A road stretching the length of the finger-shaped 43-mile long island, also was cracked in at least half a dozen places and was rendered temporarily impassible. Most of the fractured areas, repaired quickly, were located where earthen fills had been used to level the surface.

One mile from ground zero, the tundra-covered side of coastal hills slid into the sea. Rocky cliffs were shattered and piles of broken rock fell into the sea as far as half a mile up and down the coast.

Candidate challenges minority designation

By JUDY YATES State News Staff Writer

An individual who does not fit the generally accepted definition of a minority group representative has declared himself a minority candidate for the student representative-at-large to the Academic Council election.

The individual has nominated himself for the section of the minority breakdown on the nomination form reserved for nonwhite students who are neither black nor Chicano. The section has two positions open to male or female representatives.

"I have classified myself as a nonwhite. If anyone challenges my classification, I will fall back on my Winnebago Indian heritage as my justification as a minority representative," the individual in question said Sunday.

The individual said the committee never defined the term nonwhite.

The individual pointed out that there are going to be more blacks and women on the council than white males.

"The committee was aware Wednesday night that at least one individual does not meet the criteria in Section D for nonwhite students other than blacks and Chicanos." Mark Bathurst, chairman of the Student Committee on Nominations said Sunday.

"After much discussion the committee decided that if the individual defined himself in this position, the committee will not stop him from running in this position,"

"It is entirely up to the individual to defend himself in court should anyone appeal his position," Bathurst said.

Councilmen plan action for 1st meet

By BOB ROACH Executive Reporter

Breaking with the tradition of normally placid "first night" city council meetings, two new East Lansing councilmen-elect are ready to get down to business tonight on the issues that carried them to sweeping victories in last week's election.

George Griffiths and George Colburn, the Project: City Hall candidates who ran an issue-oriented campaign to a 3,000-vote plurality, plan to introduce measures on the environment, voter registration and city policies at the meeting at 7:45 tonight in the City Hall council chamber.

The agenda calls for the swearing-in of Griffiths, Colburn and Wilbur Brookover, who starts his second term, and the election of a new mayor and mayor pro tem from the council ranks.

"The number one priority item," Griffiths said, "is a ban on sewer construction." He said he will ask City Attorney Daniel C. Learned to draw up papers banning East Lansing sewer construction because the city's six-year-old sewage treatment plant is inadequate to handle current inputs from East Lansing, MSU and Meridian Township.

Colburn will introduce a resolution to reconsider the city's endorsement of the controversial cross-campus route. MSU's Board of Trustees is expected to make a final determination on the route Nov. 19.

He also plans to ask for council approval of studies and public hearings on the downtown peripheral route plan and voter

Anyone interested in working at the polls in the Academic Council member at-large election Tuesday, please call the ASMSU office. Poll workers will be compensated.

Based on the preliminary data, Schlesinger said: "It has been a successful test. We will be able to certify, I think, this device for introduction into the U.S. weapons stockpile.'

The scientists will pore over data accumulated in the fraction of a second before the explosion destroyed a 300-foot instrument-packed cylinder above the test

The Spartan is designed to knock out incoming enemy missiles in space by hurling its warhead within range to explode and bombard them with a screen of intense radiation-powerful X rays and neutrons. These would penetrate the missiles' skin, alter atomic structure in their electrical components and render them useless.

He said personnel at the control center experienced a shaking for about 60 seconds at the time of the blast

At Adak Island, 200 miles east of Amchitka, observers reported "very gentle rolling action."

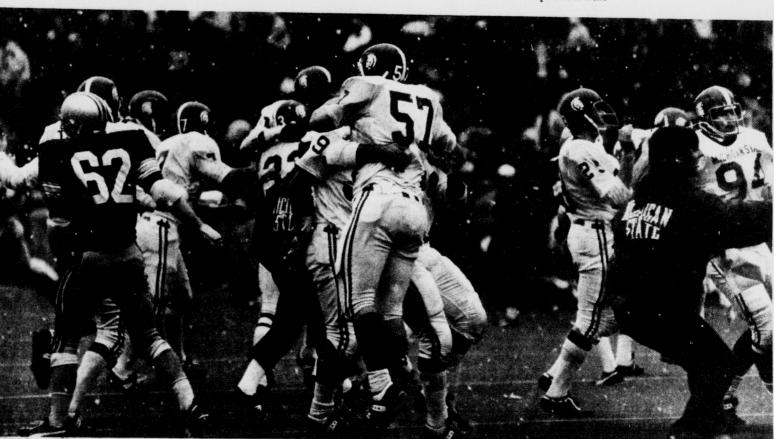

Moments before detonation, AEC officials announced a 160-foot Soviet "research-type" vessel had been spotted some 75 miles southeast of Amchitka and a small unidentified fishing boat was observed about 35 miles to the north. Neither was affected by the blast, officials said. They were unable to provide further information on the two crafts.

