Judy Taylor and Eric Gentile, handicapped MSU employes, tell the Board of Trustees Friday they are displeased with the Board's approval of an MSU policy statement regarding employment of handicapped persons. The two and their supporters charge the administration with ignoring the handicapped in University decision making regarding them.

wo handicapped MSU employes, Judy a Bric Gentile, are irustrated b persistent reluctance of MSU istrators to recognize handicapped le in University decision making.

heir dissatisfaction stems from an ial MSU policy statement regarding loyment of the handicappers which finally approved by the Board of tees at their regular meeting Friday. aylor and Gentile were critical of the administration for ignoring the role andicapped people in policy making h directly affects them.

policy statement, a move to ly with the federal Rehabilitation of 1973 requiring recipients of federal s to hire qualified handicappers, was ted at the last board meeting because mbiguous wording and a lack of input andicapped people.

dy Taylor, coordinator of Programs Handicapped Students, was not fed with the revised statement use, she said, specific clauses that recommended at the last meeting had not been included.

ylor objected to a clause that had been changed which says the ersity will make every "reasonable" modation to handicapped employes. said the policy could not protect the of handicapped people seeking oyment at MSU until the word sonable" is dropped before modation."

ustee Warren Huff, D - Plymouth, sted "reasonable" be replaced with sible." But John Cantlon, provost ademic affairs, said that would not because a great many technical modations are now possible for capper's use but their extreme cost die prohibitive.

Trustee Jack Stack, R - Alma, noted that "mental limitations" had been Keith Groty and Herman King wrote the included in the revised statement in addition to "physical limitations" of the handicappers, a modification which made the policy statement more acceptable to

"I am also not satisfied because I feel a directive from the board at the last meeting wasn't followed. We (handicapped MSU employes) were only contacted but not involved in the policy making," Taylor

"I hope other groups were contacted. Why wasn't my office involved?" Taylor

James B. Hamilton, asst. provost and director of Special Programs, criticized the authors of the statement because they had not actively involved the "resident expertise" of Judy Taylor. Except for that, he said, he did not question the statement or the intent of the administration.

"The primary issue is recognition within the University of people who have a perspective on how to accommodate Handicapped employes," Hamilton said.

"I am concerned with the inability on the part of the people making the policy statement to involve handicapped people in any but the most insignificant and trivial way," Eric Gentile, a specialist in MSU Special Programs said.

The MSU administration announced that an ad hoc committee would be appointed upon approval of the statement to make recommendations on its implementation.

Gentile, who is the president of the Lansing chapter of the National Assn. of Physically Handicapped, asked that the policy statement be rejected until assurances were made that handicapped MSU employes would be invited to the hearings of the ad hoc committee.

Bombs explode in Jerusalem; riots continue

By Associated Press

Pro - guerilla riots erupted on the West Bank of Jordan for the second straight day Sunday, two bombs exploded in Jerusalem and the Kremlin announced it was sending three warships to Syria on an "official, friendly visit.'

Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres told the cabinet in Jerusalem that the tension which prompted a partial Israeli mobilization has died down, but that the military was keeping a close watch on Syrian moves.

Haim Herzog, a former chief of Israeli intelligence and now a military analyst for the state radio, said if Syria fails to renew the UN peacekeeping mandate on the Golan Heights, new fighting could break

No casualties were reported in the Jerusalem blasts, which shook an apartment complex. Police said one of them caused minor damage and the state radio said 40 suspected Arab guerrillas were arrested.

In other Middle East developments:

Informed sources in Paris said leaders of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) will hold a secret meeting soon which could lead to the creation of a Palestinian provisional government in exile. They said the meeting will be held "in the light of the new diplomatic success" of the PLO at the UN and pro guerrilla demonstrations on the West Bank

 Sen. Edward Kennedy told a news conference in the city of Beersheba that he backed Israel's refusal to deal with the PLO and said Yasir Arafat's speech before the General Assembly hurt chances for Middle East peace. He also said the United States "must and will continue to provide the assistance that Israel needs to defend Several Israeli gunboats approached the Lebanese coast during the night near a Palestinian refugee camp close to Tyre, but fired no shots. Israeli reconnaissance jets also made low swoops over southern Lebanon late Saturday and early Sunday and sonic booms shook the capital of

• In Cairo, the political weekly Rose al Youssef quoted Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy as saying Egypt would refuse to discuss any new political initiative to settle the Middle East conflict outside the Geneva peace talks.

Foreign Ministry sources declined immediate comment, but if the report is accurate it would signify Egypt was abandoning Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's proposal for another interim Israeli withdrawal in Sinai.

In Israeli - occupied Jordan, Arabs marched through three cities in the second day of pro - guerrilla protests.

In Hebron, rioters set a restaurant aflame and stoned police and army units before the protest was broken up. In Jenin, students threw stones at the Israeli run labor office and smashed its windows with more demonstrations in Ramallah.

The demonstrations were in support of guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat and the increasing political power of his Palestine Liberation Organization.

But the protests were milder than the riots that broke out Saturday, when one teen - aged Arab girl was killed by a blow in the head and 50 Arabs were arrested. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said a cruiser, destroyer and submarine will call at the Syrian port of Latakia from Nov. 20-25. It said Vice Adm. Nikolai Khvorin, commander of the Soviet Black Sea fleet, will head the flotilla. The visit was seen as a public reaffirmation of Moscow's support of Syria. The announcement of the visit came

Rabin warned Syria against any unilateral arms buildup and his comments have been interpreted in Moscow as an attempt to justify a pre - emptive strike

Israel partially mobilized its reserve forces last week as a precautionary measure, but admitted the callup only Saturday. The alert stemmed from intelligence reports that Syrian troops had been placed on alert for possible war. Israeli military sources said.

But reports reaching Israel said the United States and the Soviet Union helped defuse the situation by sending messages to the Egyptian and Syrian leadership.

Ford's Japan visit stirs protests

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford 37,000 Communists and Socialists, who left Sunday for Tokyo on his first major diplomatic venture while tens of thousands of Japanese staged anti -American demonstrations to coincide with Communists, socialists and other anti government groups planned protests in Japan over charges that nuclear weapons have been routinely brought into Japanese ports by U.S. warships.

Police raided extremist hideouts Sunday in Tokyo and seized iron staves and helmets intended for use in anti - Ford protests. The raids came less than 24 hours before Ford's scheduled arrival.

Ford's eight - day trip to Japan, South Korea and the Soviet Union will test his negotiating skill and world image.

In a departure statement at the White House, Ford said: "I am deeply conscious of the need to continue the quest for peace. I would rather travel thousands of miles for peace than take a single step toward war.'

In Japan, Ford will meet Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, whose political position has been shaky. Questions about his wealth and financial dealings as well as the nuclear controversy may lead to his political undoing.

Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will try to clear this hurdle by stressing the country - to - country relationship.

"The visit to any country is to the government and not to any particular individual," the secretary of state told a news conference Friday.

Ford's four - day visit, the first to Japan by an incumbent President, will cover security, nuclear nonproliferation and oil, though its primary purpose is to calm fears about U.S. overtures to mainland China and reassure Tokyo that it will be protected in any union of oil consuming nations.

While police were raiding extremist hideouts Sunday in Tokyo, 2,600 helmeted radical students staged a zigzag five - mile march past government buildings and the U.S. Embassy, sandwiched between columns of riot police in battle

"We share a common devotion to the preservation of peace and the deterrence of aggression," Ford said.

The high point of the trip is expected to be the mini - summit with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in Vladivostok Nov. 23 - 24. The Russians are eager to size up the new President, whose record in foreign affairs has been limited.

