Police recruiting spurs protest

Approximately 75 students demonstrated for three and one-half hours in the Student Services Bldg. Thursday protesting recruitment by the Oakland, Calif., police department.

The demonstrators left with the Oakland recruiters at 5 p.m., but planned to return at 10 a.m. today if the recruiters return as scheduled.

Soon after the protest began, counter-demonstrators formed outside the Student Services Bldg. They carried signs demanding their right to interview with any employer that they choose.

Acting President Walter Adams confronted the demonstrators in the building and appealed to them for an orderly dialogue on their grievances.

"As long as I am head of this institution," Adams told them, "decisions are going to be made in a rational and civilized manner."

Adams was frequently interrupted by jeers and obscenities hurled by the protesters.

"I will not respond to 100 people standing around demanding change," he continued. "I will not stand for mob rule in decision-making."

Demonstrators accused the Oakland police of "brutality" and said that the police "were responsible for the death of 10 black panthers within the last year."

They carried signs that read, "Stop political oppression of Black Panthers by Oakland's armed racist murderers: 'Free Huey'; 'End government of the pigs, by the pigs, for the pigs'; and 'Oakland pigs, off campus.'"

The small group of counter-demonstrators appeared with signs that read, "To each his own thing, no harassment" and "Why not social scientists as policemen?"

Early in the demonstration, Richard Oestreicher, Lansing senior, attacked the right of the Oakland police to recruit on campus.

"Does the right of free speech mean that they have the right to recruit for murder?" he asked. "We're saying that the people of the black community should be responsible to the black people."

Adams defended the right of the Oakland recruiters to interview students.

"As long as there is a duly scheduled interview with a registered student, I will see to it that he has the right to proceed with that interview," Adams said.

Demonstrators interrupted the discussion with periodic chants of "No more pigs in our communities - Oust the pigs." and pounded on the walls where the city of Oakland was interviewing.

Adams said that demonstrators do not have the right to interrupt a "duly scheduled interview" as set up under current regulations.

"The regulations are subject to change," he said, "but they have to be changed according to orderly procedure."

At one point, students forced their way into the outer office of John D. Shingleton, director of the Placement Bureau, in an attempt to stop the interview which was continuing during the demonstration.

Shingleton stated that all students who showed up for a scheduled interview with the Oakland recruiters had managed to see them.

Adams personally escorted one student through the crowd of demonstrators and into Shingleton's inner office where the interviewing had been moved after the Oakland recruiters were driven out of their original interviewing room.

Dhirendra Sharma, associate professor of philosophy, commended Adams for appearing before the students personally to present the position of the administration.

"In 27 years, this is the first time a president has come down to meet us," he told the crowd. "Let's extend him courtesy—let's hear him."

Sharma, however, vocally opposed Adams throughout the demonstration.

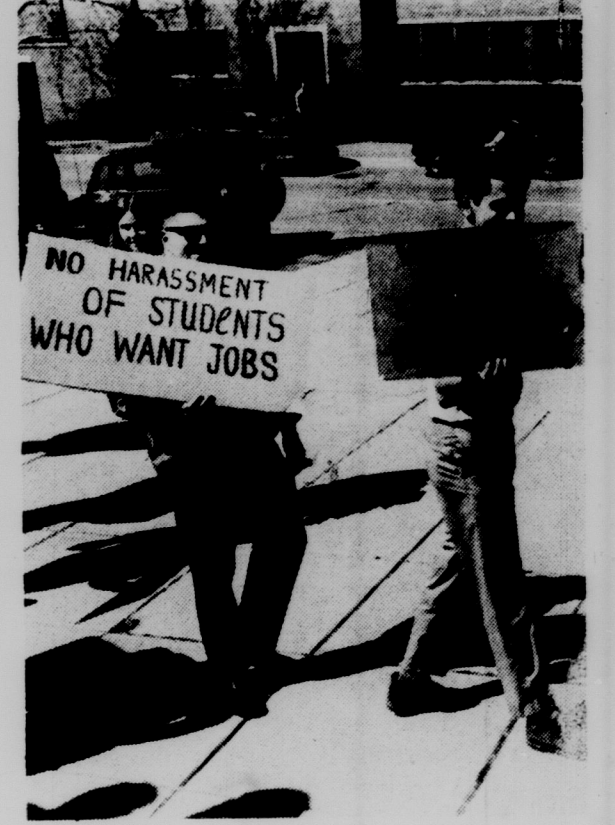

Adams said that the demonstrators have the right to persuade the interviewee not to take a job with the Oakland police, but they should not block the interview.

Allen Presser, New York, N.Y., junior, was interviewing with the Oakland representative when the demonstrators arrived.

"The demonstration was detrimental in itself," he said.

Presser added that by banning recruitment on campuses, the way was open for "bigots and racists" to control police departments.

A great majority of reform can come from within the ranks, he said.

Rogers eyes possible mutual troop withdraw

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Secretary of State William P. Rogers voiced hope Monday for mutual U.S.-North Vietnamese troop withdrawal this year but ruled out a one-sided American pullout now.

"We do have a plan which we think is a fair and reasonable one for ending this conflict," Rogers added. But again, he avoided naming any peace date and acknowledged "there isn't any magic formula" for ending the war.

Speaking at his first formal Washington news conference since taking office in January as President Nixon's foreign affairs chief, Rogers said also:

--The United States has decided to postpone indefinitely the potential application of economic sanctions against Peru for Peru's seizure of U.S. oil property. Wednesday was the legal deadline for such action unless the Lima regime indicated willingness to pay just compensation.

Because Peru has offered administrative processes for appeal by the affected U.S. oil firm, Washington is deferring the threatened cutoff of U.S. aid and sugar payments to Peru "pending the outcome of this process."

The United States is preparing to start the long-awaited U.S.-Soviet missile-curb talks in late spring or early summer. And one of the first things U.S. negotiators will ask the Soviets is why they are deploying huge SS9 nuclear rockets.

Margins slight in local vote

With nine of 11 precinct results tallied, Mary P. Sharp and Robert J. Wilcox were leading East Lansing's city election last night in the race for the two vacant city council seats.

Sharp led all candidates with 1623 votes. Wilcox was second with 1491. Robert L. Phillips had 1300 while Donald E. Ehle had 907.

Voters also favored the $480,000 parks and recreation bond, with 1352 yes votes to 919 no.

William K. Harmon, running unopposed for East Lansing Municipal Judge had received 2111 votes at the latest count.

Mrs. Sharp, 950 Audobon Road, was running for reelection to the city council. She was first elected in April 1965. She was elected mayor pro-tem by the council in April 1967.

