Court rules on schools' suit

The state Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that the building and construction plans of state-supported colleges and universities must first be submitted to the state legislature, even if those projects are not paid for by tax dollars.

The decision came in a lawsuit brought in In-state students pay about one third or less 1971 by MSU, Wayne State University and the University of Michigan that claimed lawmakers violated their right to run their own affairs through legislation in 1971 that set specific funding levels for the three schools for the year.

In that suit against the state, the universities questioned the constitutionalhibited construction of buildings unauthorized by the legislature, and set tuition rates of state-supported universities.

The high court, however, refused to rule on the issues of enrollment quotas and tuition rates. It said that similar restrictions have not arisen since the 1971 law and thus the court considered it inappropriate

If the last East Lansing City Council election is any indication of what to expect 1973. this year, student voters should be equally pitted against the nonstudent vote.

This year there are approximately 19,610 registered voters from the student precincts. If the voter turnout is what it was in 1973, there will be about 6,000 votes cast from each faction.

An ASMSU voter registration drive earlier this fall recruited over 5,000 of the registered student voters.

Of the city's 34 precincts, 33 are either predominantly students or of a studentnonstudent mix. Half the registered voters in the mixed precincts were counted as being student votes. The 23 precincts are: 1-4, 10-18, 20, 24, 26, 27, 28, and 30-34.

Students have only had the vote for two previous city council elections. Because of a rearrangement in voter precincts after the 1971 elections, the only pertinent results that can be studied are the 1973 city council election figures.

In that election, turnout in the student precincts were about 30 per cent of the registered voters while the voters in the over 50 per cent.

There has been an increase in the number of registered voters in the homeowner districts and a decline in the number of registered voters in student precincts since the 1973 elections. In 1973 there were 22,406 students registered in the city and only 10,469 registered non-students.

East Lansing City Clerk Beverly Colizzi expects there will be a particularly light turnout from students and non-students in next Tuesday's election.

"On the whole I think the voter interest has been low this year," Colizzi said. "This year's campaign has been very low key all

Candidates woo money to run effective races

By FRED NEWTON State News Staff Writer

Trick-or-treaters will not be the only ones homeowner districts had a turnout slightly out on Halloween looking for goodies - so will city council candidates, and the goodies will be your vote.

In the last days before the election the candidates will be trying in every way to woo the nearly 32,000 East Lansing voters and that means collecting money and trying to run a most effective campaign.

Over the last few months, primary and general election combined, the candidates have spent at least $10,000 to sell themselves to the public.

Highest on combined expenditures for primary and general elections is Thelma Evans, who has spent about $3,000, followed by Larry Owen, $2,300; George Griffiths, $1,900; John Czarnecki, $1,500; Gordon Thomas, $700; and finally Elizabeth

Nall who has spent about $500. An interesting point is that though the Election total seems relatively high, especially for some candidates, the total does not equal the $12,000 budget of Citizens for Better Housing in their opposition to the rent control referendum

While the bulk of the money has come from contributions, some, like Czarnecki's and Thomas', have largely been self funded. Newspaper and radio advertisements along with campaign fliers, posters and yard signs, in addition to printing costs, appear to be draining most of the campaign (continued on page 14) was robbed for the second time in less than four months Wednesday afternoon. Bank officials would say only that a small amount of cash was taken in the robbery which occurred at 12:10 p.m.

Police believe that the robber is the same person who committed a robbery on July 25, when the same methods were used. On both occasions, the suspect wore a hat, beard, mustache, sunglasses and jacket.

The suspect is a 5-foot-10 white male, about 160-170 pounds. He was wearing a yellow hardhat at the time of Wednesday's robbery. No weapon was seen in either of the robberies but the man has been able to make the bank tellers believe that he was instructing her to give him money. While she was doing that, another teller walked crowds. by and saw what was happening. She walked back to her booth and pressed the alarm button that notified East Lansing

When police arrived two minutes later at 12:12 p.m., the robber had already fled across Grand River Avenue onto the MSU campus. One of the tellers said the man was almost struck by a car as he rushed across the street to melt into the lunch-hour

Ironically, two officers were eating lunch in a cafeteria across the street at the time of the robbery.

Police have no clues about the robbery other than pictures taken by the bank's security cameras. Those pictures show a man who appears to be identical to the man photographed in the July robbery. Police also suspect that the man robbed six Ann Arbor banks. Pictures taken there show a similarly dressed man with the same build.

Power transfer in Spain, Juan Carlos named head

MADRID (AP) - The Spanish government removed critically ill Francisco Franco from power Thursday night and named his hand-picked heir, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, temporary head of state.

Though Franco's removal does not become permanent until his death, the transfer effectively marked the end of the general's 36-year domination of Spanish affairs.

Following procedures set out in the Spanish constitution, Premier Carlos Arias Navarro formally announced the transfer of power in a letter to the president of the Spanish parliament. It was then reported over national radio and television and by the semiofficial news agency Cifra.

The announcement came moments after Franco's doctors reported they had punctured his stomach to reduce a build-up of fluid in his abdomen, and two weeks after the 82-year-old chief of state was stricken by influenza. Heart troubles and a barrage of complications followed.

Medical bulletins throughout the day said

Franco continued "gravely ill." There was no immediate statement by Juan Carlos. The 37-year-old prince's first official function will be to preside at a cabinet meeting today at his Zarzuela

Spain's long-silent opposition made clear it is preparing to oppose Juan Carlos from the outset. About a dozen opposition groups, believed to represent about 20 per cent of the Spanish people, reported they were planning a joint declaration opposing any restoration of the Spanish monarchy unless it is approved by a national referendum.

Arias conferred with the prince for more than an hour Thursday and reportedly told him the power transfer was necessary because Spain had already been without an effective head of state for two weeks, since Franco's heart first began to give out.

Sources close to Juan Carlos said that last week he had declined to take power on a temporary basis because he did not want to appear to be a puppet. They said he changed is mind Wednesday after being informed privately that Franco could not recover.

Franco has been training Juan Carlos since childhood and six years ago he formally named the prince to succeed him on the event of his death, retirement or incapacity to rule.

Postal rate increase protested

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Eleven states have filed suit to block the Postal Service from increasing the cost of a first class stamp to 13 cents.

The suit filed Wednesday said the temporary rate increase scheduled for Dec. 28 would be "inflationary, unwarranted, discriminatory and unlawful under the Postal Reorganization Act." The legal action also seeks to prevent the planned increase from seven cents to 10 cents for post cards.

Rival resolutions endorsed

NEW YORK (AP) - A United Nations committee endorsed and sent to the assembly two rival resolutions on the future of U.S. troops in South Korea.

First, the committe adopted a U.S. resolution urging resumption of negotiations between North and South Korea and reaffirming that the United Nations has a "continuting responsibility" on the Korean peninsula.

Then the committee voted for a rival resolution calling for immediate dissolution of the U N command and withdrawal of "all foreign forces" from South Korea and seeking to freeze the South Korean government out of negotiations on the peninsula's future.

Oldest human fossils found

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Nine Americans captured by Communist forces in South Vietnam last spring arrived in Bangkok Thursday along with two Canadians, two Filipinos and an Australian.

