Union seeks anti-trust law

The AFL-CIO proposed on Sunday new anti-trust legislation to break up the giant oil companies and place them under strict government regulation.

The hardships suffered a year ago during the Arab oil embargo "pales into insignificance compared to what looms ahead unless immediate and drastic action is taken," said the labor organization's executive council.

In a statement approved by the council at its winter meeting, the AFL-CIO blamed multinational oil companies for the energy crisis and recommended "a comprehensive energy policy" which would reduce imports, cut consumption and increase domestic energy supplies.

Burger: U.S. courts misused

Federal courts are being used as "bush league" training grounds for neophyte prosecutors and public defenders who leave government after a short time for more lucrative private practice, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the U.S. Supreme Court said Sunday.

The large turnover rates on staffs of U.S. attorneys and public defenders' offices, coupled with increasing crime and added caseloads have outstripped the capacities of the federal court system, he said.

"The standards for selection . . . should be made sufficiently attractive so that the federal courts will not continue to be used as a 'bush league' facility to train trial lawyers for private practice," Burger said.

Storms rip through Oklahoma

Hundreds were homeless Sunday in southwestern and south central Oklahoma in the wake of a violent late winter storm that spewed out killer - tornadoes accompanied by hail, sleet and snow.

Four persons were killed in the Oklahoma storms and more than 125 were injured.

In the meantime, Arkansas authorities said Sunday they were searching for more victims of tornadoes that claimed at least one life in the Little Rock area on Saturday.

Poll shows optimism rising

A majority of Americans continue to believe the economy will get worse in the next six months, but the proportion who predict the worst has declined sharply since last November, the latest Gallup Poll shows.

In the latest Gallup survey, 56 per cent said the economic situation in the United States would get worse in the next six months, while 30 per cent predicted it would get better. Ten per cent of those queried said the situation would remain the same, while 4 per cent had no opinion.

Cypriots seek aid from UN

Greek Cypriot refugees appealed to the United Nations on Sunday to prevent the seizure of their homes by mainland Turks in the occupied part of the island.

The protest was made by the Pan-Cyprian Refugee Committee, which represents the 200,000 Greek Cypriots forced to abandon their homes as a result of the Turkish invasion and occupation of nearly half the island last summer.

Earlier this month the legislative assembly of the unilaterally proclaimed separate Turkish Cypriot state approved a law extending Cypriot citizenship rights to the 40,000 troops of the Turkish invasion force and their families, as well as the right to settle in the Turkish occupied part of the island.

26 years of hiding end

Two Communist partisans, until recently wanted on charges of murder and anti-state activities, surfaced Sunday after hiding out in mountain caves in Crete for 26 years. They said their ideals kept them alive.

George Tzombanakis, 55, and Spyros Blazakis, 59, are all that remain of a Communist guerilla group of 30 which took to the Cretan mountains after the failure of the 1945-49 leftist uprising, ended their hiding after the government in Athens dropped all charges against them last week.

They said they had rejected general amnesties granted in 1952, 1965, and by the former junta in 1973, as "suspect and unclean, always asking in the meantime that we compromise our ideals."

Railway death toll up

The death toll rose to 27 Sunday in Norway's worst rail disaster, authorities announced. They said the victims were 26 Norwegians, including four members of the same family, and a 55-year-old American-born musician.

The names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin. Officials said, however, the engineers were not among the dead because they jumped from their cabs seconds before the head-on collision on Saturday.

Bombs hit Eritrean villages

Government planes bombed suspected guerilla positions four miles northwest of Asmara in Eritrea province on Sunday. Reliable sources reported the U.S. government plans to close its military communications station in the embattled province in June.

In the first military action reported in two days, two fighter-bombers swooped over villages where tanks, planes and artillery took part in heavy fighting Friday.

DIPLOMATIC SOURCES FEAR ESCALATION

Cambodian situation could get worse

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The U.S. - financed airlift into isolated Phnom Penh is meeting daily battlefield supply requirements, but the situation could quickly become critical if fighting escalates, diplomatic sources say.

They add that if the Mekong River remains closed to river convoys much longer, an expensive airlift of rice and fuel may be needed to keep the Cambodian capital's population alive.

Communist - led insurgents, only six weeks into their dry season offensive, have consolidated their grip on all the nation's roads, whittled down government troops trying to reopen the mined Mekong and kept the capital's airport under daily rocket fire.

Fighting was most intense in the first two weeks of the offensive when insurgents advanced on the city from five different directions, but has settled since into a series of localized actions, according to military sources. In the past few days, the focus has shifted to the once peaceful, rice - growing northwestern provinces where military observers fear a similar strangling attempt on the region's largest city, the province capital of Battambang.

Extra Aid Requested

But the $4.5 million U.S. airlift is expensive and money diverted for the U.S. civilian - piloted planes means less ammunition, as all expenses come out of the Cambodian military aid budget. The Ford Administration has requested an extra $222 million for the current fiscal year in additional military aid for Cambodia.

One Western diplomat called the extra money "totally essential for Phnom Penh's survival and to prevent a victory by the other

In South Vietnam, Communist - led forces on Sunday South Vietnamese troops trying to retake high ground above populous northern coast below Da Nang, the Saigon command reported.

It said nine South Vietnamese troops were killed and wounded, but North Vietnamese and Viet Cong losses were known. The South Vietnamese operation is designed to force North Vietnamese thrust into the lowlands.

Airport Blast Injures 3

In Cambodia, rebel gunners fired five rockets into Phnom Penh airport, wounding three persons, authorities said. The Cambodian command said fighting also erupted near the naval base at Neak Luong, 30 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. Casualties not known.

A bipartisan congressional delegation was originally scheduled to arrive in Phnom Penh this coming week to look into the question, but has now cancelled out indefinitely to remain at work on energy bills. Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif. and Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., are on a 10-day tour of Vietnam and Cambodia at the request of the White House.

One diplomat said, "In the next four months until the come, it's a question of the river or money. Without both, we have a double negative and the chances of survival would be pretty slim. With one of the two, there would be a better chance."

Official says Israeli withdrawal depends on what Egyptians do

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said Sunday that Israeli willingness to withdraw in Sinai will be influenced by what Egypt is willing to do in return, both "political and strategic."

He also said general world detente would do more to religious newspaper Hamodia said Israel will find it difficult to reject U.S. guarantees "especially since it is continually applying to Washington for aid."

The Soviet Union hinted that it would not interfere with efforts by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to achieve another disengagement in the Sinai on condition that the Geneva talks resume soon after. The Communist party newspaper Pravda conceded that an Israeli pullback would be a useful thing. Kissinger is expected to return to the Middle East next month to try to work it out.

His comments came less than 24 hours after an Israeli army patrol killed one member of an Arab terrorist band trying to infiltrate north of the village of Shetula along the Lebanese border.

Beside the body, the patrol found weapons, explosive charges, hand grenades, a loud speaker and leaflets demanding the release of Arabs held in Israeli jails, the Israeli command said.

Israel would like a nonbelligerent pact from Egypt, but Egypt prefers to delay such an agreement until an overall Middle East settlement is reached.

Allon told a news conference in West Berlin after a meeting of the leadership of the Socialist International that U.S. defense guarantees could be useful to Israel but that he knew of none being made so far.

Allon said detente was good for Europe and added: "Our European friends can render us an indispensable service by insisting that detente should also include the Middle East. Otherwise, it is strategically meaningless. This may even be more important than official guarantees."