Wilcox, 1861 E. Ridgewood Drive is president of the Greater East Lansing Chamber of Commerce and manager of Jacobson's. He is also former president of the East Lansing Rotary Club.

Ehle, 613 Orchard St., is an industrial sales representative for International Salt Co., covering 14 counties in mid-Michigan. He is former Ypsilanti Township clerk and past president of the Ypsilanti Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Phillips, 405 Oxford Road, is vice president and general manager of Paul Automotive, Inc., Lansing.

SELECTION REPRESENTATIVE

By ROSANNE BAIME and WHIT SIBLEY
State News Writer's

The undergraduate representative to the All-University Committee for Search and Selection (AUCSS), and an alternate were appointed Sunday night in a special session of the ASMSU Board.

Susan Gebelein, Butler, Pa., junior, will be the student representative and Mike Gieszer, East Lansing senior, will be the alternate.

As student representative, Mike Gebelein will attend all AUCSS meetings and represent the student at large in the committee's screening of candidates and seeking of nominations for the University presidency.

Gieszer, as alternate, will aid Miss Gebelein in gathering student opinion and will be prepared to substitute for her at committee meetings.

ASMSU Presidential Selection Board (PSB). The purpose of the board is to gather student opinion and to keep Miss Gebelein and Gieszer informed of changes and developments.

During questioning of candidates for the student position on AUCSS, the student board concentrated on four major areas.

Some expressed concern over probable closed session security near the end of the selection process. Jeff Zeig, senior member-at-large, Tom Samet, junior member-at-large, and Sue Hughes, Off Campus Council chairman, all were concerned over a situation which might place AUCSS security in conflict with the student body's right to know of selection proceedings.

Another area of concern was that of student dissent and the role of the president in reacting to it. Most candidates for the committee position were asked about the importance of demonstrations and how a new president should handle them.

Sources hint 'U' dean might take Nixon post

By GEORGE BULLARD
State News Staff Writer

Another MSU administrator may follow former President Hannah to a post in the Nixon Administration.

Thomas K. Cowden, dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said Friday that he has been involved in "discussions" on a federal appointment for several weeks. He declined to elaborate on the topic of those discussions.

Indications are that he may be tapped for asst. secretary of agriculture under Clifford M. Hardin, secretary of agriculture under Nixon and a former dean of the MSU College of Agriculture.

"It's no secret that the FBI has been asking questions about me around campus," Cowden said Friday.

A FBI background investigation routinely precedes the appointment of top government officials.

Cowden succeeded Hardin as dean of the College of Agriculture in 1954 when the latter left MSU to become chancellor of the University of Nebraska (U-N). Hardin served as U-N chancellor for 14 years before accepting the Cabinet post in January.

A spokesman for the Dept. of Agriculture said last week that there is no "official word" concerning a new appointment within the department.

He said, however, that a vacancy exists for an asst. secretary. Normally, four assistants serve under the secretary of agriculture. Currently, a deputy assistant is filling in as asst. secretary for conservation and rural development.

It is "entirely possible" that the deputy assistant will step down if a new asst. secretary is appointed, the spokesman said.

Apathy pervades elections

By MITCH MILLER
Executive Reporter

While ASMSU elections normally cause a furor on the third floor of the Student Services Bldg., throughout the rest of the campus they normally do little to break through the unconcern that characterizes the attitude of most MSU students toward their duly elected governing body, the Associated Students of Michigan State University (ASMSU).

For in spite of the issues, ASMSU elections have not attracted the interest of most students, primarily because most students view the government with apathy, if not downright hostility.

But regardless of student attitudes, ASMSU is here to stay (at least for a while), and it is regarded by faculty and administration as the voice of the student body, and as such, has an important role in making and changing policy.

Outstanding among the issues in which ASMSU has involved itself with success has been that of decreasing the amount of social regulations which govern the lives of MSU students.

The open house and no-hours policies are in great measure due to pressure from ASMSU on the administration, as indeed the whole process by which change in decision-making is being made, symbolized by the Academic Freedom Report.

But these are among only a very few issues with which ASMSU concerns itself that touch the lives of most students. Controversies that the student board finds crucial, such as the National Student Assoc. or the Garskof case are often regarded with suspicion or apathy by the students. And, this very apathy and suspicion is in itself both a characteristic of the government, and a campaign issue.

In this campaign, as in all previous campaigns, the candidates have almost universally spoken for the need to overcome student apathy. But from none of them has come the admission that the very structure of the government itself, the very nature of the process of student government and the people involved in it, is in part responsible for that apathy.

The new issues that have been added to the campaign are those of an ethnic studies residential college, and that of increased student participation in academic affairs.

Artificial heart patient receives new transplant

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Haskell Karp received a human heart today and was reported in satisfactory condition after the world's first completely mechanical heart had kept him alive 65 hours while he waited for a donor.

Dr. Denton A. Cooley, in his 19th transplant, placed the heart of a Massachusetts woman in the chest of the 47-year-old Skokie, Ill., printing estimator.

The human heart replaced an eight-ounce plastic and fabric device which Karp had received on an emergency but temporary basis Friday when efforts to repair a severely diseased heart chamber failed.

The two-hour and 45 minute transplant began shortly after Mrs. Barbara Ewan, 40, a victim of irreversible brain damage, had arrived by plane on a special flight from Lawrence, Mass.

Cooley said that there was some destruction of blood cells after the Friday implant but that the destruction lessened with the passage of time.

Solutions to these problems vary from a permanent seat for black students on the board to rejection of demands for increased black student and so-called "Third World" admissions. But the relation between any of these positions and actual university policy is not clear and students must make their decisions based not only on what positions they favor, but to what extent those they elect will be able to implement such policies.

Similarly, the call for increased student participation in academic affairs, including hiring and firing of faculty members is mainly a question of how effective the board will be in persuading the faculty to surrender some of the power they now hold.

Court rules on obscenities

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Supreme Court Monday guaranteed Americans the right to read dirty books or look at dirty movies in the privacy of their homes.

"A state has no business telling a man, sitting alone in his own house, what books he may read or what films he may watch," Justice Thurgood Marshall said for the court.

The ruling, an important extension of freedom of thought, forbids states to make mere possession of obscene material a crime-but leaves them free to restrict public distribution.

Marshall said an Atlanta bachelor, Robert Eli Stanley, sentenced to a year in prison because he had three "stag" films at home, was "asserting the right to read or observe what he pleases-the right to satisfy his intellectual and emotional needs in the privacy of his own home.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, justices William O. Douglas, John Marshall Harlan and Abe Fortas joined Marshall's opinion.