Ford and Brezhnev may settle on guidelines for negotiators in Geneva to produce a 10 - year treaty limiting missiles, launchers, warheads and bombers. It could be signed at the Washington summit next June. The current U.S. -Soviet nuclear weapons pact expires in Japanese housewives march in protest of the visit of President Ford while helmeted railroad workers demonstrate in background Sunday in Tokyo. The railroad workers will conduct a nationwide strike Tuesday. The housewives are carrying pictures of President Ford and Japanese Prime Minister Tanaka.

Dems to challenge pocket veto

Congressional Democratic leadership plans a vote Wednesday in the House to attempt to override President Ford's veto of the vocational and rehabilitation act authority.

The $851 million bill was one of five Ford refused to sign during Congress' recent election recess. The bill, passed overwhelmingly by Congress, would expand jobs for the handicapped.

Ford asserted his authority to pocket veto the bill but then, following the procedures set out for a regular veto, returned it to Congress within 10 days of its passage and wrote a veto message as well spelling out his reasons for rejecting it.

Atomic particle needs theory

The world of physics now has a major new challenge - an atomic particle in search of a theory.

Physicists on the East and West Coasts announced Saturday the discovery of a totally unexpected tiny new fragment of matter, called the "J" particle or the "Psi" particle.

The discovery was made independently by two groups of physicists at essentially the same time, a coincidence of a kind that happens fairly often in

But this discovery is strikingly different from another common thing in physics. Usually, the existence of new particles is predicted by theoretical physicists well in advance of their discovery by experimenters working with atom smashers.

Mills' incident helps stripper

Stripper Fanne Fox will have a new billing as the "Washington Tidal Basin bombshell" and a new salary of $3,500 a week when she opens in Boston tonight. The Bombshell, whose name in private life is Annabel Battistella, was involved in an incident with Rep. Wilbur Mills, R-Ark., on Oct. 7 near the Jefferson Memorial.

Police said they stopped Mills' car and found Mills, another man, and three women inside. Police said that Mills appeared to be intoxicated and was bleeding from facial scratches. Battistella, one of the women, then jumped into the Tidal Basin and had to be pulled out by

The incident revived Fox's career after a year's layoff, and boosted her asking price from about $700 to $3,500 a week for a two - week engagement at Boston's Pilgrim Theater.

Hoffa may defy release terms

James R. Hoffa, one - time president of the Teamsters union, said Thursday he is ready to defy a presidential ban and seek the leadership of his old union Hoffa was freed from prison late in 1971 after serving five years of a 13 year sentence imposed on him the 123 - nation meeting was for mail fraud and jury tampering.

His sentence was commuted by former President Ricahrd M. Nixon with the stipulation that Hoffa could not engage in union politics or activities until March 6, 1980.

Hoffa said he does not consider the stipulations binding for several legal reasons, including the fact that he did not sign the commutation agreement.

Eva Peron's body returned

The body of Eva Peron, revered as a saint among some Argentine workers, was brought home Sunday after 19 years abroad and placed beside her husband's.

A chartered plane flew the body from Madrid to an air force base south of Buenos Aires. From there it was flown to the Buenos Aires City airport, where President Isabel Peron received it.

Observers speculated the return of Eva's body was aimed in part at blunting some of the opposition to the current regime.

Eva died of cancer in 1952 at the age of 33. Eight years later Peron married Isabel.

Turkish leader names cabinet

Turkish Premier Sadi Irmak announced Sunday an unusual cabinet consisting almost entirely of independent senators and non - governmental professional experts.

All of Turkey's major parties refused to participate in Irmak's government, casting doubt on whether the cabinet would be able to win a vote of confidence.

Irmak, an independent senator, was given a mandate to form a new government last week in an attempt to end Turkey's political crisis.

Protestant Irish president dies

Erskine Childers, the fourth president of the Irish Republic and the first Protestant elected to that ceremonial office, died early Sunday of a heart attack. He was 68.

The English - born Childers died in Dublin's Mater Hospital after he was stricken late Saturday night following an emotional speech to an audience of doctors. Childers, a former Minister of Health, called for more research on the effects of drugs on the mind. His general subject in the talk dealt with the stresses of modern life.

Saxbe tells of FBI program

WASHINGTON (AP) - Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Sunday the FBI apparently failed to report regularly to the attorney general on a counterintelligence program it aimed at radical and extremist groups.

He said a report on the counterintelligence operation, revealed over the weekend, would be discussed Monday but he did not say whether it would be released by the Justice Dept.

Appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," Saxbe said there is currently no such program in operation. But he declined to discuss in detail reports that the FBI ran such a program for 15

Asked whether any attorney general had been aware of the program, Saxbe said "I can't be sure ... As far as direct regular reports, I don't think so."

A copy of the draft FBI report on the program, supplied to the Associated Press by columnist Jack Anderson, indicates that the plan, known as Cointelpro, included such activites as forged credentials, sham organizations, anonymous letters and leaking of derogatory information.

According to the report, the program was targeted against the

Though he said no such program is now in operation, Saxbe warned that it could develop.

"It could always develop," he said. "You could have Watergate

But, Saxbe added that the answer is continual vigilance and "I'm not worried about it happening while I'm here." He said current FBI operations concentrate on criminal

Greek premier leads at polls; parliamentary majority expected

ATHENS (AP) - Early returns Sunday from Greece's first election in 10 years showed Premier Constantine Caramanlis' new Democracy party ahead of the three other major parties with over 50 per cent of the vote cast so far.

The trend, which was expected, could put Caramanlis into the premiership with a solid parliamentary majority and give him a strong hand to continue the transition from 71/2 years of dictatorship to democracy.

More than half the 6 million registered voters cast their ballots in the first five hours of voting, and a record turnout had been expected under sunny skies.

At stake were 300 seats in Parliament being contested by 47 parties, four of them considered major. Two key

Greyhound meetings resume to head-off nationwide strik

By ASSOCIATED PRESS AND STATE NEWS

Meetings of Greyhound Bus Lines employes, management and a federal mediator resumed Sunday in Phoenix, Ariz, in an effort to avoid a threatened nationwide strike.

Mediator Guy Parent said there was considerable progress in the talks which lasted until 3:30 a.m. Sunday before starting again at noon. Neither Greyhound executives nor officials of the union, Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Divisions, would comment on the progress mentioned by Parent.

But officials said the strike which could begin today, would halt all Greyhound operations nationwide, idling 16,000 employes Included would be bus drivers, terminal workers, maintenance and office employes.

A spokeswoman for the Greyhound depot in Lansing said they would not know if there would be a strike until noon today. If there was a strike, she said, only the Indian Trails bu to Chicago would be running. There are currently 11 employes working the Lansing depot and five employes work for Greyhound in East Lansing. The talks resumed Saturday after they w broken off Oct. 24, according to Ellis Franklin, union chairman. Neither management nor the union spel out their differences.

Bicentennial group blasts plans

By DAVE GUZNICZAK

State News Staff Writer Chiding the present federal organization for being too corporation oriented, Jeremy Rifkin said that educating the public on the real significance behind the American Revolution was the major concern of the Peoples'

Bicentennial Commission. With an early season winter dampening attendance, Rifkin addressed a to rally support for the local Peoples' Bicentennial Commission here in East Lansing.

The peoples' commission, founded by Rifkin in 1970, is a nonprofit organization dedicated to preserving the fundamental ideals behind the 1776 American Revolution against attacks from American big business. It has offices throughout the United States and is affiliated with a whole meager but enthusiastic crowd gamut of different churches and schools to radio and TV stations.

