Nixon taps Burger chief justice

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Nixon reached into the federal judiciary Wednesday night and chose Warren Earl Burger, a relatively obscure federal appeals court judge, to be 15th chief justice of the United States.

The white-haired, 6l-year-old Minnesotan, who has sat for 13 years on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, told the President: "You pay tribute to all of the sitting judges of the federal system with this nomination.

If the Senate confirms the nomination after what may prove to be the closest scrutiny ever given a Supreme Court appointee. Burger will succeed Earl Warren in the highest judicial seat in the land.

Warren is retiring next month at age 78 after 16 turbulent years as chief justice--and at a time when the court itself has become a center of controversy.

But the timing of the appointment of a new chief justice--when Nixon could have waited until summer to choose Warren's successor--promises to overshadow to some degree the tempest created when Justice Abe Fortas resigned last week under criticism for his off-the-court financial dealings.

Fortas was nominated to the top judicial post by former President Lyndon B. Johnson last summer. Senate Republicans led a fight to defeat the nomination, however, citing his continuing close ties to Johnson and his acceptance of outside fees while sitting on the court.

The Democratic majority in the Senate will have this in mind--and all senators will have the more recent Fortas case in mind-when Burger's nomination comes before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Only when Nixon marched into the East Room of the White House with Burger at his side did the verdict become known-at least, to those able to recognize the tall, white-haired judge.

Cabinet officers and other high government officials--but not Supreme Court justices--were awaiting the announcement in the East Room.

"I believe," the President said, standing with Burger before a microphone, "that the most important nomination the President of the United States makes during his term of office is that of chief justice of the United States.

"The chief justice is the guardian of the constitution of the United States. Respect for law in a nation is the most priceless asset a free people can have. The chief justice and his associates are the ultimate custodians and guardians of that priceless

"And when we consider what a chief justice has in the way of influence on his age and the ages after him. I think it could fairly be said that our history tells us that our chief justices have probably had more profound and lasting influence on their times and on the direction of the nation than most presidents have had."

Terming Burger "superbly qualified," Nixon paid tribute to the judge's education as "one that he got the hard way--he went to law school at night and worked during the daytime--but he made a brilliant academic record.

"I have known him through 21 years." the President said of the former assistant attorney general in the Eisenhower administration. "I would evaluate him as being qualified intellectually, qualified from the standpoint of judicial temperament, of judicial philosophy.

Then, in a phrase that might have been obliquely directed at the court's recent discomfiture, the President added: ". and qualified because of his unquestioned integrity throughout his private and public

Burger was born in St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 17, 1907. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota and received his law degree from St. Paul College of Law-now Mitchell College of Law.

Until Nixon's announcement Wednesday night, the court had been composed of five Democrats--Justices William O. Douglas, Hugo L. Black, Thurgood Marshall; William J. Brennan, and Bryon R. White--and three Republicans: Warren. Stewart and Justice John Marshall Har-

State GOP leaders praise tuition action

The abandonment of the sliding scale tuition by the MSU Board of Trustees has drawn praise from Republican legislative critics of the tuition plan.

Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, State Sen. Charles O. Zollar. R-Benton Harbor, called the action by the trustees "a forward step.

Zollar denied the report that the legislature might have reduced appropriations in retaliation against the tuition plan.

'Any appropriations adjustment would affect not more than one school, and any MSU change would not be based on the tuition program," he said.

However, Rep. Thomas G. Ford, R-Grand Rapids, said the MSU appropriation might have been affected. He indicated he is withdrawing House Bill No. 2873, which prohibits state supported scholarships for students who attend schools using the sliding scale method of determining tuition if the "university calculates the value of the scholarship in determining the amount of the tui-

Student revolutionaries and political witch-hunts

4 bandwagon hung with American flags, portraits of Mother, and reeking of apple pie has been rumbling back and forth across the country for several weeks at an ever more frantic pace.