Justice Hugo L. Black concurred separately.

The three remaining justices, Potter Stewart, William J. Brennan Jr. and Byron R. White, said they would have upset the conviction of the Atlanta because officers used a search warrant issues for other reasons-to look for gambling materials-to seize the films

10 high school seniors win annual ADS awards at 'U'

Ten of the country's brightest scholars have won MSU's top award-the Alumni Distinguished Scholarship (ADS).

More than 1,500 high school seniors traveled to MSU last February to compete for the 10 awards. Most were National Merit Scholarship semifinalists and honor students.

ADS grants are valued at $8,500 over four years of undergraduate studies. Nonresidents receive extra for out-of-state tuition.

The 10 scholars all rank in the top three of their graduating classes. Several have honors courses or college classes to their credit before entering MSU.

Winners of the 14th annual

Free 'U' to include yoga, poetry classes

The Free University is offering a wide range of courses this term including a yoga class, a poetry workshop and other special interest classes.

The Free University is an office of ASMSU, which helps students organize non-credit classes in a field of their own interest. Students who want a class on a certain subject contact the Free "U" office.

and if enough students can be found the course will be offered. However, if not enough people sign up for the class, it will not be held.

The workshop being offered this term is for students who want to discuss poetry that they have written. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the poetry room on the second floor of Morrill Hall every Thursday.

A class discussing the future of railroads will be taught at 7:30 p.m. in 304 Bessey every Monday.

Two photography courses are being offered. One is in cinematic photography and the other in still photography emphasizing the art aspects. The time and place that these classes will be held will be announced in "It's What's Happening."

Two classes need more students before they will be taught. One is on the physiology of reproduction and the other on market peace, cooking and shopping on a student budget.

Classes in rapid reading and basic automobile mechanics have several interested students but need an instructor.

Yoga will be taught again this term. For information on time and place, call the Free "U" office.

A special interest course on the works and thought of C.S. Lewis will be held.

A piano workshop and a class in beginning bartending have also been suggested.

Why live in the past?

By CHRIST MEAD
Executive Reporter

CHICAGO—About 20 to 25 thousand peace demonstrators filled the streets of Chicago Saturday in one of a nationwide series of GI-civilian marches against the war in Vietnam.

Leaders of the mile-long march claim the protest to be "the biggest march in the history of Chicago."

Organized on a peaceful basis, the march was marred by only a few police-demonstrator scuffles. The hand-picked members of the Chicago Police force who lined the parade route were described by march leaders as very cooperative.

Assembling in the early afternoon at State Street and Wacker Avenue in the heart of the city's loop, the march proceeded down State Street to the Coliseum on Wabash Street.

Thronged of spectators lined the streets. Most looked on in mild curiosity, and few joined the marchers and others voiced open opposition to the march.

Leading the mile-long parade was a contingent of GIs and military veterans who oppose the war in Vietnam and are fighting for free speech and Constitutional rights for GIs.

Army regulations forbid military personnel to appear at demonstrations in uniform so the GIs were identified by hats reading "GIS for peace." Veterans wore similar hats.

Participants for the anti-war march were from many shades of political opinion. Though the marchers were primarily young, a sizable minority of older persons participated.

The sponsors of the march, the Chicago Peace Committee and the Student Mobilization Committee, stationed peace marshals along the parade route to keep marchers in line.

About halfway through the parade line, a guerrilla theatre group illustrated their version of the war. Dressed in long black gowns with their faces painted white, the actors pulled large black coffins filled with maimed, red paint-splattered dolls to symbolize the plight of Vietnamese children.

At the Coliseum, the marchers held a rally which included such speakers as anti-war GIs, Quakers, an expelled high school political organizer and a Black Panther.

Joe Miles, a GI from Fort Bragg, said that the American people should support the GIs by bringing them home.

"The majority of the GIs don't support the war—we don't want any part of it," he said.

He blasted the Army as the "most inhuman, dictatorial and racist institution in the world."

Miles has been active at Fort Bragg, N.C., trying to get military personnel to allow GIs to openly discuss the war, racism and the civil liberties of GIs.

He maintained that the real enemies of the GI are not the Vietnamese, but the "politicians, liars and the brass who send us there."

"Fighting communism means going to Vietnam and making it safe for big business to profit from people around the world," Miles said.

The march in Chicago was one of several in major U.S. cities that day. In New York City, a record 40,000 persons turned out at Sixth Avenue to voice their opposition to the war and their support for free speech for GIs.

ASMSU elections: see how they run

Instead of giving blanket endorsements of candidates for positions in ASMSU, the State News has placed those running in three categories: "excellent," "good," and "other." Those in the "excellent" category, we feel, are outstanding candidates for their respective posts. Those in the "good" group have some drawbacks but would certainly fill positions on the student board with insight and maturity. The "other" category signifies greater limitations in the candidates. Since all views were printed in the special section in last Friday's State News, these candidates' views were not reiterated.

While we feel that the candidates listed below as "excellent" or "good" are best qualified for positions on the board, we urge every student to investigate the issues involved carefully and make his own decision as to whom he believes deserves his vote in Wednesday's election.

Excellent

Harry Chancey:

Chancey could bring to the board a wealth of experience garnered from long association with student government and the problems of students. Among his accomplishments this past year, Chancey set up the Student Defender's Assn., an office which much resembles a student ombudsman. Of the candidates for SMAL, Chancey is the only one who advocates that student government take an active role in agitating for price-reform in East Lansing. Chancey further advocates that ASMSU actively seek out student criticism of conditions on campus, rather than passively await for such criticism to filter up to it. He believes that the role ASMSU should take in all issues must be "proactive" rather than "reactive," and that there exists a very real need for student government to "act rapidly" on the proposals forwarded by the "idealistic" and "radical" factions on campus. If he is sincere, Chancey represents an alternative for the voter who is tired of the amoeba-like proliferation of ASMSU committees and sub-committees.

Good

Alan Mintzer:

Mintzer brings a certain amount of experience with his candidacy, stemming from his association with Off-Campus Council, Student-Faculty Drug Committee, and the Campus Observer. He sees the main problem to be solved by ASMSU this year as the issue of "Who is to decide on specific issues—students or faculty?" He has a good grasp on what the failings of ASMSU were during the past year, and what the major areas of concern for ASMSU should be for the coming year. However, Mintzer offers no fresh, uniquely his-very-own ideas for the solution of past shortcomings and future problems.

