OPEN HOUSE, HOURS

Dickerson rejects parts of two student proposals

By MARILYN PATTERSON
State News Staff Writer

Concern about 24-hour open houses and the well-being of first-term freshmen women caused Milton B. Dickerson, vice president for student affairs, to reject certain parts of two student organization proposals on open houses and selective hours for freshmen women, the organization presidents said today.

"Dickerson is concerned about the overnight question," under the Men's Halls Assn. (MHA) proposal students might be allowed to have members of the opposite sex in their rooms all night).

Brian Hawkins, MHA president, said.

The proposal, as passed by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, allows the individual hall the authority to determine the hours, supervision and dress attire for open houses. It also leaves the determination of a closed or open door policy up to the individual halls.

The Women's Inter-residence Council (WIC) proposal on no-hours, which was also approved by the Faculty Committee, would allow freshmen women to select their own hours on entering and leaving their residence halls.

"There is some question as to whether first term freshmen can adjust to the burdens of their first term of college without some restriction of hours," Sue Landers, WIC president, said. "He (Dickerson) is concerned that they might suffer academically as well as socially."

Hawkins and Miss Landers are "unhappy" that Dickerson has sent the proposals back to the Faculty Committee.

"The policy was passed both by the Student Board of ASMSU and the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs," Hawkins said. "It seems that sudden changes now are not valid. When it is this far through the channels (of the Academic Freedom Report) the objections should have been aired by now. This is an abuse of the channels."

"The concerns Dickerson expressed about the hours policy were brought up in the Faculty Committee meeting and discussed to the approval of the faculty," Miss Landers said. "I don't understand changing the faculty's decision at this time."

"As far as I'm concerned," she said, "this objection is not acceptable and we (WIC) are going to continue fighting for no hours."

Both the MHA and WIC proposals were approved by the Faculty Committee during the last week of fall term.

Dickerson, who was out of town when they were passed, said Monday that he "cannot accept certain parts of the proposals" and has sent both back to the committee for reconsideration. The proposals must have his approval before they can go into effect.

The Faculty Committee will meet Friday to discuss the changes. Presumably, the committee will try to work out a compromise which will be acceptable to Dickerson, the committee, the ASMSU Student Board, MHA and WIC.

Academic line-up

Wednesday was the first day that students could make section changes and drop and add courses. These students appear to be taking advantage of it, lining up at 9:30 a.m. in the Chemistry Bldg.

Lawmakers rap Romney school plan

By WES THORP
State News Staff Writer

Many state legislators voiced opposition to Gov. Romney's proposal in his farewell address Monday that parochial schools teach just religion and that they let the public school system teach secular subjects.

Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, said that he didn't favor Romney's proposal. He said that something has to be done to help parochial schools.

Lockwood said that the problem was what should be done to save the parochial schools from closing their doors.

State Rep. Nelson Tisdale, R-Midland, said that Romney's proposal could cause more problems than it would solve.

"Something must be done to keep the parochial schools open and running smoothly," he said.

Tisdale said that the extra money for the aid to parochial schools could be gotten from a raise in the nuisance taxes which include taxes on liquor, cigarettes, and the sales tax.

He said that he is working on some proposals of his own which might help solve the problem.

State Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, said that "the parochial schools have a right to operate but they should not expect aid from the state."

He said that when parochial schools face the possibility of closing their doors due to financial troubles they should do so but they should do it voluntarily.

One House Democrat, who asked that his name be withheld, said that many legislators aren't taking stands on the issue of parochial school aid because of fear of reprisal by their constituents which send their children to parochial schools.

Reagan raps Frisco State striking profs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -- Gov. Ronald Reagan warned today that striking professors at San Francisco State College will be fired if they picket more than five days.

The warning came as instructors and students marched outside the college in clear, cool San Francisco weather, while classes went on in an atmosphere of quiet tension.

Reagan told a Sacramento news conference that faculty members who strike will not get paid for time off their jobs.

"It is regrettable . . . this move on the part of the faculty is tied into the action of some of the dissidents," he said.

Members of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, began a strike Monday on the embattled campus.

Teachers, union chapters at some other state colleges also have taken strike votes. AFT members comprise a minority of the 10,000 teachers in the 19-campus state college system.

Reagan said he only was citing state law in regard to striking teachers, losing pay or their jobs. "The governor doesn't hire professors and the governor doesn't fire them."

Attendance at the 18,000-student campus ranged from zero in some courses to 85 per cent in others.

Leo Young, head of the journalism department, estimated 80 per cent in his department, but said, "We've had students show up and the instructor does not."

"Some instructors have been receiving threatening telephone calls at home."

Acting President S.I. Hayakawa has accused some teachers of "riding the coat-tails" of the students.

Board blasts Dickerson on handling of proposals

By DAVE SHORT
State News Staff Writer

ASMSU leveled a blast of criticism at the actions of Vice-President for Student Affairs, Milton B. Dickerson, in his handling of the Men's Halls Assn. (MHA) open house policy and Women's Inter-residence Council (WIC) proposal for selective hours for freshmen women, during its board meeting Tuesday.

Citing Dickerson's refusal to accept the proposals and returning them to the Faculty Committee of Student Affairs for reconsideration, the entire ASMSU Board voiced dismay over Dickerson's failure to justify his decision.

Board Chairman Peter Ellsworth said that he failed to understand Dickerson's rationale in making the decision and failure to give reasons for it.

"Dickerson did not justify his opposition of the proposals to the students and ASMSU," Ellsworth pointed out.

"By thus declining to justify his actions and by failing to come to this meeting, Dickerson has seemed to indicate his feelings about the role of the students in the whole process involved."

Senior member-at-large Harv Dzodin saw Dickerson's actions as a threat to the Academic Freedom Report.

"After the September resolution incident, it looked like the Academic Freedom Report would survive; but, now this situation represents another challenge to the Freedom Report," Dzodin asserted.

"Other developments will result from what happens here."

Chuck Mustov, sophomore member at large, supported Dzodin.

"By virtue of the course of action taken by the Vice-President for Student Affairs in surreptitiously blocking the MHA and WIC proposals of last term, the established channels of co-operation among the administration and the students, faculty, and administrators that are set up in the Academic freedom report have been seriously threatened," Mustov said.

Inter-Cooperative Council representative Fred Fry called the incident a circumstance in which "students are going to have to unite in order to obtain a very basic right, that of controlling their own personal lives."

A motion by Sue Hughes, Off-Campus Council, calling for the immediate implementing of selective hours for freshmen women and its amendment concerning the implementing of the visitation policy was tabled.

Although ASMSU did not take any immediate action on the matter, it indicated that it was preparing a position paper that would confirm its firm standing on the compromise and its unwillingness to compromise on the issue.

In other Board actions, the 1969 budget was passed and two new positions were (Please turn to page 10)

PRESSURE AT PARIS

Saigon charges U.S. forcing concessions

PARIS (AP) -- The United States is discreetly pressuring Saigon to make last-minute concessions to Hanoi to start a four-way Vietnam peace conference before President Johnson leaves the White House, South Vietnamese informants said Wednesday.

The sources said the U.S. delegation headed by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman is prepared to meet with the delegations of Hanoi, Saigon and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front (NLF) at an undivided round table.

An American delegation spokesman denied that the United States is urging a major concession of principle on South Vietnam. But there are clear differences of emphasis between the two allied delegations.

South Vietnamese officials from President Nguyen Van Thieu down have repeatedly asserted that Saigon will make no further concessions on what it considers a vital matter of principle. The allies two months ago suggested a rectangular conference table which would emphasize the "two-sided" nature of the talks and seat Hanoi and the NLF as a single delegation.

In a succession of compromise moves, the allies gradually moved toward Hanoi's proposal of a round table, but still insisted that such a table must be divided some way to underscore the "two-sided" concept.

The U.S. spokesman said, "We are still for a two-sided conference. We have made this clear here and in Saigon. We are only trying to get over the hurdle and get the talks started without surrendering the concept of 'two sides'."

Other American sources said the essential principle of "two sided" negotiations might be preserved by a formal public declaration-implying that the dividing line demanded by Saigon could be merely imaginary and yet meaningful.

The South Vietnamese sources, on the other hand, maintained that unless the dividing line is real and visible on the table, the allies would concede to the NLF a role in the future political settlement for South Vietnam and abandon a fundamental negotiating position before the talks have even started.

