Academic Council OKs anti-discrimination report

By DELORES MAJOR
State News Staff Writer

The Academic Council approved changes within the Report on Anti-Discrimination Policies at MSU that would guarantee the confidentiality of personal records in investigations conducted by the committee against discrimination and insure against double jeopardy.

In addition, the report assures a method of appeal if there is a refusal from the Anti-Discrimination Judicial Board to conduct a formal hearing.

The case may be appealed to the Anti-Discrimination Appeal Board, if at least two members of the judicial board dissent from the decision.

The committee report advocates that a permanent committee against discrimination be established and that it have at least one non-white faculty member and at least one non-white undergraduate member.

The nine-member committee would be comprised of faculty, administrative and professional personnel, labor employees and students.

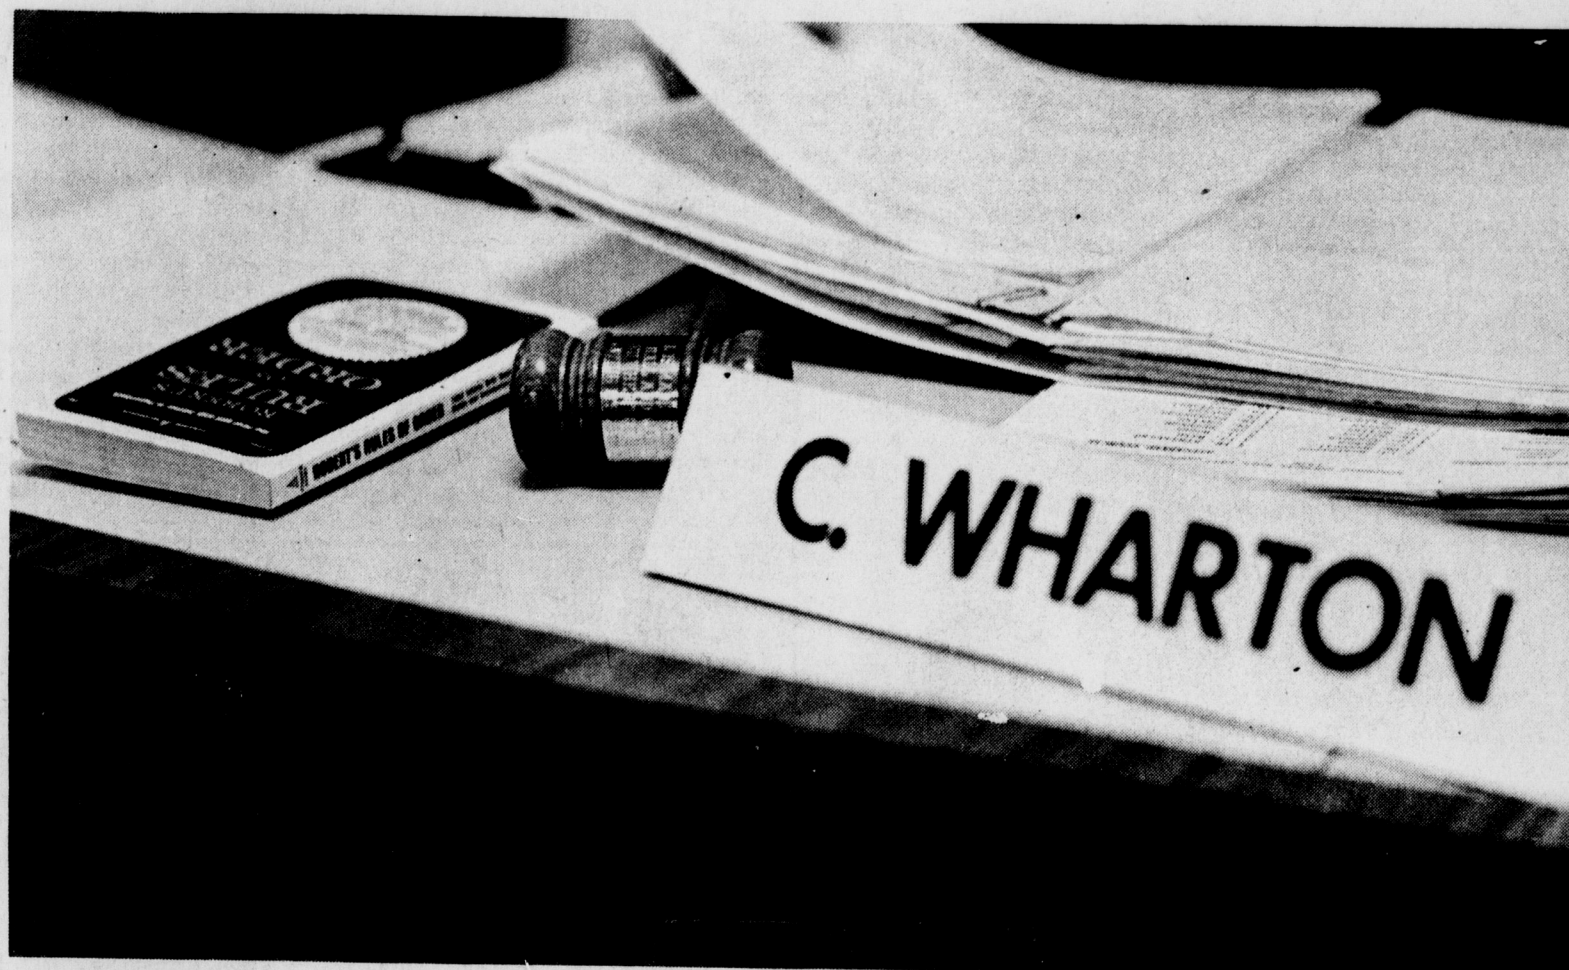

The committee will be instructed to "identify policies, practices or patterns of behavior which may reflect discrimination" and if they do reflect discrimination the committee "shall initiate action for a hearing before the anti-discrimination judicial board."

The committee advocates that the Anti-Discrimination Appeal Board be constituted of members of the University community to be chosen by the organization or person charged with the violation of University policy against discrimination and the organization or person making the charge.

The two members thus designated shall attempt to agree on a third member to serve as chairman of the Appeal Board.

If they are not able to agree on a chairman within five days, they will notify the University president who shall then request the American Arbitration Assn. to appoint a qualified person to serve as the third member, the fees and expenses of which, will be paid by the University.

CLEVELAND CHIEF

Police head charged with accepting bribes

DETROIT (UPI) -- Mayor Carl B. Stokes of Cleveland met with Detroit and Michigan officials Tuesday to check reports his new police chief accepted $1,000 a month in Mafia bribes to protect an abortion clinic while serving as a Detroit police inspector.

The new Cleveland chief, William P. Ellenburg, Detroit policeman and then public safety director in Grosse Pointe Park before accepting the Cleveland post, denied charges made by a reputed former Mafia lawyer.

Ellenburg said in Cleveland he will remain Cleveland police chief "unless I am asked to leave."

Stokes flew to Detroit Monday night to check on his new chief.

He met with Detroit Mayor Roman S. Gribbs, former Detroit mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh and then with editors of the Detroit Free Press which broke the story about the alleged bribes in Sunday editions. Stokes planned to meet later with representatives of the Michigan attorney general's office and state police.

Before leaving Cleveland, Stokes said that "If the evidence supports the chief's position, we will back him 100 per cent, but if the evidence does not support him, it will no longer be possible to retain his services."

Newsman questioned Stokes after he met with the Detroit mayor and one newsman put his hand on the Cleveland mayor's shoulder to get his attention to ask a question.

"Don't put your hand on me," Stokes said. "Just give me the courtesy you ought to give a visiting official. Whenever I have a statement to make it will be after I have talked with everybody. I've cooperated with you. Efforts to make me do otherwise show lack of courtesy and lack of respect."

Stokes then met with Derick Daniels, executive editor of the Free Press, and other officials of the newspaper. Afterward, he said "There are several persons I have to talk with and I will have no comment until I have done so."

The bribe charges were made by Lawrence A. Burns, a former teamster union attorney and reputed former Mafia lawyer.

Suspected companion sought in Ferris murder

BIG RAPIDS (UPI) - A young man who may have accompanied Michael Ray Kedrovicz when he allegedly raped a Ferris State College woman was sought by authorities Tuesday in hopes he also has information about the slaying of an Allen Park girl last week.

Kedrovicz, an 18-year-old stock clerk and father of a child, was arrested Tuesday by Mecosta County authorities and charged with first-degree murder in the brutal slaying last Thursday of Norma Jean Bagey, 20. He also was charged with rape.

A composite drawing prepared by State Police Detective Herbert Brown of the Grand Haven post led to Kedrovicz' capture, Mecosta County Sheriff Gerald Weis said. The drawing was prepared from descriptions provided by two students who said they had been attacked and raped near the college.

Both said another youth accompanied their attacker, but remained in the car and did not take part in the attack on a woman Jan. 19 and left the car on the Ferris State campus before the Jan. 14 molesting.

Junior lawmaker doubts leadership of House Speaker

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Rep. Jerome R. Waldie of California, 45, and a two-and-a-half-term in Congress, asked his fellow Democrats Tuesday to repudiate the leadership of Speaker John W. McCormack, 78, now in his 22nd term.

Waldie's move, in a letter to McCormack with copies to the other Democrats, dramatically broke into the open again the long-simmering frustration of some younger members over what they call a fossilization of House leadership and procedures.