The 14 civilians were flown from Hanoi to Vientiane, the capital of Laos, and then on to Bangkok in a Laotian plane chartered by the United Nations. UN officials said all were "fit and well" though one of the Americans complained of "psychological hardship" during a period of solitary confinement.

Kidnapers expected to give up

(WIRE SERVICES) - The Irish government has firmly ruled out force to rescue Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema.

The government stuck to its belief that the two Irish Republican Army (IRA) kidnapers, besieged for 10 days in the upstairs bedroom of a two-story apartment house, would eventually realize the futility of their action and surrender. In Belfast, one man was killed and 15 other persons wounded in shootings as gunmen of the IRA's Provisional wing attacked members of the rival Official branch. Meanwhile, in Lurgan, 18 miles southwest of Belfast, a 21-year-old Roman Catholic man was killed by a shot in the head by gunmen. The two deaths Wednesday brought the total killed in more than six years of communal warfare to at least 1,347.

Carey calls for NYC protest

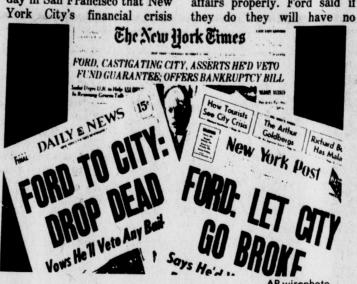

NEW YORK (AP) - Gov. Hugh Carey called on New Yorkers Thursday "to take to the streets . . . to sound off support for the city" in demonstrations aimed at getting Congress to approve emergency legislation to avoid a financial default by the city.

Carey's appeal came as the Senate Banking Committee in Washington approved a bill with $4 billion in loan guarantees for the city and sent it on to an uncertain fate on the Senate floor and a threatened veto by President Ford.

The bill would place the city on a strict fiscal regime to balance its budget and prevent a default after Dec. 1, when money from a state-designed $2.3 billion rescue package runs out. The city will need an estimated $4.2 billion for expenses and debt retirement

Prince faces opposition

With the prince ready to assume control, either by the death of 82-year-old strongman Gen. Francisco Franco or the general's physical incapacity to continue, opposition groups said Thursday they are planning a joint declaration opposing re-establishment of the Spanish monarchy.

HEW discloses doctors earned Medicaid funds

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) disclosed Thursday that 207 doctors in 16 states, including Michigan, and the District of Columbia each earned more than $100,000 in public funds for treating poor Medicaid patients last year.

The highest amount paid was $451,156 to an unidentified physician in New York state.

The 207 physicians earned a total of $29.8 million in federal, state and local Medicaid funds.

mates 20 per cent of Spain's potential voters, can agree, the declaration also will oppose the prince's father, Don Juan de Borbon y Battenberg, longtime Spanish pretender to the throne living in self-imposed exile in Portugal.

Juan Carlos' image has been seriously damaged among the opposition by his longtime association with Franco, who personally picked him as his successor. More recently his standing was further eroded when he appeared side by side with Franco at a rally soon after the government executed five young terrorists convicted of killing policemen.

Normally deeply divided, the opposition is trying to unite, at least long enough to oppose the prince and his father, under an umbrella of two competing political fronts that have sprung up since Franco became ill and nearly died 15 months ago. Now Franco once more is seriously ill.

The two fronts are the Platform of Democratic Concordance, that includes the Socialist Worker's party, and the Democratic Junta of Spain, dominated by the Spanish Communist party, but including moderate business executives, liberals and conservative Socialists.

Both fronts claim younger military officers among their members.

The Communists are believed to be Spain's biggest party, clandestine or otherwise. Estimates of militants range from 20,000 to 70,000 members. The party has tested grassroots support in the underground 'workers' commissions," the illegal trade uions that came up with an estimated 250,000 votes in the last government-controlled union elections.

Santiago Carrillo, exiled in Paris, is the party's leader. But labor organizer Marcelino Camacho, serving a long prison term in Madrid for "illegal association" by being one of the workers' commission executives, has the credentials for the future, his followers say.

The Socialist Workers party claims 6,000 militants and says it has support in the Spanish middle class and in the Socialist parties of Western Europe. Its leader, Felipe Gonzalez, has just returned from European cities campaigning for money and support. Spanish authorities took away his passport.

Though its numbers are small, the influence of the Christian Democratic party is wide. Led by Joaquin Ruiz Jimenez, a leading defense lawyer and former education minister in the Franco regime, its estimated 500 members are intellectuals, executives and professional men. Other parties in the two fronts include the Basque Nationalist party, the Communist Movement of Spain, the Organization of Revolutionary Workers, the Carlist party, the General Union of Workers, the Socialist Movement of Catalonia, the Regrouped Movement of Democrats and Social-

State News Staff Writer To the student organizers of a ach-in scheduled for Sunday rough Tuesday, the teach-in repre-nts a partial awakening of what think is a politically asleep

But to at least one U.S. Congresmal member, the teach-in threatens landerous attack on the country's lligence agencies.'

The teach-in, "The Bicentennial emma: Who's in Control," is a asciousness raising event designed bring to the MSU community a rious lecture series on topics rang-g from police repression to mind atrol to who killed the Kennedy

The teach-in is running in conjuncon with a larger event at U-M, here the idea for the teach-in

It is this event that Rep. Larry cDonald, D-Ga., lambasted in the ct. 6 Congressional Record.

"On Nov. 2 to 4, a gathering of the adership of the anti-security organitions is scheduled to be held at M. Anti-security advocates are doubling their efforts to cripple the fense capability of the armed forces nd to blind and deafen the nation rough unremitting, slanderous atcks on the intelligence agencies," he

Rick Anderson, organizer of the SU teach-in, said the event is an we symbol for a lot of things people not know about.

It goes into corporate and multitional companies to Rockefeller verything is so connected it's almost conceivable," he said.

What the two teach-ins want to do build awareness of varied points of lew concerning current issues that ould possibly affect the way we live the United States.

Maybe teach-in speaker Mark Lane, Lee Harvey Oswald's attorney, will say that the Warren Commission report on the assassination of JFK is a whitewash and the case should be reopened. And maybe David DuBois will come down on police repression in Oakland County, Calif.

But teach-in organizers feel it is their right to say what they want to. If congressmen like McDonald got his wish to stomp out teach-ins like the two scheduled for Sunday through Tuesday, what kind of security would that give freedom of speech

Anderson has two worries that can also give freedom of speech a shiver of insecurity. Lack of interest and lack of money. Without those, there would be no teach-in.

Ads in the State News, fliers and pamphlets are being distributed by the 30 students working on the teach-in. At last year's spring term symposium, 4,000 students showed up. The organizers hope for as good a turn out this year.

As for money, the Depts. of History and Sociology, University College, College of Social Science, Natural Science and ATL have donated amounts of $50 and $100 to help the teach-in organizers meet expenses.

Lane, who usually charges $1500 a speech, is coming for only $200. Each of the other speakers, including former S.D.S. national president Carl Ogelsby and author Donald Freed, are also speaking for just $200 when they usually make much more.

For a cost of $1.50, MSU students can hear all eight speeches. (The speech schedule is in Tuesday's State News.) No one has to agree with any of them, some will probably nod in agreement to all of them and some will try to shout them down. But no matter what they say, they should be allowed to say it, the organizers say.

University doubles transcript price

It appears the price of an official University transcript has gone the route of the good five-cent cigar and the 10 cent Baby Ruth candy bar.