They added that one of the reasons for South Vietnam's adamant refusal to accept an undivided table is the fear that yielding to American pressure on this point might unleash a chain reaction of future concessions to Hanoi and the NLF.

The sources indicated there was hope among some South Vietnamese officials that Henry Cabot Lodge, President-elect Nixon's nominee to replace Harriman about Jan. 20, would be more sympathetic to the Saigon viewpoint.

State of State to cover tax, school issues

By United Press International

Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken put the polishing touches today to his first State of the State address, which will spell out his stand on such controversial issues as school aid and taxes.

Milliken, who will become Michigan's 44th governor later this month when Gov. George Romney resigns, goes before a joint session of the 1969 legislature at 11 A.M. Thursday.

Some surprises were expected in Milliken's talk.

For one thing, he was expected to take a different approach than Romney to financing public and parochial school systems. Romney wants consideration given to consolidating the system; Milliken reportedly leans toward tax grants to non-public schools.

On the tax front, Milliken was expected to propose a hold-the-line approach. He has indicated he opposes talk of raising the state income or sales tax.

Milliken will urge caution in the area of government spending but will not get specific until presentation of his executive budget later this month.

Other areas slated for inclusion in Milliken's address are public employe strikes, crime control, property tax reform and traffic safety.

Air Force study reveals UFOs not spaceships

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A blue-ribbon committee of the National Academy of Sciences will agree with the main conclusion of a secret report on a scientific investigation that says there is no evidence to indicate that unidentified flying objects are spaceships from another world.

This was learned Wednesday as the Air Force, which financed the $500,000 two-year study, was preparing to release the long-awaited report.

The study, commissioned by the Air Force as an "independent" one to answer persistent criticism of its own investigations, was conducted by a group of non-government scientists headed by Dr. Edward U. Condon of the University of Colorado.

Since Nov. 15, the project's secret report has been under review by the special panel of the prestigious Academy of Sciences. The appraisal was asked by the Air Force to "provide a further independent check on the scientific validity of the method of investigation." It will be released simultaneously with the report.

The Associated Press revealed the main conclusion of the Condon report Tuesday, but there has been no leak on the reaction of the academy panel working amid security so tight that even the names of committee members are a secret.

Informed sources disclosed Wednesday, however, that the academy panel will endorse the primary finding that there is no evidence to support theories that (Please turn to page 10)

Plows clear streets, bury cars

By TOM HAMP

January brought more than just a new year and students back to campus. It brought 8.6 inches of new snow and several complaints by irate students because their cars had been plowed in rather than out.

Ridges of snow left by snow plows blocked entrances to parking lots, sidewalks and streets.

In the Brody complex and Cherry Lane Apartments snowplows went through to clear the streets so residents could get through, but at the same time plowed some cars in.

Gilbert Lloyd, asst. superintendent of the Grounds Dept. said they are faced with the question of plowing the street and leaving a ridge of snow behind some cars, or not plowing and leaving a mess. With cars parked almost all of the time in Brody and Cherry Lane, removing the snow from these areas is difficult.

MSU has 25 to 30 pieces of snow removal equipment being used, 15 of these are used for sidewalk plowing.

Most of the plowing is done between midnight and 7 a.m., when campus traffic tapers off, Lloyd said. Some parking lots can not be cleared until a day later because of cars that are parked in them at night.

Sand is used on some sidewalks rather than salt, because salt is dangerous to the turf, but where large build ups of ice form salt is used, Lloyd said.

Most of the streets, sidewalks and parking lots were cleared by Tuesday night he said.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reports 10 inches of snow now on the ground, so removing the snow with payloaders from streets has not become necessary.

East Lansing streets were all plowed once Tuesday afternoon. Dave Ronk, superintendent of Public Works, said the plows were out working around the clock after Monday's storm.

The first pieces of equipment to be used are salt trucks that are equipped with blades. The city has four salt trucks and six plows in operation. In addition it has small snow removal tractors used for the congested areas of the City Hall and other city property.

Ronk said that sidewalks of businesses, residents, apartments and fraternities must be shoveled by the owners, not the city. Privately owned parking lots must also be plowed by owners.

Clarifying the rights of students

Student rights have finally reached the top.

Tuesday a plea was entered to the Supreme Court that would require administrators to give fair and impartial hearings, in a court-like manner, to students facing expulsion.

The case originated from demonstrations at Bluefield State College in Bluefield, W. Va. where ten students were suspended when they marched back and forth during halftime at a football game, and later smashed the college president's automobile.

As universities become larger, and acquire the characteristics of a large corporation, it is becoming clearer that they must be willing to subject themselves to certain control. The rights of a student, in any situation, must be clearly defined to insure the protection of his constitutional privileges.

Conversely, the institution must also be protected from unnecessary disruption by students, as certain industries are protected from strikes at times when the disruption of the strike, at least momentarily, overshadows the grievances of the strikers.

The appeal states that one out of four state universities do not even provide for a hearing for a student to challenge his punishment, according to a study done five years ago. One in three universities does not allow the student to be accompanied by an advisor at his hearing. This, it is contended, is a complete denial of not only the individual's rights as a student, but also his rights as a citizen as guaranteed under the 14th amendment.

Fortunately, MSU provides both for a hearing, and allows the students to be accompanied by an advisor. We have come too close, however, to seeing this fundamental right violated, as exhibited by the suspension resolution passed in September by the Board of Trustees. If the resolution had not been retracted as a result of student response, we would now be one of those one-in-four universities.

This question is too important to be left solely to the discretion of individual university administrators. Too often, though at times unintentionally, administrators have not been attuned to the needs of students. There are times, as well, that students have been clearly out of line and the university must have guidelines for preventing their disruption.

This would be a good case for all of us concerned with education to watch, in the hope that the court will hear the case and establish a set of premises outlining the rights of accused students.

A variety of speakers to enrich campus life

It looks as though the Great Issues Lecture Series and the Provost Lecture Series will be the highlights in education in the coming months. Those behind the scenes deserve to be praised for their success in attracting three widely known and controversial figures.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-New York, who will be here next week, has, in his acceptance, provided us with a pleasant surprise. The fight for his Congressional seat has just recently been won. Yet his lawyers are protesting that the $25,000 fine, levied by his House colleagues due to his misuse of committee funds, is unconstitutional. Perhaps Powell will enlighten us not only on one of his major fields of interest, the race issue, but on constitutional difficulties in Congress.

One of the great issues of our day involves the dispute among many as to the intent of the Constitution. The second speaker in Great Issues this quarter should elaborate on his divergent opinions on the nature of this document.

Doc. Benjamin Spock is no newcomer to speaking engagements. In fact, his trouble with the government revolves around his loquacious nature. The famous "baby doctor" has been accused of counseling certain individuals to burn their draft cards and avoid the draft. Some can't see why a physician should get involved with political goings-on, but Dr. Spock obviously agrees with the Periclean philosophy on the usefulness of an individual. His lecture should give us an insight into many of the constitutional freedoms now under close scrutiny.

Pierre Salinger, though the least controversial of the group, might turn out to be the most impressive. He is by no means an unimportant figure in political and literary forums. The former Press Secretary to President John F. Kennedy and author of With Kennedy once ran for senator from California. He lost in a close election, but still retained his formidable stature. His viewpoints on the world situation should provide us with a better understanding of conflicts and their causes.

The Provost Lecture series scheduled for early May, Black Experience in America, has also lined up outstanding speakers. Playwright-author LeRoi Jones, co-author of Black Power Charles Hamilton, Rev. Andrew Young, executive director of the Southern Leadership Conference, and Dr. William Grier, asst. professor of psychiatry at the University of California Medical Center will provide a lively stimulus for discussion of race problems in America.

Both the Provost Lecturers and the Great Issues series will be excellent additions to the classroom routine of daily university life.

The bare facts

A new type of course, one stressing only bare essentials, may be on its way into acceptance. Lee Elbinger, a senior at Oakland University, has introduced the novel idea.

It seems that this young gentleman, on removing his clothes and devouring an apple before a discussion section, produced quite a sensation which once again stirred-up the obscenity issue. Student councils, university officials and state senators are now all in on the act with most in the older generation asking the death penalty.