Waldie told McCormack he intends to offer a resolution "expressing a lack of confidence in the House leadership" at the Council delays final decision on East Lansing income tax

By CARL P. OLSON
State News Staff Writer

Final decision on the East Lansing uniform city income tax will not come until September. The city council decided Monday night that questions had been raised to doubt the equitability of the proposed levy.

"The city council feels that certain questions were raised by the public meetings that shed some doubt about whether the ordinance was equitable," Mayor Gordon L. Thomas said.

If the income tax is subsequently adopted, Council Mary P. Sharp requested that "council petition the state legislature to exempt full-time resident students at the University." Mrs. Sharp based her request on the arguments presented by students during the public meetings.

"On the surface it looked as though the average and below average citizen would be paying more," Thomas said, "and this didn't seem to tie in with the notion that property owners would be receiving some kind of relief."

A case in point, referred to by Thomas, was that of MSU asst. professor of psychology Lester M. Hyman, who calculated that a $60 property tax reduction and $90 income tax would still have cost him an additional $30.

The council had originally conceived that the tax would offer greater equitability and take the burden off the property taxpayer in East Lansing.

September was set as a renewal of the income tax issue so that council members could gain a better picture of the effect that increased population, determined by the 1970 census, will have on the city's amount of shared taxes from the state.

The council also said it would be working closely with economic authorities and citizens to determine more evidence on the equitability of the uniform city income tax.

In another matter, the council received a report from the traffic commission to prohibit bicycle riding on Grand River and Michigan Avenues and that existing ordinances applicable to operation of bicycles be continued.

VOTE BLOCKED

Carswell confirmation delayed by reform fight

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Liberals fighting for electoral reform temporarily delayed Tuesday a vote on confirmation of Judge G. Harold Carswell for the Supreme Court.

Led by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. they blocked an immediate vote in the Senate Judiciary Committee by insisting on action, too, on the proposed direct popular election of president.

As a result, the committee broke up -- until a date to be scheduled later -- without moving either Carswell or the proposal along.

Bayh denied allegations by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., that he was holding up the nomination in a gambit to promote the House-passed proposed constitutional amendment.

But this was the effect, nonetheless.

Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., said on leaving the closed session: "We hardly talked about Carswell at all."

The day's two witnesses did. Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington bureau of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, called the 50-year-old judge "an advocate of racial segregation."

"We breathe a sigh of relief when Negroes go into the courts instead of into the streets," said Mitchell, a black. "But we then confront them with judges who have decided to deny them relief even before they enter the courthouse door."

Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., co-chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, detailed 15 decisions in which he said Carswell, as a federal judge in Tallahassee, Fla., was reversed unanimously by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans.

Appealing to the Senate to defeat the nomination as President Nixon's first choice for the court seat, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., was defeated, the lawyer declared.

"Judge Carswell is Judge Haynsworth with a cutting edge, with a bitterness and a meanness that Judge Haynsworth never had."

"Can you really close us out today?", he asked.

Minutes later, the committee repaired to executive session, under prior agreement, to vote on the nomination.

There Bayh made his move. He asked the committee to vote on Carswell Feb. 9 and to agree, at the same time, to vote on electoral reform April 14.

Thurmond countered with a move to table Bayh's motion. Thurmond lost, 12 to 4.

For the liberals, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., moved to recall Carswell for further testimony.

The conservatives beat this back, tabling Hart's motion 9 to 6.

Hannah too old to run, former 'U' aides agree

By JEFF SHELER
State News Staff Writer

Two MSU officials, both past associates of former MSU president John A. Hannah, agreed Tuesday that the 65-year-old administrator is too old to be seriously considered a contender for the GOP Senate nomination.

Republicans are seeking a candidate to oppose Democrat Philip A. Hart.

Hannah, now director of the Agency for International Development in the Nixon Administration, was among the 26 potential Senate candidates named at the GOP conference at St. Clair Shores last weekend.

University Relations Director James H. Denison said he was "surprised" when he heard Hannah was being considered.

"I snickered when I first heard about it," he said. "It would be my guess he'd never accept the nomination."

Denison pointed to Hannah's age as the decisive factor, but added that he considered Hannah "highly qualified" for the post.

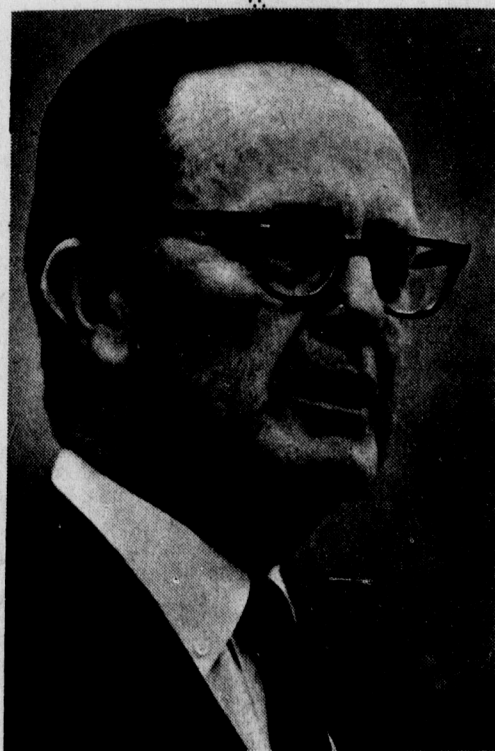

"I'd say he was eminently qualified if he were 40 years younger," Denison said. MSU Presidential Asst. Elliot G. Ballard said he would be "surprised" if Hannah "encourages his name to be mentioned" for the nomination.

Also noting the age factor, Ballard said he thinks Hannah is "completely satisfied" with his present position.

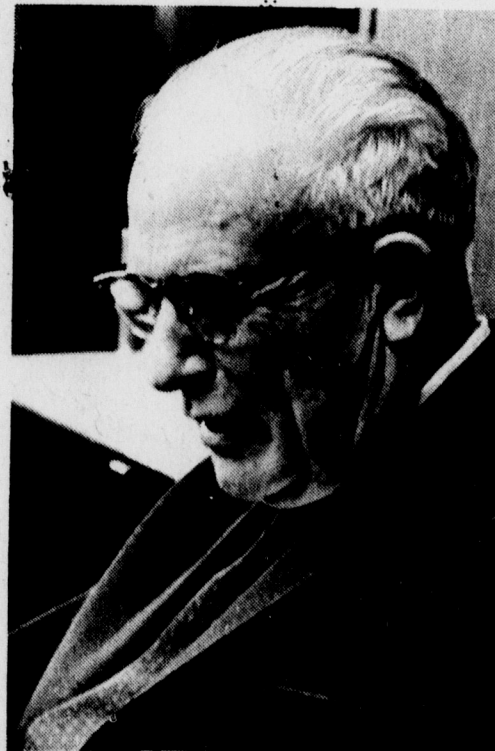

"I've never heard him mention any political ambitions, Senatorial or otherwise," Ballard said. "I expect it will be a contest between persons who are politicians by inclination."

Hannah is presently out of the country and was unavailable for comment.

Coed dorm floor of social activists proposed

By DAVID BASSETT
State News Staff Writer

Dormitory residents of the very near future may be permitted to select a peer group with like interests — regardless of sex — and enjoy special educational benefits if a proposal presently being formulated by the New Community is implemented.

Differing radically from other coed floor proposals in its specificity of objectives, the plan hopefully will give students more personal freedom while supplying numerous educational and social benefits.

Proponents in the New Community cited the need for students to gather together in small living — learning groups with a limited number of specific objectives. Leon Brenner, Southfield graduate student and spokesman for the group, noted the lack of encouragement for this type of system.

"What we are aiming at," Brenner said, "is to have a coed floor of social activists who have common experiences and wish to share them with others."

"By sharing these common interests and motivations," he continued, "students could receive a much better education. Living in close contact will permit a great deal more feedback and worthwhile learning. Instead of merely attending class for several hours and then returning to a dorm with people whose interests might be quite dissimilar, the student would find it possible to intensify and further stimulate what he has learned in the classroom."

"One of our main objectives is to replace the superficial, random assortment of students in residence halls with a logical pattern. Instead of diffusing and segregating students, we hope to give them the opportunity to live and learn together around the theme of social involvement."

Brenner said he was encouraged by other educational possibilities of the proposal.

"Students would be able to attract speakers connected with various aspects of social change from diverse viewpoints. Students could formulate plans of action to better society, create libraries in study lounges, participate in seminars for grade credit taught by socially — concerned faculty, augment existing University courses with those more socially relevant, and join in sensitivity and leadership training."

Bud Thomas, regional director of the Dept. of Residence Halls for Shaw, McDonel and Holmes, said he was optimistic about the success of the proposal.

We have numerous emphases in residence halls, Thomas explained. These attempt to satisfy people with whom they live, to match roommates and suitmates and to form small dorm communities.

"This, in fact, is the essence of what we say we want to form in residence halls; unfortunately, it hasn't worked too well in the past."

Thomas said his main interest, and the greatest chance for the success of the project, lies in the possibilities of increased educational benefits for students.

"We very definitely think, and have evidence to prove, that when people of similar interests are gathered together and living together they receive an added depth and dimension of social and educational experience that they do not get by merely meeting in a classroom or belonging to an organization."

"The mere physical element of living together and working out living problems gives education an added element of considerable significance to the students' development."

"In terms of the educational growth of students," he continued, "having a group with whom they can identify and to whom they can turn for support and encouragement in whatever their endeavor does tend to lend a certain security, a freedom, a reaching-out, that they wouldn't have if they were isolated or living in an unfriendly situation."

