U' College debate goes on

Council OKs proposal

By JIM SMITH
State News Staff Writer

The debate over the proposed dissolution of the University College has been forwarded to the arena of academic governance after approval by a Long-Range Planning Council committee recommendation at Tuesday's meeting.

The controversial proposal survived a vote by Roy T. Matthews, University College humanities professor and council chairperson, that it be defeated. The final vote was 15 to 5.

The specific document language was softened in an amendment proposed by Raymond D. ... chairperson of resource development, which was accepted by subcommittee

B, the author of the proposal.

The Vlasin wording emphasized the enhancement of a strong general education program while suggesting the dissolution of University College as one possible structural change.

The quartering of University College faculty among degree-granting colleges has sparked the hottest debates in discussions of the issue.

Proposal supporters said the integration

posure to specialist faculty the poll showed a 136-14 sentiment against the proposal, Matthews said.

Many council members expressed support of a University-wide discussion of general education principles and delivery without necessarily supporting other aspects of the proposal.

As approved, the document will be sent to Academic Council's committee on academic policy for discussion. At the same time the provost will be preparing staff reports dealing with the ramifications of University College dissolution.

In other actions the Long-Range Planning Council:

- Approved a recommendation which would define an all-University space and facilities policy.
- Recommended an assistant provost be assigned as coordinator over shared departments and units.

In a previous council meeting, members approved three other subcommittee reports and recommendations.

A proposed formalized lifelong education program was forwarded to Academic Council for consideration.

Another recommendation to improve communication and information about graduate programs was also approved.

A document which attempted to set general guidelines for defining colleges ran into the same objections of vagueness that have surfaced each time the document has been considered by the council.

Though finally approved, the definition of colleges proposal received the poorest reception of the council so far. Final vote on the report was 13 to 6.

Filipino nurses cleared

By CHRIS MEAD

TROIT (UPI) — The government yesterday dropped all charges against two nurses convicted of poisoning patients but later granted a new trial by a federal judge who said they were victims of circumstantial evidence.

A 20-page court memorandum, U.S. Judge James Robinson said there was "no chance a second trial would result in a guilty verdict against Filipina nurses, 31, and Leonora Perez, 33.

"After giving careful consideration to the many important factors involved," Robinson said, "the United States Attorney has decided that he should seek a dismissal of the case rather than proceed with a new trial."

The nurses were convicted by a federal jury on July 13, 1977, on five counts of nonfatal poisoning and one count of conspiracy stemming from a series of breathing failures among patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor, Mich., during the summer of 1975.

Government prosecutors attempted to prove that the nurses injected Pavulon, a powerful muscle relaxant drug, into patients' intravenous tubes.

In all, more than 50 breathing failures occurred during July and August 1975 — a dozen of them fatal.

U.S. District Judge Philip Pratt, who presided over the three-month trial, set aside the guilty verdicts on Dec. 19, 1977, citing "overwhelming prejudice to the defendants arising from the government's persistent misconduct" in pursuing its two-year investigation.

The nurses, along with their families, friends and attorneys, appeared at a news conference in Ann Arbor to express their relief at the government's decision.

"Our faith in the American justice system has been restored," said Perez. But her co-defendant, Narciso, added, "We should not have been tried in the first place."

The women said they planned to take long vacations and wanted primarily to forget the ordeal that began nearly two years ago with their arrests by FBI agents.

"This is a trauma for us," said Narciso. "Everything was very hard to take."

Thomas C. O'Brien, a defense attorney, praised Robinson for "a very thoughtful opinion. He brought to this decision a fair amount of intelligence and wisdom."

Asked to comment on the racial aspect of the case, O'Brien said:

"It may have been accidental or coincidental that the people who were selected (the nurses) may not have been in a position to defend themselves the way American citizens would have. They didn't know our way. They didn't know what their rights were."

"They were government employees; they were encouraged to cooperate with the

Former Teamsters sued by Labor Dept.

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and 18 other officials of the union's troubled Central States pension Fund were sued Wednesday in a Labor Department effort to recover millions of dollars in allegedly bad investments.

The union was accused of having "caused great financial harm" to the $1.7 billion fund through "a series of questionable loan transactions."

Some of the loans were made to individuals linked to organized crime and were used to finance gambling casinos, race tracks and risky real estate ventures, government officials said.

Although Labor Secretary Ray Marshall acknowledged that the losses could involve millions of dollars, he indicated little hope of recovering the full amount.

"I expect to get as much as we can . . ." he said, "but obviously if there are no assets, we can't get blood out of a turnip."

Fitzsimmons issued a statement saying he would appear in court "and fully answer charges with every confidence that my performance as a trustee has met the best judicial standards."

The union chief said it is "regrettable" that the Central States fund was "singled out as the worst case" of the pension law when other public and private employee pension plans have serious financial difficulties.

The Central States fund, Fitzsimmons said, "is fully solvent and more than able to meet its obligations through the 20th century."

The Labor Department's civil suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago, culminated in a massive investigation of the Central States fund begun in 1975 following reports of mismanagement and alleged ties to organized crime. It was the largest action ever taken under the 1974 pension reform law.

Fitzsimmons, 69, who succeeded James R. Hoffa as president of the nation's largest union in 1971, resigned under government pressure last year as a Central States trustee.

Tax collection unsure RHA rules not altered

By MICHAEL WINTER

State News Staff Writer

University Student Judiciary Chief Jeffrey Block said Wednesday that if the Residence Halls Association does not change its constitution, the University will not collect student taxes for the group this term.

Block said "What our decision is that unless they correct their constitution to bring it in compliance with Section 3 of the Tax Collection Criteria, the University may not collect their tax money," Block said.

Section 3 of the Tax Collection Criteria, outlined in the MSU Student Handbook, states that a major student governing group such as RHA must have specific provisions in its constitution to change or remove a tax imposed on students.

AUSJ upheld a challenge by Beal Living Co-op Tuesday by ruling the RHA constitution "appears clearly in contradiction with

MISDEMEANOR CONSIDERED Marijuana bill in Senate

By ANNE S. CROWLEY
State News Staff Writer

Possession of small amounts of marijuana would be reduced to a misdemeanor under a bill being considered by the state Senate.

A similar measure was narrowly defeated in the state House last summer after several emotional debates. Two representatives, sponsor Perry Bullard of Ann Arbor and Detroit's Rosetta Ferguson, came to blows over the issue.

However, the Senate measure is sponsored by Senate Appropriations Chairperson Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw, and Muskegon Democrat Anthony Derezinski, a U.S.

Senate candidate and vice chairperson of the Judiciary Committee where it has to pass.

Both said they waited for emotions to die down from Bullard's and Ferguson's tiff so legislators could consider the bill rationally.

Derezinski, asked if it would be as controversial in the Senate, said, "No, that's not going to happen over here."

The bill also meets objections by House members, he said, adding that "starting where they were gives it the best chance to pass both houses."

Hart said he asked Bullard not to lobby on its behalf.

"I want it to pass," he chuckled.

Under the present law, persons convicted of possessing less than one ounce would be sentenced to no more than one year in prison or a $1,000 fine and those caught with more than an ounce could be fined $2,000 or imprisoned up to four years.

Hart and Derezinski would lower the maximum sanctions for possession of one ounce or less to a $100 fine, and, for more than one ounce, to 90 days in prison or a $100 fine.

Rather than making an arrest, an officer would issue a court summons like a parking ticket.

Officials would be required to destroy law enforcement records and files — even fingerprints — after the sentence has been served.

"After four decades, efforts to discourage (marijuana) use with stringent laws have still not been successful," the senators said in a joint press release.

"More than 45 million Americans have tried marijuana and an estimated 11 million are regular users. More than $600 million in law enforcement resources is spent annually on marijuana arrests and prosecution."

Senate nixes B-1 bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Wednesday against continued construction of the B-1 bomber which the House wants to keep on the production line but President Carter wants to kill.

By a 58-37 vote, the Senate directed that the issue go to a new House-Senate conference committee in hopes of reaching an agreement.

Carter calls for public support for ratification of canal treaties

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, urging public support for Senate ratification of the Panama Canal treaties, said Wednesday night "opposition is based on misunderstanding and misinformation."

In the second fireside chat of his year-old presidency, Carter said "the only reason" for ratifying the accord soon is that it is "in the highest national interest of the United States, and will strengthen our position in the world."

The president said, "this is not a partisan issue." He argued that ratification will strengthen U.S. security interests, improve trade opportunities, honor a commitment to keep the canal open to world commerce at a fair price and "demonstrate that as a large and powerful country we are able to deal fairly and honorably with a proud but smaller sovereign nation."

Much of Carter's talk was devoted to posing questions often raised by treaty critics and providing his own answers.

For example, he said, many Americans argue "we bought it, we paid for it, it's ours."

His response was "we do not own the Panama Canal Zone — we have never had sovereignty over it" but rather have purchased the right to use it through annual payments to Panama.

"We have never needed to own the Panama Canal Zone," he said, "any more than we need to own a 10-mile wide strip of land through Canada when we build an international gas pipeline."

Carter also raised the question of whether the United States would have the right to protect and defend the canal against any armed attack or threat to its security.

"The answer is yes," he declared, saying the agreement with Panama not only provides for this but that defense is also spelled out in a statement of understanding he negotiated last August with Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos — a statement that treaty backers plan to incorporate into the accord.

"I would not hesitate to deploy whatever armed forces are necessary to defend the canal," Carter asserted, "and I have no doubt that even in sustained combat we would be successful."

However, he argued that ratification would actually lessen the possibility of armed confrontation by transforming Panama "from a passive and sometimes deeply resentful bystander into an active and interested partner whose vital interests will be served by a well-operated canal."

Carter also challenged arguments that surrender of the canal to Panama after the year 2000 would create a "power vacuum" in the area.

President orders lid on arms sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter put an $8.6 billion lid Wednesday on arms sales to some foreign governments this fiscal year, $740 million less than sales to the same countries during fiscal 1977.

He said a bigger cut would violate commitments, "including our historic interest in the security of the Middle East."

The lid applies to all nations except members of NATO, Japan, Australia and New Zealand. Including estimated sales to those nations, the National Security Council calculates weapons-related arms sales this fiscal year will total $10.1 billion, said staff members Jessica Tuchman.

Figured in 1978 dollars, that contrasts to $10.5 billion in fiscal 1977, she said.

Adding all sales under the Foreign Military Sales program, which includes items Carter does not consider weapons-related, such as cranes, generators, compressors, commercial trucks, telephones and ambulances, the estimated fiscal 1978 total comes to $13.2 billion, Tuchman said.

Calculated in 1978 dollars, she said that contrasts to nearly $12.1 billion in fiscal 1977.

National Security Council spokesperson Jerrold Schecter said Carter's lid includes Israel. The spokesperson said that means any unanticipated increase in arms sales to the Israelis would "have to be balanced out" among sales to the other nations which are under the ceiling.

Carter's reference to the Middle East marked a change in language from his statement last May announcing he would cut arms sales. At that time, the president said this country would honor its "historic responsibilities to assure the security of the state of Israel." But his aides discounted any difference in substance.

"Our historic responsibilities in the security of the Middle East have been largely with Israel," said Tuchman, who specializes in watching arms sales. Asked whether she could say categorically that the president felt the country's responsibility to Israel continues, she replied: "Yes."

Sadat lays groundwork for talks

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat huddled with American mediator Alfred Atherton on Wednesday to lay the groundwork for summit talks in Washington which Egyptian sources said would be "vital" to keeping the peace process alive.

The meeting in Sadat's Nile-side villa in Giza "provided the opportunity for a broad review of a full range of issues" that the Egyptian leader will be discussing with President Carter this weekend an American spokesperson said.

Vice President Hosny Mubarak, who returned earlier from a tour of friendly Mideast capitals, and Foreign Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Kamel attended the session along with U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts.

Atherton, the U.S. assistant secretary of state who picked up the threads of negotiations after the Israeli-Egyptian political talks in Jerusalem unraveled Jan. 18, brought what he called "new ideas" from Israel for Egyptian inspection.

