Nixon calls Phase I success, vows to maintain economic restraints

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon pronounced his wage-price freeze "remarkably successful" Thursday night and announced plans for continuing a program of economic restraints after the current freeze ends Nov. 13.

Volume 64 Number 40

"We began this battle against inflation for the purpose of winning it," he told a nationwide radio-television audience. "We are going to stay in it until we do win it."

"We will permit some adjustments of prices and wages that fairness demands," Nixon said, "but we will not permit inflation to flare up again."

The President said he was turning over the job of fixing specific wage and price standards to two newly created quasi-independent bodies whose major decision will be subject to governmental Nixon announced that Secretary of the Treasury, John B. Connally, who heads the Cost of Living Council, will go on radio and television Friday with further explanations of the continuing program. The time was set for 1 p.m. EDT.

President Nixon tossed to his new three-sided Pay Board, still to be named, the hot-potato issue of whether previously contracted pay increases can take effect when the Phase 2 controls begin Nov. 14.

by Nixon's nationally broadcast address on post-freeze inflation controls is the size of wage increases that will be permitted-in effect, a new set of wage guidelines.

Nixon merely set the goal of reducing the rate of living-cost increase to between 2 and 3 per cent by the end of 1972. Some economists estimate this could be done if wage boost were limited to 5 or 6 per cent a

But Nixon's address dealt almost solely with the structure, not the policy, of Phase 2 restraints. The wage guideposts are to be developed by the 15-member Pay Board made up of five members each from labor, industry and the public. The seven-member Price Commission will set policy for permissible price rises.

Nixon's reticence was partly a strategic necessity. AFL-CIO President George Meany has indicated labor would not cooperate in Phase 2 controls unless the guidelines were made and administered by a tripartite board.

The hottest current issue is whether pay boosts negotiated before the Aug. 15 freeze can take full effect after that date. They were blocked for duration of the freeze, even though in some cases they represented the second-year or third-year step-ups of long-term wage contracts.

Officials emphasized, however, that the pay increases withheld during the freeze cannot be saved up and paid retroactively to the worker when the freeze ends. The workers simply lost that much money; the question now remains whether the Phase 2 standards will permit the employer to begin

If it becomes clear that inflation is not being held to 2 or 3 per cent a year, the council would recommend tightening of the standards of the Pay Board or Price Commission.

Department for court action. The construction industry's present system of wage-control boards will be continued, a White House official said, within the general framework of new Pay Board standards. "We think it is a pretty good operation," the source said. Here is the rundown on President Nixon's proposals for an anti-inflation effort to go into effect Nov. 14 at the end of the current wage-price freeze:

Goal: A two to three per cent annual inflation rate by the end of 1972 This is about half of the pre-freeze rate. Price Commission: A seven-member group of distinguished private citizens, to develop yardsticks on prices, empowered to restrain price and rent increases and prevent windfall

Pay Board: Five representatives each of labor, management and the public, to stop inflationary wage and salary increases. All elements of compensation, including wages, salaries and fringe benefits will be subject to

Interest and Dividends Committee: Headed by Federal Reserve Board Chairman, Arthur Burns, it will apply anti-inflation yardsticks in these areas with care taken not to drive credit from housing or other critical areas. Health Service: Because of "special difficulties" and lack of standardization, a special committee on this industry will advise on how to restrain cost and price

Cost of Living Council: Will continue to develop anti-inflation goals, review the standards set by the Pay Board and Price Commission and have the power to back them up with government sanctions.

Duration: "Until inflationary pressures are brought under control."

Administration: A national system of regional and local service and compliance centers will be set up under the Internal Revenue Service with about 360 offices and a staff of some 3,000.

Union orders dock strikers back to work

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The West Coast longshoremen's union Thursday ordered its 15,000 striking dock workers back on the job Sataurday in response to a federal court order.

