Yearbook Executives Announce Final Drive and Payment Scheme

Wolverine to Have Desk in Union Lobby Wednesday and Thursday; Six Payment Plans Announced as Sales Hit 800
Mark: White Named Publicity Head.

For the convenience of those students who desire to order yearbooks and who have not already done so, the Wolverine will place a desk in the lobby of the Union building Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Salesmen will be on duty from 8:00 a. m. until 6:00 p. m. on these days, and seniors as well as other students may order their books. The business staff has announced that there are six different plans of payment being offered the students this year.

Over 800 orders have already been received and the staff hopes for sales well over the thousand mark. Fraternity and sorority sales have been brisk, and some of the houses have signed up the required number of members to take advantage of the offer of free pages and free books.

Seniors will be able to sign for Wolverines by paying $7.75 in cash, and the senior class will contribute the remaining $2.00. A plan whereby students may pay for their book in two installments along with winter and spring term fees has been drawn up. Under this plan $1.75 will be deposited with winter fees and the remaining $2.00 will be paid with spring fees. Although the total price is $3.75 per payment may be made. By paying $2.00 when signing up and $1.75 upon delivery, students may obtain their books.

Jack Heppinstall Tells of Former Athletic Days

Spartan Trainer is Storehouse of Reminiscences and Anecdotes; Played Soccer Football and Ran on Track—Team in Durham England.

By TRID OLDS
(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles on Jack Heppinstall—Spartan athletic trainer. The second will appear Friday.)
Getting an interview with Jack Heppinstall was found to be no easy task. After searching the gymnasium from top to bottom however we finally captured the busy State trainer at his desk in the storeroom down in the basement and there persuaded him to stop awhile and answer a few desired questions. From then on it proved to be easy going for the jovial Englishman as for his interesting history and he proved to be an excellent story teller also.
Coming to East Lansing from England in 1913, this last spring witnessed the 20th year of service to the varsity trainer on the Michigan State campus. And if you should not happen to realize it, my friends, 20 years on the same job is quite a while and Mr. Heppinstall from no stretch of the imagination is yet an old man, by many seasons.

'Y' BREAKFAST HELD IN UNION 600 TAKE PART IN WAR SERVICE

Ray Johns Principal Speaker at First Annual Membership Meeting Honor Heroes at "Canticle of Praise" Ceremony Last Sunday.

Approximately 65 Spartan men were present on Sunday, November 4 for the first annual membership breakfast which was held in the Union dining room. Ray Johns, State Boys Director, was the principal speaker, and the concluding feature of the program was the distribution of membership cards for all members, old and new.

Johns' talk was very brief, but he left several stimulating ideas with those present.
"There are two chief functions," said Johns, "which a college Y. M. C. A. can perform upon the campus. First, it can serve as a medium for interpreting campus personalities, both of students and faculty. This often a student knows no more about his professor than he sees of him in the classroom, and professors are totally unaware of his personality in their students, which fail to come to the fore in their classroom discussions. The Y is undoubtedly the place for students and faculty to become thoroughly acquainted with each other. The second way in which the campus Y can be of tremendous aid," continued Johns, "is in helping us to develop a satisfying philosophy of life."
Following Ray Johns' talk, brief reports were made by the following committee chairmen, on behalf of their groups: J. J. Hurle, extension service; Ted Nilsson, membership; Lee Hendrickson, freshmen; Paul Kuburz, forums; Al Agnew, athletics; Curtis White, fellowship; Bob Hanning, student-faculty; Bill Kirkpatrick, publicity; and Howard Tremblay, social service.
According to John Brattin, Y president, it is planned to make this membership breakfast an annual affair for the reception of new members. Anyone who still desires to take a membership in the Y. M. C. A. can do so by calling on Rollo May, men student's director, at his office in the Peoples Church.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO GO THROUGH

Reservations Increase as Deadline Approaches; Band Will Accompany Team.

Despite any statements which have appeared in local papers to date, the special train to the Syracuse game will leave Lansing Friday evening at midnight, as per schedule. This was the statement issued today by Al Gerke, student representative, who has been working in conjunction with college and railroad officials on the project.
Although reservations have until now been coming in rather slowly, a decided increase is expected as the deadline of Wednesday, November 7, approaches. Tickets both for coaches and Pullmans may be purchased at the Union desk tonight and all day Wednesday, until nine p. m. Round trip rates for coaches are $9.70; for Pullmans, upper berth, $6.75; lower berth, $5.55; and Pullman fare, $16.90.
It was also announced late yesterday that the ROTC Military Band will accompany the team and students to Syracuse, thus adding to the large turnout which will be on hand for the kick-off at Syracuse Saturday. A large number of reservations have been received from Lansing and East Lansing alumni, and enthusiasm has been high among Lansing business clubs, where the trip has been announced.
A feature of the journey will be a short stop-over at Niagara Falls to enable passengers to view this spectacle. Buffet car service will be available throughout the trip, with lunches being served at reduced rates.
The route over the Michigan Central Railroad will be from Lansing to Jackson, thence to Detroit, traversing Canada and entering New York State at Niagara falls, proceeding from there to Rochester and Syracuse.
Margaret Paine, president of Pan-Hellenic council, and Caroline Lamb, secretary of A. W. S., both expressed themselves, on behalf of their organizations, as being heartily in favor of the trip.
Reserved seat tickets for the game are now on sale at L. L. Rimodig's office at $2.20 apiece. Unreserved seats may be obtained at Syracuse for $1.10.