Zimbabweans may agree to elections

RABAT, Malta (AP) — Black guerrilla leaders may have changed their minds and would take part in elections before a new black-led Zimbabwean government is formed, officials reported Wednesday.

The guerrilla leaders have said previously that free elections should take place only after the country assumes black rule as the new state of Zimbabwe, the nationalists' name for Rhodesia.

The United States and Britain are acting jointly to achieve a peaceful transition to black rule in the country and have proposed that elections be held before — not after — Rhodesia is granted full legal independence from Britain.

The Anglo-American team has proposed that a British commissioner run Rhodesia from the time Prime Minister Ian Smith surrenders power to the day a black-ruled government takes over. This has been rejected by the black guerrillas.

Governors want state urban policy control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's governors say state governments must be granted greater control over federal urban programs or President Carter's urban policy will be "doomed to failure."

Carter's still-evolving urban strategy cannot succeed unless states abandon policies that contribute to suburban sprawl, according to Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts.

The governors' plan, now under consideration at the White House, would give states greater control over urban programs that now filter directly from Washington to local governments.

The plan being pushed by the influential National Governors Association would rely on a system of federal incentives for states which coordinate and target federal money to distressed areas.

The states could direct aid to all areas in distress instead of simply focusing on large hardship cities.

Canal toll hike may be necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Panama Canal's top U.S. official told a Senate committee Wednesday that toll increases will be needed whether the Senate approves a canal treaty or not, and declared that in any event, the waterway "may not be self-sustaining" after 1982.

Harold R. Parfitt, governor of the Canal Zone and head of the Panama Canal Co., was responding to the question of whether U.S. tax money would be needed to help run the canal during the period of gradual turnover of the canal to Panama by the year 2000.

The Senate Armed Services Committee focused its attention on the fiscal aspects of the treaty as President Carter prepared a nationally televised "fireside chat" to seek public support for Senate ratification of the canal treaty.

Release patients earlier, study says

BOSTON (AP) — Many heart attack patients could safely be sent home from the hospital after one week instead of the current average of more than two weeks, aiding their psychological recovery and saving the nation $360 million in medical costs annually, a study says.

The researchers concluded that people who have had heart attacks can go home after about seven days if they have not suffered serious complications by their fourth day in the hospital. Ordinarily, these patients stay in the hospital an average of almost 16 days.

Besides having smaller medical bills, the heart attack victims will be psychologically better able to resume their normal lives if they spend less time in hospitals, concluded the study, which was conducted at the Duke University Medical Center. It was published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The doctors concluded that 45 percent of all heart attack victims could be sent home in one week. They estimated that at 1977 prices, this would save each patient an average $2,032.

Survey shows increased food prices

The first month of the new year brought higher bills to grocery shoppers who found a widespread and predicted boost in the cost of hamburger along with scattered increases in the prices of other items, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

There was an estimated 3 percent decline in beef production in 1977 and the American Meat Institute is anticipating a further decline of 2 percent in 1978. There has been a particularly sharp drop in the slaughter of non-grain-fed cattle — the kind that wind up as chopped beef and other less expensive cuts. That decrease in supply is expected to boost the price of hamburger by 10 percent to 15 percent this year, the meat institute says.

The AP survey showed that the total bill for 14 commonly purchased food and nonfood products priced at one supermarket in each of 13 cities rose an average of 1.2 percent during January. That compared with a 2.3 percent boost in December.

Israeli oranges found poisoned

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Western Europe issued an alert Wednesday for Israeli-grown oranges poisoned with mercury in a purported Arab-Palestinian scheme to sabotage Israel's economy.

The Palestine Liberation Organization denied that any Palestinians were responsible as claimed in a letter to the Dutch and West German governments and signed with the name "The Arab Revolutionary Army Palestinian Commando."

U.S. government officials said there was no evidence that any of the tainted fruit had reached the United States, and the Israeli Embassy in Washington claimed none of the oranges were for sale in U.S. stores.

Five Dutch children were hospitalized for mercury poisoning last week after they ate the contaminated oranges and became ill, the Dutch Health Ministry reported. Doctors pumped out the children's stomachs and sent the youngsters home a few days later completely recovered.

In West Germany, police discovered a Jaffa shmora orange containing "a pea-size quantity" of mercury. The fruit was part of a consignment sold to grocery stores in the central industrial city of Darmstadt.

The sale of Israeli oranges was stopped by trading companies or supermarkets in several European countries and as far away as Greenland, Britain, Belgium, Switzerland, West Germany, Norway and Finland ordered tests on their remaining stocks of Jaffa oranges.

"So far the problem is of a very small magnitude," said Isaac Lipkis, spokesperson for the Israeli Citrus Marketing Board in Tel Aviv. "We don't think this really applies to a large quantity of oranges."

Health officials said about three cases of the large-sized, juicy oranges were injected with mercury somewhere in Europe and that all the tainted fruit had visible brownish markings on their broken skins. Mercury would give the fruit a bitter taste, they added.

The Dutch and German governments said they received identical letters pinning responsibility on "The Arab Revolutionary Army Palestinian Commando." A PLO spokesperson in Beirut said he had never heard of the group and called the reports "a mischievous propaganda ploy."

The letters, mailed from Stuttgart, West Germany, and dated Jan. 21, warned officials: "It is not our aim to kill the population, but to sabotage the Israeli economy which is based on suppression, racial discrimination and colonial occupation."

But a letter addressed to 18 European and Arab countries was received by a Western news agency in London and claimed that the Jaffa oranges had been poisoned during packaging operations in Israel.

The Israeli Foreign Ministry said in Tel Aviv it believed the Jaffa oranges had been injected with a "metallic substance that could be mercury," a liquid metal which can be fatal when ingested. But it declined comment on reports that Arab terrorists were responsible or on the claim that the oranges were injected in Israel.

The Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv reported that in 1975, a Palestinian group based in Europe made similar threats that Israeli fruit exports had been contaminated, but no tainted fruit was ever found.

Citrus fruit is one of Israel's major exports, and $172 million worth was shipped abroad in 1976, mostly to Western Europe. West Germany is one of Israel's largest customers and imports 40,000 tons annually.

The U.S. Agriculture Department said 2,192 tons of Israeli oranges valued at $1.1 million were imported into the United States in 1977.

A Food and Drug Administration spokesperson in Washington said the agency did not believe any of the contaminated fruit was available for sale in the United States but an investigation was underway.

An Israeli embassy official in Washington said no Jaffa oranges are currently available to store shoppers in the United States apart from private shippers who offer the fruit as gifts or presents.

ENERGY RESERVES DWINDLE

Coal strike ties record

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The strike by 160,000 United Mine Workers members goes into its 59th day Thursday, tying a record for the union's longest nationwide walkout as it drains the nation's energy reserves and evokes memories of the longest strike of the past.

Even if a settlement is reached immediately, the walkout will set a record, because the UMW ratification process requires 10 days.

The issues are similar to those in 1946, the year a 59-day walkout won the union a pay increase and its first health and welfare fund.

Today, too, the miners want better wages and health and pension benefits. Meanwhile, as in 1946, their strike has cut the nation's coal production and is creating energy shortages.

The current strike has halved nationwide coal production, and power companies serving Maryland, Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia have asked customers to cut back electricity use. Columbus, Ohio has shut off street lights and increased night police patrols.

Another similarity is the health and welfare fund issue. In 1946, President Truman expressed doubts about the legality of a UMW demand that such a fund be financed by royalties on each ton of coal.

The proposal was adopted, but today the union has found its health and retirement funds weakened by inflation and by wildcat strikes which have reduced the royalties the operators paid in.

Health benefits were cut last July 1, stopped when the strike began Dec. 6. Retired miners received their last pension check in January.

UMW President Arnold Miller's chief demand in the current strike has been restoration of health and pension benefits. He says tentative agreement has been reached on a proposal for industry guarantee of the payments. It includes a payback clause requiring miners who took part in unauthorized strikes to reimburse the union for lost royalties. But it also would require company reimbursement if the union can prove that management caused the wildcat strikes.

While the two sides are reported in agreement on the health and retirement benefits, they remained far apart on wages and other economic issues.

The terms under discussion when negotiations broke off have not been made public, but a previous company proposal would have raised wages, now ranging from $6.25 to $7.80 an hour by $1.53 over 40 months. Sources familiar with the talks say the union's current proposal would bring a 44 percent increase in labor costs while the industry's would bring an increase of 32 percent.

Senate refuses to fund continued B-1 production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Wednesday refused to go along with a House move to provide funds for continued production of the B-1 bomber.

On a 58 to 37 vote, the Senate voted against spending $242 million for construction of two more planes, which would be the fifth and sixth B-1s.

The dispute sends the issue to a new conference with the House, which had voted in December for two more B-1s.

The vote came after five hours of debate on the issue. Before the Senate went into session, Majority Leader Robert Byrd said construction of a fifth and sixth B-1 bomber "would be a foolish expenditure."

COSTS TOTAL $681.49

ASMSU trip costs stated

By KAREN SHERIDAN
State News Staff Writer

Costs of a recent three-day trip to Washington, D.C., by ASMSU President Barry and eight others totaled $681.49, according to a written statement filed with the ASMSU Student Board.

Reports of the group's expenses and receipts were accompanied by a letter of approval from ASMSU Legal Services Director Charles Crumm regarding the trip.

The trip was in Washington, D.C., in order to testify before the U.S. Senate Committee in support of the Packwood-Moynihan Tuition Tax Act of 1977.

The act would allow taxpayers to deduct $500 directly from their tax bills for expenses incurred by themselves, their spouses or dependents. The act has been denounced by the National Student Association and the National Student Lobby.

The State News has editorially opposed the bill on the grounds that it will aid only middle and upper-class students, and requested both in person and in an editorial this week that expenses of the trip be fully disclosed.

According to the report food costs totaled $325.95, car lease expenses were $293.49, tolls and fees totaled $15.30, and miscellaneous expenses were $46.75.

No costs for lodging were incurred, according to the statement. The group stayed with friends, Barry said.

The group saved a total of $424.01 from a cost estimate of $1105.50 according to the statement.

When asked by College of Social Science representative Fred Jones when the cost estimate had been compiled, Black said the estimate had been made after the group returned from the Washington D.C. trip.

"Why didn't you estimate the cost of the trip at a million dollars, and say you saved $500,000," Jones asked rhetorically.

Possible costs of the trip were unknown before the group left Washington D.C. and the figure given was an estimate of what expenses could have been if the group had not conserved money, Black said.

In his report on the group's activities while in Washington, D.C., Crumm reiterated that a nine-member group was necessary to affect a concerted lobbying action for the bill.

According to Crumm, members of the group met with 10 U.S. Representatives and Senators and with staff representatives of about 20 other legislators while in the city.

In other board action, it was announced that a proposal to freeze the budget of Chicano Council was defeated by the ASMSU Budget Committee. Another proposal to revoke the council status was defeated by the ASMSU Policy Committee.

ASMSU meets Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. in Room 4 Student Services Bldg. The meeting will be broadcast over the campus radio stations WMSN, WBRS and WMCD.

Committee for Sami to ask Board action

By JEANNE BARON
State News Staff Writer

Sami Esmail's defense committee will ask the MSU Board of Trustees to formally protest Esmail's arrest at the board's Friday morning session.

Esmail, an MSU student, was arrested in Israel Dec. 21 on suspicion of belonging to an outlawed Palestinian terrorist organization and having contact with foreign agents.

Committee members say they want the board to protest to Israeli government and the U.S. State Department on the grounds that Esmail has not been charged with any illegal acts in Israel.

They contend most of the charges against him involve his legal rights as an MSU student living in the United States.

"The campus is a place for the free flow of ideas. If another government doesn't like that, they can restrict people from coming into the country," John Masterson, committee coordinator, said.

"It is not just an issue of torture, but what the rights of an American citizen living in this country are, and what rights he has abroad."

The committee has been sending informational letters across the United States to elicit support for Esmail. Members have also sent letters of protest to several government agencies. To date, the committee has established about 10 chapters, including five in Michigan.

Basim Esmail, Sami's brother, said Wednesday he did not form the committee and is associated with it only at members' requests. He added that he is working on his own and does not represent the committee.