Spokesmen aboard the Green-peace

Too-a ship carrying Canadian protesters of the blast-said they felt nothing at the time of the test. The vessel, on its way to Amchitka to monitor the test, was 700 miles away at the time of detonation.

Environmentalists fought the case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court which ruled 4-3 at about noon EST that the explosion could go on as scheduled. The test had the personal approval of President Nixon—a step required by Congress.

The AEC's Giller said the test was close to five megatons in size, though its exact dimensions may remain classified for some time. At some unannounced date, the AEC will drill into the bomb chamber to collect samples of soil for chemical analysis. From this, the AEC says, it can get the most precise indication of exactly how strong the explosion was

Defense key as gridders upset 8th-ranked Bucks

By RICK GOSSELIN State News Sports Editor

The Ohio State Buckeyes have been spending the season preparing for the wrong Michigan game.

The MSU Spartans, spurred by another record-setting effort by fleet halfback Eric Allen, overcame the rain, snow and eighth-ranked Ohio State Bucks Saturday in rolling along to their third straight Big Ten win, 17-10.

The MSU victory left the fifth largest crowd ever to see a game at Ohio State (86, 616) and a local Columbus television audience in a state of shock and bewilderment. The Spartans completely stole the show from the Buckeyes and even Duffy Daugherty had a final say over Woody Hayes. Duffy was toted off the field atop the shoulders of several of his players, while Hayes could only walk that long walk to the Ohio locker room in the swirl of snow on the soggy Astroturf. It was the MSU defense this week that crucified the opponent. Last week, the Spartan offense accumulated 698 yards in crushing

Purdue. But this week the defensive team was not to be deried. The Spartan defenders stole three Buckeye passes and recovered the lone fumble of the day in setting up both Spartan seven

Though Allen could only dance for 79 yards against the Ohio boys, he did manage to break two more MSU single season records. Allen scored both of the MSU touchdowns, his 12th and 13th of the year, breaking Clint Jones' mark of 12 scores recorded over the 1965 season. Almost hand-in-hand with that record went the total-points-for-a-season record, as Allen now has 80-bettering again Jones' mark of 74 set in the '65 season. It was the first loss suffered by Ohio State at home in conference play since 1967, when Illinois turned the trick. Even the University of Michigan hasn't been able to win a game in Columbus in recent

Though the Spartan offense found its yardage totals trimmed down to 199 against the Bucks, the Ohio Staters were in for an even greater shock on the final statistic sheet. The Bucks, who formerly held down the number three total offensive spot in the Big Ten, averaging 372 yards per game, could only generate 185 total yards. The Buckeyes gained only 37 yards in the entire second half.

"They came out trying to run against us but they couldn't," defensive tackle Ron Curl said. "We just knew they wouldn't be able to run against us. So they tried to pass against us, but the secondary rose to the occasion and wouldn't let them do that either. What was left for them to do?"

The Spartans were the first to draw blood on the scoreboard when Borys Shlapak booted another long field goal-a 47-yarder—through the uprights to post a 3-0 lead with 14:12 left in

The Bucks came right back at the Spartans, running out of the wishbone set, with Rick Galbos pounding away at the Spartan line. Morris Bradshaw scored the touchdown, though, scampering around left end for 11 yards.

The score was set up when the Buckeyes were faced with a fourth and three situation from the Spartan 38. In punt formation, the OSU center snapped the ball to blocking back Rick Galbos who darted around the right side of a surprised (to say the least) MSU defensive team. That placed the ball on the Spartan 14, enabling the Bucks to take the lead on Bradshaw's run two plays later.

