Secretary of Labor Gives First Lecture on Student Program

1,500 Students and Townspeople Crowd Demonstration Hall to Hear Frances Perkins Explain Social Security and Old Age Pensions.

By GEORGE LINDENTHAL
One of the largest groups to ever greet a speaker on the students' lecture program assembled last night in Demonstration hall to hear Miss Frances Perkins, United States secretary of labor, deliver an address on the "Economics of Social Security in the 20th Century." The speaker stressed old age pensions and unemployment insurance as a possible solution in the maintenance of purchasing power of the American people during future periods of economic depression when buying power is at its lowest possible point due to the lack of a high income for the farmer and industrial wage earner.

Miss Perkins, who has been in the United States since the outbreak of the war, is a member of the American Association of University Women and is a member of the American League for Women's Suffrage. She is also a member of the National Council of Women and the National Woman's Party. She is a member of the American League for Women's Suffrage and is a member of the American Association of University Women.

Faculty Pays Tribute to Prof. Albert H. Nelson

R. S. Shaw, President R. C. Huston, Dean of Applied Science

We are much grieved at the death of Professor Nelson, for during his sixteen years of service to the College he has set an example of friendly loyalty and adherence to duty equalled by few. Through his numerous activities as Professor of Journalism and Head of the Department, as Director of the Summer Session, as chairman of the faculty committee on student publications and on fraternities and societies, and in many other ways he has been known and respected by faculty and students alike. His loss leaves a gap which will be hard to fill.

J. C. Emmons, Dean of Liberal Arts
H. B. Dirks, Dean of Engineering

It is with regret that I learned of the death of Mr. Albert H. Nelson. Michigan State college has not only lost a leader and fine citizen but also a man who has been of real service to all with whom he came in contact. His absence will be felt keenly by all members of the engineering division.

Marie Dye, Dean of Home Economics
We will miss Mr. Nelson. His friendly manner, his readiness to see the other person's point of view, and his high professional standards have made him a valuable colleague. He has helped to build a strong summer school as well as a fine department of Journalism and has been a valuable member of many important committees of the College. It has been a pleasure to know and work with him.

F. R. Hill, Agriculture Department
The College in general and the Agricultural Division in particular have lost a true friend and an untiring worker in the death of Professor Albert H. Nelson. His splendid cooperation with this department has made possible a more effective teaching, research and extension program in Farm Management.

CAGERS START TRAINING FOR COURT SEASON

Twenty-two Candidates Bid for Starting Posts With Reck and Garlock the Veterans.

By AL THEILER

Preparations for one of the toughest cage schedules in the history of Van Alstyne's reign here at State were begun last Monday. A squad of 22 men reported to the mentor for the fall workouts, among which were seven letter winners from last year's sensational team.

With last year as a comparison, Van Alstyne has already stated that this year's aggregation should not be too outstanding. Only two seasoned campaigners, Ron Garlock and Dan Reck, are included among those on the court. Many of last year's freshman team, along with the varsity reserves of a year ago, are struggling for a place on the Spartan five.

Garlock, Reck, Scholtz, Rolon, C. White, Frizzo and J. Smith are the men who saw some service last year. Buysse, regular on the Spartan team of two years back, is again in school and trying for a berth. Cain, Wismer, DeHorn and Wilkinson are other reserves who didn't get their letter last season. Kraft, W. White, Ritz, Barthold, Schuman, Henry, Grant, Anderson, Strickling and D. Rogers are the sophomores.

The none too pleasant task of replacing Rouse, Herrick and VanFaassen faces the cage coach. Rouse and Herrick combined to form what was hailed as one of the best guard combinations ever to perform for the Spartans. Van Faassen was one of the best defensive centers in this section and will be hard to replace.

Several new schools appear on the new schedule tentatively announced. Against this opposition the Spartans hope to wind up with a good 500 playing percentage. Butler university, Temple, Pittsburgh and West Virginia are the new teams scheduled. To make room for them Western Reserve, Wayne and Hillsdale were dropped.