Yes, that old demon inflation has struck again, this time in the form of a 100 per cent increase in the cost of an academic record from the Admissions Office.

Ira Polley, asst. provost for admissions and records, said that increased operating costs have made it necessary to raise the cost of a transcript from $1 to $2 effective Nov. 1. This is the first fee increase for transcripts in the last 40 years, he said. Every graduating student receives a copy of their transcript free with their diploma, Polley said. But that transcript will not be of much use, since transcripts are only considered official if sent directly from the University. Copies usually are not accepted by colleges.

A little over 76,000 students apply for their transcripts each year, Virginia Angell, asst. registrar, said. Colleges require that a copy of the students' transcripts accompany every application for admission. Many students apply to more than one college when transferring or trying for graduate school, so some students will really be feeling the financial pinch this June.

Karen Hainer, 374 Mayo Hall, was outraged that the University was raising the price, because they have a monopoly on the market.

"I think that's just terrible," she said.

MSU-PEC's work study pact ceased

By CAROLE LEIGH HUTTON State News Staff Writer

The East Lansing Peace Educational Center (PEC), an organization designed "to make people aware of the problems of the world," has encountered new complications stemming from the city council's questioning of its nonprofit, nonpolitical status.

A work-study subsidization contract between MSU and the PEC that was signed Sept. 10 was terminated by the University Oct. 27.

There are two students with work-study eligibility employed by the PEC. Under the contract the PEC would pay the students and then receive an 80 per cent reimbursement from the University. The funds that provide for the reimbursement are specially granted to the niveristy and specially designated for k-study by the Federal

At this time both students are still employed by the PEC, but the organization is paying their paychecks in full.

Because of a termination clause existing in the contract, PEC part time director Bud Day said the group is not questioning the right of the University to do so. However, Day and the PEC do object to the way in which the termination came about.

On Sept. 29 the office of Ronald Roderick, associate director of financial aids, requested financial information in addition to what had been provided by the PEC prior to the formation of the contract.

After the PEC submitted this information to the University Roderick's office called (continued on page 13)

"The price of paper can't be that high. How can it cost $2 when all they do is run it through the computer?

Another student thought MSU should provide transcripts to other schools free.

"I personally find it offensive that they charge anything at all," Nina Buraconak, 213 Abbott Hall, said. "Postage is one thing, but it should be free. We pay enough in the way of tuition and fees without having to pay money to transfer out of here."

Jim McComb, 162 Gunson St., blamed the increased price on a lack of lobbying for more state appropriations on the part of MSU administrators.

"It's definitely too much of a price increase," he said. "The administration is not serving the students any longer. This is a result of poor lobbying and the economic situation. MSU should be doing more downtown to prevent cutbacks here."

THOUSANDS APPLY TO COMPUTER

Dating applications roll in

By CASSANDRA SPRATLING State News Staff Writer

At a school like MSU, where the social life of most students is just one mad whirl, a computer dating service could not possibly be successful - right? Wrong.

About 15,000 applications for the dating service being sponsored by ASMSU were distributed all over this campus on Oct. 20. By the next day, all 15,000 were gone.

Ken Rosenbaum, ASMSU asst. comptroller who is in charge of the dating service, said 25,000 more applications arrived Wednesday night and they are going quickly.

Students steadily streamed in and out of Rosenbaum's office Thursday and Friday requesting applications or turning them in. "The response has just been great," Rosenbaum said. "Already we have thousands of applications returned and the deadline is not until midnight Friday.

One might be tempted to think, judging from the receptiveness of students to the computer dating service, that the social life of students at MSU is not so great after all.

Not so, according to the students questioned by the State News. Students are either motivated to sign up for the dating program by their curiosity or just for fun.

ASMSU has invested $1,870 in the project and Rosenbaum is convinced from the response that if they do not make a profit from the project they will at least break even.

It cost students $3.50 to sign up for a date or $2.75 for students within a group of six or more.

As the deadline for applications for the ASMSU computer dating program approaches, some questions about the service are being raised by blacks.

The main question being asked is whether the questions on the applications are biased towards whites and the ASMSU people in charge of the program deny that they are.

Ken Rosenbaum, ASMSU asst. comptroller, expects to have 100 per cent minority turnout from the campus and says the service is for all students.

Rosenbaum also said that the application questions were already made up and that ASMSU did not have the time to make up new ones because it would have thrown them off schedule.

Trustees talk of boring, clean life

At Friday's board of trustees meeting, former Provost John Cantlon was describing a study being conducted by the University of Tennessee on 1,200 former MSU students, matching athletes with nonathletes.

Cantlon said that the researchers found that "it pays to live well, have no bad habits and be active."

"They may not actually live longer," Trustee Don Steven, D-Bloomfield Hills. quipped. "But it will sure seem like it."

Proposed bills may affect landlord-tenant relationship

By MIKE ARNETT State News Staff Writer

The House Urban Affairs committee heard three hours of testimony Thursday a group of bills affecting landlord-tenant relations and then delayed action on the bills for two weeks. The three bills, sponsored by Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, would limit landlord entry into rental units, regulate evictions and require payment of interest on security deposits. Individuals and representatives of landlord and tenant groups testified on the bills.

House Bill 4959 would require that landlords pay five per cent annual interest on security deposits. That would be $12.50 on a $250 security deposit. Landlords argued that the bill would just add paperwork and would take away money which would have to be made up through increased rents. "We use the interest on security deposits to defray the cost of operating," said Irvin Yackness of Michigan Apartment 'Assn. "The interest earned by renters would just be taken away in the form of increased

Put a lid on high housing cost: cast your ballot for Proposal B

The student residents of East stered more by $12,000 in prop-Lansing have lived without rent control for year after agonizing year, paying $80 and $90 a month for slumlike living conditions. Waiting for the market to open up; waiting for promises of more and better housing to materialize.

Yet the only discernible difference between the East Lansing housing market today and 30 years ago is higher rental prices.

The only option left, after years of a seller's market, is a lid. A cap that cannot be unscrewed by irresponsible or avaricious landlords. Thanks to the Human hights Party petitioning earlier this year, the students and all East Lansing voters will have a chance to put on that lid Nov. 4. Voters must tell the city of East Lansing it is time to step in to protect the interests of half of their tax-paying citizens from the exorbitant housing costs.

Those not burdened with the exorbitant rents will close their eyes and pretend that a free market in East Lansing will somehow correct the situation, even though it has failed dismally thus far.

Others acknowledge the emergency, but say, "Something must be done, but not rent control."

Students and other low-income tenants will welcome the "something else" as long-term solutions, but, faced with outrageously high rents, must ask, "Why not 'something else' and rent control, too?"

Some persons have charged that Proposal B, establishing rent control in East Lansing, will produce bad effects for both tenants and landlords. Their arguments, bolaganda hype than by reasoned analysis, prove to be exaggerated or correctable.

The most common allegation is that the quantity of housing in East Lansing will decline under rent control. A fair observer must grant that there will probably be some decline-but not very much. The houses and apartments of East Lansing are not going anywhere and the likelihood of their being converted to other uses in large numbers is slight.

Moreover, the proposal would permit exemptions from control for new housing in some circumstances.