But what must be noted are the potentials in a course of this type. Rumor has it that Removing One's Troublesome Clothing (ROTC) will be the official course name. It will be a one-year sequence taking advantage of the seasons which allow changes in clothing style.

Not only eating fruit, but reading texts, making speeches, and playing charades can be implemented as the distracting factors under the guise of education.

Finally, as the police, administration, F.B.I. and C.I.A. receive word of lewd performances by students, the overseas aspect of the course will be utilized. This includes a trip to India to study Hindu mysticism under the American-educated guru.

Note: S.D.S. majors will not be able to take this course for Credit-No Credit.

Red Cedar report

By JIM DeFOREST

Put your religion to the acid test: send Mayor Daley a Christmas card.

Students usually give their favorite professors a Christmas present during finals week. Like a $50-bill wrapped in a blue book.

Now John Lindsay walks into his office on Monday morning and automatically asks "Who's on strike this week?"

'You seem to have come down with something!'

LARRY LERNER

New York isn't all that bad

In New York City there is much excitement these days. A "state of peril" caused by the Hong Kong flu bug, a pro football championship, a pen-pal Mayor in the Bahamas, the "a strike a day keeps health and safety away" attitude among organizations whose running is essential for the welfare of the public, the "Everyone sing together: I hate you Mayor Lindsay. Oh, yes I do-o-o!" fever sweeping the five boroughs--all of these have contributed to a stimulating "winter of ... discontent."

Yet, the mayor has restored the confidence of his fellow New Yorkers by the issuance of the annual "what's in store for the city" message. Lucky city dwellers! They've got a joyous and fruitful year ahead of them (disregarding the usual trivial strikes, crimes and riots to occur). At least, that is what Mayor Lindsay's statement from the sunny Caribbean implied.

It's a funny thing how the future always seems brightest when the going is the toughest. After all, when it's pitch-black out, how much darker is it going to get?

But this isn't meant to be a tirade against Mayor Lindsay. The city has still got Broadway Joe and the New York Jets, Greenwich Village, the Johnny Carson Show and Fifth Avenue.

The Jets and Joe Namath started N.Y.C. this winter by taking the AFL crown. (The N.Y. Giants may be renting Shea Stadium next season!) I happened to be present at that title game and woe to the Oakland Raiders had they won in those final seconds. Young and old alike swarmed the players on the field as the poor ole goal posts took their usual beating. Even a few crooks got in on the act as they took off with $20,000 from the Diamond Club restaurant following the game.

The "Village," as it is now called, remains a top tourist attraction. Cafes, bars, discoteques, and "hippy pads" swing even on weeknights when prices are reduced. I happened to be one of the lucky few who got to see "The Buckwheat" and "The Raisin." Both had a special engagement at the Cafe Wha? and are two of the up-and-coming rock groups on that block.

But the Village holds much more than just rock groups and whatever goes along with them. Art stores with paintings, prints, sketches and portraits "while-u-wait" are dispersed along the streets. Your own portrait done on the spot will cost you $3.50-4.50 (depending on the state of mind of the artist).

In one establishment, a brilliant sketch of Malcolm X was framed and placed so as to strike the eye of any passer-by. When I asked for the price, the storeowner said it wasn't for sale, but he would gladly have my portrait done. I realized then that the sketch was a powerful device used to get prospective customers into the place. It almost worked on me: the sketch was truly a masterpiece.

The Johnny Carson Show--without it New York would never be the same. Rumor has it that tickets are only available a year or so after your request. What makes it such a successful show is its diversification. One typical night would see Rod Steiger, Slappy White, Joan Rivers and Eugene McCarthy filling the bill. Tiny Tim and Monty Rock III are frequent special guests.

But it's the combo of Johnny and Ed McMahon that picks up the show. New Yorkers as well as the rest of the nation, sit back and watch their antics for 90 minutes. We've all seen Ed give a plug for Purina Dog Chow and what's a commercial without a Johnny Carson quip? There just is no equal on late night television.

However, let us not forget Fifth Avenue--for there, the beauty of New York City is surely enshrined. Rockefeller Center is a feature attraction with its fountain, ice arena, outdoor restaurant and sitting area. Each day of the week flocks of people, like wild geese, perch there and just watch other people doing their thing. Saint Patrick's Cathedral, the site of Robert Kennedy's funeral services, is one of the most beautiful in all America.

But the beauty of Fifth Avenue is Fifth Avenue itself. The stores, many lit up at Christmas time, the snow lining the sidewalks, the crush of the crowd at noon, the immense traffic jams, even the Easter Parade--they all make Fifth Avenue the most celebrated street in the world.

So, even with its many problems New York City can say much for itself. After all, it has been Mr. Nixon's adopted home for the past six years.

Oddities at MSU

To the Editor:

During the four years I have attended MSU, I have been bothered by the way certain procedures are handled. I have attended two other institutions, San Diego State College and UCLA, which handle them more logically. I have compiled a list of these gripes, the most annoying of which are presented here.

The first gripe concerns registration. Why does the University feel that it is necessary to conduct registration on a last name basis? Before I came to MSU, I registered by student number. In this way, a senior or graduate student could not be closed out of a course by a lower classman.

The second gripe concerns payment of fees. It seems more logical to me that payment of fees should be the last thing the student does at registration rather than the first. Our present method is comparable to paying for the groceries you plan to buy before knowing if they are on the shelf.

The third gripe concerns graduation. The idea of students going through commencement exercises and then returning to classes to take finals makes no sense to me at all. How can the University expect these students to do well on their final exams after they have spent part of the previous weekend going through graduation and, in many cases, celebrating afterwards. Commencement should be held after finals week, not before!!!

The final gripe concerns the MSU band.

I think we have a good band and I enjoy hearing them at the football games. But I do object to spending most of my time looking at their posteriors. They generally seem to face away from the students. Our school band should face us.

If any reader has logical explanations for these oddities, I would like to hear them.

Back to hard rock

To the Editor:

Hard rock is definitely back! It does not take a Brian Epstein or a Jerry Patlow to recognize that Recently revived records by Bill Haley and the Comets holding their own on record charts all over England support this fact. You might be interested in knowing that the Beatles released an excellent album entitled "Magical Mystery Tour" between the production of "Sgt. Pepper" and the new double-album "The Beatles." Kindly get your facts straight from your old issues of Teen magazine. Perhaps an article about something with which you are familiar is in order. The rumors about hard rock hold true in an improved version over the old three-chord style. Dust off those old Buddy Holly discs!

Senator irate over college morals

By CHRIS MEAD
State News Staff Writer
A state senator who was shocked by a nude presentation at Oakland University said Wednesday that he never asked for a "morality probe" into the University but that he does want something done about "moral deterioration" in Michigan colleges.

In an interview at his capitol office, Sen. Robert J. Huber, R-Troy, blasted Oakland Chancellor Durward Varner for his "wishy-washy" response to a nude demonstration by Oakland senior Lee Elbinger. "Varner is taking a wishy-washy position because he's scared to death of student revolts," Huber charged.

What started out as an illustration of W.B. Yeats concept of personal freedom has mushroomed into a full scale re-evaluation of the role of taxpaying citizens in what goes on in the state's public universities. He said he and his colleague, Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, want a reply from Varner describing the reaction of students and faculty to the nude reading and the action that would be taken by the University.

At this point, Varner has said only that Elbinger's display was "slightly" irregular and that his diploma will be withheld pending a hearing by the University's Student Conduct Committee.

"Is it a violation of the law for you to take your clothes off?" Huber asked. "In my opinion, there's no question about it."

Huber said he was not satisfied with a Dec. 30 meeting of 13 state legislators to discuss the Oakland situation. He was particularly irked by the attitude of Sen. Robert L. Richardson, Jr., R-Saginaw. Huber said Richardson believes that the human body is beautiful and is therefore not obscene.

"I wasn't satisfied that this guy (Elbinger) was going to be disciplined," Huber said. "I'm going to wait very carefully to see if that does happen."

He said he "agrees 100 per cent" with the philosophy of J. Donald Phillips, president of Hillsdale College, who maintains that college attendance "is a privilege and not a right!"