Israeli newspapers said American guarantees were an attempt to persuade Israel to soften its position. The

Skyjacking victims calm after ordeal

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — "Everything was all right. No one got nervous, only the children cried from time to time," a schoolteacher said after a tense eight-hour siege in a hijacked Brazilian jetliner.

The ordeal ended Saturday night when four policemen stormed the jetliner at Brasilia airport and shot the gunman.

A news director of the government radio said the hijacker was hit in the head and chest, but authorities refused to confirm or deny a military official's report Saturday that the gunman was dead.

The Air Ministry identified the hijacker as Joel Siqueira Jr., about 30, and press reports said he was a bank clerk.

Authorities reported the only other casualty was a pilot, who suffered a bullet wound in the hand.

The schoolteacher was one of 63 passengers and six crewmen aboard the VASP airline Boeing 737 jetliner Saturday when it was commandeered by the bearded and long-haired gunman.

Passengers said the hijacker had boarded the Sao Paulo to Brasilia flight at its first stop, Goiania.

As the plane lifted off from Goiania, the schoolteacher said, the sky pirate put a gun to the head of a stewardess and said he was taking control.

She said that during most of the flight to Brasilia, the gunman was in the cockpit where he could be seen through the open door.

At Brasilia airport the hijacker demanded $1.3 million, parachutes and arms, the release of two political prisoners and that the jet be refueled for a flight to an unknown destination.

He also sought to have a message broadcast over the national radio. A government spokesman said the message had "no political meaning in it. He talked a lot about the works of Leonardo da Vinci — I don't know why — and about Jesus Christ."

The newspaper Folha de Sao Paulo published part of the transcript of the hijacker's radio conversation with the control tower at Brasilia.

Report lists university presidents as highest-paid state executives

By JIM KEEGSTRA
State News Staff Writer

The presidents of Michigan's public universities — including MSU's Clifton Wharton — are the state's highest-paid executives, surpassing even Gov. Milliken, a state survey shows.

The House Fiscal Agency report lists seven presidents with salaries above Milliken's $47,250.

Wharton is the second highest paid college or university president in the state. His $57,500 yearly salary is topped only by University of Michigan President Robben Fleming's $65,600 annual stipend.

Fleming also receives $7,782 in retirement and other fringe benefits, a free residence and a free car.

MSU's leader, on the other hand, gets the free Cowles House, no car and a total of $7,237 for all fringe benefits.

Milliken's salary is set by the State Officers Compensation Commission. However, Milliken recently announced he is taking a voluntary 10 per cent pay cut.

The college and university presidents' salaries are set by the individual boards of control — such as the MSU Board of Trustees — which govern Michigan's 13 higher education institutions.

The high rewards going to the men at the top of the academic heap is explained by the fact that these governing boards search for the best presidents possible, said Richard Miller, executive director of the Michigan Council of State College Presidents.

"To obtain . . . the most able and experienced of these people, governing boards must compete in a national marketplace," Miller said. "There is too much at stake not to seek the best. If the president fails, students and the people who provide financial support suffer."

Wharton said in his case the net cost to the University must be considered since he returns to MSU $30,000 received as a director of the Burroughs and Ford Motor companies, and his wife Dolores devotes time and energy to MSU affairs without compensation.

"You have to remember the school is getting two people for one price," Wharton said.

The first three years of Wharton's five-year tenure he refused possible pay raises, Wharton said. He did receive an increase two years ago and said last year the board of trustees insisted upon a raise.

In third place on the compensation scale is Raymond Smith, president of Michigan Technological University, receiving $57,000 in salary and over $14,000 in fringes. Fourth is George Gullen Jr., Wayne State University, who is also paid $57,000 but gets $7,190 in benefits.

Northern Michigan University's John Jamrich ranks fifth with a $55,600 salary, and $7,667 of fringes. Jamrich has followed Milliken's pay cut example and announced $2,500 of his salary will go into a scholarship fund.

Sixth in line is former Lt. Gov. James Brickley, now earning more than his old boss as Eastern Michigan University president. Brickley gets $50,000 a year plus $10,750 in fringes. Close behind is Western Michigan's John Bernhard, who receives $47,500 in pay and over $9,000 in fringes.

The salary survey also shows top university officials such as vice presidents and deans receive salaries related to the pay level of their president.

Other state college and university presidents falling below the governor's benchmark salary are:

William Boyd, Central Michigan University, $44,367 salary and $9,889 fringes.

Donald O'Dowd, Oakland University, $43,500 salary and $10,773 fringes.

Robert Ewigleben, Ferris State College, $42,800 salary and $6,096 fringes.

Arend Lubbers, Grand Valley State College, $39,650 salary and $7,667 fringes.

Jack Ryder, Saginaw Valley College, $39,500 salary and $5,408 fringes.

Kenneth Shoultice, Lake Superior State College, $36,190 salary and $8,686 fringes.

Compensation for Michigan's 29 junior college presidents, based on a year-old survey, ranges from $25,000 to $39,950.

COMMISSION EYES CODE CHANGE

Unit to review parking

By FRED NEWTON
State News Staff Writer

Someone in East Lansing government may finally be doing something about the parking problem in the city housing code.

The East Lansing Housing Board of Appeals delayed a decision on granting a parking variance (exemption to housing code requirements) Thursday night pending the outcome of a Tuesday Housing Commission meeting to discuss removing parking requirements from the housing code and putting them in the less restrictive zoning code.

Angry Board

The Housing Board of Appeals, which is made up of members of the Housing Commission, has previously expressed anger with the city's lack of action in dealing with the parking problem by denying most variances from the code restriction that requires two parking spaces for every two unrelated individuals.

By this the board had hoped to flood the city with complaints, thus prompting some action from the city.

The Housing Commission will meet Tuesday and discuss taking parking out of the Housing Code altogether and referring it to the zoning code, under which much of the city's rental housing would be free of parking space requirements.

Grandfather Clause

The city zoning code contains a "grandfather clause" which states that all housing built before 1966 and zoned a certain way before then — which includes most student-rented housing — does not have to comply with zoning code. The housing code has no grandfather clause, and thus all housing is subject to housing code restriction.

Enforcement of the parking restriction can lower the number of individuals allowed to live in a residence.

Sorority Denied Variance

In January the Board of Appeals denied a parking variance for the Pi Beta Phi sorority, 343 N. Harrison Rd., that may lead to the eviction of 23 of the members because they do not have enough parking spaces to meet housing code requirements.

The Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, 303 Oakhill Ave., applied for a parking variance to allow 18 parking spaces for 54 people Thursday night but the decision was delayed to await the commission meeting Tuesday.

"There are some questions of where parking variances should go," said Bob Rice, head of the Housing Board of Appeals. "We will have to decide something at our Tuesday meeting."

Hot Dispute

Whatever the commission decides on Tuesday night, it will most likely cause waves in the most hotly disputed part of the city housing code.

In other business Thursday, the Board of Appeals granted a variance permitting two individuals to live in a small "efficiency" house that has less than the required 200 square feet per person requirement.

Lansing Code

The Lansing Housing Code has a clause allowing two individuals to live with below - minimum square footage requirements as long as it is comfortable and safe.

"If there is any place that needs an efficiency rule it's East Lansing," said Mary Luttrell, member of the Housing Board of Appeals.

The residence in question was granted a variance mainly because it has a front and back yard and is comfortable and convenient for the people living there.

Filing deadline set for Feb. 26

Due to the fact that only four students have petitioned for the 10 seats available on the Academic Council, the deadline for filing for election has been extended to Wednesday, Feb. 26 at noon.