"In the past, we have given students the option of living where they want in relatively small groups on a floor, but it doesn't appear to have worked. We have never been able to achieve a sense of community; however, the New Community proposal of supplying a theme around which action will be centered might be the cohesive force necessary."

Students who wish more information concerning the proposal, or who wish to be of assistance in formulating the formal plans, are urged to attend a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in 101 Bessey.

GOP head defends St. Clair party meeting

The Republican party chairman Wednesday defended last weekend's GOP meeting in St. Clair against Democratic criticism that the meeting sought to "disfranchise" party voters.

Attorney General Frank Kelley said Saturday that Republicans have demonstrated "how far behind the times they are by marching into a smoke-filled room to handpick a so-called 'consensus' candidate for the Senate."

William F. McLaughlin, the GOP chairman said, "We did not choose a consensus candidate last weekend."

"More than 250 Republicans from throughout the state did meet, however, and determined that they did, indeed, wish to explore further the matter of seeking a preferred candidate."

"Need I remind him that one of the greatest names in the U.S. Senate today, Robert P. Griffin, was the preferred candidate of the Republican party of Michigan in 1966," McLaughlin said.

He added that the persons meeting in St. Clair, decided to increase representation at the future meetings and that 75 percent of those attending would be required to designate a preferred candidate.

Brides Showcase

WE APOLOGIZE to the ANTI-MARRIAGE LEAGUE

BRIDES SHOWCASE has received numerous complaints from male members of the Anti-Marriage League. Many of the female members of the League attended our bridal fashion shows last Sunday. The girls discovered our wedding gowns are so lovely — they want one of their own. So the gals have been putting the bite on the bachelors to come up with a wedding ring.

We think the girls have the right idea. And we'll bet the guys would agree if they had seen our UNISEX his and her wedding outfits.

The rest of you engaged girls better hurry over to BRIDES SHOWCASE and see the gowns that are breaking up the Anti-Marriage League.

Careers urged in city planning for minorities

A scholarship fund to encourage students from racial minority groups, particularly blacks, to major in urban planning has been created at MSU.

The $3,000 annual fund, donated by a Southfield city planning firm, will be allocated to four students each year, preferably juniors and seniors. All recipients will be encouraged to get on — the job experience in their chosen career by working during summer vacations at Vilcan — Leman & Associates, Inc., the donor firm.

The scholarship awards will be made for $750 per year. Applications from interested students should be sent directly to the School of Urban Planning and Landscape Architecture.

North Vietnam charged Tuesday that waves of U.S. attacks a number of populated areas in its northernmost province of Quang Binh Monday. It made no mention of casualties or damage. In a broadcast, Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency said the Foreign Ministry energetically condemned the U.S. criminal war act and demanded that the raids cease.

Israel notified the U.N. Security Council Tuesday of what it called "an intensification of Syrian aggression" and made no request for a council meeting. In a letter circulated among council members, Israel charged Syrian armed forces with making more than 60 attacks across the border in January.

Terrorist activity in Thailand has grown at an alarming rate in recent months and the outlook is grim, U.S. officials involved in the five-year-old war against insurgency. The officials estimate there are at least 5,000 full-time well-armed guerrillas throughout the country. This is about 2,000 more than at this time last year. Most of the increase has been noted in the far northern and southern parts of the country. Fighting between the terrorists and the Thai army has come to a stalemate. And initial Thai attempts to eliminate the insurgency by air strikes and ground operations were unsuccessful.

Japan signed the nuclear nonproliferation treaty in a ceremony in Moscow Tuesday. The Japanese ambassador Iori Nakagawa, signed the treaty at the Soviet Foreign Ministry's reception center in downtown Moscow. Earlier Tuesday, the Japanese government issued a statement in Tokyo expressing its hope that the treaty and Communist China "will become parties" to the treaty soon.

Federal authorities said Tuesday that they have released 32 Roman Catholic missionaries held in Port Moresby and are deporting them. It quoted a police statement as saying: "This action is further demonstration of the federal government's magnanimity toward the former secessionist regime and those involved in its activity."

National News

Treasury Secretary David Kennedy gave the stock market a powerful shot in the arm Tuesday with a statement that lower interest rates and greater economic stability may be soon in coming. "That happy day," he said in a speech, "may be closer at hand than most people realize." As soon as his remarks circulated in Wall Street, the market responded with a resounding rally that propelled the Dow Jones industrial average from a loss of 3.37 points to a gain of 13.13. The average closed with a gain of 11.02 points.

Metromedia Radio reported Tuesday that U.S. planes have made 41 retaliatory attacks against North Vietnam, since President Lyndon Johnson ordered the bombing halted in November 1968. Unarmed reconnaissance planes which fly over North Vietnam are accompanied by fighter bombers with instructions to attack only if the enemy fires first. The latest raid occurred last week Wednesday, after North Vietnamese gunners shot down one U.S. fighter bomber and one helicopter.

President Nixon is recommending an increase of $49 million over his original requests for health and education appropriations to replace a bill he vetoed last week. Republican congressional leaders reported Tuesday. The total of $18.8 billion for the major appropriation bill still would be $810 million less than what is in the bill Nixon vetoed as inflationary. The measure is to finance the Depts. of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, and the Office of Economic Opportunity, for the fiscal year which ends next June.

An outbreak of fist swinging injured at least two court officers in New York City and the trial of 13 black Panthers on bomb conspiracy charges was postponed Tuesday for the third time in two days. A defense attorney charged that one defendant had been beaten with a blackjack during the melee. As the Panthers were being taken out of the courtroom to a detention area, one struck out at a court officer. This led to shoving and pushing between court officers and defendants.

Cheer director accused of racism

By JEANNE SADDLER
Associate Campus Editor

An investigative task force of the Black Liberation Front (BLF) charged Pauline Hess, director of the MSU cheerleading squad, with racist and discriminatory practices against black cheerleaders

Tuesday. She was accused of "deliberately and subtly excluding blacks from meetings and profit-making endeavors of the team."

Miss Hess was not available for comment Tuesday afternoon.

"We feel that this case warrants a full investigation of the athletic Dept.'s policies and practices of recruiting, granting tenure and their cutting and handling of black students," Bill Powers, chairman of the task force told the State News.

The charges against Miss Hess involve the complaints of a black cheerleader, Celeste Moy. The Detroit sophomore said she has been involved in several misunderstandings with the director since she has been on the squad. Lynn Weaver, Detroit sophomore, is the only other black cheerleader.

The BLF task force charged that black cheerleaders are not included in, or informed of, all squad meetings, that they are not involved in modeling contracts made by the squad, and that they are penalized for being late for squad meetings while nothing is said to white cheerleaders, even if they are very late.

The students also claimed that the cheerleaders had made as much as $150 profit each from modeling contracts, from which the black cheerleaders were excluded. They said that the two black coeds were consistently separated while cheering at games.

"While I'm not off the team technically, I feel that I may be eventually," Miss Moy said. I have been unhappy about the situation from the first day of try-outs up until now."

The last incident occurred last Saturday when Miss Moy said she was not allowed to cheer for most of the basketball game after cheering with the black students, according to the investigators.

In a memo to several University officials dated Jan. 30, Don Coleman, asst. director, Dean of Students office, discussed the situation and complaints against the team as they had been related to him.

"We must recognize that the black cheerleader, who is exposed publicly representing MSU, is someone who should be able to feel a sense of belonging and loyalty. I personally feel that they should not be alienated and demoralized just to be a 'member' of the MSU cheerleading squad," Coleman wrote.

A meeting with Miss Hess, the black cheerleaders, and Jack Breslin, executive vice president is scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday.

STEVENS CITES BILL

OU autonomy predicted

By MARILYN PATTERSON
State News Staff Writer

MSU Board of Trustees Chairman Don Stevens, D-Okemos, predicted Tuesday that the state legislature would easily pass two bills establishing Oakland University's independence.

Stevens said he has been contacted by half the members of the House of Representatives and the Senate and all favored Oakland's independence.

If the legislature passes the bill, Oakland's independence would depend upon "how our board acts," Stevens said.

The State Board of Education must also approve the change.

Stevens said the issue would probably come before the trustees at their Feb. 20 meeting.

At its December meeting the board approved the move for autonomy "in principle."

The board deferred final decision until it held a joint meeting with the University of Michigan (U-M) Board of Regents.

The Dearborn and Flint campuses of U-M requested independence from the U-M.

Procedures to make all three campuses independent would be the same for each campus.

However, the regents declined the trustees' invitation for a joint meeting to discuss the "future of affiliate institutions" as they have turned down the requested independencies.

In light of the rejected invitation, Stevens said the trustees' subcommittee on Oakland's independence would meet again next week and would probably present a resolution at the February board meeting.

"The board of regents has its own reason for declining our invitation," Stevens said. "I imagine they are chagrined by the success Oakland has had compared to their Dearborn and Flint branches."

Oakland University began in 1959 as the Oakland branch of MSU. In 1963, just before the first class was graduated, the name was changed to Oakland University.

Although Oakland is officially under the rule of the board of trustees, it has been an essentially autonomous institution.

It has grown from a student body of 500 in 1959 to one of more than 6,000 this year.

Nixon's policy criticized for creating war euphoria

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of President Nixon's Vietnam policy accused the administration Tuesday of creating a national euphoria about the war.

The attack occurred when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee opened three days of public hearing on a series of resolutions proposing new U.S. approaches to U.S. war policy.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, said to create the euphoria, "you pistol whip the news media, and then you commandeer it for political purposes," Hughes said.

