AT YOUTH CONFERENCE

Task force proposes end to Indochina war

WASHINGTON (AP) — A task force of the White House Conference on Youth, called by President Nixon, will urge the group to endorse immediate and complete withdrawal from the Indochina War.

That is one of the few proposals likely to embarrass Nixon, among ten task force reports prepared for the gathering next week in Estes Park, Colo.

The papers range over such diverse subjects as Appalachian coal mining and the mechanics of sex education. But the major storm cloud hanging over the conference is in the report on unemployment and the

"We propose that the Indochina war be made the first order of business . . . and call for an immediate and complete withdrawal from the conflict," says the report, adding:

"It has become clear that the Indochina war is an overwhelming issue with ramifications in many areas being explored by the conference . . . We have tried to look beyond the war, but we keep coming back to

The war's impact runs through many of the reports.

A task force on the draft recommends establishing an all - volunteer armed force by June 30, 1972. One member of the task force, Asst. Secretary of Defense Roger T. Kelley, explained his differences with some aspects of the report in an appendix.

The report, says Kelley, "contains a fine discussion on why military conscription is inconsistent with our national heritage of individual liberty" but "I would have preferred that it also stressed the responsibility of our citizens to defend the nation."

A report on foreign relations calls for increasing the rate of withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam but mentions no specific numbers or deadlines. Other recommendations in the reports

• Expansion of drug - control programs in the armed forces and "acceptance and toleration of unconventional drug programs run and controlled by individuals involved in the drug subculture."

 A dual minimum wage; one rate for adults and another for youths.

• Changing the legal age of adulthood to

• The Appalachian coal industry should be either Appalachianized or nationalized and strip mining should be abolished."

The reports will form the basis of discussion for 1,500 delegates, of whom two - thirds are between the ages of 14 and 24.

There has been a White House Conference on Children and Youth every ten years since 1909. This is the first time it has been divided into two parts, the Conference on Children having been held last December in Washington.

UN predicts 252 million in U.S. by 1985

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - U.N. experts predict that there will be more than a billion people in Communist China by the year 1990 and more than a billion in India by the year 2000, when the world's population will total almost 61/2 billion. Those and other projections by the U.N. Population Division are in the latest issue of the Monthly Bulletin of Statistics, circulated here this past weekend.

The latest comparable U.N. estimates of actual population, for mid - 1969, are 740 million for Communist China, 537 million for India and 31/2 billion for the world.

The projections show that the world's population will top 4 billion by 1975; nearly 5 billion by 1985; 51/2 billion by 1990 and 6 billion by 1995, and 6.49 billion in 2000. Between 1975 and 2000, they indicate, the population of the world's more developed regions will go from 1.14 billion to 1.45 billion and that of the less developed regions from 2.87 billion to 5 billion. Meanwhile, mainland China's tally will rise from 825 million in 1975 to 1.03 billion in 1990 and 1.16 billion in 2000, and India's

We base this estimate on the friendly spirit with which Chinese from Shumchun to the Chinese capital received the 15 members of the U.S. table tennis team Saturday. We are the first U.S. correspondents ever given visas as working newsmen, officials here told us. The table tennis team was the first American group of any kind invited to the mainland since the People's Republic was proclaimed in 1949.

British psychiatrist calls American men 'sissies

Back from a month - long tour across the United States, the Vienna - born psychiatrist said he had changed his mind since making a previous survey in 1964 when he said American women were domineering.

"Before I thought that the women wanted to rule the country," he said in an interview. "I changed that opinion. Women are compelled to take over, not fighting to take over."

And, he said, "I thought the men who attended some seminars I spoke at with their wives would shoot me for my remarks - but instead they all agreed with me.

"It's still the fatherless society. The husbands are no husbands," he said. "All the women are crying out for a strong man and he's just

"In that competitive society the men are so tired when they come home they are only too happy to let their wives take over all the responsibility for home and children.

Dr. Bierer, chairman of the International Association of Social Psychiatry and former superintendent of a London hospital for mentally disturbed people, said he found the youth of America stimulating.