At this point, the MSU defensive team put a claim in on the game. An MSU drive stalled and the Spartans were forced to punt. Ohio State took over possession after Bill Simpson booted the ball out of the end zone. After two short gain running plays, Buck quarterback Greg Hare, throwing his second pass of the game, found Brad VanPelt too much of an obstacle to overcome and the Spartan safety picked off the toss on the Buck 37, returning it to the OSU 7.

The University is involved in the world of h finance to the tune of millions of lars worth of investments each year.

The investments are both pooled mporary investments of sometimes only a atter of days in duration and long term vestments made by holding companies ch as Ann Arbor Trust Co.

According to the University's 1970-71 Inancial Report, which was being stributed late last week, the University de $1,249,359 from investments during at year. Where the investments are made is report of investment schedules was made available to the State News Friday by Steve Terry, asst. vice president for finance.

Determining how much money goes where is made difficult by the University's confusing accounting procedures. Terry, a Certified Public Accountant (CPA), said he understood the existing procedures only after much time and effort.

The University has a system of "fund accounting" where separate bodies of "funds" of money are earmarked for different purposes. For example, the General Fund is the fund responsible for the general operation of the University. But not included in the report, but a separate _there are other funds such as the Plant Fund. the Retirement and Insurance Fund and the Endowment Fund.

These last three funds supply much of the money involved in long term investments.

The Plant Fund "owns" all the buildings on campus and must pay off the bonds on them. This fund is required to keep a $4.9 million reserve and the University invests this money through Ann Arbor Trust Co. The trust company last year used Plant Fund money primarily for U.S. Treasury notes, bonds and bills.

The Ann Arbor Trust Co. invests University money in coordination with an investment counselor, a firm called Scudder, Stevens, Ampersand, and Clark. This second firm makes recommendations to Ann Arbor Trust concerning investment of MSU

This arrangement was set up by MSU's board of trustees, which has given the Scudder, Stevens, Ampersand & Clark firm a set of guidelines for investments. Terry said very few universities do their own investment planning.

Money given to the University often ends up in the Endowment Fund. Donors occasionally give the University money and, in effect, say "Invest my money and use the interest for a specific purpose." Included within the Endowment Fund are the Class of 1915 Fund, the Jack B. Fields Memorial Fund for Needy dents and the Dorothy Damm and Bertha Wahlen Scholarship Fund.

The Endowment Fund has $650,000 worth of investments in real estate and mortgages and $10.4 million (indicated market value) with Detroit Bank and Trust Co. and Ann Arbor Trust.

The Detroit firm invested the endowment funds in such companies as American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (AT & T), Indianapolis Power, Whirlpool Corp., Union Electric Co., Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, Sears and Roebuck Acceptance Corp. and Zenith

Radio Corp. These investments all brought in more than $5,000 in income to MSU during 1970-71.

Ann Arbor Trust Co. invested University money during 1970-71 (including endowment fund money) in stocks and bonds of companies including Ford Motor Credit Co., AT & T, Dow Chemical, Ford Motor Co., RCA Corp., Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, Texaco, Inc., General Motors Corp., Michigan Bell Telephone Co., Eastern Airlines, American Airlines, Xerox Corp., Poloroid Co. and Scott Paper Co.

A Rome archeologist has discovered a 700 - year-old basilica and sarcophagus he believes to be that of St. Hippolytus.

Prof. Pasquale Testini of the University of Rome said Sunday he thought he had made a "greatdiscovery "and planned a full report to the Vatican's pontifical Roman Academy of Archeology.

The basilica, 90 feet long and 64 wide, was found between the ancient Roman port of Ostia and the town of Fiumicino, where the city's airport is now.

Hundreds die in campaign

Filipinos are balloting in an off-year election today in Manila after a campaign during which more than 150 persons died in political violence - highest toll of any previous campaign.

Troops and reserves were called out for election guard duty and the government gave volunteer poll keepers free life insurance for the day.

1917 revolution celebrated

Troops, tanks, red-tipped missiles and thousands of Russian citizens paraded through swirling snow in Red Square Sunday in Moscow to celebrate the nation's biggest holiday, the anniversary of the 1917 revolution.

In a speech stressing the Soviet Union's military capability, Defense Minster Andrei A. Grechko did not mention the United States by name, but referred to "Imperialist expansionist plant" in Vietnam and the Middle East.

Five slain in bedrooms

A woman and her four children were shot to death and her parents critically wounded in their bedrooms before dawn Sunday in Grass Valley, Calif. and police searched for her estranged husband, Sheriff Wayne Brown said.