The season will open at home December 2 with Albion college as the opposition. The rest of the year will see home and home series with the University of Michigan, Ypsi Normal and Marquette. Three games will be played with the Hilltoppers, two of them here on successive nights. Games away will be with Temple, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Northwestern and Kentucky. Single games at home will be played with Butler, Loyola and Albion.

Last year's squad, heralded as one of the best in the country, wound up their year with 14 wins and 4 losses. Perhaps the highlight of the year was the beating handed the strong University of Kentucky here at Demonstration hall.

up to Charlie Bachman's men to stop such performers as Ferdenzi, Bryan, Brennan and Huxley. In Furbush and Cahill, Coach McNamara has two of the finest flankers on the eastern seaboard.

Is Important Game Although the Boston team dropped a tough struggle to Jimmie Crowley's Fordham crew a few weeks ago they are still a pretty fair football team, and one which will have to be reckoned with down to the final gun.

This contest Saturday with Boston is an all important fray, as it is necessary that the State club show plenty in order to capture the eastern gang. Then, too, if they expect a winning, undefeated season, Boston must be hurled with some to spare. Injuries are bound to play a big part in the game, and if the State reserves can hold up it should be another one in the bag, and one more step closer to what we all hope, the Rose Bowl.

Team Spirit Good Team spirit is high, and a supreme lack of over-confidence is very much in evidence. The old bugaboo that all concerned are afraid of has for the moment at least escaped the State ranks, and if that fine feeling can hold up, it is bound to be plenty tough for any football club in the U. S. to take your boys.

SPORTORIALS

By HARRY WISMER, Sports Editor

Game number four coming up with the Spartans, thus far one of the ranking football teams in the nation, Grantland Rice and other men famous in the world of sport have been loud in their praise of the Charlie Bachman's eleven, and claim that they have an excellent chance of finishing the season undefeated and untied. Sometime around 4:00 p. m. Saturday, Eastern Standard Time we will be able to inform you perhaps a bit more definitely just how good State's chances are.

Thirty-three players, two coaches, a couple of athletic directors, prominent officials on campus, and two managers boarded the Michigan Central late Thursday afternoon bound for what all concerned hope is another triumph for the valiant men of Sparta. The team was in good spirits, although several stars were definitely on the injured list. With such men as Warmbein, Colina, Edwards, and Brandstatter suffering from hurts incurred in the last few games the situation does not take on any too rosy a hue.

While all the tumult of the football season rages on Coach Ben Van Alstyne has called his charges to the hardwoods in preparation for one of the hardest schedules in the history of State college court squads. Leading the group of returning letter winners are Dan Reck, Ron Garlock and Maurice Buysse. While other men reporting that appear promising are letter winners of last year, Curtis White, Joe Smith, Harold Scholtz, Eddie Rolon. Men who came from last year's fresh aggregation are Henery, White, Ritz, and others. The schedule this winter takes the men of Van Alstyne far and wide. Games have been scheduled in the East with such lives as Temple, Syracuse, etc., in the South with Kentucky, in the mid-west with Wisconsin, Northwestern, Michigan, Butler, Marquette and others equally hard to beat. Due to the loss of VanFaassen, Herrick and Rouse this year's team is none to promising, although Van Alstyne, the former Colgate star, has a habit of turning out exceptional basketball teams with only fair material on hand.

Coach Lauren P. Brown has started selecting a cross country team that will represent Michigan State college against Butler university at Indianapolis on October 19 in the first dual meet of the season. The Spartans, winners of the I. C. 4A championship for the past two years and ranked first in the intercollegiate athletic world, are without the services of an ace performer this year. In previous years such well known stars as Clark Chamberlain and Tom Otley have headed the harrier pack for State. However, it appears that Edward Bechtold may be the runner to step into the front ranks this year. He showed excellent form in winning the all-college run, a varsity and freshman tryout, over the four mile course in 21 minutes and 6 seconds.