JUNIOR MEMBER-AT-LARGE

Good

Chuck Mostov:

We hesitate to place the only candidate who is presently a member-at-large in the "Excellent" category, because the danger exists that such an evaluation might appear to the reader as State News satisfaction with ASMSU "accomplishments" during the past year. However, one cannot deny Mostov's qualifications: he is the only candidate for MAL who is presently a MAL. He is already a proven swimmer in the ASMSU sub-committee quagmire. He stands on his laurels: "I am already familiar with those administrative tasks required of a board member." Mostov does, however, present cogent views and thoughtful suggestions on the two problems likely to prove thorniest in the coming year: Third-world admissions and student influence on Academic committees.

Bill Rustem:

Rustem's qualifications also rest on his experience during the past year on ASMSU: among his other activities, he is the secretary of ASMSU. Among his better points is his willingness to learn, and get involved in, all aspects of ASMSU. For example, Rustem frequently attends Board and committee meetings which he is not required to attend. Rustem is opposed to Mostov with respect to the role ASMSU should play in areas of national concern, and sees the need for comment in this area to be directed through "national and state organizations" (such as NSA). Rustem also sees the need for ASMSU to be active in the surrounding community.

Others

Rick Shockley

GENERAL MEMBER-AT-LARGE

Good

Gary Klinsky:

Klinsky has worked in both the service and policy areas of ASMSU during the past year. He feels that by "diversifying myself into the areas of service and policy, I have gained an understanding into the problems of the student as well as the administration." He recognizes that before "we can ask students to participate, we must give them an opportunity to effectively participate in something meaningful." Like all the candidates, then, he feels the major issue is to get student representation (in a voting capacity) on all "key" faculty committees. Klinsky, however, presents some rational answers to the problem of how to bring it all about.

Others

Trevor Hall

Jim Winkworth

Good

Mike Hudson:

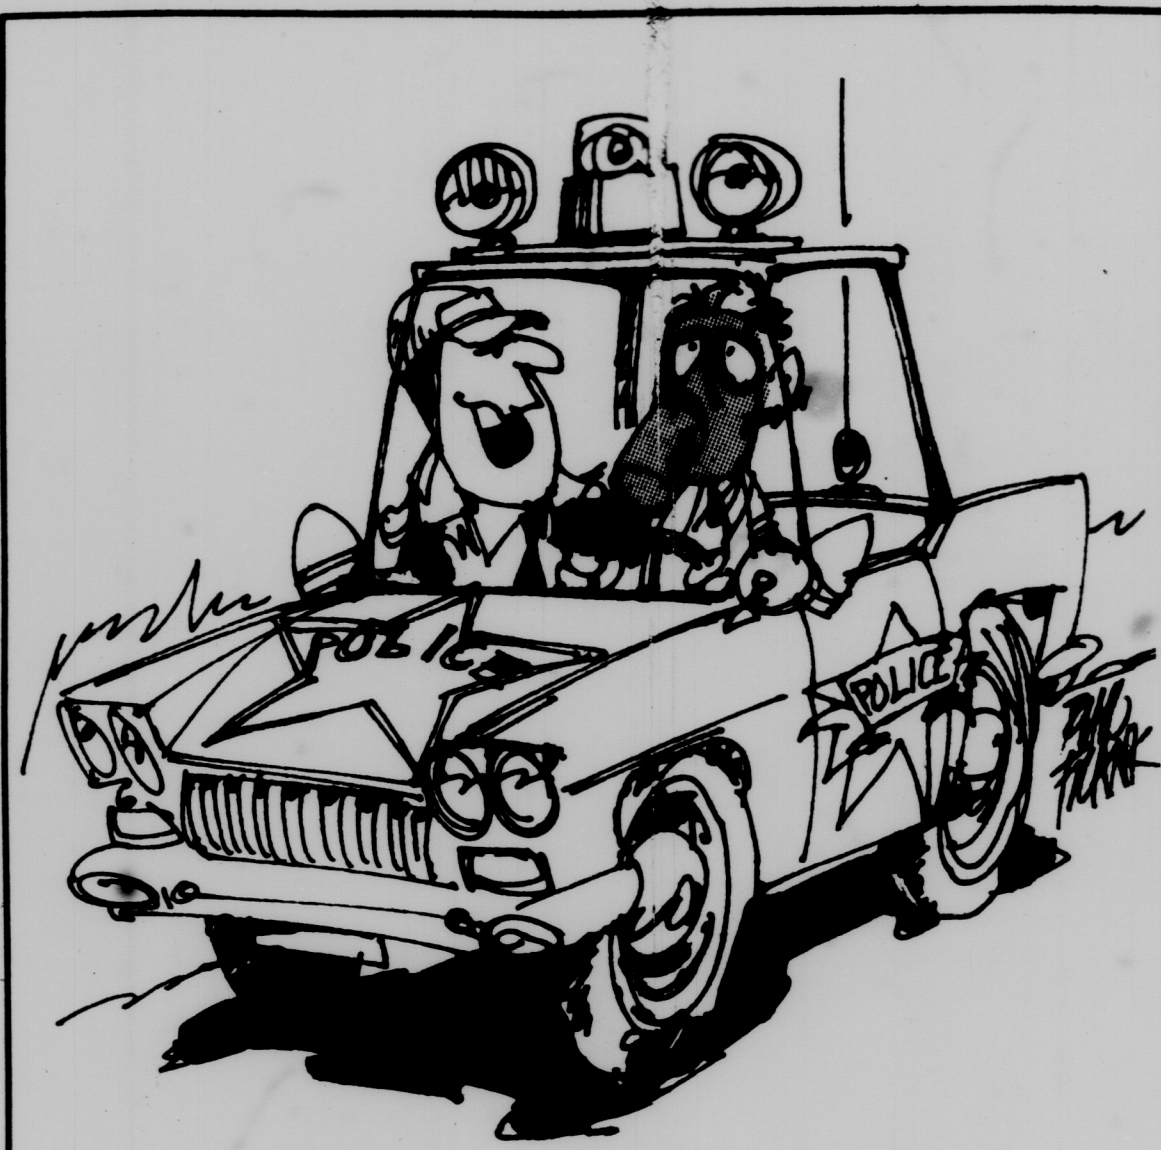

As a candidate, Hudson offers experience in the human relations side of student government: he has served on the ASMSU Consumer Relations Committee, and as a voluntary aide in several community projects.

Hudson is the only black candidate this year, and many of his proposals are refreshingly unique among the candidates—five year athletic scholarships, giving credit for preparatory courses for disadvantaged students and to others. He feels that the board should not so much respond to student opinion as lead it.