Any student wishing to pick up a candidate's petition can do so at 101 Student Services Bldg. There are seats open for three blacks, one chicano, two nonwhites and four women.

Adulterated story

The State News' use of New York Times columns, news analyses, and news stories adds significantly to the value of the paper. These features provide depth that helps prevent the paper's becoming a campus events newsletter.

But when the State News adds to an article printed under the New York Times by-line, without giving any notice as to the insertion, the staff has cheapened the paper's quality. Furthermore, it has broken the most lenient rules of journalism, not to mention the fact that such insertions probably violate the law.

Tuesday's front page article on student use of newly granted access to files is clearly an example of such an insertion. In the middle of a discussion about the results of a Times survey, the reader finds a paragraph describing MSU student use of files. Obviously, the State News added that paragraph to the Times' article.

Material written by the Times is better off printed as received by the State News staff.

Richard W. Wiggins
B314 Emmons Hall

Editor's Note: The State News localizes national wire stories with related information relevant to area residents whenever possible. If such insertions involve more than a paragraph or two, the article will be by-lined "By the New York Times and State News." This procedure is used by many newspapers, and is not illegal.

Silent antagonism

I read with great interest your Feb. 14 article about the separate life black and white students are living on campus.

To me, absolute indifference is rather difficult if not impossible to achieve. The separatism is nothing else than a silent antagonism.

Back to nature

On behalf of my staff in the Lecture-Concert Office, I would like to offer thanks and praise to the State News for its understanding of the delicate nature of the contract we held with the Leigh Bureau in New York for the anticipated appearance on Feb. 25 of Ron Ziegler. In every instance, your reporting was well-researched, factual, and fair to all concerned. We were contacted by at least 12 State News reporters, and each was courteous, yet professionally investigative.

We would also like to commend the chairman of ASMSU Great Issues, Steve Findley. Despite an extraordinarily embarrassing situation, Steve had made detailed plans for the Ziegler visit, enlisting the cooperation of several campus departments, classes, and facilities managers. His scheduling of the "day on campus" was a model of its type. He offered to continue his personal services, even without ASMSU funding, in honor of the commitment. Now that the Ziegler date is not possible, we hope that Steve will direct his energies to presenting other, less controversial, speakers on behalf of ASMSU during spring term. The ASMSU Board should reinstate programming funds while they have such a fine program chairman.

We also appreciated the kind consideration of Time, CBS News and ABC News in New York, and to the many citizens who sent us clippings from all over the country, as well as the London edition of the Herald Tribune.

To those who were so terribly upset at the prospect of a Ziegler appearance, we apologize. We hope they will join us this coming July 17, when we present Euell Gibbons on the intriguing topic, "A Taste of Nature."

'U' crew can chew off fiscal fat cells together

It is especially difficult in an individualized culture to react to adversity with creativity rather than defensiveness.

Creativity in a sense implies integrating the self with the whole, realizing that the two are entwined. President Wharton's analogy in his State of the University address of the ship whose crew must determine what is the best port, the best course to get there and the best way to trim the sails to accomplish the mission suggested this.

If each crewmember, using Wharton's analogy, has individual desires and goals which differ, then the ship is doomed to internal strife and the mission ultimately will be subverted. Crewmembers must realize their need for one another and work around their differences.

But when individuals are accustomed to providing for themselves — with only incidental regard to their reliance on others — then adversity only aggravates the individuation.

Thus the situation at MSU has become one where individuals sometimes perceive only a choice between more money or less quality.

Creativity often, in the end, needs money for full effectiveness. But money is not a prerequisite for the initial creative process.

In reassessing the University's function in the world, one must not make the mistake of supposing there is a direct correlation between quality of service and money available. If this were true, then it would mean the demise of many of the University's current contributions to society during a prolonged economic trauma as analysts are now predicting.

The alternative exists in fully tapping human resources we already have available. In addition to departments devising contingency budget cuts, individuals within departments should also be thinking of every possible way to conserve on money and expand on quality. Utilizing all possible resources both on and off campus, devising new and better methods, contributing more time and more utilization of their talents by professors are but a few of many possibilities.

But this is not to suggest that the underlings tighten their belts, while the powerful pour another goblet of imported wine.

President Wharton thinks there is no fat in the MSU budget. Perhaps one fat cell cannot recognize another in an organism, but the fat is there — much in the central administration — and should be cut out.

Yes, the University must adjust to the economic crisis. But quality and creativity need not, and must not, be sacrificed.

Renter ratings risky

Lansing landlords have begun rating renters in order to determine whether or not they pose a rent risk.

While the rating practice has not yet begun in East Lansing, such a development is likely considering the tension that presently exists between landlords and tenants, and problems plaguing the rental market in general.

Depending on the way in which ratings are conducted both now and in the future, the system has some potential for positive results and tremendous potential for negative results.

Provided that the criteria for rating do not go beyond payment of rent and care of property, with strict objective standards, the rating system could serve as a means by which the majority are not penalized for the antics of the malicious minority. Rents could be based on a renters' records, much like auto insurance, so that those with good records pay lower rents than those with not-so-good records, who might also pay in advance.

On the other hand, the rating system could only go to add to the sharply increasing power landlords already brandish. Given the inelasticity of the rental market (renters need to rent regardless of price or conditional circumstances), landlords could use the rating system as a deadly tool for discrimination.

Without cut-and-dried objective standards, there is also the danger that the ratings may serve only to systematize personal revenge and complaints of landlords against tenants — with tenants having little or no recourse.

ART BUCHWALD

Beginning party stoppers

It's very hard at a party to get any attention. Nothing shocks people any more and you really have to be on your toes to get somebody to listen to you.

I realized this the other night when I was at dinner and someone turned to Don Cook and said, "Where are you going after you leave Washington?"

"Los Angeles," he replied. This landed like a dull thud until he added, "by train."

Everybody dropped their knives and forks, and suddenly Cook was the man of the hour.

It got me to thinking about party stoppers; things you can say which will make people sit up and take notice. Here are a few for starters.

"I still think Nixon is innocent."

"The electric company just notified me that it was lowering my rates."

"Nelson Rockefeller has asked me to write a book."

"I sold Wilbur Mills my car."

"If Henry Kissinger calls, tell him I'm not here."

"I played softball with Robert Vesco last week."

"Earl Butz told me a funny story the other day."

"I get 45 miles to the gallon."

"Arnold Palmer borrowed my putter."

"Billie Jean King always has trouble with my second serve."

"I just hired Spiro Agnew to work for me."

"Gen. Brown spoke at our synagogue last night."

"My son has never smoked pot."

"My husband has never looked at another woman."

"Woodward and Bernstein dropped by the house the other morning to ask me some questions."

"I talked to a man who read J. Edgar Hoover's diary."

"I'm going to have a vasectomy."

"I shared a taxi the other day with Howard Hughes."

"I gave Jerry Ford a piece of chewing gum once, when he was House minority

Gloria Steinem irons my shirts and my daughter works in a massage parlor since my cousin is Linda Lovelace's dentist.

"The CIA rented my house."

"John Dean used to be my lawyer."

"My cousin is Linda Lovelace's dentist."

"I flew in from Chicago with Erica Jong."

"Billy Graham is in my Bible class."

Lettuce rescind

Any returns from the Holmes Hall referendum concerning non-UFW lettuce a few weeks ago can't truly be considered accurate.

