Antiwar resolutions passed outlining NSA peace tactics

By JOHN BORGER State News Staff Writer

After two days of bickering over specific trategies of antiwar activity, delegates to e National Student Assn. (NSA) congress te Saturday approved a resolution which lows a little bit of everything.

The resolution mandates NSA to: • Sponsor or help to sponsor local ducational programs for the "promotion antiwar, antiracism and antipoverty

• Help organize National Peace Petition Week (Oct. 3-10) to raise $10 million and 20 million signatures to support mass media peace appeals to the American

• Help coordinate an Emergency National Teach-In on War and Repression, scheduled for some time this fall:

 Support the Aug. 20 chicano antiwar moratorium in Los Angeles;

• And, as a last resort: "If the war has not ended by May 1, 1971, NSA will commit itself to a concerted expansion of massive nonviolent action, including civil disobedience, at the national, local and regional level.'

The delegates also instructed and NSA national staff to consult with local and regional groups in planning specific actions in all the above areas. The resolution passed 214-50-13, on a roll call vote.

"The wording of the resolution is unclear because nobody knows what the situation will be at that point (May 1)," NSA President Charles Palmer said.

The congress also instructed the president of NSA, who is scheduled to be elected Tuesday night, to negotiate a peace treaty with (North and South) Vietnamese students. The treaty would be brought back to America for referendum on all college campuses, and submitted to the United Nations General Assembly.

"I imagine it'll be something simple like 'We won't fight you if you won't fight us," Palmer said. Palmer has been to Siagon and spoken with Vietnamese students this Passage of Saturday's resolution followed two days of rejection of specific antiwar proposals, the most - discussed of which was radical Rennie Davis' plan for massive civil disobedience in Washington, D.C.,

May 1. Debate on Davis' proposal eventually included over a hundred delegates and several featured speakers.

"I can't advocate violence because I'm not prepared to lead it," journalist Seymour Hersh said Thursday. "But I'm afraid it may be necessary."

United Auto Workers (UAW) President Leonard Woodcock Saturday called the plan "an act of fantasy." "It is an act of stupidity to take on a fight against absolutely impossible odds,"

Bernie Grofman, a graduate student at the University of Chicago, said delegates must mean what they say in their resolutions and act on them as individuals. "I am like most delegates," he said. "I

Milliken outlines plan to prevent drug abuse

By IRENE PINCKES State News Staff Writer

Gov. Milliken outlined a seven - point plan Sunday to stop drug abuse and prevent "illegal drug sales by persons largely concerned with money and with no concern about the drug culture they foster." He also announced the acquisition of the Detroit Marine hospital to provide drug rehabilitation facilities for the whole

Speaking on radio and television from the Capitol the Governor urged parents to know for sure where their children are and what they are doing.

The governor added that "the major share of the responsibilities of teaching the dangers of drug use rests squarely and heavily on the shoulders of parents.'

Governor Milliken said he met Sunday afternoon with health, law enforcement and other state officials to discuss the recent Goose Lake Rock Festival and resulting drug abuse problems.

He expressed concern about the "blatant flaunting of drug laws at Goose Lake and said that State Police were inside the park gathering evidence for drug law violation

The governor said that rock festivals are such a new phenomena on the American scene "that methods of policing them or controlling the size of the crowds for protecting and preventing illegal drug sales, for providing medical care have not yet fully been developed."

"Such methods and such proceedures are urgently needed and are being developed by state officials now," the Governor

The plan for cracking down on the drug problem includes supporting the Jackson County prosecutor and his injunction against the Goose Lake Rock Festival currently being planned for Labor Day.

The Governor made it clear that he does not oppose rock festivals but he is firmly against the illegal use of dangerous drugs at such festivals

"If we can't have rock festivals without drug abuse then we will not have rock festivals at all," the governor said.

The Governor's plan also requires permits for future mass gatherings with strict enforceable regulations. Also a uniform law enforcement approach is being drawn up by the Attorney General's office to aid local governments in strict enforcement of the law.

The Governor added that a plan is also being developed by state officials "for detaining and processing large numbers of arrested persons, if that should become necessary.

