

AGAIN THIS YEAR

Neville: tuition hike possible

"We are now faced with a situation where powerless conscience meets conscienceless power."

Provost Howard E. Neville hinted Thursday that tuition rates may be increased again this year.

Later, President John A. Hannah admitted that a tuition hike is possible, but added that the Administration has not gotten that far in discussing solutions to its budget problems.

He also said he did not know what other possibilities there were for meeting the problem.

"We will raise tuition only if we have to," Hannah said.

He also said that room and board rates should not be increased, since these depend on increased costs in residence halls, and there has been no indication of this.

Governor George Romney's proposed budget, which was announced last week, cut MSU's requested funds from $72,295,000 to $59,404,293, a difference of nearly $13 million.

Hannah said at least $3 million of the $13 million slash must be restored just to maintain present University programs. Present programs include built-in increased costs and commitments already made, including a rise in enrollment, additional faculty members who have already been hired, and wage increases, as well as higher costs for supplies and utilities to operate recently completed classroom and office buildings.

In his State of the University message Wednesday night, Hannah expressed confidence that the additional funds would be found, but he said Thursday he did not know where they would come from.

Hannah and members of the administration will make a formal presentation to the legislature within the next two or three months, but will not change the original budget request.

The University will then take whatever appropriation the legislature makes and will re-appropriate the funds among the various departments and programs.

MSU's recently approved four-year medical school is not affected by the slash, since it was not included in the budget request.

A supplementary budget for the medical school is being prepared and will be presented to the legislature at a later date.

Hannah pointed out that the medical school will not be ready for about three years, and that funds needed now for its planning should not amount to very much. The real cost, he said, will come with hiring a faculty and obtaining laboratory supplies.

He said that he suspected that funds requested for the medical school would be granted.

MSU received the largest cut in requested appropriations of any other institution in the state, and administrative officials were surprised at such a large cut.

Hannah feels that the slash in appropriations is worse this year than in previous years. The gap, said Hannah, is much wider and a partisan allegiance between a Republican legislature and a Republican governor is possible this year.

"Our problem is severe as anyone's,"

Hannah said, "I suspect more severe." Hannah stressed the necessity of tax reform in his State of the University message and again Thursday. He said the 11 state supported college and university presidents who met last Friday with Romney agreed that "as hurt as we were, tax reform is of number one priority."

"Without tax reform now, adequate support for education at all levels is just not in the cards," Hannah said.

ASKS $3.1 BILLION

Foreign aid designed to prevent 'future Viets'

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Johnson urged an economy minded Congress Thursday to provide $3.1 billion for economic and military assistance to 70 countries "to reduce the chances of future Vietnams."

Calling this a minimum contribution to the security and development of Asian, African and Latin-American countries, the President's foreign aid message said: "To do less would endanger all we have accomplished in the past two decades."

Anticipating congressional opposition, Johnson acknowledged that some persons want to give up the foreign aid program because of U.S. domestic needs and costs of the Vietnam war.

"Nothing could be more short-sighted and self-defeating," he asserted. "This country - the wealthiest in human history - can well afford to devote less than seven-tenths of 1 per cent of its national income to reduce the chances of future Vietnams."

The presidential request for aid funds came within $18 million of the amount he requested last year when Congress lopped off $450 million and gave the administration $2.9 billion.

For the fiscal year starting July 1, the administration asked for $2.53 billion in economic assistance and $590 million in military assistance excluding Vietnam, Laos, Thailand and some North Atlantic Treaty Organization expenses. White House aides said an additional $242 million is being asked for military assistance to Laos and Thailand and NATO, but this request is being made in the regular Defense Department budget, not in the foreign aid program.

The Congress was asked to approve eight programs over a two-year period instead of on an annual basis. This was bound to spark opposition in both houses of Congress.

There was also strong emphasis on self-help as the major qualification for U.S. economic assistance.

"I will not ask any American citizen to contribute his tax dollars to support any country which does not meet this test," Johnson said.

The program also emphasized more cooperation from other countries, along with such institutions as the World Bank, International Monetary Fund, the Asian Development Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank and the African Development Bank.

Officials anticipate aid programs to both Iran and Cyprus will end in the next fiscal period and that several other small programs in Africa will be phased out.

900 hopefuls arrive today for ADS tests

Ten Alumni Distinguished Scholarships worth $7,000 apiece are up for grabs this weekend and next.

This year, for the first time, every state in the union will be represented by the high school seniors who come to Michigan State hoping to beat the 180 to 1 odds and win one of the ADS scholarships.

Floyd Kirk from Aiea, Hawaii, Susan Salo from Mount Edgecumbe, Alaska, Kevin O'Brien from Frankfurt, Germany, Robert Kushler from Warwickshire, England, and more than 900 other candidates will be tested this weekend.

Another 900 students will compete next weekend.

The majority of the candidates are finalists in the annual National Merit Scholarship competition. Others were chosen on the basis of test scores and academic records. Nearly half come from Michigan.

Each year it is hoped that a number of those who don't quite make the ADS cut-off will decide to come to Michigan State anyway. Dormitory contacts with MSU students and Friday afternoon meetings with faculty members are intended to provide the high school seniors with information that will persuade them to enroll here.

At 2 p.m. Friday they will gather in the Auditorium for a short meeting at which Charles W. Curry, associate director of admissions and scholarships, will explain the weekend's activities.

The candidates will then split into groups according to academic interests, and spend an hour-and-a-half with faculty members and honor students from the University's various colleges.

Carmichael sees ghettos as black power bloc in '72

He loosened his tie, unbuttoned his collar, clenched his fists, mimicked President Johnson, and denounced integration.

Stokeley Carmichael, national chairman of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC), Thursday told a near-capacity crowd in the Auditorium, "We're fighting against white supremacy. We're not marching to integrate with anyone."

When asked why he did not seek white sympathy and support, Carmichael replied, "We appeal to our own people, not to those in the oppressive camp. If they're sympathetic, let them work within their own race to civilize it."

Carmichael, founder of the all-Negro political party Black Panther, said that a united minority always rules the majority. "And we're the largest minority in the country," he said.

SNCC's target date for political organization is 1972 "when Bobby will be fighting Hubert and Reason will be fighting Lindsay." By then SNCC expects that Negro ghettos, wielding the political leverage gained in 1965 and 1964 state reapportionment battles, will serve as a black bloc in power politics.

"The only time blacks gain is when white people are divided. Look what happened during the Civil War," Carmichael said.

He charged that the press is no longer able to objectively report racial news, much less analyze it.

"Their 'get-whities' sensationalism leads to superficial and misleading definitions of such terms as black power," the SNCC leader said.

Carmichael said he just won a case in Georgia which stated that rioting can no longer be a cause for arrest. A specific charge, such as throwing a brick at a policeman, must be made. This case was never reported by the press, Carmichael claimed.

He also focused on the difference between institutional racism and individual acts of racism. Individual acts, like the bombing of a Negro church, are not the concern of SNCC, Carmichael said. "Such acts are deplored by both sides.

"In Atlanta 500 Negro babies a year die from starvation or lack of medical aid," he said. "That is an act of institutional racism, and nothing meaningful has been done about it."

Some people benefit politically and economically from the ghettos, and they're the ones who have the power to change them, he said.

"It's as if a malignant racist force had formally made each ghetto from the same plan. It would be less (please turn to page 11)

Coed uncovers for photo, bares university problem

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Prettv Pam Brewer was a cause celebre on the University of Florida campus Thursday and not just because her 38-25-38 charms were displayed nude in an off-campus humor magazine.

She is the center, not only of a full-length gatefold picture on a white Persian rug, but also of a rising controversy over student rights and university control.

"It could be another Berkeley," said Andy Moor, an editor on the campus newspaper, Alligator.

Stan Laughlin, an associate law professor, agreed. "The whole area of students' relationship to the university has become increasingly sharp in the past few years - the whole idea of individual rights and a rule of law. The students are concerned."

In Berkeley's case, the movement started in 1964 and a year later crystallized on a specific case as unlikely as a nude picture: the right to use four-letter words.

Miss Brewer, who got her parents' permission, posed for the picture knowing that it probably would make her a public figure in more ways than one.

The coed whose uncovered form was displayed in the previous issue was put on probation by the faculty disciplinary committee. An editorial in the magazine said it would challenge any charges made against her.

Pam, an 18-year-old sophomore from Springfield, Va., gets a public hearing before the committee Friday in the tiny Board of Regents room, which seats only 50.

"I'm afraid there's going to be a mob scene," said Moor. "Thousands of students want to go, but the committee refused to move to a bigger room. Some of the students told me, 'I'm going to get in regardless.'"

SNOWBALLS AND GARBAGE

Soviet workers jeer Chinese

MOSCOW (AP) - Thousands of jeering Russians swarmed around Chinese diplomats yesterday in Moscow's biggest and wildest show of anti-Peking hostility.

Many three snowballs and garbage at the Chinese at Yaroslavl railway station and later shouted abuse of Mao and China as the diplomats sat impassively inside their car, its windows closed.

The Chinese diplomats were at the station to see off another group of students being sent home from study abroad to take part in Mao Tse-tung's "great cultural revolution."

The riotous scene lasted 30 minutes and blocked traffic in Komsomolskaya Square before the Chinese drove away. The new ugly mood toward the Chinese was evident at the railway station even before the trouble started.

Thousands of whistling and shouting Russians were jammed behind policemen standing shoulder to shoulder to keep them off the platform for the Moscow-Peking express. Another crowd was gathered in front of the station around a statue of Lenin.