Before attacking business which he said was "turning Americans into a modern version of the medieval serf," Rifkin gave examples of offbeat projects proposed by other bicentennial groups.

Rifkin told of one project in a Florida town where all the fire hydrants were painted as minutemen.

"However," he added, "they had to quit the project because dogs were pissing on the fireplugs, and they thought it would be bad public relations."

EDITORIALS Paranoia smites profs

The Academic Senate must be condemned for its failure to approve student access to faculty rating forms.

The senate, which consists of some 2,200 full, associate and assistant professors, voted down Wednesday the proposal by the Academic Council which would have created a two - part evaluation form and allowed student access to one part of the form.

The proposal now goes back to the Academic Council for possible revision. The council worked long and hard on the language of the proposal, and hopefully will not be intimidated to return it to the senate in watered - down form.

The votes against the proposal made by 111 of the 164 senate members attending the meeting were based on particularly flimsy rationalizations. Those who opposed the proposal said that it would be unfair for the rating forms to be made widely accessible because the forms grade instructors anonymously and thus do not allow the instructors to "face their accusers."

Their accusers? Is that how the MSU faculty views students?

The display of such an attitude raises the distinct possibility that the meeting was attended by a disproportionate percentage of incompetents, who voted against the measure in a desperate attempt to keep the truth hidden about their ineffectiveness as educators.

When the proposal, which is the first step toward making academic evaluation a two - way street, returns to the senate, the meeting must be attended by the majority of able MSU instructors. The instructors have nothing to fear if the truth about their teaching abilities is made accessible to

This majority must not allow the access proposal to die at the hands of an incapable few who have taken it upon themselves to pervert the role of educators from those who disseminate information to those who cover it up.

Ballot reform needed

The election has come and gone. Democrats justly claim a substantial victory, but the real victory seemed to be of disgusted voters pulling the lever that seemed to say "NO!"

"NO," they wanted to say to Watergate, "NO," to inflation. If there had been a "No party," it would have cleaned up. As it was, the people voted Democratic.

A simple reform, borrowed from states like New York and from judicial races in many states, might bring a better chance for expression - without weakening the two party system that the voters still seem to uphold.

The reform consists of allowing candidates to run on more than one party label, a practice now prohibited in Michigan. Their votes on the various labels would be added to determine their total vote.

Thus, Gov. Milliken could have run on the Republican line, and also on a fictitious "Integrity party" line. A person who wanted to support Milliken, but didn't want to appear to support Republicans in general, would be able to vote for him on the alternative line.

their feelings with greater precision. In addition, the system would encourage voting "for the candidate," instead of straight party voting. Democrats would probably be more willing to support an occasional Republican if they were able to vote on a party line other than Republican, and

A candidate who garners large scale support on an independent line would feel freer to deviate from official party - line decisions. Thus, there would be a more independent body of officeholders and a more expressive body of

In addition, third parties, like the Human Rights party on the left or the American Independent party on the right, could, with the consent of the candidate involved, nominate a candidate primarily running on a major party line. Thus, they would no longer need to split the votes going to ideologically similar candidates.

Admittedly, the change would not be a panacea for the ills of elective democracy, but a small step

War is around the corner

On his recent short visit to the United States, Secretary of State Kissinger warned against thinking war was imminent in the Middle East and then packed his bags again for Japan, Korea, the Soviet Union,

It is reassuring to be told that there will be no war this week, but most observers here think the problem is not to minimize the dangers of war there but to prepare quickly for a situation that is very likely to get out of control in the next six or nine months.

This means, at least, (1) far more stringent and immediate measures to conserve and stockpile and oil for the new oil embargo that will certainly accompany another Arab - Israeli war; (2) speeding up the negotiations with Portugal and Spain to assure the landing and fueling rights essential there to an effective U.S. supply route to the Middle East; and (3) using the Ford - Brezhnev meeting in Vladivostok to find out whether the Soviet Union really means to the Middle East. At no time in the last year has there been so much anxious talk about a fifth Arab - Israeli war as there is now. Nor, it must be added, so little confidence that Secretary Kissinger's step - by : step bilateral negotiations can stop the slide.

keep its promises to maintain the peace in

The Arab nations' support for the Palestine Liberation Organization's terms of peace - Israel must withdraw to its '49 borders and join a new secular state that would in effect destroy the independent existence of Israel as a Jewish nation has created a wholly new and alarming

Arafat at the United Nations did not offer Israel a gun or an olive branch, but a gun or a club. This was not an offer to negotiate the security of Israel but a choice between war and surrender, and of course, the Israelis will not even negotiate

George Ball, former under secretary of state, has circulated a private memorandum on this situation which criticizes Kissinger for being far too optimistic about the Middle East. He describes the crisis in lurid terms, partly to counteract what he believes to be a misleading and dangerous trend of U.S. diplomacy.

"The most likely prospect now," he says, "is a continuing stalemate while both sides feverishly seek to build up their military might. So far the United States has poured a large quantity of sophisticated arms into Israel and it is probably stronger than before the October war, while the Soviet Union has not only replaced Syrian losses but has provided it with MIG - 23s, long - range surface - to surface (SCUD) missles and the most

"From the Arab point of view, it would, of course, be better to delay a shooting war until at least the fall of 1975, when more arms will be on hand and more troops trained, but I think it unlikely that the Israelis will permit such a delay.

"They lost the advantage of surprise last October when, because of the prevailing mood of the country, they failed to interpret their intelligence reports properly, and they are determined not to let that happen again.

"Thus it seems to me quite possible that the Israelis will launch a pre - emptive attack on Syria, and possibly Egypt, early next spring. If that occurs, the war will be quite different from the campaign of October, 1973. Both sides now have surface - to - surface missiles capable of reaching Jerusalem from Cairo and vice versa, and some of the SCUD missiles on the Arab side are mobile, which makes it difficult to knock them out. As a consequence, one can expect attacks on Middle Eastern cities and such targets as the oil depot at Haifa which have not been a feature of warfare up till now ... "

Ball goes on to say that the dangers we face in the longer future are "horrendous." With almost unlimited funds at their disposal he observes the Middle Eastern countries are now engaged in frantic programs to build up their military machines, while the free nations are competing for special influence in the region - the United States with Israel and Japan and Europe with the Arab states and despite all the talk of "detente," U.S. - Soviet diplomacy, he adds, has so far had little if any deterrent effect.

"The Soviets," he concludes, "have continued to compete directly with us for influence in the Arab world and to frustrate all of our moves toward peace. And the danger that the Middle East might become another Balkans involving the superpowers in a nuclear confrontation should never be lightly dismissed."

Other voices may be less alarmist about

officials blamed

The blame for the death of Susan Handelsman lies entirely in the hands of the MSU Administration.

The walkpath used by students to get to X lot was not officially recognized by the administrators because of the cost of making that walkway safe.

The $170,000 the University refused to spend for student safety has resulted in one of the worst tragedies ever experienced at MSU. It is a definite showing by a University rooted in the ways of American bureaucracy that a serious or even tragic occurrence must take place before positive action can take

Now will be a time for much scuffling within the administration of concerning "who stopped what, where and who refused to appropriate what for what." The blame will be shuffled back and forth in an effort to relieve someone's conscience of this untimely tragedy.

But the blame cannot be shifted. The administrators must take the blame for the death. Maybe then they will realize that a human life is more valuable than all their capitalistic ambitions of saving the University a disgusting $100,000.

> Joe Lewandowski 139 Woodmere Ave.

When I saw the front page of the State News Thursday morning, I felt guilty for not writing this letter in less dramatic form two years ago.