President Harry Bridges of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union sent telegrams to all 28 locals instructing men to return with the first shift Saturday, 101 days after the record walkout began. Bridge's telegram, released by the ILWU, said the union's strike strategy committee voted unanimously to respect a restraining order issued Wednesday night by a federal

U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams ordered the dock workers back for A hearing on converting the temporary restraining order into a permanent 80-day strike moratorium under the Taft-Hartley Act had been scheduled Friday, but was delayed until Oct. 15 by U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert.

Sweigert acted on a request from the ILWU and the Pacific Maritime Assn., which represents 120 shipper-employers. They asked more time to prepare for a hearing.

James Robertson, secretary of the PMA, said after Bridges' announcement that the court order "provides for the prompt resumption of operations. Therefore it is our position that each employer should start as soon as he can resume operations." In granting the restraining order sought by President Nixon, Willaims said there was evidence that continuation of the strike threatened "the nation's health and safety."

The ILWU is seeking a 37.4 per cent wage boost to $5.98 per hour over two years, a $500 monthly pension for men retiring at 62 with 25 years service and sole jurisdiction over off-dock container handling, which the Teamsters Union also claims.

Munn suffers stroke Thursday afternoon

Clarence (Biggie) Munn, former MSU football coach and present Director of Athletics, suffered a stroke at 3:10 p.m. Thursday.

Munn was found by his secretary slumped over the wheel of his car in the Jenison Fieldhouse parking lot. He was immediately rushed to Sparrow Hospital where he was placed in the intensive care unit under the care of a long time friend and family physician Theodore I. Bauer. Bauer first described the condition of Munn as an "episode of fainting," but later confirmed after further study that it had been a stroke.

The stroke came just two days before tne biggest game of the year for MSU, the Michigan clash in East Lansing, a game that Munn had worked so hard at to get nationally televised. Munn's efforts were finally rewarded this season when ABC-TV charted the Spartan-Wolverine game as its "Game of the Week" for Oct.

Munn has been athletic director at MSU for the past 17 years. In his tenure, he has built one of the largest collegiate athletic programs in the nation, on both the varsity and intramural level.

Munn, prior to his appointment as the University's director of athletics, served as the head football coach of the Spartans. The fiery Munn, a member of the National Football Hall of Fame for both his playing and coaching days, compiled a 54 - 9 - 2 record while coaching MSU.

The University ranks first among state institutions in enrollment of Spanish surnamed students, an administration report released Thursday states.

The report was drafted in response to past Chicano allegations that MSU's programs for the Mexican-American community were inadequate, Robert Perrin, Vice President for University relations and author of the report, said.

About 370 Spanish surnamed students were enrolled at MSU for fall 1970, the Chicano report stated. Of these, 308 were full-time students, which compares with 100 full-time Spanish surnamed students in fall Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania appealed to senators to vote against the resolution, sponsored by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah.

One argument raised against the resolution was that the Senate's action in voting to permit government pay raises up to the average permitted in the private sector under Phase 2 of Nixon's program would not stand

Wholesale prices drop

Wholesale prices dropped last month for the first time in nearly a year and White House economists called it good news that could be credited to President Nixon's economic policy.

"I think we can be quite reassured" that Nixon's policy is working, said Chairman Paul McCracken of the President's Council of Economic Advisers of the three-tenths of one per cent price decline.

"The report on September wholesale prices was good news for all of us," said Arnold Weber, staff director of Nixon's Cost of Living Council that administers the wage-price freeze.

More tax cuts demanded

Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally encountered Thursday a barrage of demands from Democratic senators that President Nixon's tax cut bill be revised to give more benefits to individuals.

Connally, opening witness at Senate Finance Committee hearings on the legislation, replied that individuals have received massive tax cuts in recent years while corporation levies actually have increased.