Basim and Felicia Langer, Esmail's attorney, have said the 23-year-old student was mistreated while being interrogated by Israeli authorities.

The State Department has responded twice that Esmail was not mistreated. However, on other occasions, State Department officials have said he was mistreated.

Elis Jones, a member of the department's Bureau of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs, said that he knows of no statement given by Esmail that he was not mistreated.

"It is not the position of the State Department to say whether there was or was not torture," he said. "We have said he was rough-handled and have asked for an investigation, which is now going on."

Jones said he could not clarify discrepancies between the State Department, the Israeli Consulate in Chicago and congressional investigations into Esmail's case. The conflicts concern the date when the American embassy in Tel Aviv was notified of Esmail's arrest.

Another conflicting report from State Department officials centers around two letters sent from Israel to the State Department from Basim and Langer alleging mistreatment of Esmail.

Two department officials told the State News they had no knowledge of the letters. However, Jones said that within a short time after the letters were given to the American embassy, the embassy cabled a summary of them to the State Department.

"They cabled an account of what they (the letters) said and put the actual document in the mail," he said. "So we knew that they existed," he said.

It was not until late January that copies of the cable were made public.

Jones also said the American embassy has been investigating Esmail's case and has held some public hearings in Israel.

According to the list of offenses Jones said Esmail had been charged with, the student could receive a maximum of 15 years in prison if convicted.

Israeli consular officials have said Esmail went to Israel to visit his dying father, and that he committed no illegal acts in Israel. They said that if Esmail had not entered Israel, he would not have been arrested.

Walking into class, Rout greets his students as if he is a guest host on "Saturday Night Live."

"Good morning, sports fans," Rout says, flashing the "big 32" — his term for smiling. "It's icy outside and if you slip and fall, don't worry. You can sue the University."

To the uninitiated, Rout might appear as though he is teaching an introductory drama class.

Clutching his hands like a machine gunner and sounding a bit like a child playing war games, Rout describes the events leading to the United States' involvement in World War II.

"Now Frank (Franklin D. Roosevelt) was smart," Rout says, pacing the aisle.

The U.S. and the Japanese agreed to cool it in the Pacific. But Frank-baby knew what he was doing. He wanted to stall the Japs, so that he could load up with arms and be able to kick those slimy Jap rats in the derriere."

His students call him a comedian and attest that his lectures are winning performances. One student described his classroom antics as a mix between Richard Pryor and Jimmie "Dyn-o-mite" Walker.

Rout has been known to lecture while dramatically smoking a big cigar or eating peanuts.

However, Rout assumes a more reserved manner in his spacious but barren office on the fourth floor of Morrill Hall. He emphasizes that he actually takes his teaching seriously. He admits he is "somewhat egotistical about teaching" because, "I believe what I have to say is somewhat significant."

Rout, who has been playing the sax since he was 14, has toured the country in a band. He even performed at the White House in 1963 during the Kennedy administration.

"We spent two hours practicing 'Green Sleeves' and he (Kennedy) never showed up," Rout recalls.

"Green Sleeves" was reputed to be Kennedy's favorite song. The band instead performed the number for the President's wife, Jacqueline.

"When I came out of the army I thought about it for a minute, but a little while on the road is enough to cure you of that disease," Rout said.

Though he has forsaken a life as a musician for a career in teaching, Rout says, "playing the saxophone is what makes teaching possible. You've seen bumper stickers that say 'I'd rather be sailing.' Well, I'd rather be blowin'."

Handicapper class set, aid assistants wanted

By DIANE COX
State News Staff Writer

Spending a full day in a wheelchair is just one experience included in a paid personal training program offered by the MSU Office of Programs for Handicappers.

Don Bankson, personal assistant coordinator, said the program is being offered on a term for those interested in being a personal assistant to a handicapper next Bankson said assistants primarily aid the handicapper with personal needs of daily living, such as dressing, bathing, and showering.

The spring term orientation program, Bankson said trainees would learn the techniques necessary to assist handicappers with personal needs as well as medical characteristics of different handicaps, such as spinal injury.

They will also explore people's attitudes towards handicappers and try to develop positive attitudes," he said.

The program will involve 16 hours of training and will pay $2.30 an hour. Classes will begin April 6 and will continue every Thursday until May 11. Each class will run from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Trainees are required to spend one full day in a wheelchair in order to get first-hand experience of handicapper life, he said.

After May 11, trainees will work with handicappers under the supervision of a personal assistant.

"We do this because some people think what they are learning is difficult, and it's not," he explained. "It's to build the person's confidence and get his feet wet."

Bankson stressed that the training program's purpose is to give potential assistants a realistic understanding of commitments involved in working with handicappers.

After the training, the handicapper would do the actual hiring and train the individual as to his or her own needs," he said.

Bankson said the program is aimed toward people who are emotionally mature and able to help others.

Both men and women are encouraged to attend, but more men are needed because a majority of handicappers seeking assistants are men, Bankson said. He added that trainees can work with either sex, but those who want to be live-in assistants to handicappers must remember co-ed arrangements are not allowed in residence halls.

The assistant does not live with the handicapper, he or she should live close by, Bankson said. An assistant should expect to work from one to three hours a day.

There are currently 10 handicappers receiving this assistance. He cannot guarantee all trainees a job fall term because he does not know what the demand will be, but he cannot guarantee jobs, the trainees will be paid for their time.

Bankson said if trainees decide they do not like the program or do not want to be handicapper assistants, they may quit at any time.

Applications are available at the Office of Programs for Handicappers, Room W-402 in the MSU library and must be returned by Feb. 8.

MUSICIAN, COMEDIAN, PROFESSOR

Rout jazzes up American history

By CHRIS KUCZYNSKI
State News Staff Writer

Whether he is blowing the sax before an audience or lecturing to a group of students, Leslie Rout believes he owes his listeners one thing — a performance.

And perform he does. Every Thursday night at the Garage in Lansing, the MSU history professor turns his energy into jazz, playing the saxophone in Randy Gillespie's Band.

"It's a damn good group," Rout comments casually.

Rout transforms his performance from the stage to the classroom, giving a jazzy version of American History to a roomful of undergraduates.

"The U.S. and the Japanese agreed to cool it in the Pacific. But Frank-baby knew what he was doing. He wanted to stall the Japs, so that he could load up with arms and be able to kick those slimy Jap rats in the derriere."

Aid deadline extended

By ANNE MARIE BIONDO
State News Staff Writer

Persons receiving food stamps have until Feb. 11 to redeem their authorization to purchase cards at a certified post office or bank, according to the Ingham County Social Services Office.

"Because of the weather, the mail was held up and some clients may not have received their authorization cards in time to meet the Jan. 31 expiration date," said Betty Topp of the Social Services Office.

To purchase food stamps, the client must have a card authorizing him or her to do so. These cards are mailed to the client each month. The client then has approximately 30 days in which to use the card to purchase a monthly supply of food stamps.

According to Topp, about 700 student applications were collected through the Food Stamp Outreach Program which was held at the MSU Union in October. Topp said at least 75 percent of these applications were approved, and that "there may be more students than that certified (to receive food stamps)." Students can also go to the Social Services Office in Lansing to apply for food stamps.

The Outreach Program was set up on campus during fall term as a trial project, Topp explained.

"We were trying to see if we could serve a greater number of people by making it more convenient for students," she added. By coming to the campus, Social Services employees reduced the number of applicants going to their office.

"I think that the project was successful as far as the number of applications taken," Topp said. But there were problems with the accommodations provided by the University.

Topp explained that the Union lobby offered no place to hold confidential interviews with the students, and that there were no accessible telephones. Lack of parking space and carrying the file boxes in and out of the Union every day also created problems for Social Services employees working on the project. "Hopefully we will get better accommodations next year," Topp said.

Political maneuvers in Wilmington

Members of the famed Wilmington 10 will gain their freedom later this year. But the political circumstances under which they will be freed has served only to intensify the seven-year controversy surrounding their arrest, trial and imprisonment.

The 10 were convicted of firebombing a grocery in Wilmington, North Carolina during a week of racial unrest in 1971. One of the 10 has already been paroled and the Rev. Ben Chavis, who was given the longest sentence as the supposed instigator, will be eligible for parole in 1980.

But while Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. has shortened their sentences, he also says that he thinks the 10 got a fair trial and are guilty.

Hunt's action is little more than fence-straddling, and in light of the upcoming gubernatorial race, carries certain political undertones.

In order to win reelection, he must garner the support of both blacks and conservative whites. Reducing the sentences of the eight prisoners would presumably appeal to the black and liberal community, while his belief that they are guilty may be aimed at cooling the anger of those conservative Carolinians who maintain the right place for the Wilmington 10 is behind bars.

When the grocery was firebombed, Wilmington was a town gripped by prejudice. Black citizens were rightfully outraged by a poor desegregation program and both blacks and whites were armed. Buildings had been burned, white night riders had invaded black neighborhoods and authorities refused to institute a curfew.

At the time of the firebombing, Chavis and his followers had barricaded themselves inside a church. They were arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to unusually long prison terms of 20 years or more for each.

However, the validity of the verdict has long been questioned and there are still serious doubts whether justice has been served. For example, three central witnesses for the state have since retracted their testimony, though one has changed his mind again. That witness, a 17-year-old with an IQ of 78, first said he had been tricked into testifying. Another witness was given a minibike after the trial by the prosecutor and a detective.

The circumstances surrounding the trial of the Wilmington 10 has been further clouded by time and we will probably never have a full understanding of the events.

Amnesty International, an organization that monitors violations of human rights around the world, has listed the Wilmington 10 as political prisoners. In addition, the cause of the 10 has been widely supported outside the United States and used as an example of racial injustice here.

The governor's present move has done little to squelch the doubts surrounding the unfortunate affair, nor has it even insured his own reelection.

A shady land scheme

When does land that might be worth as much as $2,000 an acre rent for only $150 an acre? When Consumers Power Company decides to secretly rent it to key bureaucrats and legislators in Lansing, that's when.

Now, thanks to the efforts of State Sen. Kerry Kramer, those government officials' names won't be secret much longer. Consumers Power has agreed, under threat of subpoena, to release the names of public officials who have enjoyed this bargain basement-level rent on Consumers Power's prime recreational properties. The land is on the Au Sable and Manistee Rivers in northern Michigan.

The utility, which had refused to release the names, calling it an invasion of privacy, will soon submit a list of 519 public officials who have leased the land to a special legislative committee.

Kammer, a Pontiac Democrat, requested that the names be made public after William Turney, who heads the Environmental Protection Division of the Department of Natural Resources, admitted taking advantage of the utility's cheap rent rate. The head of the state's Tax Commission Administration, Edward Kane, has admitted doing the same.

Both Turney and Kane have denied that their actions constitute a conflict of interest. This is nonsense. Turney's department is directly involved in limiting the amount of pollution Consumers Power can dump into the state's waterways, and Kane's bureau is involved in setting Consumers Power's tax rates.

Consumers Power also denies that the cheap rents policy was part of its lobbying efforts, saying they only wanted responsible people to rent and look after the property. Even if this were true, the policy of renting the land to key public officials conveys such a blatant image of conflict of interest that Consumers Power should have known better than to make the deals.

As State Rep. Warren Goemaere, R-Roseville, aptly said of the cheap rent policy, "I know there's no such thing as a free lunch. If you get something for free, you sure as hell are going to owe somebody something, and I don't go for being owned by anybody."

Obviously, the possibility of conflict of interest exists, and for this reason the names of those who took part in this shady scheme must be made public. It's too bad it took a subpoena to bring it about.

VIEWPOINT: ARAB-ISRAELI COVERAGE

State News hit for 'not backing' Esmail...

By BASIM ESMAIL

I cannot let passions cool and let justice go forward in Israel as the State News asked for in its editorial on Sami Esmail of Jan. 30, 1978. There is no justice in Israel, except for Israeli Zionists. American Christians and Moslems are second-class citizens in Israel and its occupied territories. Palestinian Christians and Moslems are third-class citizens in Israel and its occupied territories.