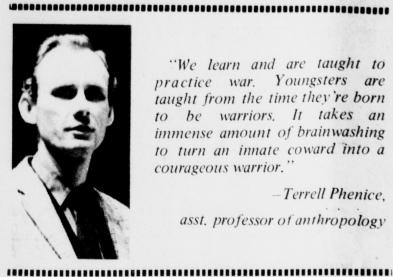

"But," he said, "they are confused.

"I met with them at two communes - one in New York and one in Vermont - and found some very fine young people, many sons and daughters of wealthy people. They were just dissatisfied with the rat race and felt there was something more important in life than just money and coming home from work tired. I still believe a youth movement of constructive rebellion can save the United States. Now the country is in a mess."

Easter Sunday observed

From the jungles of Vietnam to the crowded streets of Jerusalem, Christians around the world celebrated Easter Sunday. In a world of strife, hope was expressed for a day without war.

Thousands of Roman Catholics, Protestants, Greek Orthodox and Jews observed their holy holidays Sunday in an intermingling of religious faith.

For them all, the Holy City was the center of Easter, Palm Sunday and Passover celebrations.

The Nixons attended Easter services Sunday at a little Methodist Church in Thusmont, Md. and heard a preacher who works partime for the White House pray tht God give this country's leaders "the wisdom, determination and the will to do Thy bidding."

Moves made in Mideast

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan came out in favor Sunday in Tel Aviv of a partial settlement with Egypt which would involve an Israeli troop withdrawal from the Suez Canal area.

But he stipulated there would have to be a permanent cease - fire on the waterway, an end to the state of belligerency, and that "no Soviet or Egyptian troops will cross the canal."

At the same time Pentagon sources say Russia may have introduced its newest and best jet fighter, the Mig23, into Egypt amid an apparent standstill in diplomatic efforts to solve the Arab - Israeli dispute.

Fighting continues in Ceylon

Ceylon's army forces battled young rebels in Colombo and scattered parts of the nation Sunday. Hospitals here were ordered to forego routine surgery to handle government casualties.

The government reimposed 24 - hour curfews on eight administrative districts where fighting was reported the heaviest. There are in the southern, north central and central provinces of this island nation.

The rebels claim Ceylon's leftist government is not moving fast enough toward full socialism. They also complain about unemployment.

Nader force hits government

Ralph Nader's Task Force on Water Pollution Sunday accused the federal government - and especially the Federal Water Quality Administration - of contributing to a declining purity of water by failure to act vigorously against polluters.

Since the federal government became involved in water - pollution control in 1956, Nader said in Washington, "It's effectiveness to date can be concisely assessed by the virtual absence of any evidence that the seven laws passed and more than $3 billion spent by the federal government have reduced the level of pollution in any major body of

Separatists draw complaints

A black separatist group's dedication of land as the first step in a plan to establish an independent nation has drawn complaints and warnings from Mississippi officials.

The group, called the Republic of New Africa, was formed in Detroit and has for years talked of setting up a separate black nation.

Members appeared in the Jackson, Miss. area last month, and on March 28, 150 of them - including armed sentries - dedicated the land for the capital of their new republic which they say eventually will include five Southern states.

Law would limit authority

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee may act shortly on legislation to limit the president's authority to commit U.S. forces overseas - without hearing testimony from the Nixon administration.

The reason: inability to agree on a time for testimony on the subject by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The committee has been trying for some weeks to get a commitment from the secretary to testify on three measures dealing with the subject.

Copters supply besieged base Fire Base 6 has been under attack since March 31 by element

SAIGON (AP) - Nearly a dozen U.S. helicopters broke through a ring of North Vietnamese fire Sunday to resupply Fire Base 6, a frontier South Vietnamese artillery outpost under siege for 12

The rest of the resupply mission, involving about 20 helicopters, was called back after one chopper was shot down. Its four - man crew was rescued.

U.S. B52 Stratofortresses pounded North Vietnamese positions around Fire Base 6 for the fifth consecutive day. Two waves of the bombers unloaded 180 tons of explosives within less than two miles of the base, located about 300 miles north of Saigon near the border juncture of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

North Vietnamese troops attacked a South Vietnamese armored column several miles east of the base with rocket propelled grenades and small arms. One South Vietnamese soldier was killed, four were wounded and one vehicle was damaged heavily,

Associated Press photographer Neal Ulevich reported from Pleiku, 50 miles to the south, that an early morning attempt to resupply Fire Base 6 failed after the North Vietnamese let one helicopter through and then opened fire on the others.