America may soon have the dubious pleasure of undergoing a re-run of the McCarthy witch-hunt, if statements by prominent politicians are any indication. A bandwagon hung with American flags, portraits of Mother, and reeking of apple pie has been rumbling back and forth across the country for several weeks at an ever more frantic pace. It visits state capitals and universities, and wherever it creaks to a halt the voice of J. Edgar Hoover, Dick Nixon, or perhaps a chorus of state legislators may be heard intoning old familiar slogans and calling loudly for crackdowns.

U.S. Attv. Gen. John N. Mitchell recently gave the wagon a push with some ominous but vague talk about the threat from "revolutionary student groups financed by outside sources." Without specifying what threats, which students, and what outside sources. Mitchell went on to talk about

The newspapers are still squeezing sensational stories out of SDS' recent announcement of plans for a summer program to establish contact with workers. Headlines blare "Invasion of Cities." and Associated Press condescendingly reports that SDS plans "no specific acts of sabotage."

AFL-CIO President George Meany responded on cue and insinuated that SDS was out to "interfere with the livelihood of workers." One of his assistants joined in with his opinion that "workers aren't going to be pushed around like those SDS leaders push around the majority of other students.'

Remove the 'acting' from Green's title

Last week the MSU Board of Trustees moved to fill in a few of the holes in administrative positions, and in the course of such activity moved Robert L. Green from associate to acting director of the Center for Urban Affairs.

We respectfully request that the board--at its earliest possible convenience--remove the word "acting" from Green's title.

But who said anything about pushing who around?

The eminently liberal Sen. Edmund Muskie, speaking at MSU, made vague generalizations about campus violence while defending youthful dissent, as though that violence were something new or mainly the students' fault.

The Michigan House of Representatives, always good for a horse laugh, has come through with a bill to revoke state scholarships for students convicted of "violent or rebellious activity." Rep. Thomas J. Anderson, D-Southfield, sponsor of the bill, explained that he believed in the right of dissent. but not "the right to destroy." as through there were some question about the latter. Anderson shares a common concern with Michigan Sen. Robert Huber for the "rights of the taxpaver." In protecting the hapless taxpaver's rights (to what?) Huber and Anderson are willing to trample the constitutional autonomy of the universities underfoot.

It's still not too late to prevent a resurrection of the old McCarthy hysteria. Laymen and concerned politicians must exert themselves to combat the rise of "devil" theories of social unrest. Public figures talking glibly about campus distrubances or crackdowns should be examined closely to see whether they are actually making sense or only echoing rabble-rousing slogans. Sweeping generalities and smears against SDS and other unpopular groups must be exposed and repudiated.

Many political commentators lately have enjoyed a comparison of student radical tactics with those of Nazi stormtroopers. Whatever the case may be. let us also not forget that the Nazis were not above witchhunting and distortion to suppress those they wished to eliminate without the niceties of due process of law. While we're questioning the aims and tactics of student radicalism, let's also keep an eve on bandwagon politicians.

EDITORIAL DISSENT Presumptuous and premature decisions

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "Editorial Dissent" was written by Norman J. Saari, managing editor, in response to Wednesday's editorial, "A candidate for your consideration.

It is a very presumptuous act when one body feels it can assert itself, through its spheres of influence, over the masses to call for immediacy when careful and thoughtful deliberation is needed. This, in essence, is my objection and reason for dissent of the Wednesday State News editorial. "A candidate for your con-

The relative merits and capabilities of Hubert Humphrey to serve as president of MSU is of secondary criticism. Although placing his name as the number one man for the position is, in itself, reason to dissent, my primary base for rejecting the editorial is its implied spirit and intent.

The necessity for adhering to the Taylor Report is paramount in following the laddered steps in selecting the president of

The report calls for gathering names of all potential candidates, screening them to a list of 20, then to at least 3 and finally selecting the one man from this final list.

Presently, the faculty, alumni and citizens have submitted a list of 120 candidates to date to the All-University Search and Selection Committee (AUSSC). The student nominations are still being compiled. Estimates are that the complete list will total nearly 200. With the list of 120 now secret and beyond privilege to any media, it is only speculative to determine who is being considered.