Every single day, innocent people are picked up in the West Bank, taken for interrogation, tortured in the hope that they will make confessions, and convicted for life on the basis of these confessions. When will the Israeli government realize that people will fabricate confessions when they can no longer stand the torture of the interrogators?

Sami, according to his Israeli interrogators, is very fortunate. His American passport protected him from electric shocks and hot iron rods, which are used on Palestinians consistently. The case of Sami Esmail has confirmed the truth behind the article written by the Sunday Times of London on June 19, 1977 about systematic torture in Israel. This article was written only after five London Times reporters accumulated evidence over a period of several months from the occupied West Bank.

The Zionists in the United States have done a great job of keeping this shocking article from the American people. I am beginning to understand why the overwhelming majority of the United Nations passed a resolution equating Zionism to racism. Sami had every right as an American born U.S. citizen to be anti-Zionist.

The State News feels it has the right to call the PLO and PFLP terrorist organizations for mistakenly killing innocent people. However, the State News must be consistent. It is a fact that in November of 1977 Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel ordered his air force to bomb a Lebanese village and level it completely because they suspected the possibility of a few guerrillas in this village. Over 150 innocent men, women, and children were killed in this attack. Is this not a terrorist act by a terrorist government with a terrorist as its leader?

Who do the State News editors think they are to tell the MSU community that it is for Israel to decide Sami's fate and for the rest of us to closely monitor? ... the State News should be condemning the Israeli government for the crimes it has already committed against Sami.

On April 9, 1948 Begin was the leader of a terrorist organization named Irgun, which attacked Deir Yassin and massacred 250 innocent people. Sami's mother, who is from Deir Yassin, was an eyewitness to this massacre. This terrorist organization, after killing innocent pregnant women, had the guts to tear their bodies open and destroy the unborn embryos. Sami's mother, who resides in New Jersey, is presently very ill because of what the Israeli Government has done to her son. Isn't it enough that the Israeli Government made Sami's father die a miserable death? How could anybody ever explain to him that his son was put in prison and tortured for coming to say goodbye to him. If there was a way Sami could have seen his dying father in the occupied West Bank without passing through Israel, he would have done so.

I saw the symptoms of Sami's torture with my own eyes along with Sami's Israeli Jewish attorney Felicia Langer. Does the State News think we are both blind? On the sixth day of Sami's torture four savage interrogators forced him to stand completely naked and started beating him up with billy clubs in order to get him to confess to a code name. Sami had no code name to give them but when he couldn't stand the beatings any longer he fabricated a code name which he told them was Sa'adan - which means monkey in Arabic. This is how the Israeli Government concluded Sami was a member of the PFLP.

It is a fact that my brother was never a member of the PFLP and I know that the Israeli Government also knows this for a fact. The Israeli Government will never succeed in framing my brother for his outspokenness in the United States as they had originally planned. Why does the State News think they were trying to give him a secret trial? If there is anything that has to be kept secret for the security of Israel why was I allowed to see my brother in complete privacy not once but twice?

The agent that the Israelis claim recruited Sami is also a fabricated agent obtained under torture. The Israeli Government, for obvious reasons, could not even spell his name correctly. They spelled it as Abu Bakr Madur, while the correct spelling is, in fact, Abu Baker Maddur. Sami purposely spelled his name wrong for his interrogators. When I asked Sami on Dec. 28, 1977, why he gave them this name he said because he knew he was in Libya and the Israeli intelligence could not hurt him or possibly even assassinate him.

Who is Abu Baker Maddur? He was a friend of Sami's from Libya, who attended MSU from 1972-1976. He obtained his masters and doctorate degrees from the College of Agriculture at MSU. Before returning to Libya in October of 1976 to become a professor of agriculture at a Libyan university in Tripoli, he sold his Plymouth satellite to Sami for $1,500. I am presently driving this car. He also had done extensive campaigning for the human rights of Palestinians and against the Israeli torture of prisoners. How can the Israelis also accuse this beautiful person of being a terrorist?

Who is Tyassir Quba'a? The Israelis claim

Sami met this agent. Again Sami explained to me that under torture he pretended to have met him. I asked him how he knew about him and Sami told me he read about him in a few magazines.

How is it possible that Sami received training in a PFLP camp in Libya in August of 1976 when at that time the Libyan Government and the PFLP were bitter enemies? The PFLP is a Marxist-Leninist organization, while Libya was very liberal and anti-Marxist at that time.

Who do the State News editors think they are to tell the MSU community that it is for Israel to decide Sami's fate and for the rest of us to closely monitor? The State News should be assisting George Ann Geyer, syndicated columnist for the Los Angeles Times, in unravelling the cover-up of the torture by the State Department. The State News should be condemning the Israeli Government for the crimes it has already committed against Sami. The State News should be condemning the Israeli Government in Chicago for coming to the city of Chicago and telling the American people that Sami was never mistreated, after the State Department admitted publicly that he was roughly mishandled for sure.

Nancy Pelletreau of the Special Counsel Services in the State Department admitted to me over the phone that Sami was psychologically tortured for sure. The State Department refuses to use the word "physically tortured" probably because electric shocks were used on Sami. State News editors should read Felicia Langer's book "With My Own Eyes" before making any further comments about brother.

I would like to thank the MSU community on behalf of my brother for its overwhelming support of Sami. There is absolutely no reason to cool off. The American people must know that three billion dollars of tax money goes to a government of sponsors systematic torture.

Basim Esmail is the brother of Sami. He graduated with a B.S. in medical technology in 1974 and received his M.B.A. in 1977.

VIEWPOINT: ARAB-ISRAELI COVERAGE

...State News hit for 'backing' Sami Esmail

By HUGO NURNBERG

The front page reporting of the arrest of Sami Esmail in Israel and of the efforts of Arab sponsored groups here to have him released, as well as the prominence accorded over the last few years to many one-sided "news" articles, letters to the editor, "fact sheets," points of view, and other hate-mongering emanating from various Arab sponsored groups, strikes me as biased and unfair conduct on the part of the editors of the State News. Indeed, this anti-Israeli bias is becoming increasingly fashionable in the radical-chic, socialist-leaning segment of our society. As displayed by the editors of the State News and other liberal if not socialist-leaning groups, this bias is ironic, for they are backing the wrong side - the totalitarian Arab side, be it fascist, socialist, or some combination of the two, rather than the liberal Israeli side.

In the following paragraphs, it shall be argued that of all the nations in the Mideast, Israel alone represents enlightened liberalism in the political, social, and economic contexts; that the supposed brutality of Israeli police toward Sami Esmail is not supported by objective American observers but rather is a figment of his brother's imagination, and that the bias of the editors of the State News belies their ostensible philosophy of liberalism and accuracy in news reporting.

Of all the nations in the Mideast, Israel alone represents a political democracy, where there is freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of the press, and freedom of the people to turn out of power an entrenched political party through free and orderly elections - which the Israelis did in 1977. Which Arab state ever had a free election affecting the chief of state or chief of government? Which Arab state guarantees freedom of speech, freedom of the press, or freedom of economic opportunity - in reality, not merely in some unenforced constitution? No Arab state provides its citizens with all of these basic freedoms. On the other hand, Israel has maintained these freedoms for all of its citizens, both Jewish and Arab, ever since its founding in 1948. For supporters of political democracy, it is clear that Israel deserves their backing, not the Arab states and their autocratic kings, military dictators, and other despotic rulers.

Similarly, of all the nations in the Middle East, Israel alone exemplifies a socially and economically liberal society which seeks to raise the standard of living of its citizens, reduce inequalities in the distribution of income and wealth, provide opportunities for education and job training for both native populations and refugee immigrants - and all on a mass scale (my remarks purposely ignore one or two Arab sheikdoms with very small populations and huge oil revenues).

Israel is basically a socialist country with a private business sector just large enough to reward risk-taking entrepreneurs who provide innovative goods and services. Its socialist nature is evident from its collective farms, strong central labor movement, almost universal medical care, and exceedingly progressive income tax rate structure, which markedly reduces inequalities in the distribution of income and wealth.

Another manifestation of democratic liberalism in Israel is the intensive training accorded refugee immigrants so that they can attain productive jobs and thereby secure their own self-respect - programs which are consistent with traditional Jewish philosophy which maintains that the highest form of charity is teaching another man a worthwhile trade.

Hundreds of thousands of refugees have benefited from these programs, many who were forced to flee from Arab countries. Israeli Arabs have benefited from these programs as well as Israeli Jews. Indeed, Israeli Arabs generally receive better educations and enjoy higher living standards than almost all other Arabs.

In contrast, the Arab states have just begun to give their people the education and economic opportunities essential to move them above the subsistence level, but have made little or no attempt to reduce the inequality in the distribution of income and wealth. The extremity in income distribution in Arab states is glaring and well known. The rulers and their henchmen live in palaces; some have large harems, fleets of luxury automobiles, phenomenally expensive tastes for wine, women, and song; a few also have a penchant for losing millions at the gambling tables of Monte Carlo, while most of the ordinary citizens live near if not below subsistence.

And in contrast to Israeli programs that have successfully absorbed hundreds of thousands of Jewish refugees from Arab states, the Arab states have made few attempts, let alone institute formal programs, to absorb Arab refugees from Israel. Rather, these Arab refugees have been largely bottled up in refugee camps, where they could not compete economically with the citizens of the "host" country or question the wisdom of the entrenched rulers. Had some effort been made to absorb Arab refugees from Israel into surrounding Arab states, the Arab refugee problem today would be of small magnitude compared to what it is in actuality; indeed, it might be nonexistent.

Finally, a few comments on Sami Esmail, a person of particular interest to us because he is an MSU graduate student. Below is the verbatim new report in its entirety, as reported in the 23 January 1978 issue of Newsweek (p. 36):

Another young American, New York-born Sami Esmail, 23, also was in Israeli custody last week, the U.S. Embassy announced. Esmail is an electrical-engineering teaching assistant and a Palestinian activist at Michigan State University. Arrested Dec. 21 at Ben-Gurion Airport, on a visit to see his dying father, he was reported suspected of being a guerrilla explosives expert. Both cases appeared to be, in part, an Israeli warning to Palestinian sympathizers in the U.S. not to play spy in Israel.

No mention was made in the Newsweek report of Israeli police brutality committed when Sami Esmail was arrested. As I recall, such reports originated with his brother, obviously not an unbiased source. Moreover, after inquiries of Israeli authorities and interviews with Sami Esmail, U.S. Embassy personnel were unable to substantiate his brother's claim of police brutality. Thus, the supposed brutality is just a claim by his biased brother, no doubt anti-Israeli in orientation and with an interest in fermenting anti-Israeli propaganda.

There is another aspect to police brutality that should be examined, however, and that aspect is its intrinsic nature in police work. Most arrests of potentially violent persons involve some violation of that person's dignity. Handcuffing a person violates his dignity; twisting his arm in order to handcuff him violates his dignity still more. Either could be called police brutality, for the term itself is ambiguous.

To the extent that it exists, brutality in Israel exists to a far lesser degree than in any Arab state. Moreover, the extent that it exists in Israel is brutality is an aberration of official policy, like the United States, does not condone it but rather attempts to reduce it to a minimum. The same cannot be said most if not all Arab states, where brutality is often a manifestation of official policy, not an aberration of it.

As to form of punishment, it should be noted that Israel does not have capital punishment except for genocidal murderers. Only one execution ever occurred in Israel since its independence, namely, the execution of Adolph Eichmann, the Nazi mass murderer of European Jewry. Even Arab terrorists convicted of murdering Israeli women and children are not executed, but are merely given prison sentences. On the other hand, executions are required and carried out for a host of crimes in most Arab states, as well as for "traitorous" politicians who fall from power, "traitorous" students who register political views against the current rulers (let alone rapists), repeat offenders, thieves, users of alcoholic beverages, and several other categories of persons whose actions are often not viewed as crimes in the West or, if viewed as crimes, nevertheless not viewed as capital offenses.

In summary, Israel is obviously a Westernized in outlook than any Arab state. As such, the level of police brutality is far lower and the political, economic, and social institutions are far more liberal in Israel than in any Arab state. Given the obvious nature of these statements, it is high time that the editors of the State News consistently follow their liberal and socialist-leaning philosophy and cease giving undue prominence to the pro-Palestinian distorted news reports, letters to the editor, and similar rebutted columns.

