Council allocates budgets 5,000 to peace center

By RALPH FRAMMOLINO State News Staff Writer

ha surprise move Tuesday night, the ast Lansing City Council approved a studition to allot the Peace Education enter (PEC) $5,000 from the city's 1975 -

The resolution, which would grant much-meded revenue to the financially insecure EC, was the only change made in the 10,121,390 city budget for next year as roposed by City Budget for next year as roposed by City Manager John Patriarche. The rest of the budget was approved, adding renewal of funding for the Drug Mication Center and Listening Ear and the in water and sewage rates. The macil, however, is considering a different by of assessing water and sewage rates. About the passage of his PEC resolution About the passage of his PEC resolution, wascilman George Griffiths said he was startled." He said that he originally tended to propose only a $2,000 grant, but sided to up the ante to $5,000 because he might the resolution was already doomed.

If the council members, Mayor Wilbur wkover, Thelma Evans and Griffiths and for the resolution to aid the PEC. ay Sharp and John Polomsky voted hinst it, both claiming that the PEC did show a broad enough community

Marp, Polomsky and Patriarche said that did not expect the resolution to pass were surprised when it did. Idon't think anyone knew how anyone was going to vote," Sharp said. fiths said that he expected the resolua to flounder because of the negative stack he got at a work session before stay's meeting.

Sharp also said that she thought it was "interesting" that the affirmative votes came from council members who are currently filling seats that are going to be up for election this year. Brookover denied that this had anything to do with his decision, claiming that it would have probably been a wiser political move to vote against such a proposal.

"It's a very pleasant surprise," said PEC director Bud Day. The center, located at 1118 S. Harrison Road, is a community service organization focusing on educational resources, monitoring legislation and trying to resolve conflicts in the area and further the cause of peace.

Day said the PEC, which is a project under the auspices of the United Ministries in Higher Education (UMHE) at MSU, is now trying to become independent. UMHE, itself besieged by budget cuts, will decide whether or not to supply its portion of the funds to the peace center by May 20. The projected PEC budget of $20,000 for next year would be one - quarter satisfied by the grant from the council. To make up for what UMHE may not provide, Day said that the center would solicit contributions from local groups and individuals. The $5,000 grant from the council is not automatic, however. The PEC must enter into a contract with the city for the services it will render. Day said that there will not be any change from the program that the PEC is following now.

The extra money called for by the resolution will be raised by a property tax increase over what Patriarche proposed in the budget. Patriarche asked the council to set a $17.40 assessment on every $1,000 of

The resolution being considered will include a flat $3 fee for three months, with an additional charge of 85 cents per 1,000 gallons of water used. This resolution differed from the charging scale proposed by Patriarche which calls for a fee of $3.45 per 1,000 gallons for the first 3,000 used, and 65 cents for every 1,000 after that.

WASHINGTON - A Cambodian vessel waving a white flag surrendered 39 American crew members from the captured merchant ship Mayaguez to an American destroyer in the Gulf of Thailand, the Pentagon reported Wednesday night.

As the surrender was taking place, American fighter-bombers were attacking a Cambodian air base on the mainland the mainland near the port of Sihanoukville, the Pentagon said.

Announcement of the surrender came about four hours after the Marine force had been ordered by President Ford to recapture the ship and occupy the island which originally was thought to house the Pentagon Press Officer Joseph Laitin told newsmen that the Cambodian ship approached the U.S. Destroyer Nileen and gave up the 39 Americans.

The attack on the ship and Kon Tang Island was met with heavy resistance and first reports indicated heavy American

At least two of the helicopters that ferried the troops to the battle were lost, Pentagon spokesmen said.

The original landing force totaled 135 men and when the resistance continued, reinforcements were called and air strikes were used against the Cambodians. Earlier, U.S. Air Force planes sank three Cambodian navy patrol craft, hoping to prevent attempts to take the 39 crewmen of the Mayaguez to the Cambodian mainland. Still earlier in the day, ships of the 7th fleet were enroute to the area, including the aircraft carrier Coral Sea.

At a Pentagon briefing, Maj. Gen. Winant Sidle said the whereabouts of the ship's crew "is pretty hazy."

The Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun quoted U.S. military sources in Tokyo as saying two F111s, six F4 fighters and some A7 warplanes took part in the action. Asahi also said the Mayaquez was surrounded by five Cambodian naval patrol boats and that the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea and two destroyers were watching nearby.

"What if Cambodia decides to retaliate?" asked an official of Thailand's Foreign Ministry. "It cannot retaliate against the Americans; they are too far away. But it can retaliate against Thailand, which is right next door.

"The United States must pay for whatever consequences follow from this."

It was learned that U.S. warplanes flying out of Thailand have been ordered to prevent any effort by the Cambodians to move the 10,485 - ton ship from its present position near Koh Tang, an island about 30 miles off the coast of Cambodia. The Mayaquez was captured Monday while en route to Thailand with military and commercial cargo.

Koh Tang is about 200 miles from the U.S. - run Utapao Air Base on the south coast of Thailand, to which the United ment for funds for park land acquisition. States flew the Marines before dawn. Thai

Although 75 per cent of the students who voted in a referendum calling for a boycott of non United Farm Workers (UFW) lettuce and grapes approved such a measure, the small percentage of students who voted in the election may not be enough to satisfy the expectations of the board of trustees.