All seven were shot several times each with a .22-caliber pistol, Brown said. The five bodies were found in a two bedroom home in a rural area of the Sierra foothills about 50 miles northeast of Sacramanto.

Fire swept model houses

An early morning fire swept through five townhouses Sunday in Columbia, Md. and a fire official complained the layout of the so-called model community hindered men fighting the blaze.

"The buildings are arranged to be aesthetically pleasing to the eye, and not for aiding firemen," said John J. Poetker, the Howard County fire chief.

EDITORIALS Political views enough for Rehnquist's defeat

Not a few liberal leaders were hoping some sort of unmentionable blot could have been found in the record of William Rehnquist. At least a conflict of interest or two, even a slight case of mediocrity. This had been enough to prevent Clement Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell from sitting upon the nation's highest court. Surely it would have made the nonconfirmation of Rehnquist an equally facile affair.

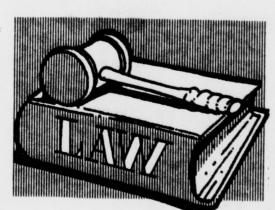

Yet the past record of William Rehnquist apparently offers no easy way out for those who disagree with his political outlook. Rehnquist's conservatism rests upon considerable sincerity and thought, not hair-brained reaction. Any opposition to Rehnquist will not stem from lack of personal qualifications for the post, Rehnquist being an eminently qualified lawyer. Instead any serious antagonism must stem result opposition to the man's political outlook.

Herein lies a critical question of constitutional protocol. The Constitution provides the President with power to appoint individuals to the Supreme Court, with the consent of the Senate. Some have taken this to mean the individuals to the Supreme Court, with the consent of the Senate. Some have taken this to mean the President can appoint any competent individual.

Equality

Others, however, have taken this constitutional provision to imply the Senate should have an equal voice in the selection of Supreme Court members. This constitutional scholars reason prevents a President from exercising undue personal influence over the court during and after his term of office. In past years the Senate has only rejected high court nominees under the most extreme circumstances. Never has an individual been denied Senate approval simply because of opposition to his personal political preferences.

The Rehnquist nomination provides an opportunity to re-evaluate this precedent. Rehnquist is a mere 47 years of age; he could still be sitting on the Supreme Court by the year 2000. Considering the tone of the President's nomination speech, the sole purpose of the Rehnquist and Powell appointments is seemingly to reverse the decisions of the Warren Court with regards to law enforcement. Rehnquist, for example, engineered the proposed policy allowing wiretapping without court orders. He has favored sweep arrests of political protestors. Plainly this man must feel such acts are constitutional and, as a Supreme Court justice, would do everything within his power to make them national policy.

Considering Rehnquist's views on wiretapping and sweep arrests, it stands to reason that he would further tamper with rights guaranteed every citizen by the first ten amendments to the Constitution. For instance, how far would Rehnquist permit freedom of assembly when some instances of civil disobedience occur? To what extent would a wiretapping advocate defend "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches?"

Clearly, the President is playing politics with his selections. The Constitution provides the Senate with a means to fight back-rejection of the President's nominees. To accept the President's Supreme Court nominations amounts to accepting his policies. For example, the Senate liberals would undoubtedly come out strongly against a carte blanche wiretapping bill. Rehnquist's confirmation could easily amount to de facto adoption of the same kinds of principles.

In light of the likely consequences of Rehnquist's confirmation, Senate leaders must fight his appointment even though their only grounds may be his political beliefs. Considering the liberties, Rehnquist may take with the Constitution in advancing his political ideology, such grounds

Married student group welcome 'U' addition

Last week University married students approved the creation of the MSU Married Students Union. The constitution of this group will be presented to the board of trustees for recognition as a major governing

Among other things, governing group status would allow the union to levy a student tax on married students. This, according to Judy Lewis, a union zone representative, is of utmost necessity. Without the levy the group would be little more than a conglomeration of committees with many plans, but no funds for implimentation.

An organization representing the special concerns of married students is most weldome. The interests of this integral part of the University community have been too long ignored by the academic power structure.