Misleading statement on Palestinians

dangerously misleading statement appeared in the Jan. 28 issue of the State News editorial concerning the Egyptian-Israeli talks. It was stated that the Palestinians are "assassins and Soviet pawns."

identity, Israel's response is emphatically positive. But it is categorically negative about the absurd pretensions of the so-called Palestine Liberation Organization to speak in the name of the Palestinian Arabs."

The danger in using the term "Palestinians" to designate those bent on Israel's destruction should be apparent. Ironically, the appearance of this mistaken term in the context of an otherwise reasonable editorial may make its effect on the reading public insidious.

Nuclear fusion needed;

fission profitable for now

I am writing in regard to Randy Winnie's letter in Tuesday's State News. Winnie's remark that a nuclear accident "irradiated... 100 people" is meaningless as stated. One must be specific concerning radiation levels to measure degrees of biological hazard (if any). We are all "irradiated" every day with a variety of charged particles and electromagnetic radiation from space and from the radioactivity of the earth's crust. To be "irradiated" is one of the most natural and necessary facts of life.

The real significance of the nuclear energy issue lies not in paranoia over "nuclear accidents" (type unspecified) but rather in indicated by the recently announced fusion power breakthrough on the Princeton Large Torus (PLT) test reactor. Using the newly developed technique of "neutral beam heating," the PLT achieved results indicating that, in the words of ERDA's Dr. Stephen Dean, "Fusion is ready to be treated and considered as a practical option for future energy use."

Nuclear fusion, of course, will be the cleanest, cheapest, and most powerful energy source in the history of civilization — but it will not be successfully commercialized without the scientific expertise and economic surplus derivable only from an aggressively expanding fission program.

Abortion no answer

With all due respect to your uterus, Pam Jennings, I must chauvinistically disagree with your view on abortion. You stated (Letters, Jan. 23) "In a world where there is not safe, effective, free birth control for all, nor adequate, free child care for all, abortion is our right." Is abortion your answer to safe, effective, free birth control, or free child care?

It seems quite understandable to correlate the increase of unwanted pregnancies with unavailable, inadequate birth control. Tell me Pam, what did people do before birth control came into widespread use? It is apparent to me that more and more people are eager to engage in sex, but without the responsibility it creates. They would rather place the "worry" on something else.

I am all in favor of free therapeutic abortion for those who need it. However, to use abortion as a quick and convenient method to eliminate as trivial a thing as a human being, reflects a selfish and simple-minded attitude. Don't pass the buck, Pam. Contraceptives are available, with instruction, to everyone.

Seafarer

Last Monday's discussion of Seafarer in the State News was misleading. The Navy submarine "communications system" is the Trigger Finger for the Trident nuclear submarines now being built by the Navy. The environmental danger to residents in the Upper Peninsula, though important, is minimal compared to the disaster of nuclear warfare.

If the true facts concerning atomic weaponry and its use were presented to the American people, the question would not be — where shall we place it; but rather — will we allow it?

Team's sportsmanship lauded

In light of the recent games against Colorado College, a few words need to be said for the MSU Hockey team. As a newly initiated fan of hockey this season, I have seen that sportsmanship is a quality rather hard to find in this game. However, I have nothing but praise for the MSU Hockey team, for throughout the season their actions have been those of the utmost quality.

While the team commits penalties and pays for them like everyone else, they usually are accepted with few complaints; the players rarely brutalize the crowd of referees with verbal accusations nor do they proceed to beat the penalty box to a pulp upon sitting out their time. Sportsmanlike conduct may not score goals or win games, but as far as I am concerned, it gives this school a hockey team we can be proud to say represents us.

EARLY ENROLLMENT SPRING 1978

Substantial changes have been made in the early enrollment process for Spring Term. The following instructions should be read carefully.

1. Section Request Forms will be enclosed in the Spring Schedule of Courses. Schedule books and Section Request Forms will be delivered to dormitory residents on Friday, February 3. Students living off campus and in married housing may pick up these materials Monday through Friday, February 6-10, at four locations: Student Services, the Union, the International Center, and 150 Administration Building.
2. On Wednesday, February 15, the Schedule Supplement will appear in the State News, providing information on late course changes.
3. The Closed Section List will appear daily in the State News from Wednesday, February 15, through Wednesday, February 22. All students should consult the latest Closed Section List before turning in their Section Request Forms.
4. Beginning Thursday, February 16, between 8:15 a.m. and 4:45 p.m., students will turn in completed Section Request Forms according to an alphabetic schedule at any of six campus locations: Conrad Lobby, Union Concourse, Brody North East Upper Lobby, South Case Lobby, Erickson Lobby, and 150 Administration Building.

Alphabetic Schedule:

Barroom Boogwabazh

By FRED VAN HARTESVELDT
State News Reviewer

Marvelanes and Lounge
2120 M-78

They come from Bud Kouts Honda, Okemos Foodland, Freddie's Doughnuts, Williams VW, Tony Coats Furniture, Tom's Trains. In clusters of multi-colored shirts, they come on weeknights to bowl, not drink beer. They ritually step and dance 60 feet from the clutter of tipped pins.

Damnation, those splits! Cincinnati's, buckets, big ears and bed posts, Woolworth dime stores, Christmas trees, picket fences, poison ivy tandem washouts: Betcha can't hit more than one.

Lazy ten and mother-in-law, cheesecake alleys and cherries. A dozen leaning figures take advantage of the padded bar, silhouettes with memories. 1949 to 1957, for example, the years Marion Ladewig from Grand Rapids, Mich., dominated the Women's International Bowling Congress All-Star Individual Match Game Championships. Old favorites: Bill Lillard, Buzz Fazio, Ned Day, Don Carter, Lou Campi, Lefty Long. And of course, last year, the ABC Championships, a local boy: Frank Gadaletto; Regular Division, Individual, winner with 245, 246, 247 — 738.

The silhouettes shift in the murky darkness. Middle-age bulges, all of them, as well padded, minds and memories as well padded, as the bar and stools they adorn. Hey watch that apple, you'd 'most think it's a dodo; hey lookit that barmaid jeezis.

Bowlers stroll through the lounge to avail themselves of the restrooms. Huge viewing windows overlook the alleys and, more than the bar, provide the real show. In the bar is nothing, comparatively. Juke box in the corner, dark carpeted floor, scattered tables (cloths, ash trays, salt and pepper, candles, sometimes beer). A carpeted wall behind the bar is some kind of a joke. The same goes for a "gay '90s" eight-foot-by-five-foot reproduction. Above them both hangs a lattice-work for mugs and pitchers.

But through the viewing windows spreads, in contrast, a bowling panorama of 24 alleys. Bright lights cut into the penumbra of the lounge.

The disembodied hands are the best part of the bowling alley. Projected black images overhead the scorekeepers, 22 of them writhe and dart intermittently over score sheets; knuckles, wrists, fingers, pencils, all in free-form choreography, all sponsored by Haslett Pharmacy and East Lansing State Bank.

Fact: Tom instigates with a mere quarter in the juke a major Marvelanes romance. His Linda Ronstadt moves a trucker and a teen-ager to rendezvous 'n dance. Blue Bayou maneuvers for a transient trucker.

House balls, pine and maple, give me anything but an empty frame. The magic of this stratum social niche and its argot begins to fade. In the bowling alley, for instance, too many things don't work. The pool table is missing two balls, have a good game. Four out of four pinball machines are dead. Urinals in the men's room are clogged, "out of order" says the sign; gee thanks, no wonder everyone uses the lounge's johns.

Yet above it all, the tightknittedness of a bowling institution, the peculiarities of its languages and participants. Anchor and dummy. Pocket and pit. Fast lane. The graveyards. John Klarens and Steve Nagy, Cleveland, 1952, ABC tournament doubles score record, 1,453.

The Marvelanes lounge in January: these are league bowlers.

Christopher Parkening impeccable

By DAN HERMAN
State News Staff Writer

After a strenuous two-hour recital, guitarist Christopher Parkening took an additional half-hour to sign several hundred autographs, and talk with interested members of the audience.

Parkening, dressed in a chocolate brown turtleneck shirt and tan corduroys looked comfortable and was at ease speaking to the members of the audience, and he clearly enjoyed every minute of it. Whether he is performing, teaching, or giving an interview, he always seems relaxed.

Parkening, who spent eight years as the head of the guitar department at the University of Southern California School of music, has just moved to Montana, "to take it easy."

"I taught eight years, and I sort of got tired of the smog, the traffic and the people; Montana State University (at Bozeman) wanted to start a guitar program, of which I was to be head, so I decided to get out and go," he said.

Parkening plays only music with which he can easily identify and does not limit himself solely to "classical music."

He plays, "music I can interpret. If I don't like it, I don't play it," which in Parkening's case rules out avant-garde and modern composers.

Parkening also feels that the guitar is an instrument that greatly appeals to the young.

"I've read in many newspapers that concerts given by Andres Segovia (with whom Parkening studied) are attended by more students than any other instrument," he said.

"The universal acceptance of the guitar (in terms of age groups) also comes from the relation to popular music," he says. "All of our students have had some experience with popular music."

Parkening's advice to aspiring young guitarists is to find someone who is conversed in the art of the guitar and, "study with him."

Parkening had the opportunity to study with the master of the classical guitar, Andres Segovia. At the age of eleven Parkening became interested in the guitar through his cousin, Jack Marshall (who also composed first studied with the concert guitarists Carlos and Pepe Romero.

According to Parkening, interest in the guitar will become even greater. Currently he has planned that the guitar is rapidly replacing piano in elementary music instruction in schools.

As for Parkening, there are always "concerts." So, Parkening just climbs in his four-door drive Chevrolet "Suburban," and is off.

Parkening: casual classicist

By BOBBAKER
State News Reviewer

Few performers have been able to capture the elusive soul of the guitar. Three such performers are Andres Segovia, John Williams, and Christopher Parkening, the last of whom performed in East Lansing Tuesday.

Parkening played a chronological selection of the guitar repertoire, from late Renaissance lute pieces, to the Twentieth Century Spanish school. Two "Galliards" and a modal "Allemande" by John Dowland began the program.

This was followed by the "Fantasia" by Alonso Mudarra and the "Gigue" by Sylvius Leolold Weiss, stylistically similar to the works of J.S. Bach

(the two men died in the same year).

Rounding out the Baroque section was "Sonate, Longo 79" in G major by Domenico Scarlatti. Parkening captured the spirit of this early section throughout, and used the ponticello effect well, creating a timbre close to that of a harpsichord, in the antiphonal phrases common to early lute pieces.

A work by Claude Debussy, "The Girl with the Flaxen Hair" ("La Fille aux Cheveux de Lin") opened this section. Parkening brought out Debussy's use of extended tertian harmonies, parallel sevenths and ninths. Next, was another familiar piece of the modern French era, "Gymnopedie I" by Erik Satie. This piece, with its triadic modal harmony, outraged critics in 1888. Parkening played the piece at a very brisk, almost too brisk, perhaps his technique run away with musicality.

Parkening had two classical pieces scheduled, "Variation a Theme of Handel" by Niccolò Paganini and the "Allegro" by Fernando Sor; then it was the Twentieth Century.

Overall, Parkening's performance was impeccable, and has a fine sense of musicality — a little vibrato here — placed harmonic there, performance was both and fulfilling.

Gregory Herbert dead

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Gregory Herbert, a saxophone player and recent member of the rock group Blood Sweat and Tears, was found dead Tuesday in an Amsterdam hotel room.

The search of the 30-year-old jazz musician's room turned up "significant quantities" of heroin and cocaine.

Herbert's body was found by other band members who were returning from dinner at a downtown restaurant. The rock group immediately canceled an evening concert in the Hague and flew to London where a spokesman said they will decide whether to continue their European tour. "The band is really down," said Dutch promoter Wim Schipper. "Gregory was well-liked."

Polanski flees country

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Film director Roman Polanski fled the country to avoid sentencing for a sex offense involving a 13-year-old schoolgirl, his attorney revealed to a stunned courtroom Wednesday.