He said the administration is accepting changes made by the House in the original Nixon tax proposals to give additional tax relief to low-income families

Liberals 'afflicted souls'

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was expressing his view of a "goal the Republican party would seek" in the 1972 elections when he pledged a new effort to rid Congress of "radical liberals," the White House said Thursday.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked whether Agnew was speaking for the White House when he referred to radical liberals in an El Paso, Tex., speech Tuesday and said: "Come 1972, be assured, we intend to strengthen the hand of the President during the second Nixon adminstration by removing most, if not all, of these afflicted souls..."

Strikers expect mandate

An estimated 15,000 longshoremen remained idle along the Pacific Coast Thursday, but they were expected to interrupt a 99-day strike within 24 hours under a Taft-Hartley back - to - work mandate. Formal service of the court orders was under way.

"We plan to abide by an injunction if it comes through the courts," said John Pandora, a Southern California leader of the striking independent Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. "We're available to go back to work."

Healey criticizes party

An opposition Labor party leader criticized Britain's Conservative party government Thursday, saying it is emerging as "the major obstacle in the Western world" to East-West understandings.

Ex-Defense Minister Denis Healey's assertion at the party's annual convention highlighted a frontal assault on the foreign policies being pursued by Prime Minister Edward Heath's government.

Earth has 'little sister'

A pint-sized "quasimoon" only a mile in diameter is linked to the earth and the moon in a kind of "triplet system," Nobel Prize-winning physicist Hannes Alfven said Thursday.

It travels to within 9.3 million miles of earth in eight-year cycles, Alfven said. Its next close visit is expected in August 1972.

Fourth party possible

De mocratic presidential hopeful Henry M. Jackson said Thursday his candidacy would be successful even if it should lead to establishment of a fourth party on the left.

"We would do better than ever," the Washington senator told a news conference. "Truman proved that in 1948" when Henry Wallace left the Democrats and ran as a Progressive.

DeMaso predicted that the state's lawmakers will turn thumbs down at any program requiring additional funds.

In response to a suggestion made at Monday's city council meeting calling for the division of precincts to accomodate a large voter turnout, Patriarche said he would "look into it." However, Wednesday afternoon he said he had not checked into the law and said the city would proceed with plans to order extra voting machines to handle heavy voting.

"I don't see any problem," Patriarche said. "I really can't get very excited about the fact we might have a few extra voters."

The city manager said it would be "very difficult" to divide up overburdened precincts before November as suggested by John Veenstra at a council meeting Monday. He pointed out notification would have to be sent to all registrants by the city clerk's office which "already has enough to do without adding something elseto their problems."

Patriarche admitted Precinct 3, which includes the MSU campus, as well as others, may have too many voters, but this was unavoidable. He said precincts boundaries would probably be changed next year after a study of registration rolls and action by the city council.

"If this were a presidential election it might be different," he said. "But since we only have one issue on the ballot, I don't hink we'll

EDITORIALS Congress foxed again by Pentagon planners

The long summer debate on the draft bill finally came to an end under Pentagonal pressure. The men in the big five-sided building said at the time that if Congress did not quickly pass a draft bill, the military would face a serious manpower shortage. The Senate swallowed the bait and extended the draft for two

Tuesday the military announced their draft plans for the coming year. Draft calls for the rest of this year will be 10,000 per month as compared to the earlier projected figures of 15,000 to 20,000. In addition men will now have 30 days notice to report for induction as compared to ten in the past. This new 30 day notice policy means that no one will be drafted this month at all.

All of which once again casts serious doubt about the credibility of the Pentagon's estimates of America's military needs. The Pentagon always has a trump card to play when it places its annual orders national defense. After all, if anyone would know what is and what is not essential to the defense of the country, the Pentagon would know. And no one would want the U.S. to be caught with its defenses down, now would they?

Thus the Pentagon gets whatever it pleases and damn the American taxpayer. With the draft bill the Pentagon has once again duped Congress and the American public. If there was really a manpower shortage in the Armed Forces, the Army would be drafting a lot more than 10,000 men per month on 30 day notice.