The Residence Halls Association (RHA) referendum was held Monday and Tuesday evenings during dinner in all residence halls except Van Hoosen, Williams and Fee. Of 15,951 eligible votes, only 5,804 cast ballots in the Approximately 4,357 "yes" votes were cast and 1,436 "no" votes. This means that of the 36.4 per cent of students who voted, 75 per cent favor MSU to adopt a policy of exclusively purchasing UFW produce, while 24.7 per cent feel that there should be no boycott.

It is now up to the board of trustees to interpret the results of the RHA vote, said Mark Bowen, RHA special elections

State officials said Wednesday they have uncovered what may be the largest land fraud swindle in the history of the nation, involving thousands of victims and up to $1 billion in

The scheme allegedly involves the pyramid-type sale of fake first mortgages on property.

State Comptroller, Gerald Lewis, who is responsible for enforcing Florida's security laws, said the investigation so far involves 56 land developments which allegedly have defrauded between 30,000 and 80,000 people out of $350 million to $1 billion through the sale of unsecured high interest rate corporate notes.

Congress sets spending limit

Congress voted Wednesday to set a $367-billion spending ceiling and face up to a $68.8 billion deficit for the federal government in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The Senate and House acted in quick succession.

Senate passage was by voice vote.

The House then passed it, 230 to 193.

Both chambers accepted a compromise version of a congressional budget. It reconciled comparatively minor differences between the separate versions adopted earlier.

General Motors' new car sales in early May fell 17 per cent and Ford Motor Co.'s deliveries were off 26 per cent from the same period last year, the companies said Wednesday.

Ford car sales in the May 1 through 10 period were 41,555. down from 56,462 a year ago and off 15 per cent from 48,670 in the first 10 days of April.

For the year, Ford sales of 620,414 were off 22 per cent from a depressed 793,375 during the same 1974 span.

Auto giant GM said it sold 88,365 new cars in this year's period, compared with 106,340 for the first 10 days of May last year.

A growing shift by American voters away from the two major political parties has opened up the possibility that an independent could be elected president, pollster Lou Harris

"The fact is, they're fed up with existing parties." Harris said of the nation's voters. He was interviewed Tuesday after an appearance on a panel at a meeting of Associated Press newspaper editors.

Harris said his polls indicate 38 per cent of the American voters consider themselves independents.

"There's no such thing as an independent party," he said. He added that people vote independent because they are disenchanted with the Republican and Democratic parties.

Gulf stations seized in Peru

The Peruvian government has seized the Gulf Oil Corporation's filling stations, believed worth several million dollars, in retaliation for a bribe report.

The action gives government-owned PetroPeru a monopoly on marketing petroleum in Peru.

The military government issued a brief communique Tuesday night announcing the immediate expropriation of all Gulf Oil operations and accusing the U.S. firm of "offending public morals."

The American company has no drilling operations in the country but owns five of the 13 gas stations that carry the Gulf emblem and sells lubricating oil to a number of private concerns and the government, Gulf general manager Edwin McCain said.

Israelis enter Lebanon again

Israeli troops crossed the border into southern Lebanon Wednesday for the third straight day on a hunt for Arab guerillas, Israeli military sources said.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said armored patrols broke through the demarcation line and searched village homes but were driven back by Lebanese artillery. It was the first report of Lebanese resistance during the current series of raids.

The Israeli military command said only that Lebanese mortar fire drew an Israeli artillery response. An Israeli military source said Israeli troops searched the border region for Arab guerillas but entered no villages.

Summer energy supply

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

The nation's utilities say they are in good shape for summer, with most companies reporting that they have the ability to generate more electricity than they expect customers to use.

Higher prices rather than short supplies will be the main problem this year.

Officials contacted in an Associated Press survey said Wednesday their optimism depended on continued conservation and normal weather, but added that the situation has improved

"We think we'll be in good shape this summer," said Bryan Gosling, a spokesman for the New York State power pool. "We're forecasting energy requirements for 1975 to be about 4.1 per cent above 1974," he said, adding that the system which provides virtually all the electricity used in the state has a generating capacity 10 per cent higher than it did last year.

Gosling said, "We think we have an adequate operating margin, barring contingencies like an extended period of hot weather." Gary Reeves, information officer for Public Service Co. of Colorado had a similar view. "We expect to have about a 15 to 20 per cent reserve capacity which ought to handle any emergencies,"

There was concern in 1974 that there might be brownouts of blackouts because of a lack of oil to produce electricity and a shortage of generating equipment. Conservation efforts reduced the problem, however, and there were only a few forced voltage reductions, mainly in the Northeast.

Environmental restrictions and rising costs have hampered construction of generating plants and utilities say there could be trouble in future years, but the short - term situation is more

The Virginia Electric & Power Co. (VEPCO), for example, recently opened a generating plant able to provide 845 megawatts of electricity, giving the company a capacity of 9,258 megawatts. The extra megawatts give VEPCO an increase of 10 per cent in generating capacity. The company expects a peak demand of megawatts, compared to a 1974 peak of 6,734 megawatts.

Georgia Power Co. officials said they had a 21.5 per cent re capacity for this summer. "We don't expect to have trouble outages," said Bob Rutherford, a Georgia Power Co. official are concerned about our reserves for next year, but for this we're all right."

Rutherford said over - all electric consumption increase half a per cent from 1973 to 1974 — well below normal grow peak periods, however, Georgia Power customers used 6 cent more electricity last summer than they did a year ear

"That means that during the hottest day in the conservation methods are pretty well ignored and prace everyone turns on their air conditioners full blast," Ruth said.