At that time I lived in Wilson Hall and was outraged by the Flot situation. I am a male of sound body, but it was physically impossible for me and my companions, on many occasions, to cross the tracks and stay on two feet. A five - foot high incline existed on both sides of the tracks and there was a glare of ice whenever it was below 32 degrees. I wondered every time I attacked it how easy it would be for someone to fall and lose consciousness. In the back of my mind, I felt the University would push this infringement on students' rights (that is, safety) as far as they could, until forced to do something about it, probably by some tragedy. Unfortunately for Miss Handelsman, she exemplified that Handelsman's parents, in my opinion, are entirely within their rights to hold this University directly responsible for their daughter's death. If legally possible and they want it, I would be more than willing to testify to this further affront against the students. Unfortunately and simultaneously, fortunately for the students, insensitivity to their needs does not always result in death. If you will, University officials may now be termed "capitalist - homicidal

Cheerleaders OK

I am writing this letter in response to Jim Black's and Linda Gray's letter of Nov. 13, which evaluated the MSU

Cheerleading squad.

Jim and Linda, I appreciate your criticism and, I know that everyone is entitled to his or her own opinions. But in respect to our cheerleading squad, I believe there is a lot more which effects the results of cheering than you seem to understand. You claim it was inexperience which caused us to begin loud cheers making it difficult for our players to hear the play. If such were the case you would be correct, but I doubt we started those cheers, since we are not allowed to cheer once the team is lined up. Fans cheer when they feel a need to, whether we start a cheer or not. You say we do not cheer when cheers are needed. My response to you is to pay a little more attention before you make judgments. We attempted to lead the crowd in cheers to stop the Buckeye offense when the yards needed were few, but the fans were more interested in what was going to happen on the field than our cheer. I think that is understandable, don't you? We lead a cheer between every other play, whether the student body joins us or not is up to them. You complain that the students are the only ones who begin cheers. The students go to the games to watch the team and have a good time. If they feel compelled to lead a cheer why shouldn't they? Personally it makes me feel good to hear everyone cheering no matter who began it. As to the OSU cheerleaders, you're right they are good cheerleaders, but in judging their ability we can't overlook the great enthusiasm of the people to which they cheer. You claim the OSU cheerleaders led the crowd in a great cheer that inspired their players to make a great run. I personally believe it was a spontaneous reaction of the crowd, as the Ohio State crowd is one unlike many others. Since we're on the subject I'd like to bring up something which bothered me last weekend. Saturday when our players first ran onto the field for warm up, there were very few Spartan fans in the stadium. Instead of being greeted with an uproar of shouts and cheers by our fans, they were faced with a thunderous boo from the already thousand of OSU fans in the stadium. Was that our fault too?

Tuition rule hit

As a transfer student who will begin classes winter term, I would like to say that I am already sadly disappointed with MSU.

I was born and raised in Michigan, but attended an out - of - state school my first two years of college. I then married a man from Indiana and lived outside Michigan another five years while he served in the military.

We now reside in Lansing and my husband is a graduate student at MSU. I am a full time employe of the University, working as a secretary.

I was appalled to find, upon applying to take a class in the evening, that employes get no break in tuition rates and what's more, I will be required to pay out of - state rates! I think this is a disgusting display of total lack of consideration for the employe and the taxpayer. My MSU paycheck is depleted every month for Michigan taxes and local taxes. I give this University 40 hours of my life every week (for very mediocre wages, I might add) and yet it will cost me over $130 to take one 3-credit course.

I have been acquainted with a number of colleges and universities including University of Maryland, University of Notre Dame, Bethel College (Indiana), American University (Washington, D.C.)

In this way, voters could express in the right direction. U.S. position on Cuba obsolete

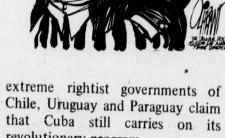

The recent U.S. abstention from the vote to end the embargo against Cuba is both anachronistic and inconsistent. Now that the United States is committed to detente and Cuba is no longer committed to violent revolution, shouldn't economic and diplomatic relations thaw?

Ten years ago, the members of the Organization of American States (OAS) voted overwhelmingly to impose economic sanctions against Cuba. The purpose of the sanctions was clear: to force the Castro government to cease exporting Marxist revolution to the rest of the hemisphere.

At that time, Che Guevara - style guerillas were trained in Cuba, supplied at Soviet expense, and sent to foment revolution against the official governments of much of Latin America, including, at one time or another, Guatemala, Dominican Republic, Venezuela, Brazil, Uruguay, Bolivia and others.

But Che is dead, and the ideal of popular revolutions has apparently become secondary to the goal of economic progress in Cuba.

Twelve of the Latin American states, most of which voted for the sanctions in 1964, have testified that Cuba has become a relatively peaceful neighbor. Only the revolutionary program.

The original purpose of the sanctions appears to be obsolete. Continuation of the embargo can only exacerbate tensions among the nations of the Western Hemisphere and inhibit trade and commerce which would promote the economic wellbeing of all nations. In addition, increased ties to its neighbors would, in all likelihood, help Cuba beome less dependent on the Soviet Union.

Lowe and his wife Deborah founded the MSU Students for Animal Rights Club early this term to combat cruelty and to make the public aware of ways men abuse animals every day.

He is a graduate student in pre - veterinary medicine.

"I never really thought much about humaneness until about two years ago, when I first got involved in veterinary medicine," he said. "But now I know that this dedication will be with me the rest of my "Life is cruel, and a lot of animals and men are going to die painful deaths," he said. "But I think man has gone beyond the stage where he needs to kill to survive."

Many animals, both wild and domestic, are destined to die because men do not take the time to think about such things, Lowe said. He added that the club's purpose is to change attitudes toward animals.

Lowe said the club has attracted many pre - vet students who got into veterinary medicine because they love animals but found courses at MSU were not oriented toward humaneness. "I think they turn to our club as an outlet," he said. "One of the problems students in human and veterinary medicine continually see is the indiscriminate use of animals for experimentation," he said. 'We think a lot of it is unnecessary, though we recognize the value of this experimentation."

Students often are shocked by the callous attitude taken toward laboratory animals by instructors and others in scientific fields, he said.

Club members also are concerned about the sheer numbers of animals used in experiments. Lowe contends there is no need to use hundreds of animals to prove a scientific point.

"It is not unusual for scientists to expose hundreds of animals to radiation, for example, when just a few animals could tell all that was needed," Lowe said.

Lowe believes many adults lack the ability to change their attitudes so he wants to reach children in the formative years. He and club members have been lecturing and showing movies at area grade schools to develop awareness among the students.

But help is on the way for them and numerous other pets, in the form of Pet Population Day, a day set aside by the Michigan State Students for Animal Rights to inform the public of the need to have their pets sterilized.

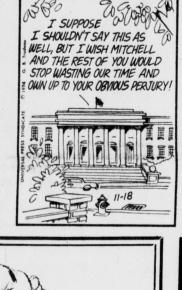

In an effort to boost public awareness of the growing problem of abandoned animals, the group is setting up a booth in the International Center from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday. Literature will be distributed advising persons to help curb the population of dogs and cats.

A half - hour film illustrating the plight of abandoned animals, will be shown between 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in 205 Bessey

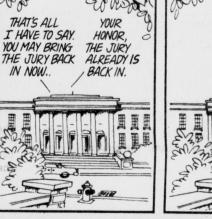

Judith Miller, member of the Michigan State Students for Animal Rights and chairperson of Pet Population Day, said so many pets are placed in a shelter or forced to helplessly roam the streets, that the only solution is sterilization.

Female dogs and cats are spayed while the males are neutered, she said. It is a fairly simple operation, and it costs relatively little.