Some charge that landlords will cease maintaining their property. While this, also, has a grain of truth, anyone looking at student housing must come to the conclusion that not much maintenance is being done now, anyway.

Other persons, though convinced that rent control, in principle, is needed in East Lansing,

It should be realized, however, that the Proposal can be amended at a future date to make it workable. Indeed, it will then be in the interests of everyone-tenants, landlords and politiciansto improve the proposal once it is passed.

Admittedly, the problems with the proposal are real. Its lack of a termination date would result in severe problems later as conditions change. Its $8,500-per-year board members would almost inevitably be part-time, unqualified or even corrupt. The proposed staff appears inadequate. Finally, the consumer price index may not be the best index to tie the system

In spite of the problems, Proposal B offers student tenants the best possible alternative to the callously overpriced sellers' market in housing. All other plans are subject to the whims of future city councils-only this would be insured by the people.

A "Yes" vote is the best favor attack the specifics of Proposal B. you will do yourself all year.

Alphabetically, A comes before B, but leave it up to public opinion to switch things around. Proposal A, which seeks permission to allow the city to borrow $1,120,000 in funds for a new fire station, has fallen in the shadow of rentcontrol, yet it has stirred some surprising controversy.

Outspoken opponents of a proposal to build a new fire station planned to be located north of Saginaw Street on Abbott Road, especially a small group which calls itself SKEPTIC, maintain that the city is making a mistake. They say such a station would be situated dangerously far from the flammable "student ghetto" area piece of real estate from East Lansing land-broker Albert White when they acquired a fire station site covered with muck-loose soil with the consistency of coffee grounds.

But fire station opponents seem to ignore future fire protection needs. The current fire station was built in 1924 and is simply unable to house modern equipment. To remodel the structure would be impossible because the entire second floor of city hall would have to be altered merely to house a special fire truck.

Accessibility to some parts of the student ghetto may acutally be enhanced because equipment will which lines Grand River Avenue. not be pulling out on the eternally municipal expansion, the State Moreover, they argue that the city congested Abbott Road close to News encourages an affirmative bought an over-priced, inferior Grand River Avenue. vote on Proposal A.

City officials also explained that they purchased the precise prop-erty they wanted. The city is not stupid—they carefully surveyed and tested the land and knew what they were getting for their money. Experience teaches that it is not impossible to build on muckcovered land.

It would be grievously shortsighted to deny city government the right to expand its facilities to better serve the people if circum stances dictate. In the case of the proposed fire station, the facts clearly dictate building a fire station north of Saginaw Street.

Once again your student newspaper has seen fit to "campaign" for their three favorite candidates. As has become the custom in recent city council elections, the State News chooses their finalists just as the race is beginning, then supports them "come hell or high water" right through election day. It could be seriously questioned whether the State News is really the "voice of the students" or simply a mouthpiece for their own candidates. Their news stories are spiced with the label "liberal" for the "good guys" and "conservative" for the "bad guys" even when the candidates are taking identical stands. It is especially interesting to note that the State News has decided that three white male candidates, all working outside of the MSU community, can best represent you, ignoring the fact that one of the other candidates is an MSU professor of communications who has daily contact with students, faculty and administrators.

While we do not in any way intend to attack the three State News favorites, who may be competent men, we do want you to know that there is another choice - just as competent and just as liberal.

So if you're going to vote Tuesday, vote for your candidate, not the candidate of the State News.

Resents landlord ad campaign

The recent flurry of political writing on the State News pages has reinforced, in me, the validity of a decision I made half a year ago. At that time I decided not to participate in the political process. This was prompted by the realization that my own views were consistently far enough from the norm as to make them virtually irrelevant. The problems in our political system which alienate the likes of me are inherent. One of these is the simple fact that money can buy public opinion.

History has proven popular opinion to be easily manipulated, often to its own detriment. This point can best be illustrated by the recent "Proposal B" controversy. In one week of the State News I have been unable to find a favorable comment toward this proposal. I've read two articles concerning its unconstitutionality, five interviews, opposing it to some extent and no less than three advertisements telling me "this 'B' is a bummer." Predictably, this is financed by prominent landlords with $12,000.

The veiled threat is that proposal "B" will make land-owning so unprofitable, that landlords will sell out, leaving us poor renters huddling from the cold in the streets. I suspect the effect would be no more drastic than the landlords grumbling acceptance of a few dollars less profit.

The choice appears simple for the renter. But enough money can cloud any issue. Cheap advertising tricks, obscure logic (five minus five is still zero), seem capable of swaying the masses. In such a situation, all that counts is who's got the money to spend on advertisements. The politicians sense this, and consequently, five out of six oppose the amendment, giving a further deceptive appearance of legitimacy to the landlords' arguments. There may, in fact be real arguments as to how the proposal hurts renters, but they're unnecessary when all that counts is a good ad campaign.

I've been called too cynical in my views of politics. I only hope I don't reach those depths of cynicism the ad man must have felt who wrote "People aren't stupid," in the same ad that insults our intelligence with another well financed lie.

135 Collingwood #23 The State News has attempted to be fair and balanced in its presentation of the rent control issue, although we editorially support it. Except for advertisements purchased by Citizens for Better Housing, the content of the paper has in no way been affected by landlord groups. - Ed.

Praises reviewer

After seeing Darryl Grant get "axed" in Wednesday's State News for his review of "The Fantastiks," I felt compelled to offer an encouraging word. I thought his review was one of the most entertaining, uninhibited and honest evaluations I had read in ages. He wrote his own reaction, with total disregard for the feelings of the players or of the audience.

On a college campus where the reviewer probably knows many of the theater people he writes about, it must be all too easy to begin taking off your shoes if you feel you must step on some toes. Darryl jumped heavily with his spikes sharpened. The women who wrote the letter from Van Hoosen Hall were understandably offended. My only hope is that Darryl is thick-skinned enough so that such letters don't cause him to soften his style or to compromise his honest feelings when he writes his reviews.

There's nothing wrong with offending people, Darryl. Keep up the good work.

By GORDON L. THOMAS Candidate, East Lansing City Council

Although the endorsements of the State News for East Lansing City Council - in light of the "nonendorsements" for the primary - were completely predictable, I would like to respond to Wednesday's editorial.

I have never before been put down by the label of "pessimist." I think it is, indeed, a red herring. Certainly, I have indicated that some problems are difficult to solve but never that a council should not try. I believe I am a realist.

It is easy to say that you will get a productive meeting of the Council and the

that you will get 300 to 600 new rental units for students. Griffiths has had four years to accomplish this but all that has happened is that he has voted to purchase some rental houses so that the city has become landlord. I am not afraid to face up to the realities of city problems - and yet I think I am as positive as any other candidate. I believe married housing? Why is this Board of Trustees. Griffiths has been trying experience ignored and a candidate's memto do this for four years. It is easy to say bership on the traffic commission cited?

Gun Stamps idea would fight crime

Johnathan Spear and Michael Petit have brought to my attention a statement from Harlon B. Carter of the National Rifle Assn. in defense of the "Saturday night special"

Carter told a House judiciary subcommittee on crime, "It makes no sense to me why possession of a finely make $200 handgun owned by a decent law-abiding man of means should be legal, but ownership of a $40 handgun (Saturday night special) by an equally law-abiding resident of the inner city, who can't afford anything better to protect his family and home, should be a felony."

