West Germans decide to let mark find own market level

German government decided Sunday to let the mark seek its own level on international money markets to stem the inflow of unwanted U.S. dollars.

Chancellor Willy Brandt said in a nationwide television address the move did not amount to an upward revaluation of the mark. That would make German goods more expensive and less competitive in world markets.

European Common Market finance ministers, at an overnight meeting in Brussels, gave West Germany and other countries the okay to let their currencies

Karl Schiller, West Germany's finance minister, told a news conference here Sunday he expected the mark to increase in value temporarily.

Speculation on upward revaluation of the mark set off a massive sale of dollars last week that brought on the European monetary crisis and forced foreign exchanges to close.

The decision to allow the mark to float is aimed at stopping the inflow of foreign currency into West Germany and halting domestic price rises.

Schiller said the West German Central Bank "will cease its intervention" in behalf of the dollar today but "may intervene at occasions" after the mark is floated and the situation develops.

Germany would allow the mark to float. "It could be several months," he said, but declined to be more specific.

The finance minister said the Brussels agreement was "a compromise for which we all worked hard." It also calls for new measures against the inflow of U.S. dollars

Schiller said the compromise was important because it would not bring about a change of currency parity within the six-nation the Common Market.

In New York, Eugene Birnbaum, vice president for international monetary affairs of Chase Manhattan Bank, said it would down, but we will be able to establish a future market."

Birbaum said his chief concern now is that the floating rate for the mark should not persist too long.

REAPPOINTMENT DENIED

Prof refused contract

By BECKIE HANES State News Staff Writer

An asst. professor in the Dept. of Natural Science who was denied contract renewal but not given reasons for his nonreappointment will apparently not be able to obtain a one - year extension, Richard Seltin, acting chairman of the Natural Science Dept. said Friday.

William L. Downes, asst. professor of natural science, Friday said he was seeking a one - year renewal under the terms of a board of trustee's motion in April in authorizing one - year renewals for two other natural science faculty members.

Bertram G. Murray and Eileen R. VanTassell, both asst. professors of natural science, were granted one - year renewals by the trustees because the department failed to supply the two with reasons why their three - year contracts were not renewed.

"I have decided to write a letter asking for the one - year extension," Downes said.

However, Seltin said Downes would be refused the extension because he did not originally request the reasons for his nonrenewal. The trustees had stipulated in Murray's and VanTassell's case that they deserved the extension because they had been denied the reasons for their nonrenewal.

"If Professor Downes does write a letter requesting a one - year extension on his contract, he will be refused because of the trustee's motion," Seltin said.

Petitions have been circulated by students throughout South Complex during the past two weeks supporting Downe's case for remaining at the University. The students feel Downes is an exceptional professor, Robert B. Evnen, Lincoln, Neb., freshman and originator of the petitions, said.

Guess Who tickets

Tickets for Friday's Guess Who concert are still on sale at the Union, Campbell's Smoke Shop and Marshall Music in East Lansing. Ticket prices are $2.50 and $3.50.

Petitions were also being circulated for Lawrence Besaw, instructor in natural science. In Besaw's case, his third one year appointment had expired, and he was not offered a three - year contract. Besaw said he was told the budget would not allow another appointment.

Last week, he said, he was offered a three - year contract.

"I'm very happy about it, but I'm not completely aware of why a position suddenly opened up," he said Friday. "The reason they gave me (for nonreappointment) was that there was no money available in the budget, but I don't know where the money suddenly came from," he continued.

The purpose of the petitions is to get student support to show University College Dean Edward Carlin students wanted the contracts reconsidered, Evnen said. Evnen said he plans to continue circulating Downes' petition at other complexes, he said, but Besaw's petition isn't necessary any more.

"The petitions were completely students' ideas," Evnen said. "Neither Downes nor Besaw had anything to do with the petitions."

Postal Service boosts cost of mailing letters a letter. Open your wallet, take out that six-cent stamp and put it on the envelope. This is the last week you can mail it without postage due.