Rising prices are responsible for many conservation efforts National Utility Service Inc. said Tuesday a survey of country's 24 largest utilities showed residential rates rose 37 cent from June 1973 to December 1974.

"As utility costs continue to soar, it's clear the public suffers twice," said Marvin Lauterbach, a spokesman for survey organization. "First, they must directly pay the concreased service to their homes and apartments. Then the again in the form of increased prices passed along to the suppliers of their goods and services."

Many people have been switching to fans instead conditioners to save power and money.

"If you can do the job with a fan, you'd be foolish to use conditioner," said Charles Martin of the Philadelphia Electri "The problem is that in many homes, a fan just won't do the a hot day."

In the Northwest, which relies on hydroelectric power, h not too much of a problem. "Only a small percentage of even bother with air conditioning," said Joan While of Seattl Light in Washington.

She said the utility has "an ample supply of electricity. had more than enough precipitation this year."

Alaska easing pot laws

From Wire Services

In Alaska, where alcoholism is the No. 1 health problem, the legislature is on the verge of liberalizing marijuana laws to deal with what one lawmaker calls "the world as it really exists."

The House voted 21 to 17 Tuesday to remove criminal penalties against adults who possess any amount of marijuana for personal use in their own homes. In place of maximum penalties of $1,000 and a year in jail for simple possession, a $100 civil fine would be imposed.

If approved and signed by Gov. Jay Hammond, the legislation would make Alaska the second state to "decriminalize' possession of marijuana. Oregon adopted a similar law in

Details of the pending legislation have not been worked out, and a constitutional challenge to Alaska's marijuana laws may change the eventual

"The measure does, however, attempt to deal with the world as it really exists," said Terry Miller, the bill's main sponsor and former Senate president.

Under various bills passed by both houses of the legislature, the small-time user of marijuana could simply pay his fine by mail if arrested. Most legislators believe a one-ounce limit may be placed on possession of marijuana in public

"Without question, there has been a moderately high level of acceptance of marijuana among an important segment of our society," Miller said.

Possession of marijuana was reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor by the legislature five years ago. Still, more than 50 per cent of the drug arrests in Alaska each year are for marijuana possession or sale.

Alaska officials said 1,500 persons were arrested for marijuana possession or sale last year. Four persons were

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress speeded action Wednesday on legislation to provide funds for resettlement of Indochinese refugees in the United States.

The objective was quick passage of both authorization and appropriation bills in the House and Senate.

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee, in a morning meeting, directed expedited action by the Senate Appropriations Committee. The House had already been scheduled to vote on a $405-million appropriation.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate's Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations, said the speedup in the Senate responded to Administration pleas of "The funds are necessary for the volunteer relief organizations to carry out their resettlement programs," Inouye said.

He said Administration officials testified that $103 million transferred from other foreign aid accounts by presidential order has been spent.

The government plans to contract with nine voluntary agencies to match refugee families at three U.S. resettlement centers with sponsors throughout the United States offering homes and jobs. The agencies are to receive $500 per refugee for their expenses.

Bill seeks to reallocate competitive scholarships

By MIKE ARNETT State News Staff Writer

The Michigan House Wednesday passed a bill which would give at least one student from every state high school a Michigan Competitive Scholarship each year, regardless of that student's rank among other high school students in the state.

House Bill 4586 requires that half of the scholarships awarded yearly for performance on the Michigan Competitive Scholarship test be allotted to high schools in proportion to each school's enrollment. It would shift competition for those scholarships from a statewide basis to within each

The intent of the bill, according to the Dept. of Education, is to assure that students from disadvantaged or rural areas will receive at least a minimum number of

"Students from low - income and rural areas aren't getting their fair share of scholarships," said Janet Howard, aid to the House Colleges and Universities Committee, which reported the bill to the House

State Rep. Edgar A. Geerlings, R -Muskegon, prime sponsor of the bill, said Dept. of Education statistics show that eight inner - city Class A schools and 51 rural, Class D schools were awarded no scholarships last year.

"The better income areas get more than their share of scholarships," Geerlings said. "A disproportionate number go to the elite

Geerlings said the bill would cause the reallocation of only 220 of the 65000 competitive scholarships awarded annually. An amendment to the bill passed Tuesday requires that Class A schools receive at least four competitive scholarships; Class B,

Hart said that he is in favor of a tax increase to make more money available for three; Class C, two, and Class D, one. The bill, which passed 64 - 39, was opposed during House debate by Rep. Colleen House, R - Bay City.

"This bill sets up a quota system for high school students," House said. "Higher achieving students would not get scholarships, while students who did not do as well as them would. It's better to go on a merit

Rep. Dan Stevens, R - Atlanta, argued that rural school districts cannot afford to train students to compete with students from more affluent areas. "But we still want the opportunity to send our kids to college," he said. Rep. Jackie Vaughn III, D - Detroit, said the bill would "democratize" the allotment of scholarships, "basing it not only on ability but also on geographic location."

Ali to deliver talk

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - Staid Harvard University may never be the same after graduation ceremonies on June 11 when Muhammad Ali will be the commencement speaker.

Ali, chosen by vote of the undergraduate student body, declined Wednesday to reveal what he would say to the graduates of one of America's foremost institutions.

"I've prepared a lecture for them on the intoxication of life. I think it's too deep for most of you fellows," Ali said.