It is high time Congress stopped allowing the military to get away with this subtle form of blackmail. for military hardware. All the men in Granted America needs armed green need do is declare that a forces, but she needs housing, particular measure is essential to the schools, clean air and water, transportation, and improved health care just as desperately. Such internal goals will never be achieved with nearly half the federal budget allocated to the military.

Proposed wiretap bill in league with the rack

In addition to frost on the pumpkin and tumbling leaves, fall in Michigan is renowned as the time when the legislature gets down to the business of passing the inane bills everybody was against in the spring. The wiretap proposal presently before the state House of Representatives provides a classic case in point.

Under the auspices of this legislation the state attorney general, his deputies and assistants and county prosecuting attorneys would be allowed to apply in court for special eavesdropping warrants. Proponents of the bill and law and order buffs everywhere hail the proposition as an invaluable tool in combatting "major crimes."

No doubt the wiretap bill would be precisely that. Of course, so would unlimited stop and search or, for that matter the rack and thumbscrews. The burning question here is whether any potential advantages are more than outweighed by the inherent dangers of abuse.

It is not unprecedented for a law enforcement official to seriously warp the intent of the law to serve his own political or zealous ends. Similarly, the practice of using criminal statutes out of context as tools of political oppression is all too frequent.

Above all, supporters of the wiretap bill have yet to demonstrate any absolute need for such legislation. There are already wiretap statutes existent at the federal level designed precisely for combatting "organized" or "major" crime. It is noteworthy that the utility of these federal laws is still being hotly contested.

Simply, the case for increased legal snooping powers - law enforcement lobbies aside - is far from satisfactory. Implimenting a law under such circumstances is clearly in contradiction to the public good.

Progress or politics?

East Lansing City Council members are finally doing something about the lack of recreation space in the community.

Their vote Monday to convert a small 62-car parking lot at Albert St. and Charles St. into an open recreation area is an overdue, though welcome, change in direction.

In the past the council has funded an extensive tree planting operation and has bought open land on the outskirts of town. But these actions are scarcely representative of the council's past attitudes towards ecological reform. The Jacobson's parking ramp was erected with city approval; it has since become a sore thumb for the city. Many parking lots were built in the community, a testament to the city's preoccupation with the automobile. Proposals for a cross campus and a periphereal route were introduced and pushed even though adoption of such plans would mean the death of more non-highway land.

The Albert-Charles Street parking lot metamorphosis could represent a slowdown in the council's stubborn insistence on making East Lansing a deluxe business community. But in a more cynical tone, the transition could be nothing better than a convenient ploy to buy off the student community.

Only time will tell whether our city council has changed its attitudes or mere changed its tactics.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Special Correspondent

"Liberation war" has raged for years. It could go on for years more.

Probably a million have died from bullets, disease and other war-related causes. Villages are burned for sheltering rebels.

Refugees flee homes in terror of planes and guns emanating from a far-off nation which also has military observers on the scene in active roles. Sound familar?

These reports concern the southern part of the Sudan, Africa's most extensive nation. "Liberation" forces claim to fight "imperialists," but in this case that label is attached to the Arabs and their Russian

For 15 years, Khartoum regimes have tried to suppress an autonomy movement. South Sudanese say a million died in that period. A UN estimate places deaths at half a million since 1963, when fighting began on an organized basis under SANU - the Sudan African National Union - and its guerrilla arm, the Anya - Nya The Anya - Nya is commanded by Col. Joseph Lagu, who shares authority with four other leaders from various South Sudan areas.

At first limited to primitive weapons, the Anya - Nya gradually built up stores of equipment by raiding Arab posts. In 1966 it had a windfall: a large quantity of arms from rebels fleeing a collapsed movement in the neighboring Congo.

devastation and suffering brought by the furtive war. Everywhere, he says, the effect are visible: burned villages, terrified people in flight, victims of atrocities, threat of famine, epidemics. Hundreds of thousand are refugees. Numberless, thousands hit out in the forests of the south.