Mike Shore:

Shore has considerable experience in ASMSU, serving on a number of committees and as executive assistant to Harv Dzodin, senior member-at-large. He indicates that he wants to follow up and expand the policy of visiting and consulting with complex residents. He feels that the primary duty of the post is to represent student views, and he feels the board must put aside its personal desires to do this. He is also in favor of an ethnic studies residential college, opening more channels for the airing of student grievances, elimination of some of the ASMSU offices and bureaucracy, and an improvement in Pop Entertainment.

PAT ANSTETT

Little interest in Good Friday

Enter one tired campus editor in a box, alias the State News editorial column.

Reluctant—because what I would like to say about the lack of interest in Good Friday could appear "overly religious" (and what college student wants to appear as a genuflecting church-goer), and possibly racist.

Reluctant too because I, as a State News Editor, can be criticized for what I am criticizing.

Friday symbolized the anniversaries of the deaths of two great men—Martin Luther King Jr. and Jesus Christ.

But acknowledgement of the death of Christ was considerably downplayed and virtually ignored by many of the media, students and faculty.

The State News did not intend to downplay the death of Christ, and it was not really evident in my mind that this had happened until I picked up the paper Friday morning.

Of course, the college campus is supposed to be a place of intellectual ferment—where most scholars have decided that religion is one of many philosophies which are encompassed in some abstract word called culture. Religion is viewed by many as a philosophy—but not THE philosophy.

So why am I disturbed about a lack of observance for Christ's death if some of the reading public of the State News is supposedly irreligious?

I believe that if the State News can carry stories about one of the greatest men of all who worked at improving the conditions of human relationships, it can also give the same amount of coverage to the death of whom I believe is THE greatest man of all who proved what brotherhood, peace and turn-the-other-cheek really means.

Both men have been praised and discredited. Yet their mere historical significance connotes newsworthiness to any objective editor and respect from any audience.

"Look at our former religion editor over there typing on Good Friday," one reporter observingly stated to the two other writers who watched me type in the quiet solitude of the State News' hushed Friday atmosphere.

The telephone interrupts our quiet sanctuary.

"It seems to me, the interested party said, that the deaths of two great men are being observed today." He asked me why Martin Luther King got so much coverage when Good Friday-related articles were placed on page 12.

But that man sounded "at least 30."

POINT OF VIEW

Dialogue missed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "point of view" is a "position statement on disturbance at MSU Placement Bureau" issued by Harvey Dzodin, vice chairman, and Chuck Mostov, sophomore member-at-large, ASMSU.

Monday's demonstration at the MSU Placement Bureau was indicative of the paradoxical and tragic flaw of the members of the New Left who were present. The demonstration resulted from the presence of recruiters from the police department of Oakland, Calif.

The issue involved was the right of the Oakland Police to recruit on campus. Evidence supports the contention the Oakland police force is racist as exemplified by the murder of Bobby Hutton. Further evidence indicated that the department is non-professional due to its vast majority of poorly educated men on the force.

The demonstrators maintained that they could do their part to end police racism by refusing to allow the recruiters to meet with interested students. They further stifled the operations of the Placement Bureau by the presence of approximately 100 people, and refused to permit dialogue between administrators and themselves, preferring to chant and use abusive language.

It was indeed heartening after having a president for 27 years who had shunned dialogue to see Acting President Walter Adams enter the Placement Bureau to hear the student demands and to initiate a dialogue between students and the President—a long overdue development at MSU.

We believe in the right of demonstration and dissent as a cornerstone of any real democracy. However, it is a sad state of affairs when those who profess democracy resort to the totalitarian standard of "might makes right" and of themselves in their benevolent wisdom deciding what is right and wrong and of stifling any dissent that does not agree with them.

We further believe that their tactics are in the style of such demagogues as the late senator Joseph McCarthy and Adolph Hitler in refusing open discussion, playing on emotion, shunning reason and making confrontation for the sake of reaping havoc. This is to be strongly condemned.

The case of Dr. Bert Garskof is relevant. As much as this man, who was wronged by the University, had the right to dissent and have demonstrations in his behalf, so too do people who wish to be interviewed by the Oakland Police or any one else have the right to do so. Right and wrong can only be established by the free exchange and clashing of ideas through open debate and not through the whim of some minority who advocates rights only for those with whom they agree.

The demonstration would have been legitimate in protest of racism in police departments if the orderly processes of the Placement Bureau were not disrupted. The demonstrators, by scaring away college graduates, have made room for the untrained "Birchers, Bigots, and Racists" referred to by Adams, in the Oakland department.

It is most unfortunate that this key issue plaguing society today was not discussed in reason and calm at Dr. Adams' invitation with the chance of making real progress almost certain. Instead a golden opportunity of dialogue so long and hard sought by students was missed, and the hypocrisy of those demonstrators was more than evident. If students are ever to receive their proper role as equals in the government of the academic community, confrontation must be forthrightly preserved by dialogue and discussion, not by chants and close-minded slogans.

You can tell who went south over spring break — they're the ones with the sunburns and the empty wallets.

MSU's next president should show lots of school spirit such as wearing a green and white polka dot bowtie.

Q: What's thinner than Nixon's modified ABM system?

A: Defense Secretary Laird's logic for having it.

Letter policy

The State News welcomes all letters. They should be typed and signed with the home town, student, faculty or staff standing, and local phone number included. No unsigned letter will be accepted for publication, and no letter will be printed without a signature except in extreme circumstances. All letters must be less than 300 words long for publication without editing.

No chance for reflection

Television lights penetrating to the point of blindness, cameras dissecting the crowd, stagehands herding the "extras" together keeping them in range of the cameras, newsmen sprawling offstage, waiting for a human interest story to develop among the "extras".

An MGM soundstage, maybe?

No, the scene at the Capitol Rotunda in Washington, as the people of the nation "filed by in silent tribute" to Gen. Eisenhower.

In the finest American tradition the mass media of the nation was covering (literally) the mourners who had come perhaps to gawk at or perhaps to pay tribute to the late Gen. Eisenhower.

In any case the lights and cameras had prevented me from doing either as I filed past the bier and successfully destroyed any moments of silent reflection I might have had.

To say that police were everywhere is a gross understatement. These "stagehands" continued to herd mourners close to the bier with the directions, "step to the front, the cameramen want a good shot."

These particular policemen must have received their crowd control training in the Chicago stockyard, for herding is exactly what they did. A night stick was applied like a small cattle prod to anyone wanting to keep out of the camera's range.

