Employes who belong to campus unions and who started receiving a wage increase at the beginning of the fiscal year on July 1 will continue to receive the wage increase, he said.

Employes returning to the payroll during fall term in substantially the same assignment as they previously held will receive their previous salaries.

Nonacademic union employes returning to the payroll this fall will receive the rate in effect on July 1. A 20 - cent - per - hour wage increase went into effect for members of Local 1585 and other campus unions on that date.

The only instances in which raises will be approved by the University during the freeze period is if there has been a substantial change in assignment and increased responsibilities.

"This could include an academic appointment to department chairman, regular staff to division head, or a change of assignment which requires a major change in classification and duties," Wharton said.

Lower summer rent rates said in effect in September

By JIM SHELDON State News Staff Writer

Reduced summer rental rates charged to tenants in many East Lansing apartments must be effective when the September leasing period begins, according to officials in Washington, Charles K. Matheney, Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) representative to the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP), said Thursday that the Cost of Living Council ruled this week that rents will not be elevated during the freeze.

Reduced summer rental rates will remain in effect this fall unless a policy review board, organized by several executive agencies, decides for some reason to reverse the order, Matheney said. Other freeze areas also are under review by the board.

The Cost of Living Council is responsible for carrying out the wishes of the President, Matheney said, adding that the President told the council he does not want rents increased during the freeze.

Implications of the council's ruling were explained earlier Thursday by Harold L. Thomas, official in the National Tenants Organization. He said his comments were based on a at the time of agreement. conversation Thursday morning with Matheney.

Asked about persons who had left the East Lansing area last spring, Thomas explained that unless the lease became effective when it was signed, the planned fall rates cannot be implemented.

Leases must have been operating before July 14, he said. Previously established fall rates would apply in September only if the lease was running when it was signed.

In this instance, Thomas continued, President Nixon's wage and price freeze supercedes prior agreements to a rent increase which had not been effective

For new apartments opening for the first time this fall, rental rates must be signed fall leases before they comparable to those charged in the immediate area, Thomas said. Landlords who attempt to "change their identity" and say they are new developments will be in violation of the ruling, he added. Thomas said tenants will be responsible for policing their own rental rates and making sure they pay the correct amount. He expected that HUD will make few exceptions for landlords and that the decision will stand if landlord pressure is held down.

Persons with uncertainties or complaints about their rental rates are urged to contact the National Tenants Organization at 425 13th St. NW, Washington, D.C. Violators of the ruling are reportedly subject to fines up to $5,000 plus possible refunds made for Inquiries or grievances also may be referred to the MSU housing Corp. at 355-8313 or to the Off-Campus Council at 355-8300, in both cases between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Confusion about rental rates arose Monday in the aftermath of Nixon's announcement Sunday night of the 90 - day freeze on wages and prices, salaries and rents. Nixon had said that these costs must remain at the same level as they held the 30 days before the freeze.

Six managers of East Lansing apartment complexes contacted earlier this week all maintained they would be charging September rental rate which had been established either last winter or last spring.

They all said they believed that summer rates, contracted for a definite period of time, would not apply under the President's directive and would terminate when September leases begin. Kenneth I. Smith, ASMSU lawyer, was contacted for comment on the

Sabine takes job as aide in ISU relations

Gordon A. Sabine, former vice president for special projects at MSU, will become a special assistant in university relations Sept. 1 at Illinois State University (ISU).

The appointment was announced recently by ISU president David K. Berlo, formerly acting chairman of the Department of Communication at MSU. Sabine will take a one - year leave of absence from his teaching position at MSU to accept the ISU position.

Sabine's responsibilities at ISU will be broader than his responsibilities were at MSU, where he was in charge of admissions and scholarships, the registrar's office, orientation and developmental programs.

At ISU, Sabine will be in charge of the university's admissions program, intercollegiate athletics, news and publications, all internal and external communications, security and safety, alumni affairs, the university foundation and all university development

The exact scope of Sabine's duties is still being defined and may be altered as the recently appointed Berlo administration takes office.

compromise. "We'll keep working," said Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, the floor manager of the welfare bill. "There's always room to compromise.'

At issue is the $219.3 million outlay proposed to meet the state's share of the ADC program. Republicans want the ADC figure cut to last year's levels while Democrats are pushing for "upgraded standards" for welfare recipients.