It is a very interesting point and Spear and Petit have a solution to the problem.

The federal government should institute immediately a gun stamp program for the poor. The program would work as follows: A family of four making less than $6,000 a year would apply for gun stamps at the local produce is his income tax return, and if he qualifies as a "needy case" he would be given the equivalent of $200 in gun stamps which he could spend at any gun store for weapons and ammunition. The gun store would be reimbursed by the government for the stamps at 100 cents on the dollar.

Some people might argue that the poor would take advantage of the program and use the stamps to buy cheap guns and pocket the rest of the money. But while there may be some abuses of the gun stamp program it would still be the best and cheapest way of seeing that no American citizen, no matter what his financial status, would be deprived of his right to bear arms.

It is hard to believe that in a country as rich as ours there are perhaps as many as 50 million people who go to bed every night without a gun under their pillows. Many of the poor are to blame for this condition. They would rather buy food with their money than guns. But a majority are not All the head of the family would have to responsible for their plight. them in the belief that anyone who really answer is yes. For one thing it will be a big wants a gun should pull himself up by his bootstraps and earn one. But in an urban society during a period of cruel inflation it's of jobs for people. It will also encourage not as easy to acquire a decent gun as it used to be.

Gun stamps are the obvious solution to helping people who can't help themselves. At first it would be considered demeaning to some to accept gun handouts from the government. But as time went on I believe that poor people would accept gun stamps in the same way they accept food stampsas a temporary way of providing their families with the basic necessities of life. They would no longer feel themselves inferior to the decent law-abiding man of means who can afford a $200 weapon. They today. will have the opportunity, that they have

A subsidized gun program in this country will give manufacturers an incentive to speed up production, and will guarantee them a profit in lean years when weapon sales are down.

So not only the poor but everybody will benefit from gun stamps.

No country can boast it has done all for its people until it arms every man, woman and child with a weapon. So if you really care for the plight of the poor, as Carter of the NRA does, write to your congressman

Why have fees per student as a per cent of the University General Fund budget fallen from 32% to 27% over the last five years? You only need to look at the funding for the medical schools to find that answer. If, for example, the average student pays 27 per voted on by the board of trustees. However, cent of his/her education, the medical student pays 1 per cent of that. For above stated "justifications." Is justifying example, the cost per student per year in osteopathic medicine runs well over $15,000 on a tuition of $1,350 and this reduces the percent of the University General Fund budget from fees. How can we as graduate students respond to, and influence a future rise in fees? The Graduate Rights and Responsibilities document (GR&R) states: "Graduate Students shall participate in academic governance at the department, college and University levels." Therefore, assuming that budget decisions are part of Academic Governance, we as graduate students should participate in budget-making decisions. Ourlian seems to imply that the State has taken a position on the issue to what the position of a student should be. How he came to this unknown. Is it written here that students must, in all cases, issues that affect them? I would ope not. Mr. Ourlian attacks the State News position as being a "ridiculous, little, logical, game," that the editorial "shrouded itself in a grand pretense of logic and sound argument." He gives the impression that he considers the term "logical," to be a pejorative one. Nevertheless he makes his own attempt at logic by stating that the State News article "logically leads directly to the advocacy of food stamp abolition." The existence of a program for the needy historical reality. Up to now it has not lead to abolition. In fact it would seem that the surest way to achieve the abolition of the program would be to expand it to the point where it no longer serves as an aid to the needy but becomes, in the minds of those paying for the program, a rip-off of tax

Mr. Ourlian informs us that the hunger of the applicant should be the determining factor in deciding whether benefits would be given. Extenuating circumstances which contribute to this hunger, as in the case of a student who chooses to go to school rather than work, should not be considered. Perhaps this kind of thinking will catch on. I can hardly wait until banks start giving out money to those who lack it.

Really, isn't this whole thing going a bit too far? The example given us regarding the trials and tribulations of Edda Example was truly heart rending. No doubt this is as Mr. Ourlian intended. That it proves anything about the issue of food stamps for students seems doubtful however. Perhaps the intention was only to create in the mind of the reader a sympathetic reaction toward the problems encountered by the unfortunate. This makes it easy for Mr. Ourlian to place himself on the side of charity and goodness: leaving those who disagree to be written off as hard-hearted individuals who have no sympathy for genuine human suffering. Mr. Ourlian tells us that he was indirectly embarrassed by the State News editorial. Whether he knows it or not, his embarrassment has not been diminished by his reply. Wayne Harbaugh is a senior curre

Finally, Wagner becomes a Frankensteinian Hitler and leads "The Master Race" in front of singing Aryan children. Swastikas, needless to say, are in abundance.

To further his associations with the rock world, and perhaps to further realize his allegory, Russell has cast Ringo Starr as the Pope and Rick Wakeman as Thor, dressed of course, in the appropriate Marvel Comics superhero garb.

It is in his casting that Russell has clearly laid down his intentions. Certainly, Sara Kestelman, Paul Nicholas and newcomer Fiona Lewis are respectable actors and actres-

But the inclusion of Wakeman and Starr - and even Daltrey, for that matter, who is surprisingly decent but still unconvincing - serve to enhance the entire comic-book aura surrounding the film.

"Lisztomania," more than any other Russell film, has been made solely for the purposes of entertainment. It is, in other words, no big thing. Much more than "Tommy," this is a true "pop" film and, as such, it is very much more forgettable than Russell's other work. As a film, "Lisztomania" is always fun, and it is purely on the humorous level that it works best.

DOWNTOWN EAST LANSING

326 South Washington 317 East Grand River Ave. MARTY SOMMERNESS

Oh, so very, very unclean

I am a leper. My shoes squeak.

All God's chillun got shoes, but my soles ain't got no soul. The consumer technology that produced my one-piece, vibramsoled waffle-stompers has been rendered inoperative by an obscure law of physics: my soles squeak.

In the land of plenty, where Stride-Rites, Adidas, Converse All-Stars and Florsheims abound, I am plagued with the pox of squeaky soles.

I am a pariah for podiatrists: cruel fate has dealt me a swift kick below the belt, namely to my achilles tendon.

Whenever I enter the hallowed halls of the library, my squeaky shoes broadcast a warning to the silent scholars:

"Unclean! Unclean! Excuse me of my limping, idiot-faced ignorance, but the great shoemaker in the sky has cursed me with this squeaky blight. Pity me for being forced to break the quiet of your studious haunts. Have mercy on me, scholarly sahibs. Woe is me. Unclean! Unclean!"

My life has been charted by the fleet-footed Mercury-I am doomed to squander my youth in search for the holy grail: a size 131/4 EEEE Dr. Scholl's footpad.

The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our shoes, but in our arches.

Wherever I go I cannot escape the tell-tale squeak of my caste. People stare daggers at me and turn their dogs loose at the very sight and/or sound of me. Some citizens spit at me, while others kick me with their hob-nailed boots. My credit cards have been revoked. Even the paranoids are after me-both of them. Unclean!

Imagine my extreme trepidation when I walk down a darkened motion picture theater aisle. My squeaking soles compete against the vocalizing of Mickey Mouse and the creaking of the newest porno queen's bedsprings. Unclean!

I cannot even hide my horrid stigma when I go to social gatherings. Imagine my bottomless shame when I dance to the noise of Bachman Turner Oversize whiles my soles squeak out a syncopated countermelody. After all, who would want to date a fellow whose shoes sound like emasculated sopranos?