I had gone to the Capitol in the middle of the night Monday, to avoid the circus, only to discover that television cameras were demanding continual performances from the crowd.

It is one thing for a camera to catch a human interest story and another to stage them to satisfy someone's morbid curiosity.

It is one thing to cover an historical event for the people of the nation and another to exercise such poor taste as to void the event of any dignity.

Coverage of the actual ceremonies surrounding the general's funeral if done in good taste can bring history in the making to the country.

But the kind of coverage I encountered Monday was sensationalism at its worst.

Passing out of the "solemn" atmosphere of the Capitol Rotunda, I was herded into the passageway where myriad memorial wreaths were displayed. All had identifying ribbons attached. Only Gov. Rockefeller's ribbon had been carefully draped over the bannister of the stairway so that all could see.

"The politician shall be always with ye."

I think this will be my last encounter with history in the making. From now on I will sit home and watch history on the tube.

They have, with their lights and stagehands succeeded in contriving a dignified atmosphere for the viewing audience, as they have destroyed any authentic dignity surrounding the actual event.

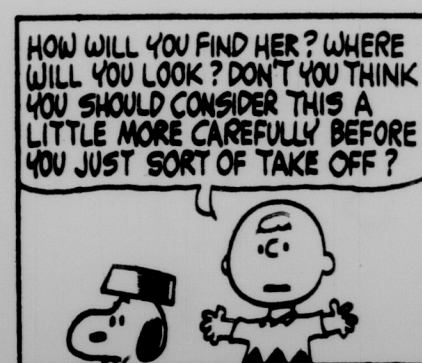

But perhaps the best summary of the whole experience was a comment made from a man descending the Capitol stairs, seemingly as disillusioned as myself. He said:

"Live! In Color! Continuous coverage of the General Eisenhower Funeral Special!"

OUR READERS' MIND

Edit based on mystery

To the Editor:

In Thursday editorial, the statement was made that "all (candidates) except (Robert) Phillips believe a city income tax should be implemented if property tax could be decreased."

On page seven of the same paper, Phillips is quoted as saying, "If more revenue is needed, I would favor an income tax rather than an increase in property taxes."

To even the most casual reader, there would seem to be a slight discrepancy between the allegation and the quote.

The editorial remarks connotate Phillips' opposition to a city income tax. The candidate's comments show a conditional advocacy. Just what is Phillips' stand? It would seem that competent journalism should tend to clarify the issues, rather than befuddle them. Clearly, the State News does not support Phillips. But what are the "several reasons" causing Phillips' classification as "unsatisfactory?" What are the "certain limitations" of Ehle and Wilcox?

These are the questions that others, specifically those 4,000 voting students, should be asking. An opinion, expressed either by the State News or any other organization or individual, must have a basis in fact in order to achieve pertinence or relevancy.

The State News editorial of April 3, based as it is in mystery, cannot be concluded to be an intelligent, nor logical, document or stand.

Stepher R. Hecker, East Lansing freshman, EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Phillips stated earlier in that same paragraph on page seven, "At this point I don't believe a city income tax is necessary." He is the only candidate who has taken such a stand.

End unfair favoritism

To the Editor:

The State News has lost whatever right it had to rank, endorse or analyze the candidates who are running for positions in tomorrow's ASMSU elections. The only exposure that the candidates have had to the State News was through an interview with one of two State News reporters who did not necessarily interview all of the other candidates for the same position. The State News also neglected to send reporters to the forums that were attended by all of the candidates. Something that will be as influential as will any State News favoritism, should have included interviews of each of the candidates by the entire editorial board, as has been done in the past. With no personal knowledge of who will be favored by the State News, I would urge every student not to make a decision that will influence students and their concerns on the basis of an endorsement or ranking that will, at best, lack credibility.

Peter Ellsworth
ASMSU Chairman

EDITOR'S NOTE: The State News has indeed changed its policy of endorsements for ASMSU elections, as readers will notice on this page. This year, for the first time, we judge all candidates against the same independent criteria, rather than simply matching individuals in any one race. We have grouped the candidates by position for the convenience of our readers. Each candidate has responded to a standard questionnaire and has also been interviewed at length by either one of our top reporters or editorial writers. We feel this has given each candidate a greater opportunity than in the past to show his credentials. We feel that our new endorsement policy is not only fairer to the candidates, but will be more helpful to our readers.

Shocking destruction

To the Editor:

To whom it may concern:

At 1 a.m. on the morning of April 4 I received a phone call from Allen Mintzer, candidate for senior member-at-large, informing me that all the candidates' signs in front of Brody had been pushed on the ground. Allen offered to drive me to Brody to survey the damage for myself and I admit I was shocked when I saw the destruction.

The signs were flat on the ground, some of the wooden supports were smashed and there was a hole punched out of one sign. We went into Emmons Hall to make a phone call and found that the election posters had been ripped off the bulletin board. We soon learned that the campaign materials had also been destroyed at South Complex.

The value of the signs is hard to estimate when I consider the time and labor required to put them up. However, it is not the candidates' loss that concerns me the most. The fact that a student or a group of students would sabotage campaign materials carried dangerous implications.

I am very anxious, as I am certain the other candidates are, to find out who is responsible for the destruction. I therefore offer a $25 reward to anyone offering information about the incident that will lead to prosecution of the guilty parties.

Clear consciences for trustees?

To the Editor:

We hope that the person who signed the $3,580 check for the 39-foot Brazilian rosewood table that the University recently purchased did so with a clear conscience. We realize that the board of trustees needs a table for their meetings and that its aesthetic qualities must coincide with those of their new boardroom. We also realize that each year students drop out of MSU and that potential students never enter her doors because the State legislature will not appropriate adequate funds in the area of financial aid. We cannot help but wonder if the board of trustees will sit comfortably around their new table knowing full ell that it is preventing a few of tomorrow's adults from receiving a college education.

Wondrous rumor

To the Editor:

Since leaving MSU some two years ago, I have not heard much about the University or ATL (not quite in the university) to cause me great regrets over my departure. But now a wondrous rumor has reached me: Walter Adams is the acting president! Ten thousand students signing a petition in favor of law and order or the firing of Garskof makes sense, but Walter Adams as president causes one to wonder. Is it possible that MSU will actually get a "real" president or is there an academic Westmoreland in the wings? The trustees should be congratulated on their choice of Adams. Now if they would only disarm the campus cops, rehire Garskof, eliminate ROTC, football and ATL, the golden age would be upon you.