The bill, drafted by the Democratic-controlled House Appropriations Committee, would guarantee each ADC recipient $2.62 per day for food and other personal needs by Oct. 1 and $2.72 per day by Jan.

But the Republican cuacus would trim the per-day allowance to $2.54 under 1970-71 standards.

House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit, the prime mover behind higher welfare spending, said the Republican plan was unacceptable because it failed to offer ADC recipients a decent standard of living. Further, Ryan said, the federal government plans to trim the value of food stamps in Michigan - a move which he said would further cut into the spending power of persons on welfare.

The $537 million welfare package more than one-quarter of the total $2 - billion - plus state budget proposed for 1971-72 - was rejected on a 55-46 vote earlier this week.

On the first vote only two Republicans voted in favor of the bill while six Democrats voted against it.

If the measure passes at its current level of funding, welfare spending in Michigan will top the $1 billion mark for the first time because each state dollar is matched by a federal dollar.

Mideast war inevitable?

The editor of Egypt's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said Thursday in Cairo the projected federation of Egypt, Syria and Libya comes at a time when "a military collision with Israel had become inevitable."

"The forthcoming battle with the Israeli enemy," he wrote, "requires us to diagnose the new stage in the conflict, to define the possible tasks, to map out a new strategy to achieve the objectives of the new stage and finally to outline the responsibilities of execution.

Seventh Fleet enters battle

Guns of the U.S. 7th Fleet have roared into action in the battle on the northern front, pounding enemy rocket and mortar positions in the southern half of the demilitarized zone, silencing some and touching off explosions.

Despite the rain of bombs from B52 Stratofortresses and the naval gunfire in the zone, the North Vietnamese attacked South Vietnamese bases just to the south for the eighth straight day Thursday. U.S. artillery was pulled out of one of the menaced bases.

RNA members charged

Eleven members of a black separatist organization were charged with the murder of a Jackson, Miss., police detective who died Thursday 21 hours after a shootout at the Republic of New Africa headquarters.

Dist. Atty. Jack Travis said the RNA members, including President Imari Obadele, will face a preliminary hearing today on the charge stemming from the death of Detective Lt. William L. Skinner, shot in the head during a gunbattle.

Loan restrictions eased

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board authorized savings and loan associations Thursday to make conventional home loans with down payments as low as five per cent.

Chairman Preston Martin of the agency said the policy is intended to help "great numbers of American families having only a modest down payment," and that "this is particularly true of the buyer of existing housing."

Medina trial takes detour

The court - martial of My Lai defendant Capt. Ernest Medina in Ft. McPherson, Ga., detoured Thursday into a lengthy examination of the reliability of polygraph tests.

Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, has ruled that polygraph evidence is inadmissable in Medina's trial, but defense attorney F. Lee Bailey is attacking the constitutionality of the Army regulation on which the judge based his ruling.

Local political and voter registration groups have formed an ad hoc registration committee called "VOTER."

Steering committee member James Paquet said the new group was formed Wednesday at a meeting in the Union to coordinate local efforts to register students on and off

Citing a need for "maximum penetration into the student community," Paquet said VOTER will include representatives from the League of Women Voters, the Michigan Youth Politics Institute, Project: City Hall, the Coalition for Human Survival, the Human Rights Party, Students for McGovern, Students for Bayh, the Gay Liberation Front and the Metropolitan Detroit Youth Foundation. VOTER's most serious obstacle to registering students is time, Paquet said. Classes begin Sept. 23 but voter registration for the Nov. 2 election ends Oct. 1. That leaves eight days in which to publicize and initiate an intensive voter registration drive,

A serious task facing the group, Paquet told group representatives, was the problem of providing students with adequate identification to meet the city clerk's strict code. Most students will not receive mail during that first week and, as such, will not have proper identification, he said.

The city clerk will accept only a driver's license, a postage paid letter sent to the registrant or other "suitable" identification This does not include MSU IDs or University

The group considered sending out mailings to each student, encouraging a mail-a-friend-a-letter campaign, or having someone from the Secretary of State's office present in East Lansing to change driver's licenses on the spot. No decision was made,

A move to freeze state aid payments for students to all but the largest of Michigan's school districts at last year's unding level until the national wage - price freeze has nded is being pushed in the state Senate.