There are no self satisfied football players on Michigan State's winning team this year. At least there doesn't appear to be any and winners of the gridiron game say that the Spartans have the spark of a sophomore eleven, and the experience of seniors on which to build their success. The reason for this may be found in the fact that competition is unusually keen for the jobs. Julius Sleder, who expects to graduate in June, is playing his third season on the squad but this is his first campaign as a regular. He did not see service at all as a sophomore and won a letter only as reserve in 1934. Dick Collins, who played two years at right half has the incentive of trying to make good at Q. B. this year. Kurt Warmbein has both Al Agett and Fred Ziegel pushing him at a terrific pace for his job. Joe Busolits has in Vince Vanderberg a king of a riva who is a tough competitor on any college football field. It is this competition that is making State's squad run in high gear at all times. Bachman has a second team to put on the field that would come very close to equaling his first string power, and possibly in some respects improve on it. His team is not built so much on poundage, as it is speed and strength. "Give me 185 pound boys who have speed, strength, and the keen desire to play and you can have all the 225-pounders on your side. Bachman signed long ago. "My ideal football player will knock your big man on his heels and go places with the football before his opponent can recoil."

Some idea of the smashing force that is packed into the Spartan backfield this year may be gained by learning that every time they put the ball in play against the University of Michigan, they gained nearly five yards. The average gain of the backs was 4.8 yards for the day. They roiled up 362 yards from scrimmage. This is not unusual perhaps but it is out in the middle west where Michigan's vaunted defensive strength is annually felt in the camps of her rivals. The Wolverines make a specialty of stopping opponents plays for no gain or losses about every two out of three assaults, and have been doing that for years. Her lines are big, powerful, and drilled to throw back opposing backs. Her famous six man line with big fullbacks and centers roving the territory immediately behind the forwards is a barrier on which more than one football championship has been wrecked or hopes of a surprise victory completely blighted. Al Agett, the agile left half, had figures to prove why he is giving the State State back, Kurt Warmbein, a run for his money. Agett had the best yardage of the day, a mark of 8.2 yards every time he toled the leather. One of his runs was for 47 yards and a touchdown.

The game Saturday with Boston college will begin at exactly 2:00 p. m. Eastern Standard Time. You may pick up a telegraphic report of the fray by tuning in on your college station WKAR. State's station has been handling all the games this fall, and have built up a nice audience throughout the midwest. Having had reports from Chicago, Ohio, Indiana, and from every section of Michigan. Charlie Bachman will be on the air over the Eastern Network Friday evening at 7:30, along with Eddie Cahill, former coach of Harvard, and now coach of the Boston Redskins in the National Professional League. Also on the air tonight will be the regular People's Finance Service, Inc. program featuring leading coaches and Old Man Colonel L. Fish 'Em. This program comes over WJIM and begins at 7:15. Eastern Standard Time.

Lack of Football Game Here This Week Results in Slump in Quota of Social Activities

With many students going to their homes for the week-end as a result of an away-from-home date in the football schedule, social activities on the campus are few. A Union dance in the ballroom tonight, with Red Drennan's orchestra furnishing the music for dancing, heads the parties of college interest. Off campus the outstanding feature scheduled is the visit of Cab Calloway and his Cotton Club orchestra at the Lansing armory.

Outside of these two events the week-end program contains only a scattering of fraternity and other group parties.

Wear That Pot or Think it Over in the Red Cedar River, Warns Sophomore Authority.

By JIMMIE HAYS

Hear ye fresh! Hear ye fresh! Heretofore laxity of the well known Wear the Green Pot warning is being withdrawn and pressure application methods are being brewed up by the Big Four of the campus. With the scanty sales stock of 150 felts remaining at large at the Union desk, the Mighty Ones—military department, Blue Key, Interfraternity Council, Student Council—prepare to stand by and take actions in the reports of the newly formed Fresh Pot vigilance committee.

Pot-wearing fresh have only to wear their important headears and be thankful that they not while the getting was good. But a ba... to those who don't think the green lid is a necessity of life at this moment, let me introduce the aforesaid vigilance committee. Working on the same principles as Santa Claus and his invincible spy system, a crew of plainclothes checker-uppers will mingle about the campus with the leagle eye pealed for green-hatted freshmen. The unfortunate one who is spotted without the pot is reported to his fraternity for action as the brothers find fitting, or to the Big Four who will surely clear up any first year man's question as to the wearing or not wearing of precious pot.