Granted. Humphrey is undoubtedly on, this master list but in no manner has he established himself as a front runner to students, the AUSSC or MSU Board of Trustees, who will make the final decision.

In essence, the State News has endorsed an individual who has not vet passed through even the initial screening of can

A great deal of incongruity went into the publication of the Wednesday editorial.

In an editorial dated May 5, the State News criticized the trustees and AUSSC for acting too expediently in wanting to make the presidential selection by late summer. It was then contended that waiting until fall for the selection was "vital. to the future academic climate at MSU

Endorsing a candidate before spring term has ended makes the State News guilty of the over-expediency it earlier warned the AUSSC against.

The secondary dissent of the editorialthat of endorsing Humphrey-is based upon the inability of the candidate to meet the number one criteria for the office.

The first qualification for the office is not solely administrative ability. Rather, this ability must be related to the president's dual role of interpreting educational policy and innovating it for the common good of all those served by this Univer-

It seems premature to assess Humphrey's relative value as a contemporary university educator by his record at Macalester and the University of Minnesota. He conducts three lectures every two weeks at each of the schools and has kept himself aloof from administrative relationships with the faculty and students

Humphrey's availability for the presidency has not been definitely ascertained. He has retained a political attribute by keeping noncommital on his future plan and it is unfounded speculation that he will either re-enter politics or remain in Participation, by concerned organizations, in the search and selection proceedings is essential to the future direct on of this University. But when this participation is marked with premature and presumptuous decision-making, the due process needed is very seriously thwarted.

POINT OF VIEW

Mandatory courses stifle learning

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "point of view" was written by Chuck Will,

The director of the Honor's College. William W. Kelly, stated earlier in the State News that "not enough students are aware of the benefits of the Honors College and fail to take advantage of them. The waiver of degree requirements (i.e. a student with his adviser's approval may formulate a curriculum that is tailored to his individual interests is the most widely known advantage of membership in the college.

It seems interesting to me that the students most well adapted to the systhe students who are given the opportunity to modify that system and make it more individualized. Didn't it ever who do not qualify for "Honors College" don't because they are more concerned with learning than with getting a grade. say the students selected for "Honors College" are not necesarily the students most interested in learning per se, and that this is the reason why so few 'Honors College" students take advantage of the opportunity they have to individualize their education. Isn't it possible -- just maybe -- that the "privil-*ege" of individualizing one's education should be granted to those students who desire to learn, who have a goal and want their education individualized so that they can work toward achieving that goal. An "A" in a course usually means that the student has mastered more than the major ideas and principles of the course; i.e., in addition to the important information he has learned the less tem of grades and required courses are simportant. This means the typical "A" student is forced not to learn just what is significant, but also whatever it takes to beat the student he is competing with. occur to anyone that maybe the students & So, if an "Honors College" is based on grades, then which students have in fact been selected? The students most interested in the status of good grades!

Good advice, but a free choice of courses is clearly what students are "crythat there were too many requirements. The innovative and relevant Great Issues courses are usually over-enrolled: the Great Issues courses are not available to all tho want to take them. This institution is not structured to facilitate student education. It often simply pacifies we students with morsels of "true and relevant knowledge." If this and like institutions were not, for the most part, the sole avenues to success, then I doubt that students would tolerate for an instant the irrelevance, non-individualized requirements, and the fallacy that we are too immature to know better than someone else what is best for ourselves. If courses were not required, then the courses that students see no value in takingand which in fact usually can not be argued to be of value to them--would be forced to dissolve.