Because Sunday, unless a federal judge frustrates the U.S. Postal Service, postage rates are going up. It will take eight cents to mail a letter and 11 cents if you send it by air.

"Penny postcards," which have cost a nickel for a long time, go up to six cents. And all second and third-class rates, plus some fourth-class rates will increase by from 10 per cent to 20 per cent. Special delivery and registered mail costs also go up.

The May 16 boost comes under what the Postal Service claims is its authority to make temporary increases in postal rates pending a recommendation by the Postal Rate Commission.

A group of mail users, led by magazine and newspaper publishers, have challenged the right of Postmaster General Winton M. Blount and the nine other members of the Postal Board of Governors to use such WASHINGTON (AP) - Write somebody to halt the increases until the rate commission, which begins hearings next Monday on a permanent, $1.45 - billion - a - year revenue proposal, has time to act.

Judge William B. Bryant is tentatively scheduled to rule early this week, but postal authorities profess confidence he will not block the temporary rate increases.

So confident are they, in fact, that some stamps reflecting the higher, temporary rates have already gone on sale. More go on sale this week at post offices around the Postal reform legislation took from Congress the power to set postal rates. Now, the postal Board of Governors, which takes full control of the postal system July 1, is supposed to set its own costs and bring in enough revenue to break even.

Rate proposals, however, must be sent to an independent, five-member rate commission. The commission is required to return a recommendation to the board of governors within 90 days

Should the commission not act within 90 days, the governors may increase rates by no more than one third, on a temporary basis, after 10 days notice.

The governors' proposal went to the rate commission on Feb. 1, 99 days ago.

The mailers who want to block the temporary increases while saying they believe higher rates are inevitable contend the Postal Service cannot use the temporary authority until the rate commission has once acted.

Since the commission does not even begin its first ever hearings until the day after the temporary rates are scheduled to go into effect - the action is illegal - the mailers claim.

Monk burns; leaves letters asking peace

SAIGON (AP) - A young Buddhist monk burned himself to death in Hue Sunday in protest against the Vietnam war. He left behind letters asking President Nixon and President Nguyen Van Thieu to work for peace. The Monk urged Nixon to "withdraw your troops from South Vietnam immediately."

The letters are being held by Nguyen Thu Tan, chairman of the Hue University Buddhist Student Union. He said the Monk, Thich Chon The, 27, died in "an appeal for immediate peace in Vietnam and the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces."

The held a placard saying that he would burn himself at 8:40 a.m. At exactly that time he doused himself with gasoline from an ammunition box and set himself ablaze. In death, his charred hands still clasped his prayer beads.

In his letter to "President Nixon and U.S. leaders, " The said, "I beg you to

The launch team has until June 17. After that Mars moves out of favorable position and won't be available as a target again for 25 months.

Asked to place a pricetag on the loss, Kraemer replied:

"I guess you can take the total $153.6 million cost of the two launches and divide by two. That's the financial loss. But the loss to science - it's hard to estimate that value. We were all very excited about the prospect of having two spacecraft in Mars orbit performing different missions."

Mariners 8 and 9 were the first spacecraft built to orbit another planet. Mariner 8 was to have conducted a broad mapping mission, while Mariner 9 was to have made repeated studies of six selected areas to note atmospheric, surface and seasonal changes. Each was equipped with two television cameras and several sensors.

The information could determine if conditions exist on Mars in which some primitive form of life, such as microbes or plants, Kraemer said Mariner 9 will now take over Mariner 8's mapping assignment.

The mapping assignment is to cover 70 per cent of the planet and will help experts select a landing site for two Projec Viking craft which are to land on Mars in 1975 to search for life.

Strikes plague Rome

Rome put its worst foot forward Sunday for disappointed tourists and embittered residents.

A strike of municipal employes went into its eighth day, leaving the city filthy with uncollected garbage piled up as high as a man along the streets.