Senate Education Chairman Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, aid Thursday his committee will recommend the Senate opt the freeze proposal on per pupil payments when it meets to consider the 1971-72 school aid bill. "Since the freeze probably means that teacher contracts will be locked in at last year's levels, the schools won't need he extra money for salaries they would be collecting if we lidn't keep payments in line with last year," said Bursley. If the freeze lasts 90 days, the state would save an stimated $10.15 million by paying districts for the number pupils they have at last year's budget level of $642

Currently the senate is considering a school aid bill with per pupil payment rate from $685-701 million.

EDITORIALS Mitchell abdicates on Kent State shootings

No one has ever been able to satisfactorily explain the immense emotional impact of the Kent State killings. Perhaps it is because the tragedy occured in the heartland of America rather than half a world away that the death of four seemed worse than the deaths of hundreds of thousands. One thing only was held to be sure: At least those who fell in Ohio would know the justice denied the victims of Vietnam.

Last week, however, Attorney General John Mitchell shook the nation with his announcement that the Justice Dept. was eschewing any further action for want of evidence of a "conspiracy." The impact of the attorney general's statement was doubly painful since in the wake of the star chamber proceedings of local government it was presumed that the federal government alone could dispense justice in the case.

Unfortunately, such thinking has lead the American people into cul de sac of cruel disappointment. The federal government has never intended to do more than gloss over the Kent incident while withholding any concrete action. It is simply not in their interest to protect the rights of peace groups at the expense of the traditional segments of society.

That the attorney general was unable to find any grounds of conspiracy charges is nothing less than astounding. The federal government has never had any problem twisting the questionable constitutionality of this elastic law around left-wing factions.

Even with the conspiracy proceedings dismissed, Mitchell certainly has no basis for cancelling all "further action." Death at the hands of the state National Guard clearly raises a question of deprivation of civil rights - an offense also covered by federal statutes. That the Justice Dept. did not even seriously consider these grounds especially in lieu of the Scranton Report is tangible evidence that the administration's mind was made up before the investigation began.

With Mitchell's abdication little recourse is left to the interests of justice. The only other body capable of acting, the State of Ohio, is the precise body collectively responsible for the murders. Indeed, the state's official response thus far is the infamous Kent County grand jury which indicted Kent State students and faculty members for rioting - an act as illogical as blaming Vietnamese genocide on the inability of peasants to avoid falling napalm.

Clearly, the American tradition of justice through law has proven an empty vessel in the Kent State case, suitable for show but little else. It is equally apparent that this situation will not be remedied until the people of this nation are able to implement a sweeping change in their local and national leadership - ironically, the precise thing the Kent demonstrations were all about.

The his ry of Rahman's political career reflects the quest of the East Pakistanis for their fair share of Pakistani prosperity and political power. From the moment of its creation, Pakistan has been dominated by its less populated western wing - and East Pakistan has been systematically exploited as a colonial possession. That President Khan chose to invade East Pakistan and imprison Rahman rather than grant the Awami League its rightful electorial mandate only serves to underscore this fact.

Mujib is, among other things, accused of "waging war against Pakistan," of advocating the secession of East Pakistan and of plotting the assassination of President Khan. These allegations ignore the fact that Rahman has continually opposed separatism though he is a strong proponent of regional autonomy - and that he has consistently stood for

> The irony is that Mujib is quite possibly the only person who can restore peace to Pakistan. The only logical course of action open to Lahore is to release Mujib and allow him to reassume his rightful leadership of East Pakistan and in so doing perhaps manage to preserve the nation. The alternative is to maintain an indefinate state of martial law supported over a supply line thousands of miles long.

Logic unfortunately means little to the repression - oriented, military dominated government of Pakistan. Realistically the chances of attaining Rahman's release are nil. At present it can only be hoped that fear of world reaction will prevent his execution and that he may some day again be

A pink slip for the President

Sunday night the nation's No. 1 executive put his job on the line. President Nixon either pulled a political coup which will guarantee him election in the fall of '72 or doomed himself to the fate of the last Republican president to face an economic crisis, none other than Herbert Hoover. It is strictly an either/or proposition this time. All that is left now is to observe in which direction the President's new policies will pull him.