The committee decided not to support a second proposal that was actually an expansion of the first. The proposal asked that Wharton direct the MSU Traffic Safety Center to carry out a study of existing transportation patterns.

The first proposal is general enough that Wharton can ask the traffic center to conduct the study or any other University unit if he wants to.

After much discussion, the committee also supported a proposal that urged Wharton to provide administrative and financial support to the campus parks and planning division so the department can implement any appropriate proposals that can result from the comprehensive transportation study.

Limited funds for education seen

By SUE WILLOUGHBY State News Staff Writer

Michigan's economic outlook for next vear is bleak, and the picture for the future of higher education appropriations in the state is even worse, Sen. Jerome Hart, D -Saginaw, said Tuesday.

Speaking to the American Assn. of University Professors (AAUP) at the University Club, the chairman of the state Senate Appropriations Committee said only a small amount of the money needed for higher education programs may be available next year.

"Right now, Michigan is faced with an almost overwhelming economic crisis due to the state of the auto industry and a spiraling inflation," Hart said. "The whole economic picture is covered with a shroud of uncertainty."

At least part of the problem is that the legislature has a legislative responsibility to maintain an annually balanced budget when deciding on the budget for the upcoming

The 1975 - 76 budget calls for $3.41 billion in expenditures, but Hart says the budget has underestimated the cost of social services by $30 million and hasn't recognized supplemental increases that could exceed $90 million.

EDITORIALS Seizure asks caution

The capture of the American cargo ship Mayaguez Tuesday and the bombing of Cambodian navy vessels Wednesday by American planes appear ominous in terms of U.S. involvement in another disastrous Indochina war. But at least the actions taken so far indicate that the Ford Administration is acting with some measure of care in a perilous situation.

Worldwide attention has been riveted on President Ford's pronouncements since news of the ship's capture by Cambodian insurgents.

There are good reasons to watch U.S. actions closely. One is that the government still has bitter memories of the 1968 Pueblo incident and the more recent captures of privately owned U.S. fishing vessels by Ecuadorian navy ships.

But not only has the United States felt deeply humiliated by its relative helplessness in the face of terrorist actions by much smaller countries, it is known that the Administration has been seeking a test of its will in Southeast Asia since the fall of South Vietnam and Cambodia.

It is conceivable that the Mayaguez incident was manufactured as a response to these two factors. But the United States would only be doing itself in, because the lies would inevitably be uncovered. It is more plausible that President Ford is telling the truth and the Mayaguez was not "planted" or conducting illegal surveillance.

The sinking of three Cambodian gunboats and damaging of four others was part of an attempt to keep the Mayaguez from being taken to the Cambodian mainland - a necessary strategy, if the United States is to avoid another Pueblo incident in which it took a year of negotiations to regain crew members from North Korea.

It seems as though this Administration, unlike the two previous ones, is determined to act carefully and rationally in a situation made complex by unanswered legal questions about territorial limits and ownership of the small rocky island near which the Mayaguez was captured.

It is unlikely that the government will try to wage war in Cambodia to secure the captured ship, but the danger of a lesser overreaction - the 7th fleet sweeping down on the Cambodian navy, for example - is a real one. Such action could only result in the deaths of the Mayaguez's crew.

We must continue to act cautiously and firmly. Negotiations and diplomacy must be the first line of attack; China, the only outside nation with influence on the rebels, must be convinced that it is in its best interest to work for the crew's release.

And eventually, the quagmire over international territorial sea limits must be straightened out or similar incidents with all their potential for violence and war will continue to crop up. Only when a limit can be agreed upon and enforced will the developed seagoing nations be freed from the kind of agonizing choices the United States must make now.

Decapitation of a great cit

What if every man, woman and child who lived on Manhattan Island were told: "Get out of town today, on pain of death. No excuses. Start walking and don't stop until you get to farmland upstate or in Pennsylvania. When you get there, if you do, you're on your own."

Manhattan mothers would give their babies to strangers who had some chance of escape or survival; Manhattan doctors, at gunpoint, would put down scalpels in midoperation and begin the long march to nowhere; occupants of nursing homes would push wheelchairs in the direction of the Lincoln Tunnel; and proud and lawabiding Manhattanites would learn to steal and beg to get the towers of the city far behind them.

That is roughly what is happening to the three million people on Phnom Penh, capital of the newly Communist Cambodia. In all human history nothing has taken place quite like the emptying of Phnom Penh.

Sennacherib destroyed Babylon, the Romans sacked Carthage, and Hitler's bombers leveled Guernica, but in every case the attacker was destroying a particular city, not the idea of a city itself.

The new rulers of Cambodia are doing something original. They have taken the "classless society" of Marx and put it together with the "natural selection" of Darwin. Cities breed civilization, they are saying; civilization differentiates between people, creating classes, and therefore, we will drive the populace out of the corrupting cities, back to the purifying land, where only the fittest will survive.

This is social engineering on a scale that would make a Stalin blush: creating a society of equals by making everybody a refugee.

Since you can't make an omelette without breaking some eggs, the Cambodian leaders wish to conduct their experiment in private, which is why foreign newsmen have been deported. In the United States, that leaves us to a fruitless debate about how many thousand executions make a bloodbath.

Many commentators have long been saying that the Cambodians are a gentle people who would return to peaceful ways, if only we were not there, and have been deriding predictions of mass executions as merely scare tactics to justify our propping up of corrupt dictatorships. These voices will now be saying that the reports we hear of killings are probably exaggerated: what kind of bloodbath is it, after all, that goes on unrecorded by videotape?