I know that as for myself and friends of mine who voted in that referendum, there wasn't sufficient knowledge of the issue. We assumed that our choices were either to encourage boycotting all non-union lettuce or to accept the dorms' purchasing of any lettuce, union or non-union.

Now, thanks to your front page article in the Feb. 19 State News, we realize that the choice really was to either encourage boycotting of all non-UFW lettuce, so that the UFW could monopolize the unionization of this field of labor, or to allow the dorms to continue purchasing union lettuce from other unions as well as the UFW.

We want to rescind our votes in protest of such purposely vague presentation of the issue.

Flexibility

I would like to clarify "A Proposal to the Dean of Engineering by the Metallurgy Group," printed in the State News Tuesday. In view of the worsening economy, the metallurgy faculty are willing to make reasonable and necessary sacrifices in order to maintain the continuation of the metallurgy programs at MSU. We are not taking a hard and impossible stand.

In fact, on several occasions when the Metallurgy faculty talked with Dr. L.W. Von Tersch, Dean of the College of Engineering, we had expressed that our position was flexible. The dean would twist our words and accuse us of being inflexible. We have strong reason to believe now that the decision to abolish our undergraduate metallurgy program had been made long ago, on or before Nov. 15, 1974. It is a typical case of "accessory after the fact" as pointed out by Trustee Warren Huff.

Qualified support

In Paul Parker's article on Feb. 17, about ASMSU candidates, it was stated that "Phillip Elliott and J. Brian Raymond are the only two candidates who do not fully support the idea of a student union."

Many who read this felt that I and "Students for Better Government" were opposed to the Union completely. I would like to clarify the meaning of "not fully support" for at least myself.

It is my feeling and the feeling of the slate (3/4th's of whom work in the cafeterias of this university) that the issue of wage increases is not a vital question for the Union to be concerned with. We do feel that the Union should be established to deal with unfair labor practices. Any sort of Labor Relations Board would merely have the

Profs should share the wealth

By C. PATRIC LARROWE

I'm in the job at the IM, lost in thought about petrodollars, when I hear somebody say, "Hi, Lash." I look around, only other person in there is a young guy in a green uniform. He's got a bottle of TyD bol in his hand, and he's briskly scrubbing out the bowls. Doin' a real good job, too.

They're getting mighty cheeky these days, I thought to myself. Was a time they'd address a prof with the respect he deserves. Then I take a second look at him. "Hey," I says. "I know you. Last time I saw you, you'd just been hired as an assistant prof in philosophy. You moonlighting?"

"Nope," he says glumly. "Department's budget got cut in the provost's hiring freeze. I got the axe."

"Tough," I says. "But if the 'U's going to live within its means, some of us gotta make sacrifices."

"I can see that," he admits. "But why do the sacrifices always have to be made by the people least able to afford 'em? How come the fat cats in the 'U' never make any of the sacrifices?"

"Just how do you propose the 'fat cats,' as you call them," I asks acidly, "should go about making sacrifices?"

"What if you high-paid profs went without a salary increase this year?" he asks. "Think how much bread that would free up to hire new people at the bottom."

Foolish as the kid's idea was, I couldn't get it out of my mind. Later that day, I ran some numbers through my desk computer.

The 'U' has 900 full profs, who get, on the average, $25,000 a year. All told, that comes to $22,500,000. If they went without a 5 per cent increase, we'd have $1,125,000 we could use to hire new faculty.

Aggies, even

George Burgoyne must be kidding! Or else he's spending too many late hours in some campus animal husbandry lab. His Feb. 13 accusation that the State News is "ignorant" in using "Wolves" as an abbreviation for the University of Michigan's Wolverines is typical of armchair quarterbacks.

Profs should share the wealth

By C. PATRIC LARROWE

Then we have 110 administrators whose salaries average $33,000. If they, too, went without a 5 per cent increase, that would come to another $166,500.

Taken together, that'd give us $1,291,500 to play with. With that, we could hire 103 brand new assistant profs at $12,500 apiece. I'll have to admit that when I saw my results, I got off on those numbers. Oh, I realized, of course there'd be opposition to across-the-board cuts like that because they don't take into account differences in quality of profs and administrators.

Fortunately, being an economist, my discipline provides me with an alternative method. In industry, a man who makes 100 pairs of shoes a day is worth more than one who only makes 10, right? (I'm assuming a nonunion shop, of course, where there are no restrictions on initiative.)

Applying this Classical Productivity Law, or CPL, as we know it in econ, we can separate the good profs from the 'mossbacks. According to CPL, a prof who teaches a large class is worth (remember the 100 pairs of shoes?) gets a higher rating than a prof who teaches a few students.

The mossbacks who rank low on the scale, therefore, would have a large taken out of their salary increases. More productive faculty, who'll have CPL score, would keep most of their sheer fairness, you'll have to admit can't beat CPL.

What excites me most about my thought, is that using either the across-the-board method or CPL to cut increases, if we hire 103 new profs, able to add more minorities and our faculty than we've hired since started its "affirmative action program" couple years ago.

What's more, while we're adding new people, we should be able to re-employ young friend from his TyD bol and on course again in the tenure street.

C. Patric Larrowe is a professor of econ.

Letter Policy

The Opinion Page welcomes all letters. Readers should follow a few rules to insure that as many letters as possible appear in print.

All letters should be typed on 65-space lines and triple-spaced. Letters must be signed, and include local address, stu-

Letters should be 25 lines less and may be edited for conciseness to fit more letters on the page.

No unsigned letters are accepted.

Stereotyped Arabs unhappy with image

They are very unhappy about the emotional reaction to the purchase by Ghaith Pharaon, a Saudi Arabian businessman, of controlling interest in Detroit's Bank of the Commonwealth early this month.

That idea is a total fake," said Sami Esmail, 218 E. Holden Hall. Though he was born in the United States, Esmail, an electrical engineering major, spent 16 of his 20 years in Palestine.

Fauzi Najjar, professor of social science and adviser to the Arabs student organization, said many Arab students welcome the investments as a promotion of Arab-American relations.

There is much less emphasis on humanities. You probably won't find an Arab student here majoring in literature," he said.

"Premieres of New Music," the annual MSU Music Dept. event featuring new works by graduate students majoring in composition, was presented Friday night in Erikson Hall kiva. Seven compositions were performed, drawing from such varied inspirational sources as Edgar Allen Poe's "The Cask of Amontillado," to two poems by Emily Dickinson. Highlights included Eric Culver's "Free Textures For Sax Quintet" and Howard Buss' "Grand Lake Morning." Pictured is James G. Hughes, conducting his composition, "Quintet No. 1." SN Photo/Dave Olds

Orchestra offers unique sound

By ED ZDROJEWSKI
State News Reviewer
The Chamber Orchestra II premiered Saturday night with a unique sound.

This sound was due to fewer strings than Chamber Orchestra I. This gave the woodwinds

Percussionists

to give concert

Unusual sounds and instruments can be heard Monday when the Percussion Ensemble, under the direction of Mark Johnson, performs in the music building auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Works to be played include Hovhanes' "Burning House Overture," Hiller's "Machine Music for Piano, Percussion and Tape," Cage's "Amores," Mozart's "Adagio and Rondo in C Minor for Glass Harmonica, and brass a more prominent place in the music. This is probably more accurate in terms of what an orchestra of the 18th century sounded like.

Chamber Orchestra II is a small orchestra designed for string players not majoring in music, players who did not make it into the MSU Symphony Orchestra and Symphony Orchestra players who want more experience.