Agnew said he thought some of the opposition party people in attempting to discredit the United States objectives in Vietnam have found such a little bit of public support are now casting about aimlessly for some way to turn the gun back on the administration.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he hoped the hearings would help decide if the Nixon policy Vietnamizing combat is "more promising than a renewed effort at negotiating a settlement in the Paris talks."

"I think we're on the right course and if the people stick with the President we'll be out of there," Agnew said.

Who spread the wealth for mid-year pay raises?

Fall term the administration declared that mid-year salary increases would be given to 20 per cent of the faculty. The raises were to be given for excellence in teaching to those members of the faculty whose primary concern is students.

The raises would give a financial break to the faculty members whose income was not supplemented by research or publication.

The raises have now been given, but to whom? The answer remains one of the better kept secrets on campus. The only ones who know are the administration and the department chairmen, and they aren't talking.

Hence, the entire purpose of the plan is defeated. The questions of who received the raises and who determined who received the raises are left unanswered.

Seemingly there would only be one really fair and accurate manner to award the raises. No one is more familiar with the teaching ability of a professor than his students. The department heads and other faculty department members do not attend an instructor's class on a day to day basis, if at all. Only the students are fully aware of a prof's ability to teach.

However, seldom were students allowed to pick the raise recipients. In most departments the faculty were polled or the chairman and associate chairmen got together to make the choices. In some cases the students were at least consulted on the matter and a few departments organized student-faculty committees. There was absolutely no conformity in the various selection processes employed.

This borders upon the absurd. Every possible way to determine the raise recipients was probably used, while the best way was seldom used. The department heads, though, can not be blamed entirely. One department asked its student advisory committee to handle the matter and the committee refused.

Worse than the selection process, however, is the fact that now the raises have been given out and no one knows who got them. Unless names of the recipients are publicized, how are the students to know whether the entire process is legitimate?

For all the students know, the raises could very well have been given to the faculty that concerns itself primarily with research and publication. Only by publicizing the names of the faculty who received raises and having the students themselves select the recipients can this possibility be completely eliminated.

If the mid-year raise is executed in an ideal manner it can be useful to students and faculty alike. Students could use the information along with the ASMSU student evaluation files of professors to determine courses and sections to take when all of the names in the schedule are foreign to them.

The faculty are, in essence, cheating themselves by not publicizing the raise recipients. Those that did not receive raises would be able, by observing the actions of those that did, to determine which teaching methods students consider most effective and popular.

Clearly the mid-year salary raises are being handled in a less than ideal manner. In order to make the concept of a mid-year raise fully meaningful the students must have the say in determining the recipients and the names of the recipients must be publicized. Until this occurs, mid-year raises will be just a means to spread the wealth indiscriminately among the faculty.

Bertrand Russell: love, pity, knowledge

An era passed Monday night when the irrepressible tide of time finally extinguished the spark that was Bertrand Arthur William Russell.

His life, Russell once said, was governed by "Three passions, simple but overwhelmingly strong": the longing for love, the search for knowledge and unbearable pity for the suffering of mankind. Of these, the philosopher felt that he had satisfied only one, love, and only when he was eighty and married his fourth wife.

Russell was known for his pacifistic stand—a position that earned him six months in jail during World War I and helped to earn him a Nobel Prize in 1950.

His two major works, The Principles of Mathematics and Principia Mathematica, set down formally abstract ideas in terms of pure mathematics.

Russell delighted and confounded four generations with eccentricity or, as he would have it, his independence of mind. When asked when he had first developed his fondness for Scotch whiskey, he replied that during World War I "King George V took the pledge because he thought he could save money to kill Germans, so I drank."

Russell's avowed atheism and free-living style scandalized many of his peers. He was denied a teaching position at the City College of New York because of these unorthodox views. His opponents are now forgotten, but Russell remains.

It is with sadness that we watch the passing of Bertrand Russell and, as we enter the post-Russell age, we can only hope that what he represented for almost a century will not be forgotten.

OUR READERS' MINDS

Ed. Dept. needs student views

To the Editor:

Last week the State News reported that the "Triple T" program is sending 15 MSU professors into area classrooms to evaluate the "strengths and weaknesses of their efforts in turning out secondary school teachers." Furthermore "each faculty participant receives a fellowship equal to his full salary and fringe benefits and up to a $300 a month exemption from his federal income tax."

I cannot see how one can justify an expenditure of that kind for the purpose of visiting area schools when the obvious problems are right here on campus.

So many students I advise have complained to me about the caliber of Education 200, 327 and 450 that I have, over the past two years, attended some lectures with them. And I must agree that for the student who has taken even introductory courses in the social sciences, most of the material presented in the education classes must surely be quite boring.

And it is a rare occasion indeed when a student returns from student teaching that he or she feels that it has been a rewarding experience. For the most part they return disappointed and disillusioned. And for all this I understand that the student teaching program costs approximately $400,000 per year.

What is most discouraging is that some very talented, concerned students who would like to teach and would be very effective in secondary teaching find the certification requirements so overwhelmingly inane that they discount the possibility of becoming secondary teachers. Many of these students go directly on to graduate school and eventually teach at the university level.

Obviously the College of Education is well connected to the Michigan Legislature and well endowed by the federal government. And I am well aware that a monied sacred cow is the most difficult of all to criticize. But I think the time has come to question the untouchables in Erickson Hall. As Hawley himself has noted, the entire University has a part in preparing teachers.

Despite all arguments to the contrary, in my opinion the students themselves are the best source of evaluation we have. It is about time the Education Dept. gets in step with the rest of the university and sincerely invites the comments of the student body.

Tissue of lies . . . again

To the Editor:

Reference is made to the article appearing in the State News, Jan. 28, under the caption "Point of View."

In response to the statement made by the Alliance to End Criminal Justice, the readers of the State News are invited to acquaint themselves with the public statement made by President John Hannah dated April 22, 1966, which responds in considerable detail to the article contained in Ramparts magazine regarding MSU's program in Vietnam. President Hannah indicated that the article was grossly inaccurate, unfair and misleading and contained no fewer than 53 errors of fact, not counting the gross distortions or statements quoted out of context. For some reason, the State News has seen fit to permit this tissue of lies to appear, again, on its pages. Thus, for faculty and students who have arrived on campus since 1966, we invite your attention to the statement by President Hannah.

We are proud of the graduates of our school, as we believe they are providing a quality of leadership to the criminal justice scene that represents a significant and meaningful contribution to the components of the criminal justice system.

DAVE SHORT

The American press' biases

In one respect, some members of the mass media, upon hearing Spiro Agnew's national criticism of them late last year, must have felt like Caesar after he walked into the Roman Senate on the Ides of March.

Agnew was quick to blast the mass media for its coverage of the government, specifically the Nixon Administration. But in the process, he forgot to mention a few things.

Throughout the years, the mass media has unofficially helped the government and its representatives by keeping certain facts or news from the American public.

The American press and television have dragged their feet or turned their heads in reporting several major issues in the past. A look at some of the major happenings of the 1960s gives one insight on the matter.

As writer Louis Lyons put it, "The American press has built-in biases in reporting on such things as Moscow, Cuba, China and the United Nations."

In 1961 American prestige and foreign policy took it on the chin when the government-backed Bay of Pigs invasion turned into a fiasco. But the mass media system neglected to probe and analyze the entire affair.

The mass media expressed sorrow over the fact that the invasion was bungled; but that was about it. Although President Kennedy admitted the whole affair as his mistake, the press took the heat off him by blaming it all on the CIA and the military.

What really happened behind the scenes involving the Bay of Pigs invasion has never really been disclosed by the government or the press. Even though, as James Reston of the New York Times pointed out, "the press knew what was going on ahead of the landing."

Speeches in the Senate have often been ignored or downplayed by the press if they were contrary to U.S. foreign policy. When Sen. Wayne Morse made a speech in 1961 challenging the whole idea that Cuba constituted a military threat to the United States, he was utterly overlooked by the press.

When Sen. William Fulbright gave his famous Senate hearing questioning the U.S. policy towards Communist China, the mass media was extremely reluctant to report on it.

The problem is, as writer Neal Houghton says, "Our press have given overwhelming support to each successive aspect of Washington foreign policy and strategy commitment since Pearl Harbor."

The coverage of America's space program up until the tragic fire in the Apollo 1 capsule on Jan. 27, 1967 was also somewhat lax.

As James Shardon said in criticizing the press, "The record for Apollo coverage, as in the case of the Mercury project, reveals no medium that devoted itself to any special extent to investigating and questioning the quality of the Apollo product."

The mass media failed to disclose such aspects of the Apollo Program as the controversy over the awarding of the building contract to North American Aviation, the evidence of shoddy workmanship and the undisclosed cases of previous test fires, and the circumstances touching on the Apollo 1 fire, itself.

Another case in point is the Senate censure of Senator Thomas Dodd in 1967. Dodd was accused of violating Senate ethics in use of campaign funds and in receiving "gifts" from questionable sources, etc.

Although Dodd was blatantly caught with his hand in the till, most members of the mass media chose to ignore the available evidence on the case. Few papers urged that Dodd be punished for his actions; only the two Washington, D.C., papers suggested that he resign.

As a result, Dodd was damaged little by his violations of the Senate ethics or the Senate censure. He plans to run for office again this year.

Late last year, members of the mass media were initially slow, circumspect and sometimes manifestly reluctant to cover the unfolding horror of the My Lai massacre in Vietnam, too.

Only after the military and the government took action on the massacre did the press begin to cover it in full force. With the vast corps of foreign correspondents in Vietnam, however, there is no justification for the news of the massacre taking two years to reach the American public.