Record Number of Grads Return to State Campus For Annual Homecoming

Delta Sigma Phi and Alpha Xi Delta Win First Prizes in Contest

MANY VIE FOR SECOND S. A. E.'s, Hesperians and Alpha Chi's Are Close to Winners.

Delta Sigma Phi won first prize in the fraternity contest for homecoming decorations sponsored by the interfraternity council, with the S. A. E.s and Hesperians tied for second place and the Lambda Chi Alphas next. In the sorority competition for the Panhellenic cup, the Alpha Xi Deltas were awarded first and the Alpha Chi Omegas second. The judging committee, appointed by the interfraternity council, consisted of Dean L. C. Farnous, chairman, Dean Elizabeth Conrad, and J. A. Person of the art department.
The winning decorations designed by the Delta Sigma Phi consisted of a gigantic Spartan warrior spearing a Marquette player from his hilltop, a couple of African savages holding an announcement of the events of the day, and a grouping of pillars in Grecian style over the facade of the house, over the entrance, a Spartan warrior was depicted going out to battle in his chariot.
The S. A. E.s featured a large replica of the front page of the Michigan State News, with a football player crashing through the press and a banner headline, "State Marches On." In the evening the headline was changed to "The Evening Dance" and the figures of a man and woman dancing were substituted for the football player. The Hesperians had an excellent "Spartan Cemetery" of which crosses, with fresh graves for State's defeated opponents and an opened grave for Marquette.

STEWART WILL VISIT SYRACUSE

Alumni Secretary to Set Up Alumni Headquarters in Hotel.

With the hectic activities of Homecoming over, Glen O. Stewart, alumni secretary, is preparing for a busy week-end in Syracuse, N. Y. this week. Mr. Stewart will leave with the team Thursday for Syracuse and will set up alumni headquarters in the Syracuse Hotel.
There is every indication that Stewart will have plenty to do as he has already made reservations with the Syracuse home economics department to prepare a luncheon for 100 alumni at the Syracuse Cafeteria. As there is no alumni group in Syracuse proper there are many graduates of State in and around Syracuse, Buffalo, Cornell and Finger Lakes.
When asked what was the most impressive thing of the homecoming activities other than the fact that State won, Mr. Stewart was quick in replying, "the gathering of the former students around their class banners immediately after the game." This is the first time that such a plan has been tried here, and probably the first time in the country, and will in all likelihood become a fixed feature. Many favorable comments were received concerning the idea and probably the significant part was the fact that about 1500 were on the field around their banner.
At the Varsity club dinner given in the Union building at 6 o'clock, Ellis Ranney was honored. Ranney was the first three sport man that State turned out, winning his spurs in football, basketball, and baseball. He was of the class of '93. C. L. Ballard was toastmaster and the welcome address was given by President R. football coach at State, gave his impressions of the Marquette-State game. L. Whitney Watkins, president of the Varsity club, gave the presentation to Ranney who followed with an acceptance speech.
Another interesting fact was the fact that the "baby checking" activity was not as successful as in previous years. "It was probably due to the return of prosperity," said Mr. Stewart.

LEAGUE TO GIVE DANCE AT UNION

S. W. L. to Sponsor Informal Armistice Party Friday.

The Spartan Women's League is sponsoring an open, informal Armistice party which will be given in the Union building Friday, November 9. Dean Mrs. Dick and Prof. and Mrs. Nickle will act as patrons. President Robert S. Shaw and Mrs. Shaw, Dean Conrad, Dean Dye and Prof. and Mrs. Banzet will be the guests of the league at the party.
The Armistice theme will be carried out in the decorations. Nate Fry and his orchestra, who are providing the music, are going to wear helmets. They will be seated in a trench, around which there will be sandbags and barbed wire. At the opposite end of the room a sniper's nest with a machine gun will be placed. A drawing by Mr. Persons will be draped with bunting and hung at a window. The red, white and blue color scheme will be featured by the use of flags and colored lights.
Margaret Dornbos is acting as general chairman for the party. Other chairmen are: Patricia Pierson, invitation committee; Irene King, ticket committee; Doris Reber, publicity committee; Violet Ajjala, decoration committee.
The wind was still with the Spartans in the third period and they managed to capitalize on this and harvest another seven points. Russ Reynolds hauled Praises Public Address System at Games . . .

Keeping right in step with the fast traveling Spartan football team last Saturday the athletic department, under the capable direction of Ralph Young, added another feature to the game with Marquette in the installation of a public address system for the benefit of the spectators.