The diplomats, who had smiled blandly on the railway platform when Russians threw three snowballs and refuse at them, seemed to aggravate the new incident.

As the Chinese diplomats started toward their cars and buses, parked in a nearby alley, they stopped for over a minute in front of the massed Russians and smiled at the din of derision. This apparently infuriated the crowd, which then poured down around the vehicles

The black Volga sedan in which the highest-ranking diplomats sat was surrounded. Russian faces glared in from all sides amid anti-Mao shouts. Police, pushing and shoving roughly, cleared a path. But the Chinese driver hesitated again and again.

Finally the car, followed by the buses, inched down the alley and got onto the main street in front. People milling about it blocked the traffic lanes at one of Moscow's busiest places.

The Chinese car continued its stop-and-go tactics while police kept urging the driver to get away.

Finally, after a U-shaped police line held the surging crowd, the Chinese drove off. The crowd, with some people shaking their fists, gave them one last hostile roar.

permanent cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam" without Communist de-escalation.

Rusk noted that President Johnson had told Pope Paul VI that the United States is prepared to talk at any time and place but not to reduce military action unless the other side will do the same.

Rusk insisted there must be "reciprocity."

"They must not expect us to stop our military action by bombing while they continue their military action by invasion," he said.

In exchange for the possibility of formless talks, Rusk said, the United States is being asked to take a grave military risk.

Asked to give an idea of the rate of infiltration by the North, Rusk said, "There is some time lag in our information on exact numbers."

But men and trucks continue to move south, he said. And from captured prisoners and other sources rather accurate figures are available.

But there is nothing to indicate the infiltration has stopped, he added.

To the Communists, he proposed: "Let good sense take charge for all of us."

Rusk said Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam had indicated a willingness to discuss an extension of the current four-day cease-fire.

EDITORIALS

Editorial freedom in danger at U-M

The soon-to-be-implemented investigation of The Michigan Daily demonstrates once again one of the most serious problems of on-campus student publications.

The U-M Board of Control of Student Publications asked Monday for a review by an "outside" group of The Daily's general structure and relationship to the university. The group will be selected from the university community.

The purpose of the review is unclear. Some feel that in the end it will result in restrictions on The Daily's editorial freedom. The Daily has published several signed editorials and stories which have drawn fire from both inside and outside the university community.

Campus coverage

Others predict a more basic review. Many feel they cannot rely on The Daily for coverage of campus news. At a university with over 30,000 students, The Daily has a circulation of only 8,100. Newly arisen technical problems have led some, including staff members, to call for professional advice to help solve these problems.

Inherent in the controversy is the traditional conflict of a free press vs. university control.

Because The Daily's publisher is a university group, legal and professional control of the paper technically rests with the university. On a professional daily paper, the publisher is the strict boss.

Free press

But the idea and tradition behind The Daily demands operational freedom for the student staff. The paper is to exemplify and teach the value of a free press. It is not meant to be an arm of the university.

Maintaining that necessary freedom demands that the university keep its hands off the controls. The initiative for a study like the one proposed should come from within The Daily's staff. If outside studies are to be made, then they should result in recommendations and not in orders.

Faculty intrusion

The intrusion of faculty power, whether intended to or not, could quite easily trespass upon The Daily's traditional freedom of operation; orders would be an obvious infringement.

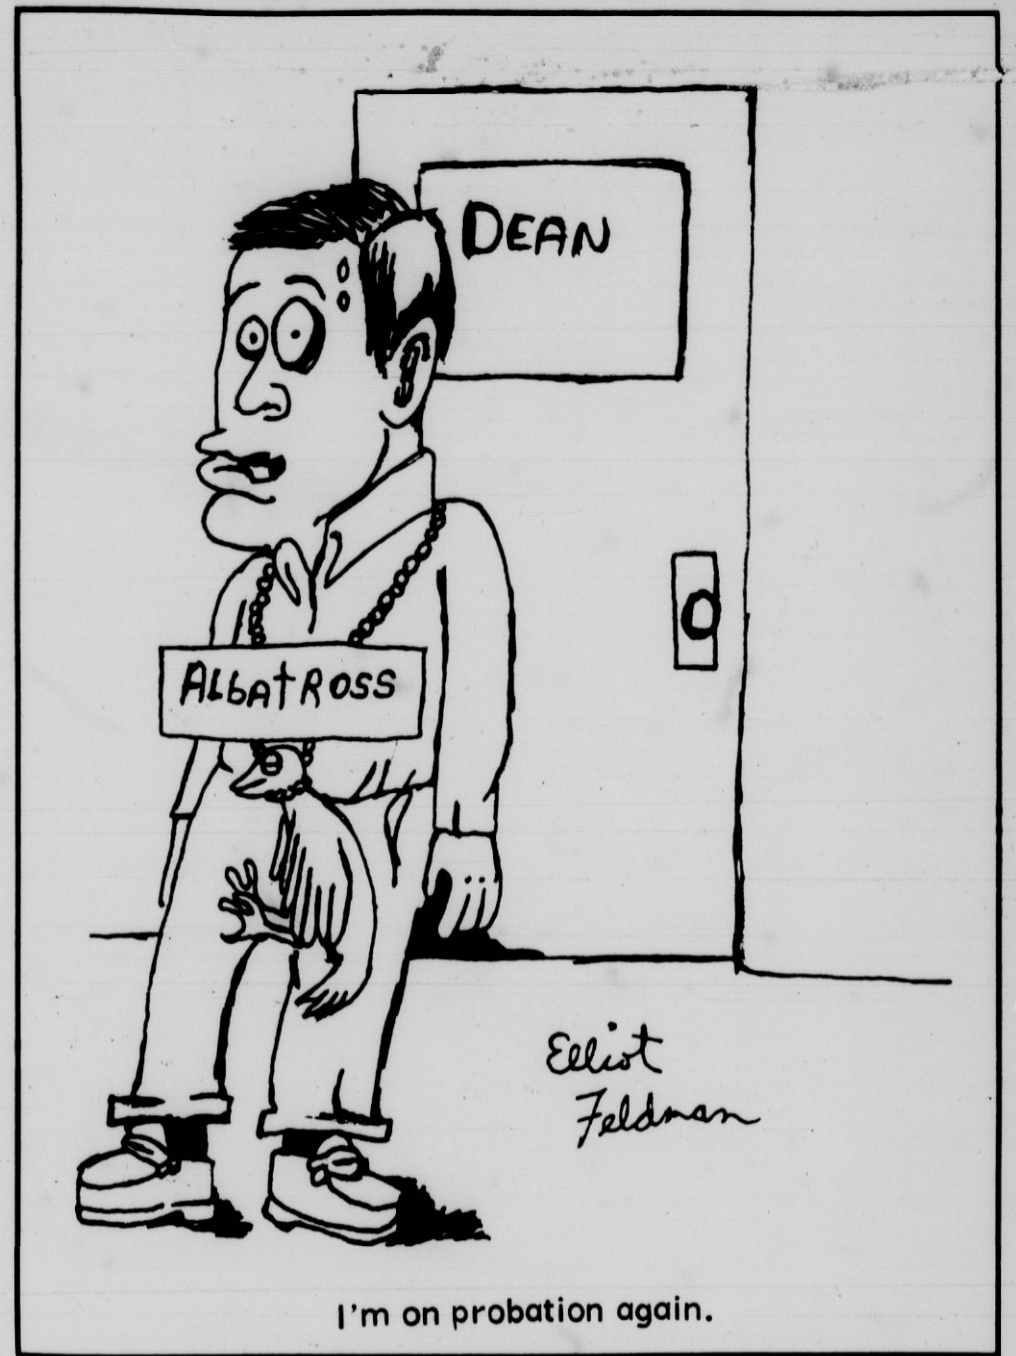

Six distinguished faculty members are named, none of whom are in the College of Agriculture. The entropy crop was damaged by frost.

Changes in the paper's circulation or business operations could well be initiated by The Daily's Board of Control. Outside non-professionals know very little about the operation of a newspaper. They should let those who are responsible and have the knowledge--the editors and the Board of Control--run the paper.

The potential loss of editorial freedom and operational integrity which would result from the proposed investigation is much greater than any possible gain.

$50 for CC seat smart investment

In inviting ASMSU to join the Chamber of Commerce, the Chamber has demonstrated its avowed desire to see students and merchants get along.

ASMSU, like the nearly 200 other individuals and members represented in the organization, would pay $50 to assume full voting membership on behalf of the student body. An ex officio (non-voting) seat on the 17 member board of directors is also open to ASMSU.

Though the invitation came mainly as a result of the current concern over prices in East Lansing, it would not be realistic to expect that East Lansing prices will now drop to what students might consider reasonable levels.

Prices might not drop at all, but communications on the subject should be improved. There are no doubt innumerable specific situations in which a student representative, working closely with other Commerce members, could be of benefit to both students and merchants.

The important point is that another line of communication between students and the town has been proposed.

With relations as they are now, every such line should be opened.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Hanoi will talk if bombing stops

EDITOR'S NOTE -- Wilfred Burchett, an Australian Communist writer, has frequently been a spokesman for the Communists in various situations in East Berlin, Korea and Vietnam. He has traveled frequently in North Vietnam and has just returned from there to Cambodia. He wrote the following article for The Associated Press when asked if he could clarify whether Hanoi is ready for talks and under what conditions. This article gives a Communist view and should be read in that light. The Associated Press has been trying for years to get its own correspondent into North Vietnam but has been unable to obtain a visa from Hanoi.

By WILFRED BURCHETT

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia P -- Hanoi is ready to sit down with the United States to hold preliminary talks to explore what steps can be taken to end the war in Vietnam. They are also prepared to receive President Johnson in the North Vietnamese capital if this will facilitate ending the war.