He reports overwhelming popular support for the Anya - Nya among the various tribe including the numerous Dinka people who are pictured by the Khartoum government as opposed to the rebellion. For Khartoun, it seems an impossible task to defeat the movement, says Reed. The area is vast and the resistance employs guerrilla taction Much of the area is open plain, but by forests in the south lend themselves to hi and run warfare.

Like Vietnam, the South Sudan war seems unwinnable for either side. While Reedfeel the rebels can fight indefinitely, he say chances of a clear-cut victory are small Egyptians, Libyans and even Algerians help the Arab side, he says, while Soviet military advisers lend the Arabs significant aid inthe use of sophisticated modern tools of war.

For the Russians, the situation may have changed some lately. Moscow's relation with Khartoum are strained since a leth crackdown by the government of Jaafard Numairy against the Sudan's Communis party. Some speculate that Moscow might use the development as an excuse to scal down what might be an expensive involvement in black Africa. But the Sudanese government already has received important arms aid. In 1970 alone the Russians supplied $75 million worth. addition, Khartoum's ally, Egypt, has at abundance of Soviet arms.

Cold war logic creeps in at this point. The United States has had no direct ties will Khartoum since the 1967 Arab - Israel wa Now there are reports that Washington wants to capitalize on the new Soviet difficulty and is ready to resume diplomatic relations along with economic aid. This seems to strike a responsive chort in Khartoum.

Reed says black leaders fear that even!
Numairy parted with the Russians he would make up for it with help from the Americans. On the other hand, the Russians are made more reluctant to pull out because

Fishel: no right to teach

To the Editor:

To the Editor:

The case of Wesley Fishel demonstrates MSU's continuing complicity in perpetuating the war in Vietnam. Wesley Fishel, the prime mover in involving MSU in Vietnam, the discoverer of and adviser to Ngo Dinh Diem, the late dictator, is still allowed to teach on campus. For him to continue to do so justifies and even glorifies his role in suppressing the freedom of the Vietnamese people. The continuation of his teaching applauds MSU's complicity, through the Vietman Project which he

In waging the war in Vietnam, MSU trained and armed a paramilitary force which terrorized the Vietnamese people in the same method as the SS. If the freedom and self-determination of the Vietnamese people means anything, Wesley Fishel has no right to teach at MSU. He is one of those most responsible for their continued misery and massacre brought on by the United States involvement in Vietnam. In the past, MSU's leaders have expressed disillusionment with the course of American involvement in Vietnam. If these pronouncements are sincere, the sincerity can be tested by MSU's refusal to allow Wesley Fishel a university platform from which to defend his role in the suppression of rights of the Vietnamese people. Furthermore, the Student Mobilization Committee challenges Wesley Fishel to a public debate to defend his complicity in the Vietnam war and his right to remain at MSU.

B.B.King concert set; tickets on sale Tuesday

By NAT ABBATE State News Staff Writer

It has been said that it took B.B. King 22 years to become an overnight sensation, but even before he rose to popularity after his 1969 tour with the Rolling Stones, there were people who recognized him as the "king of the blues."

People like Eric Clapton and Mike Bloomfield were influenced by King, and considering the number of rock guitarists they themselves have influenced, it is safe to say that B.B. King is really the "boss of the blues."

King will play a two hour concert at 8 p.m. on Oct. 22 in the Auditorium. All tickets will cost $3, and will go on sale at 8 a.m. Tuesday in the Union, 9 a.m. at Campbell's and 9:30 a.m. at Marshall's.

The concert will be held in the Auditorium because the installation of Tartan Turf in Jenison Fleldhouse has made the building unavailable for that date, Berry Blatt, Pop Entertainment Chairman, said Thursday.

Playing to college audiences is relatively new to

King, considering he has been around for 33 year. A change in managers a few years ago took him away from the "chitlin' circuit" and introduced him to the primarily white "pop"-oriented

His engagements during 1968 and 1969 tool him to many large colleges throughout the country and to every important pop festival in the United States and Canada. In November, 1969, BB. played before one million fans while on a 14-city American tour with the Rolling Stones.