The recently passed "no-knock" drug law, which allows law authorities without special warrant to enter a place without permission if it is suspected that people have illegal drugs there, offers another example in which the mass media has backed and watched the government without criticizing it.

Although the law may eventually lead to several Supreme Court cases involving individual's rights, few criticisms of the "no-knock" legislation and what it could mean in the future were voiced by the mass media representatives.

There are inherent dangers in mass media coverage of the government's role in state and world events. Few members of the mass media wish to alienate the government. Losing government contracts, prestige or financial gains aren't in the game plans of the mass media.

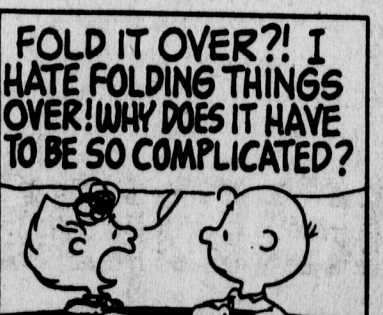

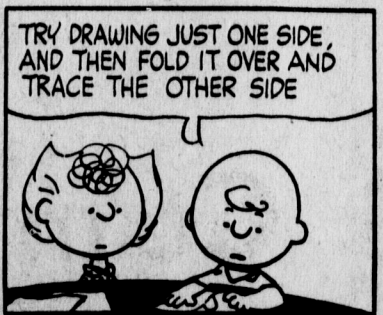

Yet there is a danger when you have the government acting as a censor, and the mass media acting as a censor, too.

The government seems to think that it has its job to protect government secrets from the press and the public. But it is the mass media's job to find out government secrets and wrong-doings and then relay them to the general public.

No one, whether it be Spiro Agnew, Walter Cronkite or James Reston, can better forget it, either.

If the birth control pill is "medication" are its effects in any way altered by the consumption of other medications such as aspirin, cold tablets or prescribed drugs, such as penicillin, or by the consumption of alcohol which supposedly has increased effects when taken along with "medication?"

None of the drugs which you mention will affect the action of birth control pills. It would always be a wise move to tell your doctor you are on the birth control pills the time he is prescribing any medication for you. Certain medications which have an effect on hormone production might be contraindicated if person is on birth control pills. Incidentally, it is probably not advisable for the nursing mother to be on oral contraceptives, as the drug comes through in the milk.

Drugs used to escape from life

By LINDA KNIBBS
State News Staff Writer

Americans tend to escape their problems and seek freedom through drugs — from aspirin to heroin — Ingham County's prosecuting attorney said Monday night.

Raymond L. Scodeller, speaking to National Police Honorary Alpha Phi Sigma, said use of drugs has increased in Ingham County during the past 10 years. He explained that many drug users are from broken homes or are people who don't fit into society.

Use of amphetamines and barbiturates were the only real drug problems in the county in 1960, he said. Glue sniffing was once a problem, Scodeller said, but now glue manufacturers have added a chemical to make sniffers sick before the glue affects them.

In 1965 only four warrants were issued for marijuana charges, but by 1969 there were 160 warrants issued, Scodeller said. The increase is probably due to the social acceptance of the drug by college, high school and junior high school students, he said.

"The marijuana problem is mixed with other matters like Vietnam and civil rights," Scodeller estimated that nearly 50 per cent of MSU students have smoked marijuana once or twice.

A person arrested for the first time on a marijuana charge is placed on probation. The maximum penalty for the sale of marijuana is 20 years, he said.

Scodeller said marijuana was grown by the government during World War II to be used as hemp. This drug, prized by marijuana smokers, comes from the female plant, he said.

Other problem drugs include LSD, opium, heroin, cocaine and codeine. These hard drugs are physically and psychologically addictive, he said. Sometimes people who receive the drugs in hospitals for medical purposes become addicts by the time they are released.

"Until a few years ago, LSD possession was not an offense," Scodeller said. "Today the penalty for the sale or dispensing of LSD is a maximum of four years."

Use of LSD is slackening off, he added, probably because of the fear of gene damage. Use of other drugs has increased, and the first Ingham County heroin arrest was made in 1969, he said.

Apprehension and arrest of drug users is a problem, Scodeller said. Smart sellers know who they sell to and don't take chances, he said. Even when police arrest a suspect on drug charges, there are many legal loop-holes that allow the person to be freed.

Drug abuse speech

Raymond L. Scodeller, Ingham County prosecuting attorney, told a meeting of the National Police Honorary Alpha Phi Sigma that the use of drugs in Ingham County has increased in the past 10 years. Scodeller said that the drugs are being used by people to escape their problems in life.

IN BLACK AFRICA

Peace Corps gets culture test

By STEFANIE LOWE

Better understanding between blacks and whites is the most important objective of the Peace Corps in French-speaking black Africa, according to Victor D. Du Bois, member of the American Universities Field Staff (AUFSS).

Du Bois, speaking recently to Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign service honorary fraternity, emphasized that the greatest adjustment Peace Corps volunteers have to make in Africa involves the environment. The transition from a predominantly white community to a predominantly black one causes certain problems in cultural adjustment, he said. A crisis period lasting from three months to a year often occurs.

Some of the major problems which Peace Corps people face are the adjustment to loneliness, acceptance by inhabitants and acclimation to the environment, De Bois explained.

Other problems include avoiding political involvements and over-association with one's fellow countrymen and adjusting to a different set of social mores.

"After seeing some of the most beautiful capitals in the world, many Peace Corps volunteers find regions up-country something of a shock," he said. "The fine highways and buildings often end at the edge of the city and suddenly you are in bush country. Housing is much less developed, economic conditions much poorer and the people less prosperous."

Peace Corps volunteers work in French-speaking Africa primarily as teachers, community development workers or as medical and public health assistants, Du Bois said.

A thorough knowledge of French is essential. Often native dialects are taught to volunteers prior to their arrival. Instruction is also given regarding the history of the individual country.

"Race relations in the former French territories have improved considerably since independence," Du Bois stated. "The presence of whites is less resented now than during the colonial era, for to many Africans it signifies the possibility of finding work. Both groups are making an earnest effort to work together for the common good."

AUFSS is sponsored by MSU and nine other universities. It was established in 1951 as a non-profit educational organization.

Winged Spartans teach members to fly airplanes

Perhaps you are a part of the more than 70 per cent of the adult population in the United States who have never experienced the excitement and thrill of an airplane flight.

Since 1946, however, over 2,000 students, faculty and staff have learned to fly while at MSU.

The promotion of aviation is the chief goal of the MSU Flying Club, Winged Spartans, Inc., which is one of the University's few student organized and operated corporations.

The Winged Spartans flying club was founded originally in 1946 by a group of coeds who shared a common interest in flying.

The club is set up and oriented to facilitate the member who is learning to fly. The membership consists of several husband-and-wife pilot teams, plus eight active women pilots. Most of the club's instructors are MSU students, ranging in age from 19 to 35.

The Winged Spartans Cessnas have been all over the United States, to Canada, Mexico and the Bahamas. Members wanting an airplane for long periods of time may submit a written bid, at least two weeks in advance of their desired flight.

Many club members enjoy taking their dates for a flight over the campus, and some even fly on ski-weekends.

In addition to participating in national flying meets, and occasionally holding an inter-club meet of its own, the club has participated in such worthwhile activities as cooperating with the MSU Volunteers to take over 100 grade children for airplane rides.

'Don Pasquale' offered en Ingles off-campus

By VALERIE RESTIVO
State News Reviewer

The departments of music and theatre will jointly offer an extended weekend of opera. Donizetti's three-act opera buffa "Don Pasquale" will be presented in English at the John A. Hannah Middle School, 819 Abbot Rd., a mere four blocks from the Union.

John A. Wiles Jr., asst.

professor of voice and acting vocal artist - in residence at MSU, is stage director. Dennis Burkh, conductor of the MSU Symphony Orchestra, serves as musical director. In charge of production is John Baldwin, of the Theatre Dept. Frank Rutledge, also of the Theatre Dept., has designed the sets for "Don Pasquale."

The opera was originally to have been produced on the MSU campus, according to Wiles. He said there has been a lack of opportunity for students of voice to sing in public, except in solo recital.

Members of the music and theatre departments decided to produce a chamber opera. They selected the Donizetti work, and then discovered that MSU facilities were inadequate for the occasion.

The music auditorium has no room for an orchestra of 35-40, and the small stage affords insufficient lighting facilities. In addition, there is too small seating capacity to allow a large enough audience to even partially subsidize the production.

The MSU symphony had already moved off-campus to Okemos High School for similar reasons. The producer-directors selected the John A. Hannah school because of its proximity to campus.

conductor in many European cities.

Wiles recently returned to the U.S. from Germany, where he resided with his family for the past 12 years. He won a scholarship to the Hochschule Fur Musik in Stuttgart and subsequently sang in several German opera houses. His wife, Harriet, teaches music, and their son, John, sang in the Freiberg Children's Chorus. Their younger son, David, also shows musical promise.

Entertainment experience
Wiles organized MSU's Show

Stoppers, a group already on tour in Michigan. With Show Stoppers, who perform lighter music, and productions such as "Don Pasquale," Wiles hopes to provide performance opportunity for MSU's music students, as well as entertainment for the community.

"Don Pasquale" will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday at the John A. Hannah School. Tickets are available at the door an hour before the performance and from Fairchild box office 12:30 - 5 p.m. today through Friday. Admission is $2 for the general public, $1 for all students.