Requirements prescribed for various majors are only bad because they are required. Most students desire a plan to follow and good advice as how to best achieve their educational gaols, but making courses mandatory is a detriment to learning. Student advisers should try to explain to students why this or that ing" for. The students in Justin Morrill course or knowledge is relevant to his College in their "rap" session griped goals. If the adviser is not able to do this, then the student should be advised to see the professors and individuals competent and familiar with his field of interest. Thus the student would be able to use the University to his maximum benefit with professors and the informed providing the advice and the student having the freedom to decide how he will use this advice. At present professors are not even forced to show the students that the material they present is relevant and practical. At best this system is archaic. Albert Einstein-

Herbert R. Shaw, 50, an East Lansing Bell Telephone employe, has recently designed a symbol from the letters. IQ. for those smokers who can say. "I quit." The symbol consists of a diploma circled by a "Q." He has bumper, window and miniature stickers bearing the symbol.

Shaw said he hopes the IQ sticker would encourage people to stop smoking, remind quitters of their promise, and show others a person who has successfully stopped smoking.

Duffy-don't put us in the Rose Bowl yet

EDITOR'S NOTE: Head football coach Duffy Daugherty has led many great teams in his 15 years at MSU. This year's squad has been tabbed as one with speed, size and experience. State News Sports Writer Mike Manley recently met with Duffy to get his comments on spring drills and an in-depth look at next year's team and its chances.

QUESTION--Coach, now that spring practice is over and you've had a chance to watch your team for five weeks, how would you assess both the team and spring drills? ANSWER-Let's not get us with one foot in the Rose Bowl vet. I'd say we had an above average spring. The squad developed and improved from week to week. But I don't think a coach or player should ever be satisfied with his performance. This has a tendency to make them both complacent. It was a good spring but we still have a lot of work to do before the season starts.

Q-What impressed you most about your team this spring? A-I would have to say the thing that impressed me the most was the overall squad attitude. This is a dedicated and spirited squad-they are a real hard working unit. This is shown best in the willingness of players to make sacrifices for the good of the team--we have several players who had to move into positions that were completely new to them. We are using both a new offense concept and a new defensive concept this year. The players worked hard to minimize their mistakes and they gained confidence and an understanding of

These are all pluses but we are going to have to be fortunate with injuries. When we had the great team in 1965 and 66, the only key player we lost was Bob Apisa and that was late in the season. We were able to keep the great players like George Webster, Clint Jones and Gene Washington healthy. To be a great team you have to stay away from injuries. We don't have the luxury of great depth this year. Earl Anderson injured his knee Saturday and has had surgery already. He'll be in a cast for six weeks, and right now. I don't see how he can play next year. That cuts us down to three halfbacks now Tommy Love, Don Highsmith nd Eric Allen so we are shallow there already

Q-What about the quarterback situation? A-Bill Triplett has gained confidence maturity and experience over last season. We let him call all but a couple of plays on Saturday and he called a masterful game. His play selection was great. We knew he was an outstanding runner and Saturday he demonstrated he could throw the ball well. We want him to have a good conception of the new offense.

Behind Bill are two freshmen-Steve Piro and Dan Werner. Piro is just a kid-he is only 17. Steve is good at this stage of his development as Triplett was a year ago. Werner didn't play the two weeks before the Green and White game because of an injury but he threw the ball well in the second half.

Q-What players developed this spring?

A-It was good to see fellows like Kermit Smith and Tom Barnum come along. They were vastly improved this spring. So was center Errol Rov. Both Barnum and Rov were injured last year and didn't play at all. Barnum won the Most Improved Player Award this spring.

Q-Coach, you have a veteran offensive line back for the fall. How do they compare with past lines?

A-This is one of the best lines we've had here in several years. As I've said before, one of the reasons we are going to the new offense is because we feel we have the line to do it. It is the biggest line we've had here. They did a great job on Saturday. It's * * an unsung job. The average fan doesn't see what they are doing.

Q-The Green and White game was rather lopsided, 82-0. Is the Green team that good or was it just a mismatch? What happened? A-It was just one of those games where everything fell into place. You don't normally get that kind of execution. With the score that one-sided you can't evaluate it properly. I think the White team's inexperience helped the Green team but they kept battling though--they didn't give up.

Q-With that score, some people are saying that the Spartans are lacking depth. Depth-wise, how does your team stack up?