While this has been used before to a certain extent at Michigan State, the operation of the system last week was a decided aid to those watching the game. The same sort of arrangement is present at nearly all the large institutions.

Realizing that several spectators were not sufficiently versed in football to understand all the fine points of the game and certain ruling concerning various plays, Young supervised the construction of the system. Besides giving information on the inside "dope" of the game, the loud speaker also were used to identify members of the two teams.

DEBATE TRYOUTS TO BE HEARD SOON

Set November 22 as Date to Pick Varsity Squad.

The men's varsity debate team for the coming season will be chosen at the annual tryout to be held November 22 in the Little Theatre. It was announced today by Coach J. D. Menckhofer.

The topic will be Resolved, That the manufacture of arms and munitions should be made a monopoly of the Federal government. The tryout will be conducted in the form of a regular debate. There will be two men on a side and each contestant will give a five-minute constructive speech and a three-minute rebuttal.

Twelve men will be chosen for the varsity squad and thirty have already signified their intention of trying out. They are: Harold Stevens, 35; Don O'Hara, 37; Jack Smith, 37; Luther Lawrenc, 36; Robert Reifer, 38; Lawrence Hutchinson, 36; Don Little, 37; Don McDonald, 35; Wallace Bryant, Elmer Perrin, 36; Robert Barknell, Harlan Clark, 35; Howard McMillen; Harry Sheldon, 38; Dick Hickman, 39; John Yale, 35; Clarence Pocklington, 36; William Bythe, 38; Clarence Jensen, 38; Kenneth Hinga, 36; Harvey Harrington, 38; Harold Sparks, 38; George Bird, 38; Anthony Spirantovis, James McGilveray, 38; Carl Nickla, 38; Jack McLaughlin, 38; Dick Hickman, 36; Earl Smith, 36; John Brattin, 36.

 another Marquette punt back to midfield. The Spartans picked up a first down to the Hilltopper 33. Armstrong dropped back deep behind his own line and slugged a 38 yard pass to Klewicki almost in the end zone who went over for the score. Klewicki picked this pass out from among three Marquette defensive men deep in coffin corner while Zarza was also in the same position as a decoy.

Klewicki's head-up playing was one of the highlights of the game. A couple of plays and Ed had the dangerous sweeps of Buivid figured out and repeatedly stopped them for losses or no gain. Ed also played an important part in watching the field for the Spartans, notably in keeping track of the wanderings of Coach Murray. Joe Buzid's turned in a brilliant defensive game as did Dalgreen and Wilson. Bob Allman, replacement for Lou Zarza, also turned in a neat piece of work.

Probably the outstanding back on the field for either team was Ray Buivid, flashy halfback for the Avalanche. His running and passing remained a constant threat against the Spartans until he came out of the game in the fourth quarter, almost completely exhausted from leading a single-handed attack against the State team.

State made 16 first downs to Marquette's 8, gained twice as many yards, but they were out-charged and outsmarted during a great share of the game. With some of these mistakes out of their system it may be possible for the Spartans to come through on top over the powerful Syracuse eleven but they'll have to play exactly the opposite kind of a game next Saturday to do it.

DELTA SIG AND ALPHA XI DELTA DECORATIONS WIN

 Lambda Chi Alpha constructed a Bachman limited team on its way to the Rose Bowl, with graves in its wake for Michigan, Carnegie Tech, etc. and with a crossroads ahead labeled "Marquette".

The theme of the prize winning sorority decorations of the Alpha Xis was the "Spartan Football Graveyard", and Mary Sue Kaulz was chairman of the committee in charge. The sorority and Manhattan were on display, with an appropriate epitaph for each one.

Death was shown beside an open grave, casting dice, with Marquette's name turning up.

The Alpha Chi Omegas featured yell leaders in their decorations. Two freshmen were carrying a big sign saying "Welcome Alumni," while a pair of cheer leaders held megaphones labeled "State" and "Marquette".

Commenting on results of the contest, Dean Conrad stated that work was unusually fine this year—that decorations which received nothing this year would have been awarded first in the past.

During the recent alumni meeting held in New York City at the time of the Manhattan game, moving pictures of the M. S. C.-University of Michigan game on October 6 were shown by Alumni Secretary Stewart to those attending the meetings. Over 125 attended the pre-Manhattan alumni meeting at which Coach Bachman explained the plays that defeated the University of Michigan, and was voted as the most interesting alumni meeting ever held in the east.

The Spartan Spoofer

HILLTOPPERS?
 The Spartan rode down like a wolf on the fold Saturday to push back a rough and tough Marquette team the way they ought to be pushed back. But it wasn't easy, and the lads from Milwaukee might have spoiled a clean record and a gala homecoming celebration if the breaks hadn't tapped them soundly a couple of times. Even then it took all the force our line had to hold them—and how they held! Our hat is off to the seven mules for their hang-up offensive and defensive; it takes a real line to hold firm on the two-yard line as long as they did. Incidentally, the graybeard veteran and victim of the number 13, Mike Wilson, finally saw a satisfactory amount of action. And by the way, the kid from St. Charles who bought a Sphinx songbook and won the autographed football must have gotten one big thrill from the Warmen-kitchen commotion. Addition: A youthful fan who asked Coach Frank Murray for his autograph following the game got a very, very, very cool reception.