The helicopter that reached the base hovered over it while crewmen kicked out cannisters of water to the less than two battalions of defenders below. This relieved a water shortage at Allied artillery and fighter - bombers pounded suspected North Vietnamese positions in the mountainous jungles through the day and then a second resupply mission of about 16 to 20 helicopters was sent in. In the air attacks, an F100 Supersabre jet failed to clear a ridge and crashed. The pilot was missing.

Ulevich reported that eight to 10 helicopters got through, but the others were called back after the one helicopter was shot down halfway through the mission. Maj. William E. Adams, 31, Craig, Colo., was commander of the downed helicopter.

ORMOSA, TOKYO DEBATE

Wharton denies trustee push

By JOHN BORGER State News Staff Writer

President Wharton said Friday the appointment of Leslie W. Scott of Chicago as a special consultant for fund - raising activities is not an attempt to offset trustee criticism of his own fund raising abilities.

"Mr. Scott and I have been discussing his taking on this assignment for the last year," Wharton said in an interview. "In fact, I approached him with the suggestion in December, 1969,

"The majority of the trustees were aware of this," he added. Wharton said the appointment was delayed until March 19 trustee meeting because Scott was not available until then. Scott, who is a vice president of Amfac, Inc., will continue in that position while serving as Wharton's unpaid consultant.

"In my mind, he was the ideal person for the position, and I felt I would rather wait for him than put someone else in," Wharton

Wharton said he heard of Scott through Scott's many varied activities in the MSU Alumni Assn.

Alumni donations represent a potential source of revenue which the University has not fully utilized in the past, Wharton said. He pointed out that alumni contributions to the University went up this year, despite a decline in giving by alumni of other universities across the country.

"Despite other factors, this increase in giving is an indication of great alumni affection for the University," Wharton said. Other factors which might also account in part for the increase in alumni contributions include the rising level of alumni incomes, the increased number of University graduates within recent years and the relatively low level of past alumni contributions.

Although Scott will not be paid, his appointment by the board of trustees gives him official status to carry out his duties, Wharton said.

Wharton described Scott's assignment as twofold: To review the existing organization and structure of the University's private fund - raising efforts, with particular attention to the work of the Alumni Development Fund and see how this structure relates to the academic structure, and to develop preliminary plans for a major capital fund - raising drive.

Scott is particularly well - qualified to do this because of his work with the academic, administrative and alumni sides of the University operation, Wharton said.

"We have never had a good hard look at the private fund raising structure and how it relates to the University's administrative structure," Wharton said. "Mr. Scott will be taking

Committee's decision: unacceptable answers

Last week the University Business Affairs Committee voted not to support three proposals submitted by Campaign GM, "project on corporate responsibility." In so doing the committee committed an act of moral abdication.

Proposal 1 would have required the General Motors Corp. to allow any shareholder to nominate candidates in advance for the company's board of directors. At present only company nominated candidates are placed on the written ballot. Shareholders are limited to making verbal nominations from the floor at stockholders meetings. This gives corporate approved individuals a marked edge over other contenders.

Proposal 2 would mandate the creation of three additional "constituent" directors who would be nominated by and representative of the interests of employes, consumers and dealers. The intent here is to insure that the Genral Motors Corp. will be more responsive to the needs and desires of the three constituencies.

Thirdly, Campaign GM proposed that the company be required "to disclose in its annual report data in the three areas of immense concern to shareholders and the public: air pollution control, auto - safety, and minority - hiring and franchising practices."

The benefit from this appears twofold. In addition to making the corporation more sensitive to the public good, it would have established a powerful precedent, since General Motors is the largest business concern in the United States except for the federal government.

In rationalizing the Business Affairs Committee's actions one member stated that voting MSU's shares is not the proper way to exhibit concern, and that the proposals seemed unworkable or ineffective. They selected instead to express their position in a letter to the MSU Board of Trustees.

These answers are unacceptable. In a nation based upon democratic principle it seems inconceivable that the members of the Business Affairs Committee would consider a direct and legimate vote as an inappropriate means of expressing concern. Indeed, what other way is there that is not at least a partial cop-out?