A majority mandate from a field of only slightly over two hundred votes votes is of course subject to question. Before issuing a levy the Married Students Union would, of course, be obligated to hold a tax referendum. Nevertheless, the fledgling group has the potential to grow into an effective organization equal to the task of representing the married students of ASMSU Chairman Hal Buckner has stated that the Union should have a seat on the student government if its status is ratified by the University trustees. Hopefully Buckner will have an opportunity to make good on his commitment.

Election message: there isn't any

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Political Writer

WASHINTGON (AP) - Democrats and Republicans lodged counter-claims of national success Wednesday in the outcome of odd-year city and state elections. But the real message of the scattered balloting may have been that, nationally, there isn't any.

The strategy that worked in Kentucky flopped in Pennsylvania. The hard-line, law and - order approach that helped Frank L. Rizzo capture Philadelphia's city hall took a drubbing in Boston.

A Democrat captured Tuesday's biggest prize, as Wendell Ford was elected governor of Kentucky, boosting his party's state house dominance to 30 of the 50 states.

Ford campaigned against President Nixon on economic grounds, and said his victory was a portent of what is to come in 1972, the beginning of a "dump Nixon" movement.

In general, local issues, personalities and preferences appeared to have been the forces at work in shaping the election verdicts. Democratic National Chairman Lawrence

F. O'Brien said the Ford victory, in Kentucky was particularly significant, as "the fist major referendum" on President Nixon's new economic program. Ford defeated Republican Tom Emberton, who had the active backing of outgoing GOP

Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

Predictably, Sen. Robert J. Dole, the Republican national chairman, denied that. . Kentucky issues were mostly local, and I can see little significance in the outcome of that race," he said.

Republican spokesmen chose instead to emphasize the victory of H. John Heinz III, 33, of the food - processing family, in the day's only congressional race, in Pennsylvania's 18th District. Heinz swamped Democrat John E. Connelly by more than two - to - one, to win the Pittsburg area seat left vacant by the death of Republican Rep. Robert J. Corbett.

The economy, and the administration program, was an issue in the campaign there, too. Rep. Bob Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, said the voters had rejected an effort by Connelly to make political capital out of difficult economic adjustments. "It didn't work in Pennsylvania yesterday, and it won't work across the country in 1972,"

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said the results signaled to him "a lack of confidence in the national Republican administration and its failure to deal effectively with basic domestic problems, particularly the economy.

At the White House, President Nixon discussed the election results with aides, but made no public comment.

Republican Mayor Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis, Nixon spokesman on urban affairs, easily won re-election in a race in which he was thought to have faced possible trouble. Furthermore, Republicans won 20 of 29 council seats under the newly merged city - county government Lugar had championed.

In Philadelphia, Rizzo, the former police commissioner who called himself "the toughest cop in America," won election as mayor by some 53,000 votes over Republican W. Thatcher Longstreth.

Rizzo ran far behind Longstreth in black wards of the city, but fashioned lopsided majorities in blue - collar wards, Italian neighborhoods and the predominantly white northeastern section. While Rizzo was winning in Philadelphia,

Rep. Louise Day Hicks was losing, and badly, in Boston. Mayor Kevin H. White swept to re-election there. Ms. Hicks, the adamant foe of school desegregation busing, had stressed rising crime rates and city taxes in her campaign.

In elections elsewhere:

· Henry E. Howell Jr., running as an independent, was elected lieutenant governor of Virginia in an election that was severe setback to the Republica organization of Gov. Linwood Holion George P. Shafran, the GOP nominee who had Holton's all-out backing, ran a distant third, behind Howell and Democrat George Howell's victory as an independent positioned him for another bid to become governor of Virginia after Holton leave

• William Waller, a Mississippi Democrat won that state's governorship by trouncing Charles Evers, a black, and a member of the Democratic National Committee, Even first of his race to run for governor of Mississippi, never had a real chance to win Evers had hoped his entry would bolsterthe fortunes of black candidates for log

He said one impact of his campaign had been to draw out white voters, who outnumber registered blacks, 7 to 3. "We had them scared," he said. "That's all right, white folks, we are going to keep coming This is the beginning.

 Another kind of black political effort foundered in Cleveland, and Ralph J. Perk, a Republican, won election as mayor in a major upset. He defeated Arnold R. Pinkney, a Negro who ran as an independent with the support of outgoing Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes.

The Perk victory blocked Stokes's effort to fashion a black political organization in Cleveland as a step toward creating a national coalition built around black voten. Perk got 88,774 votes, Pinkney 73,785.