TRIMMINGS

The Delta Sig really stepped out over the week-end with decorations to win first in the contest. The mammoth Spartan tilting the Hilltopper off his hilltop was an idea that was not only clever but appropriate—the Marquette didn't see that at first but he did get the point in the end. The S. A. E. display was sleek, too, but Quello missed a sweet chance to have his bulldog-like profile on the first page. The Hesperians were also painstaking, but we had to brush our teeth after seeing their realistic honeyard. Incidentally, practical joking of the rankest order was in evidence Saturday when some rat filched the painted figures of the Theta Nus and Hermans during the dinner hour. Whoever did it couldn't read the papers, so we shant comment further.

CERIMONES

The Canticle of Praise provided a serious note for a week-end of cheering and social rusting. Impressive, solemnly beautiful, it brought a poignant recollection of those who once lived at this school and enjoyed its fellowship, then marched into oblivion on the wings of an emperor. But still it seems futile and somewhat blatant to blow bugles and beat drums over war victims—they're dead now, let them rest.

POLLERS

Having picked three out of four of the frosh officers on the night of nominations, we set ourself up as a diagnostician on that stuff and present to you the winners Bill Vivian, presy, brought that office back to the Tie house for the first time since the incumbency of Dick Pendl. Grand Rapids boy with the traditional Tie smoothness and ability at athletics is reputed to be that was about June Svoboda, ultra-attractive Theta pledge, Marjorie Gilray, another Theta, aided greatly by the fact that her little older sister was a popular frosh secretary last year, also by the fact that she got around up here during the last party season, has the necessary personality and looks for the office any more Gilrays? Sue Haysworth, unknown to the Spoofer, had a very good following in the dorms and set a pretty pace. Like to meet her. James Hays the Third, his absence is supposed to be a great loss to the State News (thank your local supporters, Jimmie) deserves a hand for taking the prize hands down, now that he's taking care of the class funds, will be set a more conservative paint job for that conveyance of his?

NIMRODS

With hunting season in full bloom, we are hearing all kinds of fish-animal stories. Jack Warner reports finding a pheasant nestled in the grass, frozen to death—probably got a whiff of Warner's breath. Chuck Schafer says it's even more efficient, in reference to hunting woodchucks, to bore into their hole with a corkscrew, pull out the hole, and shake the chucks into a bag. But personally we prefer going after game with powerful telescope sights which bring it so close that we merely reach out and tap it over the head with a hammer, thus saving considerable ammunition.

BEERMUG

Gracie Newins, effervescent Chi O, accuses the Theta Nus, winners of the IFC scholarship cup for last year, of brownism. You're wrong again, Gracie—it's brain and not brown with them.

IMPROVEMENTS ON CAMPUS CONTINUE

Buildings and Grounds Department Maintain Work With Depleted Budget.

Although the building and grounds department is working on a depleted budget this year, work on improvements is still being carried on. About one-half of this is F. E. R. A. work and is being sponsored by the government. New sidewalks are replacing some of the well-trodden paths throughout the campus, and lawns are being reconditioned—something that has not been done for the past ten years. This operation consists of the moving of good soils from the outlying fields, to the campus grounds. The college building and grounds department has more than one hundred twenty-five acres to supervise.

At present about one hundred students are being employed by this department, working on the average of about sixty hours per month.

After All, Fellahs

After due consideration, we heartily regret reproaching the faculty for failing to lend an ear to our petitions, our student government, our student public letters and our editorials. It's really not our place to express opinion, y'know. After all, we're only here to make possible the maintenance of the campus, the buildings, the athletic teams, the school property, and last and least, the faculty.

STUDENT PULSE

Signed and initialed articles on any topic pertinent to student interests are welcomed in this column.

Frosh Wants to See Some Pep . . .

To the Students of M. S. C.:
 Come on you M. S. C. students, where is the school spirit here? We, as a freshman class, came up here expecting to participate in all sorts of activities during the football season; probably due to a freshman's dream of college days and from stories told by the old "grads." But it seems those old traditions have been discarded.

A lot of credit goes to the boys of the frosh class for bringing back the green posts. Maybe it will be up to them to bring back some of that good old fashioned school spirit.

I was disgusted to see the small group that turned out last Monday morning after the Manhattan game. If some of us could manage, why couldn't the rest of the student body? The boys on the team certainly go through plenty of hardships and unpleasant things while in training, so why couldn't the students get up a half hour earlier to give that team a hand?

Now we can't expect the faculty to plan our pep meetings for us, that's not what they are here for, and anyhow where is our own brain power and enthusiasm? Let's see if we can't do something ourselves. The few meetings we have had were good, but not good enough. We should do something different—give the papers something to print and the public something to talk about. State is undefeated to date so let's give our college a double reputation for a winning team and a wide awake student body. Everyone will know of M. S. C.—"The College that has such a great team, wins all their games, and the students have so many rousing pep meetings."