Undirected traffic was in chaos and bodies lay unburied at the city's cemeteries. Tourists arriving at Rome Airport had to lug their own baggage through customs, and hotel guests were without room service, telephones, bellboys or elevators.

Truce incident claims 30

A water taxi crowded with civilians headed for market hit two floating mines in a river near the demilitarized zone Sunday, killing at least 30 Vietnamese.

It was by far the worst incident reported in the truce called by both sides for Buddha's birthday.

Witnesses said the 24-foot sampan was lifted into the air by one blast and when it settled back into the river it was riddled by a second explosion.

9 Soviet Jews face trial

Nine Soviet Jews, accused of complicity in a plot to hijack a Russian airliner last June, are scheduled to go on trial in Leningrad Tuesday after a delay of four months, Jewish sources reported in Moscow Sunday.

It would be the second trial in Leningrad of Jews accused of being involved in a conspiracy to flee the Soviet Union by trying to seize a plane at Leningrad Airport June 15 and fly it to Sweden.

Diplomat near death

A Colombian diplomat wanted in the shooting of a millionaire playboy was near death Sunday in Santiago, Chile, after falling out of the landing gear compartment of a department jetliner during an escape attempt.

Police said Eduardo Espinoza de Zuleta, 30, second secretary at the Colombian Embassy in Washington, D.C., plunged more than 60 feet to the runway from a Braniff DC8 jet Saturday night as it was taking off from Pudahuel International Airport for Miami.

JOHN STENNIS

Sen. John C. Stennis, a strong supporter of the Pentagon and of the Nixon administration's conduct of the Vietnam conflict, said Sunday he plans to sponsor a resolution designed to limit a president's powers to make Stennis's resolution would allow a President to commit U.S. forces in emergencies, including surprise attack and whenever Americans who are lawfully in another country are endangered. In such cases, he said, he envisions a 30-day limit by which time Congress must pass a declaration of war or the troops would have to be withdrawn.

Hard times for seafood 'nuts'

Government warnings against eating swordfish because of high-mercury contamination have made it tough on seafood lovers in many cities who defy the warnings at their favorite restaurants.

While many restaurant owners have taken swordfish off their menus, others, including restaurants at San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, are still serving it, and report customers still ordering it. Still others report little call for it, an Associated Press survey shows.

'Mass psychotherapy' urged

A California psychiatrist suggests that one way of dealing with world problems might be "mass psychotherapy" for nations.

Bryant Wedge, director of the Institute for the Study of National Behavior at San Diego, says recent work he has done indicates mass psychotherapy also might assist in bringing other conflicting groups, such as motorcycle gangs and police, closer together.

Lower drinking age fair, most reasonable

The drinking provisions of the age of majority legislation passed Tuesday by the Michigan House of Representatives may well be scuttled in the state Senate. A sizable band of Bible Belters stands ready, blue pencils in hand, to slice the right to drink at 18 from the age of majority legislative package.

Most opponents of this item are not so much against a lower drinking age as they are against drinking itself. They maintain a lower drinking age will profoundly affect traffic safety, auto insurance rates and family life. In addition, they feel more 15 - , 16-, 17 - year - olds will start drinking.

These arguments ignore one basic fact: 18 -, 19- and 20 - year - olds have usually already made and carried out their decision to drink or not to drink. Because the present legal drinking age is 21, many of them must find someplace besides a bar to imbibe. Thus, the automobile has become a leading alternative locale for under - age drinking.

the bars instead of on the streets.

The same line of reasoning applies to the argument that a lower drinking age would disrupt family life. If alcohol is to destroy some paternal relationships, the damage will be done with or without a lower drinking age.

Worries about increased drinking by 16- and 17 - year - olds have some basis. If 18 - year - olds are allowed to drink, they will not doubt buy liquor on occasion for their younger friends. However youngsters under 18 usually live at home, subjecting them to more parental control. Parents should be able to control their 16 - and 17 - year - olds' drinking habits; they needn't use the law as a crutch.