Military department is co-operating in its own exacting way by requiring use of the pot in place of the military hat. Interfraternity Council sends each representative back to the house with mutual orders to see that all pledges are duly potted. Student Council hands down a unanimous wear-the-pot verdict. And Blue Key says... We've only 150 left at 45 cents each. Get yours at the Union desk now.

Weather and water are getting cooler, the coolest being predicted for the freshman who hasn't his pot.

SPORTCASTER

By AL THEILER

If we can keep from getting hit with breakbats as we're writing this column, your sportcaster has a confession to make. Every variety of missile has come our way since our new invention went wrong last week. Our 750 percent vial, rank, stagnant and everything else by the readers who had visions of saving the 13 cents they had to spend for their Saturday night extra and Sunday morning paper.

We missed four predictions. Here's the reason. In the middle of our look into the future, and just before we came to the Illinois-California game, the Sideline Coach stepped into the office, bumped into the intricate machine, and blew out one of the tubes. We stumbled through the rest of the list on our initiative.

This week, however, the Sideline Coach is locked up in a padded cell and we're surrounded by a staff of private detectives to insure our invention from any tampering individual. It's working perfectly, and the results are just coming in.

Here they are—
State-Boston—State 35, Boston 0.
Alabama-Tennessee—Another week with Bama.
Arkansas-Louisiana State—Win one for Huey.
Army-Harvard—Harvard sues for peace.

California-Oregon—California stays a contender for the crown.
Carnegie-Temple—Temple easily.
Catholic-Detroit—We bet against the Titans last week—not this week.

Chicago-Purdue—Stagg used to fear Purdue—Chicago still does.
Colgate-Lafayette—The Red Raiders.
Columbia-Penn—Penn has to win some time.

Fordham-Vanderbilt—One for Vandy.
Marquette-St. Louis—Massacre for the Hilltoppers.
Manhattan-Holy Cross—Holy Cross.

Michigan-Wisconsin—Try the Wolverines once more.
Navy-Yale—A tough one, but we'll take Yale to sink the Navy.
Nebraska-Kansas State—The Cornhuskers.

Northwestern-Ohio—Remember Drake?
Pitt-Notre Dame—Toughest of the week, but my mother was Irish.
Washington-Duquesne—Heads I take Duquesne. It's tails.

Some 5,100 miles will be covered by Colgate's football team this season. Colgate now wears the mantle of Notre Dame, the Knute Rockne's time top marathon gridsters.

Elisabeth Conrad, Dean of Women

We are very deeply grieved over the death of Professor Nelson. Through associations on faculty committees and similar contacts, we have come to respect him highly. He will be difficult to replace as a member of the faculty and adviser for student organizations.

Ward Giltner, Dean of Veterinary Science

Albert Henry Nelson exemplified very closely my ideal of a scholarly gentleman. Many a student struggled with the intricacies of English composition, has feelingly testified to the sympathetic nature of Professor Nelson. Whether the student ever learned to write English or not, if he was in Professor Nelson's class, he was sure to get something invaluable, not only for the pursuit of his college program, but for the rest of his life. Professor Nelson was one of those Oklahoma men who have added luster to Michigan State College as a great educational institution. During the long time he was among us, he endeared himself to his colleagues, won the respect of the students and proved to be one of those rare individuals who is a delight to the administration. In his passing we sense a great loss, which we can only hope will be measurably replaced, but it is stimulating to think that his influence for the good of this college and community will be felt for many years to come. His ability was great, his scholarship was appreciated in an educational institution, but his personality had a charm that would make him a marked man in any community. We shall miss him, but we shall remember him.

Secretary Hannah, Dean Anthony, Ralph Young, Coach Bachman, and Glen Stewart are attending the State football game at Boston this week-end and cannot be reached. However, we know that the above statements express the feelings of these men.

The years spent working with Professor Albert H. Nelson were very valuable to me, both from the standpoint of acquiring a better understanding of the principles of journalism and of becoming acquainted with a man whose highest ideal was to perform his work well.

In my years of association with him, he carried heavy burdens uncomplainingly, asked no recognition for the work he did, and was always willing to assist others in