I would like to see the homecoming game come off with a bang, and who wouldn't?

What's wrong with the good old-fashioned idea of a big roaring, bonfire, with plenty of good yells and songs and lots of pep, a couple of short speeches, and a special stunt (say some sort of an imitation of the following game)? If this spirit is carried out, everyone cannot help but be all keyed up the next day and we will raise the dome of the Capitol with our yelling. We could give Marquette something to remember us by, and after the game we should do something to celebrate. The afternoon of the Michigan game wasn't very good. I agree with the article on the front page a few weeks ago, that it should have taken traffic an hour* to plow through East Lansing.

You can read about some of these other colleges and their activities. Even a much as to have a date bureau for the games, which after all, isn't such a bad idea. A blind date—a new B. F. or G. F.—well, time—plenty of yells and pep—the team wins and the new date and you go to the victory dance. Not so bad is it? Why can't we think up something new and snappy like that?

We have four games left in which to make a name (good) for ourselves. We can do it if we will. Here's hoping the Green Circle will really start the ball rolling and if every student gives his best cooperation we can put M. S. C. on the map.

Thank you,
 J. H. '38

BRITISH ADOPTING POROUS HOSE IDEA

Irrigation Method Originated at Michigan State Taken Abroad.

A new system of irrigation by use of a porous hose, which was originated by the Agricultural Engineering Department of Michigan State college, is getting world wide attention. The department has been receiving requests for bulletins on this new method from Canada, England and other foreign countries.

The Rothamsted Experimental Station, largest in England, plans to introduce this type of irrigation throughout Australia, Africa, and other dry countries of the East.

When the porous hose system of irrigation was first devised, it was intended only for the benefit of Michigan farmers, but since it proved so efficient and economical its use began to expand until now it is employed throughout the country.

The chief surgeon of the ear, nose and throat of the Civil and Military hospital, Nice, France, Dr. Jacques Vieille, is now studying under Dr. Chevalier Jackson, of the Temple university (Philadelphia), faculty.

BARE CUPBOARD

Mouse Dines on Dean's Bread

Dean Conrad looked in her cupboard last week, and what do you suppose she found?
 No, the cupboard wasn't bare, but it was almost bare. A new mouse had smuggled himself in some way and dined on Dean's bread. But this wasn't any ordinary mouse; he was a tricky little creature, for he didn't bite through the loaf of bread, eating the soft part and leaving the crust as his calling card.

Now Deans of Women are well known for hating mice, and Dean Conrad is no exception. She wouldn't have been so had it not been well maneuvered. But a mouse who leaves his bread crust, mouse He not only is impolite, but he never gave a crumb in the middle of his forehead. This mouse evidently isn't accustomed to the Dean of Women's house, it stays any longer. Dean Conrad is going to give him an Extra to chew on.

Homecoming Grads Gather at Eighteen Fraternity Dances to Celebrate State Victory

More doubts about the disappearance of hard times were removed this past week-end when Homecoming alums returned to their college day haunts with the moths out of last year's raccoon coat and the squeak in the old bus replaced by a new car.

State students traveled Lansingward Friday night to dance to Louie Panico and to take advantage of the various ballings at the theaters, leaving Red Drennan and his orchestra at the Union to entertain.

The early arrivals for Homecoming Saturday night were greeted by a waffle supper and class reunion banquets. Eighteen fraternities were in full swing Saturday night, their doors open for all guests, either students or alumni. Several fraternities had open house for their older brothers and their guests Sunday.

Kappa Alpha Theta

the old armory which at that time housed the athletic plant. It may truthfully be stated that Jack Heppinstall has grown up with Michigan State college athletics.

Tells of Old Days
From the conversation drawn from our subject it would seem that college sports in those far-off days presented a very different picture from what they do at present. While football, basketball, baseball and track were at that time the big four in varsity sports as they are now, the conditions under which they were played were vastly different.

Power candidates turned out and there were hardly enough equipment for those who participated. On first coming here, Jack said, he had about 30 football uniforms, possibly eight or ten basketball and track suits and an even dozen of baseball suits. This equipment was stored when not in use in the attic of the old armory with replenishments in the way of athletic goods coming at very infrequent intervals.

Besides being very meager, the equipment was very primitive also. To illustrate this the trainer dragged out for our pleasure a football helmet, vintage of around 1912. From a rather nasty examination this ancient headgear appeared somewhat to resemble an inverted frying pan minus the handle with the top punched full of holes, giving it a sieve-like appearance, and two flaps of leather projecting down from each side to cover the ears. The inner side was lined with felt, and to keep it in place there were two strings which were tied under the chin in the fashion of an old lady's bonnet.

For himself, in his training work Heppinstall had a training room that was located where the present photography laboratory is. For equipment he had one rubbing table, a wash bowl and a first aid outfit. There were no gymnasium or athletic courses offered in those days, and freshmen could compete in varsity sports.