Nixon's presidency rides on his economic policy reversal for one clear and simple reason: The new policies in themselves are not going to pull the economy through. The policies can only be successful in a psychological sense. That is, the biggest obstacle facing the American economy right now is nothing which can be overcome by changing interest rates and jawboning. The obstacle is purely mental. The business sector is by and large convinced that we are in an economic downturn. As long as they feel this way, they are not going to take the risk of hiring new people or buying new capital equipment. When one is convinced the economy is on the down side, he does not make big investments it's a good way to lose money.

The President before Sunday night

had tried practically every conventional means of turning the economic downturn into a general upswing. He used inflation alerts to proverbially drag big business and unions on the carpet for feeding the inflationary psychology. He played around with interest rates, with no appreciable results. For all practical purposes, the President tried government payroll. The proposed investment tax credit may or may not help employment. If Congress repeals the excise tax on automobiles, Detroit may boom, but again it may not. The 10 per cent import tax may abet American industry. Yet whatever gains this measure may yield in increased stateside production may be offset by every conventional trick in the book, without success. He had no alternative but to try something unconventional.

This he did. The measures ordered and proposed by the President Sunday; night have no business working. Wage and price controls have only worked during wartime. Even then the moment when they were removed, inflation hit again harder than ever.

The new policies in themselves will create no new jobs. In fact, the policies guarantee only the elimination of certain jobs - five per cent of the layoffs in importing firms. The federal spending cuts will hurt employment as some government contractors find themselves left out in the cold. As far as the effectiveness of the policies in themselves, the President probably has even worsened the employment situation.

> The wage-price freeze in itself probably will not work any wonders either. The freeze, if strictly enforced, will of course stop inflation for the time being. But the freeze is of such short duration that the inflationary cycle most likely will not be overcome, For at the termination of the freeze, everyone will get the raises they would have gotten earlier, which will set the inflationary fires going once more.

Then, the question must be asked how will the President overcome the dual dilemma of unemployment and inflation when it is plain to see that his new policies in themselves will not do the job?

The answer lies in economic psychology. For the two and a half years of his presidency, Nixon has taken no clear and visible steps to fight the economic woes. The public did not see the President doing anything economy. about were aware that the Federal Reserve Board was making a few monetary policy maneuvers, but they also saw that these moves were not accomplishing anything.

Sunday night, though, they saw the President make a major policy speech on the economy. He did not ju occupy 20 minutes on the tube defending old policies and assuring us all that everything will work out according to plan, as Nixon had done every few months with his Vietnam policy. He instead took action, coast-to-coast in prime time, for all to see. He initiated wage-price controls to halt inflation, didn't he? He was cutting waste off the government budget, wasn't he? He strengthened the dollar abroad, didn't he?

Of course he did, right before of eyes. The President finally something about the economy. repeat that sentence. The Presiden finally did something about the economy. We saw him give the nation' economic system an unconventional iol on prime time television. The effectiveness of that jolt will depend on the public's faith in th President. If people believe President, if Nixon is trusted by the public, if there is no credibility between the White House and people, the policies will work. On the other hand, if the peop have no faith in the President, if the think that the latest speech was m grandstanding, then the economy remain in its present condition. In other words, the fate of nation's economy for the time being rides on the public's trust in the President. If there is no such trust then Nixon knows that he can forget about 1972. People may or may not vote for a man who does not say the economy, but they definitely wi not vote for a man they do not trus

"Barbie needs a negligee."

"So does your mother," I replied. "But there is one in the catalog for only $3," she cried. "What catalog?"

"The one that came with the doll." I grabbed the catalog and, much to my horror, discovered what the sellers of Barbie were up to. They'll let you have the doll for $3, but you have to buy clothes for her at an average of $3 a crack. They have about 200 outfits, from ice-skating skirts to mink jackets, and a girl's status in the community is based on how many Barbie clothes she has for her doll.

The first time I took my daughter to the store I spent $3 on a dress for her and $25 to outfit her Barbie doll. A week later my daughter came in and said, "Barbie wants to be an airline stewardess.'

"So let her be an airline stewardess," I said. "She needs a uniform. It's only $3.50."