The 18 - year - old cutoff point provides the fairest, most reasonable drinking age possible. If 18 - year olds are considered responsible enough to sign contracts, vote and enter lawsuits, they are mature enough to handle alcohol. It would Lowering the drinking age will not be highly hypocritical of the state put any more drunk teenage drivers Senate to, in a moralistic fit, drop on the road than there already are. the legal age of adulthood to 18, but In fact, it may keep some of them in leave the drinking age at 21.

Speedy trials victim of overloaded system

The arrest of more than 10,000 people in Washington last week severely overloaded the local judicial system and should spark renewed debate on the growing inefficiency of our courts. It is no secret that this nation's courts are delund with a backlog of cases that threatens a defendant's right to a "speedy and public" trial as guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment.

At present, an individual, once arrested and indicted, must often wait through innumerable delays before facing trial. In Detroit, for example, many individuals so accused must languish in jail for six months and longer. Often this means that legal fees are increased for those able to afford a lawyer; for those unable to afford a lawyer or bail the subsequent delay means extended jail detention - weeks and even months separated from friends and Compromises are sometimes made between prosecutor and lawyer to bypass the delay but, as news stories. have pointed out, these deals often are made at the expense of the defendant's innocence. A citizen's right to a quick trial and justice is undermined by the court's inability to deal with the overload of people arrested.

Several states have attempted to alleviate the problem. In Michigan, legislators have revised and reorganized the criminal code in hopes that the resulting simplification will speed criminal processing. In New York, the chief justice has ruled that one year from now the state will, in all but homicide cases, dismiss criminal charges against any defendant who, through no fault of his own, has not been tried within six months of his arrest. Other jurisdictions, including California, Illinois and the District of Columbia, have a similar rule.

Certainly, the more viable answer to the problem would be to provide both temporary and permanent clerical and legal help in assuring speedy justice. In this state, such programs are pending as a result of the Supreme Court's strong interest in providing swifter justice.

Until the initiation of such programs, however, we must concur that a time limit as set by New York's chief justice is the best guarantee that the poor and innocent will not rot in jail, serving time, but convicted of no crime.

A hit of Vietnam 'gold'

The perverseness of some segments of the public mind reached a new high recently with the announcement that the "Battle Hymn of Lt. Calley" had attained gold record status (sold more than a million copies).

As a musical work "Battle Hymn" rated with the Mickey Mouse Club theme song for profundity. Indeed, with a pirated score and juvenile lyrics the song strikes one as little more than an effort to capitalize on public sentiment.

It is immaterial, however, what the actual motives of the record's producers might have been. It is the motives of the million - plus purchasers of the disc which emerge as truly macabre.

Scapegoat or not, Lt. Calley has been found guilty of the wholesale slaughter of at least a score of innocent people. If such adoration of murder is to become a trend, then, no doubt, we can expect to soon find the airwaves pulsating to the rhythms of such immortal ditties as "Adolf Hitler was a man, yes, a big man" and "I'm in love with Attila the Hun."

Notes from inside a D.C. fountain 50

This is the first time I have ever made notes inside a fountain. It is a circular cement bowl and the architect must have designed it for me; the curve behind is a wonderful back rest for a man who has walked five miles, and the block in front where, I suppose, the water - lilies grow, is just right for a foot brace. Fortunately they haven't turned the hydrants on yet or I would be two feet under water. A couple of exhausted marchers are lying in the basin, too, with sleeping bags over their Down below me on Pennsylvania Avenue where they have stopped traffic are perhaps half a million people wandering about good - naturedly, as many going as coming, perhaps a quarter of the number listening to the speeches. The speeches come from little men standing up there on a platform while right beside me on the terrace is a battery of loud speakers with a Satanic roar that would knock a cat off a rail fence.