• In San Francisco, Mayor Joseph Alioto, under a federal indictment he called "1 political knifing," won re-election over field of 10 challengers.

"I'm happy the people of San Franciso have given me, in effect, a vote of confidence in this," said Alioto, who was indicted by a federal grand jury in Seattle last March on charges of conspiracy, mail fraud, and using the mails to promote the bribery of a public

 Democrats gained ground in the New Jersey state legislature, and control of the 80 - member Assembly was in doubt. Forty Democrats, 39 Republicans, and one independent — white militant Anthony Imperiale, the Newark vigilante - wer elected. Republicans held control of the Senate, but by a narrowed margin.

· Newly enfranchised 18-year-old voter made their presence felt in scattered los elections, particularly in campus town Francis X. McCloskey, 32, a recent in school graduate, defeated the mayor of Bloomington, Ind., site of Indian University. College students won election Minnesota, and Iowa.

remarkable characteristic

One of the more remarkable characteristics of human nature is the seldom considered quality called determination. I'm often amazed at just how much can be accomplished when pressure situations arise and one has the sheer will to see these little crises of life through.

A friend of mine had mono last spring, and the worst stages of her bout with it came at that point of the term when every class she was taking had a term paper due. Kathy isn't exactly dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly endeavors, by her own admission. In fact, she claims that if she ever does drop out, her demise will be directly attributable to a lack of foresight regarding future assignments.

Kathy's plight aroused a particular curiosity in me, because she never lets anything clog the resolute workings of her mind. She is the classic irrestible force facing

OUR READERS' MIND

The letter of Paul D. Roliz of Nov. 2 begins with the valid point that "Freedom means

..." In equal. validity it moves to the contention that government intervention in individual lives is to be abhorred. However, while this is valid for each individual's production how can this reasoning apply to those whose possessions are not products of their own lives? How can this apply to the the immovable object - and where she's concerned, the object always moves, though not as dramatically as one could imagine.

It was unadulterated determination that caused my friend to solve her problems fairly and above-board. She could have easily relied on an acceptable excuse, for she was undeniably ill, and could therefore be considered exempt from the immediate responsibilities a student faces. Instead, she chose to work at those responsibilities, and succeeded in completing the papers - not by the deadline date, but sooner than one would have expected someone in her condition to finish them.

Some would say that Kathy's case doesn't justifiably exemplify determination. To my way of thinking, a better example of real guts would be hard to come by. Granted, the element of "insurmountable odds" and

"unconquerable barriers" is lacking, but Kathy's situation illustrates a cause for identification - one can actually imagine himself in a similar position, and thus, this particular problem seems a bit more realistic and possible.

Determination is one of those attributes whose meaning escapes one unless it is exhibited in "simplest terms." It is best described when the heroic element is avoided, and an adaptation to common interests is embraced. Kathy didn't accomplish any great feat, she simply refused to succumb to a tempting opportunity. There was no element of valor in her actions, just a firm sense of purpose. She successfully mastered the situation before it mastered her.

I've seen other instances where a display of comparable resoluteness impressed me. One that comes to mind almost immediately involves a young woman who often occupied the seat next to mine in Psych 151. Since it was my first experience with college-level psychology, and her first taste of the field also, we exchanged many words about various aspects of the class from time to time. Amy was an effervescent personality, and I looked forward to rapping with her before our 3 p.m. four days a week. She probably anticipated our hour together too, although she couldn't "see" me, for Amy was blind.

She remains so vividly in my memory for she also had the rare gift of genuine determination, distinct from any pretense of heroism. I doubt that Amy views herself as someone to pity, for her spirit is too alive and sincere for such shallow "accomplishment" - she simply acknowledges her handicap and determined to make it, regardless of what others view her goals to be. This she told mone drippy afternoon as we "pudde stomped" behind Anthony Hall after class.

In this second instance, determination was pegged to a situation which could not exactly termed critical. Yet, within the framework of day to day living, it als supports the theory of determination as relevant quality. Amy takes each day stride, yet each day she sets the tempo and renews her resolution to triumph over he

She is a heroine in my eyes, not just the declared variety - she has earned the right the title, for she has what it takes to read her level of concerned achievement - she' gifted with a special characteristic called determination.

