to insure the operation of schools."

Student Leagues Cooperate. Student assemblies, campus-wide meetings and college publications are some of the channels through which an attempt will be made to organize student opinion for a federal appropriation to provide aid for students who have been, or are about to be, forced to discontinue their education because of financial difficulties. According to an announcement by the Joint Student Commission for Federal Aid to Higher Education, formed recently to cooperate with the Federal Advisory Committee on Emergency Aid in Education. Members of the student commission are the National Student Federation, the Student League for Industrial Democracy, the National Student League, Young America, and the Student Y. W. C. A.

Local Apects Considered. Plans have been made to obtain the cooperation of students in the colleges where the members of the commission have local groups so that both student and faculty endorsements may be secured. The program includes, in addition to campus meetings of all kinds, a series of regional undergraduate conferences to discuss the local aspects of the problem, survey the need for aid, and appeal to the government for such funds as are required. The campaign will be launched early this month.

"We are supplying the machinery," said John A. Latta, president of the National Student Federation, in commenting on the work of the commission. "It is up to the students of this country to take advantage of the opportunity which we are offering to them. The plan has value not only because of the aid which successful results will make available to needy students, but also because it will induce the extent to which undergraduates are interested in cooperating in a united effort to support progress which are not confined within the four walls of a college campus."

PROF. TELLS OF MALADY CURE

Dr. W. L. Chandler Publishes Report on Amebic Dysentery Remedy.

During the last six months the newspapers of the country have been giving a great deal of space to the epidemic of amebic dysentery which broke out in two prominent Chicago hotels during the world's fair last summer. It is interesting to note that Dr. Wallace L. Chandler, research associate in parasitology of the Michigan agricultural experiment station, has just recently published a report which describes a complete and absolute cure for this malady.

Dr. Chandler, in conjunction with a number of local physicians, has been working on this disease for 15 years, and his work has come to its successful culmination at a most opportune time as the epidemic which started at the crowded world's fair has appalling possibilities for spreading throughout the country.

The cure is effected through intravenous injections of neosphenamine; in other words, it is an injection into the veins of specified amounts of arsenous hydrocarbon compound.

...one reason why Luckies taste better, smoother

In Turkey too, only the finest tobaccos are selected for Lucky Strike—the mildest leaves, the most delicate, the most aromatic. Lucky Strike is the world's largest user of fine Turkish tobaccos. Then these tender, delicate Turkish leaves are blended with choice tobaccos from our own Southland—to make your Lucky Strike a cigarette that is fully packed—so round, so firm—free from loose ends. That's why Luckies taste better, smoother. "It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.