From then on, King's fame has snowballed He has played all the big-name rooms in Las Vega appeared on numerous television shows and commercials, and has toured Europe and Japan.

B.B. King once said his biggest ambition was in be the "best blues singer and blues guitarist" in the world. If his public, critics and fellow musician are any indication, he has succeeded.

If you don't believe it, just ask Eric Clapton.0 find out for yourself at 8 p.m. on Oct. 22 in the without causing any real physical injury, Robert McNish, East Lansing resident, said.

McNish, the groups' "Seneschal" (president) explained that "clean blow to the helm" is usually required.

"A 'killing blow' is a blow delivered with sufficient force so that if real weapons and armor were being used, the blow would have good chance of having some damage on the other person," McNish

He added that all fighters are required to wear head and neck protection. Fighters also protect themselves with body padding McNish added that there have been a few injuries, none serious, due to faulty equipment.

Before fighters can enter the tournaments, he said, they are trained to handle weapons without injury to themselves to others. McNish said the rules of chivalry govern all combat.

INTO NIGHT

Beal Film Group presents TONIGHT and Saturday

LONG DAY'S JOURNEY

"No one who has ever demanded serious, mature entertainment on the screen can afford to miss it . . . What is most extraordinary about LONG DAY'S JOURNEY is the way it builds. Shot in progression, the actors come to the peak of their powers just as the play rises to its climax. Together, they provide a final half-hour of sustained intensity the like of which has seldom been seen on the screen.'

-Arthur Knight, Saturday Review

"One of the year's finest films... provides a raw red slice of family life liberally garnished with rotgut, morphine, vitriol and sour grapes, that takes more than three hours to digest. But it feeds the inner man . . . In his anguished sincerity, in his dogged loyalty to his own experience, O'Neill sees deeper perhaps than any other dramatist has ever seen into family life. He sees its animal warmth, its blessed monotony, its healing, private humor. And he sees all the terrible things people do to each other in the name of love."

After such an experience, I don't see how one can niggle over whether it's "cinema" or merely "filmed theater." Whatever it is, it's great. (And I am prepared to defend it as a movie.) I'm not sure, however, that JOURNEY is, in the fullest sense, exportable. This portrait of the artist as an Irish-American has the worst American failings: it's obvious, sprawling yet crabbed. It's the naked, trite, naggingly self-expressive art of a new, almost pathetically self-conscious country. But if you respond at all, I think you go all the way to exaltation. Perhaps just because of all its hideous familiarity, its grinding, ludicrous wrestling with expressiveness, JOURNEY is, at last, an American family classic: the usual embarrassments have been transcended and the family theme is raised to mythic heights.

Katharine Hepburn has surpassed herself - the most beautiful comedienne of the thirties and forties has become our greatest tragedienne; seeing her transitions in JOURNEY, the way she can look eighteen or eightyat will, experiencing the magic in the art of acting, one can understand why the appellation "the divine" has sometimes been awarded to certain actresses. For the other performers - Ralph Richardson, Jason Robards and Dean Stockwell, for the director Sidney Lumet, and for the cinematographer Boris Kaufman, perhaps even a critic may express simple gratitude. To borrow from Nietzsche: "In praise there is often more obtrusiveness than in blame. PAULINE KAEL

Bicycle numbers soaring; MSU facilities unaltered

By MICHAEL FOX State News Staff Writer

Whizzing along over the asphalt pathway, the typical MSU bicycle rider faces the frustration this fall of the sparing bicycle numbers while facilities remain relatively unexpanded.

About 7,240 bicycles had been registered with the Dept. of Public Safety as of Thursday morning, a spokesman for the vehicle registration office said. The figure compares with 5,163 bicycles registered last year, and 3,793 the year before.