Contrariwise, a great many other Americans, myself included, will be tempted to ask what happened to all that moral outrage about "stopping the killing," and how come the Jane Fondas and Ramsey Clarks are focusing our attention on the shortcomings of those who brought this bloody kind of peace to Indochina?

Such justification of past positions may be satisfying - we all like to insist we were right all along - but there is a reality to the emptying of Phnom Penh that should cause us to agree on a fundamental: that the difference between "Freedom" and "Slavery" is not a relic of cold-war rhetoric. Communists in every region are serious about remaking the world and we must stop pretending that the death sentence pronounced even temporarily on city life in Cambodia is some form of "Agrarian Reform."

To the Khmer Rouge, the elimination of classes requires that tens of thousands, perhaps many more, die by the wayside; this is no Cambodian aberration, but the path always taken by new Communist parties as they take power. As they become sophisticated, later generations act more subtly, in civilized trappings from great cities, but the mental set of the ideology sees the individual soul as a building block and not a citadel.

People try to fight communism or to run away from it, because they do not want to be absolutely controlled by the most modern tyrants. They fight or run not because democracy has won their "Hearts and minds," but because they sense that only communism is capable of driving a population of 2 million out of their homes and into the countryside so as to indoctrinate those hearts and minds.

How do some of us receive the running from death? A trendy car here portrayed a shocked Statue of looking at a parade of slant-eyed prostitutes and politicians, which fair sums up the view of those - like Me who came to hate our Southear allies.

Union, not Cain

The recent controversy in the State News has brought out many of the facets of the student unionizing activity on this campus. Yet one point needs to be made more clear to the students, particularly the student workers on this campus.

The activity so far has been oriented toward gaining an election on the question: should the student workers of this campus be represented by a union for collective bargaining purposes? Tim Cain cannot dictate to the union how it should be organized, who its leaders will be or its name. All of these questions are to be decided after the decision to unionize is made.

To many students Cain's position forms their sole basis for the concept of a union. But what they do not realize is that, by majority vote, they may limit the activities of the union as they see fit. The union might only bargain for wages or it might bargain for everything but wages. The demands they see in print are the demands of a small, select group of individuals, headed by Tim Cain. In no way do they need to be the positions of the union once formed. Even the composition of the bargaining team is up to the membership.

There exists on this campus today an organization which offers alternative leadership to Cain's group. The United Student Labor Caucus has existed in various forms in the South Complex residence halls for over two years.

While Cain has been theatrical, we have been subdued. While Cain has ranted and raved, we have been organizing worker support and have kept ourselves busy learning the tactics that will be used by management against the union, have developed a thorough knowledge of labor law and have investigated through many sources possible labor lawyers to aid us in negotiation. It must be said that there are many thousands of dollars in the area which would be given to the students' union given the proper leadership. It will soon be time for the student workers to choose that leadership wisely.

It must also be said that a union could bring many benefits to the students. Currently, student workers are paid some of the highest wages in the nation for the type of work they do. A union can bring security to those wages. Yet working conditions on campus are far from ideal; sometimes these conditions violate laws. Workers should not be given only the minimum protection required. Student workers can also be fired for almost no cause at all; some have been fired for mere personality conflicts. This also must end. In addition, there need be no rise in room and board rates. Benefits could be tied to these rates, if the membership so desired -Cain's arguments notwithstanding.

The upcoming election will be a vote on unionization, not on Tim Cain. First, decide if you want a union at all. Then decide on its form and leadership.

> Patrick Watkins United Student Labor Caucus

Socialist doctrine

Just for the record, let me briefly explain what the acceptance of the socialist doctrine would mean. And what it would mean to the individual if total socialism could somehow come immediately into existence in the United States.

Socialists use phrases like; "the people," "public interest," "the common welfare," "peoples rights," without ever telling you that they are not backed by any concept. First of all there exists no entity as "the public" or "the people" and secondly, these phrases are focused to play on our emotions, and not on our reason. Besides, if an individual (i.e. especially a university professor) understood these phrases, he would recognize that they are evasive and meaningless.

Here is an example of what the s doctrine would mean. The money y individual (i.e. not you the people saved in a bank account, could be o by the State as belonging to the peopreason is that socialism condemns property and private ownership. Yo not use it for your own profit b socialism condemns profit. If you wa use this money, the State would h agree, because the State represen

Raymond opts for open meeting despite requests to close doors

ASMSU President Brian Raymond announced Wednesday that wight's ASMSU meeting will be open to the public.
ASMSU will meet at 8 tonight in 328 Student Services Bldg. to discuss the relationship of ASMSU and the Student Workers Union (SWU), the possibility of allocating money to the North American Indians Student Organization and Mortar Board and the formation of a Women's Cabinet.

Raymond announced earlier this week that the meeting would be closed to the public for the protection of board members. Raymond said he first closed the meeting to the public at the request of eight board members, but decided later to chair an open, public meeting to avoid hassles.

The last ASMSU meeting (May 5) was forced to adjourn when the meeting dissolved into a circus-like atmosphere. Spectators attempted to take over the meeting when the ASMSU Policy Committee said it was backing a bill asking ASMSU to take a neutral stance toward the organizing SWU.