State Theatre Previews

"The World Moves On"
State Theatre—Today only. Starring—Franchot Tone, Madeleine Carroll.

This epic picture brings together for the first time a new romantic team, Madeleine Carroll and Franchot Tone. The picture embodies all the bitterness of hate, lust of power, and thrills of conflict faith and love. It tells of a family which over four generations, spreads its branches over four nations of the earth. The cast is composed of many famous screen personalities including Reginald Denny, Louise Dresser, Raul Roulien, Stepin Fetchak and others.

"Have a Heart"
State Theatre—Wednesday and Thursdays. Starring—Jean Parker, James Dunn.

In this latest romance Jean Parker plays the part of a young girl, a former dancing instructor, who has been forced by an accident to wear a brace on her foot and has had to resort to making dolls for her livelihood.

In these tragic circumstances she meets James Dunn, an ice cream salesman, who falls in love with her not knowing her handicap. She is able to keep this secret from him for a time and in the meantime is able to clear Dunn's name from a theft which has been unjustly laid to him. Everything turns out happily when an operation is performed on Miss Parker to remedy her lameness and the couple is married.

John Macklin was head coach and George Gauthier assistant athletic director. Then in 1918 Michigan State witnessed a new deal in athletic progress and the new gymnasium was constructed. State gained greater prestige in sportdom but along with it there was a greater increase of duties and a heavier burden placed upon the trainer's shoulders.

Sitting there in his office (which presents an appearance somewhat between a haberdashery and a hardware store, surrounded by boxes of jerseys, towels, sweaters, shoes, football pumps, and similar objects, all swathed in the pungent odor of mothballs and disinfectant) Jack started on a trail of reminiscence which carried him back over his long term of activity in college athletics.

Prof. Ray Hutson of the entomology department was in Cass and Berrien counties recently investigating the progress made in halting the advance of the chinch bug.

The chinch bug migrated into Michigan in the last few years and has caused considerable damage to wheat and oats as well as corn in late summer. The bug is primarily a dry weather insect and it crawls along the grass stems to new fields. The migration of this bug can be halted by placing a barrier in its way. This obstacle may be an alfalfa field or it may be a ditch with a strip of tar along the top.

This work is done under the direction of the United States department of agriculture and will determine to what extent aid will be given next year.

With about 200 students attending the tea dances given on Monday and Thursday afternoons in the Union building from 4 until 6, the custom is rapidly becoming a fixture in college tradition. The tea dances are rapidly becoming an informal dating agency, as well as a place to meet and find new friends.

The Union Board has not yet decided whether or not to hold a dance after the homecoming game. The fact that so many fraternities are holding open house may force the feature off the program.

State Cross-Country Runners Nose Out Victory Over Indiana

Otley Loses to Lash as Spartan Team Wins Thrilling Meet, 26 to 29; Bechtold Puts on Great Sprint to Capture Third Place.

Preserving a record of dual meet victories that started in 1931, the Michigan State Spartans defeated Indiana Saturday by the close score of 26 to 29. The meet, which started and finished in the stadium, was witnessed by one of the largest homecoming crowds in Spartan history.

Although State won the meet, Tom Otley, State captain and ace distance runner, was defeated by Donald Lash, the Hoosier star. When Otley and Lash entered the last mile, the national champion was leading his rival by 30 yards, but in the final stretch Lash sprinted ahead and broke the tape 80 yards in the lead.

Lash covered the distance in 23:40.4, setting a new course record and a new meet record. Otley's time was 23:54.2.

Ednie Bechtold provided the biggest thrill when he passed the finish line just two seconds ahead of Smullen. Only a few yards separated them as they entered the stadium on the home stretch, and it was a sprint to the finish.

Nelson Gardner had a comfortable margin over Catin at the finish, and John Hammer placed seventh for State.

The fact that State won the meet was indirectly due to Hobbs, who was slated to give both Otley and Bechtold a tough fight on the scoring positions. No. 2 man on the Hoosier team, Hobbs failed to break into the scoring, placing tenth with a time of 25:33.2.

The State team went out Monday to practice for the state inter-collegiate meet to be held at East Lansing next Saturday. Michigan Normal college, Michigan State and Western state will be the leading contenders in the state meet, with Kalamazoo, Olivet and Detroit City college entering runners.

NATIONAL SPORT SUMMARY

By JACK WARNER

For the first time since 1892 Minnesota skalked up a victory over the University of Michigan on the Gopher's home grounds. The Spartans bottled up the six that had hovered for the last few years and took it home in the coveted Little Brown Jug. But Michigan is still Michigan, and the ever-faithful Michigan alumni are sure that the Wolverines will win two out of the last three games on the schedule. What optimism for the "champions of the west." Next Saturday they play the University of Wisconsin, and it looks like a good day for Michigan. But the following games are with Ohio State and Northwestern—something different there. Ohio State is too good everywhere to take a licking from the Wolverines, and Northwestern is about an even bet. We say that Michigan hasn't a chance against either of the last two teams.