A bench warrant was immediately issued for the arrest of the 44-year-old fugitive director, a French citizen. If he is arrested in another country, extradition proceedings might be needed, the judge said. He also indicated Polanski could be sentenced in absentia if he does not show up within 10 days.

In London, British Airways officials said Polanski arrived at Heathrow Airport early Wednesday. They said the airline's reservations desk in Los Angeles gave Polanski the last seat on BA598, one of two daily British Airways flights from Los Angeles to London, and he landed at Heathrow at 11:47 a.m., 6:47 a.m. EST.

It was not known whether Polanski was staying in London or whether he had gone on to Paris.

Polanski, who was married to murdered actress Sharon Tate and is famed for such films as Rosemary's Baby and Chinatown, could be sentenced to serve up to 50 years in prison. Any sentence over one year would mean automatic deportation, unless the judge recommended otherwise.

Attorney Douglas Dalton, who was to represent Polanski at Wednesday's sentencing, shocked the packed court with news of his client's flight.

"Your honor," he told Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband, "I received a call from Mr. Polanski advising me he would not be here this morning."

"Well, where is he?" the judge asked.

"I do not believe he is in the United States," Dalton said.

Exploring Inner City Records jazz

By DAVE DIMARTINO
State News Reviewer
Inner City Records made jazz news last year with its acquisition of the Danish Steeplechase label, which only slightly preceded its distribution agreement with Germany's small ENJA label.

Since that time, the label has continued its spiraling growth pattern by independently picking up material issued on small foreign labels that have no other means for U.S. distribution. Excellent albums by Sun Ra, the French space-rock group, Heidon, and the early Paul Bley/Ornette Coleman quintet have surfaced that might have gone unheard, had Inner City not been alert enough to issue them.

Continuing their expansion, Inner City is now showing initiative and signing individual artists directly. Ted Curson's Jubilant Power LP was one of last year's best; some of the members of Curson's band are now showing up on some of Inner City's newest releases.

A debut album by John Stowell, called Golden Delicious (Inner City 1030), in fact features two of the better members of Curson's group, pianist Jim McNeely and bassist David Friesen. Stowell is a young guitarist who plays very much in the Jim Hall tradition; not only does he mention this in the self-written liner notes, but Stowell goes on to commendably urge all young guitarists to give Hall a listen. Featured with Stowell are trumpeter Claudio Rodito, who has played with Charlie Rouse; Mike Richmond, who currently plays bass with both Stan Getz and Jack De Johnette's Directions; and drummer Billy Hart, who recently released his own debut LP on A&M's Horizon label.

Predictably, any guitarist influenced by Jim Hall would have to ooze taste on every track, and Stowell does, admirably. A duet with bassist Friesen, Friesen's own "Festival Dance," is probably the LP's finest moment, lacking even the hint of a wasted note. McNeely's composition, "Banging the Silent Zero," features all of the group and best displays the group's interactive capability. Stowell particularly shines here, playing with a consistency that few artists manage to reach with their debut efforts. I have a feeling we'll be hearing more from this guitarist.

A particularly fine affair is the recorded debut of Double Image (Inner City 3010) on Inner City's ENJA label. An unusual quartet, Double Image features David Friedman and David Samuels, who exclusively play mallet instruments — vibes and the marimba — and a rhythm section, comprised of bassist Harvie Swartz and drummer Michael Di Pasqua.

The feeling throughout the LP is slightly similar to the "chamber jazz" approach Oregon, among other artists, has popularized. Friedman and Swartz released a fine duet LP called Futures Passed on the Inner City label several months ago, but interestingly, the level of musical interaction between the musicians seems even greater in this quartet context. Nat Henoff's excellent liner notes point out that the LP contains not a single overdub; considering that mallet instruments are perhaps the hardest instruments to mike properly, the sheer amount of well-balanced music produced makes this recorded debut all the more remarkable.

And finally, the debut of saxophonist Ernie Krivda, Satanic (Inner City 1031), which carries possibly the most tasteless album cover I've seen since James Brown's I Can't Stand Myself When You Touch Me, itself a classic in its own right.

Cover aside, I was ready to discard the LP without a listen until I read Krivda's liner notes on the back. Originating from Cleveland, the saxophonist moved to Miami, Fla. in 1969 and became a part of Ira Sullivan's local group, Baker's Dozen, which lasted for several years. Being from Miami myself, I remember seeing the group several times and continually being impressed. Thus, I figured, the LP deserved a fair listen.

In all, it's a good but occasionally erratic effort. Krivda plays soprano, tenor and flute almost interchangeably; therefore it's hard to discern a consistent style in his playing. Featured with him are bassist Jeff Berlin (who played quite well with Joe Farrell at the Silver Dollar Saloon a year or so ago), pianist Gil Goldstein, drummer Bob Moses and percussionist Ray Mantilla. The best tune is Krivda's "Munchkin," but, by and large, Krivda will need to produce a few more LP's before he finds the proper groove.

A final note about Inner City: thankfully, the label has increased the quality of its pressings which, until quite recently, were horrendous. Fans of the Steeplechase label — a label which has prided itself on pressing quality — were particularly displeased with Inner City's acquisition after hearing the initial pressings of the label produced. Things now seem on the upswing, however.

Record Fever

By DAVE DIMARTINO
State News Reviewer
There are many types of records in this world, sad to say, and there are an equal number of money-hungry, driven individuals anxious to cater to their various tastes.

store's excellent credit references, and took them back with us. Next convention: The tables had turned. Literally. Smiling, I'm behind a table of records, collecting $20 for an old Yardbirds record I paid 95 cents for, $18 for an old Remains LP, $15 for an old Monkees album. And it's great!

Soon, the hunger grows. Dealers tell me more money can be had through the mails, and I investigate. I place an ad in Trouser Press, the self-titled "America's Only British Rock and Roll Magazine," which includes an auction section in which individual dealers list their goods to be bid upon by the general public.

The ad is published. Success, as they say, beyond a budding capitalist pig's wildest dreams. Bids from New Jersey, Oregon, Washington, Even Berlin, Sweden, Milan, Australia. Letters saying some guy in Paris will pay $20 IN AMERICAN FUNDS for the first Kaleidoscope album. Suddenly my nose begins to tilt upward and my ears begin to grow. I develop a small, curly tail.

My partner in Ann Arbor and I look at each other. Simultaneously we blurt: "Hey, this is NOT A BAD BUSINESS AT ALL!"

More conventions are now scheduled. Another one was supposed to be held last week in Detroit, and then it's on to Chicago for a new market and NEW MONEY!

Well, perhaps I'm exaggerating. I haven't really made more money than it's taken to actually buy our LPs, in total, back from the store. We're reinvesting, sort of. And I really don't know where it's all going to end. It could probably develop into a fairly comfortable way of life, at least on a temporary basis. It certainly beats sweeping floors, as the saying goes.

My advice: stay out of the bargain bins, please, and don't spend less than $10 for any album I offer. Bids will be accepted by mail. Oink-oink!

started out simply. I found a top-secret cut-rehearse somewhere in the northeast (can't be more specific for fear of competitive bidding), went there with my wallet, the Ann Arbor store owner, and spent days looking through tens of thousands of LPs looking for the stuff. We found about 50 sufficiently rare LPs, and then through the

Gordon Lightfoot vinylized sound

By STEVE SZILAGYI

Gordon Lightfoot Endless Wire (Warner Brothers BSK3149)

Given the requirements of pop stardom, it was bound to happen. Gordon Lightfoot has sold out.

There was a time when Gordon Lightfoot was a stickler for limited instrumentation. His albums consisted of little more than his voice, two guitars and a bass, and an occasional — but not overused — pedal steel.

Not any more. Lightfoot's latest album, Endless Wire, is an over-instrumented, super-produced, glossy-smooth pop version of the old Lightfoot. The songs are a far cry from the "Canadian Railroad Trilogy" days. They are even lightyears away from the recent ballad hit "The Wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald."

taken up with credits for the instrumentalists. And inside, the tracks sound as overcrowded as the cover reads.

Terry Clements makes his usual appearance on guitar, along with Red Shea, another long-time Lightfoot crony. There's also Rick Haynes on bass and Pee Wee Charles on pedal steel, just like in the past.

But there's more. There's a drummer (something Lightfoot had had little use for before), horns, and — shudder! — string arrangements, courtesy of Doug Riley.

into the studio, kept the arrangements simple and uncluttered, and turned out a fantastic album.

But Endless Wire is somewhat less than fantastic. "Daylight Katy" for example, is just another love ballad. "Hangdog Hotel Room" is warmed-over rockabilly. And peeking out of the arrangement for "Endless Wire" is the scourage of all music — disco strings.

There's nothing new coming over the wire with this album. Face it, Lightfoot: as of now, you're just another pretty voice.

U-M rivalry understood by Heathcote

By MICHAEL KLOCKE
State News Sports Writer
Jud Heathcote just doesn't take these intra-state rivalries lightly. He learned his lesson a long time ago when he was coaching Montana.

When Heathcote took the head job at

Johnny Orr

Montana, he wrote a letter to a friend who coached at rival Montana State wishing him good luck in every game, except against Montana.

"All kinds of people came up and told me, 'You just don't say those kind of things to Montana State,'" Heathcote said. "And when I came here I learned in a hurry, when MSU plays Michigan, it's life or death for the people who live here.

"I knew it last year and it hasn't changed a bit. I'll guarantee you, with the number of players we have from Michigan, there is no way we won't be ready for them. These are the kind of games that make college basketball great."

But even disregarding the significance of the rivalry, this will still be an important game as far as the Big Ten standings go. MSU needs a win to stay on top and Michigan needs a win to stay in the race.

Michigan, 5-3 in the Big Ten and 10-6 overall, has won nine of the last 10 matchups against the Spartans. Fifth-

TONIGHT'S STARTING LINEUPS

MSU (15-2)	Michigan (10-6)
F-Gregory Kelsler 6-7 184 17.4 ppg Jr.	F-Mike McGee 6-5 190 17.6 ppg Fr.
F-Earvin Johnson 6-8 200 15.8 ppg Fr.	F-Alan Hardy 6-6 192 13.1 ppg Jr.

G-Terry Donnelly 6-2 163 6.4 ppg So.	G-Tom Staton 6-3 192 8.1 ppg Jr.

ranked MSU is 7-1 in the conference, 15-2 overall.

"Michigan has the quickest team in the league, but like us, they don't have a lot of physical strength. The two teams match up well," Heathcote said. "Their starting five is as good as any in the conference, but fatigue could be a factor with their fast-paced style of play."

Johnny Orr's Wolverines are led by their sharpshooting freshman forward Mike McGee, from Omaha, Neb. In a game earlier this year McGee, who is averaging 17.6, scored 14 consecutive points to lift the Wolves to victory.

Heathcote is also worried about the offensive rebounding ability of leaper

Joel Thompson. Alan Hardy, Dave Baxter and Tom Staton round out a well-balanced starting lineup for Michigan.

"If we are in a zone defense, Baxter and McGee could be the keys since they shoot so well," Heathcote said. "It may sound like a cliché, but we are worried about all five of their starters. There is no one player we can key on."

Orr's teams traditionally play very tough man-to-man defense but this year they have also been using a lot of zone defense.

MSU is coming off seven days on the road, and Heathcote didn't even have his team practice Tuesday because of fatigue.

"Everyone must be tired of hearing about the long road trip, I know we were tired of being on it," Heathcote said. "The kids have missed a whole week of classes and we have a lot of catching up to do."

MSU's loss Monday against Indiana will probably drop the Spartans in the polls, but Heathcote isn't a bit concerned with the ratings. He's got his eyes on the Big Ten race instead.

"People can often get spoiled by a winning team. The biggest thrill for our fans was the first week we were ranked at 18th," Heathcote said. "If we drop this week people will say, 'Geez, what happened to the Spartans?'"

"But we went on the road last week knowing that a split would still keep us in first place. We got the split, and we're still in first place."

A lot has been said by the media about a statement Orr made two weeks ago claiming Michigan would beat MSU, but Heathcote said the talk has all been "much ado about nothing."