The basic conditions are that bombings of North Vietnam and "other acts of war" against North Vietnam, such as coastal shelling, be permanently halted.

The next move -- following Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh's declaration to me that if the bombings stopped "the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States could enter into talks" -- is believed by the North Vietnamese to be up to Washington.

In talks to the Vietnamese following the Trinh interview and seeking clarification, I was told:

"President Johnson said he was ready to go anywhere any time and do anything to end the war. It's up to the United States to act now. The United States must provide its good will in the affair.

"If bombings cease completely, good and favorable conditions will be created for the talks. Halt the bombings, come and talk. Let's see what can be done next. President Johnson said he was only awaiting a sign. Well, he's had the sign."

When I asked why a move was not made earlier -- and it's open knowledge that a number of Socialist bloc countries were urging such a move over a year ago -- I was told that if talks were offered a year ago the United States would have taken this as a sign of weakness and bombings would have been intensified.

"Even now," one Vietnamese said, "Washington hawks probably think they have got us on the run and will urge escalated bombings. But we are ready for that. In fact, our offers are made from a position of strength, not weakness: We withstood two years of heavy bombings. Our lives were reorganized on the basis of an expected continuance and the escalation of bombings.

"In the South, with 400,000 men, Washington is unable to improve the military situation. The aim of bombings was to cut our communications, make life unbearably difficult and reduce our will to struggle. In fact, none of these things have come about. We are much stronger today than a year ago."

In talks with President Ho Chi Minh, Premier Phan Van Dong, Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap and many other leaders, I found them more confident than a year ago that they could carry on indefinitely.

In general, they explained the confident mood was because life had settled down after two years of bombing. As Pham Van Dong expressed it, "1966 has been a year of trial, of big escalation bombing but also of increased agricultural and industrial production. We know we can withstand anything now."

I could find no foreign resident in Hanoi or any foreign visitor who found any signs of weakening morale among the Vietnamese, and that certainly is my own impression after hundreds of conversations, including those with residents in the most heavily bombed areas.

While I believe the overwhelming majority of Vietnamese are ready to accept all sorts of sacrifices and fight as long as leaders consider necessary, there is also a tremendous yearning for peace, reuniting with evacuated families and a return to normal life which a terribly high proportion of Vietnamese have not known for almost a quarter of a century. But the almost universal reaction I found after the first excited discussion of the news, was "It's up to Washington now. What will Johnson say?"

President Johnson's "I see no sign" statement was received in Hanoi glumly or with an exultant "I told you so" reaction, according to whom one spoke with, so far as the general public reaction was concerned.

On the question of whether Hanoi is prepared to offer anything in exchange for a cessation of bombings, I was told officially:

The Democratic Republic of Vietnam is a sovereign state. Bombings are a violation of this sovereignty. They must cease. This is not a matter for bargaining. We have nothing to offer in exchange."

Except, it was added jocularly, "If the Americans cease sending their planes, we cease firing at them, shooting them down, cease killing or capturing their pilots."

It has been made clear to me on several previous occasions that Hanoi will never agree to talks while bombing is continued nor even during a temporary cessation because the implication would be if the talks took place during a temporary cessation that the United States would use the threat of a resumption of bombings as a bargaining point.

This is unacceptable.

According to diplomatic circles in Hanoi, there is another fundamental reason why Hanoi demands an unconditional end to bombardments before talks can start. It is asserted this is also the reason for a phrase in the foreign minister's reply to my third question: "The United States has shown an utmost obduracy and perfidy" on the question of talks.

According to these sources, two previous attempts to arrange first contacts for talks were foiled in the first place by the start of systematic bombing of North Vietnam in February of 1965 and secondly by the bombings of Hanoi last Dec. 13-14.

Both events are said to have coincided within days of concrete arrangements for contacts. If this is so, it explains also why feelers were thrown out for President Johnson to visit Hanoi, and why I was told: "Let them come and talk."

OUR READERS' MINDS

Give us some stout-hearted men

To the Editor:
Recently you printed an editorial calling for more mature and responsible fraternities. To say some students are immature or irresponsible is not a very staggering assertion. One need only look at the "overdue" list at the library or the Olin list of broken bones during the snowstorm to see this manifested. However, to say fraternities are immature or irresponsible is, I think, a gross overgeneralization and indicative of a lack of understanding.

The ideals, the standards, and the challenges of a social fraternity are perhaps the most mature concepts on the American campus today. For example, let me sign an excerpt from the creed of the Sigma Nu fraternity:

To believe in the life of Love ...
To walk in the way of Honor ...
To serve in the light of Truth ...
This is the life, the way, and the light of Sigma Nu.
This is the creed of our Fraternity.

All national fraternities of any prominence have concepts such as these at their base. They are not new, by any means, but older even than the university system itself. I ask you: Does this sound like the babblings of an immature or irresponsible system? Perhaps some of the men in the fraternity system are immature or irresponsible, but then so are some of the men in every organization of any size on the face of the earth. If this is what you are saying, Mister Editor, you have said nothing. If you really mean you think the fraternity system is irresponsible, you are mistaken! We do not need a more responsible or mature system, (I doubt if there could be one), but more responsible, more mature, and more generous men to answer the challenge of the fraternities. We need men who will live the life of love, men who will walk in the way of honor, and men who will serve in the light of truth.

No, Mister Editor, the need is not for fraternities to mature and to become more responsible, but for men in general to do so. The challenge of the fraternity system is to lead the way.

UC students in fix

To the Editor:
I would like to comment on a column written by Dennis Chase. He failed to point out that the main case against California Governor Ronald Reagan has to do with his tuition proposals. His proposals directly affect the Cal students. The prospect of paying $400 more would force many students to leave the university and attend a junior college, which has neither many of their majors nor their chosen courses.

However, I am more concerned with the fate of another type of student: the upper class (junior and senior) male, unable to pay an additional $400 and not quite superior enough to receive a scholarship. This student is well on his way to a career--there is very little chance of his dropping out of school--and would someday take his place in society as an educated citizen with a good job. This student would be forced by the tuition charge to drop out of school (he cannot attend the junior college because of his class status), forsake his chosen career, and most likely be invited (by his local draft board) to serve his country. His prospects for the future are very unfortunate.

19 Lansing firemen suspended

Red retouching job

An official Red Chinese agency, "China Photo Service," released this photo as a view of a meeting in Taiyuan, capital of Shansi province, to express the revolutionary rebels' determination to rally and seize power they said had been usurped by anti-Maoists taking the capitalist road. But No. 1 indicates a poster scratched off the negative with a pointed instrument; No. 2, an area beside Mao's portrait painted out in the print; and No. 3, some crude retouching brush marks over posters on the rostrum display.

By LINDA GORTMAKER
State News Staff Writer

Nineteen of Lansing's 261 firemen were suspended Thursday for refusing to perform routine work.

Declining to paint newly-constructed offices in fire station 2, six of the men, including Gary Thomas president of Firefighters Local 421, were suspended Thursday morning upon orders by Donald Burnett, acting fire chief for vacationing chief Victor Space.

By 7 p.m. Thursday, 13 more men were suspended for refusing to sweep floors, wash dishes and other chores.

No orders had been issued to firemen all day Thursday with men only going on emergency calls. At 6 p.m. some captains started giving orders. Thirteen men refused and were suspended.

An emergency meeting of the police and fire board and Lansing Mayor Max Murningham was held Thursday night.

No union members attended this meeting, Thomas tried to contact Murningham at 6 p.m. Thursday, but, according to Thomas, the mayor hung up on him and ignored his request.

Before the meeting, Murningham said that if the situation worsened Governor Romney might be asked to provide National Guard help.

19-man suspension was not a strike but independent actions on the men's part.

"This is the culmination of continued bad treatment of the firemen," Thomas said. "The suspension has solidified the men and my main concern now is that the men don't walk-out."

Firefighter locals in East Lansing and Meridian Township both sent telegrams to the Lansing local, supporting the suspended firemen in their actions.

Thomas said he had been disturbed earlier in the week about the firemen's painting of offices for instructional personnel. He and another union member approached Burnett Tuesday and asked him to hold off the painting until a union bargaining committee could hold a discussion.

After returning from a fire call Thursday morning, five firemen and Thomas, who had just been transferred Wednesday night from fire station 3 to 2, refused to start painting upon their captain's request because a union meeting had not yet been held.

"We were also honoring the supporting picketers from the Painters and Decorators Local 845 who agreed that painting was not part of a firemen's job," said Thomas.

The few picketers were walking in front of the fire station after receiving a phone call from an unidentified fireman, one source said.

Thursday's picketing was not related to previous wage increase demands by the firemen, Thomas clarified.

"Our complaint now is about the painting," he added.

Orbiter achieves moon path; will take photos Wednesday

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Lunar Orbiter 3 zipped swiftly around the moon in an oblong orbit today, preparing to shoot close-up pictures of the rugged lunar surface.

Orbiter, trapped in the moon's gravitational field after a precise deboost maneuver Wednesday, circles the moon every 3 hours and 35 minutes at altitudes ranging from 171 to 1,118 miles.

"We'll shoot our first pictures next Wednesday," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, "and probably have a read-out of the first partial frame the same day."

UAW REQUESTS Reform of AFL-CIO

DETROIT (AP)—Reconstruction of the AFL-CIO was a price set Thursday by the United Auto Workers for its continuance in the federation.

It expressed "deep concern the labor movement is vegetating" under George Meany's leadership, and accused the 73-year-old AFL-CIO president of violating constitutional and convention mandates which fail to meet his "personal pleasure."