The State Police are also working closely with federal narcotics agencies and those in other states to halt the flow of illegal drugs into Michigan because the Governor said that "well over half the drugs at Goose Lake came from other states.

INCREASING NEED

Water sources failing

By LARRY MONROE

The underground supply of water which has served Lansing area residents since the early 1900s is diminishing and may be a serious problem in 20 years.

Niles R. Kevern, chairman of the Dept. of Fisheries and Wildlife, said that more water is being taken from underground wells than is being replaced by rain and snow. He says that precipitation, the primary source of replenishment, has remained relatively constant over the years while the demand for water has increased. He estimates that at the current rate of consumption, the underground supply will become a crucial problem in 15 or 20 years. In the meantime, researchers are considering other sources of water for human consumption.

"In the early 1900s the Lansing area contained a great deal of swamp land, and the natural water supply was located just below the surface," Kevern said. "Today water is being pumped from underground wells located about 200 feet below the surface."

Local municipalities are aware of this problem and they are monitoring the water supply on a regular basis, he said.

One of the alternative water sources

under consideration is the use of recharge basin. After it was determined that a particular underground area is suitable for storing a large supply of water, a basin would be dug on the surface and filled with (please turn to page 6)

Dem convention backs Stevens for trustee job

By JEFF SHELER State News Staff Writer

Ingham County Democrats were successful in their attempt to display party unity at the county convention Saturday as they reached unanimous decisions on several issues and hotly debated only a few. The delegates, numbering about 500, adopted two resolutions endorsing MSU

Board of Trustees Chairman Donald Stevens of Okemos and Pat Carrigan of Ann Arbor for the Democratic nominations for the MSU Board. The convention also endorsed Lansing attorney H. James Starr, who is running for a position on the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

The emotional peak of the convention came early when county chairman James A. Harrison announced his resignation effective Sept. 2. Harrison, who said he was resigning due to personal problems, then left the convention to a standing ovation.

The delegates then selected fromer MSU president Watler Adams as chairman for the remainder of the convention.

One of the few divisive moments occurred when the women's liberation segment of the party proposed a resolution to withhold the party's support from one county candidate who they accused of appealing to "latent prejudices" during the primary campaign.

Charles E. "Hap" Brooks, a candidate for county commissioner, was criticized for publishing campaign literature that said the commission's job "should not be put in the hands of a woman who has figured no more than the family budget.'

His opponent in the primary was Mrs. Jean McDonald. Brooks, a former Republican, will face Republican incumbent Raymond W. Burgess in November.

The delegates turned down part of the resolution that would have withheld the party's support from Brooks but passed a portion that warned candidates against unfair campaign practices in the future.

The vote came after Elizabeth Santos, East Lansing senior and a women's liberation leader, agreed to give Brooks a second chance. She said later she regretted her concession

Another issue that drew brief fire was a resolution calling for records of mental patients to be destroyed once the patient had been discharged from a hospital. Arguments over whether the resolution's author was qualified to call for destroying medical records finally ended when the resolution was tabled. Other resolutions that passed with little difficulty called for:

Not interested in facts; Congress scorns report

known to go to great lengths to colossally, the effect was staggering. protect their sacred right to be

The newest threat looming on the social horizon is the findings of the presidential commission on pornography. Many of the conclusions drawn from its two year study were most unexpected. They include:

• The upsurge of pronographic material during the 1960s brought no corresponding growth in sex crimes.

• Studies of juvenile delinquents show no difference between their experience with "smut" and the experience of nondelinquents.

 No cases could be found where pornography caused sexual aggression, homosexuality or sexual abuse of children.

In a nutshell: dirty movies are no worse for the public morality than John Wayne flicks. The presidential commission has confirmed the findings of the Danish government and the opinion of liberal thinkers that pornography is simply "no big thing." In fact, if the Danish experience is to be taken as a sample exercise in unrestricted pronography, it is fair to assume that the only thing that makes pornography attractive is that it is quasi - illegal and quasi - immoral.

Congress, climbing out from under a heap of slain sacred cows, has "foul" anyway. The

> Among the more ludicrous denounciations of the commission's conclusions is President Nixon's implication that he might not accept the findings because the commission was apppointed by Lyndon Johnson. It is not clear how the genesis of the $2 million commission could have any bearing on the validity of its findings.