It is a good time for a little soul -

To begin with I know, at last, what an idea looks like whose time has come. It is a Popsicle tricycle parked smack in the middle of thronged Pennsylvania Avenue from which all cars are excluded. It is boys looking like Abe Lincoln with girls in serapes going around with yellow plastic bags trying to show their law - and - order respect by picking up cigaret butts and Coke bottles. It is the reverberant voice from the sky as loud as God's at Mount Sinai saying, "Please take lost children over to the press gate." It is a breeze on a scudding spring day that sends up scraps of papers like kites or runs a cardboard box along like a child's wagon, past the great equestrian statue of Gen. Grant where a long - haired youth has climbed up and sits behind him on the crupper with an American flag upside down. Appeal for Formosa

Life in the heart of darkness

Springtime seems to be here; have you noticed? Yeah, you say, sure you have. You've noticed the trees are starting to leaf, the grass is turning green, flowers are blossoming, displaying a rainbow of colors, and everyone is dressing for their part in the spring flesh show.

Lucky you that you're not blind. Spring in all its pageantry is ignored by most of us with all but our eyes. We enjoy spring because Mother Nature seems to be putting her makeup on again, and it's a very dazzling sight. But what if you were blind as 300 MSU students are? Then, where's your spring? Close your eyes for five minutes sometime when everybody's laughing and

OUR READERS' MIND

On behalf of thepeople of Formosa, it is quite appropriate to write this letter to you about your recent policy of breaking the China impasse that has confronted us for 22 years. Our main question about your

"two-China policy" is: What is our future

We, the concerned Formosans ponder and act on the question which is about to befall us because of your new policy. We clearly see the danger of communism descending upon our people whose voice for democracy has been intimidated and suppressed by the Nationalist regime. We think you are looking at one side to proclaim the future status of Formosa through agreement between the Communist and the Nationalist regimes, with no respect to the wishes of the Formosan people. There may be a betraval of the Formosans in order to normalize American relations with China.

Therefore, we do not feel that this is Perhaps the sudden empty darkness, the immediate loneliness and alienation will give you a hint of how much a communal thing spring is for those of us who can see and how much an isolation it is for the sightless. Forced sightlessness for five minutes through this time of the year is nerve-racking, teasing and taunting. You're relieved when you open your eyes again. But, then what is five minutes compared to a lifetime of black?

We take our sight for granted and only realize its unique gift when we must abandon it for even a short time. We pity the blind for not being able to see; they pity us for being able to see and having to resort to blindness to realize that we can. How secure we all are in our sight, no matter how bad. Our eyes are a Linus' blanket that we accept without question. But the blind have no such simple security. Their lives are day-in and day-out adventures with insecurity, doubt, fear, apprehension and isolation. Their sense of touch, smell and hearing are their guides, and, like the five blindmen touching parts of an elephant, they can never be sure that the image they are receiving is correct. When and if we try to put ourselves in their place, we find the little things we take for granted become godsends. Take, for instance, riding the bus. For most of us, it's a simple matter, but not necessarily so for the blind. An incident last year made me quite aware of that fact. I was waiting at Shaw for a Brody bus and, next to me, a blind student I had seen many times also waited. Suddenly the Brody bus arrived followed by the Circle-Fee bus, roaring down the drive and stopping near the sidewalk. The Brody bus had passed me so I started walking toward it, crushed in the mass of people getting on and off. I turned around and saw the blind student, confused as to which bus to get on, shoved and pushed aside by students eager to get a seat.

Finally, he stepped onto the Circle-Fee bus. The Brody bus took off and as I turned round for some reason, I saw him get off the still-idling Circle-Fee bus. He had stepped onto the wrong bus, would have to wait for another bus to Brody, and might be late for a class. How easy a decision it had been for me as to which bus to climb onto; how very difficult it had been for him. Or take crossing the street, for example.

Have you ever realized how terrifying a car, bus or motorcycle sounds when you can't see? Cross a street sometime with a friend when traffic is busy and close your eyes. Also notice that your heart beats much faster as the cars seem to be bearing down

During the time we are here, most aren't going to give a damn really wh that blind kid knows what bus to ge After all, we've got a class we're late a lunch to eat, and besides you don't him to think you pity him - which

More than 50 people participated in a wide variety of events ranging from fencing matches and fights with wooden broadswords to folk dances.