Declaring there is urgent need "for a vital, vibrant, dynamic, socially progressive labor movement," the UAW outlined an independent program it proposed to pursue outside the AFL-CIO structure.

Its 1.4 million making up the largest union within the 13.5-million member federation, the UAW said its withdrawal threat is aimed at getting "the American labor movement off dead center."

It stressed what it said was a need for a massive organizing crusade, social action and help for struggling unions.

There was no immediate rejoinder from Meany or other AFL-CIO leaders, who had ignored, publicly at least, the UAW's withdrawal threat since it first was disclosed last week.

In Washington, an AFL-CIO spokesman said there would be no comment on the Auto Workers' demand for internal reform until the manifesto containing it is received there; that there would be no comment on press reports of it.

The 26-member UAW International Executive Board last week unanimously ordered the union's 59-year-old president, Walter P. Reuther, and its other three top officers to sever all connections with the rulling AFL-CIO Executive Council.

At the same time it directed the agenda for an April 20-22 UAW convention be expanded to include a discussion of relationships with the parent AFL-CIO and a proposal that the Executive Board be authorized to take whatever action it deems necessary in this regard.

Action could come first, however, from the AFL-CIO Executive Council. It meets next week in Miami Beach.

NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS

Academic Advising, Enrollment, and Registration For 1967 Spring Term

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FROM THE REGISTRAR

During the period February 1-3, obtain a 1967 Spring term Time Schedule For Courses and a Student Schedule Card (available to dormitory residents in their residence hall on Wednesday, February 1; and to other students in the first-floor concourse of the Union Building, and the Center for International Programs, on Thursday-Friday, February 2-3, during the hours 8 a.m.-5 p.m.).

A summary of what to do -- where, when, concerning the enrollment and registration procedure for Spring term is outlined in the 1967 Spring Term Time Schedule For Courses. If your Student Academic Progress Plan (or similar planning form that may be used in your college) needs updating, see your academic adviser according to the arrangement in your college (and possibly department) as outlined below:

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND LETTERS

All Students in the College of Arts and Letters, except Art Majors, should see their academic advisers during their office hours on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, February 13, 14 and 15. Advisers will be in their offices at least one hour each afternoon and morning of these three days. Check with department offices for the hours of individual advisers. Make an appointment to minimize waiting in line or if you cannot come at the hours scheduled. You may also see your adviser before these dates during his regular office hours or by appointment.

Bring with you a trial program!

Art majors and minors should see their art advisers on Monday, February 13. All art classes will be dismissed on that day and advisers will be in their offices from 8-12 and 1-4.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

All students, including graduate students, should see their advisers during regular office hours. Academic advising is a continuing process in which a student and a faculty member discuss possible options in a student's potential career, total education program, and chosen major. Enrollment is a student responsibility in selecting courses for a term schedule from a student's academic plan previously developed but continually reviewed with the adviser. Electives should be reviewed and approved periodically by the adviser. General electives taken during the Junior and Senior years should be primarily at the 300-400 level. The required upper level Economics electives are often used as a supplement to the student's major requirements and should be selected in consultation with the adviser or from an approved departmental list in the major department. All students in the College of Business are responsible for studying and knowing University, College, and Departmental requirements as stated in the MSU Catalog.

Juniors and Seniors should conform to catalog requirements and to the additional College policies carried in a statement mailed to all upper level students just prior to the opening of Fall term (A copy of this statement is available in 313 Berkeley Hall). Upper level students in the College of Business (1) should not repeat "D" grades, (2) should not exceed the 12 credit repeat limit, (3) should not schedule excess credits, (4) should not take graduate courses, (5) should not request permission to drop courses after the official midterm date except for catastrophic reasons, and normally should not request permission to drop courses after the free drop period provided at the beginning of the term. The Office of Assistant Dean is responsible for enforcing such policies and may enforce them by the use of Dean's Drops, withdrawal of College registrations, specific request refusals, and other means not popular with students who do not conform to clearly stated College of Business policies.

Seniors, starting their senior year, should submit an adviser-approved student academic progress plan for the Assistant Dean's file. This plan should clearly show how the student plans to meet his graduation target with all course requirements met. Seniors may leave their senior year academic progress plans with their advisers for transmission to the Assistant Dean's Office or bring them to the Office personally. First term seniors are encouraged to make appointments during the forthcoming term with Mr. Mier or Mr. Morris in 313 Berkeley Hall (5-7605-Assistant Dean's Office) to discuss their senior year academic progress plans and their graduation requirements. A senior is certified for graduation by his major adviser and by the Office of Assistant Dean. While the student is responsible for knowing and meeting all graduation requirements Mr. Mier or Mr. Morris are available to help, in addition to the student's adviser, in interpreting requirements and handling senior year scheduling problems. If no plan is submitted it is assumed that the student will graduate at an indefinite future date when all requirements are met.

MSU Relays: 'experiment' now top attraction

By NORM SAARI
State News Sports Writer

The story of the 44th Annual MSU Relays, to be held Saturday, is one of "progress," according to MSU Track Coach and meet director Fran Dittrich.

"There was once a time when the relays was an early season meet for coaches to experiment and place men in their proper events for their upcoming conference season," Dittrich said. "In the last ten years, though, it has developed into a terrific meet. Times have been going down and will continue to, but this is the way it should be. It shows that we are making progress."

Dittrich, who has been associated with the meet for the past 31 years, notes this as a "natural development."

"Kids are more serious about track now. Practice is more intensive, and there is just bound to be improvement."

Both Dittrich and his assistant, Jim Gibbard, feel this "natural development" will continue, and say it will take a meet record to win every event this Saturday except maybe in the shotput.

The Spartan track team could play a major role in re-writing the meet records, as they have two defending champs -- Gene Washington in the 70-yard high and low hurdles and Jim Summers in the 60-yard dash -- competing, three relay teams that could break records and a strong delegation of individual entries.

Washington has won both the high and low hurdles for the past two years, holding the meet records of 0:07.9 in the low and 0:08.5 in the high. Charles Pollard and Steve Derby are other MSU runners competing in the hurdles.

This trio and Bob Steele will be entering the 240-yard shuttle hurdle relay, an event won last year by MSU with a record time of 0:25.8. Washington and Steele were members of the winning team.

Summers, who came out for the team late and may not be in top shape, will be defending his 60-yard dash title, but expects to be seriously challenged by Notre Dame's Bill Hurd.

"I'm not in the kind of condition I would like to be in for this meet," Summers said. "The competition will add spice to the meet, and the pride of being returning champ will help. I'll be looking forward to running against Hurd."

Summers' record time is 0:06.3, while Hurd has a career best of six seconds flat.

Another top individual entry will be Dick Sharkey, the two-miler who set the MSU varsity record of 8:51.2 last week and will be going for the meet and field-house record of 9:01.4.

"I'd like to break 8:50 in this meet," Sharkey said. "A lot will depend on how I feel and what time I get for the first mile. If I run the first one in anywhere from 4:15 to 4:20, I could break the record."

His big competition should come from Oscar Moore of Southern Illinois, a 29-year-old sophomore.

MSU's entry in the "race of the evening," the one-mile run, will be sophomore Dale Stanley, who ran a career best of 4:19.6 last weekend. He will be running against Jim Ryun.

"Running against Ryun is like something you get to tell your grandchildren," Stanley said. "It will be an honor to run with him. He should win the race, but not by much."

The sprint medley and mile relay teams could set new records, as they both have run lower times already this year. In individual field events, Spartan entries include Don Crawford in the long jump; Roland Carter, Jim Stewart and John Wilcox in the pole vault; Joe Auffrey and Dennis Lamb in the shot put, and Allan Miabach and Mike Bowers in the high jump.

Mike Martens is entered in the 1,000-yard run and Richard Dunn in the 600 for other individual entries.

MSU teams will also be entered in the distance medley and two-mile relays.

Field events and preliminaries will start at 1:30 p.m. and finals will begin at 6:30. Students will need their ID card for admission.

MSU Relay Runners

Dale Stanley and Jim Summers are MSU's hopes in the two top races in the MSU Relays this weekend. Stanley will compete in the mile against Jim Ryun. Summers is not yet in top shape, after coming out late, but will defend his 60-yard dash title against standout sophomore Bill Hurd of Notre Dame. Ryun's world record in the mile speaks for itself.

MIKKOLA LEADING SCORER

Skaters face U-M roadblock

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

MSU's hockey team runs into Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. (WCHA) leader Michigan this weekend, with a former doubtful starter now leading the way.

The Spartans face the Wolverines in an away-home series, playing at Ann Arbor tonight and in the Spartans' Ice Arena Saturday. Saturday's game will start at 7:30.

Tom Mikkola, senior co-captain, who suffered a wrist injury prior to the start of the season, was not expected to play this year at all. He now tops the Spartan scorers for the second straight week.

Following the Michigan Tech series, Mikkola took over the scoring lead from Doug Valmar, last year's scoring king, who continues to ride a slight goal-scoring slump.

Mikkola, center on the No. 1 line, has 27 points on 11 goals and 16 assists in 18 games. The wrist injury, which is still a slight hinderance, kept him out of the Spartans' first four games.

The 5-11, 175-pounder from Copper Cliff, Ont., scored three points last weekend in helping the Spartans sweep a two-game series from Minnesota, 6-4 and 6-3.

Behind Mikkola, the Spartan skaters have two others with 20 points or more this season to pose as top threats to Michigan. Volmar is second with 24 points on 17 goals and seven assists, while Sandy McAndrew is third with 10 goals and 13 assists.