> If our good government men are not prepared to accept conclusions of blue ribbon commissions, why do they spend taxpayer's money on so many of them? It would be far easier, and cheaper, to ascertain the laws of the universe by consensus. Once a year, for example, the government could hold a nationwide binding plebiscite to determine whether pornography causes social deviation, if pot is addictive and whether the earth is flat.

> This system would have a dual advantage. On the one hand, it would eliminate all dissent about the nature of truth and the hidden workings of the cosmos. On the other hand it would legitimize what many members of Congress have been enjoying all along.

And once the nature of things was established, Congress could call the heretical commission on pornography on the carpet and force the members to recant. After all, Galileo was forced to do so.

The cost of loan subsidies is becoming an unmanageable charge against the federal

Up to this point the administration has not had much success with Democrats who control the Education Committees in the House and Senate. They have argued that:

• There is no persuasive evidence that many students are finding it impossible to get the loans.

• The revisions proposed by President Nixon to reduce the cost of the program would hit hard at the middle class which already is bearing a heavy burden on college expenses.

College officials will testify this week before the subcommittee that deals with the program.

The outcome may hinge on how many potential students complain to their congressmen in the next three weeks the they can not get loans.

The administration has suggested that National Student Loan Assn. be created to solve the situation. The association would have capital guaranteed by the government to serve as a secondary market for the

UAW chief blasts Viet war costs

DETROIT (UPI) - United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said Sunday the Vietnam war has cost the United States 8.8 - million man years of labor, has reduced workers' real wages and has intensified unemployment problems.

In a 75-page statement submitted at the request of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Woodcock focused on the impact of the Southeast Asian war on the American workingman.

"The cost has been very great for the American economy," he said. "Just in money terms, it has been at least $150 billion.

"But far more important has been the waste of manpower, not only through the number of men put into uniform, but through the number in both government and private employment servicing and supplying the Vietnam war," the UAW president

The almost nine- million manyears of wasted labor otherwise could have been used to "produce goods and services for the use of the American people," Woodcock said.

Woodcock suggested numerous changes in national policy which he said would help meet the nation's real needs.

He began with a reiteration of the UAW's proposal for government to develop a conversion program that would offer workers an alternative to military production and would insure the maintenance of payrolls. Unemployment, he said, is greater that the official count of approximately four million.

Adding persons not counted under present techniques of the Dept. of Labor would raise the true total "closer to 5.5 million," he said.

Other suggestions offered by Woodcock were aimed at problems of manpower policy, technology, training programs, relocation of workers, protection of workers' civil rights, full employment, a price - wage review board and overall national planning.

HEW funds finance education program

By JIM ADAMS

Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare this summer is financing the training of 15 MSU students who will teach pre - kindergarten and early elementary children in the Lansing area this fall.

The project is part of HEW's Head Start and Follow through programs. The purpose of these programs is to place qualified teachers in schools located in urban or rural poverty areas.

The cost of the program is being met by a $43,794 grant which was awarded to Lansing by HEW for Head Start and Followthrough, according to Ed Pfau, Michigan HEW coordinator.

"There were only six to eight grants made last year to Michigan cities," Pfau said. "Lansing was fortunate to get one of them."

The 15 MSU trainees and three alternates will pick up 18 credits this summer at MSU. At the end month of student teaching.

"Three thousand dollars of the grant will be used to evaluate the program," Griffith said.

The project will train teachers for 15 classrooms in six Lansing schools and three public housing projects.

"We are training 15 teachers who will be teaching 235 children in deprived areas in Lansing," Griffith said. "In addition, the program allows for three back-up trainees in case some of the trainees drop out of the program."

My Lai writer blames military

By JOHN BORGER State News Staff Writer

Seymour Hersh, Pulitzer Prize - winning journalist for his expose of the My Lai 4 massacre, told delegates to the National Student Assn. (NDA) congress in St. Paul, Minn., Thursday that wartime atrocities are the result of the "very corrupt institution" which is the Army.

"Collectively, there something very evil," Hersh said. 'But when you try to break it down, it gets very vague."