Perhaps the prevailing wisdom of the second proposal can be debated, but the other two issues stand on firm ground. The contention that it would be inappropriate to require pollution reports from GM because the corporation is not the only polluter sidesteps the main issue. The crusade must begin somewhere - and the University does not own any other automotive stock.

Further arguments contend that the 5,000 plus shares owned by MSU constitute but a drop in the barrel of the General Motors corporate holding. However the intent of Campgain GM has not so much been actually to win the proxy fight as to compel responsible change by bringing pressure to bear on the corporation. In part, similar effort last year resulted in the election of GM's first black director.

In sum, it seems that the Business Affairs Committee has chosen to stick its collective head into the sand for fear of enraging the mighty General Motors Corp. Such an act hardly befits an academic institution pledged to furthering the public good.

Which undesirables do we keep off Capitol?

Apparently someone at the Capitol is getting upset about rowdy demonstrators upsetting the state's nerve center. Consequently the state Dept. of Administration has proposed a number of new Capitol security

In effect the measures, if adopted, will make Capitol security much tighter. Security officers would be authorized to remove from any state building any person or group at any time. They could even refuse to admit them. Security officers would be allowed to, if necessary, lock doors to state buildings even during working hours. The proposed regulations would also prohibit erection of tents on Capitol grounds without proper authoriztion.

Also under the rules security guards would have the power to inspect all briefcases and packages on the grounds, all animals except seeing eye dogs would be barred and soliciting would be prohibited.

Supposedly the new security rules were proposed because of "unpleasant" experiences in the past with tent villages, motorcycle rallies and large student demonstrations. However, it seems as if these occurences have had little effect on the efficiency of the governmental labor force; the Capitol is just as inefficient as ever.

Although some of the individual regulations may be necessary, as a package, the new regulations seem more like a device to keep "undesirable" elements out of the Capitol. The mere presence of a few longhairs indeed annoys quite a few people, and some of those people may be exerting their influence in this case.

An opportunity has been provided for the public at large to exert its own influence. Hearings on the proposed security rules will be held April 21. Be there. The only way to really keep undesirables out of the Capitol would be to hold recall elections.

POINT OF VIEW

'Pot' petition: four valid reasons

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following point of view was submitted by James Heyser for the Coalition for Human Survival. The first section states the coalition's position on marijuana and its use. The second section addresses itself to the initiative petition being circulated in East Lansing to set the maximum fine for marijuana possession at $1.

At present there is no scientific evidence to indicate that the use of marijuana is in anyway harmful to the user (Time Feb. 15, 1971 p.46). The same statement cannot be said about caffeine in coffee and coke, aspirin, sleeping pills, penicillin, or common pep pills such as No - Doz. Caffeine may in time be considered dangerous because there is an increasingly statistically valid correlation that it may promote heart attacks. Aspirin may kill you if taken in an overdose, while routine use can cause a thinning of the blood making clotting more difficult. Sleeping pills can kill if taken in overdose. Certain persons will die if given an injection of penicillin. Pep pills give the user the illusion that he can stay up and alert for ever which is not true. Sooner or later the user will fall asleep, and too often this occurs on the highway

We have not made the usual comparisons of marijuana with tobacco or alcohol, because on a relative scale ranging from not proven harmful effects to proven severe effects, alcohol and tobacco would be near the end of proven severe effects, while marijuana would be right on the end of no proven harmful effects. Comparisons between marijuana and alcohol or tobacco are just not valid, because the latter two are definitely proven to be more harmful. Why then can a person get a maximum sentence of 10 years and $5,000 fine for the first offense of possession of marijuana?

We believe that this high penalty exists because marijuana has been mainly used by minority cultures in the past. First, the Chicanos used it, then the black ghetto dwellers and white street gangs of a decade ago, then the hippie culture of five years ago. In each case these groups were considered undesirable by the majority of middle class whites. Now even the children of conservatives such as Judge Carwell's son, and moderates such as former Michigan Governor Swanson's son and New Jersey Governor Cahill's son are being arrested for possession of marijuana. Now also you see the penalties being lowered as marijuana use can no longer be considered a characteristic of an undesirable minority.

In Michigan, the cities of Dearborn, Livonia, Birmingham, East Lansing, and Ann Arbor have lowered the penalty for possession by local ordinance. All these cities are overwhelmingly white middle class areas. Apparently a double standard may develop whereby it is considered less harmful to use marijuana in a white middle class town than in a city with large minority and lower class populations.