The use of bicycles has become a major phenomenon both in student communities and in suburban areas. The enticement of inexpensive, highly mobile transportation, plus an opportunity for ecological conscience clearing has sparked much of the interest in bicycles. The East Lansing police department has registered 1,671 bicycles this fall, many of which probably belong to students and faculty living off-campus. Many bicycles still have not obtained their fifty-cent registration sticker, and the actual bicycle count on campus is probably near 10,000 two-wheeled. nonmotorized vehicles.

A special television program has been produced by Andy House, East Lansing graduate student, on the bicycle problem in East Lansing. The bicycle documentary will be broadcast on WMSB-TV, Channel 10, at 10 p.m. Sunday on the "On Assignment" program.

"The program will include an explanation of what has taken place, what other cities are doing in terms of bicycle paths, and statements from some people on the situation," House said.

"The Birth of a Nation" is, all at once, one of the most controversial, popular, and important works in the entire history of the cinema. It is the title which comes most quickly to mind when the words "film classic" are spoken.

Its director, D.W. Griffith, who is often referred to as "the father of the motion picture," was the first director to become known to the public at large, attaining a status equal to that of today's super-stars. Griffith turned out many motion pictures which revolutionized the course of the international cinema, and "The Birth of a Nation" is the masterpiece of the lot. It is also the beginning of the feature film as we know it today.

The epic sweep and realism of Griffith's battle scenes and of Sherman's march to the sea have seldom been equalled by Hollywood since "Birth of a Nation" was released in 1915. Griffith had an equally keen eye for sentiment and melodrama -thus there is the juxtaposition of the weeping women and old men praying with the corpses piled in the trenches and the massive, panoramic scenes of combat.

The result of all the furor is that today, "The Birth of a Nation" stands as the film which has had the most far reaching repercussions, socially and cinematically of any movie ever made. It is a film to be studied, enjoyed, analyzed, debated and one to be seen over and over

Imagine, if you will, a compact device into which you pop a small plastic thing, press a button, and flood a room with sound - the kind of sound you've come to associate with new (unscratched) records of the highest quality allows you to do your own programming. Imagine carrying around with you (perhaps in your shirt pocket) one or more of those small plastic things, and popping them into

Imagine that the sound quality of the small plastic thing will not deteriorate with repeated playings, and that it's virtually indestructible.

Imagine too, that the same device allows you to conveniently make your own plastic things - copies made from other sound sources that are virtually indistinguishable In other words, imagine a whole new sound medium, with the best qualities (including the sound) of all the media you're accustomed too, but with fev: of their drawbacks, and with virtues all its own.

Advent Corporation has used its imagination, and by combining several significant aspects of current technology, has come up with just such a new medium. What makes it all possible is the new Advent Model 201 Stereo Cassette Tape Deck, a record/playback device that uses the standard cassette format to achieve all those things we've asked you to imagine.1

Cassettes have always had many of the virtues we've described, but unfortunately their AM-radio sound quality, and their lightweight drive mechanisms have limited their appeal. On the other hand, open-reel recorders have had the virtue of good sound, but also have proven inconvenient enough to intimidate many critical listeners, who would rather not work quite so hard to enjoy well-produced music.

The Advent Model 201 provides all the performance and day-to-day consistency of operation of good open-reel recorders, at about the same price you'd expect to pay for a really excellent one.2 Yet because it uses standard cassettes, it provides a level of convenience and portability (and pocketability) which only the cassotte medium can provide.

There is more to the story. Some of the technological advances used in the 201 can also be used in the manufacture of pre-recorded cassettes. The best commercial "Dolbyized" cassette releases, when played on the Model 201, are easily the equivalent to the best disc recordings. With further refinement, in some respects a commercially recorded cassette can actually please come visit us soon; we'd be delighted to show you what it's all about. We think that with time, you might find this new medium, as exemplified by the Advent Model 201,3 your preferred way to enjoy recorded music. 1. Some of the things that make it possible, in addition to Advent's imagination and expertise, are: a rugged high-torque, precision, and easy - to - operate transport mechanism; the famous Dolby System® of noise reduction; the