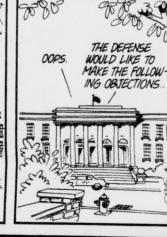

"The expenses vary from veterinarian to eterinarian, Miller said. "In Ingham County, people whose income is under $7,000 can have the county pay $10 toward the sterilization fee. This includes most students, since very few students earn over $7,000 a year.'

City may receive extra federal money W

By JOE KIRBY

State News Staff Writer East Lansing could receive a windfall of federal money thanks to a new community development program.

What the city can do with these community development funds, which could total over $3 million, is limited by federal guidelines, though the main purpose of the money is for improvement of housing conditions and the expansion of community services and facilities, especially for persons of low and moderate incomes.

City officials will be holding public meetings to get citizen input and feedback on possible projects.

East Lansing information officer Nancy Webber said public meetings are being scheduled at various points throughout the city hoping to reach the maximum number of residents.

The meetings will be held at city hall today at Red Cedar school on Nov. 20, at Bailey School on Nov. 21 and at Pinecrest School on Nov. 25. All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last about two hours. The meetings will be conducted by a committee consisting of representatives from five city commissions, the recreation, human relations, planning, traffic and housing commissions.

Each separate commission will then meet and collect the best ideas and rank them by priority. A recommendation will then be drawn up by the planning commission and submitted to the council for a public hearing, probably sometime in February.

The city's application must then be submitted to the Tri -County Regional Planning Commission for review before March

The Community Development Act, signed into law this

August, will take the place of existing categorical grant programs and instead make federal monies available under a block gran Funding could begin as soon as the second half of the present fiscal year, from January to June 1975, with East Lansing eligible for up to $168,000 during that period. The city could receive $398,000 during the 1976 fiscal year and $607,000 during the 1977 fiscal year. Another $1,854,000 w tentatively projected for the following three years. In order to take advantage of the Community Development Act and qualify for full funding the city must prove and document use and needs for eligible money. If the city is able to justify only a portion of the fund then it will only receive that portion the federal government thinks it has proven a need for. City planners are preparing lists of possible projects for the city and expect to add to the list after talking to citizens. The funds could be used for the acquisition of property which is blighted, deteriorated, appropriate for rehabilitation or restoration of historic sites, beautification of urban land or conservation of open space.

Money could also be used to acquire property for public works, except buildings for general conduct of government facilities for use by the general public, schools, transportation facilities or medical facilities for the general public.

Special projects to remove material and architectural barrier restricting the mobility and accessibility of elderly and handicapped persons could be conducted with the money.

Ford: energy chief choice a mistake

President Ford's admitted mistake in choosing a new head of the Federal Energy Administration resulted from haste and a failure to take normal precautions, according to public and private accounts by some of those involved.

Nobody at the White House was aware, until after Ford named Andrew E. Gibson to the post, that Gibson was getting $88,000 a year from an oil - transport firm he once headed.

That money, and questions about Gibson's role in the approval of multimillion dollar subsidies for the same oil firm, quickly surfaced and scuttled Gibson's chances to win Senate confirmation, forcing the withdrawal of his nomination.

"We made a mistake," Ford said at a news conference Thursday.

A White House subordinate, who asked not to be named, concurred. "We short - cut the system," he said. "The President wanted to move quickly.'

Here is an account of how it happened, pieced together from public statements and off - the - record talks. In late October Ford was eager to oust John Sawhill, the head of the energy agency. Sawhill was floating ideas that Ford did not like, such as a proposal for a high tax on gasoline to discourage its use.

The task of finding a successor fell to Ford's resident talent scout, William N. Walker, whose office reviews up to 1,000 job resumes each week. From the talent pool Walker and other staff members chose three or four names and sent them to Ford without favoring any one.

Ford chose Gibson, announcing his appointment at a nationally televised news conference Oct. 29.

Officials will not say who sent Gibson's name in, or for what job he was originally being considered.

Ford says Gibson's name was chosen for the energy position because he had a record as a good administrator. Ford says he did not know that Gibson had a $1 million contract with Interstate Oil Transport Co. of Philadelphia, and that the company was committed to pay him was not pressed for details. $88,000 a year until 1984 even though he left after only 14 months on the job. Taking such large sums of money from an oil - transport firm raised questions about Gibson's fitness to head the energy administration. When Gibson was being considered for the job he mentioned to White House aides that he was receiving money from the firm as part of a severance deal. But the information raised no alarm bells, one official said. Gibson

The White House, short on time, neglected to order the customary FBI check into Gibson's dealings since leaving the government a year and a half earlier.

nearly a week after the appointment had been announced publicly that White House aides got full details of Gibson's $1 million contract with Interstate. On Monday, Nov. 4, he supplied them with copies of it.

Still, the word did not filter up to Ford. Spokesmen say he learned of the Interstate contract when he read about it in the newspapers.

Meanwhile, Senate sources say, a remarkable number of rumors and tips about Gibson's Officials say it was not until alleged conflict - of - interest problems were reaching investigators for the Interior Committee.

Some members of Congress openly opposed Gibson's confirmation, and his chances of survival plunged. Within a week Ford withdrew the nomination.

college junior program. Women accepted in the program for juniors spend four weeks during the summer at preview of life as a WAC officer. There is no obligation to enlist later.

Participants earn a $414 salary for that period as well as free room, board and uniforms. Those still interested in becoming WACs and who are willing to serve 2 years after graduation get a $500 a month salary during their senior year and an automatic commission as a second lieutenant when had no trouble recently filling they graduate.

A training course that includes rising at 6 a.m. to march and attend classes on military subjects is not everyone's cup of tea. And many students still have strong moral reservations about military service. But with the rising cost of education and higher unemployment, the Army has slots for either program.

Lt. Clark, on campus recently to talk with interested students, interviewed four women, two of whom are applying for the college junior program as a result.

Students are usually friendly to her as well as to the male Army recruiter," she said. "I'm amazed that a change in attitude is happening so quickly."

The Army has been criticized for setting tougher admission standards for enlisted women than enlisted men. There currently are several court challenges to the Army's practice.

"As long as we can get enough qualified people, I think it's fine," Lt. Clark said, referring to the current policy.

"Actually, I'd like to see the mens' standards raised instead of the womens' lowered," she said.

Lt. Clark said most women become WACs for the travel, the experience of meeting new people and the educational benefits. For the last two years, GI Bill benefits, salaries and job opportunities, except Lt. Clark disagrees. "I don't for 34 combat - related jobs, have been mandated equal for both sexes by law.

Group livens jazz weekend

By DAVE STERN State News Reviewer

Despite the abundance of jazz on campus this past weekend, it was difficult to corner any true excitement. The one extremely notable exception to this was the concert Thursday by the MSU Improvisation Ensemble.

Fueled by the dynamo rhythm machine of Gary Schunk, Steve Miller and Dan Casey, on piano, bass and drums, respectively, the group provided one of the most exciting concerts this year.

The group was fronted by Tom Arvidson on bass flute and tenor sax and Eric Culver on trombone. Arvidson is an extremely tiresome soloist who plays isolated melodic fragments and riffs rathers than organic solos.

Culver is an interesting and promising trombonist. He has a good conception of his horn and solos creatively, but often gets tangled up in his technique, which overshadows his sense of construction.

The real star of the evening, as of so many others, was Gary Schunk. This time, backed by the best rhythm section he has ever worked with, he surpassed himself. The thing so hard to comprehend is that Schunk, who can stand on equal footing with any jazz pianist in the business, is here on the MSU campus. Because of his background in classical music and wide range of jazz influences, he sometimes seems to ape other pianists, but has, over the past year, developed a strong identity of his own while still using devices coined by a wide variety of pianists.