Whatever substance there might have been to rumors of dissension among MSU harriers was squelched by coach Jim Gibbard and his squad Friday as the Spartans squelched a less than substantial Notre Dame team

"There is no dissension," said Gibbard. "The guys were a little down against Indiana, but we rarely run that well together during the dual session."

As he had before, Gibbard reemphasized the importance was on the Big Ten meet and that "no emphasis" was placed on duals.

"We suffered a natural letdown against Indiana," he

Against Notre Dame it was a case of the Spartans never letting up, as they doubled their all-time lead in the dual series with their 24th victory.

As for jealousies, of any type, there were none evident Friday. No less than four runners shared the top spot for the Spartans.

Co-captains Dave Dieters and Randy Kilpatrick, along with Rob Cool and Ken Popejoy were all clocked at 30:19, wrapping up the first four places in quick MSU's own four horsemen then stood by and cheered Ron Cool to a close fifth place finish.

Ron, who came in at 30:55, nipped Notre Dame's Marty Hill by one second, displaying what Gibbard calle"very good courage."

"Ron was up with the others until the 41/2 mile mark," said Gibbard, "then he got a stick in his side and fell back aways, but he put up a real nice kick at the

Gibbard added that Cool went through a "pain barrier" and finally showed himself, and Gibbard, what he was capable of doing.

The split of 36 seconds was, according to Gibbard, the best of the year.

Notre Dame showed only token improvement from their second place in the Big State Meet at Indianapolis. Top runner Dan Dunne improved form a close ninth to a close seventh, being edged by teammate Hill.

The Irish also managed ninth, tenth, and twelfth. In between, Paul Kurtis and Steve Rockey grabbed eighth and eleventh, respectively, for the Spartans. It was the fourth consecutive victory over Notre Dame for Gibbard as a coach and one which was, typically the series, not close. The average score for the series, during Gibbard's reign, now stands at 16-44, and Friday's top five sweep was the second.

"We just missed getting a perfect score (15-50)," added Gibbard. MSU allowed the Irish 49 in 1968. Gibbard now feels that his squad is just about ready for the conference meet in Minneapolis Saturday. It was after a big win over the Irish last season that MSU hosted the meet, shrugging off early season losses to both Minnesota and Indiana, and won it going away. It was also the case in Gibbard's first year, after the Spartans socked Notre Dame 17-41 in their dual season finale for their first undefeated season in 12 years. The only time Gibbard's harriers did not take the Big Ten title was in 1969, a year they faced the Irish too early in the year. Gibbard said, his team is getting together and pointed out that the Spartans had assumed a commanding lead in the race against the Irish well before the tape was Even for its meager total of 44 points Notre Dame was hard pressed. Only 30 seconds separated the fifth and eleventh men, both from MSU.

MSU icers skate past alumni, 10-4

It was a wild, high-scoring, and most of all, fun game at the Ice Arena Thursday evening as the Spartan varsity hockey team skated to a rather easy 10-4 victory over the MSU

Don Thompson, Michel Chaurest and Don St. Jean each scored twice for the varsity, while Gilles Gagnon, Al Laking, Bob Michelutti and Bill Sipola added single tallies, Al Swanson, Dennis Hogan, Jack Roberts and Tom Lackey scored for the outmatched alumni squad.

"The alumni played well and we enjoyed the game," Spartan Coach Amo Bessone said. "Our finest two (varsity) lines did well but we need a third line.

It didn't take long for the varsity to show who was going to take charge in the contest as Thompson and Charest scored within the first three minutes after the opening face-off, Thompson tallied again at the 14:38 mark and St. Jean pushed one past a beleaguered Jim Watt three minutes later. Watt, regular varsity netminder, stopped 19 shots for the alumni in the first period.

The second stanza saw some close checking by both sides. Gagnon scored a power play goal on a rebound of a point shot by Dave Roberts to make it 5-0, and Michelutti scored his goal with less than seven minutes left in the period. Swanson put the alumni on the board just 32 seconds into the third period from a setup by Tom Mikkola. Dennis Hogan made it 6-2, assisted by Roberts and Tony Elliott, at 2:35. Chaurest and St. Jean teamed up within a minute and ahalf of each other to give the varsity a commanding 8-2 lead early in the period. Laking added a goal to the varsity total witha tally at the 6:16 mark, on a two-on-one break.