I gave her the $3.50. Barbie didn't stay a stewardess long. She decided she wanted to be a nurse ($3), then a singer in a nightclub ($3), and then a professional dancer ($3). One day my daughter walked in and said, "Barbie's lonely. "Let her join a sorority," I said.

"She wants Ken." "Who is Ken?"

Pretty soon I had put up $400 to protect my original $3 investment. Then one evening my daughter cam in with a shocker.

"Barbie and Ken are getting married Here is the list of wedding clothe they'll need as well as a picture of Barbie's dream house."

"Seven ninety-five for a house?" shouted. "Why can't they live on shelf like the rest of your dolls?" The tears started to flow. "The want to live together as man

Questions keep rolling in on effects of price freeze

By RICK WILBINS State News Staff Writer

"Roots, time and advice" are the critical considerations every consumer, particularly the 18-to-21-year-olds recently granted adulthood, should evaluate in buying products and services, according to Albert G. Isaac, field representative for the Consumer Protection Bureau of the Michigan attorney general's office.

"The young consumer is particularly vulnerable to swindles and poor finance budgeting but can save himself a lot of trouble if he follows three basic suggestions: deal with people who have roots in the community, do not hurry or be forced to hurry spending your money, and seek advice from some knowledgeable person you trust," Isaac said.

Isaac, a former member of the Detroit Police Dept. and commander of the east and west side detective divisions, said he does not believe the old adage that "an honest man

"People will tell you that con games are only for stupid people. Don't you believe it. Many of these swindles involve payments of $5,000. The accumulation of $5,000 and stupidity do not go hand in hand. Everybody simply wants a chunk of the American dream, and without being cautioned beforehand, are susceptible," he explained.

Isaac said young people should be cautioned against some of the more prevalent frauds: "fly-by-night" home repair contractors, get-rich-at-home schemes such as those that suggest you raise chinchillas in your basement, health cure-alls, mail order catering to vanity such as breast development programs and pyramid schemes.

He said the latter is particularly easy to be caught in. "Young people should take care not to get caught up in a business opportunity which involves a product but depends for its success on getting other investors into the system. This seldom benefits anyone but the top people."

Isaac also said that young people could easily create a finacially critical position for themselves by overextending their credit.

"People who are comparative newcomers in the psychedelic or kaleidescopic market of our day are liable to create an unbearable burden upon themselves by overcommitting themselves financially," he said.

Lions, Colts play Sunday at U-M Stadium the College All - Stars by a 24 - 17 count. In its other games, Baltimore was edged 10-7 by Kansas City before beating the Chicago Bears last weekend, 21-13.

The Lions squeezed past the New York Jets, 28-24, in their preseason opener before dropping a wild 31-24 decision last weekend in Detroit to the Cincinnati Bengals before a capacity crowd of 54,365 at Tiger Stadium.

"If we didn't learn a good lesson from Cincinnati, then we are poor football students," Lion Coach Joe Schmidt said. "And if we don't do something about it in a hurry we aren't the kind of football team we feel we have reasons to think

To put it factually, Schmidt felt that the Lions were flat on both sides of the line against the Bengals despite flashes of potency and a surge of substitutions as he gave a flock of rookies a lot of game action.

"Cincinnati had zip. We didn't. We didn't pick off a pass or make them commit mistakes. On the other hand, we pitched three interceptions and made two big errors that practically gave them all their scores."

Guilty of 10 penalties in their victory over the Jets, the Lions were penalized only once against the Bengals. But that was a roughing - the - kicker shot that gave Cincinnati a second chance after Detroit had gone ahead, 17-14. A 54 yard pass play promptly made it 21-17 for Cincinnati.

An intercepted pass set up a Bengal field goal, a 10 - yard punt opened the way to the winner's final touchdown and only a 46 - yard scoring strike from Bill Munson to rookie Ron Jessie in the last two minutes pulled the Lions close.

"We've been playing as if we expected the other team to take one look at us and then roll over and give up," Schmidt insists. "All I can add is that it's a cinch Baltimore won't be overly impressed if we come out the same way against them.'