We hope that many well intentioned liberals will see the laws against possession

1) We may actually get this ordinate passed either by the city council or voten 2,000 signatures is not very many to a when you have a group of people willing to go door to door. The number of people favoring legalization who are over 21 should be a majority in East Lansing. There a currently 12,000 voters with around 4.00 students registered. Approximately 15,00 students are 21, if you consider gradual students, seniors, and parrt of the junior Student opinion could easily become the majority opinion and the majority fam legalization now. (State News, 1/5/71)

2) A successful petition drive may a action by the Michigan legislature to change the state law to a much lower penalty. Ab to lower the penalty for possession to misdemeanor sponsored by Rep. De Warner (R. Eaton Rapids) passed the House but failed in the Senate in the last legislatus Now Gov. Milliken has recommended maximum fine of $100 and 90 days. Alon election showing that 40% or more of the voters favor our ordinance could he convince a few members in the Senate change their vote and not fear a strong negative voter reaction in the next election

3) The petition drive will provide us with list of registered voters who will probably receptive to other reform ideas such as the revision of East Lansing zoning laws to fam more low cost housing, the creation of downtown shopping mall through banning of autos from certain streets a full enfranchisement of all students w make this town possible through the mon which they and MSU put in the econom and the support of a slate of refor candidates for the city council.

4) Drug laws need to be totally revise This petition drive could provide a nuclei and sale of marijuana by persons over 18 for what they are - racist laws of the past! We hope that these same people will support any action that will speed the legalization of marijuana. The failure of prohibition, and now the failure of laws to suppress marijuana use, indicate that in a free society you cannot suppress the use and sale of a substance that a large segment of the population wants without becoming a much more severly restricted society.

The Coalition for Human Survival and others are circulating an iniative petition to lower the penalty for possession of marijuana to a maximum fine of $1.00 in East Lansing. We need approximately 2,000 valid signatures of 15% of the registered voters to sign this petition. Then the city council will either have to pass this ordinance or put it on the ballot at the next election held in the city. There are several reasons for working on this initiative drive.

of people willing to work toward that go As citizens of a free society we reject to concept of "locking people up for their or good" which the possession laws a apparently aimed toward.

We feel that heroin use is increasing two reasons; one is it is a very profital black market item which gives pushen strong incentive to find new customers, two, young people tend to not take warnings about heroin seriously when the hear the same dreadful warnings about marijuana, but do not experience any consequences. Gov. Milliken's drug adva has recognized that legal penalties for here possession should be removed, not because heroin is harmless, but rather because spread of heroin addiction will not stopped until addicts can be legally treat for addiction. A program where recognize addicts are given either methodone limiting amounts of heroin appears to bet only realistic program.

Party singling out Breshnev

MOSCOW, (AP) - Leonid I. Brezhnev's drive for pre-eminence in the Kremlin is being encouraged by a rising chorus of praise for him at the Soviet Communist party's 24th congress.

However, there are signs of resistance to his ascendancy on the part of senior officials in the party and his colleagues in what began * more than six years ago as the collective leadership of the country.

As general secretary of the party, Brezhnev is due some special recognition at this gathering of the party's supreme body. But the kind of praise he has received - and perhaps encouraged - during the first week of the congress suggests a well orchestrated attempt to fix his supremacy in a nation where one - man rule has not been a passing

The adultation lavished on Brezhnev recalls the time when Nikita S. Krushchev was the party's first secretary and the premier, and as far as the outside world was concerned, the unchallenged leader of the Soviet Union.

It also contrasts sharply with the manner in which delegates at the last congress, in 1966, spoke of Brezhnev. At that time the habit was to mention "the Central Committee report given by Comrade

This time, not only is Brezhnev's report graded as "incisive," "brilliant" and "eminently instructive," but the person of Brezhnev is singled out for praise.

One delegate from Turkmenia said he was grateful for the "fatherly concern for the Turkmen people . . . displayed by the Central Committee and personally by Leonid Ilyich Brezhnev.'

Progress primary goal of 'U'

To the Editor: In the wake of recent actions by the board of trustees, some students have come to view the board as "anti" student and "pro" faculty.