The society was created about six years ago in California, according to Morna of House Kenydd, Guild Mistress of the Dancers, who is also known as Martye Schneller, Royal Oak freshman. The movement spread acoss the country and a chapter, or barony, was organized at MSU about a year ago, she said.

Members of the society make their own costumes and weapons, Miss Schneller said.

Accuracy is stressed. She said one person went to a museum and weighed a weapon he was going to reproduce to make it as realistic as possible. She also said that rules for different tournaments are determined from careful studies of the literature and art of the time.

"What we're trying to do is to recreate the Middle Ages not only as they were, but also as they ought to have been - violence without injury," Miss Schneller said. Despite the violence, there are rarely any casualties because safety is stressed and members are required to wear protective equipment if they plan on taking part in a potentially dangerous activity, she said.

With their emphasis on accuracy, the society appears to have found an interesting approach to the study of history. In fact, a day with the society can answer questions about the Middle

Flankers plagued by inexperience

By GARY SCHARRER State News Sports Writer

One of the positions on the football field that carries variety of responsibilities and often times a spot where the finer techniques go unnoticed by the spectators is flanker.

Receiver coach Joe Carruthers admits that the flankers corps are a little weaker than some of the other positions on the MSU

"It's one of the inexperienced positions that we have in our backfield," Carruthers said. "Henry Matthews is lining up number one right now, but Randy Davis is right behind, if not even."

Carruthers said the biggest problem is that the Spartans don't have the complete player who can catch, block and run. He said that there were certain things that one of the players at that position could do better than others.

"Henry can block real well and he can run well, but his catching leaves something to be desired," Carruthers said. "Davis can catch and run, but he isn't as strong a blocker.

"Mike Danielewicz, who has just switched from defensive halfback is doing well. And Archie MacGillivray is doing a real fine job for a fellow who lacks some of the physical qualities like speed and height. He makes up for it with sheer determination."

The flanker can also be used as a slotback. When lining up at the slot position he will be about one yard off and behind the tackle at the split end side of the offensive line. The slotback's primary responsibilities are blocking, especially for the off-tackle power play. Because the slotback is close to the interior line he has a more difficult job "fighting' his way out, past the linebackers for a pass pattern.

The player lining up at flanker will be off of the offensive line and behind the tight end. The flanker is used mainly as a reciever. His secondary responsibilities include blocking downfield, and taking the inside linebacker or corner back on end sweeps.

"We do not feel that flanker is one of our solid spots," Carruthers reiterated, "but any of those guys could jump right ahead of somebody else. It's a tough spot. It's a skilled position. You have to be big, strong and quick like tight ends."

Carruthers said that some switches might be made when Eric Allen and Jesse Williams return to the lineup next fall.

In individual competition, Jeff Reaume, Eastern Michigan sophomore and defending Western Junior champion, defeated the Spartan's John Peterson for the title by sinking a 12-foot putt on the first hole of a sudden - death playoff.

Reaume had set a course record Friday with a sizzling five - under - par 66. He carded six birdies and one bogey in his record round.

After nine holes Saturday, Reaume was only one - over par and seemed a sure bet to win the title. But in the last half of the round he blew up and soared to a 78 total, thus forcing the playoff.

Peterson shot a fine 70-74 -144 while State's John VanderMeiden carded a 145, good for third place. Rick Woulfe shot a 146 for the Spartans, including a 70 in the last round, to finish fourth.

State's Dick Bradow (74-73), Tom Birney, from Ashland, Ohio, Joe Meglin, from the University of Toledo and Terry Becker, from Saginaw Valley, all finished with 147's.

Other Spartan scores were Graham Cooke, 77-73 - 150;

"Special credit must be given to Ron Foote, Supt. of the Forest Akers course, for the excellent condition of the course. The greens, especially, were lovely," Fossum said.