The Colts plan to split play calling duties between veteran Earl Morrall and Sam Havrilak. Morrall, the ex - Lion, will be playing in the U-M Stadium for the first time since he quarterbacked MSU in action there back in the mid - 1950's, Baltimore has three former U-M Wolverines who will be on a sort of "homecoming" kick this weekend in Rick Volk. Tom Curtis and Bill Laskey while the Lions have a pair of rookies sharing the same experience in George Hoey, a defensive back, and lineman Pete Newell.

Self-hypnosis described as means to better grades

By RAY ANDERSON State News Staff Writer

Imagine taking an exam and coming to a question that draws a complete blank. You've read the material but you just can't remember. . .

You relax, close your eyes and begin self - hypnosis, and then start searching your memory for the necessary information. After finding it you read it thoroughly, close the book (so to speak) and then answer the question.

Though this may sound a bit far - fetched, a week long guest of Wilson Hall attributes self - hypnosis to saving her in a similar case and permitting her to complete her doctoral program in clinical psychology with straight A's.

professor of medical medical school, who teaches the techniques to resident psychiatrists of hypnosis, has a lifestyle that compares in eccentricity with hypnosis for grade improvement.

She began a year long leave in April and has since that time traveled across the U.S. before appearing at MSU.

"I wanted to be able to take off and do what I wanted to do as opposed to the structured relationships of schedules," she said. "It's really been very nice, and I think I'm performing a more valuable service than teaching resident psychiatrists the use of hypnosis."

The majority of the nearly 100 students who listened to her explain the basic concepts of hypnotism in Wilson Auditorium Wednesday appeared to be in enthusiastic agreement with that assessment.

"Anything that can be accomplished by normal methods, can be done better with hypnosis," she opined, adding that the board generalization was open to freeze Monday and said he interpreted the freeze to mean that established rental rates agreed to with a legally binding contract would still be effective this fall. He said he believed that reduced summer rates would not apply in the fall, since they were only temporary deviations from an established rate. Smith qualified his statements by saying he would release a formal opinion on the matter later this week.

Throughout Wednesday, the State News, along with various other news media and citizens, made numerous attempts to contact the OEP, directed to tackle questions and operations concerning the freeze.

Late Wednesday afternoon, a telephone line to the OEP was reached, and an official there commented on various freeze aspects.

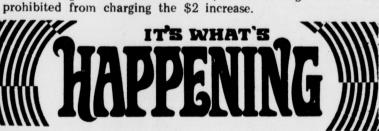

He said landlords may charge rental rates this fall which had been in effect for some time before the freeze began. He said many queries were being received from college towns about reduced summer rates, and policy guidance had been requested by the OEP.

The announcement was to have come by today. As of Wednesday, no decision had been reached.

The official did say that landlords could not impose a rent increase for this fall which had not been effective before the freeze. They must stick with prevailing rates before Aug. 15. His comments followed a question about an intended fall rent increase of $2 in Cedar Village apartments. The increase was decided in February but was not to be effective until September. According to the OEP official, Cedar Village would be to 11 p.m. Saturday at the MSU Observatory. Children under age 13 should be accompanied by an adult with at least one adult for each three children.

A night nature walk is scheduled for 8:30 tonight weather permitting. Those wishing to participate should meet Kathy Skurski in the Natural Resources Building parking lot.

A bird and nature walk has been scheduled for 7 a.m. Sunday in the Baker Woodlot. Interested persons should meet Siah St. Clair in the Natural Resources Building parking

Sabine's job

(Continued from page one) Sabine at MSU now report either to the president or to the provost, and no replacement is expected to be named as vice president for special projects.

During the 1970 - 71 academic year, Sabine was on leave from MSU working with the American College Testing Program in Iowa. This summer he interviewed students during the MSU orientation program and prepared a booklet on the expectations of entering freshmen, which will be distributed to faculty members on campus.

Berlo was quoted in the Daily Pantagraph of Bloomington, Illinois, as stating that Sabine's position will be comparable to that of a university vice president. Sabine was Berlo's boss when the ISU president first came to MSU in 1956. Sabine headed the College of Communication Arts from 1955 to 1960, when he was little less than half the $21.2 named vice president for special projects, a post from to Michigan school districts, which he recently resigned to return to teaching.

Sabine is presently visiting the ISU campus and was not available for comment