Unclean!

Even sleep will not release me from the foot-fettering chains of my bondage. At night I am haunted by visions of whining Hush Puppies, flapping Red Wings and dancing shoe horns. And recently, I have had nightmares in which my feet turn into giant squeegees. Unclean!

Whenever I hear "Foot-Stompin' Music" I fall unconscious to the floor, into a squirming mass of flesh, quivering from a severe attack of delirium tremens. Unclean!

There is no respite from the horrors of shoe-size stratified society. How do you think Squeaky Fromme got her name? Need it be guessed? Oh! pitious condition!

My psychiatrist tells me that my squeaky soles are a figment of my imagination, merely a manifestation of my Oedipal foot fetish and a perversion of a castration complex into an amputation complex. Oh, so very unclean!

But I know better. I am cursed with a terminal case of athlete's foot. Not even high concentrations of Desenex and Absorbine Junior can save me now. Be wary of wafflestompers or you too will pay the price. Unclean! Goddammit, un-

It is the celebration of the first mass. A young monk prepares in his cell. Handling the host for the first time, this most devout of all monks finds that the words stick inexplicably in his throat.

Colorful dancers perform Saturday

Esplendor Azteca, a group of seven dancers performing authentic Aztec dances, will perform at 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday in room 109 Anthony Hall. Donations will be appreciated. The troupe of dancers, who will appear in colorful Aztec costumes, are making their first tour of the U.S. They are making Michigan their last state-wide tour before returning to Mexico.

Their dances deal mainly with ancient ceremonial performances dealing with the various Aztec gods. Not only does the group entertain audiences with the dances but also instructs them in the significance of each dance in relation with the legend behind it.

The American Fim Theatre production of John Osborne's "Luther" traces Martin Luther from his novitiate through the nailing up of his 95 Theses and the reaction to his act of revolution.

Stacy Keach as Martin Luther is the film's chief asset. Keach, his foray into the mediocrity of television notwithstanding, is contemporary film's greatest hope for an actor of dramatic stature. He stands now with all the technique and potential that a young Richard Burton once displayed before descending into the morass of commercial schlock. Keach comes to film and television from the New York stage where he was acclaimed for his creation of the role of Buffalo Bill Cody in Arthur Kopit's "Indians," and was also the his spiritual revolt against the church, Keach's performance is strong in its impressive understatement.

In fact, this is an exceptionally well acted show. All of the supporting roles are done with a great deal of control. Unfortunately, the film has little to recommend it, beyond its unusually fine acting. As in all the AFT productions the cinematographer's hand has been kept to a minimum in order to approximate live theater as much as possible. In this case, some imaginative filming is just what was called for to complement and round out the work of the actors. "Luther" is a chronicle of the inner torments of the man. To express this on film, more is needed than an endless series of shots showing the actor against gray stone walls, as director Guy Green has

Couple's travels in Chile described to U.S. groups

By BRAD MARTISIUS State News Staff Writer

The message of American involvement in Chile came to East Lansing Thursday.

The messengers were Arthur and Natalie Warner, members of the American Friends Service Committee. They are traveling around the U.S., trying to get people to listen as they tell of what they saw in Chile. The Warners returned to the U.S. in August after spending more than two years in Chile with the Quaker organization.

"We're trying to make Americans aware of our involvement before the 1973 coup and of our support ever since the coup," Natalie Warner said. "We don't think the average American would support official policies if they knew how our tax dollars are being spent to support a repressive government."

She said the State Dept. and the executive branch of government now consider Chile a friendly country, so they now allow arms to be sold to Chile's military junta.

"The Chilean government received $195 million in aid from the United States last year," Mrs. Warner said. "They were supposed to receive no more than $25 million."

Arthur Warner said part of the problem in Chile is that outside aid, intended for the lower classes and the poor, is diverted through the hands of the military, with the result that none of it reaches the people who need it. He said that most Chileans are living on bread, lentils and water while harvests from the fertile soil there are being used to pay for the military's debts.

The Warners said that American money was responsible for the original series of strikes that made the military coup possible in September, 1973.

"Truck owners received $1 million to keep their trucks off the road," Warner said. "In a long, narrow country like Chile, that proved disastrous.

"We have a close friend who said she saw transactions between unknown men and truckowners," he said.

The Warners, who looked down the barrels of many guns Chile, said that Congressional investigations have shown that the CIA was involved there. Their experiences lead them to agree with the charges against the CIA.

The Warners also charged General Motors Corp. with

By JAMIE CONROY

State News Staff Writer It started as a challenge from John F. Kennedy as he stood on the steps of the University of Michigan Union and it stemmed from a near-fantasy idea that world peace comes from a one to one basis. Now, 14 years later, the Peace Corps is still a haven for people who want to help others, but it is now more important to be armed with a marketable skill than with idealism. Peace Corps-VISTA recruiters recently ended a week-long stay at the MSU Placement Services and will return in January 1976 to interview March and June graduates. "There are openings in forestry, agriculture, health and medical majors and areas like education, sociology and some liberal arts, said Kathy Healy, area communications manager for the corps.

Though liberal arts majors pioneered the program, graduates like library technicians and civil engineers are maintaining these first efforts, Healy said.

Healy said that student response has been good, but added that VISTA applications are backlogged. VISTA is a smaller program with 3500 volunteers in the United States and its territories while the Peace Corps has almost 7,000 volunteers overseas.

"There has been a prevalent feeling among the students to want to give something to less fortunate countries, but there is also the

"It is such a clean lake that production from a fish standpoint is going to be very high."

Visions of power boats sputtering gasoline send chills into the soul of any water purist and ardent fish catchers, but the DNR has already designated the lake to be used by non-motorized craft

"Due to the conflicts that arise between high-speed boating and fishing we are only going to allow canoes, rowboats and sailboats on the lake, or battery-powered engines with a maximum of three horsepower," Roethele said. He added that the lake will thus be kept free from the pollution of gas and oil.

It will also be kept silent so that cries of large birds can be heard from their customary distance, and a pheasant bursting from a clump of bushes will shatter the stillness like an explosion.

Other explosions can be heard echoing across the lake, too - the popping of gunfire.

"Pheasant and duck hunters can make maximum use of some portions of the park until conflicts arise with other uses of the land," Roethele said. He explained that different uses of the park would be restricted to separate areas. For example, snowmobilers would have their own trails this winter so that the rest of the park would not be subjected to the noise.

"We believe that total use of Sleepy Hollow will be concentrated on the beach and boat landing areas. We want to keep the wilderness feeling in the rest of the park by planning 'extensive' as opposed to 'intensive' use of the land. This is our way of describing a wide dispersal of the people over large areas."

Orie Scherschligt, DNR parks division chief, said that he expects about 7,200 visitors a day or about one million a year flocking to Sleepy Hollow and its Lake Ovid — which is about the size of Lake Lansing when the park is in full swing.