As an added attraction to the tournament action, a driving contest was held Friday afternoon in the Forest Akers West practice area. One golfer from each team was selected by his coach to hit three drives down a special 50 yd - wide fairway, competing for a dozen golf balls donated by a major golf equipment company.

John Muller, of Western Illinois, took first place in both contest categories - for the longest single drive and the longest cumulative distance. Muller took the single drive title by blasting his first shot 260 yds., one - foot. His prize winning total distance was 770

Stickmen nip ND in final seconds

By MIKE MOODY

In past performances the MSU stickmen have found themselves wishing for just a few minutes more to play as time ran out. But in Saturday's game, the time was right as they defeated arch rival Notre Dame, 7-6.

With two seconds left and the score tied at 6-6, senior midfielder Emery Freeman found the net and registered the final tally.

In the last seconds of the final period, Freeman saw his first shot blocked. But when Notre Dame's goalie could not handle the ball, Freeman took the rebound and skipped the ball into the net. It was only his second score of the season, but bombardment of the Bob Cassleman started out behind Purdue when he got the baton (left) from John Mock, but at the end, his 46.8 carry gave MSU another mile relay win.

Spartans win 'rerun'

By DON KOPRIVA State News Sports Writer

Reruns are commonplace on early spring television shows but the MSU track team came up with one of its own Saturday against Purdue.

In a meet similar to their 83-71 win over Ohio State earlier, the Spartans dumped the Boilermakers 87-67 at State's Ralph Young Field with 1-2 finishes in the last two individual events and a come - from - behind mile relay win.

As Ohio State had done, Purdue made the meet close with wins in five of six field events. Only Eric Allen could break the Riveters' monopoly there, with his 48-5 triple jump winning easily and falling only four - and - one - half inches off Jim Garrett's varsity mark.

After Spartans LaRue Butchee and Herb Washington had gone 1-2 in the 220-yard dash, Purdue loaded the three mile in an attempt to stop the Spartans from getting the four points needed to insure the dual victory.

But it was all to no avail, because sophomore Randy Kilpatrick and freshman Doug Kurtis rebounded from sub-par steeple - chase efforts earlier and ran 1-2 in the three.

Bob Cassleman put the frosting on the cake and gave the Spartans a 20 point bulge with a stellar 46.8 anchor leg on the mile relay, giving MSU a 3:17.5 come from behind win. The Spartans have yet to lose to a league team in the mile relay this

John Mock continued his superb running and ran down two tough Purdue rivals, Jim Jackson and Larry McAfee, with gutty wins in the 660 and 880. Mock's 1:19.5 performance in the 660 puts him at the top of the conference in that event while his 1:52.8 half - mile effort moves him among the leaders there. He later ran third on the mile baton unit.

LaRue Butchee and Herb Washington also turned in triple efforts. They coasted through a 1-2 100 finish against a seven mile wind and then reversed their finish in the 220, with

As against Ohio State, the Spartans won all but two running events, falling only in the steeplechase and the 440-yard dash.

"We're progressing well," Spartan assistant coach Jim Gibbard said, "and we should be ready to give defending Big Ten champion Indiana a good battle this Saturday. "But we're aiming for the Big Ten meet three weeks from now," Gibbard said. "That's what counts and we'll be ready for

The Marine Corps Officer Selection Office administers applications for both the Platoon Leader's Class (PLC) Program and the Officer Candidate (OC) Program. Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors are eligible for the PLC Program. College seniors, graduate students and graduates are eligible for the O.C. program. Certain graduate students are eligible for the PLC Program and its benefits. ASK A MARINE! Listed below are some of the features of both COMPLETE COLLEGE: Draft deferment until graduation. You must obtain at least a Baccalaureate degree before commissioning.

GRADUATE AND LAW SCHOOL DEFERMENT: PLC applicants have the opportunity for deferment in order to attend graduate or law school.