The board will meet informally before the open meeting to discuss the SWU, the labor relations cabinet and other subjects Raymond feels the board should discuss privately before doing so before an audience.

"I just want the board members to know where I stand on things," Raymond said. "And I want to know where they stand. It could make everything easier."

Profs back Viet lawyer for honor consideration

By JAMIE CONROY State News Staff Writer

Three MSU faculty members are circulating a petition among other faculty in an attempt to convince President Wharton that a celebrated Vietnamese woman lawyer should receive an honorary degree.

John Masterson, associate professor mathematics; Frieda Brown, professor of romance languages, and Joseleyne Tien, asst. professor of American thought and language, started the petition drive after Madame Ngo Ba Thanh was not recommended to President Wharton by the Honorary Degrees Committee.

"I doubt that Wharton ever saw her name," said Masterson. "The Honorary Degrees Committee has a somewhat conservative view on the kind of person this University should grant honorary degrees to. Mme. Thanh has had a rather controversial career."

MSU has awarded honorary degrees to other Southeast Asians. Ngo-Dinh Diem, one-time president of South Vietnam, was awarded a honorary degree in 1957 and Thanom Kittikachorn, prime minister of Thailand from 1972 to 1973, received a degree in 1968.

Mme. Thanh is regarded as one of the most celebrated figures in the neutralist opposition in Vietnam. The neutralist position is noncommunistic, but not supportive of the regime that existed before Saigon fell. She is the first woman elected to the International Commission of Jurists in Switzerland, which is an organization of lawyers. She also holds degrees from Columbia University and the universities of Paris and Barcelona.

Masterson said the petition group went through the committee before circulating the petition among the faculty. They already have 100 signatures.

The committee sends out letters every fall to faculty members inviting them tonominate people for honorary degrees.

The committee then categorizes the hundreds of names received into three categories: distinguished alumni, distinguished scholars and public life. The committee considers both current nominations and those persons nominated in previous years who never received honorary degrees for one reason or another. Some nominees remain on the list for five or six years before they receive a degree, said Milton Muelder, chairman of the committee. The committee then sends a list of names to Wharton and he selects about three or four degree recipients a term for the next three terms from that

As a matter of practice, Wharton selects the honorary degree recipients from the list presented to him by the committee, but he has the option of choosing whomever he wants. The committee has a purely advisory

House OKs jobless bill; Milliken veto promised

By JOANNA FIRESTONE

LANSING (UPI) — Legislation substantially bolstering jobless benefits for 440,000 laid-off workers passed the House Wednesday and was sent to Gov. Milliken, who has promised to veto the measure.

The measure was adopted on a 78-24 vote with no debate. Prior to the vote, the House Republican Caucus formally pledged to provide "sufficient votes to uphold any veto that Gov. Milliken might exercise."

A two-thirds majority in both the House and Senate would be required to override a veto by Milliken. This has not happened to Milliken in his six years in office or any other governor for the past 24 years.

There was still a possibility that a last-minute compromise with majority Democrats would avert a veto.

House Speaker Bobby D. Crim, D-Davison, indicated he would be willing to call the bill back in a rarely used "respectful message to the governor" if a "reasonable settlement" in the disagreement can be worked out.

Milliken and the legislature GOP leadership issued a joint statement Wednesday morning saying, "We are encouraged by indications that Democrats are now willing to negotiate a reasonable and responsible compromise."

Though there had been a battle in the Senate over whether the legislation should be given immediate effect, the motion was adopted on a voice vote in the House, with Republicans abandoning stalling tactics to build support for Milliken's veto.

The bill provides a maximum $30 a week increase in unemployment compensation for all laid-off workers who have not been off the job longer than 39 weeks.

One of the 39 employes at the MSU Food Stores stacks boxes of corn flakes which reach to the ceiling of the large warehouse located on Service Road. Corn flakes are just one of the myriad of foodstuffs the Food Stores distribute each day to the University.

than 5,000 other items are purchased, stored and distributed through MSU Food Stores, a genuine Big Ten supermarket serving all eating places on campus and three off - campus cafeterias and restaurants.

Inside the Food Stores building on Service Road, Certs, cleansers for removing dirt, razor blades, lemonade, parts for kitchen machines, collard greens, Melba Toast and beef roasts lie in storage areas of imposing size.

The large main freezer, 120 feet long and 120 - feet wide can hold 75 railroad cars of merchandise. Fresh fruits and vegetables are stored in a refrigerator 90 - feet long and 40 - feet wide. Food Stores' meat refrigerator is 60 feet by 30 feet. Box upon box of dry goods are stored on shelves shooting toward the ceiling of a warehouse room, which has 30,000 square feet of floor

"Candy is dandy, but liquor is quicker," said a muse - but no matter how quick liquor can be, Food Stores doesn't stock it. Candy, though, is a different matter. more than 40 years he has worked for the University. Besides being in charge of the wholesale operation, he supervises the University laundry and is responsible for vending machines on campus.

"We are a complete source of supply for everything within the food units," Herron said as he puffed on a cigar. "We act as our own jobber and buy the bulk of our merchandise direct from the processor, grower and manufacturer."

Food is not the only thing Herron handles. Chinaware, silverware, drinking glasses of various shapes and sizes, and garbage bags, plastic pails, decks of cards, Sani - Flush, toilet paper, napkins, cigars, cigarets, Tiparillos, ashtrays, matches, toothpaste and deodorants are the nonfood items in Food Stores.