Hersh said he does not believe the soldiers involved in My Lai 4 should be found guilty as individuals.

"They weren't murderers when they went over," he said. "They quickly became."

Hersh briefly recounted to events surrounding My La including some incidents which have been uncovered since the publication of his book ar some which were not deeme suitable for "good clean family entertainment."

Hersh's account sketched the massacre of 431 Vietnames including 112 children, some to young to walk.

One development which is just coming to light, Hersh said, that two days after the My L massacre, five officers met South Vietnam to discuss the incident. The seven report which came out of that meeting however, failed to produce a investigation.

"Fourteen different agencie three Vietnamese and 1 American, got reports on the incident," Hersh said. "The was more to it than just a Army cover-up."

One delegate asked if Hen had considered giving the peac movement some of the mone he made from his My Lai storie Hersh responded that he facing $110 million worth o lawsuits from persons named i those stories. He said he neve expects to see the money from his My Lai book because th publisher is withholding pending settlement of the suit

"Besides, I won't apologize to making money," he said. "That the way I earn a living."

"I am not objective," Herr said concerning his reporting." hate the Vietnam war. This doe not mean I will distort the facts."

DEVASTATING DEFENSE

All-Stars blast Wyoming, 49-0

By JEFF ELLIOTT State News Sports Editor

It was devastating to say the least. In what was supposed to be a good test for the defense, the Lansing All - Star secondary picked off six passes and the linemen recovered three fumbles Saturday as the Stars pasted a 49-0 defeat on the Wyoming Chiefs.

Everything Wyoming tried on offense in the first half either resulted in no gain or a loss of ball. The Chiefs had the ball for only 21 plays the entire first half, and on nine of those plays they turned the ball over to the All - Stars either by fumble, interception

While the defense spent most of the night on the bench, the offense put on an awesome show of their own. Alternating his backs throughout the night, quarterback Charley Wedemeyer engineered three long drives in the first half and had a fourth fumbled away at the six yard line. The former MSU quarterback / flanker only completed three of seven passes in the first half, but two went to end Bob Lange for touchdowns.

Running back Jim Garrett, another ex-Spartan great, made good use of the halfback option pass as he tossed a 44 yard scoring bomb to flanker Tom Jakovac on the sixth play of the game to set a precedent for the rest of the night.

Dick Kenney, who amazed collegiate teams and fans with his barefoot kicking at MSU a couple of years ago, added the first of his five extra points in the game. Kenney was making his first appearance of the season after vacationing in his home in Hawaii.

The All - Stars second score of the game came with just under two minutes left in the first quarter. Wedemeyer dodged an onrushing Wyoming lineman and hit Lange perfectly from 12 yards out.

After the Wedemeyer - to Lange combo connected for the third Stars' score, George Chatlos put on a one-man show resulting in the final Lansing TD on

Wyoming had possession of the ball on their own six, following a Garrett fumble. On the first play, Chatlos met the ball carrier coming around right end, jarred him loose of the ball, then outscrapped the Wyoming player for the ball and promptly waltzed in the end zone untouched. Kenney's kick made it 26-0

Though Head Coach Turf Kauffman substituted

Wyoming offense continued. Safety Bob Super pick off a stray pass on the third play of the second half and 11 plays later, Ernie Pasteur capped a 55 ya drive with a burst up the middle from 16 yards out Reserve defensive back Gary Tompkins made the most of his playing time Saturday as he picked off Wyoming pass and scampered 20 yards for the sixth Lansing score of the night. Not to be out done cornerback Gordy Hetrick got the sixth and find interception of the night and turned it into the fine score of the game also by racing 43 yards down the sideline untouched. Ron Goovert and Joe Gavel also had interceptions for the Stars while Scott Emlor and Dave Porter recovered the other two Wyomin

In all the All - Stars ground attack gained 274 yard in 47 attempts with Garrett, Pasteur, Kermit Smi and Dick Allen all having good nights. Through the air, the Stars' passing game netted 5 of 13 passes for 77 yards and three scores.

The All - Stars, who ran their season record to 4 and 15 straight over a two - year period, will travely Pontiac next Saturday to take on the Pontis