GUARANTEED OPTIONS: Choose the specific occupation specialty you desire: Aviation, Flight Officer or Ground Officer. All Marine ground officers state the occupational fields they prefer, and in three out of four cases they get their first choice.

TRAINING: The best officer training there is, and it is conducted during the summer for PLC's and after graduation for OC's. Training pay is $300 per month.

MORE MONEY: The amount an officer is paid is based on length of service as well as rank. This longevity is counted from the time of application. Thus a freshman who enrolls in the PLC Program has a three year advantage over the senior enrolled in the OC Program. In terms of salary this can mean over $2,000 in additional annual compensation after graduation and commissioning. Freshmen will benefit most, however all will benefit!

MARITAL RESTRICTIONS: None.

OBLIGATED SERVICE:

Aviation Officer (Pilot) - 31/2 years plus 13-16 months flight training. This is one (1) full year shorter than current USN or USAF flight programs. Note: The Marine Corps currently operates 32 jet fighter squadrons and 24 jet helicopter squadrons!

Flight Officer (Navigator) - 3 years plus 8 months of electronics and radar specialist training. Ground Officer - 3 years. Period.

CONDITIONAL CONTRACT: PLC's sign a conditional contract with no obligation until graduation and commissioning.

A musical play about the romance and adventure of Michigan will be revived by Okemos High school students this weekend. The musical, renamed "Peter Homan's Dream," was composed by H. Owen Reed, professor of music, for MSU's Centennial celebration in 1955.

"Peter Homan's Dream" will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday night in the Okemos Fine Arts Center located on the Okemos High School campus. Director of the performance will be Al Koehn, Okemos High School director of vocal music. Reed, who heads MSU's music composition faculty, will conduct the performance. Although fictional, the plot makes use of real places and events of the 1870s and includes a dream sequence of the principal character, Peter Homan.

The plot is related to the sale of public lands called for in the Land - Grand College Act of 1862. MSU, founded in 1855, was the model for the land - grant system. Tickets for the Okemos performance are $1.50 and are available at the high school or from the MSU Music Dept.

Group fetes anniversary of Israel's independence

A carnival mood prevailed among nearly 300 people during most of the celebration of the 23rd anniversary of Israel's independence Thursday night in the Union Ballroom.

Festooned with strings of blue and white Israeli flags, the ballroom was soon filled with a cheerful babble of Hebrew and English. Buttons printed "Shalom" appeared on almost every dress and suit coat.

The celebration, a modified version of the two - day Memorial Day and Independence Day ceremonies in Israel, included a brief speech and a night of music and dancing.

First - congratulations!

You have proved you have what it takes to get the education you need. And we know it wasn't easy.

One important step you took was to invest in your own future. You did this by taking out one or more loans, guaranteed either by United Student Aid Funds, or a state agency, or the Federal government.

These loans were society's vote of confidence in you. They were equally your vote of confidence in yourself.

By finishing school, you have taken the first vitally important step to justify that vote of confidence.

The second step is to pay back the money

So we hope you will make arrangements right now, before you leave school, to begin repayment of this debt.

· Check with your Financial Aid Office to be sure your records are in order.

· Make an appointment with the banker who loaned the money to you, and arrange a realistic repayment schedule.

You need not make your first payment until ten months after graduation, but you will be able to make other plans with far greater assurance if you know now exactly what you will need to set asi each month for your loan.

Meeting this obligation faithfully is o of the most important steps you can take for your own benefit.

Your repayments will prove your respo sibility. They will establish your cred for the time when you may need it to be a car, a house - and, some day, a bal carriage. Or a business.

You will be helping other deserving st dents, too. For as each loan we guarant is repaid, the money we have set asi to guarantee it is released to genera another low-cost student loan. We ha guaranteed over 300,000 of these loans ready. And with your help, we look for ward to guaranteeing loans for futu generations of college students.

So meeting your payment schedules w help you. It will help other students. At it will help society.

Once more, our hearty congratulations and good luck as you leave campus make your mark in the work-a-day work