Changes in plea asked for Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- Attorneys for Sirhan Bishara Sirhan prepared motions Wednesday to set aside his indictment and plea of innocent to charges of murdering Robert F. Kennedy. The motions were for submission to judge Herbert V. Walker when Sirhan's trial resumed at 2 p.m. PST in Superior Court.

Sirhan, 24, a Jordanian accused of shooting Kennedy moments after the New York senator declared victory in the California Democratic presidential primary, waved to his three lawyers as his trial opened Tuesday.

Neatly dressed in a gray suit, white, buttoned down shirt, and blue tie, Sirhan took a seat near his attorneys at the left end of a long table for lawyers of both prosecution and defense.

Sirhan said nothing publicly. Seats were evenly divided between security officers and newsmen. Only five members of the general public are admitted for each day's proceedings.

Newsmen and spectators were frisked. The courtroom has quarter-inch steel plates inside its four windows. Within minutes after the bushy-browed judge was seated, Sirhan's attorneys asked for a closed session in the judge's chambers to discuss motions.

An hour later, defense and prosecution attorneys and Sirhan emerged and four motions were introduced in open court. The judge ruled against two of them.

He asked that the other two withdrawing the plea of innocent and setting aside Sirhan's indictment--be submitted in writing. Then he adjourned court for the day.

The motion to withdraw the plea of innocent was a legal technicality. Under California law, an indictment cannot be quashed while a plea stands.

After a plea is withdrawn, and if another indictment is returned, the original plea may be re-entered. One of Sirhan's attorneys, Grant B. Cooper, has said, "It would be silly to deny he did it."

Another of Sirhan's attorneys, Russell Parsons, said the motion against the indictment is based on a contention the grand jury which returned it was not composed of a proper cross-section of the community.

The defense also asked Walker for a 30-day delay to prepare two motions. In addition, it requested two juries--one to decide Sirhan's guilt or innocence, the other to set the penalty if he is convicted. The motions were rejected.

Mansfield asks bipartisan efforts on surtax, budget

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Sen. atate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield urged President-elect Nixon Wednesday to join with President Johnson in taking a position on the 10 per cent income surtax.

Mansfield said in an interview that Johnson made it clear at a White House bipartisan leadership meeting Tuesday he is "most desirous of working with the President-elect on this and other vital matters."

At stake is Johnson's attempt to submit to Congress next week a new budget calculated to yield a small surplus. Mansfield said lack of word from Nixon has contributed to delaying both Johnson's State of the Union and budget messages.

It would be in the best interests of the nation for the outgoing and incoming presidents to work together on such matters.

"I think it is imperative that these two reasonable men get together and work out a solution of the nation's financial problem for the good of all."

Mansfield declined to speculate whether Johnson could achieve a balanced budget without proposing continuance of the 10 per cent tax due to expire June 30.

Nixon called during the campaign for an end to the surtax. But he left room for its retention while the Vietnam war continues say that once the war is ended we should get rid of the tax.

Mansfield said Johnson has delayed any final decision awaiting word from Nixon.

FOR CHAIRMAN POST

O'Brien advocates full time successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien put in a strong plug Wednesday for selection of a full time professional to succeed him as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

"I think you have to have a full time operation," O'Brien said in an interview. If the chairman is not full time, there has to be a second man who is full time."

Of the three leading candidates for the chairmanship, only former Gov. Terry L. Sanford of North Carolina is in position to take the post on a full time basis. The other contenders are Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma and Rep. James G. O'Hara of Michigan, both with heavy Capitol Hill responsibilities.

O'Brien said that in his farewell speech next Tuesday to the National Committee "I will urge what I would have insisted on if I had stayed, that the committee be run like a good-sized business operation."

He estimated this would cost $1.5 million annually, which would present his successor with a considerable problem in view of the debt of more than $6 million the committee has from the presidential campaign.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who will pick O'Brien's successor after consultation with other Democratic leaders, was expected back in Washington Wednesday night from Norway.

O'Brien was named president Wednesday of McDonnell & Co., Inc., a New York investment firm.

O'Brien said that his new position in private business will leave him plenty of time to remain active in politics.

"I won't be far away and I may not be gone long," he said.

Asked if he is considering running for governor of Massachusetts in 1970, O'Brien said "I have no contemplation of running for anything." But he added that "I am not going to foreclose anything."

In Springfield, Mass., O'Brien's birthplace and former home, a close friend predicted he would return to politics within four years to run a presidential campaign for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in 1972.

The prediction came from Matthew J. Ryan, Jr., the local district attorney.

And City Councilor Armando G. DiMauro, chairman of the Springfield Democratic Committee, commented on O'Brien's resignation by saying it would be "awkward for him to handle a presidential campaign for Sen. Kennedy if he had remained chairman of the national party."

In the interview O'Brien made these points:

—He thinks the Democrats should have some sort of top level policy group, to set strategy and state party positions, with as broad a base as possible including the Senate and House leaderships.

—Democrats should start now to attempt some sort of reform in campaign financing "so that no party ever has to go through what we went through last year" when the Democratic campaign barely got started before Oct. 1 because of lack of funds.

—It is important that Democratic leaders make sure that regular statements of party positions and views be presented to the American people on television and elsewhere through the mass media.

Homecoming petitioning set

Petitioning for Homecoming '69 General Chairman will begin Monday, Jan. 13 and run through Jan. 24.

The chairman's duties will be to coordinate all activities planned for Homecoming Weekend.

Oct. 31-Nov. 2. These activities will include:

- Selecting the queen.
- The homecoming parade.
- Judging the floats.
- Half-time activities at the homecoming game.

—The homecoming dance.

Many changes in homecoming activities were initiated last year, according to Richard Brooks, ASMSU Cabinet vice president for special projects. These changes must be developed and strengthened by this year's general chairman.

Anyone may petition for the post, Brooks said. However, applicants should be creative, have "a tremendous amount" of school spirit, and be willing to put in many hours of work.

After the general chairman is selected he will select committee members to work with him.

Petitions may be picked up in the ASMSU offices on the third floor of the Student Services Bldg. and turned in at 313 Student Services Bldg.

Britons condemn 'high' penalties

LONDON (AP) — The growing habit of marijuana smoking in Britain fumed into controversy Wednesday with an official plea to reduce the penalties against "pot."

A prominent church leader denounced the plea as "an instrument of death," but several doctors threatened to quit the government committee that made the proposal unless jail sentences are reduced for marijuana smokers.

A report by the 23-member Advisory Committee on Drug Dependence revealed that more and more young Britons are smoking marijuana but said, "the dangers of its use have been overstated."

The committee recommended that the maximum penalty of 10 years in jail and a 2,400 fine be reduced to two years in prison — four months in some cases — and unlimited fines for sellers or "pushers."

Marijuana has become part of the "Swinging London" scene. Members of pop music groups, the idols of young Britain, have been arrested for using it. Few judges have imposed severe sentences for conviction.

The Rev. John McNicol, Baptist minister in charge of the National Assn. on Drug Addiction representing various church denominations and many doctors, contended the proposals would be a death blow "to any healthy society. The penalties that exist for being in possession should continue."

Police Supt. Peter Brodie, a member of the committee, disagreed with some of its findings and warned "professional criminals may become more involved and the problem of urban crime made more serious."

Former Gov. Minister William Deedes, also on the committee, argued, "The misuse of pep pills is far more dangerous than that of cannabis." Marijuana is known here as cannabis.

Marijuana convictions in Britain have shot from 42 in 1947 to 2,393 in 1967. Of 1,261 offenders convicted in 1966, 613 were fined and 288 went to jail, most for a few months. But 17 "pushers" got two to five years.

Committee member Timothy Raison argued that investigation in India and the United States showed "the long-term consumption of cannabis in moderate doses has no harmful effects." It would be hard to argue, on the evidence, that cannabis is any more serious or even as serious as tobacco or alcohol.

Mr. Galvin:

"Group think" is typical of business conformity

Dear Mr. Galvin:

The trend on the nation's campuses is toward greater freedom—and responsibility—for the individual student. Whether the action is extension of visiting hours for women or relaxation of course requirements, the result is the same: a placing of greater trust in the individual, and a growing array of flexible alternatives for that individual.

Yet when he looks at business, and particularly at big business, a student sees an organization oriented to the group rather than the individual, and to that group's security rather than the individual's challenge. That "group" is any collection of administrative peers and immediate supervisors which meets frequently at all levels of the bureaucracy.