Playing a straight - ahead solo on the opening number and one very reminiscent of Tristano on the first of the Culver compositions, Schunk blew everyone's mind on the closing number, playing a piano solo that would stand up to just about anything ever recorded.

Compressing the entire history of jazz into one solo, Schunk drew expressions of amazement from the audience by shifting deftly between styles, following Earl Hines with Cecil Taylor; the two really have a great deal in

KENTON CONCERT DISAPPOINTING

Poor arrangements hurt bands

By DAVE STERN State News Reviewer

One of the most lavish funerals of the century is that given for the big band. For years former disciples have been talking about the decline and death of the big band, and very often these lamentations appear as part of the advertising hype for one of the units most responsible.

The appearance, in the space of two days, of a high school, a college and a professional big band on campus provide a number of insights into what is wrong with modern day big bands and why things are not getting any better.

Okemos Jazz Ensemble

The most gratifying of the bands, by far, was the Okemos High School Jazz Ensemble Friday. The 28 member band performs with a great deal of enthusiasm. And it is always a joy to watch a competent high school unit.

Even here, though, there were disquieting factors. Three years ago, before the group made it, it was a very exciting unit. Its lack of full instrumentation resulted in a large emphasis on solos (several members of the band learned to solo quite well because of this), and its lack of money for charts lead to some very fine student compositions and arrangements.

Having made it, the ensemble's excitement quotient has dropped. The band that played Friday night had less room for solos, often giving a musician only a two or four - bar fill in which to attempt a complete musical statement. This is fine on occasion, though it usually indicates a lack of skill on the part of the arranger. But it is extremely tiresome when it occurs in every number.

The quality of the material played was even more disturbing. The group's early appearances featured student compositions and arrangements of pieces from the Don Ellis book, material that is quite difficult for a high school band. The band's present material is mostly undistinguished, featuring the mediocre side of both present day music and the big band classics.

Admittedly, this is harsh criticism to level at a high school unit, whose main purpose is educational, but the purpose of these comments is to point out that the band is losing sight of its educational objectives. This is still an excellent group of high school musicians, but it seems a pity to stunt its musical growth for

MSU Jazz Ensemble

Even more upsetting was the concert Thursday of the MSU Jazz Ensemble. Emerging last year from its dark ages it turned to the works of jazz masters such as Thelonius Monk. This seemed an omen of brighter days to come. Not so. Half the concert was taken up with material which is suited strictly for the high school level.

At the college level, there is responsibility not only to the band, but to the education of the audience. Part of the problem of the modern professional big band is that lack of audience knowledge forces it to play vacuous arrangements of worthless contemporary pieces. A college unit should emphasize student composition and the introduction of the audience to the jazz masters.

That the MSU ensemble has the audience to do this is undeniable, for its concerts are attended by audiences who appreciate the band's level of work. A more perfect circumstance for the education of the audience could hardly be imagined. The ensemble has the technical ability to play more challenging material as was shown by one of the student compositions played.

The points of interest in the concert were the two student compositions. "Hegira" by Mike Amundsen presented an interesting melodic statement but failed to carry either the rhythms or lines into the solo section.

The high point of the concert was the performance of Eric Culver's "Departure Day." A very sophisticated and taxing piece, reminiscent of early George Russell compositions, it was executed smoothly, showing that the band had clearly been playing far below its capability.

Like the Okemos band, the possibilities abound here. There are numerous fine musicians in the band and at least two promising composers. Hopefully, winter term's concert will showcase more of

Stan Kenton

Stan Kenton played vacuous arrangements of worthless contemporary pieces. Opening the concert with a horrible arrangement of "My Funny Valentine," he got worse. Most of the first set was taken up by melodys of such little interest that, to provide an illusion of musical value, they were adorned with endless time changes, melodic elaborations and repetition, all adding up to nothing (kind of baroque on

The one point of interest the first set was the bariton playing of Roy Reynold Showing more taste than t pointless technical bravado Tom Campise, Reynolds was breath of fresh air in f extremely fetid set.

The second set improve somewhat. With the performance of "Intermission Riff," Kenton not only cash in on nostalgia, but, free fro unnecessary elaboration, even began to swing a bit. The highlight of the concert Tom Campise's classy rip of Roland Kirk's flute plays in the "Hog Rut Blues." Ew this, though, was ruined by the failure to mention Kirk's nam Overall, Kenton's appearance on campus can only described as unfortunate.

Brewery presents Dr. John

By DAVE DIMARTINO State News Reviewer

If Dr. John is at the right place at the right time, he will be at The Brewery tonight.

Dr. John, also known as Mac Rebbenack, is scheduled to lead off a series of superb concerts planned at The Brewery for the coming weeks, including performances by T. Rex, Hudson -Ford and Manfred Mann's Earth Band.

The reputation of Dr. John as a fine pianist and a flashy performer certainly precedes his appearance here. A New Orleans studio musician from years back, he first gained national recognition as "Dr. John the Night Tripper" with his debut Atco album, "Gris - Gris Aris."

Thought by many to be little more than a fleeting by - product of the psychedelic '60s, Rebbenack, as Dr. John, released a flood of albums, including the classic "Babylon." Musical recognition was given to him by artists like Eric Clapton and Mick Jagger, both of whom appeared on his records.

Since those early days as the origin purveyor of Bayou swamp rock, Dr. John h shown a marked musical sophistication the began with the release of his "Gumbo" album The work was a tribute to New Orleans jar musicians who Dr. John felt deserve international exposure.

From that period until now, the music Dr. John has had a gritty New Orleans fun that is readily identifiable.

With his "Right Place/Wrong Time" single his first fully qualified hit record, Dr. John w placed directly in the view of the America public. No longer a cult figure with a sm audience to please, he has since been doing h best to take Bayou rock to its furthest limits.

Dr. John's performance at The Brewe should be extremely interesting. His shows a always flashy and uncompromisingly good. I John was probably one of the first "glitter Tickets are still on sale at The Brewery.

TV networks host week of fine shows

By KATHY ESSELMAN State News Reviewer

This week, the networks lay out a bill of fare which could nourish most viewers for a month. This quality menu offers everything from Christopher Fry's modern classic "The Lady's Not for Burning" to "Johnny Cash Ridin' the Rails."

The smorgasbord looks appetizing and varied. Hollywood Television Theater presents Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not For Burning." The production stars Richard Chamberlain and Eileen Atkins, and features an extraordinary cast, including Rosemary Murphy, Kristoffer Tabori, Laurie Prange and John Carradine. This prestigious production will air 8 p.m. Monday.

"Happy Anniversary and Goodbye" is Lucille Ball's first special for CBS under her revised contract. The special stars Ball and Art Carney in a comedy - drama about a married couple facing a silver anniversary identity crisis. This is the first time these master comedians have worked together and the results should be interesting. The show will air 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Two new series premier on PBS Wednesday: "Feeling Good," and "Life of Leonardo Da Vinci." "Feeling Good" attempts to do for health what "Sesame Street" did for the alphabet. "The Children's Television Workshop has assembled a resident cast, including Bill Cosby and Ethel Shutta. The initial outing will be spiced with songs by Helen Reddy, B. B. King and Johnny Cash. It may turn you on like "Electric Company." This will be broadcast at 8 p.m.

"Life of Leonardo Da Vinci" follows at 9 p.m. on channel 23. RAI's (the Italian national network) production, first aired in 1972 in the United States, is a slow moving, five - part look at the life of this archetypal Renaissance figure. It uses Da Vinci's journals, sketches and art to illuminate his life and is well worth the patience it takes to get into the series.