And here's some more tripe for you, my friends. Ever since this cheer equinox began to make predictions we've been hissed, booed, and sneered at. The fifty few who take the time and trouble to read this comedy of errors have done nothing but tell us how final we are. But the forecasts still come. In a few of the outstanding bowls scheduled for next Saturday we pick the following winners: Alabama, Rice, Colgate, Columbia, Dartmouth, Duke, Fordham, Harvard, Purdue, Manhattan, Michigan, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, New York University, Illinois, Ohio State, Penn, Princeton, Rutgers, Southern California, Stanford, Michigan State, Yale, and the Army. Boy, are we rotten!

Only five substitutions were made Saturday, this being the smallest list of substitutes made by Coach Bachman this year, usually from twenty to thirty men see action in each game, however, injuries combined with the closeness of the contest kept the list down.

Marquette's punter averaged 44 yards on his punts, an exceptional average considering the strong wind, while Armstrong experienced a bad afternoon, averaging but 24 yards on his attempts. An interesting incident in regards to kicking occurred as Sebo placed-kicked the point following the final marker, the ball hitting the crossbar and bounding high over the uprights for the successful conversion.

The boys meet a first class outfit next Saturday when they tangle with Big Bill Orange, but after Saturday's scare it is wager they give the boys at Syracuse one battle, win, lose or draw. And they may even win, if they play fast, hard, heads-up football for the entire game. Slips will turn into disasters plenty fast if they're made against Syracuse.

M. F. Surls Attends Foundry Meet

M. F. Surls of the engineering experiment station has been in Philadelphia the past three days attending the meeting of the American Foundrymen's Association, at which he presented a paper on the metallographic analysis of cast iron. Mr. Surls is running a series of tests on cast iron, in which he is using an electric furnace, which has been loaned to the college by the Detroit Edison Co.

The DOPE FIEND

By TOMMY WARNER

Just a chance at last week's wind battle with Marquette. Coach Murray played a better game than some of his own men from all we know. Course, we couldn't hear very well, what with all that portable radio gear draped around us, but it sounded kinda like he was calling signals for every Marquette play except that "slippery ball" play which Marquette used and gained 15 yards for State. From the way Murray was running up and down the sidelines he seemed to be patting the barriers or sumpin, only he started long before the cross-country men even began to warm-up.

About the only thing that didn't dope out like we said it would was the actual score and if Dick Colina had been able to keep running on that intercepted pass during the last seconds of the game our score would have been exact. However, we don't think we gave you any wrong dope about that boy Ray Buiuid. Nor Ward Cuff either, and Charley Muth's brother Lee played a neat game at end also. In fact there were quite a few men on that Marquette team who were playing darned good football, and some of them planned to talk the State fans into playing quite a rugged game at times. Those boys from Marquette were trying everything out there and it's surprising how much really worked for them.

However, if I had every team that can win when it's having an off day, and several of the Spartans surely were playing weird football for a week, which manhandled Manhattan and battered Carnegie Tech. The Golden Avalanche deserves a lot of credit all right for the kind of football they played with few exceptions, but somehow the State men were not quite in there. Looked like they were going through the motions of playing Saturdays game, and really trying to figure out what they were going to do against Syracuse the next week. That defensive back on the field last Saturday, several times bringing down the flying Buiuid. Sebo also chalked up seven more points on a touchdown and a point after touchdown, which makes him the leading scorer on the State eleven with a total of 33 points.

Marquette had within it's roster a brother act, the Guape brothers, both of whom are quarterbacks. A few years ago the Ronzani brothers of Iron Mountain were the prize brother act of Marquette. Gene Tully Ronzani is now playing with the league leading Chicago Bears of the National Professional league.

Ed Kiewicki put on a great exhibition of end play with his fine defensive play and great pass receiving. Old Dobbin Reaveley was also the class of the Spartan tackles, while Joe Buzoliti played his usual fine game at center, shifty Steve Sebo was easily the class of the backs, with McCrary running him a close second.

One of the most notable bits of work in rather two was the superbly defensive work of State's guards on both short passes over the center of the line. Dalgren got up into the air twice in succession to bat down a couple of potential ground gamers and Mike Wilson almost had two interceptions to his credit. They were right in there fast with their diagnosing of the Marquette attack. Dalgren, particularly, because when he wasn't covering passes he seemed to smell out running plays and got into the middle of them.

And a bit aside from actual football. Notice our new public address system for the field. I wouldn't say this if I didn't hold an amateur license myself and hadn't had considerable work with radiophone and p. a. systems, but I think that the system as Grosser and his assistants set up is one of the clearest I have ever heard of, bar none. Nats a bit of crackling hiss behind the voices, and speaking of the voices, we think that Drake of the speech department, and Wismer of our own sports department did one sweet job of getting it out to the fans without garbling their words. Only mistake they made was something that had nothing to do with actual speaking—just subject matter.