Herron helped set up the centralized purchasing, storage and distributing concept of Food Stores. Academic units also purchase things from the campus wholesaler.

Tums, various gums, extract of rums (a non alcoholic flavoring), cloves, various gloves, mops, soda pops, wire whips, parsnips, sauce pans and size 10 cans can also be found

"We feed through this operation the equivalent of 75,000 meals a day," Herron said. Besides the meals served in residence halls, cafeterias and grills Food Stores also sells merchandise to the East Lansing State Police Post, the University Club and MSU's W.K. Kellogg Biological Station at Hickory Corners. All pork and beef served on campus is prepared in a meat processing room at Food Stores.

Food Stores purchases prepackaged chicken because it is cheaper to buy that way, Herron explained.

Items arrive at the building by railroad car and truck. Three to four times weekly, a semitrailer truck leaves MSU at 3:30 a.m., travels to a Detroit freight terminal and returns at about noon with a load of fresh fruits and vegetables. Often these same foods are served for dinner later in the day.

Sensing a possible rise in meat prices in the fall of 1972. Herron purchases 1.25 million pounds of meat and stored it in the freezer. Meat prices rose. and the times Food Stores purchase saved the University about $350,000. The meat lasted through June 1973.

Food Stores charges its clients a price markup to pay for operating costs. It is a nonprofit operation.

"We have our own computer and do our own billing, inventory control and keep track of food costs and labor costs for the food units," Herron said.

Herron said pilferage at the large building is greatly minimized by a security syst helped develop.

Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke stresses a point during a press conference Wednesday at the end of the conference's annual spring meetings.

Big Ten ponders second bowl team

By LARRY MORGAN State News Sports Writer

The possibility of a second Big Ten school attending a postseason football bowl game looms larger than ever following the Big Ten annual spring meetings completed Wednesday morning.

There were no decisions made at the three days of meetings, but the athletic directors and faculty representatives headed back to their respective schools to discuss the matter with their university athletic bodies.

Once the bowl topic is individually discussed and an opinion reached, it will be communicated to the Big Ten when it meets again in

"We didn't get to the point of discussing any particular matter, only that we are not going to jeopardize the fine relation we have with the rose Bowl and the Pacific Eight Conference," said Marcus Plant, faculty representative from the University of Michi-

Though it will also depend on a decision by the Pacific Eight, Plant said, "I think we're ready for definite action at the next meeting in August."

Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke added that there will not be any unilateral action by the Big Ten.

"We're most interested in preserving the greatest marriage in college athletics," he said, referring to the Big Ten-Pac Eight Rose Bowl arrangement.

In addition, the meeting, held at the Lansing Hospitality Inn, bred three changes concerning Big Ten basketball, one of which will be effective

Batsmen need four-game sweep

By MIKE LITAKER

State News Sports Writer Deciding who will win the Big Ten baseball title is going to require a little housecleaning in the form of two quick sweeps from one of the five teams still in the race this weekend.

MSU will be at home Friday and Saturday when Wisconsin and Northwestern come to town for a pair of 1 p.m. doubleheaders at Kobs Field.

The Spartans have no other choice than to win their final four games and hope that Michigan loses at least once. The Badgers and Wildcats play the Wolverines on the opposite days as MSU.

Hollerbach, took second place in the A Skipper division of the MCSA championship. They combined with John Walton and his crew, Carolyn Wooley, who picked up a first place in the B Skipper, for the victory. The four will now compete in the Intercollegiate National Yachting Championship North America as one of three schools representing the 43school MCSA from June 9 to 17 at the Chicago Yacht Club. The University of Michigan and Ohio Wesleyan will also sail in that event for the MCSA as they finished second and third, respectively, in the champion-

For Fries, the Sunfish is becoming an annual event and one of the most satisfying, considering the quality of competition.

"Many other sailors (from other countries) are subsidized for racing, but those countries have different ideas to what an amateur is," said Fries, who has sailed in the event for the past four years.

"But it sure brings out the best of the foreigners." he added with a smile.

In the other years he has competed, Fries has brought his Sunfish in for two fourthplace finishes and a seventh. He was the top American finisher in 1973 and 1974.

These two races have not been Fries' only top showings, however.

He is a two-time collegiate All-American elected by the six executive officers of the Intercollegiate Yachting Assn. of North America.

In addition, the curly-haired Justin Morrill College student competes in regattas across the country in the Sunfish, Laser and Finn classes.

Fries is also the sailing teacher and head of the junior sailing program at the Great Lakes Yacht Club on Lake St.

Considering the amount of time Fries is spending in sailboats, it's a wonder he has time to spend on classes.

MSU graced by musicians' rare visits

By JANE OPHOFF State News Reviewer

The only English Vladimir Avramov of Bulgaria speaks is the single line, "I don't speak any English." Antal Jancsovics of Hungary knows little more. Yet neither has had any serious difficulty communicating with MSU students, since both speak the international language of music.

Avramov, a string professor at the State Bulgarian Music Academy in Sophia, is on campus for ten weeks to teach the violin students of Walter Verdehr, associate professor of music, while the Verdehr Trio is on tour.

He communicates most of what he needs to by playing his violin and singing phrases or tapping rhythms. For more complicated instruction, his wife, who is present at all lessons, interprets.

Jancsovics, asst. conductor was recently in town for three weeks of rehearsals which culminated in the May 4 MSU

"He would tap, sing, use facial expressions and the Italian words that musicians understand," said freshman violinist Pamela Szulborski. "I guess he proved that music is the international language."