This orchestra is under the direction of Michael Griffith, the asst. director of the Symphony Orchestra.

Griffith displays many of the conducting traits of Dennis Burk, director of the MSU Symphony. Griffith likes to emphasize the inner voices of the string section (viola and second violin). He carefully balances the various voices of the orchestra to achieve a rich, full-bodied sound.

Gluck's brief overture to "Don Juan" set the tone of the entire concert. The woodwinds and brass tended to stand out against the miniature string section. This gave the ensemble a brilliant, piercing quality.

Bartok's "Rumanian Dances" was a charming piece with a lot of clarinet in the background. Griffith never let the tempo drag which added to the folk feeling of the work. Concert master Katie Smith performed the violin solo beautifully.

The strings and harpsichord alone accompanied faculty member James Niblock in Vivaldi's "Violin Concerto in A Minor."

Niblock has a lyrical tone and great technical skill. His performance in the first movement was a bit mechanical but he put a lot more feeling into the rest of the concerto. The piece ended in a pyrotechnical display that is almost as difficult for the orchestra as for the soloist.

Haydn's "Symphony No. 103 in E-Flat (Drum Roll)" finished off the evening. Though the woodwinds had some intonation problems at first, the whole work came off well. Griffith brought out the humorous aspects of Haydn's music such as the mimicking echoes in the bass instruments. The trumpets played an extremely difficult and high part exceptionally.

Panelists debate right to life

BRAD MARTISIUS
News Staff Writer
 A 2½ hours of heated Thursday night, the six distinguished panelists could agree on one thing: who had the right to life begins. However, none of them on when life begins. Views ranged from the medical University of philosopher Holly an, who believes that have no rights, to the of Thomas G. the Roman Catholic Supreme Court chief who believes abortion is a sin. Aspects of the abortion were represented by of the legal, religious, and philosophical com-

Robert Anderson, professor of religious studies, said, "Life is an unalienable claim, but the importance of the quality of life must be recognized."
 He said the ultimate determinant of the morality of abortion hinges on the point at which life begins.
 "According to the Bible, one does not become a person until 30. Where do we draw the line? When does one become a person?" he asked.
 Marilyn Frye, asst. professor of philosophy, said the line should be drawn between those that are merely alive and those that are "really living."
 "Living is something you do, not something you are," she said "A person who is really living is pursuing projects, goals and intentions. That person is attempting to actualize dreams."

 "Does a hopelessly retarded person have the right to life merely because he is alive? If so, we must extend that right to all species, or be guilty of human chauvinism."
 Goldman called the right to life a difficult and complex question and said she couldn't provide too many answers.
 She told the attentive audience that rights could be gained or lost, and that they often conflicted. She added that the right to life is not a result of human descent and that it could not be claimed because a fetus has human potential.

 "If a fetus remained three weeks old forever, nobody would seriously consider its right to life," she said. "A fetus does not have a serious claim to the right to life."
 Dr. Thomas A. Helmrath, associate professor of human development and a pediatrician, skirted the abortion issue completely, addressing himself instead to the dilemma presented by children born defective.
 "The parents' decision to bring a child to life says they are then morally obliged to care for that child," he said. "Under no circumstances should a defective child's life be actively ended.

 "However, if a retarded child is likely to die because of a physical defect, it is the parents' decision whether the child should have corrective surgery."
 Kavanagh, who seemed to find the complex arguments of the two philosophers highly amusing, said simply that he did not know what the right to life is.
 "I do think abortion is a mortal sin, although it is not necessarily a crime," he said.

Rep. H. Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing, said the practical answer to the question of who has the right to life is decided by which side has the most votes. Jondahl is also an ordained minister in the United Church of Christ.
 "No rights exist in the absence of the community which grants those rights," he said.
 All the panelists agreed that it can never be determined whether abortion is moral unless the beginning of life can be defined. None could see any immediate or simple answers to that question.

'Milk' rips Carr as grapplers win two

This is pretty much how things went Friday for Kentucky's Jimmy Carr (left), who came to town with a dubbing by Sports Illustrated as the nation's outstanding young grappler. Pat Milkovich, MSU's 126-pound star, obviously wasn't too impressed . . .

By PAT FARNAN
State News Sports Writer

Your winner, ladies and gentleman, and still champion, Pat Milkovich.

Milkovich, MSU's 126-pound defending NCAA champion, stripped Kentucky's Jim Carr of his distinction as "the most outstanding young wrestler in the country" Friday in the Men's Intramural Building sports arena with a convincing 9-2 triumph.

"Milkovich was scintillating," said Spartan coach Grady Peninger. "He was real psyched up. He needed something like this.

"He needed something to get motivated about. Milkovich has been down lately. He's got a fiancee out in Oklahoma and this long distance love stuff is nothing to get excited about."

The controversial Carr, afforded a five-page layout in the most recent issue of Sports Illustrated, never really got into the ball game.

Milkovich earned a quick takedown in the opening seconds of the match and Carr could only spin his wheels as the leathery Milkovich was on him like a spider.

Carr, a former Olympian and Midlands champion, earned his two points on escapes, never posing much of a threat.

The Carr-Milkovich duel was the highlight of the Spartans 25-9 win over Kentucky. MSU complemented that win with a 23-12 home victory over Southern Illinois Saturday.

The Spartans, who finished their dual meet season with a 10-6 record, now must prepare for the Big Ten meet this weekend in Columbus, Ohio.

Against Kentucky, which entered East Lansing with a 24-4 record and a budding reputation as a southern wrestling power, the Spartans were in control most of the way.

Kentucky took the early lead as Garret Hadley outpointed Spartan 118-pounder Chuck Wolf, a substitute for injured regular Jim Bissell.

After Milkovich's win, highly touted Kurt Mock nipped MSU's Dennis Brighton, 8-6. Mock has lost only twice in 28 matches.

But Spartan 142-pounder Don Rodgers pulled a bit of an upset to tie the match.

Rodgers tripped up Tim Moussetis, 7-5. The loss was Moussetis' second in 23 bouts.

The Spartans' only other loss against Kentucky was dealt by Joe Carr, who decisioned MSU 167-pounder Mike Brook, 14-5.

Another MSU substitute, 150-pound Mike Owen, won twice over the weekend in place of Steve Rodriguez, who has a knee injury. Owen won convincingly over Kentucky's Joe Murray, 7-0, Friday, then picked up his second straight with a 5-2 decision over Southern Illinois' Fred Hoef.

Spartan 158-pounder Riek Greene earned a 6-1 triumph over the Wildcats' Scott Cromwell, 190-pound Scott Wickard breezed to a 17-3 major decision over Brian Willson and Larry Avery squeezed a 5-4 win out of Pat Donley to complete the scoring over Kentucky.

The trio wrestled their final dual season matches for MSU Saturday against Southern Illinois and only Greene failed to get the winning nod. He lost in the final seconds against Jim Horvath, 7-6.

But Avery and Wickard went out with a bang. Wickard narrowly missed his second straight major decision as he riddled Tim Swoboda, 15-7.

Then Avery, with his flair for the dramatic, pinned Saluki heavyweight Ken Karwowski to give the Spartans their ninth consecutive victory over Southern Illinois.

Two women's squads capture Big Ten titles

By ROBIN MCINTOSH
State News Sports Writer

MSU's women's swimming team continued its dominance over the Big Ten, while the women's gymnastics squad proved once again it is one of the best teams in the Midwest at two conference meets this past weekend.