"What do you expect him to say? Of course he's going to say his team will win in an important game like this," Heathcote said. "He's sure not going to come out and say, 'We're going to lose.'"

HOW SPARTANS HAVE WON MSU built gradually

By TOM SHANAHAN
State News Sports Writer

One by one MSU has recruited a basketball team that gained a No. 5 national ranking with a 15-2 overall record and first place in the Big Ten with a 7-1 conference mark. The first three — Bob Chapman, Gregory Kelsler and Terry Donnelly — were overshadowed in high school and not known to general fans as highly sought after recruits.

Then Jay Vincent with substantial local attention was signed to attend MSU. And finally, the best was saved for last when second year coach Jud Heathcote captured the big one — Earvin 'Magic' Johnson.

"Earvin and Jay have added a lot of intangibles to the team, especially Earvin," Heathcote said. "He's added to the confidence and enthusiasm. And maybe I'd say his unselfish play lends itself to contagious teamwork, but you have to credit the entire squad also."

Chapman came to MSU four years ago but missed his freshman year because of a knee injury. He was recruited by former MSU head coach Gus Ganakas.

"In Bob's case, he played on a very good high school team (Saginaw) and didn't get as much attention," Ganakas said. "But I always liked the way he played. We didn't take him until quite late in the recruiting season because of other priorities and he had to transfer from forward (in high school) to guard (in college). He has really blossomed since he was a freshman and was always a hard worker," he said.

Although Kelsler was highly regarded by coaches talent wise, he didn't receive the publicity that Alan Hardy (Michigan), Bruce Flowers (Notre Dame) or Tom Staton (Michigan) did in high school.

Ganakas' assistant, Vernon Payne, was responsible for Kelsler's decision to attend MSU. "The thing I remember Vernon liked about him (Kelsler) was that he was a big kid who hustled and who would go after the ball on the floor," Ganakas said. "At one time we thought we had both Hardy and Greg, but Hardy decided to sign with Michigan at the last minute. But Iowa coach Lute Olsen said he thought we ended up with the best player."

In his two years at MSU, Heathcote has come up with his own surprise recruits. The two biggest, guard Terry Donnelly and forward Ron Charles, were signed by Heathcote in his first year when he took the MSU job three days before the first day recruits could sign with a college.

Both Donnelly and Charles were signed late in the recruiting season. "I got a lead on Terry Donnelly from my assistant at Montana," Heathcote said. "In conversations, Washington State coaches said there was a guard in St. Louis that was not being highly recruited."

Heathcote said he first saw Charles when the 6-foot-7 sophomore, who is the first off the bench, was 16 years old and playing for the Virgin Island team in the Pan Am games. Heathcote was a coach on the U.S. team.

"He was the center on a very poor Virgin Island team," Heathcote said. "But seeing him in Mexico City I could see some potential in a 16-year-old kid playing against men." Although Heathcote has gone out of Michigan for Donnelly, Charles, Sten Feldreich (Sweden), Mike Brkovich (Canada) and others, he said the Michigan players on the team won't have any problem getting them ready for tonight's game.

Women cagers take on Hurons in doubleheader

By GAYLE JACOBSON
State News Sports Writer

Women's coach Karen Langeland can finally give her MSU cagers a breather from road action tonight at 5:50 p.m., as the women will meet Eastern Michigan at Jenison Fieldhouse in a preliminary to the men's game against Michigan.

Due to the sellout crowd for the men's contest with U of M, only fans with reserved tickets will be admitted inside Jenison to witness the women's performance.

And, despite the obvious displeasure voiced by some of the Spartan women's fans over the arrangements for tonight's matchups, Karen Langeland couldn't be happier over the situation. "The reason that we're playing with the men is to get the exposure," she said. "We're anxious for the exposure and we're looking forward to the game."

The idea to stage the women's game prior to that of the men's belongs to MSU Athletic Director Joseph Kearney, although it had been discussed before as a way of getting increased exposure for the women's team.

According to sources at MSU Sports

The MSU women's basketball team upset at Kalamazoo Wednesday night 51-44.

Information Service, the highest attendance figures for a women's game in the past two years has been 500 spectators, the women's only home game thus far this season against Wayne State Jan. 3. Attendance for tonight's contests is expected to be 9,886... quite a full house for playing to.

The MSU ticket office has received one complaint concerning the setup.

"The publicity has been out on the women's athletics was aware of the situation when they scheduled with us," assistant ticket director Dan Strong said. "They were aware that we were sold out when they scheduled the varsity game and the ticket for the game has to take precedent," Strong said.

"We've gone over this before and nothing that we can do. There's no way we can get people in and out again in that amount of time left between the two games. It's an unfortunate situation, but we're athletics was aware of it when they scheduled it. They must have had it scheduled. They must have had it scheduled. They must have had it scheduled."

Langeland is just content with opportunity to play a game at home. She's hoping that the large crowd at home courts will keep the Spartans throughout the contest.

"One of the things that is going to have the biggest effect on us is playing at home," Langeland said. "That has to have a psychological effect on us at this point. The Spartans will be meeting a team of young (there are four freshmen on the roster) but not necessarily inexperienced Eastern Michigan team. The Hurons 11-1 on the season, their only loss came in the hands of Oakland University. Eastern's basketball coach Kathy Buehler is looking forward to the match-up."

"We lost to MSU twice last year here (at Eastern) by 22 points. We were here that they're the best team in the state," Langeland said. "I don't know if we can compete with them... we're just going to try and beat the number-one school. We're smaller than the Spartans, and it's going to be a lot harder for us. We're going to run quite a bit."

The Hurons are led by junior Travis who is averaging 16 points per game and junior Denise Woods who is leading the team in rebounding with an 8.5 per game.

Grapplers wrestle two top-ranked teams

By LARRY LILLIS
State News Sports Writer

The MSU wrestling team will face its toughest weekend schedule to date when they take to the road to meet the No. 2 and 3 teams in the nation. Friday the Spartans will meet Iowa State, which is ranked No. 2 in the nation. If that's not bad enough, they have to meet Iowa the next night. Iowa happens to be ranked No. 3 in the nation. "On paper it appears that there is just no way that we can win," Grady Peninger, MSU wrestling coach, said. "Individually, though, we have a few guys that could give some trouble to their opponents. We should have some real battles in the 126-pound, 134-pound and 150-pound weight classes."

Iowa State will be strong throughout their lineup. At 118, they have Don Finnigan; at 126, Mike Land will wrestle Land might just be the No. 1 wrestler at the 126-pound weight division. Joe Zuspunn will wrestle in the 134-pound class, Kelly Waludt will wrestle in the 158-pound class, Charles Heller will wrestle in the 187-pound class, and Frank Santana will wrestle in the 190-pound class. Santana is a returning national champion.

These are the areas where Iowa State will be the strongest. It covers all but a couple of their weight divisions in which they aren't quite as strong.

Like Iowa State, Iowa also has a tough lineup. Some of Iowa's top wrestlers are Dan Glen in the 118-pound weight class, Randy Lewis in the 126-pound class, and Steve Hunte in the 134-pound class. Mike Trizzino wrestles in the 142-pound weight class, Bruce Kinsell in the 150-pound class, Doug Palmer in the 190-pound class and John Bowsby in the heavyweight class.

One of the top matches of the night against Iowa will be between MSU's Jeff Thomas and Randy Lewis in the 126-pound weight class.

During the summer Thomas beat Lewis to qualify for the Junior World Team. Because of prior commitments Thomas was forced to cancel out of the games and Lewis was substituted in his place.

As it turned out, Lewis won the gold medal and Thomas wants to show that he is the better wrestler.

SPARTANS IN TARBELL INVITATIONAL

Swimmers rout CMU; take to road

By JOHN SINGLER
State News Sports Writer

You must have heard the splash and felt the spray. With many Spartans swimming their season bests, the MSU women's swimming team won all 15 events Tuesday night and soaked Central Michigan University, 106-25.

After more than a week without a meet, the return to action was a pleasant one and gives coach Joel Feldmann's squad a springboard into Saturday's Terri Tarbell Invitational at Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind.

Vicki LeFevre, Colleen O'Malia, Audrey Flood, Annette Kubiske and Lynn Lagerkvist were double winners for MSU and LeFevre, O'Malia and Lagerkvist were on winning relay teams.

Freestyler LeFevre won at 200 and 100 yards, the latter in a time of :55.76, less than two seconds off the Spartan record. Becky Hastings churned to a :30.50 in the 50-yard backstroke, also less than two seconds away from Kathy Brown's mark set last winter. Other near-record performances were turned by Karen Waite (50-yard freestyle), Lagerkvist (50-yard butterfly) and the Spartans' 200-yard freestyle relay quartet of Sandy Sarhatt, Marilyn Early, Lagerkvist and Melinda Whitcomb.

The loss dropped the Chippewas to 3-3, while MSU carries a 4-3 mark into the Tarbell Invitational this weekend. "The kids are really interested in swimming against teams they haven't seen before," Feldmann said.

The blizzard didn't interrupt Spartan workouts. "The snow was nice for us. We had two practices a day right through the snow," Feldmann said.

MSU is, for the most part, healthy going into the annual showcase in Bloomington. Kathy Kolon will not swim, due to menacing tendonitis in one of her shoulders.

The juggling act Feldmann did against CMU will not accompany the team to Indiana. A small complement of 10 swimmers and two divers will make the trip.

The meet's format is different this year, with three heats per event and no finals. The top time among the three heats will be the winning time. It's also being packed into one day, rather than two. "I'm glad it's a one-day meet," Feldmann said, "because the kids don't need to miss that much school."

That's right, it's mid-term time for swimmers too. As for the competition, Indiana and possibly Texas Tech are the teams that most concern Feldmann.

"Indiana is a real tough team and they'll be the top competition, although I have no idea what Texas Tech will bring," Feldmann said.

The host Hoosiers are led by Shelly Preston, the reigning Oregon state high school champion in the breaststroke. MSU is home Feb. 9 and 10, hosting Oakland University and Eastern Michigan, respectively.

IM Notes

IM skating on the experimental south campus has been canceled Sunday.

NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS

Academic Advising, Enrollment and Registration For 1978 Spring Term

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FROM THE REGISTRAR

The 1978 Spring term Schedule of Courses and Academic Handbook will be available to dormitory residents in their residence halls on Friday, February 3, and to other students, in Room 150, Hannah Administration Building, the Union, the Lobbies of the International Center and Student Services Building, beginning on Monday, February 6.

A summary of what to do — where, when . . . concerning the NEW enrollment and registration procedure for Spring term is outlined in the 1978 Spring term Schedule of Courses and Academic Handbook.

Your discussion with your adviser will be based on a Student Academic Progress Plan which you should develop or modify in conference with your adviser. Bring your Progress Plan record with you to see your academic adviser according to the arrangement in your college (and possibly department) as outlined below:

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND LETTERS

All undergraduate majors in the College of Arts and Letters, except Studio Art majors, should see their academic advisers during office hours February 6 thru 15. Check with department offices for the hours of individual advisers. Make an appointment to minimize waiting in line or if you cannot come at the hours scheduled.

Studio Art majors - should see their advisers on Monday, February 6. All Studio Art classes will be dismissed that day and advisers will be in their offices 8-12 and 1-4.

English majors - should go to room 212 Morrill Hall any day during the hours 9-12 and 1-4. Appointments are not necessary.

History majors - should go to the Undergraduate Adviser, 306A Morrill Hall. All History majors planning to take Ed 200, 327 or 327J, please check with History adviser to make sure they are correctly coded for History-Education.

Humanities majors (except Pre-Law) - should go to the Undergraduate Office of the College of Arts and Letters, 207 Linton Hall. Appointments are not necessary.

Humanities Pre-Law majors - should check their adviser's office hours with the History or Philosophy Department.

Music Majors - should go first to the Undergraduate Advising Center, 105 or 155 Music Building.

All other majors - go directly to Academic Advisers.

LYMAN BRIGGS COLLEGE

1. During the period of February 6-17 students should contact their academic advisers to prepare an academic program for spring term. Information regarding the scheduling of advisement appointments is in the January 30 Briggs Newsletter.