McAndrew leads all Spartans in WCHA scoring with 20 points on nine goals and 11 assists. Mikkola's ability to take up the scoring slack when Volmar was unable to produce will be a vital factor to the Spartans' success against the high-flying Wolverines, who are 8-2 in the WCHA and 16-2-1 overall.

The Spartan skaters, fifth in the WCHA with a 4-9-1 record and a 7-12-1 mark overall, have to be strong offensively against Michigan, and Mikkola's recent surge to the top could well provide the trick.

Mikkola will team up with the other co-captain, senior Mike Jacobson, and sophomore Lee Hathaway on the No. 1 line. Jacobson has 16 points on seven goals and nine assists this season, while Hathaway has four points on two goals and as many assists.

Volmar will man the right wing post on the No. 2 line with sophomore Ken Anstey at the other wing and senior Willie Faunt at the center spot. McAndrew will center the No. 3 line, with Wayne Duffett and Nino Cristofoli manning the wings.

The Spartans will be at a disadvantage for the first game of the series as junior Doug French, a starter on defense all season, will sit it out. He was given a spearing disqualification penalty in last Saturday's game against Minnesota, and WCHA rules require sitting out the remainder of the game in which the penalty is assessed and the next.

Coach Arno Bessone said he will dress an extra defenseman for Friday night--John Shuster.

Gaye Cooley will start in the nets for the Spartans Friday night. Bessone said he is not certain who will be the goal tender Saturday.

Cooley was credited with both victories against Minnesota. He stopped 30 shots the first night and 41 the next.

For the season, Cooley has a 4.7 goals-against-average, giving up 65 goals in 13.7 games played. He has made 477 saves.

Top Spartan Scorer

Tom Mikkola, senior center and co-captain on the hockey team falls to the ice while getting off a shot against a Colorado College goalie in a recent game at the Ice Arena. Mikkola will be paving the way for the Spartans in a crucial away-home series this weekend. He has 27 points in 18 games.

Why become an engineer at Garrett-AiResearch? You'll have to work harder and use more of your knowledge than engineers at most other companies.

If you're our kind of engineer, you have some very definite ideas about your career.

For example: You've worked hard to get a good education. Now you want to put it to work in the best way possible.

You will never be satisfied with run-of-the-mill assignments. You demand exciting, challenging projects.

You not only accept individual responsibility -- you insist upon it.

Does that sound like you? Then AiResearch is your cup of tea.

Our business is mainly in sophisticated aerospace systems and subsystems.

Here, research, design, and development lead to production of actual hardware. That means you have the opportunity to start with a customer's problem and see it through to a system that will get the job done.

The product lines at AiResearch, Los Angeles Division, are environmental systems, flight information and controls systems, heat transfer systems, secondary power generator systems for missiles and space, electrical systems, and specialized industrial systems.

In each category AiResearch employs three kinds of engineers.

Preliminary design engineers do the analytical and theoretical work, then write proposals.

Design engineers do the layouts; turn an idea into a product.

Developmental engineers are responsible for making hardware out of concepts.

Whichever field fits you best, we can guarantee you this: you can go as far and fast as your talents can carry you. You can make as much money as any engineer in a comparable spot -- anywhere. And of course, at AiResearch, you'll get all the plus benefits a top company offers.

Our engineering staff is smaller than comparable companies. This spells opportunity. It gives a man who wants to make a mark plenty of elbow room to expand. And while he's doing it he's working with, and learning from, some of the real pros in the field.

If the AiResearch story sounds like opportunity speaking to you -- don't fail to contact AiResearch, Los Angeles, or see our representative when he comes to your campus.

We'll be happy to talk to you -- about you and your future. And put this in the back of your mind:

1st OF 3 'BIG' MEETS

G-men take aim at Illinois

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

Saturday, the Spartan gymnasts enter the first of three rings in a week-long circus of activity that will determine the Big Ten champion.

The undefeated MSU G-men face twice-beaten Illinois at Champaign. The Illini, one of the top conference powers, lost close decisions to Big Ten leaders Michigan and Iowa, both of whom MSU will meet next week.

The Wolves edged Illinois, 190.825-190.70, while Iowa won by a slim margin, 185.00-182.30.

Last year, the Spartans knocked Illinois out of contention by winning their dual clash and setting a Big Ten scoring record, 192.45-184.00.

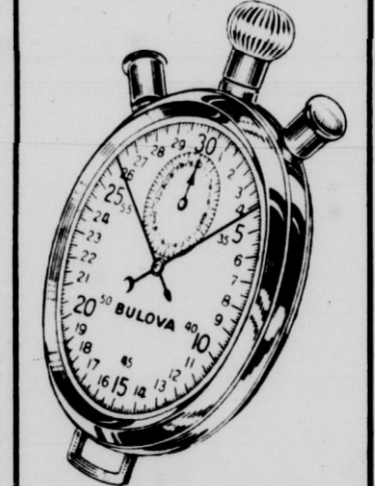

Despite the Illini's losses, they still have a chance for the crown. Although they're out to play spoilers Saturday, a defeat at the hands of the Spartans will not eliminate them from the running.

A point is handed out for every dual win. The winner of the Big Ten Meet gets an additional eight points, with seven for the second-place finisher and on down the line. Despite the placings in the conference standings, a third-place team could win the title if it finished first in the meet.

The Illini's strongest events shape up to be parallel bars, high bar and trampoline. The trampoline unit combined for 27.60 against Michigan.

Randy Brown, Chuck Weber and Bill Silhan combine to form a powerful high bar group. They scored a total of 28.15 against the Wolves.

Vault is led by Hal Shaw, who edged Spartan Dave Thor for the Big Ten title last year. The vaulters had their best day at Michigan, where they combined for 27.15.

Coach Charlie Pond's squad lost only four lettermen. He has outstanding performers in Cookie Rollo in tramp, parallel bars and vault; Bill Silhan in all-around; Shaw in vault, floor exercise and trampoline, and Weber in high and parallel bars.

The Spartans are back at full strength, with Dave Thor ready for all-around and trampoline and Dave Croft back in the rings line-up.

Coach George Szypula is counting on vault and floor exercise to give the Spartans a commanding lead. He feels that the trampolinists, with a good day, could hold their own.

"Parallels and high bar are a toss-up," he noted. "We should win side horse. We've got to beat them on rings."

Toby Towson, after an excellent performance against Wisconsin last week, teams up with captain Ron Aure and Bill Diggins in floor exercise. Aure and Diggins will also work vault.

Ed Gunny is scheduled for vault, high bar and rings. Cliff Diehl will work both bar events, along with Norm Haynie. Dennis Smith is set for side horse and parallels.

Also working the horse are Ed Witzke and Jerry Moore. Keith Sterner, Ray Walker and Aure will work trampoline. Rings is a toss-up, with Szypula still undecided between Gunny, Croft, Larry Goldberg and Dan Kinsey.

New cage worry: Purdue's Gilliam

By DENNIS CHASE
Associate Sports Editor

The crop of sophomores in the Big Ten this season is exceptionally talented. Chuck Nagle of Wisconsin, Dennis Stewart of Michigan, and Spartan Lee Lafayette are players who are likely to make the Big Ten interesting in the next two years.

Tomorrow, at Lafayette, Ind., the Spartans face a Purdue sophomore who is tenth in Big Ten scoring and who MSU Coach John Benington said "has all the basketball moves." He is 6-2 forward-guard Herman Gilliam.

Gilliam has been scoring at a rate of nearly 19 points per game, and Freshman Coach Bob Norumann and asst. Coach Gus Ganakas, both of whom have scouted Gilliam, are very enthusiastic about him. "He's a real star," Ganakas said, "a very versatile athlete."

Purdue Coach George King has indicated that he will start Gilliam at forward. King warned opposing coaches at the beginning of the season that Gilliam would be a high scorer.

"At a Big Ten meeting, when all the coaches were talking about possible stars, King stood up and told us that Gilliam would be a dangerous player," Benington said. "He was very high on Gilliam."

The Spartans will be facing the same kind of team that has given them trouble all season. The Boilermakers are not particularly big but they are fast and, in King's words, try to "run the big guys down."

"They pose the same problems that Indiana did," Benington said. "They've got good scoring guards. They play alternating defenses, both zone and man-to-man, and they aren't big. But they make up for it with their quickness."

Benington, whose team beat the Boilermakers twice last year, 89-78 and 92-74, said this year's team is very different. "Last year they worked around the one big man, Dave Schellhase," Benington said.

Purdue will start Henry Ebershoff, second leading scorer on the team, and Bill Keller at guards, Gilliam and Roger Blalock at forwards, and Ted Reasoner at center.

Benington said that he is still uncertain whom he will start, but that Heywood Edwards and Matthew Aitch would alternate at center and forward. Other likely starters will be Lee Lafayette at forward, and Steve Rymal and John Bailey at guards. Art Baylor, John Holms, and Shannon Reading are also likely to see action, if Benington holds true to form.

Benington said he expects Purdue to use a zone, but King said "We'll stay pretty much man-to-man."

Purdue is 10-5 in all games, and 2-3 in the Big Ten. The Boilermakers lost to Wisconsin, Ohio State and Michigan and beat Minnesota twice. They have an edge in the series with the Spartans, 18-10. MSU is 3-2 in the Big Ten.

In other action, Iowa will be at Ohio State in a televised game, Michigan is at Northwestern, Illinois is at Minnesota and Wisconsin is at Indiana.

Wrestlers get No. 1 rating before final home meet

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

Here's a line you've never heard before: "We're Number 1." No. 1 status may not be new to MSU sports fans, but for the first time in recent years it can be applied to the Spartan wrestling squad.