HAILSTORK EXPERTISE

Director, glee club prove musical skills in concert

By BRUCE FISHER
State News Reviewer

Adolphus Cunningham Hailstork III is the man's name, and regardless how unmelodic that moniker may be, he knows how to obtain beautiful music. Hailstork is the director of The Singing Statesmen, MSU's men's glee club, who performed their first concert of the year Sunday to a packed house at University Methodist Church.

I've been a fan of Hailstork and his musical expertise for the past year now, and Sunday's concert didn't disappoint me in the least. The men's chorus was fine, too. Admittedly, there were times when the pitch sagged, but eventually resolved itself - but the concert was more of a trial of a new director than of his chorus. The Singing Statesmen had proved their ability in the past; now it was Hailstork's turn to "show his stuff."

He passed his inaugural program cum laude. The chorus opened with Hassler's lively "Laetentur Coeli," and the Latin diction was excellent. Two more sacred works, "O Vos Omnes" by Tomas Luis de Victoria and Gounod's "Gloria," bore out the choir's ability to enunciate the Latin text with precision as well as feeling for the color of the works performed.

Randall Thompson's "The Last Words of David," a moving and exciting work by the famed composer of choral music, was then given an equally moving and exciting performance by the Statesmen. The pace slackened somewhat, however, with a notably drab number by Thomas Beveridge, "Drop, Drop Slow Tears." Fortunately, the choir perked up measurably for Jean Berger's lively "Alleluia" from his Latin-style "Brazilian Psalm." Hailstork likes to call works such as Berger's "jump numbers," and the reason was obvious after the spirited interpretation it was given. The first half of the program was rounded out with Weaver's contemporary "Psalm 98."

During intermission, the audience was favored with a fine interpretation of Debussy's "Doctor Gradus ad Parnassum," by a talented pianist, Barbara Spannaus. Miss Spannaus also accompanied the Statesmen on other numbers requiring piano.

Secular works were next on the program. The men opened with a lusty version of "Vive L'amour," followed by the contemplative "Go Lovely Rose," by Thiman. Robert Howard provided an energetic solo for Mr. Hailstork's next "jump number," "If I Got My Ticket," an old black spiritual arranged by Robert Shaw. Two of Randall Thompson's "Frostiana" works - "Stopping by the Woods" and "The Pasture," with text from the poems by Frost - were then performed with clarity and feeling. Finishing the fourth part of the concert was "He Could Only Sing A 'C'"; John Knight's somewhat dubious role as "soloist" brought down the house with applause and laughter for this comic number.

The choir and Hailstork concluded with the ambitious "Song of Democracy," by Howard Hanson. This sweeping work typifies contemporary America, and its interpretation by choir and conductor was most satisfying.

70 catalog to include U' changes

The new MSU catalog is scheduled to hit the stands within the next 30 days, according to Kermit H. Smith, asst. to the provost.

He said the 50,000 catalog will have a green and brick cover which will feature a drawing of Mount Tower.

Smith said the description of courses was printed and distributed to advisors, assistant deans and departmental officers before early registration for winter term.

Smith said changes in the catalog will include deletion of former President John A. Hannah's statement "We believe," mention of the changes in the grading system, the drop-add period, the fee schedule, the ROTC program, foreign language requirements for the Ph.D. and requirements for French and Spanish majors.

He said the catalog also will mention the new Ph.D. programs in linguistics and computer science, the new teacher education program, the tracks in University College courses, the new director of the Honors College and the new dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The first MSU catalog was published in 1857 and was handwritten, with printed catalogs being published a short time later. In 1960 the catalog was changed to its current large size.

Soviet pianist Richter to perform at concert

The Soviet pianist, Sviatoslav Richter, will perform at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the Auditorium. He will perform works by Schumann, Bartok and two Soviet composers.

Richter's program includes "Bunte Blatter, Opus 99" by Schumann, "Fifteen Hungarian Peasant Songs" by Bartok, "Two excerpts from the Cycles 'Masques', Opus 39" by Karol Szymanowski, and "Sonata No. 7 in B Flat Major, Opus 83" by Sergei Prokofiev.

Tickets for Richter's concert, presented as part of Series "A" of MSU's Lecture - Concert Series, are available at the MSU Union Ticket Office.

E. LANSING LOTS

City hikes parking rates

East Lansing City Council passed a recommendation Monday night by City Manager John M. Patriarche to revise the rate system for eight of 10 city parking lots.

A quick approval by the city fathers of the Jan. 29 request was necessitated so that automatic equipment can be installed at lot No. 1 (100 block of Albert Street) and the new parking ramp in time for the ramp's opening March 1.

The new rate for lot No. 1 - 10 cents for each one-half hour from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. and 25 cents for the period after 6:30 p.m. to 8 a.m. Monday - Saturday - will go into effect with the opening of the new ramp. Lot No. 3 (300 block of Albert) would also be subject to the proposed rates of No. 1.

Under the new rate system, the Grove Street lot will be 10 cents per half hour from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. No charge after 6:30 p.m. except on Wednesday, when East Lansing stores remain open until 9:30 p.m.

'Take the $' drags... at times

By ROBERT KIPPER
State News Reviewer

To the growing list of screen anti-heroes add the name of Virgil Starkwell, whose only regret after a life of crime is that he never made the 10 Most Wanted list.

Is Virgil complaining? Of course not. After all, he was named gangster of the year once. Besides, he explains, crime does pay. "The hours are good, you're your own boss and there's great opportunity for travel and meeting interesting people."

Ever since his childhood when he was caught heisting a bubble gum machine, Virgil has been unlucky in crime. He is apprehended for robbing a bank because the bank teller and the entire bank staff cannot read his misspelled hold - up note. He and some partners are imprisoned because they are unfortunate enough to rob a bank at the same time another gang is robbing it. In prison, he carves a gun out of soap, colors it black and fools the guards until, outside his cell, pouring rain transforms his weapon into a foaming mass of melting soap.

What makes Virgil's career so noteworthy is his refusal to get discouraged. Sentenced to 800 years in prison (400 with good behavior), Virgil calmly plans his next escape.

"Take the Money and Run" is the slapstick account of Virgil's life of bumbled crime. Its co-writer, director and star is Woody Allen. Your appreciation of the film will depend on your opinion of Allen and his particular brand of zany, ridiculous, bewildered humor because his comic stamp is on the film's every scene.

Not being too impressed with Allen as a comedian, I was consequently less than impressed with "Take the Money and Run."

The film, even to Allen fans, must appear more successful in parts than on the whole. Several episodes are extremely funny and cleverly written. When Allen's flippant, offbeat humor meshes with an equally offbeat situation the results are flawless. The already mentioned hold-up scenes are hilarious and the one in which Virgil and five other members of a chain gang make an escape chained to each other is worth remembering. Occasionally funny also are interviews with Virgil's parents who wear moustache and big nosed disguises to protect their identities.

But much of the nuttiness is overdone and many situations appear foolish. An entertaining film needs more than scattered moments of originality and "Take the Money and Run" drags more often than it soars.

Still, even though most of its comedy doesn't succeed, the film is almost engaging in its unpretentiousness. Never aspiring to be high comedy, its low keyed, seemingly spontaneous humor and spirit make "Take the Money and Run" hard to dislike.

Travel club hopes to break barriers between cultures

By JACKIE BORDEN
State News Staff Writer

Travellers All Around, a newly formed club at MSU, has a different approach to student travel. The goal of the club is to break cultural barriers by acquainting students with foreign cultures on a first-hand basis. It was formed this term by seven students, including Tony Busch, a former student who now serves as advisor.

The first trip leaves for Acapulco on March 22. The transportation includes a flight from East Lansing to the Mexican border. The remaining part of the trip is by a bus equipped with hostess and coffee shop with stops in Monterey and Mexico City.

Hotel costs, three meals a day, transportation and a 24-hour tourist service are included in the 12 day tour for $225.

Swimming, surfing, horseback riding, scuba diving, spear fishing, deep sea fishing, sky diving, parachute jumping and nite club entertainment are available at a minimal cost.

Members of the Travelers All Around serve as tour guides. Each member is required to live and work in a country one year as part of the community before he can qualify as a guide. In this manner, the guide is able to show the student traveller what other travel agencies do not - the noncommercial side of peoples' lives.

The club hopes to sponsor one trip each term. Members are now living in Europe in anticipation of a trip there soon. Students interested in signing up for the Acapulco trip should call 351-5249.

'U' construction history: money and the state

By STEPHANIE LOWE

Until the addition to Power Plant 65 is built, no new buildings, unless powered independently, can be constructed.

Power Plant 65, built in 1965, included two boilers and two generators and cost the state almost $9.89 million. The plant is now functioning at maximum capacity. The addition will house one boiler and one generator and will cost the state $9.65 million.

University Executive Vice President Jack Breslin said this is where funds are needed the most now. The proposal for construction of this addition is in the Joint Capital Outlay Sub-Committee and Breslin said he hopes that planning money will be available in 1970 or early 1971 with construction beginning in 1971.

First in a series

In addition to the almost $20 million appropriated for Power Plant 65 and its proposed addition, the state legislature has also paid nearly $50 million for other university buildings in the past 10 years. These appropriations have included $2.5 million for Ernst Bessey

Hall and $4 million for the Engineering Bldg. in 1961 - 1962.

In 1964 - 65, $6 million was given for the Chemistry Bldg. and in 1965 - 1966 the Natural Resources Bldg. was funded with $3.25 million. Wells Hall at $4.7 million, Food Science at about $4.18 million and the Library addition at almost $3.13 million were built in 1966 - 1967.