Alumni goals by Roberts, assisted by Elliott and Hogan, and Lackey, from Mike Jacobson and Mikkola, closed the gap to 9-4. But Sipola ended the wide-open contest with a goal for the varsity at 17:41 of the period.

Freaks top Pigs by a hair, score as time runs out

By MIKE ABERLICH

State News Sports Writer Sunday would have been the perfect time to rob a bank in Lansing as many of the area's policemen traded in their uniforms for a football jersey for the Second Annual Bull Game between the Freaks and the Pigs.

But for the second time, the Pigs were unable to stop the unpredictable Freaks as the longhairs barely squeaked by on the last play of the game to take a 12-7 win.

It was the first regular season meeting of the two teams. But in a 1967 exhibition match, Denver defeated Detroit 13-7 to become the first team from the then-American Football league to beat an NFL club.

Denver opened the scoring with a 17-yard Don Horn pass to Bobby Anderson which capped an 80, ard drive. In the second quarter, Denver's Billy Thompson intercepted a Landry pass to set up a 21-yard Jim Turner field goal.

Trailing 10-0 as the third quarter began, the Lions abandoned their ground game. They promptly drove 80 yeards in four plays, ending with Taylor's 36-yard touchdown. Four plays later, Detroit had the ball again. On a third and 18 situation, Landry threw his 75-yard strike to McCullouch to put Detroit ahead with only 5:55

advent | kenwood | garrard

Henry Kloss's latest development, the Smaller Advent loudspeaker, offers the same smooth - extended - frequency response and freedom from distortion as the original Advent. In other words, it will reproduce all the music on your records and tapes . . . including the lowest organ notes. This extended frequency response is available from a speaker costing only $69.95.

The Smaller Advent loudspeaker is designed to operate at 4 ohms, where most popular transistorized receivers produce maximum power output, and minimum distortion. The Kenwood KR 4130 we have chosen, for example, is capable of delivering a continuous 28 watts per channel at 4 ohms, with both channels operating! This makes the KR 4130 an excellent companion for the Smaller Advent loudspeakers.

The record player/cartridge which best matches the performance and value of the new Advents is a Garrard SL-55B, with a Shure M-44E cartridge. This is the least expensive combination which will play your records reliably for several years, and at light - enough tracking pressures for extended record life.

registration procedures-two major issues in the Project: City

Hall campaign. On city procedures, Colburn said he will ask Learned to draw up guidelines for city officials who deal with the news media. The issue arose at Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Canvassers to certify election results, when board members objected to taping of the proceedings by a local radio newsman.

Colburn said he will also introduce a motion to have council meetings held in various locations throughout the community.

Arthur Carney, asst. city manager, said Saturday that new business discussion was unprecedented in the first meeting of newly elected councilmen, with the agenda William MacLeod, asst. director of usually reserved for election of among councilmen.

Seated council members Robert J. Wilcox and Mary P. Sharp, who face re-election in 1973, both said they look forward to meeting the new councilmen and hearing their proposals, but agreed election of mayor from the council ranks will be the major agenda item. Wilcox said he will nominate Ms. Sharp.

"I believe she is the best qualified of all the councilmen," he said. "The position is much more than just a ribbon-cutting one, as some people have said, and I feel she is the most suitable to deal with all the sophisticated functions in a city like East Lansing. In my opinion, Mary's schedule doesn't allow for the additional duties and responsibilities of the position.

Brookover and Ms. Sharp withheld comments on the mayor election, but Colburn said he

Carney explained that the mayor's position is more important than many, including Colburn, believe. The mayor, he said, presides at and directs council meetings and provides political leadership on the city, state and national levels.

"In effect, the mayor can put the city in a very good light by being aggressive in the state and national mayor associations that lobby for such things as revenue sharing," he said.

Carney will fill in as the city's top appointed official during the two-week absence of City Manager John M. Patriarche, who left Wednesday to attend a city managers convention in would nominate Griffiths, who Hollywood, Fla. ### Candidate challenges

Bathurst said the function of the committee is to organize the candidates and oversee the election, not to decide on the qualifications of the candidates. The individual said he did not run in his college, which has no stipulations for minority representatives, because there are a number of qualified members who could hold the position of college representative to the council.

In a separate but related development, Kevin Harty, Glenview, Ill. junior filed a request with the Student-Faculty Judiciary Nov. 1, asking them to hear a charge against the Student