In the latest poll compiled by the Amateur Wrestling News, college wrestling's most respected rate, Editor Jess Hoke places MSU above Oklahoma and Oklahoma State at the top position.

But for devoted fans, the last home wrestling meet of the season will be at 3 p.m. Saturday in the I.M. Sports Arena when they take on Big Ten rival Iowa in a dual meet.

"When Michigan State wrestled Oklahoma State University and the University of Oklahoma on successive nights on the Okie mats, tying one and winning the other, they earned the right to be named as the nation's No. 1 college team," Hoke wrote.

"Although lacking in individual talent, the Spartans have a well balanced team. They wrestle aggressively, are equally as good on their feet as on the mats and are in fine physical condition for this period of the season. Don Behm, 130, and George Radman, 167, are both undefeated in dual competition, and the leading hopes for individual honors in the NCAA. Heavyweight Jeff Richardson and Dale Anderson, 137, are capable of placing, and Dale Carr, 145, and Mike Bradley, 177, have good potential.

"The Spartans won the tough Midlands tournament in December and the Northwestern Quad in early January and are undefeated in seven (now eight) dual meets to date," Hoke said.

Lehigh, Iowa State and Michigan round Hoke's ratings of major teams.

For Behm, Radman and Richardson, the three starting seniors on the squad, this will be their last appearance before the home crowd, and they'll be hoping to bow out in style.

Behm has disposed of 15 opponents while losing once this season, that in the Midlands tournament. The 5-3, 130-pounder from Winnetka, Ill., won the Big Ten championship at 130 and was third in the NCAA meet during his sophomore year. Last season he was second in the Big Ten at 123, wrestling out of his weight class.

Richardson is on the opposite end of the scale, weighing 240, but has been equally successful. He also won the Big Ten championship as a sophomore and was second last year after missing the first half of the season because of his play on the football team in the Rose Bowl.

He missed part of this season due to post-season football but has won four matches and tied one since his return.

Radman was third in the Big Ten last year but remains undefeated in 13 matches this year and has beaten the top three men in his weight class, including NCAA champion Dave Reinbolt.

Heading the list of juniors is Dale Anderson who has won 15 straight at 137. The 5-5 Anderson placed first in the Big Ten last year at 130 and lost only one match in dual meet competition.

Carr, who won at 137 in the Big Ten last season has an 8-4-1 record at 145 and Bradley, defending league champ at 177, has a 9-2-1 record to date at that weight. Bradley is actively being challenged for his position by sophomore John Schneider.

ND issue settled

MSU finally won a national championship from Notre Dame, even if it was only in handball.

Bob Ballard, of the University Business Office, and Karl Asmus, instructor in economics, defeated Notre Dame graduate students Don Krebs and Louis Gullou in the finals of the 20th National YMCA Contenders Handball Tournament recently. That ought to settle things once and for all.

Tankers leery of OSU

What has happened to the Ohio State swimming team is almost sad. The Buckeyes have won more NCAA swimming team championships (11) than any other team, but this year finds them at a new low.

The Buckeyes have already lost swimming meets to such comparatively lowly teams as Wisconsin and Princeton, and they don't seem to have much of a chance against a good one, Michigan State, Saturday at Columbus.

But Coach Charles McCaffree warned against discounting the traditionally strong team. "Never count Ohio State out. They always train for the nationals and come on strong."

The Spartans have a long-standing series with Ohio State. Of the 26 times that the two teams have met, the Spartans have won only six. But they have won the last three years in a row and last year handed the Buckeye swimmers the worst defeat of the series, 75-48.

Despite the comparative fall of Ohio State from excellent to just good, they retain individual performers who have to be rated among the best in the nation. Two of the Buckeyes have won national titles. Bob Hopper won both Big Ten and NCAA titles as a sophomore in 200-yard individual medley and took second in both meets in the 400-yard individual medley. Last year, as a junior, Hopper retained his Big Ten crown but lost his NCAA title to Bill Utley of Indiana. Hopper often does not hit his competitive peak until late in the season, and Spartan Pete Williams may successfully challenge him.

OSU's other National champion has three National AAU diving titles. Chuck Knorr was rated highly by Spartan diving coach John Narcy, but Narcy's divers Duane Green, Doug Todd and Fred Whitford have shown themselves ready to give anyone a good contest.

Ohio State, however, has its greatest depth of talent in the sprint freestyle events. Buckeye record-holder Tom Lakin is backed up by four other top freestylers. They could provide a strong threat in the 400-yard freestyle events as well as in the 50- and 100-yard free style events.

Yet in the freestyle MSU can match strength for strength. Gary Dilley and Gary Langley, in the sprints, Don Rauch, Rolf Groseth and Steve Yamamoto in the middle-distance, Dan Pangborn and Chuck Geggie in the long distance, and co-captain Ken Walsh at almost any distance make the freestylers the Spartans' strongest contingent.

Changes in sabre for fencing meets

The final home fencing meet of the year for the MSU swordsmen will be their biggest challenge before the Big Ten championships, to be held at Wisconsin in March.

Meets are scheduled for both Friday and Saturday for the Spartans, as they will be meeting Wayne State University and the University of Chicago, on Friday evening at 7:30, and Wisconsin, Iowa and Air Force Academy Saturday morning at 9:30. Both meets will be in Gym 3 of the Men's I.M.

MSU Fencing Coach Charles Schmitter will make some changes in sabre Friday to strengthen the team's weakest weapon. Undefeated Charlie Baer still holds the number one position, and he will be joined by Bill Wunsch and Dean Daggett.

Starting in foil will be Roger Loutzenhiser, Terry Givens and Serge Montalvo, while Ken Somerville, Gus Schubert and Bill Kerner will compete in epee.

"As soon as we get 14 points, or have 15 against us, I'll start substituting," Schmitter said. A team needs 14 wins in competition to win the meet.

"Inexperience has hurt us this year, and I want to give other fencers some needed meet competition," he said.

"All the teams we meet this weekend are about even. They should all be tough meets."

In addition to the MSU meets Friday night, Air Force will meet Notre Dame and Wayne will also duel Wisconsin here.

WILLIAMS:

'LBJ must ease policy-or else'

By MIKE BROGAN
State News Staff Writer

Unless President Johnson "turns a corner" concerning the Vietnam situation, the Democrat party may have difficulties in 1968.

Williams said the Republican party made significant gains in the 1966 election partly because of public frustration over Vietnam and the nationwide summer rioting.

Looking to the 1968 election, Williams said he doesn't think Gov. George Romney, considered prime GOP presidential timber, has yet demonstrated "his competence in foreign affairs."

Regarding U.S. foreign relations, Williams said relations with the Soviet Union are "closer than they have been in many years."

He pointed to the Sino-Soviet split as a major reason, adding that U.S. efforts to build "bridges" to satellite countries in terms of trade and cultural exchange have also helped.

"I think we are going to see an entirely different relationship with Russia in the future," he said.

Turning to Michigan's fiscal situation, Williams said tax reform is essential and that reform cannot come without a state income tax.

With at least 40 states now having a state income tax, Williams pointed out that it is not a "novel or abnormal thing."

Defeated by U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin last November, Williams is now "relaxing," though still in touch with his party and politics.

Williams was appointed Undersecretary of State for African Affairs during the Kennedy administration, serving in Africa until running for senator last year.

He has written a book covering his years in Africa, though it has not been printed yet.

Would he run for office again, if asked? Williams smiled. "That's too much speculation to think about."

East Lansing's Planning Commission Wednesday evening approved William J. Pulte's planned apartment development on the basis of the city attorney's opinion that the planning com-

Pulte's project had been opposed in letters to the commission by Robert Green, former member of the East Lansing Human Relations Commission.

Even if a person is a proved discriminator in other cities, the opinion said, the planning commission can consider plans only on points of conforming to city building laws.

In other actions the commission approved a Delta Gamma sorority request for rezoning of a lot for an addition and parking and disapproved the plan to turn M.A.C. between Albert Street and Grand River Avenue into a parking mall.

Jim Carbine analyzes reason for politicking

By BEV TWITCHELL
State News Staff Writer

Jim Carbine, vice chairman of ASMSU, admits that he is idealistic, but describes his idealism as "tempered with reality."

"I have not set out to right all the wrongs of the world," Carbine says. "I see problems in an idealistic sense, but I am not so idealistic as to think that I or any one group will solve the problems. But someone has to try."

JIM CARBINE

"Books should be used as a tool and not as a crutch."

Carbine applies this in his role in student government. Why does anyone become involved in student government? Carbine includes the personal satisfaction, activity orientation, and this "idealism."

One of the problems Carbine sees in the University environment is encouraging students to "use books as a tool and not as a crutch."

"They don't realize that they are going to be the leaders of tomorrow," Carbine said, "so they should begin active concerns today, not tomorrow."

Much of Carbine's thinking was affected by several months' travel in Europe last summer.

there," he said. "The thing to do is attack now. They are young people's problems."

For reasons such as these, Carbine was particularly interested in the 18-year-old vote issue last fall.

"What I do may be little or nothing," Carbine said, "but I have a personal obligation to try."

"I have had to modify what I believe in to get a groundwork for open-mindedness in thinking. I don't want to aggravate; that isn't how to win over people. It's a slow process."

Carbine's goal, then, is to develop the soundest, best external image of student government possible.

His goal fits with his first priority as vice chairman, that of "making sure the bureaucracy is going." He is responsible for all internal workings of the student board, from hiring of secretaries to handling inter-departmental memoranda and planning an agenda for board meetings.