MSU's women's tank squad splashed to its third straight Big Ten title Friday and Saturday, overwhelming host school Indiana, 505-250.

The gymnastics team, meanwhile, won the first conference meet held.

The Spartans tankers placed first in seven events and set three Big Ten records en route to their lopsided victory.

The 400-yard medley relay team of Suzy Brevitz, Lynn Hughes, Bernadine Kenney and Vicki Riebeling set a new record of 4:11.7 in capturing the title in the event. The 400 freestyle team of Becky Hastings, Hughes, Kathy Barrett and Riebeling also set a new record of 3:43.3.

The winning 200 medley relay team of Brevitz, Hughes, Chris Swendiman and Karen Waite was clocked in 1:55.2 and the 200 freestyle relay team set a new record of 1:41.15.

Individually, Riebeling captured first place in the 100 butterfly in a time of 1:00.6, missing the record by two tenths of a second. Hughes won the 50 and 100 backstroke in 29.4 and 1:02.93 respectively. "It was a total team performance and everybody did well," coach Jennifer Parks said.

"Hughes won two championships and Riebeling one, so you have to say that they did outstanding jobs, too. They were also on three relay teams, and that is a good indication of what kind of swimmers they are."

The four relay teams qualified for the national meet by MSU's standards, which demand getting a time that would have placed eighth or better at last year's meet.

MSU's women's gymnastics team amassed 101.1 points Saturday en route to becoming the first Big Ten women's gymnastics champion. The Spartans dominated the meet, taking first in every event and placing at least two people in the top three spots in each event.

Cocaptain Ann Weaver had an outstanding afternoon, capturing titles in both the vaulting and the uneven parallel bars. She also placed third in floor exercise.

Kathi Kincer took first in both the all-around competition and the balance beam, placed second in floor exercise and third on the uneven parallel bars.

The gymnasts' other cocaptain, Diane Chapela, won the floor exercise and tied for third with Kincer in all-around.

Other team members who figured in the team scoring were Terry Haenlien, who took third in vaulting, Maxine Ceccato, who took second place in both all-around and the uneven parallel bars and Pat Murphy, who placed third on the balance beam.

... as he here raises his arms in triumph, Milkovich, the defending NCAA champion, defeated Carr by an overwhelming 9-2 margin.

Indiana whips men tracksters as women score tri-meet win

By STEVE STEIN
State News Sports Writer

A moral victory.

That's what MSU men's track coach Fran Dittrich termed the Spartans 92-39 dual meet loss to Big Ten powerhouse Indiana Saturday in Jenison Fieldhouse.

Last year in a dual meet against the Hoosiers in Indiana, the Spartans scored 42 points in absorbing an 88-42 loss. But MSU had nationally known track stars Bob Cassleman and Marshall Dill on its squad then.

Cassleman has since graduated and Dill is academically ineligible to compete this term.

"We thought if we scored 40 points against them it would be a moral victory, and we only missed by one," Dittrich said.

While the men's team was losing to Indiana, MSU's women's team was winning a triangular meet with Central Michigan and Chicago State in Jenison.

The Spartan women's squad scored 80 points to Central Michigan's 57 points and Chicago State's 19 points. Sue Litter captured two for MSU as she won the 440 and 600-yard races. In all, the MSU squad won six races and seven fieldhouse records.

Several strong individual performances lighted the Spartan men's squad's performance against Indiana.

Dane Fortney posted an NCAA - qualified 1:51.5 time in winning the 880 ahead of star Steve Heidenreich.

In perhaps the most exciting race of the afternoon, MSU's Charles Byrd nipped Hoosiers' Steve Bjelich at the wire to capture mile relay. Howard Neely, Fortney and Cassleman carried the baton before Byrd took out. The team's time also qualified it nationally.

MSU had one clean sweep, in the two-mile run, as all three top finishers ran the under nine minutes.

Herb Lindsay led the Spartan brigade 8:51.0 time, followed by Fred Teddy (8:58) and Jeff Pullen (8:59.4).

Setbacks drop icers to fourth

By MIKE LITAKER
State News Sports Writer

Up in Minnesota this past weekend it was the gopher and not the groundhog who saw his shadow, which meant another bad week for the MSU hockey team.

The two-game series in Minneapolis saw the Spartans drop a pair to the Minnesota Gophers, 8-3 Friday and 4-2 Saturday. The victories sewed up the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. (WCHA) championship for Minnesota.

While the Gophers were counting down the days until the start of the postseason playoffs, the Spartans fell to fourth place in the WCHA race. The battle is now between four teams for the final three home ice playoff berths.

"It's still wide open," said MSU coach Amo Bessone, sizing up the congested WCHA race. "That's been our goal all year — to get that home playoff spot."

The teams played on equal terms through the first two periods in both games before the Gophers turned to their third stanza red light magic.

Tallies by Tom Ross, Dave Kelly and Jim Johnson left MSU tied with the Golden Gophers going into the final 20 minutes Friday until Minnesota came back to score five unanswered goals in eight minutes to sew up the win.

"They busted the game open with two quick goals at the start of the third period and then they got another on a screen shot," Bessone said.

"We played well for two periods but those two goals killed us and we never did recover," Bessone added. "Minnesota is the best team we've played all year."

Two third-period markers Saturday by John Sturges and Brendon Moroney brought the in both Saturday's scores to gain him 59 points on the year and praise from Bessone.

"Sturges played well both nights and Tom Smith played well defensively," said Bessone, who was also happy with the job turned in by goalie Ron Clark. Clark shut out away 31 Minnesota shots in Saturday's contest.

Center Tom Ross moved his consecutive scoring streak to 58 games in his weekly rewrite of the MSU record book.

The WCHA scoring leader banded in goal number 33 on the year and carried his overall point total to 82. Ross has 30 goals and 75 points in WCHA action.

MSU will wrap up the regular season this weekend with two meetings with cross-state rival Michigan. The Wolverines split at home last weekend with ninth-place Denver.

Injured MSU center Steve Colp will almost definitely sit out the final series of the year, giving his fractured leg an extra week to recuperate before the playoffs now that the pressure to win the league championship is off.

Playoff tickets for the first and second rounds will go on sale today at the athletic ticket office in Jenison Fieldhouse.

G-men lose to Indiana in final home showing

MSU's men's gymnastics team wrapped up its home season on a disappointing note Friday night as the Indiana Hoosiers defeated the Spartans, 202.50 to 196.95.

As a team, the Spartans performed well against Indiana as the 196.95 score marked the season high for the squad.

"It was a fine over-all performance," Coach George Szypula said. "We only missed on a small number of routines, but you have to have no misses to win."

MSU started out strong in the floor exercise and pommel horse events. Senior captain Rich Stout made his final performance count as he captured first place on the floor exercise with a fine 9.1 routine while junior John Short took second with an 8.9.

Steve Murdock turned in an excellent routine on the pommel horse with a second-place 8.95 score.

As expected, however, it was Indiana's ring team which turned the tables for the Hoosiers. Indiana swept first, second and third place in the event.

Junior Glenn Hime finished first for MSU on the horizontal bar with a fine 9.2 score.

Playoff tickets offered in package to students

A package deal which includes tickets to all four possible home WCHA playoff games at Munn Arena will be offered to MSU students today and Tuesday at the athletic ticket office in Jenison Fieldhouse.

The deal is priced at $4 for the four games — the first — round series March 4 and 5 and the second round March 8 and 9.

If the Spartans are not at home for either series or just the last set, refunds will be made on a $1 per game basis.