Thursday at 8 p.m., "A Charlie Brown Thanksgiving" features a holiday feast with the "Peanuts" gang.

"Benjamin Franklin: The Ambassador" introduces a new miniseries on Ben Franklin at 9:30 p.m. on CBS. This episode stars Eddie Albert as the wily diplomat oiling his way through the court of Versailles in 1778.

"Great Expectations" glitters in the Friday lineup at p.m. on NBC. A strong British cast enlightens this ambitious production. Michael York, Sarah Miles, Margaret Leighton, James Mason and Anthony Quayle appear. It seems a most ambitious production of this classic.

The week offers a schedule which may tempt turned - off viewers to switch on their sets.

Spartans dump stubborn Hoosiers, 19-10

By CHARLES JOHNSON PAT FARNAN State News Sports Writers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. - A poised MSU football team, making its debut as an upset target rather than a victimizer, came through when it defeated a determined Indiana squad 19-10 before 25,482 fans here Saturday.

The Spartans, cast into the national limelight a week ago with their upset victory over Ohio State, displayed one of the most devastating ground game exhibitions in recent history and in the process of running wild, ran the Hoosiers crazy and deeper into the Big Ten conference cellar.

Denny Stolz' squad entered the game a little flat, but refused to lose any of the luster from its big victory last week.

"I never coached so hard in my life," Stolz said afterward. "You could just see that our kids weren't up. You just can't afford to lose games like this after beating a power like Ohio

"We really didn't play that poorly in the first half, but we had a couple of bad breaks. I'm just glad we're leaving here with a

Charlie Baggett pumped up the deflated Spartan offense in the second half as the Spartans rolled to their fourth straight win and a firmer grasp of the third place spot in the Big Ten conference

Baggett, with running backs Levi Jackson and Richie Baes, headed the second half assault on the Indiana defense, which allowed the Spartans only a 24 - yard field goal from Hans Nielsen in the first half.

All three Spartan backs eclipsed the 100 yard mark. Baggett finished with 151, Jackson totaled 127 and Baes led' all rushers with 159 yards. But the Spartans could not get the ball in the end zone in the first half. Three interceptions and a couple other costly miscues gave Indiana 7-3 halftime edge. "Lee Corso (Indiana coach) did a heckuva coaching job out there today," Stolz said, commending his peer. "He coached that football team well and you could see that they were going all out In light of the Spartans passing difficulties in the first half, (Baggett was three of eight), Stolz kept the ball on the ground in the second half and slowly put the Hoosiers away. For Indiana, it was its ninth loss in 10 games. The Spartans improved their record to 6-3-1 and 5-1-1 in the Big Ten.

Any chance Stolz' boys had for a trip to Pasadena were ended Saturday with the University of Michigan's rout of Purdue, 51-0. It took a pair of long scoring drives late in the second half to free the Spartans from the clutches of defeat. Baggett and Jackson took turns ripping through the stubborn Hoosier defense late in the third period and Baggett capped off an 87 - yard drive by sneaking across from one yard.

On their next possession, after forcing an Indiana punt, the Spartans went 86 yards in 13 plays with Baes toting it over from six yards to make it 16-7. Reserve quarterback Tyrone Willingham bobbled the snap from center after the Spartans' first touchdown and the PAT failed. That left the Hoosiers trailing by just two. But after Baes six - yard scamper, Nielsen converted and later slipped a 44 - yard field goal through the uprights to insure the Spartans of the win. The Hoosier scores came on a pass from Terry Jones to Trent Smock of 20 yards, tipped by Spartan linebacker Pat McClowry, in the first period and a 32 - yard field goal by Frank Stavroff with 5:35 remaining in the game.

Though Stolz said that he recognized beforehand that his team was flat, an exuberant Baes contended after the game that he was one player who was fired up for the contest,

"I was ready to go and wanted to have a good game," Bee said. "I could see a lot of my teammates were down, but I never felt better all year."

Baes, a walk - on, lugged the ball 27 times to lead the Spartans in that category, too.

"It was the best game I've ever had at Michigan State," Best

Jackson, who has burned opponents for 261 yards the past two weeks, was awarded the game ball.

"It's been a great two weeks," he said.

Jackson broke the crucial 88 - yard touchdown run against Ohio State last week that sent the Buckeyes back to Colur with their first loss this year.

His 34 - yard spring against the Hoosiers Saturday set up the Spartans' first touchdown and provided them with the impetus to close out the upset - minded Hoosiers.

In all, the Spartans amassed 441 yards on the ground and 33 yards in the air for a total of 474, over 300 more than the

THIRD PERIODS DECISIVE

Icers roll over Dakota

By STEVE STEIN

State News Sports Writer It is almost becoming predictable.

MSU's hockey team stretched its Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. (WCHA) winning streak to five this past weekend by sweeping fast - skating North Dakota, 7-4 and 6-2 at the Munn Ice Arena.

In every one of the Spartans' five straight victories, the team has waited until the third period to put things away.

"It speaks well for their conditioning," Spartan hockey coach Amo Bessone said after Saturday's victory. "If we could put three periods together like we play the third period, we'd probably kill

The two victories gave the Spartans a 5-1 record in WCHA play and a 6-2 overall record, while the Sioux fell to 1-5 in the league and 3-5 overall MSU sold out Munn Arena for the first time Saturday night as 6,255 fans packed the new facility. A crowd of 6,048 watched Friday night's contest, raising the series attendance total to 12,303, also a new MSU record.

Spartan center Steve Colp got into a fight with North Dakota's Tom Brown with just 1:34 remaining in Saturday's contest and both men were handed five - minute fighting penalties.

Under WCHA rules, Colp will miss Friday night's game against Wisconsin in Madison.

Bessone indicated that Darl Bolton will take Colp's place on the Spartans' line with Daryl Rice and Robbie Harris. Colp, who is MSU's second - leading scorer, led the WCHA and the nation in scoring last year.

"We've gotten along without important stars before," Bessone said. "Of course, Steve is one of our main cogs."

The Spartans exploded with four goals in the final period Saturday to break open a close contest. After allowing the Sioux to score first, MSU led by just 2-1 over two periods.

Tom Ross and freshman defenseman Tom Smith scored unassisted goals in the second period to give MSU its lead.

Ross scored on a three - on - one break while Smith tallied when he carried the puck from deep inside the Spartan zone, got behind the Dakota defense, and beat goalie Peter Waselovich with a quick shot.

It was the first collegiate goal for Smith.

Brendon Moroney, Daryl Rice, Ross and sophomore defenseman Pat Betterley sealed the game Saturday for MSU with goals in the final stanza. Betterley's goal, a power play slap shot, was also his first in a Spartan uniform.

Ron Clark was a busy man in the Spartan nets Saturday, stopping 54 Dakota shots, including an amazing 30 in the first period alone. He only allowed one tally that period.

"I don't know how they got that many through," Clark said after his shower. "They just kept coming and coming." Clark added a little extra excitement to the game Friday when he skated out half - way to the blue line near the boards to help stop a North Dakota power play effort. Spartan defenseman Kelly Cahill alertly guarded the net until

"That's what gives coaches grey hair," Bessone sighed. "But Clark has been fantastic this year. He's gotten off to a tremendous start and I hope he keeps it up."