What began as an attempt to imitate the highly successful "team" of technologists has become a plodding group of administrative bureaucrats. And whereas the team produced, the group ponders. But "group-think" is a strange brand of thought indeed. Group-think places a premium on affability rather than creativity, and waste rather than efficiency. Somehow, group-think demands little or no substantive thinking on the part of the individual.

Lately, group-think has become synonymous with business administration. Some consulting firms exist merely to sensitize the individual to the group. Yet administration has always been that aspect of business meant to appeal most to a socially conscious college generation. Is it any wonder then that the trend toward individual freedom and responsibility coincides with a growing alienation towards business as a career?

My question Mr. Galvin is what will business do to provide the individual with the opportunity—and incentive—to perform, as an individual, the kinds of tasks he is both prepared and anxious to perform?

Sincerely yours,

Arthur Klebanoff
Government, Yale

IS ANYBODY LISTENING TO CAMPUS VIEWS?

BUSINESSMEN ARE.

Three chief executive officers—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's Chairman, Russell DeYoung, The Dow Chemical Company's President, H. D. Doan, and Motorola's Chairman, Robert W. Galvin—are responding to serious questions and viewpoints posed by leading student spokesmen about business and its role in our changing society through means of a campus corporate Dialogue Program.

Here, Arthur M. Klebanoff, a senior at Yale, who plans graduate studies and a career in government, is exchanging views with Mr. Galvin.

Dear Mr. Klebanoff:

The desire of young people for greater individual freedom and responsibility is not confined to the campus, but is a characteristic of the maturing process. It is not a phenomenon of this generation. And it is a good thing when expressed constructively.

As a college student and member of several important campus committees, you must be aware of the importance of individuals pooling ideas and efforts. University-sponsored research programs inquiring into needed social reforms, and working out pilot projects as prototype solutions—methods to overcome widespread illiteracy in the ghettos; to encourage self-respect through self-help, for example—reflect team efforts. Even actions undertaken by the dissenters and protesters on campus result from "committee action" and not the blandishments of one individual.

The concept of granting more and more freedom to act responsibly, with authority, is not alien to business. It is fundamental. Individuals demonstrate talents. Those talents need each other for the attainment of composite results. In the pooling there is no loss of individuality or freedom.

Business is, and must be, strongly concerned with the individual, but since running a business is a team effort, there has to be group orientation, too.

In business, as in other fields, many decisions and actions result from "group-think" meetings, which do indeed demand substantive thinking from the individual. It is my opinion that more creative ideas come from a number of people "thinking" together than separately. One person's ideas spark the thinking of another; some people are naturally better at conceiving the germ of an idea than at refining it to a practical degree. In a group-think one draws upon a multiplicity of talents and viewpoints.

I have attended many group-thinks but seldom one approaching your description. Certainly some were unproductive... but usually because of negligence in

In the course of the Dialogue Program, Arnold Shelby, a Latin American Studies major at Tulane, also will explore issues with Mr. Galvin; as will David M. Butler, Electrical Engineering, Michigan State, and Stan Chess Journalism, Cornell, with Mr. Doan; similarly, Mark Bookspan, Pre-Med, Ohio State, and David G. Clark, Political Science MA candidate at Stanford, with Mr. DeYoung.

These Dialogues will appear in this publication, and other campus newspapers across the country, throughout this academic year. Campus comments are invited, and should be forwarded to Mr. DeYoung, Goodyear, Akron, Ohio; Mr. Doan, Dow Chemical, Midland, Michigan; or Mr. Galvin, Motorola, Franklin Park, Illinois, as appropriate.

disciplining the group to adhere to the subject. Carefully disciplined, no-nonsense creative sessions often produce table-bangings and heated exchanges rather than affability... and out of them may come solutions to complex problems and decisions involving millions of dollars and affecting thousands of employees and the public. An inefficient or conformist think group would waste talents, manhours, and money.

Business is to blame for the fact that today's college students must make a critical choice between business and other careers without sufficient knowledge on which to base such a decision. Students daily exposed to the campus are well-equipped with knowledge about teaching; an abundance of facts on medicine, government service, and many other fields has long been available. But, business has neglected to communicate adequately by way of personal experience the really significant facts about the realities of business to the very people it is trying to attract.

Its enormous accomplishments that have produced the highest standards of living in the world... its massive research and development programs that are probing into outer space and underseas, which will profoundly affect virtually every facet of man's life... its increasing direct involvement in the social problems of today, and the efforts to devise practicable means of dealing with root causes, not merely surface symptoms, are all part of the daily operations of business.

The solutions being achieved result from "group-think" efforts within a corporation, or between a number of businesses, or as the result of a cooperative effort between business and government. No one individual possesses sufficient facts or knowledge to direct all growth phases of a major enterprise. No one sector of the economy has the technical know-how or resources to carry the load for the continued forward thrust of our national progress.

Within this framework there are "individual" selective tasks and goals requiring "individual" responses. It is through the intermingling of individual talents that viable solutions to the complex problems of today, and the challenges of tomorrow will be found.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Galvin
Chairman, Motorola Inc.

Lodge, Abrassimov confer in East Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge met today with the Soviet ambassador to East Germany, Pyotr Abrassimov, in Communist East Berlin.

Approached by a newsman as he returned late for a West Berlin City Hall appointment, Lodge refused direct comment.

Lodge went to see Abrassimov in his capacity as outgoing ambassador to West Germany. As ambassadors, both he and Abrassimov also are high commissioners for Germany under postwar agreements.

It was learned that the Lodge-Abrassimov meeting lasted almost two hours. The meeting took on added significance in terms of Lodge's future assignment.

A U.S. source said the meeting was scheduled "to keep open this channel of communications with the Russians as all ambassadors before Lodge have done."

Sexuality speaker

Dr. Selig B. Neubardt, a New York City obstetrician, discussed sex and morality at the sexuality colloquy Tuesday night.

SEEKS NEW SEXUALITY

Youth rejects old morals

By MARY ANNE GEORGE
State News Staff Writer

Today's youth has rejected society's traditional moral attitude that sex is evil and guilt-ridden. Dr. Selig Neubardt, a gynecologist from New Rochelle, New York, said at Tuesday evening's sexuality colloquy lecture.

"The rejection of this hypocritical moral standard forms the basis of today's sexual revolution," he said. This enlightened attitude of youth, Neubardt maintained, has resulted in new approaches to sexuality such as the colloquy at MSU.

Neubardt, the author of "A Concept of Contraception," is a pioneer in introducing the study of sexuality to medical school curriculums as well as an advocate of a re-assessment of current abortion laws and sex education in the United States.

Emphasis on morals
He found today's medical students less interested in the clinical aspects of sex and more interested in the moral and ethical implications of such things as birth control pills and abortions.

"A doctor reflects the morals of the establishment when he writes a young girl's prescription for birth control pills," Neubardt said. "But refusal to do so may result in an unwanted pregnancy."

"Should a doctor write a prescription even when he feels personally that this girl, often 15-or-16-years-old, will suffer severe emotional damage?"

This is the doctor's problem, Neubardt said. He must be more than an agent for writing prescriptions. He must impress upon the girl the idea that indiscriminate sexual encounters can result in severe emotional damage even where pregnancy is avoided.

Youth is pressured
Today's youth, urged by others their age to be sexually liberated, are often pressured to the point of promiscuity, he said.

To combat this trend, Dr. Neubardt stressed the grave importance of self-affirmation: formulating a personal morality; taking a stand on what you as an individual think is right.

Youth has a responsibility to keep society free of the pressures that cause people to act as unthinking masses, Neubardt said. People must not be forced to adhere to a sexual standard that regulates individual behavior as they have in the past. Neubardt termed this "society's myth of propriety." The myth regulates the type and frequency of sexual encounters before marriage.

It perpetuates the idea that all women must be virgins before their wedding night, and that all men are experienced. The myth treats sex as something that can be turned on and off, he said.

Because youth has rejected this myth, Neubardt said, "the establishment has pressured the mass media to prove that youth is immoral. The tragedy of this is that youth is believing it."

These problems arise from our distorted approach to human sexuality, he said. The medical world is not prepared to deal with the psychological aspects of sex. "People are disturbed by their misused and mistreated sexuality," Neubardt said.