Carbine loves to speak, and does so before student groups whenever possible. He plans to go on to law school and to a career in law or civil responsibilities; "anywhere I can get people to listen to me," he said. "I like to be in the spotlight." "It keeps me busy," he said.

Spring term will be Carbine's last term before he graduates. His plans: "to take a vacation; to take about nine credits of IM pool, six credits of golf; 15 or 16 credits of Gables, and enough of school to graduate."

"I talked to a student," Carbine said, "about girls, booze, students, but he was from North Vietnam. Another student was from Russia. I learned that everyone has so much in common, but no one understands each other."

College students could become more involved with current situations because they are "free agents," Carbine said. "They can do what they think is right, without worrying about the realms of business and family."

"But they sit back and wait until they graduate, and then they are not prepared for these problems," he said.

While in Europe Carbine read about the racial riots and Nazi rallies, and these situations brought his attention back to his own country.

"These problems will chase you into a corner and keep you

THE SPREAD-EAGLE OF TECHNOLOGY AT GRUMMAN

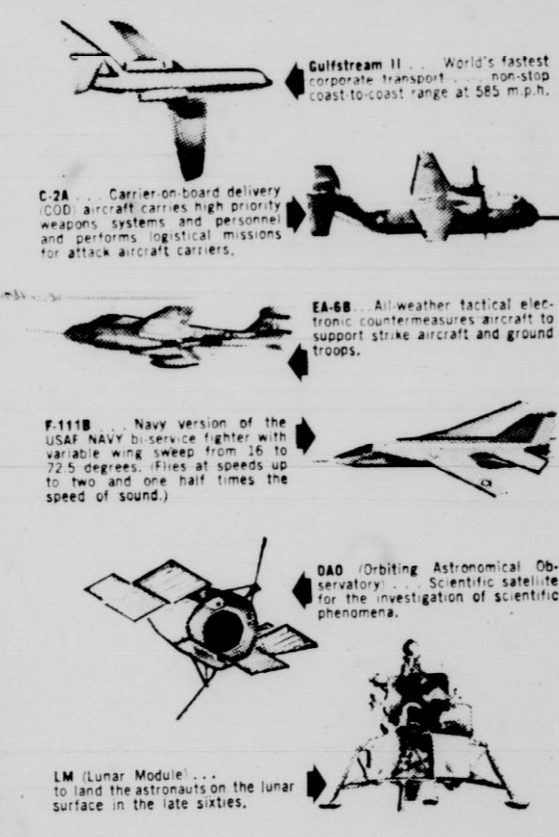

Ranges from inner to outer space

Grumman has special interest for the graduating engineer and scientist seeking the widest spread of technology for his skills. At Grumman, engineers are involved in deep ocean technology... engineers see their advanced aircraft designs proven daily in the air over Vietnam, and soon... in outer space, the Grumman LM (Lunar Module) will land the astronauts on the lunar surface. Grumman, situated in Bethpage, L.I. (30 miles from N.Y.C.), is in the cultural center of activity. Universities are close at hand for those who wish to continue their studies. C.C.N.Y., Manhattan College, New York University, Pratt Institute, Columbia University, State University at Stony Brook, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Hofstra University and Adelphi College are all within easy distance. The surroundings are not hard to take. Five beautiful public golf courses are in Bethpage—two minutes from the plant. White sand beaches stretch for miles along the Atlantic (12 minutes drive). The famed sailing reaches of Long Island Sound are only eleven miles away. The informal atmosphere is a Grumman tradition, matched by an equally hard-nosed one of turning out some of the free world's highest performance aircraft systems and space vehicles.

Taking their place in a long line of Grumman aircraft that have contributed to the national defense, the aircraft shown below are performing yeoman service in Vietnam.

Currently, Grumman engineers, pulling the state of the art relentlessly forward, are engrossed in still more advanced aircraft and aerospace vehicles. These include:

Here then is the opportunity for graduating engineers... CEs, EEs, MEs, IEs, Physic majors and Chemical Engineering majors... to take their place in the continuum of technology that is Grumman. Grumman representatives will be ON CAMPUS

War against Christian ideal

By FAYE UNGER
State News Staff Writer

The three-day fast for peace began Ash Wednesday.

The Rev. Gordon Zahn, professor of sociology at Loyola University in Chicago, charged Sunday that Christians no longer felt the necessary tension between Christ's teachings and the support of wars. Zahn spoke at the last convocation on war and peace at St. John's Catholic Student Center.

Several members of the East Lansing clergy who had been attending a national conference on peace in Washington called for a three-day fast at the beginning of Lent.

Rice and tea

The fasters are eating one meal a day, an evening meal of rice and tea.

Zahn's speech set the mood for the announcement of the fast.

"We are disturbed by the slaying of eight nurses in Chicago, by a sniper on a Texas campus and horrified by the slaying of several beauty parlor patrons," Zahn said.

Yet it does not disturb us to learn that the South Vietnamese and American soldiers keelhaul the Viet Cong through rice paddies behind military vehicles, he said.

It does not disturb us to learn that torture methods are used in questioning Viet Cong prisoners, or that prisoners have died under interrogation.

"We are in danger of losing any religious perspective on war," Zahn warned.

The Christian should have great difficulty reconciling himself to war, Zahn emphasized.

Necessary tension

Zahn listed three areas in which Christians should feel a tension on the question of participating in war.

1--Love for one another, even for one who does evil, has always been the one essential mark of Christianity. Yet the secular world would teach a Christian to think of an "enemy" as an evil object, not as a person.

2--Love in the Judeo-Christian tradition is universal. The secular world, however, would replace it with nationalism, "the characteristic heresy of our day."

War is not inevitable today but is the result of a nationalistic definition of reality and of a reliance on the military, Zahn said.

If we are to achieve peace we must uplift moral sensitivity.

"Even our deterrence rationale has the mark of heresy," he said. "We have built our rationale on the feeling that we ought to have enough power left over to utterly destroy the enemy who attacks us."

3--The Christian religion claims priority when it comes in conflict with any other value system. The secular order, on the other hand, demands that we give priority to the "national imperative."

This is where the tension should come, Zahn said, in the turning over of our moral obligations to the command of secular authority.

'Pacem in Terris'

Pope John XXIII's encyclical, "Pacem in Terris," demands that we evaluate war with an entirely new attitude, Zahn said.

The encyclical stated that "it is hardly possible to imagine in an atomic era that a war could be used as a just instrument."

It called for disarmament, the end of the arms race, and the banning of nuclear weapons without any mention of the bilateral requirement.

The encyclical called for persons to be individually responsible for their actions.

Zahn also mentioned the conditions necessary for a just war: The cause must be just. The right intentions should be main-trained. The war must be a last resort. The means of waging war must be just. The good to be gained by the war must be greater than the evils involved. Victory must be certain. The ensuing peace must be just and not the preconditions for another war. "Even under these conditions it would be difficult to see the present war in Vietnam as just," Zahn said.

Zahn spoke at the last of the five seminars on "What is the War Doing to Us?" The seminars drew more than 200 people for some sessions.

Augenstein explains beliefs

Project yourself into the future where one can know everything about a child before he is born.

Now suppose you are a juror who will decide birth or abortion. You know this child will be a second Van Gogh: his life will be hell, but society will be enriched.

How do you decide? Leroy G. Augenstein, chairman of the Dept. of Biophysics, posed this societal problem as he discussed why religion is as important for the scientist as for anyone else.

Today science is developing methods by which men can be manipulated or controlled, he said. Such knowledge can be used for helping the psychotic or for enslaving the society. The question is, who is to decide?

"Science can provide the tools, but their use is up to man," Augenstein explained. "The scientist operating as a true scientist cannot and should not make that decision."

"This decision has to come from a belief system," he continued. A scientist asks how an atom or a man or the universe works, but to use this knowledge, one must ask "why is there an atom, a man, a universe?"

Augenstein said that one of his best sources of finding out the way of the universe is his religious convictions.

"Basically my God is a Creator, and particularly a Creator of orderliness," he said. "It turns out that any scientist must believe in this orderliness."

Believing such an order was not created by God is an act of faith, he continued, neither can ever be proved.

"The fact that I believe in this orderliness and find it in so many places means that there also should be an order or set of rules for seeing how human beings should behave towards each other," he added.

He emphasized that the fundamental principles never change, their application varies with the situation.

"I'm not a complete situational ethics man or a complete absolutist," he said. "For example, there is a move underway with the state to liberalize the abortion laws. I happen to believe that fundamentally abortion is murder."

"However, there are some situations where the child would be seriously damaged. There are some things worse than murder."

People should have the option to choose, Augenstein explained. But such an option should be set up under philosophical guidelines.

These would not necessarily be the ones I adhere to strongly, he said, however, some system of beliefs is necessary for making such decisions despite the much-discussed hazards of the planned society.

"Otherwise we're going to start making decisions on a catch-as-catch-can basis," he said, "and we can get into serious trouble."

The role of the university in such a process is to "teach about belief systems from the historical viewpoint," Augenstein said.

No student should have to hold certain beliefs in order to pass a course, he added.

"There should be more religion, as well as the other humanities, taught in a historical sense simply because this has been an important part of the history on which our whole social system has developed," he said.

Intrepretive dance part of church service

Sacred Dance could become as much a part of church services as traditional hymns.

The Rhythmic Choir of Edgewood United Church, 469 N. Hagadorn Rd., has been staging interpretive dances during church services for the past ten years. This practice is well-known in other parts of the country, but is not as extensive in the Midwest.

The 10 high school girls who make up the choir practice every Sunday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. Martin Gal, 1206 Burcham Dr.