A-When your number one and two teams can play an even game your not going to be very good. It probably means you have an over-abundance of mediocrity. I would rather have a great first unit with some youngsters coming along-if they were all the same. maybe none of them would excell. It's the old saving, 'the cream # will rise to the top.' My idea of good depth is having two good players at each position. That way if one of them got hurt, the other one could step in.

Q-Who have been your outstanding freshman players this

A-You'd have to mention Eric Allen, Jim Nicholson, Doug and Gary Halliday, Gary Van Elst. Doug Barr, Brad McLee, Henry Mathews, Billy Joe DuPree, Mark Stoll, Duane McLaughlin, Scott Miltenberger and the two quarterbacks-Piro and Werner. Also, Barnum and Rov for all practical purposes are in this category-

Allen is going to be a great punt and kickoff return man for us. He is so quick that if he can get a good wall of blockers he could go all the way. McLee is probably the hardest hitting football player we've had here since Webster. We have a good influx of sophomore talent--which we are going to need.

Q-Where are your problem areas on this team--the positions where you are the weakest?

A-I don't like to talk about player weaknesses as such. I never want to say anything against my players that will appear in print I never have done it. But experience-wise, we don't have experi enced depth at center. In fact the entire reserve offensive line is young and will have to improve. The defensive secondary is young and has little game experience. Our best experience is on the defensive line, the offensive line and in the offensive backfield. The linebackers don't have too much experience and they are playing a completely different concept than last year

Q-Looking ahead to the fall, who are the teams to beat and how do you assess your own chances?

A-Ohio State is the defending Big Ten and national champion and certainly should be rated to repeat as both. I'd have to go with Ohio as the team to beat. After that it should be Purdue Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota and Iowa. I hope we will be in that group also. The conference is going to be awfully tough this year There won't be any weak sisters-certainly not in the ones that we play anyway. The conference is deep from top to bottom. We have tar less depth than Ohio State. Purdue and Michigan. Ohio has quarterbacks coming out of their ears-so does Purdue. Indiana is deep in backs. In fact they've got two sprinters who were the best in the Big Ten who can't even crack the starting line-

Q-Do you think Ohio State might let down a little this season knowing that they can't go to the Rose Bowl?

A-No. I don't think so. Woody (Hayes) will keep them motivated They have so much talent that there is competition at every position. This will keep them from rolling over and collapsing. Be sides, there have only been two teams in the history of the Big Ten who have won back-to-back championships--Ohio State and us. Woody got them up once so I imagine he can do it again. I'd like to just win the conference championship and not go to the goal, however, is to win the conference championship. Q-Coach, you play most of the big games--Ohio State, Notre Dame, Purdue and Iowa on the road. Does this make a differ-

Rose Powl. But I'd take the trip of it was offered. I think the real ?

A-Of course we'd like to play them all at home but we've always been a good road team. I don't think the home field has the same kind of advantage as it does in basketball where the tans are closer to the players. We have always played well down in South Bend. And except for those numbles we could have beaten Ohio State down in Columbus last year. No. I don't think playing away

Q-How would you rate the schedule for this coming season? A This is really a demanding schedule I think it's the tongues is the country; bar none. What other team catches Notre Dames Daio State and Michigan on successive Saturdays. These three games are such great rivalries. Then we've got Iowa, Purdue, Indiana and Minnesota. We don't play either Illinois or Wisconsin-

Salem: Israeli bias of U.S. alienates Arabs

By CHARLEY WEIRAUCH

US favoritism towards Israel is pushing the Arab world farther under the influence of Soviet communism, an Arab-American lecturer told the Arab Club last Friday.

Sam Salem, speaking to 85 people in the Union Ballroom. said pro-Israeli sentiment has been prevalent in the United States since the early 1940s.

"This bias has caused relations with the Arab world to decline to their present, lowest level." Salem said.

Salem stated that relations have never recovered from the actions of the Truman Administration when it sanctioned the partitioning of Arab Palestine in 1947 to create Israel.