2. Students are encouraged to bring their schedule book, their Program Planning Handbook, and a tentative program when they come to the appointment.

3. Questions regarding the academic advisement procedure may be directed to the Briggs Office (E-30 Holmes Hall.).

JAMES MADISON COLLEGE

During the period of February 6-15 all James Madison College students are requested to make an appointment to see their academic adviser to plan a Spring term schedule. Early enrollment will begin February 16. Students are urged to come prepared with a Student Handbook and MSU Catalog. It is recommended that students use this opportunity to undertake some long-range planning of their academic program.

Special note to non-Madison students: Certain Madison courses will be open to all students on campus during Spring term, 1978. These courses will be indicated in the Schedule of Courses Handbook and the Honors College Bulletin. For more information about these courses, please contact the Office of Academic and Student Affairs, 369 South Case Hall, 353-6754.

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

COLLEGE OF URBAN DEVELOPMENT

Majors in the College of Urban Development are expected to plan their Spring term schedule with their academic advisers between February 6-15. Majors in Urban & Metropolitan Studies and Racial & Ethnic Studies should make appointments with their advisers. Urban Development majors advised out of the Student Affairs Office should contact that office for an appointment. Non-Urban Development students should consult with the Director of Student Affairs, Room 114 West Owen Graduate Center, 353-1803, if they wish to receive information about programs and courses.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Students with majors in the College of Engineering should have received information about advising appointments from their adviser. Students who have not received notification should contact their advisers immediately.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

Students in Health, Physical Education, and Recreation; in Industrial Arts; and upperclassmen in Special Education should consult their advisers between February 8-22. Advisers will observe normal office hours during this period. Undergraduate Elementary Education and Special Education majors assigned to the Advisement Center need not see their advisers unless special assistance is needed. Advisers will hold open office hours February 8-22 for students needing assistance. Office hours for each adviser will be posted in Erickson Hall lobby.

COLLEGE OF COMMUNICATION ARTS AND SCIENCES

Women get interview advice

By DONNA BAKUN
State News Staff Writer

Ms. Spiderhat, what makes you think you're qualified to work for the Phenol Deodorant Company?" Spiderhat: "Well, I use deodorant (giggle), and I think deodorant is very important to society. . . ." (collapses in a fit of hysterics)

That Ms. Spiderhat is experiencing is anxiety. Tugging, nail biting, quavery voices, and dry throats often accompany job interviews and are all stereotyped reactions for women, according to psychologist Joanne Hamachek of the MSU Counseling Center.

Traditional images of non-competitiveness, passiveness and modesty often clash during an interview, where a woman is expected to be career-oriented and aggressive. The conflict causes nervous reactions, she said.

"These reactions are all part of a woman's socialization," Hamachek explained during a workshop on interviewing at the Kiva on Tuesday.

These stereotypes are just a few of the many mental blocks that are avoided during an interview, Hamachek said.

Think of the loudness of your voice, how your words flow, your eye contact, facial and body expressions, and whether you use put-downs or qualifiers," she said.

Some examples of put-downs and qualifiers are "I'm only a sophomore," or "I'm really not very good at that," she said.

Women may also be unaware that certain questions asked during an interview may be illegal, Hamachek continued.

Questions on marital status, children, or personal matters that do not pertain to the job are illegal. A woman may file a complaint with the Michigan Civil Rights Commission if she is confronted with such inquiries.

If an employer asks "Are you married?" it is best to "feel" the question, Hamachek said. Politely asking whether the question is relevant to the job is one way to get around the question.

Information on other questions employers are not permitted to ask women applicants is available at Placement Services.

Other interviewing problems Hamachek outlined included:

- Lack of belief in basic human rights. These include the right to say "no," the right to be proud of one's self, and the right to be taken seriously, Hamachek said.
- Fear of asking about salary. A good way to handle this question is to ask what last year's salary was for that position or ask what the general salary range is, she said.

Porn law has loophole

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A loophole in a new anti-pornography law is allowing adult bookstore owners to carry on as usual by adding innocent books like "Trip to Toyland" to shelves that also carry racier reading such as "Bicentennial Bondage" and "Red Hot Wives."

The state law that became effective Jan. 1 makes illegal the operation of more than one type of sex-related business in a single building. Legislators had hoped that if they could end the practice among adult businesses of offering a multiplicity of sex-related material in one store, this in turn would eliminate the profit from adult businesses.

But the law defines an adult bookstore as one that has a "preponderance" of adult books — and therein lies the loophole. At Hart's Adult Bookstore in Raleigh, for example, all the old favorites like "Action Wives" and "Group Case Histories" can still be found. But now they are outnumbered by copies of Dickens' "Great Expectations" and the Girl Scout Handbook.

"It's a loophole, there's no doubt about it," said Lt. K.J. Johnson, head of the Raleigh vice squad. "The stores are cutting the porn down to 49 percent, with the rest being Girl Scout books, magazines 10 years old, comic books — things like that."

Wake County District Attorney J. Randolph Riley agreed that by stocking more general interest than adult publications, the bookstores appear to be "complying with the letter, if not the intent of the law."

Riley said he asked Raleigh police to check local adult bookstores and report their findings, and they reported no violations of the new law. Though some of the stores continued to offer coin-operated movies or sex-related devices, they could not be classified as adult bookstores because of the loophole.

Listening Ear schedules volunteer orientations

The Listening Ear Crisis Intervention Center of East Lansing will hold two orientation sessions for potential volunteers from 7 to 9 tonight and from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday at 111 Olds Hall.

Orientation director Etta Abrahams said the two sessions are the first step in an intensive program to train volunteers to assist community members.

"We emphasize basic listening skills and the ability to label and reflect peoples' feelings," Abrahams explained. Training includes lectures, role playing, empathy situations and community trust-building sessions.

Volunteers should plan to commit at least a year to the Listening Ear, working one four-hour shift per week and one midnight shift per month. Area residents of all ages are encouraged to apply, she said.

Potential volunteers may attend either of the two orientation sessions. Those interested will fill out an application, see a demonstration of listening techniques, meet staff members and have an opportunity to ask questions about the Listening Ear.

If unable to attend either session volunteers may still apply by calling the Listening Ear before 3 p.m. Saturday.

Charges against Filipino nurses dropped

government and they expected people coming into this country to get a fair deal from the government. But it didn't happen to them — and their dream for this country turned into a nightmare.

Robinson said his decision "was not arrived at quickly or easily. It required re-reading all of the factual testimony concerning the victims who would be the primary subject of attention in a new trial."

"It also required review of the transcript of closing arguments and further consultations with the chief assistant, chief of the criminal division and the assistants who tried the case."

Robinson said one of the chief factors in his decision was the likelihood that a second trial would result in acquittal for the nurses.

The United States Attorney has concluded that, given the potential problems inherent in the government's case against the defendants, a jury after a new trial would be more likely to acquit them than to convict," Robinson said in his memorandum to Judge Pratt.

Teamsters sued by agency

trustee.

The resignation fulfilled an agreement with the Labor Department under which three other trustees also resigned and turned over control of the fund's assets to private, independent investment managers. In return, the government restored the fund's tax exemption and dropped plans for a lawsuit challenging the fund's investment procedures.

But that agreement, department officials said at the time, didn't have any bearing on possible future action against the former trustees who, under the 1974 law, can be held personally liable for losses resulting from bad loans or sloppy bookkeeping practices.

In addition to the four trustees who resigned last year, 12 others quit in 1976 amid government pressure. All 16 were named in Wednesday's suit and include nine union officials and eight trucking industry representatives. The other two defendants are Daniel Shannon, the fund's current administrator, and Alvin Baron, the former asset manager who is under criminal indictment in Chicago for alleged involvement in kickbacks.

Volunteering increases

By SUSAN TOMPOR
Experience is the magic word.

Most students are familiar with the old saying that jobs are not available to those without experience, and experience cannot be gained without a job.

But Chris Dolen, assistant director of the MSU Office of Volunteer Programs, disagreed with the assumption.

Dolen said more and more job and graduate school interviewers are including job-related volunteer work as experience.

The MSU Office of Volunteer Programs, the largest campus volunteer program in the United States, currently conducts 45 major programs. Government and consumerism, corrections, education and recreation, aging, medical and mental health and special education and handicapped problems are the six major areas covered by the office.

A list of individual requests from the community is also kept on file at program headquarters in 27 Student Services Bldg.

For students with specific career needs, such as Human Ecology majors looking for "window-dressing positions," office staffers may help locate volunteer openings for the student, Dolen added.

Currently the program has 3,000 to 3,500 volunteers and is growing, she said. The program is especially attracting biology, business and communications majors, she said.

A study for the 1976-1977 academic year indicated that 68 percent of the volunteering students were women and 32 percent were men. The figures showed a sharp increase in the numbers of men volunteering.

The analysis also indicated upperclass students rank slightly higher in participation than freshmen or sophomores. Twenty-seven percent of the volunteers were seniors, and 28 percent were juniors. Only 16 percent of the volunteers were freshmen, while 25 percent were sophomores.

Graduate students participated the least in the program with only 4 percent volunteering.

Most students walk into the office with an idea of what type of volunteering they want to do, Dolen said. They look over a booklet of programs and then judge which program best suits their interests, schedule and talents, she said.

"We have found that we rarely have to tell a student that he can't volunteer for this or that program," she said. "Most students are responsible enough to know which program they would be most comfortable with."

Through the office's information and slide presentations on individual programs, staffers try to present a realistic view of what the work will be like, she continued.

Each volunteer fills out a written application listing times available, special skills and hobbies, career intentions and program choices.

Programs such as Camp Highfields, a juvenile correction facility, require that applications be filed with the individual agency. A few require personal interviews.

Many of the programs have training sessions, and about 65 percent of the programs ask for two- to three-term commitments, Dolen said.

All 45 major programs have student coordinators who arrange orientation meetings, schedule the students, work with the problems that may arise for the volunteer and help arrange for transportation.

The Office of Volunteer Programs, funded by MSU Student Services, rents 12 cars from the University and offers them for transportation for nearly 40 of the programs.

Though most students volunteer according to their career intentions, Dolen said, some simply volunteer according to their interests. Jane Zezula, a senior clothing and textiles major, is one example. She is currently student co-ordinator for International Interaction.

"I was always interested in exchange programs in high school so I became involved in International Interaction in my junior year," she said. "The program is concerned with getting foreign students and American students together in order to help the foreign student learn to speak conversational English."

Sale ends Mon.

Now! If you're looking for a little better sound and a bit more volume, but only have a few more dollars to invest, we've got the answer. Regardless of your room size, this system delivers the superior sound quality that could only be found in much more expensive systems. Today's finest recordings are "mastered" in the studio with JBL studio monitor loud-speakers. JBL loud-speakers accurately reproduce recorded performance with all the clarity, definition, and presence of the original. The JBL L-26 will truly excite you. The 10" ducted port woofer has a cast metal frame insuring lower distortion, even under stress conditions and a 1" high frequency dome radiator will take full advantage of the increased high frequency output and lower noise levels of modern recordings. To provide the L-26 with ample power is the exceptional Technics 5170 stereo receiver. The 5170 has a large, well regulated power supply and direct coupled circuitry that gives excellent detail from your records.

Again, we have chosen the remarkable SR-230 Belt-drive turntable with its low mass semi-automatic tone arm and dual magnetic cartridge.

CLEARANCE SALE!

This value packed component system has some of the most competitive stereo gear on the market. The Technics 5070 stereo receiver is audio magic at work. Because of its extremely sophisticated circuitry in the amplifier and tuner section, the 5070 listening quality is virtually indistinguishable from the most expensive receivers made. There is enough power to drive the KLH 331's to room-filling loudness. These moderately priced bookshelf speakers utilize a full 8" woofer to handle deep bass with surprising clarity and a 2" domed tweeter for a clean, crisp treble dispersion. For your records we have chosen the Toshiba SR-230 belt-driven turntable. Its smooth semi-automatic tone arm will reduce record wear and provide consistent performance. It comes complete with dual magnetic cartridge base and cover.