Responding to some of the same actions, some faculty members have been led to an opposing view of the board as "anti" faculty and "pro" student.

I am deeply concerned at the implication, in both positions, that if one is "pro" something, one is necessarily "anti" something else - and, implicitly, that benefits to one group are, ipso facto, to the detriment of another.

The greatest resources on any university campus are its human resources. These include, but are not limited to, students and faculty. An effective role for universities in promoting the educational betterment of society rests on the direction of these resources, in concert, to the complex challenges of higher education. Those challenges will go unanswered if students and faculty are to regard one another with the wariness of strange dogs.

Each has a vital contribution to make; both need to acknowledge that fact, and build

It is my own view that we have made haste too slowly in fostering the kind of educational partnership needed to address today's challenges. I stand firmly on the side of progress toward that end.

I am therefore "pro" faculty, whose significant role in the process is, so far as I know, undisputed.

I am also "pro" students, whose potential contribution has only recently begun to be recognized and needs.

'Pulps' brought hope

By BILL HOLSTEIN State News Staff Writer

Humphrey Bardshaw swears to tip the axis of the world, melt all the ice at the pole and flood the world.

Another equally sinister and demented genius plans to subdue the population of a large city by dropping a chemical in the water

Who came to restore peace and sanity to a world threatened by madness? Heroes like the Shadow and Doc Savage.

These characters of the "pulp" magazines, the writers and the society they reflect, were the subject of a presentation by two collectors, Frederick S. Cook and Lyn Hickman, Friday during first national meeting of the Popular Culture Assn.

These highly successful and sensational pulp magazines which stressed crime, action, and adventure were "banned by parents, seized by teachers and deplored by social scientists," Cook said. Even though most of the pulps were not "breezy", some were considered to be adult reading matter.

"(The Writer's) heads danced with plots and probably knew better than anyone since Homer how to keep readers from knowing what would happen next," Cook said. He said the success of the pulp magazines were due largely to people of the 30s who didn't have any money or even hope of overcoming their plight during The Great Depression. "But if they could pick up a magazine and find out that a guy could overcome insurmountable odds, it gave them a little bit of hope that they could get ahead," Cook explained "The pulp magazines were created for a market that wanted to be entertained because there was no entertainment."

The heroes were clean, simple and manly and stood for ideals that the people could identify with - old fashioned values, Cook said.

Cook and Hickman said the pulp magazines died out in the late 30s and early 40s when production and the economy were stimulated by the threat of war. People were beginning to work more and were no longer as interested in spending much time reading science fiction and fantasy. Instead they preferred comics. The death of the pulps was also hastened by a shortage of paper because of the war. Moreover, comics "got a big push" from the HAVE A BALL on a Hollywood Waterbed from FOUR RIVERS . . . starting at $28.00 Contact; FOUR MSU's Lacrosse team put together its best offensive effort of the season Saturday but stumbled on defense, resulting in a 12 - 9 defeat to Ohio Wesleyan.

Wesleyan netted four straight goals in the third quarter to build a 9 - 6 lead going into the fourth quarter.

The lightning swift shot of Spartan freshman Val Washington netted a hat - trick with goals in the first, second and last quarters. The muscular Washington opened fire from outside the Wesleyan defense and shot hard past the opposing goalie.

Wesleyan's Don Wright did Washington one better with four goals, one in each quarter. Teammate Andy Stringer also scored three times for Wesleyan.

MSU's six other goals came as individual scores. Dan Denov, Doug Kalvelage, Don Grey, Steve Urbin, Jim Walters, and Paul Safran each scored once for the Spartans.

As was the case when the Spartans last played Michigan, goalie Fred Hartman found himself too often to be a solitary man. Wesleyan often was able to isolate Hartman from the rest of the defensemen and charge the net. In the second half when Wesleyan broke a 5 - 5 half - time stalemate, the visiting stickmen shot 14 times. All 14 shots were on goal.

The two teams waited six minutes for the opening score, but from there on the action was fierce. Wesleyan sported a husky team which handled the ball well. MSU relied more on their speed which showed in the number of ground balls gathered by both teams. MSU picked up 46 to Wesleyan's 13.