Solving the problem of handling large public demand for water-oriented recreational areas in Michigan's lakeless central region was the goal set in 1965 with the DNR's 50 State Lakes program. The size and characteristics of the planned lake were determined by close study of topographical maps that also charted

There is no easy way we can predict you'll have a dreamdate. But even if your matches don't have that "special" pazazz", the sharing of many interests, attitudes and values will open a channel for a rewarding friendship. THIS IS HOW IT WORKS First, answer the questions below as honestly as possible. Mail the form to us with your check or money order for $3.50 or $2.75 for those mailed in groups of six or more. The deadline for applications is Friday, October 31. Our computer will compare your responses with those of all others and report the closest matches. Along with each match's first name and phone number, you receive from the computer three separate scores of similar interests; attitudes and values; and appearances and background. You make the final decision on what's more important. You will receive between three and fifteen matches. If the computer can't find at least three we will refund your money. All information on your application will be held in strict confidence. Only your first name and telephone number will be released to others. The PEC has appealed the committee's decision to Eldon Nonnamaker, vice president of student affairs.

State News Reviewer "Naked Came The Stranger," the X-rated motion picture that was recently involved in a still unresolved legal controversy in suburban Detroit, is now being shown on the MSU campus.

"Stranger," which was seized more than once on orders of a county prosecuting attorney at the beginning of the film's engagement at the Studio North Theater in Ferndale, will be presented at a variety of locations at MSU this week by Beal films. Considering the lurid publicity that has surrounded this film in the Detroit area, one might suspect that it would turn out to be a low-budget, hastily produced stag film that offered little more than extended anatomy lessons in genital struc-

Happily, that is not the case with "Naked Came The Stranger." Far from being merely a graphic potboiler, "Stranger is a refreshingly well-made and even amusing movie. It is also very erotic. The film displays wit, well considered performances, good direction and a ribald, but by no means crude, sense of humor.

Indeed, one is left to wonder why this movie should be attacked and seized for alleged obscenity, Such legal persecution of artistic expression is disturbing. To ascribe the recent seizures of this film in the Detroit area only to overzealous philistinism would be charitable, to say the least.

many of the candidates - like Czarnecki and Owen - have tried to personally canvass most of the city. Gordon Thomas, though distributing his fliers both on and off campus, has been running a more low-key campaign, keeping expenditures down and running on his past record and name as a city councilman.

All candidates have taken advantage of the ASMSU spon-

"The average, run-of-the-mill student is not all that interested in rent control, much less the election," said John Kessler, campaign coordinator for Czarnecki.

Lawrence Holbrook, Griffiths' campaign treasurer, add-ed that he did not see rent control as much of a polarizing issue to get people out to vote.

However, William Sharp, campaign treasurer for Thomas, said, "If anything, rent control will bring the people out to vote though the campaign is lacking the enthusiasm it had in past years." In an unusual circumstance, an outside homeowner group has been campaigning for three of the candidates by placing

Nonathletes outlive athletes, study claims

State News Staff Writer An athletic, hard-muscled bully may be able to kick sand into the face of a 98-pound weakling, but he probably won't outlive him.

bert Olson, associate professor in health, physical eduction and recreation, and Wayne Van Hus, professor in the same school, shows that the straining, grunting and training that college athletes go through do not guarantee the athlete a longer lease on life. There is no significant difference between the longevity of athletes and nonathletes in the study. But there is considerable

The study, "Longevity and Morbidity of College Athletes

"We couldn't believe that," Olson said. "We feel that they probably didn't pick up the individual sports like tennis or hiking."

From the original 1,200 men in the study, about 850 remain, Olson said. If they are deceased, Olson tries to find the death certificates. Sometimes study members just cannot be Bessone said there is inexperience behind the blueline but saw a possible remedy to the situation. "We just may make a few changes back there. We had two freshmen teamed together so far this season, and lack of experience is their biggest fault. They're going to be good hockey players, they just need experience." Freshmen blueliners Jeff Barr, Doug Counter and Ron Heaslip are the defenders Bessone spoke about. While their play has been inconsistent in the defensive end, Bessone foresees a solution. "If we put some older players back with the freshmen, it should help."

The old-timers would include juniors Kelly Cahill, Pat Betterly and Jack Johnson, provided Johnson's eligibility status can be determined.

Olympic coach thinks 'medal'

While Munn Arena will be a sell-out crowd tonight for MSU's game against Notre Dame, a sparse crowd of only 2,687 attended the Spartan's clash with the U.S. Olympic team Wednesday night. But, the small mid-week crowd was treated to a display of precision offensive hockey of the Olympians. "Badger" Bob Johnson, Olympic hockey coach (who's on a year's leave from his coaching post at Wisconsin) said,"We work at being a good passing team. Our main competition in the Olympics will come from Russia, Finland, and other European teams who stress the passing game.' Michigan's only representative on the National team, Bob Dobek of Taylor emphasized Johnson's point, saying, "We toured Europe this summer and played some fine national teams there. These games gave us experience in the wider rink with emphasis on skating and passing.

"We've also played against some teams from the International League," Dobek continued, "and this exposed us to the physical aspect. And, by playing college teams we get a taste of skating." Prior to leaving East Lansing for a weekend series with Michigan, Johnson gave his views on the upcoming WCHA race and

"We must work more on our defense. But, if we can improve that facet I sincerely believe we have a chance for a medal. We'll surprise some people come February."

Johnson sees two favorites in the WCHA. respect for coach John MacInnes (Michigan Tech), but with his goalie (Jim Warden) and the Jensen brothers (Steve, left wing, and Paul, defense) playing for us in the Olympics, he's got to feel the loss. But remember, they won the National title last year. I see it as a two team race between Minnesota and Michigan.'

MSU meets Boilermakers

By PEGGY GOSSETT State News Sports Writer

Before an expected Dad's Day crowd of 55,000, the Spartans plan to rip the fire from under the Boilermakers in keeping with MSU's five game winning streak and an overall 16-12-1 edge over Purdue. A Spartan victory is also necessary for them to stay in the upper echelons of the Big Ten after last Saturday's second half crumple against Illinois for a 21-19 unexpected defeat, the only team Purdue has trounced this season. "Well, we can still end up with an 8-3 record," MSU head coach

Denny Stolz said after the Illinois battle bowing his head. Purdue's only win this season was a last minute squeeze by Illinois 26-24, as much of a surprise as Illinois' squeeze by MSU. Thus far the Boilermakers have bowed to Notre Dame and Miami of

The Lance High School graduate and three-time class C state mpion arrived at MSU four years ago and from his first season was a stalwart on the Spartan cross country team.

My freshman year was probably my best season," Teddy said.

MSU cross-country runner Fred Teddy will be competing in his last home meet when the Spartans ace Miami (Ohio) Saturday.

"That fall I was the No. 2 runner behind Randy Kilpatrick." "Being the only freshman on the squad, the veteran members went out of their way to help me," he continued. "And by the end of the season Randy and I were really close as runners. Teddy finished off his first fall at East Lansing placing 12th in the Big Ten and having one of his most memorable experiences in cross country when he ran in the NCCA championship meet. "Despite having a bad race it was still pretty exciting for me to run in the nationals," he said.

Though he never quite matched that '73 season, Teddy still has been one of coach Jim Gibbard's steadiest performers the last three

In his sophomore and junior seasons he ran as Gibbard's second or third man and placed 13th and 15th in the Big Ten meets. This year, despite having what he calls his poorest start, Teddy has been consistent again finishing fourth behind Herb Lindsay, Jeff Pullen, and Stan Mavis.