Albanese, DiNunzio, Gitter and Stark are four lads in their backfield who have covered plenty of ground in their games to date. They have rolled up somewhat over 300 yards per game for this season's record books. They're fast and they're versatile—passing, punting and rushing—all of them can be classed as first rate backs—and don't forget that Vic Hanson has three teams he can run in against State—some what like the Army battalion which played State some years ago.

SYRACUSE NEXT—Hope the boys have all their stage-fright and other bad football habits out of their system for this game. Because Syracuse has a better defense than any State has stacked up against this year and any team that can roll up 25 first downs against Penn State has a pretty well diversified offensive also. Don't forget that Vavra and Steen are two veteran tackles and some of the Syracuse plays out these boys shoulder to shoulder on the strong side of the line offensively. The Syracuse line averages 183 pounds to the man—a lotta beef for the boys to

STATE VS. SYRACUSE

State's opponents remained in their own section for last week's "frontiers" and the results were varying. The Titans from Detroit had the only battle that could be termed inter-sectional, engaging Oklahoma A & M in Detroit. Syracuse, the barrier now facing the Spartans, continued on their victorious path with a decisive victory over Penn State. Carnegie Tech finally won taking New York U. and Manhattan beat the City College of New York. The other teams weren't as successful.

The Orangemen of Syracuse did as expected and remained undefeated and united as they took Penn State 16-0. While Penn State did not have a championship team, their defeat still can hold a forewarning for the Spartans this week. Syracuse looms as one of the East's strongest aggregations, ranking with Princeton, Navy and Pitt along the seaboard.

Grinnell again was on the losing end of the score, this time to Crighton, 12-6. The boys from Iowa haven't found themselves yet this year, and how they managed to score three times on the Spartans is quite a mystery. Then more about for ten half of hard football—and they'll have to be knocked out hard and fast in order that the Spartan backs can leave. The State line is going to get its roughest toughest workout in this game, and probably all of it clean football. Syracuse has been noted for the clean, hard brand of football they play, especially against State. Remember the difference between a Georgetown game and a Syracuse game just about a week apart back some 177 years ago.

A dark note is looming about the men yesterday. Ed Kiewicki hobbling about with a leg which is bothering him plenty. Howard Zindel with a bad leg and bruised shoulder. Of course

Karl still bothered by that shoulder injury. Injuries are surely cutting a wide hole in the Spartan team. However, one thing that seems to get us behind the eight ball. Just why is it possible for Bachman to substitute all will as long as those boys are okay and have the second stringers who relieve them play so good a game as they do. But when they know the boys are on the bench for keeps they seem to crack under the strain. Notice the game Mike Wilson turned in Saturday for instance. Some of his playing stood out against the otherwise drab performance of a good share of that line. Ed Kiewicki seems to be the only man left who battles these all the way in the same old way

MATMEN BEGIN FALL WORKOUT

Twenty-eight Men Answer Call for Varsity Wrestling Practice.

With a list of twenty-eight men to choose from, Coach Collins has begun work toward constructing his wrestling team which will represent State during the winter term next season. Thursday was opening day for fall practice, and eleven freshmen joined the varsity aspirants in first day work-outs on the mat.

Five veterans are included among the first entrées. Although some additional strength will be derived from the football team, Coach Collins believes his squad will be chosen for the most part by those boys now putting in their paces at the college gymnasium. The stand-out, however, will not be out until after December 8, when Reaveley, heavyweight stalwart, is released from his gridiron activities.

Reaveley is looked to as the star of this year's team. His position as heavyweight entry is pretty fairly assured, and Jacobs, veteran at the 145 weight, seems sure of his place. The other six positions, however, may not be decided until after the winter term opens. Outstanding in the long list of contenders for these positions are Collins must wait until these call-and who draw much of the hard work in last year's campaign. Stephenson, winner of his letter at 135, and Knudsen, entered as a light-heavy.

The schedule for the locals will not be announced until the end of this term. Spartan opponents consist mainly of Big Ten schools, and Collins must wait until these colleges fix their schedules before he can be sure of engagement.

The men are working now in preparation for the All-College tournament which is held annually at the close of the fall term. Competition is open to all entries in this meet, with freshmen competing with upper classmen in all events. A revising of the rules may eliminate letter winners from this year's competition, but this will be decided at a latter date.

Last year's team was the poorest in Collins' regime here at State. Out of six meets the Spartans were able to garner two wins, and marked the first time in recent years that the locals had failed to win at least an even break in their schedule. The outlook this year is brighter, and a decided improvement is expected by Collins.

whether all of State's power is in the game or not. However, it may have been just defective eyesight on our part.

To age and mellow tobaccos just right to give Chesterfield its milder better taste...

it takes Time

WE have tried a good many methods to age cigarette tobacco, but we have never found any method that equals the slow old-fashioned plan of aging it in wooden casks for two years or more.

All the tobaccos we use in Chesterfields are aged this way.

It takes time, money, and miles of warehouses—but it's the one way to make a milder better cigarette.