MSU put 34 shots on the Wesleyan goal. Wesleyan was able to aim only 24 of its shots on the Spartan goal but it made the

Our assignment is to cover the team. But the biggest story of all China — is all around us and crying to be told.

This is not to say that official relations have changed or are about to do so. The Vietnam war and U.S. backing of Chiang Kai shek's government on Taiwan bar the way to a rapproachment. But the spring - like warmth in U.S. - China contacts at the human level cannot fail to melt some of the ice that has congealed in the long winter of hostility.

Much of the disputed letter was devoted to assuring faculty members that authorization cards for MSUFA would be used discreetly, "locked in a safe and counted only by non - University

Cooper countered other points of the MSUFA letter in his personal letter Friday:

"I have never urged anyone to sign or not to sign an authorization card, and I am not doing so now," he wrote. "I have not signed an authorization card myself."

He said Sunday that he would not have signed the MSUFA letter had it been presented to him before mailing.

I crossed the border at the British colony of Hong Kong at 10:30 on a sunny Easter morning with John Rich and Jack Reynolds of the National Broadcasting Co. and two of their Japanese television crewmen, Hiromasa Yamanaka and Masaaki

With us were four other foreign newsmen, John Saar, an Englishman, and Frank Fischbeck, a West German, both of Time -Life, and Jose Schlesinger and Bob Whyte from the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Only Rich and I had ever been to China, and we were here in the years before the Communist takeover.

We feared a last - minute hitch, but from the border to Peking it has been all smiles and handshakes.

At Shumchun we went through the complex of official buildings at an orderly pace, sipping tea, changing our money and lunching on duck, chicken, port, squid and abalone washed down by Chinese beer. On the Hong Kong side we left a world of purple morning glories for one of lichee trees, banana groves and rice terraces.

Everywhere Chairman Mao Tse-tung beamed on us from billboards on the side of the track, statues inside the public buildings and from the lape!s of countless blue - jacketed Chinese.

ALCO MANAGEMENT COMPANY

It has long been a practice that when rush week breaks the campus becomes divided into them and us. The us is the "frat rats," "fratters," (and other descriptive terms) and the them is the "dormies," "dorm - rats," etc. We are addressing this letter in the hope that for at least one term this might change.

Most important, we believe, is the necessity to clear some misconceptions. All dorms, for example, are not holes. As a matter of fact we are continuously impressed by the dorm's variety and services. The living facilities are in many cases excellant, and the care and maintenance exceptional. Much the same can be said for fraternity houses; they are different like dorms. Some are quite striking, and some are fine houses with two cats in the yard . . .

. . . It seems to us that the difference lies not in the physical structures so much as in the atmosphere, the spirit of the people. We think one could safely say that any fraternity is more or less a reflection of any dorm floor at a given point in time,; even the relative numbers are the same. There are some differences however. You know every brothers' name (yes John, even the guy that's the second door from the end on the left) and something about his home, hopes, faults, and positive qualities. Fraternity men's averages are consistently above the All Mens averages and fraternity men share a common bonding experience, A "test of fire" and a sense of history.

One thing that has changed, and this change is important, is that fraternities are no longer caught up in re - making individuals. The emphasis has switched to an individual aid sensitivity type arrangement. The people in your house actually care about you as a brother, as well as a human being because you have all shared the common goal of wanting to be a member. It is hard to attempt to like or care for 40 or so people at one time, but you are reinforced, usually, because those around you are trying the same thing.

Fraternities are also selective. Now this does not mean blacks use the back door or your name had better be Jones or Smith. It means that when you walk in the house people are going to try (their best) to determine whether "you are together" in a way that makes them feel they would like to share a room, a house, or a life segment with you in close proximity.

It's that kind of feeling that helps you clean up after a massive party, or when a guy is stuck at Lansing Airport and calls you at 1:30 a.m. in the winter. Individuals are going to determine whether you have something positive to contribute to the house or whether you're caught up in a dead image of many broads, too much booze and too few brains. We're not particular as to what your old friends think of you, be it face man, yes man or feathers that gobble. Their opinions are not necessarily ours. We need full living people because we are going places and doing things and we need each other, sometimes to share the load.

Finally, we do not mean to construe that these things do not take place in dorms. They do, and all things mentioned above are not appealing to everybody. We are just saying that for those who do want to get together, we think we have something to offer.