"I haven't had a good meet this fall," he said. "I'm not in peak shape, but my poor start has been mostly a mental thing." "I know I can do it though," he added. "And I hope to start picking up my times for the Big Ten Championships." Teddy may have begun last weekend however, when the Spartan harriers squeezed past previously unbeaten Eastern Michigan University 28-29. "If any of the final four EMU runners passed up Fred we would have lost the meet." Gibbard said. "He knew that and ran no doubt his best race of the season."

"That put a lot of pressure on me," Teddy said, "but in the end it was good knowing I had a chance to help the team out."

The senior finished the spine-tingling meet in sixth place with the time of 31.59.8, and gave MSU its slim victory. Now he faces the final dual meet of the season and his career this Saturday which will be important for more than just sentimental

"I ran well the last three miles of the EMU meet," Teddy said. "This weekend I'd like to put everything together and end my last race on a happy note."

When this meet, season and school year is finally over, Teddy will quietly leave MSU. "I'm going to miss it," he confessed. "It's just not the competition, but the coaches, running with my teammates, and even the workouts that I'll miss." And come next fall, for the first time in four years, Gibbard will surely miss Teddy.

Field hockey ends with Olivet tourney

The MSU women's field hockey team will wind up their fall season Saturday at Olivet in the State Tournament.

The Spartans ended their regular season play last weekend with an 8-0-1 record, with one of the key reasons for their success coming from their strong defensive play. The Spartans have allowed only one goal to their competitors in nine

Ohio, two nationally ranked teams which MSU brandished earlier in the season. Northwestern, Southern Cal., Wisconsin and Ohio State have also helped keep the Boilermakers at the bottom of the Big Ten, with the U-M match set for Nov. 8.

Much more than their record, however, the Boilermakers fear MSU's quarterback Charlie Baggett, who stands second in the Big Ten for total offense, and top rusher Levi Jackson. "State is a well-balanced team offensively and defensively," said

Purdue's head coach Alex Agase. "The big man in their offense is Baggett who can run and throw effectively. We all know about Levi Jackson. He's a very talented football player. Agase said tailback Rich Baes also threatens the Purdue defense, especially since his fine performance in the Illinois game. Adding to MSU's long string of injured ballplayers, linebacker Kim Rowekamp will remain out this game and the rest of the Purdue has also been hit with injuries though one of its top offensive men, tailback Scott Dierking, who strained an Achilles tendon before the OSU game, will return to the lineup.

Purdue's own fullback, Mike Pruitt, comes close to rivaling Jackson, Agase said, with 24 carries for 127 yards, picked up for a second place in the conference. Though Purdue lost to OSU, 35-6, Agase said he was still proud of "Pruitt played extremely well and our offensive line blocked extremely well...better than anyone has blocked OSU all year. Our

But Pittman would like nothing better than to see a few encouraging faces rooting the undefeated Spartan team to another win over Central Michigan at Forest Akers Golf Course beginning

"I wish we could get school buses to send people out to watch us run," Pittman said. "It gets pretty lonely out there. You don't ever get much support from crowds in cross-country. "The course is a nice, challenging one for the runners and great for the spectators. You can see the whole race from one certain vantage point."

The Chippawas will close out the Spartan's regular season with the hopes of at least improving over their lowly performance against MSU earlier this year, as the Spartans placed seven runners among the top 10 finishers with a 15-51 victory.

But the Spartans are not so concerned with the Chippawas Saturday as they are in looking ahead to the Nov. 29 trip to San Francisco for the AAU National Championships.

"Central has improved a lot since we last met them, but this race will help me determine the positions for the team in the nationals," Pittman said. "Everybody running today will also be running at San Francisco, along with some others.

MSU Rugby Club clashes with U-M in final home game of autumn season

Maintaining an incredible 81-20 record over the past four years, which includes an 11-7 mark on this fall, the team prepares for its annual encounter with U-M to be played here at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Rugby emerged at MSU in 1965 but failed to reach prominence until the spring of 1973. The sport itself is probably the most fast-paced and ordealing game that can be played. It holds a distinct likeness to American football except for one striking difference. Rugby players do not wear pads. It seems that insanity is also an integral part of the game. A game of rugby consists of two 40-minute halves with a two-minute rest period between. The object, like football, is to push the ball over your opponent's goal line. This can be done by either running with the ball, lateralling it, or kicking it. Forward passes are allowed.

For example, you can have a scrum or you can have a ruck, but you can't have both at the same time. A scrum follows a whistle. The forwards of both teams then bunch up against each other, the ball is thrown in the midst of this giant huddle and they try to heel the ball out of the pack to one of their players who then picks up the ball, runs, and is soon trampled by the other team. A ruck is the counting four points. The ball must be placed on the ground by the runner upon crossing the goal line for points. Hence, the name "touch down." If the opposing team carries the runner out of bounds or does not let him set the ball down, then the points do not count.

MSU is striving to become the first Big Ten team to win consecutive titles in the spring conference tournament.

"Our biggest competition is going to come from Iowa," says Droste. "Purdue could also be strong. But we are as tough as we've ever been."

This fall has not been an overly productive win season for the club, but they did finish third in the Michigan Tournament, which qualifies MSU for the Mid-American Tournament in the spring.

Saturday brings the club to their next-to-last match of the season. The Walter Steebes Trophy will be at stake as the Wolverines come to town. The trophy has been in MSU's possession over the past three Something for Everybody!

From Matinee Tea Time to Buffet dinners, Jacobson's East Room offers a wide variety of dining pleasures. Lunch at Jacobson's from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. is a welcome break in the day featuring such items as maurice salad. reuben sandwich, fried clams, cocktails, and always a special of the day such as crepes, casseroles or soup and sandwich. A new addition to the menu is the Jacobson's Burger, with tangy sauce and melted cheese. If you've missed lunch because of class or tests, the East Room matinee Tea Time menu is 2 - 5 p.m. Dinner at the East Room is a special occasion, open Thursday, Friday, and Saturday 5 - 8:30 p.m. There is a new dinner menu including Prime Rib of Beef Au Jus, a 10 oz. cut of finest age beef roasted to please the most discriminate palate. Or try Surf and Turf, Alaskan King Crab legs and 6 oz. Sirloin steak, broiled as you like it. All dinners include a tempting salad of your own making from the well stocked salad bar, baked potato, and fresh baked bread. For a special treat, the East Room buffet dinners include Roast beef and entree Thursday and Saturday nights, and seafood buffet on Fridays. Buffets are served until 8 p.m. and include all the trimmings.

For special occasion parties you can enjoy the privacy

Wind $500 Music System at our Halloween Party!

You're invited to a gala Halloween Party from 10:00 p.m. till midnite at the Tech Hifi in Ann Arbor and East Lansing.

If the costumes are as good this year as they were at last year's party, you're in for a real eyeful! Wear a costume yourself, and if it's judged the best you'll win a Tech Hifi music system valued at $500!

In addition to the Grand Prize, there'll be free refreshments, lots of good music, and low prices on great systems and components.

Non-scary prices all week long.

The party ends Friday at midnite, but the Sale goes on until 6:00 p.m. on Saturday at every Tech Hifi location. You can save substantially on complete music new, used and demonstrator components, at every Tech Hifi location.

The system and specials featured here are examples of the great buys that await you at Tech's Halloween Sale.