Neubardt places the blame for this distortion on the lack of factual sex education by parents. Parents perpetuate the idea that sex is evil and young children should be spared the distasteful details. So the stark, myth, he said, is substituted for practical, reliable facts.

"Parents don't realize that to a young mind the truth is much easier to grasp than some fantastic story about a bird and cabbage leaves," he said.

Parents are also a barrier to honest sex education in the schools, he said. When sex education programs are initiated in school systems parents pressure school boards to censor films and texts rigidly. The result is a rehash of the old physical hygiene films, he said.

"When children are taught how babies are conceived they should be taught how babies are not conceived," he stressed. "Any good sex education program should include a full explanation of contraception."

Lack of knowledge concerning contraceptives often results in unwanted pregnancies by girls who have had "one exposure without protection." These pregnancies often end in the hands of an illegal abortionist, Neubardt said.

Abortion laws

Neubardt said there was a definite need to reassess our abortion laws as well as our personal attitudes. Recent polls have shown that most laymen favor reform in abortion laws but not a repeal of these laws to allow abortion on demand.

This, he said, is a result of the need to use pregnancy as a punishment for sin. But, he reaffirmed, "Pregnancy results from intercourse—not sin."

America needs "a new sex morality—one based on sense rather than mindless prejudice, on compassion rather than rigidity," a University of Houston clinical psychologist said Tuesday.

Opening a seven-week MSU series of talks, courses and discussions on "Sexuality: Search for Perspective," James L. McCary, professor of psychology, called for a comprehensive, school-based program of sex education for everyone.

"We must educate, not indoctrinate; teach facts, not fallacies; be objective, not subjective; be democratic, not autocratic; aid the young in formulating a code of ethics, and avoid passing on to them our own irrelevant, guilt-producing, emotionally based opinions," he said.

McCary pointed out the need for education because our "sexual behavior is related to our sexual attitudes." "Attitudes are a direct result of the sex education we have had, or the lack of it, and of the misinformation that we carry into our sexual relationships," he said.

Women today are willing to accept a double standard of sexual conduct, and boys are propagandized to believe that their masculinity depends on their success in seduction, the psychologist said. Girls are indoctrinated in the importance of being "sexy" but not promiscuous, and little boys learn that tenderness and compassion are "sissy."

"It must be apparent to each of us that many of our rigid, outmoded, unrealistic and guilt-laden attitudes must be changed," McCary said. "It should be equally apparent that the responsibility for these changes rest squarely upon the shoulders of the parents and other decent citizens of the community."

McCary said that sex education can be approached in many ways ranging from a total avoidance of the problem to a very permissive viewpoint.

"The safest solution would appear to be a course of compromise and selectiveness sexuality:

a search for perspective

News Background

among the various philosophers of sex education.

"Certain sexual needs should be permitted expression; unadorned information about the physiological and psychological aspects of sex should be presented to all; and the Judeo-Christian traditions within which we live must be understood and dealt with sensibly in the framework of present-day society," he said.

McCary also said, that there has not been a sexual revolution since the 1920s, noting that studies show a significant increase in premarital sexual intercourse among women born after the turn of the century as compared with women born before then.

"Promiscuity," he declared, "is not rampant among college student... There is, on the other hand, considerable evidence that today's young people—especially college populations—are behaving responsibly. Indeed, they demonstrate considerable moral strength in their concern for the welfare and rights of others."

"There is more and more evidence that sexual revolution looms on the horizon."

"One can hardly have escaped noticing a change in sexual attitudes in recent years, as evidenced by the growing freedom with which sexual attitudes are discussed in the various communication media, schools, synagogues, churches and governmental circles—as well as at cocktail parties and by the man on the street.

"But attitudes (and the ease of discussing them) are not to be confused with behavior. Even those to whom a decision in the matter of a sexual ethic is most pertinent—today's college students—are bewildered and bedeviled by the dichotomy between prevailing sexual attitudes and sexual behavior

Tom Jones stars in television special

It's not unusual in the erstwhile world of television for a performer to get a chance at a "special." In some cases, such a showing would be the high watermark of a successful career; in others it might well be the prelude to potential stardom.

In the case of a Welsh ex-coal miner named Tom Jones, the opportunity of his own special show seems to have signalled greater heights for an already rising star.

"If I didn't have the voice I had I would never have the nerve to be a singer," says Jones. "Some of them nowadays have such small voices I wonder whatever put it into their heads to sing at all."

Such is the philosophy of the chap who has scored here and abroad with such million record hits as "It's Not Unusual" and more recently, "Delilah."

If you've ever spent any time in England or France in the past couple of years, the Jones phenomenon will not be hard to understand. Over here our rock idols are rather cast out of the "Big E" Presley mold. Of course we've seen a transition in performers since, but undoubtedly England has influenced our talent as well as our music.

Ironically though, the pop stars in England in recent years have had an early American rock and roll heritage. Many unknown to American teens have come and gone, and only a few British imports have notably remained, such as The Beatles, and the likes of Tom Jones.

By his own standards, he must belt out a song to come across, and though he may not look like coal-miner's son in his elegant tuxedo or ruffled cuff, his voice is vibrant and powerful enough to chip away at his audience.

It has been written of him that "In his full writhing agony of song he looks as if he could eat the average pop group, complete with guitars, for breakfast. I might compare him to Elvis perhaps more than anyone else today. Yet he is a fascinating performer in the sense that he has evolved from the bad lad black leather jacket look of Britain's 'teddy boys,' to a present image of the suave but powerful stylist of song.

The result of what makes Tom Jones run has produced for him a television special. It will be broadcast from 7:30-8:30 p.m. tonight on Channel 12. This one-hour extravaganza will feature the talents of Jones as well as the popular Fifth Dimension, who have scored musically with their earlier "Up Up and Away," and recently "Sweet Blindness."

Also, in a more continental vein, French chanteuse, Mireille Mathieu, who is I suppose, France's answer to Brenda Lee (a poor example) will be on hand to warble a song Piaf-style, as well as duet with her host, Juliet Prowse, to round out the evening, will sing and dance up the usual storm and Dick Cavett will amuse us. Just in case you fellows aren't impressed enough by all of this, the Jones boy's last attempt at entertaining you will include a spot with six of the loveliest models in London.

More or less as a "pilot" show, tonight's special will be continued in similar format as a weekly ABC-TV variety series premiering Friday, February 7. The series, as the special, will be entitled, "This is Tom Jones." A fitting introduction, but why not meet him yourself Thursday and find out?

Keeping up with Jones

Tom Jones, Welsh-born singer, appears in his first television special tonight. The success of his show may lead to a series.

Back stage with Mailer in 'Miami and Chicago'

By JIM DUKARM
State News Reviewer

Norman Mailer, in the guise of mild-mannered reporter for Harper's, has been hanging out at political happenings around the country and writing them up in his intensely personal style.

"Miami and the Siege of Chicago," which recently appeared in paperback, is Mailer's account of the Republican and Democratic National Conventions of 1968 and the notorious events surrounding them.

The first half of the book, dealing with the Republican convention in Miami Beach, begins with an entertaining history and description of the town, which Mailer characterizes as "the materialistic capital of the world."

Having thus located the reader's mind geographically and philosophically, Mailer introduces his characters—Nixon, Rockefeller, Reagan, Ralph Abernathy, a performing elephant named Ana, several GOP higher-ups who figured in behind-the-scenes manipulations and in the convention itself, and finally a whole host of solid citizens and respectable Republicans representing the WASP multitudes who put Tricky Dick "New" Nixon forward as their presidential candidate.

One of the high points of the Republican half of the book is the Grand Gala $1000-a-plate get-together the night before the convention. It was closed to the press, but Mailer was one of the first through the doors because the police and security guards assumed that he was one of themselves. Mailer planted himself in an official stance near the entrance to watch the people arriving, and his observations appear in the book as an essay on "the muted tragedy of the Wasp."

It is Mailer's impressions of Nixon and other political figures which are probably the most interesting and important passages in the book. No great love is apparent in the characterization of Nixon ("There had never been anyone in American life so resolutely phony as Richard Nixon"). Some of Nixon's remarks to the press as well as his speech accepting the nomination are dissected with ecstatic viciousness.