Avramov and Jancsovics are just two of the nearly two dozen European artists who have come to MSU during the past three years to participate in the Music Dept.'s International Season. The musicians come for artist-in-residence programs of up to 10 weeks tween participants. each, to teach, to give recitals and to conduct.

vics, most of the European guests speak English. But whatever their tongue, when performing or conducting they use the instruments that speak familiar sounds in music communities everywhere. tion has a regular professional series of this kind-that is, a to be used, according to professional season of foreign Burkh, "to bring Eastern guests," said Dennis Burkh, European artists for residency conductor of the MSU programs in order to dis-Orchestras and director of the International Season of foreign

The International Season is unique not only because it presents a regular professional season of foreign guests, but also because so many of the guests are from Eastern European countries.

The past three seasons have brought soloists and conductors not only from England, Ireland, Norway and Italy, but also from Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria. The first year's program of 1972-73, then called The International Festival, began with guest conductor Kamen Goleminov, the second Bulgarian conductor ever to come to this country. Since then, two of Sophia's finest young pianists -Marta Deyanova and Bozhidar Noev-have visited MSU. Meanwhile, faculty cellist Peter Rejto has performed in Bulgaria and the currently touring Verdehr Trio will play in Sophia this month.

As far as Burkh knows, the of the Budapest Symphony, Bulgarian-American cultural exchange is the only one in the country. He considered the East-West contact to be Symphony Orchestra concert. spearheading a relaxation of cultural tensions.

Through his interpreter wife, Avramov said he is very pleased by the contact made through the artist-in-residence program. He believes that a relationship between professors of different countries is bound to have a good effect on the succeeding generation of students.

Music Dept. Chairman, James Niblock, also sees the program as a real contribution to feelings of good will be-

"I think any contact, culturally, with people behind the Unlike Avramov and Jancso- Iron Curtain is a good thing," he said.

Also viewing such contact as a good thing is the State Dept. of Washington, which is sufficiently interested in MSU's season of European guests to have given grants for this "No other school or institu- year and next. The five and six-thousand dollar grants are of their countries and to absorb ours at the same time."

The music students say they are profitting a great deal by the exposure to many different European representa-

"They learn to respond to different personal styles of conducting, to different interpretations of music and to different batons," said Michael Griffith, asst. conductor of the Satterwhite's response is typical of the students' enthusiasm for the foreign artist program.

"It's good to be exposed to different artists, and especially to foreign artists and different ideas," he said. "And most of them are quite willing and eager to share their ideas."

Principal hornist Dan Phillips says it has been an String bass player Marc advantage for him to have worked under many different batons, an experience which will serve him well in the professional world.

"We have looked forward to the arrival of each new conductor," he said.

The music faculty has also benefited by the three international seasons. It has given them the chance to make the contacts with European artists which, in turn, have led to invitations abroad.

The community, too, has gained a bit of prestige through the International Season. Not only do the Europeans frequently introduce new repertory to the area, but they also give Michigan and even the United States premiere performances of their countrymen's works.

For instance, the last guest of this year's third International Season, Gabriella Shubert-Traikova of the Sophia Opera, will be singing songs written especially for her and for this recital.

While in residence at MSU, the guests stay in private homes and see American literature at close range. Many are willing to go into area schools and speak to local groups in an effort to make the cultural exchange possible for the community as well as the school.

The International Season began when Burkh was given sabbatical leave three years ago. He invited three of his colleagues, whom he had met as a guest conductor of Europe, to take his place for one term each.

While Burkh continues to be responsible for much of the season's success, especially since he selects the artists, he points to other sources of its

House unit OKs repea of state fair trade law

By MIKE ARNETT State News Staff Writer

The repeal of a fair trade bill which may be causing unfairly high prices in Michigan was approved Wednesday by the House Consumers

The committee unanimously voted to send to the House floor House Bill 4925, written to eliminate a 1937 law which requires many items to be sold at a set manufacturer's price, instead of at competitive prices set by individual stores.

The 1937 law was intended to protect small businesses from ruin by being undersold by chain stores. Supporters of its repeal, however, contend that its actual effect has been to allow price fixing by manufacturers at the expense of the consumer.

"The law never has worked that well," said state Rep. H. Lynn Jondahl, D - East Lansing, chairman of the Consumers Committee and a cosponsor of the bill. "The small businesses have actually suffered from it, because larger retailers found ways to get around it."

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley testified in favor of repeal at the committee meeting, citing Dept. of Justice study which found the are substantially higher in states whi similar fair trade bills. Kelley mentioned examples of higher prices paid by consumers because the prices are s specified minimum by the fair trade law "A 19 - inch Sony Trinitron television mandated minimum price in Michigan of while in states without fair trade average price is $449.95," Kelley said. Rep. Perry Bullard, D - Ann Ar primary sponsor of the bill, called the outdated and misguided. "The law hasn't done anything but a big manufacturers to engage in pricefixi expense of the consumer, who has been artificially high prices on many items, Bullard said similar fair trade laws ha repealed this year in New York, Ore Washington. The repeal bill has the su Gov. Milliken, and repeal of state fair tr is favored by President Ford.

Bulgarian violinist Vladimir Avramov is visiting MSU as part of a cultural exchange program the MSU Dept. of Music conducts with Eastern European nations. Several renowned artists have visited MSU through this program.