John Sturges and Ross each tallied twice to lead the Spartans to their 7-4 victory Friday. MSU led by only one goal, 5-4, after two periods but Rice and Ross tallied in the final period to seal

Dakota took a brief 4-3 advantage when it scored two goals within 14 seconds of the second period. But, Bolton scored his first goal of the year and Sturges added another to give the lead said things are "cleared up completely." Sturges was going after the hat trick Friday and Bessone left him on the ice a little longer in the third period in an attempt to get that third goal.

Sturges, who had a disagreement with Bessone earlier this year,

"That's the kind of guy Amo is," Sturges said.

The reactions of the MSU and North Dakota players above indicate their feelings following a power play goal by the Spartans' Pat Betterley late in the third period during MSU's 6-2 victory Saturday night. Betterley fired his shot from the right point.

Spartan goalie Ron Clark lends a hand to teammate Tom Smith during a small skirmish in Friday's 7-4 MSU victory over North Dakota. Clark stopped 54 shots Saturday while Smith scored his first collegiate goal to help MSU sweep the weekend series with a 6-2 triumph over the Sioux.

Mann's field goal just in time as Lions defeat Giants, 20-19

DETROIT (UPI) - Errol Mann kicked a 37 yard field goal with two seconds to play Sunday to give the Detroit Lions a 20-19 victory over the New York Giants in the National Football Conference game.

Detroit, which blew a 10-3 lead, racked up its fifth win in its last six games by scoring 10 points in the last 5 1/2 minutes of the game. New York is now 2-8 and Detroit 5-5.

Quarterback Bill Munson hit rookie Bob Pickard with a seven - yard touchdown pass, the first of the youngster's career, with 5:22 left to bring the Lions within range.

They started the winning drive on their own 20 and Munson completed four key passes to give Mann a chance at his winning three pointer. One of those receptions was a 19 - yard strike to Ron Jessie when Detroit had four yards to go on fourth down at its own 26.

Pete Gogolak kicked field goals of 42, 33, 34 and 40 yards for the Giants. His 40 - yard shot with 10:19 left in the game gave New York a 19-10 margin.

An MSU professor of onomics has urged andatory conservation of oline by imposing a 30 to Cent tax on gas.

rejection of a gas tax and suggestion of import quotas not help the economic situation in the United States. The only people who will benefit from import quotas will be the oil companies, he said. The quotas will lower supplies and raise prices, but the profits will be going to the producers.

The money from a gas tax would go into the government and could be used to fight unemployment, which Kreinin feels will be "public enemy No. 1" by mid-1975.

Kreinin said that the tax would not have to be discriminatory against the poor. He suggested that an income tax credit could be allowed to make the gas tax more equitable.

Jury summons anger students

By ALLAN LENGEL

State News Staff Writer John sat around the East Lansing Courthouse skeptical and angered, serving his fourth and last day as juror.

John had spent the last three days sitting with a crowd of 30 jurors waiting for the court to pick six of their names for a jury. The fourth day was no different.

The six names were called and John was once again not among them, yet he was forced to wait until a jury was compiled, which was not until

John left the courtroom frustrated over the fact that he had never taken part in one of the oldest judicial processes, trial - by - jury.

His experience was quite typical of MSU students who are summoned to serve as jurors in the East Lansing District Court.

Judge Daniel Tschirhart of the East Lansing court stated that he was aware of the inconveniences the jury system imposes on students.

Tschirhart said if a student can present a valid reason for not fulfilling an entire two week term, he will allow the student to serve only three or four days. The student must show it would be a unique hardship to serve.

Jurors are selected by a are always jurors on call serving names at random from a voter registration list Tschirhart estimates that only 2 to 3 per cent of the students are totally excused from serving.

He explained that a student could be excused if the few days missed could ruin an entire quarter's studies.

Students in veterinarian school and medical school are among those who have been excused from serving on jury duty.

By ALLAN LENGEL

State News Staff Writer While few people dispute the necessity of a trial by jury the cost, time and inconvenience imposed by it have caused some to consider reform. Judge Daniel Tschirhart of the East Lansing District Court agrees with those who want the elimination of trial by jury for minor cases. But Tschirhart explained that reform will not be feasible until the possibility of jail terms are eliminated for minor

He estimated that it takes three times as long to try a case with a jury.

While Tschirhart admitted that some money is wasted he said that nevertheless the law today states that everyone has the right to be tried by their peers.

As of the present, $4500 has been allotted for jury trials in the East Lansing District Court for 1974. This is an increase of $1,000 over 1973.

A Washington D.C. system analyst and computer expert obtained a federal grant to study the jury system. He concluded that out of the many thousands of dollars spent a year on juries in the United States nearly one - fifth could have been saved by better management. Judge Jack Warren of the Ingham County Circuit Court said: "realistically the-day is not far off when out of necessity we'll cut down on expenses and limit the trial by juries." "We'll soon see some serious proposals in the legislature to

"I think it was a waste of time," she said, "I'm a junior and I'm starting to get into the most important part of my program." "I just think that my schooling was more important than someone who has a traffic violation," she added. Those students who did serve on juries said that they were impressed by the process but seemed disgruntled over the other days where they waited for hours doing nothing. Shirley Stratton, a junior, served on one jury during the two week period and told of her contentment toward the Stratton admitted that the other days when she was not serving were wasteful and 'pretty disruptive in my schedule.

Each juror is paid $15 a day and $7.50 for a half day.

A full day means a juror is in the court house before and after 12 p.m.

In addition, jurors receive 10 cents a mile for round trip by car.

While students were generally negative toward the system, some Lansing residents who served on juries in the Ingham County Circuit Court expressed more positive reactions. The county court averages 21 trial juries a month, giving selected jurors a better chance of actually serving. William Beckett, of Lansing, echoed the views of several Lansing jurors saying he was satisfied and impressed with the judicial process but there were certain things which disturbed him. "First I thought it was a farce," Beckett said. He explained that he was removed from the selection of the first jury by a lawyer under a peremptory challenge which allows six jurors to be removed without reason.

Beckett later changed his mind after he served on a jury, finding it interesting and quite

The Original Gold Rush: Carole Gold wen skinny dipping in 1848. A prospector spotted her and hollered out, "Gold. There's Gold in the river. Carole thought he was telling her that it was cold in the river. She jumped to shore, and threw some yellow rocks at him. The prospector had them assayed, and...you guessed it, they were "idiot's gold" (which is worth even less than "fool's gold" The prospector died penniless, while Carole went on to the commercial below.

affiliated with minority groups. One document shows that the IRS group sought at least some information regarding the Ford Foundation, a long time enemy of several top aides in the Nixon White House.

The organizational files of the Special Service Staff, originally named the Activist Organizations Group, gives some idea of how the unit operated.

"What we are doing," said a memo dated July 29, 1969, "is trying to assemble all information available from within the (Internal Revenue) service, from the FBI, from the Dept. of Defense, from any other federal agency having information and from any congressional committee having information. We do not want to have this rather sensitive information handled loosely.'

A month later, as the unit's file grew, a briefing paper said, "Many of the organizations are controversial, all are newsworthy, and a large number are known to be militant, revolutionary and subversive."

It is not clear from the newly released materials and others made public by the Senate Watergate Committee and similar investigative groups how many of the organizations and individuals identified by the Special Service Staff later had tax problems with the IRS.

However, some of the organizations on the list of 99 later had their tax exempt status revoked by the IRS and at least some of the people associated with one or more of the groups had their tax returns audited.

IRS releases list of examined units

Here is a partial list of the 99 organizations investigated by the Internal Revenue Service's Special Service Staff, according to documents made public Sunday:

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee of Atlanta The Student Voice Inc. of Atlanta. The Congress of Racial Equality, New York. The Students for a Democratic Society, Chicago. The Black Panther party, Oakland, Calif.