Spartans' Towson captures 2nd straight NCAA gym title

NORM HAYNIE

By LINDA MILLER

Spartan gymnast Toby Towson finished a fantastic collegiate career this weekend in Seattle as he captured his second consecutive NCAA title in floor exercise.

Towson's 9.6 in the finals was the highest score of the meet. This score, averaged with his preliminary score of 9.35, put him eight points ahead of his closest competitor.

A crowd of over 4,000 gave Towson a standing ovation for his routine in the finals. He also received All-America honors for his performance.

Penn State's coach, Gene Whetstone, acclaimed Towson's floor exercise as the greatest in the world.

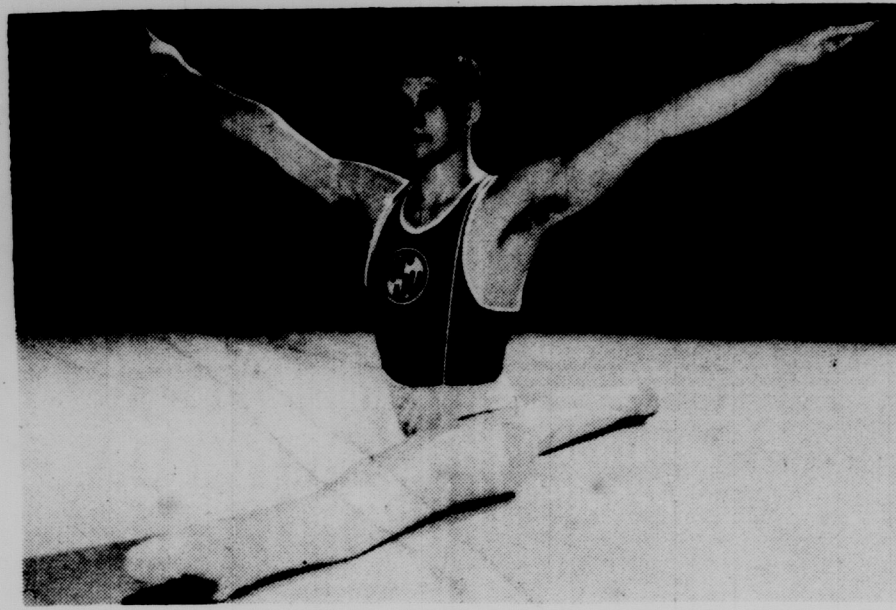

Going into the finals, it looked as if MSU would be the only team with two national champions. After Friday's preliminaries, Norm Haynie led in the high-bar with a 9.45—his highest score of the year. Haynie was up seventh out of 50 competitors in the preliminaries and his score stood.

In the final competition, Haynie's closest competitor, Bob Manna of New Mexico University, scored a 9.45.

After a clean start, Haynie brushed his foot against the bar which slowed up his next three tricks. Continuing his routine, he scored a 9.0 which dropped him to fourth place.

Craig Kinsey, the Spartan's only other competitor, fell from the sidehorse after losing his balance. He continued his routine but failed to make the finals. Iowa's Keith McCanness won the event for the second year in a row.

Rugger's blanked in season opener

By JEFF ELLIOTT

A smooth running and passing rugby team from the University of Michigan defeated MSU Saturday afternoon, 11-0. The score, however, was not indicative of the match as the Wolverines led by only two goals until the closing minute-of the game when they added their final tally. The game was the first of the season for the Spartans who had only four days of practice prior to Saturday's game. Michigan's win was their second against no losses.

Poor passes and sloppy ball-handling led to the Spartans' downfall. The enthusiasm and spirit were evident, but they lacked the Wolverine's finesse.

The Spartans' best opportunity for a score came near the end of the first half when they had a scrum on their five yard line. But a Michigan player broke through and kicked the ball to midfield as the half ended.

The Spartans also missed a penalty kick from the 25 yard line midway in the first half which would have tied the score, 3-3.

Michigan's three goals were scored by Captain Ross Vickers, John Bowers and Jerry Nepper. Mike Johnson made good on one of three extra points for two points.

The Wolverines thus retain the Steeple Trophy for the fourth consecutive year. The trophy is awarded to the winning school's club after each match. The Spartans next match will be this weekend in the Big Ten tournament at Ann Arbor.

Weather wins; 'S' game called

The MSU baseball team still has yet to see any action since returning from their spring trip.

Wet grounds at Muncie, Ind., Saturday, thwarted the Spartan's attempt to get in a double-header with Ball State.

The two schools decided not to make up the twinbill so the Spartans will not have their "Northern" opener till Saturday when they travel to Detroit for two games with the University of Detroit.

In a twinbill here last year, the Spartans topped the Titans twice, 5-1 and 13-1. MSU has an 8-5 record to date this season.

Cazzie will play if knee gets nod

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Knickerbockers, stunned by Boston in the first game of their National Basketball Assn. Eastern Division playoff, may have the services of Cazzie Russell for the rest of the series.

Russell will accompany the team to Boston and have his ankle checked. If it proves to be sufficiently strong, he will see action against the Celtics in their second game Wednesday night at Boston.

NBA opens college draft

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Phoenix Suns, who lost out by the flip of a coin in an effort to draft Lew Alcindor, Monday selected 6-foot-10 Neal Walk of Florida as their first round choice in the National Basketball Assn.'s annual player draft after the Milwaukee Bucks went through the formality of naming Alcindor as their first choice.

Lucius Allen, a teammate of Alcindor's at UCLA for two years, was the choice of the Seattle Supersonics, who drafted third.

The Detroit Pistons, badly in need of a forward since trading Dave DeBusschere to the New York Knickerbockers, went for 6-7 Terry Driscoll of Boston College Driscoll, a rugged rebounder, was fifth in the nation in rebounding with an average of 17.8 per game.

LA hurlers haunt Reds in NL clash

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds followed Manager Dave Bristol's game plan, but it still failed to pay off in a National League opening game victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers downed the Reds, 3-2, despite back-to-back home runs by Pete Rose and Bobby Tolan, the first two batters to face Dodgers pitcher Don Drysdale.

"We wanted to get to Drysdale early because we knew he would get stronger as he went along," Bristol told reporters after the game. "You couldn't ask for much more than two home runs to open a game, but then our attack just died."

Drysdale developed a stiff arm and was forced to retire after six innings, but it didn't make any difference because reliever Bill Singer was even more effective.

Much to the consternation of a sellout crowd of 30,111 fans, the Reds managed only two more hits, both singles, off the combined offerings of Drysdale and Singer after those initial blasts.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, had their problems connecting with the humming fast balls and sharp-breaking curves of Red pitcher Gary Nolan, except for uprisings in the second and third innings.