Mrs. Gal has had some professional training and taught at MSU for one year, but the members of the choir have had no professional training at all.

Last Christmas Eve the choir lit the candles at the evening service and on Christmas morning held an interpretive dance of the Annunciation.

Last spring, when Edgewood's new church was finished, the group started the first service with an interpretation of the ritual of the sanctification of a place of worship. They are planning to repeat the performance this year for the anniversary.

Reactions of the congregation to this radical movement have been inspiring, Mrs. Gal said.

Those who truly appreciate the efforts of the girls outnumber the people with a "closed-eye-until-it's-all-over" attitude.

Christian youth unifying

The spirit embodied in the University Christian Movement (UCM) is beginning to catch on here.

The UCM is a Christian youth organization on the national level formed to bring university students together from across denominational lines. Members include Protestants, Roman Catholics, Eastern Orthodox and Young Friends.

A statewide convention will be held at Ypsilanti in March by the Methodists. Other denominations have been invited. The Methodists hope the meeting will be interdenominational, the start of the UCM at the state level.

The new UCM's structure allows local campus groups to affiliate directly with the national UCM. This permits local groups of ecumenical character and mission orientation to have the means to contact each other nationally according to Terry Black, of the United Campus Christian Fellowship.

The encyclical called for persons to be individually responsible for their actions.

Zahn also mentioned the conditions necessary for a just war: The cause must be just. The right intentions should be main-

ASMSU becomes C of C member

Thursday the ASMSU Student Board voted unanimously to purchase a full one year membership on the East Lansing Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber has invited ASMSU a seat on the board of directors.

Jim Graham, ASMSU chairman, named Tim Pickard, chairman of the ASMSU price study committee, as the student representative to the Chamber of Commerce.

Graham said Pickard's position will insure students a permanent voice on business matters in the community.

The student board debated less than five minutes in reaching its decision to appropriate $50 to purchase the annually renewable membership.

Both the University and the State News are members of the Chamber of Commerce, but neither has a voting membership.

The invitation to have an MSU student represent the student body on the board of directors came as a result of a meeting Monday between three ASMSU representatives and the eight-man executive council of the Chamber of Commerce.

Graham, Jim Sink, ASMSU member-at-large, and Pickard represented ASMSU at the meeting.

Graham said he believed the majority of businessmen near campus are extremely fair in their dealings with students. However, he said students should seek a solution when injustices do occur.

The price study committee will continue its investigation on bookstore prices, dry cleaning costs, and high parking-ticket fines charged to students.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff are supporting a plan to provide special protection against nuclear-tipped enemy missiles for 50 American cities, the Washington Evening Star reported Thursday.

Although the full list of proposed cities was not disclosed, the Star said most of the biggest cities—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Detroit, Baltimore and Washington, for instance—are on the list.

But it said more than 100 cities with a population over 100,000 do not appear, among them such state capitals as Richmond, Va., Lansing, Mich., Phoenix, Ariz., and Sacramento, Calif. Among other cities it said would be left without special protection would be Salt Lake City, Utah, Birmingham, Ala., Syracuse and Rochester, N.Y., and Charlotte, N.C.

Most of the 50 largest cities in population are on the list of 50 to be protected, the Star said, but there are exceptions—among them Omaha, Neb., site of the Strategic Air Command's headquarters.

The Joint Chiefs' plan it said, is to provide a "thin" defense of long-range Spartan missiles to cover the entire United States, with 50 cities to be given the added protection of short-range Sprint missiles.

The Joint Chiefs, the Star says, propose to start with the long-range protection plus close-in coverage for a first list of 25 cities estimating the cost at $9.9 billion. Another 25 cities would be given the short-range protection later at an additional cost of $9.5 billion.

McNamara, on the other hand, estimates the cost at $15 billion for the first step and another $15 billion for the second.

George Bernard Shaw be darned!

Youth isn't wasted on the young. And the young don't waste their time at Celanese.

Our top people are never old-fashioned about any new idea, whether it comes from middle management or from our youngest college grad. We have a master plan and the vitality to make it work. Marketing is way-out and zeroed right in. Finance knows that we have better things to do with our money than let it grow barnacles... shelled out $465 million in capital expenditures over the last 3 years. In the scientific department, we combine technical insight with an unusual grasp of marketing dynamics.

Thinking young explains how we chalked-up one of the most impressive corporate rebuilding jobs in recent history. How we turned what was basically a one-product business into a solid and diverse international corporation dealing in chemicals, miracle fibers, plastics, paints, petroleum and forest products. How we multiplied sales 5 fold in 10 years. How we now have 100 plants in the U.S., Canada, Latin America, Europe, Africa and Asia.

Possibly we could afford to relax a little. But success makes young blood run even faster.

Which means that the ambitious college grad couldn't find a more provocative opportunity anywhere else in American industry.

U-M press 'policy,' not rights, the issue

By LAUREL PRATT
State News Staff Writer

ANN ARBOR—“Nothing solid” is expected until Monday or Tuesday on a request for a committee to study the relationship of The Michigan Daily to the University of Michigan and the Board of Control of Student Publications.

The request, made by the Board of Control itself, has been received by the Senate Advisory Committee on University Affairs (SACUA). It has also been published in The Daily.

Luke Cooperrider, chairman of the Board of Control, said Tuesday that the board did not intend to call for an “investigation of The Daily’s editorial practices and policies,” as The Daily had reported the request.

Thursday he said, “It is not a question of editorial freedom but of policies.” The policies relating the board to The Daily and both to general communication on campus, are those to be studied under the terms of the board’s request.

SACUA will meet Monday to review the request and determine its recommendation to the Senate Assembly, a 65-man representative body that is the legislative arm of the Faculty Senate. The Assembly will meet Feb. 20 and is expected to make the final decision on the committee at that time.

Cooperrider said the request leaves the nature of the study open to the advisory committee.

Brown emphasized that “there’s no need to set up a censoring body.” Statements from senior editors of The Daily and observations from faculty members have indicated a fear that the study might lead to limitations on The Daily’s editorial freedom.

“The board’s request for an “investigation,” said Daily editor Mark R. Killingsworth, “is ambiguous. It does not indicate if it could lead to such a limitation. If this occurred, it would have disastrous consequences, not only for The Daily but also for the entire University community.”

Killingsworth’s statement on Tuesday is the only policy statement made by The Daily since the board’s action Monday.

Faculty observers have said that recent stories, specifically signed editorials proposing the legalization of marijuana and a story reporting Berkeley chancellor Roger Heyms’ interest in the U-M presidency, prompted the board’s request.

Atty. Gen. Kelley forms crime task force

LANSING — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley today announced the creation of a special division within his department to fight organized crime.

The attorney general said his action follows the call by President Johnson for a massive federal war against crime.

Kelley speculated that Michigan’s special task force is the first of its kind in the nation. “No problem we face is more difficult than that posed by organized crime,” Kelley said.

“The price we pay in terms of human wreckage, economic loss, social rot and political corruption weighs heavily on our national conscience. But the magnitude of our problem must not deter us from developing new ways to meet it.”

Vincent Piersante, chief of detectives for the Detroit Police Department, will be the chief of investigation, Kelley said. The division will be under the direction of Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohan.

Orchestra to dedicate concert to opera house

The MSU Symphony Orchestra will dedicate a concert Sunday to the flood-ravaged Florence Opera House in Italy. The concert, to be held at 4 p.m. in the Auditorium, will include two works new to Lansing audiences.

The Midwest premiere of Anton Webern’s “Passacaglia,” written in 1908, will be presented. The concert will open with American composer Charles Ives’ Second Symphony and conclude with Rossini’s overture to the opera “Italian in Algeria.”

Contributions to the Florence Opera House will be requested following the concert. Burk reported that collections will be sent in the name of the MSU Symphony Orchestra and its public. Admission to the concert is free.

In the music of Charles Ives the listener will recognize many popular 19th century American tunes, including “Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean,” “America,” and “Bringing in the Sheaves,” according to William D. Elliott, instructor in the Music Dept.

Ives’ father, a successful band director in Danbury, Conn., trained his son in the traditional elements of music. By the time he was ready to enter Yale, Charles Ives was a polished professional musician, with a variety of compositions to his credit.

dining room at 5:45 p.m. will feature music from an ensemble of Spartan musicians.

Gordon A. Sabine, vice president for special projects, will be master of ceremonies. The speakers will be John D. Wilson, Honors College director, and John F. A. Taylor, professor of philosophy and director of the Humanities Research Center.

At 8 p.m. those interested in the humanities are invited to hear Arthur E. Adams, professor of history, speak on “The Many Sides of Soviet Russia” in the Conrad auditorium.

At the same time scientifically oriented candidates are invited to Hubbard Hall dining room to hear Leroy G. Augenstein, professor and chairman of the Dept. of biophysics, give his answer to the question, “Shall we play God?”

Competitive examinations will be administered from 8:45 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Carmichael

frightening if ghettos had been planned. Instead, they merely show that the white attitude is the same from Boston to Watts,” Carmichael declared.

The SNCC spokesman criticized integration of white schools in that only the A-students in Negro schools are sent to white schools.

“We have to send the best (students) to sit next to animals whose parents throw beer cans and cigarette butts at them when they try to enter the schools. You should bring back your missionaries from Africa to civilize this country,” Carmichael told the quiet, predominantly white audience.

During the question-answer period, Carmichael was asked what attempts were being made to join lower class and middle class Negroes. He replied that the people of the ghettos and rural areas are the ones with the will to fight. “The black bourgeoisie have already been brainwashed. They’re the ones who must come home.”