The 1968 - 69 season was both "a time of change and redirection," Roger E. Wilkinson, acting vice president for business and finance and treasurer, wrote in the 1968 - 69 Financial Report. The campus acquired a new center in the John A. Hannah Administration Bldg. Before 1969, the University's administrative operations were located at widely separated points on

The Administration Bldg. utilized state funds of $5.6 million. According to Breslin, although an administration building had been on the top of the priority list for many years, construction was delayed to allow for the building of badly needed academic facilities. It originally was to have been built on the site of the old Administration Bldg. (now Linton Hall).

"If the Administration Bldg. had been built when it was first proposed, it would have been lacking in sufficient space to house what the John A. Hannah Administration Bldg. does now. This is one case in which overlooking the priority list aided MSU," Breslin said.

Presently under construction is Life Science I at a state - appropriated sum of $4 million and a federal backing of $7 million. Life Science II and III are being proposed.

Completed during the 1968 - 1969 season were the Music Practice Bldg. and Laundry, both built with borrowed funds; the Personnel Center, the Speech and Hearing Clinic and the Pesticide Research Laboratory were built with gifts and other funds.

NEXT: A look at the University's priority system and priority buildings, two through five.

AWS CONCEPT

Coeds initiate newsletter

A new concept in campus news reporting was instituted last week by the Associated Women Students (AWS).

"MSU Woman" is a newsletter aimed at showing coeds what is happening both on and off - campus, and is concerned with increasing awareness of the individual female role. AWS sponsors hope it can be a bimonthly publication.

Editor Marie Smith, Midland graduate asst. to the Dean of Women and the Counseling Center, commented:

"Self - discovery is what education is all about. The success of 'MSU Woman' will depend on the readers - what they'll contribute - where they want it to go."

AWS sponsor Laurine Fitzgerald, Associate Dean of Students and International AWS advisor, explained that "MSU Woman" is intended to be a link in a long - range AWS program revealing the new dimensions of the '70's."

"MSU Woman" will be distributed to women's residence halls and sororities and will be posted on bulletin boards across campus.

Center offers aids for basics studies

By DONNA WILBURN
State News Staff Writer

Supplementary material for University College courses is available daily in the Learning Resources Center, 205 Bessey Hall. Records, tapes, slides, film strips and reference books can be used by students and faculty from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Materials are designed to aid students who are having difficulty in University College classes and also to provide additional information to those who have special interests in various topics.

For natural science students, rock specimens as well as slides for geology and genetics are available. Films and books illustrating plants and animals and their functions can be viewed. A celestial globe shows seasons, star constellations, earth rotations, longitude and latitude.

Social science resources consist of reference books on the subject.

The Humanities section is a library of novels, research material and works studied in the course.

Tapes of plays as well as music of the various historical periods are available. Students may also review art slides shown in class and other supplementary examples.

Plays, poems and literature are also available on tape recordings and records for the student's convenience.

The ATL section is primarily a tutoring service. Tutors are English majors who assist students requiring help in writing, reading or grammar skills. Historical references and literary works are also provided.

Students may bring rough drafts of compositions to the tutors for help in construction, revising and proofreading.

Remedial reading as well as speed reading programs are offered to suit the needs of the individual. Vocabulary - building machines and speed - reading machines also give assistance.

The Learning Resources Center, begun in 1968, is an extension of the Library's references at a more convenient location.

Faculty and staff members may check out materials for classroom use. However, students must use the resources in the study areas provided.

Speed reading

Michael Franklin, Saginaw freshman, uses the speed reading machine at the Learning Resources Room in Bessey Hall. The machine is one of the supplementary material available to help students having trouble with their University College courses. Others include tapes, slides, records and reference books.

RULING ON HOMOSEXUALS

Teachers' rights upheld

By SHIRLEY JOHNSON

State News Staff Writer

The California State Supreme Court recently upheld that a teacher's credentials could not be revoked in a homosexual incident unless proven that the incident made the teacher unfit to teach.

While Michigan courts have never handled a case of this nature, Jene Krasicky, asst. attorney general, said that if a similar case ever came to court, a comparable ruling would probably be set forth.

Ed Pfau, a member of the Dept. of Higher Education, said that teaching contracts do not require the teacher to sign or wear to an oath stating that they are not a homosexual.

Pfau said that a prospective teacher comes under scrutiny when an application for certification is made. At that time, the university at which the individual receives his degree, examines the student's record to determine if they "are of good moral character".

Kenneth L. Harding, co-ordinator of undergraduate student affairs, said that his office receives notification of a student's homosexuality only if the student has a police record.

Harding also said that the certification of a teacher is revoked only in cases which would prohibit its original issuance.

"Many homosexuals restrict their activities so they do not affect their student - teacher relationship," Harding said.

He also said that as long as homosexuals restrict their activities with consenting adult members, there is no legal basis for dismissal of the teacher.

Robert Cornwell, director of certification, said that a certificate may be revoked if the teacher is convicted of a federal offense.

Cornwell said that in the cases which might come to his attention, the individual would probably be required to work with a psychiatrist and have a provisional certificate issued to him.

The individual would then have to periodically apply for continuation of his certificate.

Mount, who ended with 41 points, got off to a slow start, hitting only 3 of his first 8 shots but picked up after that, missing only one of five shots the rest of the first half.

It was the second half however when the blond bomber went wild. The 6-4, Big 10 scoring leader hit four straight shots from the corner midway in the half that opened up a 20 point lead for Purdue.

Ralph Simpson again led the Spartans in scoring, notching 35 points, 3 above his season average of 31.6. He connected on 14 field goals and 7 free throws as he lost the built-up scoring dual to Mount by 6 points.

Rick Mount

Simpson now stands third in the all time MSU season scoring derby, with 501 points this year, only five behind runner-up Pete Gent and 99 back of Julius McCoy.

Simpson started the night out in sixth place and passed Horace Walker (473), Bill Curtis (477) and Stan Washington (490) enroute to his present spot.

Simpson received little support however as only Rudy Benjamin hit for double figures. Benjamin, who scored 21 against Minnesota last Saturday, was held to 11 points.

The Spartans jumped out to an early 4-0 lead on baskets by Simpson and Jim Gibbons but that was the last lead they had as the Boilermakers rattled off 9 points while the Spartans were held to a single free throw.

They tied it up twice at 9-9 and 13-13 but Purdue went on another hot streak and outscored MSU, 12-1, to gain a 25-14 lead. Simpson added three points to cut the Boilermaker lead to 25-17, but from here until the closing minutes of the half, the teams merely traded buckets, with Purdue's lead ranging between 8 and 10 points.

The Spartans finally hit back-to-back field goals by Pat Miller and Simpson and on a couple of occasions narrowed the lead to 6 points. But two costly turnovers and six straight points by Purdue left the Boilermakers with a 13 point lead, 49-36.

It was a frustrating night for Canakas and his squad who were virtually eliminated from any title hopes. Canakas spent a great deal of time off the bench questioning the official's calls, but as usual to no avail. The Spartans even picked up their first technical foul, as late in the second half the team bench was charged with a major foul.

The Spartans never came closer than 8 points in the second half. They rallied to trim the Boilermaker's lead to 62-54 with 8 minutes gone in the half. However, Purdue took a timeout, reorganized and went on a scoring binge, recording 13 points while the Spartans managed but two free throws by Lloyd Ward. Two more buckets by Mount opened up another 20 point Purdue lead and they coasted in the rest of the way.

Ford (17), Larry Weatherford (15) and Faerber (12) gave Mount solid support as the Boilermakers ran their conference mark to 4-2, MSU dropped to 2-4 and 6-10 overall.

THOMPSON REJOINS TEAM

Iciers prepare for Mich. Tech

By JEFF ELLIOTT
State News Sports Editor

After a bruising weekend series with Denver and a rare day off Monday, the MSU hockey team went back to work Tuesday to prepare for their coming series with Michigan Tech.

Despite the double setback over the weekend, the Spartans maintained their second-place spot in the WCHA standings with a 7-5 record. However, Coach Amo Bessone's crew won't be able to ease up anyway, as Tech and Denver are a mere half game behind the Spartans.

Going up to Houghton to play the Huskies in their small box-shaped rink can be a disaster and no one knows it better than Bessone.

"They'll definitely have the advantage because of their small rink," Bessone said. "That plus the fact that it's Winter Carnival up there this weekend and that will really put the enthusiasm and momentum in their favor."

"Tech has been playing like the Michigan Tech of old," Bessone continued. "They split with league-leading Minnesota last weekend, shutting them out in their win. Anytime you hold Minnesota scoreless, you know you've got a tough team. Minnesota Coach Glenn Sonmor told me he was happy to get a split after the way Tech played."

Don Thompson, 5-7

Don Thompson

"misunderstanding" as to Thompson's absence in the lineup for Saturday's game.

"I benched Don for the last 5 or 6 minutes of the Friday night game," Bessone said. "He (Thompson) thought that he was benched for the rest of the series and as a result didn't dress for Saturday's game. Things are all straightened out now and Donny is ready to help the team out."

Thus far this season, Thompson has contributed adequately in the point-production department. He has accounted for 24 points in 16 games, notching 8 goals and 16 assists. In the opening game with Denver he scored one goal and added two assists.

Nicknamed "Zippy" because of his quickness on the ice, Thompson started out the season as the Spartans' No. 1 center. Bessone called Thompson "a complete player who can do it all... has the equipment and the experience to become a WCHA super star."