Individual student tickets at $2 apiece will not be sold until Wednesday.

A student can pick up as many as eight packets or individual tickets as long as he or she has eight ID cards.

The ticket office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

MSU's basketball team ran into another roadblock Saturday, and the latest obstacle may be the most untimely one yet.

The Spartans, who before the game had been rated an odds-on favorite to earn a postseason tournament berth, took it on the chin from lowly Wisconsin, 103-96, and fell to fifth place in the Big Ten standings with an 8-6 record.

With a game on tap tonight against Northwestern in Evanston, Ill., MSU won't have much time to recuperate from its latest setback. A loss tonight against the Wildcats would probably prove fatal to the Spartans' now wavering tournament hopes.

Tipoff time is 8 p.m.

Wisconsin, which entered Saturday's game with only two conference victories in 13 games, extended its home court dominance over MSU to 12 years. The Badgers haven't lost a game to MSU in Madison since 1963. Nevertheless, the outcome of Saturday's contest was a shocker.

In an earlier contest this season, MSU dumped the Badgers so convincingly, 105-87, that another Spartan win seemed virtually assured this time around. But the Badgers, paced by center Dale Koehler's 28 points, reeled off 58 points in the second half to capture the victory.

The score was tied at half-time, 45-45. Wisconsin went out front early in the second half by almost shutting off MSU's main offensive threat, Terry Furlow.

Furlow, who entered the game as the Big Ten's leading scorer with a 21.8 average, was held to only six points in the second half. The 6-5 junior forward finished with 17 points.

Meanwhile, senior Spartan center Lindsay Hairston enjoyed a fine offensive performance, scoring 29 points to equal his career high. Hairston got into foul trouble early, which aided the Badgers' dominance on the boards, 49-38. The 6-7 senior only had eight rebounds.

The Spartans got some offensive help from guards Bill Glover and Pete Davis, who had 19 and 16 points respectively.

Wisconsin was never ahead in the first half. MSU once held a comfortable 33-23 advantage, but the Badgers caught fire in the last minutes of the opening half and from then on held the game close. The Badgers put on a final spurt with four minutes remaining in the contest and the Spartans couldn't manage a comeback.

Wisconsin is now 3-11 in the league and 6-16 overall. MSU is 15-7 on the year.

The Spartans' game tonight against the Wildcats should be rated as a tossup, as Northwestern was very impressive against second-place Michigan Saturday.

Michigan	9	5
Minnesota	9	6
MSU	8	6
Ohio St.	8	7
Illinois	4	10

Though sporting a measly 3-11 record in conference play, Northwestern should be steaming from its 69-68 loss to the Wolverines. The Wildcats lost to MSU earlier in the season at Jenison Fieldhouse, 54-50.

Northwestern is expected to start forwards Willie Williams (6-6) and Greg Wells (6-7), center Jim Wallace (6-10) and guards Billy McKinney and Tim Teasley (6-11).

McKinney has been the productive performer. Williams with an average per game on the effectiveness lately after tinging off to a slow start.

Fencers win twice at Detroit match

MSU's fencing team got back on the winning track Saturday in its final regular season competition, as the Spartans won three matches in a triangular meet in Detroit.

Coach Charlie Schmitter's team lost to last year's tournament runner-up Wayne State, 18-9, but defeated University of Detroit, 17-10, and Tri-State, 16-11.

Steve Krause, in foil, and Jim Bierworth, in epee, led the Spartans by going 5-2 in their respective classes. Schmitter also pleased with the performance of sabre man Jack Tintera took two of three matches against Wayne State's outstanding squad.

Used car guarantee proposed

By NANCY E. CRANE
State News Staff Writer

In response to a study done by the Michigan Citizens' Lobby, Sen. David A. Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, has re-introduced a bill which would require Michigan used car dealers to guarantee for 120 days parts and labor on cars which they sell.

Plawecki said he has been working with the lobby on the legislation and said the group's study this month of used car dealerships in Detroit was prompted by the failure of his used car warranty legislation to pass in the past session.

The citizens' lobby study criticized the quality of cars in 15 Detroit used car lots. Of 15 cars tested by the lobby, all required major repairs and some were unsafe to drive. The average price of each car tested was $1,300.

Plawecki said his legislation would require car dealers to certify that certain parts of cars such as brakes, lights, steering and exhaust systems are in proper working order.

The bill provides for a repair system which would require dealers to make certain repairs on a car — less as the car is owned longer by the buyer.

Plawecki's bill specifies that the dealer must make all repairs on the car during the first 15 days after delivery. Between 16 and 45 days after sale the dealer must pay for 75 per cent of the repairs. Between 46 and 120 days after delivery he must make 50 per cent of the repairs.

If the car dealer breaches this guarantee he will face a 30-day suspension of license, a fine of up to $1,000 and 90 days in prison.

Though the citizens' lobby has said it hopes for legislation to protect consumers in private used car transactions, Plawecki's bill would only cover state-licensed used car dealers.

"We don't think people want legislation which would cover private transaction. However, this bill would help people in individual transactions because the buyer could request that the car be taken to a dealer to have a checkup done on it," Plawecki said.

Plawecki also said that the guarantee provided by the bill would not cover "minor repairs due to natural wear and upkeep." Plawecki's bill does not define minor repairs or natural wear and upkeep. He said that job would be left to the secretary of state.

Medical unit to defer answering questionnaire

The Ingham County Medical Society has voted unanimously to defer answering a six-page questionnaire for a Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM) doctors' directory, but will meet with PIRGIM Executive Director Joseph Tuchinsky and the directory's initiator, Kathy Cowles, today to discuss the project.

Conflict arose when Lansing area MDs (doctors of medicine) and DOs (doctors of osteopathy) received questionnaires early last week requesting information about the doctors' fees, education, advanced training, hours, services and policies.

The society, a professional organization representing about 325 MDs, said it had not known about the directory and was writing its own. Its would include information on health services as well as a listing of MDs and DOs.

not know of the society's proposed directory.

"Kathy Cowles did make contact with the state medical society before we even began to sponsor her project and they were in touch with the Ingham County society," Tuchinsky said. "Everyone Kathy talked to expressed enthusiasm about the directory, and just said she should keep in touch with their public health department."

"At that time no one from the society ever made mention that they were going to write their own directory. We've heard that they've only been writing theirs a month."

"I anticipate an entirely cooperative attitude on the part of both PIRGIM and the medical society," he said.

JMC offers tour of New York

By SUE MC MILLIN
State News Staff Writer

If you are looking for an alternative to the Florida sun for spring break, how about a fast-paced arts tour in New York City?

Justin Morrill College (JMC) is sponsoring its eighth Seminar in the Arts from March 19 through 22. Tickets for both Broadway and off-Broadway shows and other activities have been reserved.

The program is open to all MSU students. Twenty-five spaces are available. Barbara Ward, coordinator of the trip, said that a larger group is too hard to keep together and get into the places they will be visiting.

Reservations have been made at the Taft Hotel, 7th Avenue at 50th Street. The cost will be $10 per night per person plus a $1.40 tip. There will be three or four students to each room.

Transportation to and from the city will be up to each student to arrange. All participants in the trip will be required to meet once before going and it is possible that car pools can be formed at that time, Ward said.

Students will be charged $40 for all tickets and a $16 JMC administration fee. The total cost of $98 must be paid to Dorothy Rhines in 61 Snyder Hall by March 7. Participants will be on their own for meals, transportation around the city and any other personal expenses.