Nolan, now in his third season although only 20 years old, recorded 12 strikeouts—more than any Cincinnati hurler registered in any game last season.

Safe at third

New York's Roy White steals third as Washington's Ken McMillen makes a vain attempt to field a wild throw in the second inning of the American League opening game.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The managerial debut of Ted Williams turned into a nightmare Monday when the New York Yankees rocked his Washington Senators for an easy 8-4 victory to the dismay of President Nixon and the largest Opening day crowd in Washington history.

With 45,113 fans in Robert F. Kennedy stadium, the Yankees dealt the Senators their seventh straight opening day defeat as two New York newcomers, Jerry Kenney and Bobby Murcer, cracked back-to-back homers in the third inning and two Washington errors let in four unearned runs in the fourth.

Williams, who came out of retirement to take over the last-plate Senators, saw his team out-hit the Yankees 14-9 but be checked with ease by Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyer.

Nixon, who lobbed out three ceremonial opening tosses, stayed until the end, trying to buy the spirits of six Washington area Little League players who were his guests at the game. They were rewarded in the ninth inning when Frank Howard smashed a homer with a man on.

Camilio Pascual, Williams' choice as a starter, was nicked for two runs in the second inning as the Yankees flashed some alert base-running and then was knocked out when Kenney and Murcer hit their successive homers an inning later.

The Yankees, starting a season for the first time since 1951 without Mickey Mantle on the roster, used speed on the bases to pick up two quick runs off Pascual in the second inning. Roy White walked, stole both second and third and scored on a single by Tom Tresh for the first run. Bill Robinson forced Thresh, but then stole second and raced home on Jake Gibbs' single.

But it was solid power that provided the next two New York runs and drove Pascual to the showers. Kenney, 23-year-old rookie who was in the service last year, sailed his second Major League homer over the right field fence with one out in the third and Murcer, who spent the last two seasons in military uniform, hit the first homer of his career into the upper right field stands.

Ted 'philosophical' over losing Nat debut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ted Williams, a loser his first time out as manager, brushed off his obvious disappointment Monday with a philosophical "it's only one game."

The game Williams is talking about was the season opener for the Washington Senators his first game as a major league manager and the New York Yankees, who ruined both occasions with an 8-4 victory before 45,113—the greatest crowd ever to see an opener in this city.

Most of the fans, along with President Nixon, stayed until the end and that was some consolation for the 50-year-old Williams, particularly since the Yankees led 8-0 after three and a half innings.

"I know a lot of places they (the fans) woulda got up and gone back home," Williams commented. "But they stayed all the way and that stirred up pretty good near the end."

One of the things which stirred them up was Frank Howard's tremendous two-run homer over the centerfield fence in the ninth inning, which even brought Nixon to his feet and moved him to happy applause.

Williams refused to second guess himself in defeat.

"I don't see how we could do anything different," he said. "Maybe you guys do," he jabbed at the press, then broke into a laugh.

Orchesis presents dance concert

Orchesis is an official MSU organization composed of students interested in dance. Once a year they come out of their hiding place at the Women's I.M. Bldg. and perform for the public. Dance fans and people interested in true local talent developments, take note. This year's dance concert will take place through Saturday at various campus locations.

The concert is presented annually by the Performing Arts Co., and admission is free with the correct PAC coupon. Tickets may also be purchased at the door before showtime for 75 cents.

There are eight original dances on the program, most of which were created by MSU students. These include Mary Kay Wolfe, Leanne Dufford, Susan Schott, Kathe Horton, Jill Goldwasser and Connie Dickmeyer. Dixie Durr and Sue Neller, co-directors of Orchesis, also perform in the program of the evening. A number of interesting ideas provide the basis for this program. "As Quiet As..." for instance, was inspired by the responses of a group of nine-year-old children completing the sentence "let's be as quiet as..." Diverse areas of the program include "From the Blues Box" by Susan Schott, and "Introducing Ricco" by Dixie Durr.

Concerts like this are not only rare, but such more complicated than they look. An understanding of dance requires talent in movement, music and co-ordination. Using dance as an expression requires more than athletic ability.

This week, Orchesis shows off some original creations in sound and movement, as well as some unusual physical skills. And for 75 cents, that's not bad.

Smothers Brothers get Canadian network bid

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom and Dick Smothers said Monday they have an offer from the Canadian CTV network to produce their show in Toronto next year if they cannot place it with an American network.

Tom Smothers said he and his brother, canceled last week by CBS, had not received offers from ABC or NBC, but said, "We're open to other networks."

Dick said the chances were "very slim" that they would return to CBS, which canceled their show for next season after a long dispute over censorship.

Robert D. Wood, CBS Television president, said on Friday the Smothers Brothers had committed a "breach of contract" by failing to submit the tape of last Sunday's show in time for previewing by affiliate stations over a closed circuit.

Wood said the scheduled show, which was not shown, was in "bad taste" because of a religious satire.

Tom, who had just returned from an uncensored showing of the Smothers Brothers Show on the privately owned CTV Sunday, said, "We have an offer from the Canadian people to come up and produce our show there if we can't find a place in the United States."

Tom is tentatively scheduled to appear on NBC's "Today Show" this morning. He also is booked on the "Joey Bishop Show" on ABC tonight.

The big bright green pleasure machine

The Norelco Flip-Top 20. Not only does it have flip-top cleaning, a handy on/off switch, and an easy-going carrying wallet, it has two Microgroove™ heads that float comfortably over your face. To make every part of shaving a downright pleasure.

Picture all that pleasure without a cord and you've got the Cordless 20B on the right. All it needs is 4 little penlight batteries and you've got 30 days of shaves. Without ever having to plug it in! Take it anywhere in its handy, compact travel case.

Two great shavers. Norelco calls them pleasure machines. Because they're a pleasure to use. And because you can buy them for a song.

Norelco you can't get any closer

Mary from Justin Morrill

Please read the following!

Mary was riding a bus on Sept. 3rd having been unexpectedly required to tend to arrangements for her apartment that she was to rent that fall. That's where I met her--and I have to see her again!

It's a large request but can you help somehow? If by some quirk of fate you are able to sympathize with the problem of an ex-Spartan, now a soldier, I shall be eternally grateful.

The following may be helpful -- she had been enrolled in Justin Morrill. She had caught the bus from Northland.

If I were there, I would be able to do it myself, but I am in Turkey--8,000 miles away!!

Sincerely,
Tom Toland