With the beginning of the second half of the book the reader is transported to Chicago and so artfully immersed in its sights, sounds, smells and texture that he might be tempted into a nostalgia for the dirty concrete, bad air, slaughterhouses and frenzy of "the last of the great American cities."

In this section, as in the first, the reader is treated to Mailer's literary impressions of major political figures—Humphrey, McCarthy, et al. with the ominous spectre of LBJ glowering over the proceedings and Daley and his henchmen doing their dirty deeds.

Special attention is paid to the Yippies, hippies, political activists and others who had come to Chicago to mock or protest the convention, for these are the people who first become embroiled in the violence which rages about the convention hall and hotels during that week and which ultimately touches news-men, delegates, local residents and Mailer himself.

Mailer's account of the street fights and of the convention itself is dramatic and, in places, intensely bitter. It is as much the story of Mailer's own growing shame and anger as of the historical events. The account culminates in the confrontation with soldiers and police in which Mailer seeks to regain his self-respect by standing up in his own way to the fear he had felt in the face of the violence.

The prose in "Miami and the Siege of Chicago" is typical for Mailer—interesting, spiced with imaginative metaphor ("The New Nixon groped and searched for the common touch he had once been able to slip into the old folks with the ease of an incubus on a spinster.") Mailer uses occasional crazy lists of nouns or adjectives ("So an air of outrage, hysteria, panic, wild rumor, unruly outburst, fury, madness, gallows humor and gloom hung over nominating night at the convention.") Not all of the devices work well, which is not astounding considering that Mailer cranked the book out in four weeks.

Only one flaw in the narration is serious enough to be disturbing throughout the book, and that is Mailer's use of the third person "he" and "the reporter" when referring to himself.

On the surface the third person device lends the appearance of objectivity, but the introspective language and intensely subjective nature of the narrative clash with that appearance. The overall impression that results is one of affectation or of simple stylistic clumsiness.

The form and content of the book stem from Mailer's conviction that "there is no history without nuance." The history of the events at Miami and at Chicago is apparently accurately recorded, and the nuances are portrayed as only a great novelist could render them.

Correspondent to speak here

By DAVE GILBERT
State News Reviewer

John Scott, a special correspondent for Time magazine, will speak at 3:30 p.m. Friday, in Fairchild Theatre on "The Soviet Union and Eastern Europe..."

The first thing you notice is, he's blind. After listening to his virtuoso instrumentals for a bit, you start shaking your head - how does he do it! And after a while longer you forget all about blindness and phenomenal guitar and banjo picking, and you sit back and roll with the rhythm.

Doc Watson is in town. Appearing at Erickson Kiva at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Doc will perform some of the classics of country mountain music. But that's almost beside the point. What Doc gives audiences is country soul.

It's hard to describe - sort of one part music, one part story, a dash of salacious sex and liberal sprinklings of humor. Doc's recipe has an amazing ability to relax people, without taking away any of the excitement that keeps you bouncing on the edge of your seat over an unusual chording or a particularly suggestive bass run.

Doc grew up in Appalachian North Carolina. He learned to play a banjo his father made for him at age 11, then picked up a guitar at 13. Poverty left him unknown to the general American public for most of his 45 years, while he chopped wood and played lead guitar for a local pop band. During the folk revival of this decade, folk musicologist Ralph Rinzler happened on Doc and talked him into touring. The result is one of the most vital figures on the American folk scene today.

Doc Watson is unquestionably a high point in authentic folk music. His appearance at MSU promises to be one of the most exciting "happenings" of the year, for folk buffs or anyone who appreciates the high quality entertainment.

Tickets may be purchased at Discount Records.

PAC presents satire on soldiers of WWI

The Performing Arts Company will open the new year with "Oh What a Lovely War," to be presented at 8:00 in the Arena Theatre in the Auditorium Tuesday through Sunday.

Jean Littlewood wrote the play as a musical satire of the soldiers and statesmen who found sweetness and light in blood-bathed Europe during World War I.

Sidney Berger associate professor of theater who directed "The Knack" a few months ago, is directing the play. His task this time is to point out to the audience Miss Littlewood's pointed notions of war in one of mankind's darkest hours.

Starring in "Oh What a Lovely War" are Jay and Bonnie Raphael, East Lansing graduate student and freshman respectively, Richard Lavin, East Lansing graduate student, and Roberta Dahlberg, Detroit junior.

Coupon holders may exchange coupons for tickets Friday, Monday, and Tuesday at the Fairchild box office or at the door for 75 cents.

Following the run at Arena Theatre the show will tour the campus, performing at Wonders Kiva, Jan. 20-21, Brody Hall, Jan. 22-23, and McDonell Kiva, Jan. 24-25.

Isenberg lectures to focus on human rights philosophy

Three philosophers, speaking on the topic "Philosophy and Human Rights," will visit campus this year as part of the Isenberg Memorial Lecture Series.

Joel Feinberg of Rockefeller University will present the first lecture at 8:00 p.m. Friday in Conrad Aud. His topic will be "The Theory of Rights."

Also lecturing later in the term will be Richard Wasserstrom and Sidney Hook.

Wasserstrom, who is from UCLA, has been active in promoting civil rights in the South. He also is a widely acclaimed authority on the relation of war and morality, the topic of his lecture Jan. 30.

Sidney Hook is the author of many well received books on selected by a committee of politics and education. He is recognized as one of America's greatest philosophers and has a reputation as a militant rationalist. Hook, of New York University, will speak on the topic, "The Justification of Human Rights," Feb. 28.

The lecture series was started in 1965 as a memorial to Arnold Isenberg, MSU philosophy professor. Three lectures are offered each term during fall, winter, and spring.

The topics for each term are members of the Philosophy

Dept. Members who are most familiar with the topics then select the most outstanding names to lecture.

All lectures will be in Conrad Aud. at 8:00, and are open to the public without charge.

Poitier ranked No. 1 attraction at box offices

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidney Poitier has been chosen by motion picture exhibitors in the United States and Canada as the No. 1 box office star of 1968 in the 37th annual poll conducted by Motion Picture Herald, a trade publication.

Theater owners in the mail poll vote for the stars whose drawing power produced the greatest income in their theaters during the year.

Poitier, who placed seventh when he first appeared among the poll winners in 1966, starred in "To Sir With Love," "The Love of Ivy" and "Guess Who's Coming To Dinner" in 1968.

The others in the top 10 for 1968, in order, were: Paul Newman, Julie Andrews, John Wayne, Clint Eastwood, Dean Martin, Steve McQueen, Jack Lemmon, Lee Marvin and Elizabeth Taylor.

Wayne appeared among the top 10 in the poll for the 19th time.

Last year's winner was Miss Andrews, who also was No. 1 in 1966.

Spartan tankers sink Illini, 79-35

By JOHN VIGES
State News Sports Writer

Delayed one day after the foul weather grounded the team plane the MSU swimmers met Illinois Tuesday night and came home with a 79-35 victory that made the wait worthwhile.

MSU took 10 of the 12 events against Illinois to remain unbeaten for the season. The Spartans' other victories came against Oakland and Western Michigan in a triple dual meet Saturday in the Men's IM pool.

Leading the team to victory Tuesday was Van Pelt Rockefeller who turned in a 2:01.0 time in the 200 yd. butterfly. The performance set a new dual meet record for the Spartans and Coach McCaffree called it an excellent time for this early in the season.

Robert Burke set an Illinois pool record in the 200 yd. backstroke with a time of 2:04.1.

The Spartans swept the event when teammate Mike Boyle finished three seconds behind Burke.

Three other races were swept by MSU. Don Rauch swam the 50 yd. freestyle in :22.7 followed closely by Gary Langley who tied for second.

The first two places in the 200 yd. individual medley were taken by Bob Jones and Mike Boyle, while George Alward and Bill Scott finished one-two in the one meter diving event. Alward scored 260.5 points and Scott finished with 240.8.

The only two losses the team suffered were both by a total of 1.6 seconds. George Gonzalez lost by .6 second in the 500 yd. freestyle, and Bruce Richards went down behind fellow All-American Kip Pope in the 200 yd. breaststroke, losing by 1 second.