Lon Graves, who went on the trip three years ago and is going again this year, said it was worthwhile.

"There's no possible way you could see and do the things we're going to do for $98," he said.

He said that it was a great opportunity to get into places that are not ordinarily open to the public. He placed much of the success of the trip on Ward.

She knows the ins and outs of the city well, he said.

The students will be seeing about five plays, including the Broadway musical "The Wiz," the best play of 1974, "Hot L Baltimore," and an off-Broadway production by LaMama Experimental Theater. They will also be observing a class and a performance of the Joffrey Ballet with a backstage visit after the show. Other activities include a walking tour of SOHO art galleries, a visit to Greenwich Pottery Shop, a tour of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts and Space for Innovative Developments and a visit to the studio of Behrhard Leitner, a sound architect.

Students will also meet or visit backstage with actors and directors from most of the productions they see. Ward said it is a good opportunity to meet some interesting people and that encounters in the past have led to jobs for some graduates.

Anyone interested in going on the trip should contact Ward in 47 Snyder Hall or phone her at 353-1707 or 351-5585.

MIRRORS, WATERBEDS BIG HITS California 'adult motels' thrive

From WIRE SERVICES Los Angeles - In 1970, when "swinging" had barely been introduced on the national sexual scene, an enterprising Hollywood attorney converted a dingy, downtown motel into a low-lit, suggestively furnished establishment aimed at middle-aged, middle-income married couples and called it "The Experience."

Since then, other similar establishments, called "adult motels," have sprung up here. Authorities say there are six to 10 in Southern California. Business is thriving, the owners say, because adult motels are an idea "whose time has come."

At The Experience, many of the 24 rooms are already reserved through next week and there are waiting lists for some weekends.

The Experience was born when Don Leon, an attorney, read a magazine article about X-rated films being introduced into Japanese motels. Leon decided that his motel, on a business street near the downtown convention center, was "the perfect place" for a similar effort.

The beds were replaced with water beds and fur bedspreads, mirrors were hung on the walls and ceilings and the rooms decorated with dimly lit chandeliers. Closed-circuit television was installed in the rooms.

Rooms at motels like The Experience rent by the day or night - and, at some, by the hour.

At one motel you can get a "group room" with a queen-sized bed, two king-sized waterbeds and a hanging wicker basket chair. It gets used two or three times during the week and is booked up every weekend.

The length of a visit also varies. A Louisiana couple, in town for a garment convention, spent almost a week at The Experience, the longest stay to date.

The indoor record for the shortest stay was recorded by a local businessman who checked in with a woman friend at 10 a.m. one weekday morning and checked out again at 10:17 a.m.

According to motel owners, most of the couples who rent rooms are married - to each other - and many are such pillars of the community as doctors, lawyers, socialites and politicians. Even policemen have been known to drop in to make reservations.

"We get attorneys, city officials - everybody upper-middle class and above," said Lois Mansfield, who manages The Experience with her husband, Walter.

She said 90 per cent of the clients are local residents - and are over 35.

"On a Friday night if we've got a 1972 car sitting out there, it's an old car," she said. "Most are brand new Lincolns, Mercedes, Cads. No Rolls. Got a Bentley, though. And a against Meijer Inc. A declaratory ruling of the board Thursday states that promotion, as defined by the Pharmacy Law, does not include either the posting or advertising of prescription prices.

The board is setting up an advisory committee, which will include representatives of consumer groups, to further define the term promotion and to make rules which would prohibit the exploitation of prescription drug advertising.

The board took its action in response to a petition from Joseph Tuchinsky, executive director of the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM), which was filed in December. Tuchinsky asked the pharmacy board to clarify confusing portions of the state Pharmacy Law.

"This ruling is everything we asked for," Tuchinsky said. "We thought we would have to go to court to get it."

Tuchinsky said PIRGIM would fight any attempt by the pharmacy board to limit the type or amount of advertising which could be done by pharmacies.

John Spicer, president of the pharmacy board, said he did not think Thursday's ruling would give pharmacies a free reign in advertising.

"We will still be against advertising of one, two or three drugs at a time. We don't want the pharmacies to play games with drug advertising," Spicer said.

Tuchinsky said he would agree to placing restraints on advertising which suggested that people use drugs they do not need.

SPIRITED RUMBAS TURN TO LIMP SHUFFLES

MS dance marathon nets over $18,000

By DIANE SILVER and SUE WILLOUGHBY
State News Staff Writers
After more than 50 hours of dancing, Lynn Seeber, 343 N. Harrison Road, and Rick Young, 593 S. Wonders Hall, sagged into the finish and were declared the winners Sunday of the second annual "Dance for Strength" marathon in Meridian Mall.

The marathon, sponsored by Delta Tau Delta fraternity, collected $18,030 for multiple sclerosis (MS) research. The winning couple collected $5,217 in pledges.
Young, who took first place last year, and Seeber will receive a seven day trip to Jamaica and will be eligible to compete in the national marathon competition at UCLA this

May. Last year Young and his partner Jamie MacKercher, went on to take first place in the national event.
Only 28 dancers remained on their feet from the field of 43 who started the ordeal Friday afternoon. Though one dancer, Karen Topping, 365 N. Harrison Road, developed water on her knee Friday afternoon, she finished the marathon with an ice pack strapped to her knee.

"My partner had worked so hard on pledges I just couldn't let him down," Topping said. "I will probably be going to Olin (University Health Center) after the marathon is over."
In the last hours of the marathon the pace picked up, the music swung and the students increased their breathless efforts for pledges.

One couple danced on their hands for one minute and gained a $50 pledge. One hardy student carried his partner on his shoulders while he danced for 10 minutes to earn another $50. Two students raised $75 by swallowing goldfish.
As the emcee announced that the dancers had only two hours to go Sunday evening, a ragged cheer burst from the marathon floor. By that time most were limping badly and their once spirited rumbas had turned into a weary shuffle which consisted of an unspirited shift of weight from one foot to the other.

Though most students agreed the marathon was fun and that they would do it again, Marci Milster, 235 Yakely Hall had other ideas.
"No way am I ever coming out here, again," she said.
Many students found the marathon dancing a bit of a bore after three days. One woman solved the problem by reading a comic book while quietly hoofing it around the dance floor. Other students talked to parents and boosters on the sidelines as they danced on and on.
About 250 to 300 people watched the finale on Sunday, while the couple's boosters circulated through the crowd with canisters asking for donations and cheering their favorites on.

Every four hours, the hardy dancers were allowed a 30-minute break. One of the favorite break activities consisted of soaking their tired feet in the mall's fountains.
"The security people must figure we have enough hassles," Art Mordante said as he dangled his feet in the fountain. "They are leaving us alone."
During breaks, between fountain foot baths and dashing for a pretzel at Hot Sams, several dancers explored the mall's luxuries. Susy Peterson, 376 Wonders Hall, did not all weary shuffling. She and the Nobil Shoe store were the most comfortable spots in town.

"Right about now, even care if I win a prize," Peterson said as she stepped out for her 3:30 p.m. break, now mainly for a good rest.
However, the marathon was not all weary shuffling. Nancy Golden, 217 Wonders Hall, and Clark Burt, 217 Wonders Hall, won a prize in the costume contest. Other winners included Bonnie and Clyde and Gedy Ann and Andy.
When it was all over, a "Marathon Spring Term" as they called it, was held with addresses and phone numbers.
"You really get someone when you go hours with them," Golden said.