Thompson and his teammates will need as much zip and teamwork as they can muster this weekend to knock off the Huskies.

IN FINAL 'S' SEASON

Ouellet 'most improved' wrestler

By GARY WALKOWICZ
Executive Sports Editor

The end of a varsity career for a high school or college athlete sometimes produces a malady known as "senioritis" when the competitor loses a little of his enthusiasm after several years of varsity competition.

But the last season of an athletic career can also produce the opposite effect as evidenced by the strong showing this season of Ron Ouellet, MSU's 150-pound wrestler.

Ouellet, 16-7-1 a year ago, has recorded 14 victories without a loss this year.

"Ron and Pat Karlake (another senior who has come on strong this year) are the most improved wrestlers on our team this season," MSU Coach Grady Peninger said. "We've been very happy with their performances."

Peninger said it was hard to pin down the reasons for Ouellet's surge this season, but he suspects the thought of ending his career may be a big part of the answer.

"Frequently, a man will come to his senior year and suddenly realize that he has no more chances after this one. This is it."

"Until his senior season an athlete can always say 'Well, I'll do better next year', but now there are no more 'next years' to look forward to and it brings out the best in him."

"Ron is certainly a more determined wrestler this year." Ouellet's determination led him to a victory in the 150-pound event at the Midlands Tournament, where he beat Michigan's Lane Headrick in the finals.

His MSU mark is officially 9-0 because those five Midlands' wins were garnered while he was wrestling independently as far as the Spartan team score was concerned.

Ouellet's individual record ranks as the best on the team, since the only other unbeaten regular, Karlake, has a pair of ties in his 15 matches.

Peninger cited speed and strength as two of the strong points in Ouellet's wrestling.

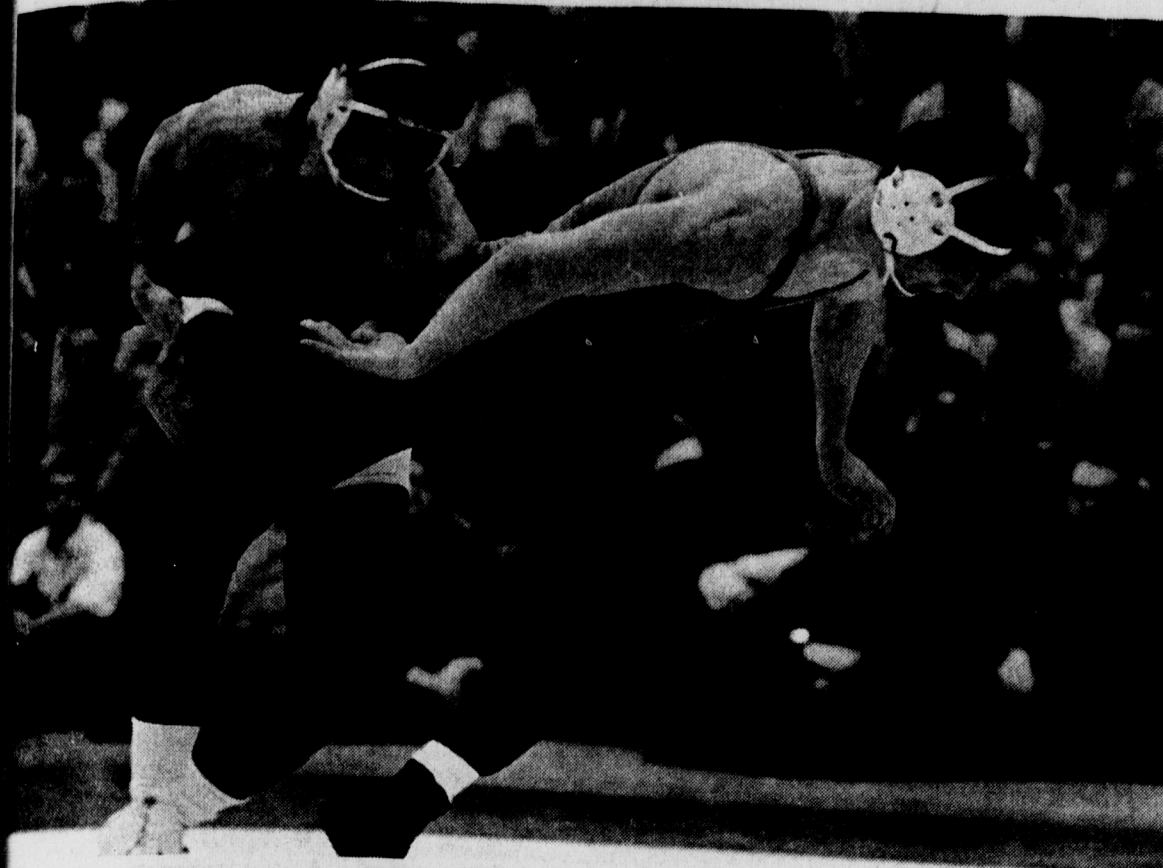

"Pound for pound, he's probably the fastest guy on the team and he's one of our strongest wrestlers for his size," Peninger said.

"These skills are just newly used, not newly found," the Spartan coach added.

Ouellet will be earning his third 'S' monogram this season. He won his first as a sophomore, although he wasn't a regular performer, wrestling eight matches and finishing with a 1-6-1 mark.

Ouellet came to MSU by way of Weymouth, Mass., where he was a two-time state champion and was named the "Outstanding Wrestler" in Massachusetts after his senior season.

At Weymouth High School, he was a very versatile athlete, lettering in four other sports (football, cross country, tennis, and track) besides wrestling.

Headed the way

Spartan wrestler Ron Ouellet has been headed in a fine direction all season as he has posted a perfect 9-0 mark for the Spartans. Above Ouellet has a firm hold on Oklahoma State's Bill Campbell.

Spartan gymnasts take on Iowa in final home contest

By JOHN VIGES
State News Sports Writer

The MSU gymnastics team reaches the midway point of its season Saturday when they host the defending NCAA champions, the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The meet will be the final home event for the Spartans as they finish the season with five away meets. The Iowa meet will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the IM Sports Arena.

The Hawks will bring an undefeated team to East Lansing, but have not been as impressive in their wins. They have beaten Wisconsin, Ohio State and Indiana for their 3-0 record.

These three teams are not gymnastic powerhouses, as witnessed by their low team scores this season. Iowa was able to win the Indiana and Ohio State meets with scores of only 150.8 and couldn't even match that figure against the Badgers.

In contrast, MSU has lost two meets where they scored at least 155. Chicago Circle defeated the Spartans 156.55 to 155.25 and Illinois dumped them by the narrow margin of 158.30 to 157.45 last weekend.

The Hawkeyes have not been at full strength yet this year. All-around man Dean Showalter has been out two weeks and he may be hampered against MSU because of a wrist injury. He is expected to compete however. He will be joined by Phil Farnum, a top man on the horizontal bar and long horse vault, who also missed a meet.

"This will be the first time we have had the whole team together," Iowa coach Michael Jacobson said. "We feel that we can win but it is important that we all hit. The kids will be up for a good meet."

Three Hawkeyes who have not been injured and are expected to give the Spartans all they can handle are Rich Scorza, Ken Liehr and Barry Sloten.

Scorza is a fine all-around man who is off to a good start. He has scored over 53.0 this season which is close to a 9.0 average per event. Sloten's top event is the floor exercise. Last year in the Big Ten finals he was runner-up to MSU's eventual national champion Toby Towson. Liehr was the NCAA runner-up on the side horse and this year he has turned in a 9.5 score.

Frosh seek 8th win in ND battle tonight

The MSU frosh cagers will venture down to Notre Dame tonight for their second road game of the season. The frosh will be seeking their eighth straight win in the contest, having yet to suffer defeat.

Notre Dame will go into the game with a record of three wins and five losses. Michigan, whom the Spartans defeated last week, was one of the five victors over the Irish.

With an accent on offensive discipline, Notre Dame face the Spartan frosh with a team of average size. Starting at center for the Irish is 6-7 Bill Hinga. At a forward post will be the team's top scorer, 6-3 Don Silinski, who has been hitting for an average of 25 points per game. The other forward will be 6-6 Steve Prechtel. The smallest member of the starting five, 6-0 Gary Trick, will be situated at one of the guard spots. The other guard will be 6-4 Bill Lucas, who will be competing in his first game of the year. Up to this point, Lucas had been on the sidelines with mononucleosis.

The Spartans will encounter the Irish with its towering front line of Jeff VanderLende (6-8) and Brian Breslin (6-6). They have been averaging 18.7 and 21.8 points, respectively. The center will be 6-9 Jim Shereda, who has been hitting for 6.8 points a contest. Gary Ganakas, accounting for 9.1 points per outing, and Larry Ike, with 14.2 points a match, will be at the guard spots.

"SEND" A VALENTINE VIA CLASSIFIED ADS THIS YEAR!

Special Valentine Page

you can start a whole new world of understanding and warmth with a Classified Valentine to your favorite prof, roommate, little sister, big brother, or sweetheart.

A Valentine page with the theme "LOVE makes the world go-round," will run in the Classified Advertising section of the State News on Friday the 13th.

This is a unique way to publicly acknowledge your sentiments on this traditional day. Now is the time to start to compose your Valentine Message. Come in today, Room 347, an ad later will be glad to assist you in writing your Valentine. Cost is low, $3.00 for 1" or $5.00 for 2" of space. Remember... it's a page devoted only to Valentines and will have lots of red hearts throughout. Deadline-Wed., Feb. 11, 3 p.m.