Tiger meat on ice is 'S' skaters' goal

By PAM BOYCE
State News Sports Writer

The MSU hockey team, looking for the big scoring combination in addition to their first league win against four set-backs, entertain fellow celledweller Colorado College in a pair of Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. (WCHA) tilts Friday and Saturday night.

The Colorado Tigers carry a deceptive 0-4 mark into the MSU Ice Arena, posting a 5-1 mark in outside competition.

Leading the Spartan scoring attack are co-captains Ken Anstey and Bob DeMarco, the MSU scoring leaders.

Anstey and DeMarco, natives of Sudbury, Ontario, have each scored nine points apiece for the Spartans in their first 11 games.

Anstey, who led the Spartans during the 1967-68 season with 30 points, has scored four goals and five assists this season.

Defenseman DeMarco whose cousins Mike and Gerry also play for the Spartans, has one goal and eight assists to his credit.

Junior Pat Russo, is in third place on the Spartan scoring list with five goals and three assists for a total of eight points. Bill Watt, Duluth junior, is in fourth place with six goals and one assist.

Nelson DeBenedet and Mike DeMarco each have six points, with senior DeBenedet scoring on three goals and three assists, and sophomore DeMarco joining the scoring ranks with one goal and five assists.

The Spartan skaters, 3-8 overall, are 0-4 in the WCHA. They have been outscored by their opponents this season, 40-29.

Coach Amo Bessone, who says that the team's spirit is still very good, will be looking for his team to shoot more this weekend when the opportunity arises.

"We don't shoot enough when we have the chance," Bessone said. "Our skating is looking good, but our defense still has to tighten up."

Bessone said that the Spartans outshot Michigan in the Wisconsin tournament, but that the team just could not get the goals in the net.

"We have a tough weekend coming up," the coach said, referring to the two game series with Colorado, who defeated high-scoring Wisconsin twice last weekend.

STEPTER TRIGGERS WIN

Quick bucket lifts cagers

By MIKE MANLEY
State News Sports Writer

Before Tuesday's game with Wisconsin, John Benington said that what his Spartans needed to snap out of their scoring slump was a couple of quick baskets at the outset of the game to restore the team's confidence.

He got the early baskets and his first victory in five games 77-67, as the Spartans dropped the Badgers.

Harrison Stepter came down the floor the first time

MSU had the ball and fired home a long range jumper and the Spartans were off and running. In quick succession the other four starters scored and MSU was playing like a new team.

"Making that first shot took the pressure off of them," Benington said, "and they played as good a first half as they had all season." The boys got their confidence back.

"We broke out of our slump and shot better than we normally do but that's what happens sometimes," Benington said. "It's a lot like a hitter in baseball who is in a slump. For days he can't buy a hit and then he gets a fluke hit and everything starts going right for him."

"In the last three games, Stepter has taken the first shot for us, he missed the first two but against Wisconsin he scored and it picked us up," Benington said. Stepter finished with 20 points.

Another sore spot with the Spartans has been the lack of consistent rebounding but against the Badgers Benington said, MSU was doing some aggressive board work.

"We got into trouble in the second half when Wisconsin used a pressure defense and we weren't moving," Benington said. We used the semi-stall very poorly until Lloyd Ward and John Holms went in and started going to the basket. Also Lee Lafayette was tired because we had him bringing the ball up against the press.

"I feel a lot more confident after this win. If we lost both games at home we'd be pretty hopeless right now, especially with two tough road games coming up. Iowa has the longest home winning streak in the conference and Northwestern already beat us badly here," Benington said.

"But I think there is more hope for the rest of the season after the Wisconsin game."

U-M's Schembechler names new grid staff

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (UPI)—Coach Bo Schembechler will bring six of his assistants from Miami of Ohio to coach football at the University of Michigan.

Schembechler will retain Michigan Coach George Mann, who will serve as receiver coach; Frank Maloney, who was offensive line coach but will become defensive line coach, and Bob Shaw, who will give up his dual role as defensive end and linebacker coach to become offensive line coach.

ASMSU blasts Dickerson

(continued from page one) filled. Total expenses for the year for ASMSU under the budget will be $47,157.30. With the total ASMSU gross funds being $49,900, the next session of ASMSU under the budget will be $47,157.30. With the total ASMSU gross funds being $49,900, the next session of ASMSU will be allotted $2,742.70. Due to the resignation of Ray

Doss, vice chairman, Harvey Dzodin was appointed to take over Doss' post. Doss, who had served two terms as vice chairman, cited personal reasons as the cause for his resignation. He will continue to serve as junior member-at-large, however. Bill Rustem, Frankenmuth sophomore, was also appointed to fill the Secretary position on the Board. Rustem has been a member of the Great Issues Board and of President Hannah's tuition committee prior to his appointment. Ellsworth announced that National Students Assn. had reopened negotiations with the University in an attempt to use the campus as the site of the association's national conference this spring.

Free 'U' to offer revolution class

The Free University will hold a class on "A peaceful revolution—Is it possible?" at a time and place to be announced probably from 7:30-10:00 p.m. Wednesday starting Jan. 15. The instructor, Gunther Pfaff, requests interested students to read "Revolt of Hope" by Erich Fromm and "Conquest of Violence" by Joan Bondurant in preparation for class.

Flying saucers

UFO's, or flying saucers are of extraterrestrial origin. The sources said this is "the only sensible scientific conclusion that could be drawn" from studies made by the Condon project. The sources also said the panel has "no strong disagreement" with other conclusions of the report, but they declined to elaborate. Still another source familiar with the report said it will declare that project scientists believe "there is no future in further scientific investigations of UFO's." This apparently is directed at demands by individual scientists and private organization for continued and broader scientific probes of flying saucers, some of which were made while the Colorado study still was under way. One such scientist is Dr. James E. McDonald, senior physicist at the University of Arizona's Institute of Atmospheric Physics.

EVERY CARD A WINNER

HOW TO PLAY KROGER'S "EASY STREET"

- NO PURCHASE NECESSARY. Get an EASY STREET Master Card—and one game piece (containing EASY STREET stickers) per store visit—on request at end of check-out lanes or at office of Kroger Store—adults only. A game piece and card also may be obtained by mailing a request to Glendinning, P. O. Box 62, Westport, Conn. 06880—one request per envelope.
- EASY STREET GAME. Separate, dampen the back of the stickers and affix them to the matching spaces on the other side of this card. When you collect the stickers which correspond exactly to all spaces in any single prize scene by number and background (or you receive an "Instant Winner"), present your card (or "Instant Winner") to the Store Manager who will arrange for verification and awarding of your prize. Prize sections (or "Instant Winner") must be initialed in the presence of the Store Manager.
- EASY STREET "ADD 'EM UP" TOP VALUE STAMP SECTIONS. Every EASY STREET game piece contains a special sticker worth several TOP VALUE stamps, after completion of the special twelve stamp section. Affix the special stickers to either special "add 'em up" section on the other side of this card. When you collect the twelve special stickers needed to complete either of these sections, count the number of TOP VALUE stamps you have won, and enter the amount in the boxes provided for totals. See the Store Manager who will arrange for verification and awarding of our prize. Visit often and complete both special "add 'em up" sections. WIN UP TO 10,000 TOP VALUE STAMPS!
- Game materials void if illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced or tampered with in any way, or if not obtained through legitimate channels, or if any materials contain printing or any other errors.
- Game materials void where taxed or restricted by law.
- Offer may be ended and prize payments stopped effective immediately upon posting of notice in participating Kroger Stores. Unless otherwise posted in the notice, all prizes must be claimed within 7 days after the termination of the promotion.
- Game materials may be used only for this game (ES-123) and prizes only redeemed in stores of this Division of The Kroger Co.
- All game materials submitted for winner verification become property of The Kroger Co.
- Employees of The Kroger Co., Glendinning Companies, Inc. (and its suppliers), their advertising agencies, and members of their immediate families are not eligible to win.

Where
in the world
are you going next summer?

Have you considered Brazil / Chile / Denmark / Ghana / India / Israel / Japan / Poland / Tanzania / Turkey / Yugoslavia? This hardly scratches the surface. There are 27 other countries to which The Experiment is prepared to send you.

What do you do? Discover one country, one people, in depth. By living as a member of a host family you meet people, travel with them, make lasting friendships, find out what really makes a country tick. Talk about becoming involved!
